Local Fight Against Canal Is Continued

Gus Schmah Takes Exception To State's Minimum Effect On Water

Declares Unbiased Survey Is Needed

Growers' Organization Head Gives Irrigation Necessity

Gus Schmah, president of the Seminole County Agriculture Association and opponent of the proposed cross-state canal, today took exception to the testimony of proponents of the $200,000,000 waterway before the House Rivers and Harbors Committee minimizing the effects of the proposal on the state's agricultural interests.

Mr. Schmah attacked the statement of proponents that the average annual rainfall of approximately 51 inches was sufficient to supply vegetation without underground moisture.

According to the testimony of the Seminole County geologist, Mr. Schmah said, only 3.57 inches of rain fell in Seminole County during the months of November, December, January and February of this year, principle producing months for Florida's winter crops.

During this period, Mr. Schmah asserted, every one of the 2200 acres in the county are irrigated, and without the water provided by the irrigation system it would be entirely impossible to produce celery, or any other winter crop without the most favorable conditions.

Pointing to the testimony of Malcolm Pirnie, New York geologist, another advocate of the canal who testified before the House committee, that only two of every 8 drops of water reach the underground streams, Mr. Schmah asserted that this is all the more reason why the underground supply should be conserved.

The biggest part of the other eight drops, he said, drains off the sandy land into the ditches and streams.

"In other states," Mr. Schmah continued, "huge sums are being spent to create artificial water reservoirs while in Florida we have a natural reservoir and they propose to spend huge sums to dig a canal of questionable value which might cause contamination or lowering of the water table."

Declaring that the farmers seek an unbiased survey before the proposed canal is undertaken, Mr. Schmah said that the more expert testimony the farmers hear on this project, the more apparent it becomes that a survey should be made before the project is undertaken.

WPA Continues Work Of Widening Sanford Streets

With the completion of the laying of the sidewalks on East Second Street between Magnolia Avenue and the intersection of the improvement of the streets of Sanford, the work of the WPA program will be to help narrow completion, according to the Sanford County WPA office.

Hunting Law Changes Will Be Sought In Legislature

ORLANDO, Mar. 4.—Changes in the present hunting laws on ducks, snipes and doves will be recommended to the forthcoming Legislature by the Florida Wildlife Federation, according to Merrill Mitchell, executive secretary, who said the date revisions had been approved also by the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

In order to bring about the changes the Legislature will be asked to approve a resolution requesting the United States Biological department to revise the migratory bird law in Florida. If the new dates are approved this resolution would be changed to read, "from November 20 to January 31, of each year but that during the months of December and January the days Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week be eliminated from the hunting days."

It was pointed out, this revision would be in conformity with the regular hunting season, the law still give the same amount of actual hunting days as now.

Full support to the staggered duck hunting season in Florida has been pledged by Ducks Unlimited, the national organization of duck hunters.

Local Library Lends Large Book Total

The Sanford Library lent during the month of February a total of 2,465 books and current periodicals, according to Mrs. Elton Moughton, City Librarian.

Of this number 2,360 were taken from the free fiction shelves, while 361 books of fiction were loaned from the rental library.

The non-fiction department loaned 744 books and current magazines to city readers during the past month.

Added since the first of the year have been 51 new adult volumes with numerous additions to the children's shelves in anticipation of summer vacation and the release of the youngsters from school.

Smith To Study Mayo's Motion In Canner Suit

Eckerson Counsel Attacks Legality Of Regulating Prices For Grapefruit

After nearly six hours of argument, Circuit Judge Millard B. Smith took under advisement yesterday motions by the counsel for Nathan Mayo to dissolve and dismiss the temporary injunction granted last week to C. H. Eckerson, president of the Eckerson Fruit Canners, restraining the Commissioner of Agriculture from revoking or suspending the license of the local plant.

George A. DeCotter, attorney for Eckerson, took the floor against the law yesterday afternoon for over two hours and told the court the law prevented the growers from getting anything for their fruit since they were unable to sell it for the 32 cent price set in a resolution by the Citrus Commission, under authority of a 1935 Legislative act.

Attorneys for Mayo previously denounced the proposal as a device to circumvent the price regulation and said the plan evolved by the local canner is in violation of the Legislative act "passed for the good of the industry."

DeCotter asserted the growers' cost production guarantee law was unconstitutional and impaired the rights of growers to make contracts.

The contract proposed by Eckerson would permit the company to take the growers' fruit and process it. The growers then would have 90 days to dispose of the canned product. If it remained unsold at the end of that period, the canner would sell it and give the proceeds to the grower after deducting the processing and other costs.

Attorneys seeking dismissal of the injunction charged the contract was merely a plan to circumvent the minimum price provision of 32 cents a box. They argued that an advance price canner to the grower prior to the sale of the canned product would in effect be all he would get.

DeCotter termed the cost production law "a massacre of the English language and a legal abortion." Attacking its constitutionality, he said the legislature was powerless to set the price under the constitution on any commodity.

He charged also that Mayo undertook illegally to interpret a contract with the growers.

Mrs. R. L. Dean Is Injured In Auto Accident

Mrs. Roland L. Dean was painfully but not seriously injured when the auto in which she was returning to her home in Indian Mound Village was sideswiped by another car coming from the opposite direction near the intersection of Sipes and Celery Avenues last night about 9:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Dean was removed to the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital where attendants announced today that she was resting nicely from minor injuries and numerous cuts and bruises. Floyd Culbert, Mrs. Dean's colored driver, also sustained minor injuries but the three negroes in the other auto were not seriously hurt.

At the time of the accident, Mrs. Dean was returning to her home from Winter Park after bidding goodbyes to Mary Margaret McBride, New York radio commentator, with whom Mrs. Dean has been collaborating in the preparation of material on Florida to be used in nationwide broadcasts.

The three negroes in the other auto, C. D. Davis, Don Flinders, and Oscar Stewart, were arrested for treatment and released there four or five days.

Many Tax Reform Programs To Go To Legislature

Transaction Tax To Be Sought To Replace Ad Valorem Levy

TALLAHASSEE, Mar. 4.—Tax reform programs, ranging all the way from the abolition of ad valorem levies and the substitution of a proposed transaction tax to a five percent tax on hotels, apartment and rooming house accommodations, and restaurant meals, will be tossed into the legislative hopper during the 1939 session, according to a report advanced by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, the transaction tax proposal is expected to take the form of a double-barreled referendum, one to abolish all ad valorem taxes and the other to substitute a tax upon all retail and wholesale transactions.

Directors and members of the state chamber are expressing their opinion on the transaction tax, which will be completed shortly.

Harold Cole, president of the organization, recently went on record as opposed to the single tax plan.

Rep. J. Ed Stokes, of Panama City, is proposing the tax on hotels, apartment, rooming houses and restaurants. In explaining his plan at the recent county commissioners' association meeting in Jacksonville, Rep. Stokes said he believed the tax would be paid chiefly by Florida tourists.

Meanwhile, reports were current here that efforts will be made to re-enact in modified form the present Murphy law, which granted low settlements of delinquent taxes. The law has been blamed by many city and county officials as being responsible for compromising tax debts running into the millions. Proponents of the law, however, defend the measure as having restored to the tax rolls vast areas of "dead" property.

Gasoline tax diversion also is in prospect, chiefly a plan by a group of good road advocates to impose part of the gas tax money now going to the state road department as Florida's contribution towards a gigantic federal highway program for the entire state. Re-enactment of the seventh cent gas tax, originally levied as an emergency, appeared a certainty, visiting legislators declared, in view of the state's financial plight.

Steinhardt Made Ambassador To Russia By FDR

State Department Sums Home Envoy Of U. S. To Spain

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—(AP)—Laurence A. Steinhardt, now U. S. ambassador to Peru, has been named by President Roosevelt to be ambassador to Soviet Russia, a reliable source says today.

At the same time the State Department announced that Claude G. Bowers, ambassador to Spain, had been summoned home for consultation and was already enroute.

Steinhardt, who was born in New York in 1892, was appointed Minister to Sweden by the President in 1933 and went to Lima in 1937 where he was active during the recent Pan American conference.

The new ambassador to Moscow replaces Joseph E. Davies, who was transferred to Belgium last June.

Although no official announcement had been made it was learned that Soviet officials had indicated that they would welcome his appointment to fill the U. S. embassy post in Moscow.

Arrangements already were underway to prepare Palatino Spaso, house, the U. S. embassy residence here, for occupation by the new ambassador.

The United States has had no ambassador in Moscow since January 7, 1938, when Ambassador Joseph E. Davies was transferred to Brussels at the time Joseph P. Kennedy was named ambassador to London and Hugh H. Wilson took over the Berlin embassy.

Davis left Moscow last June 10. He was appointed ambassador to the Soviet union in November, 1936, succeeding William C. Bullitt, now ambassador to France.

President Declares U. S. Will Not Approvingly Look Upon Tyrannical Rule

Addresses Joint Senate, House Meet

Hughes States People Can Get What They Want In Democracy

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt assured Congress today that the United States will not approvingly watch the return of forms of government which for 2,000 years have proved their tyranny and their instability alike.

Three score diplomats of foreign governments heard his words from nearby seats in west House chamber where the Senate and House met in a joint session.

The Chief Executive, tanned from his recent Casbahian cruise, spoke at the colorful ceremonies commemorating the 150th anniversary of the first Congressional session under the Constitution.

Preceding the President, Chief Justice Hughes told the assemblage "what the people really want, they generally get."

"With the ultimate power of change through amendment in their hands," Hughes said, "they are always able to obtain whatever the preponderant and abiding sentiment demands."

His statement reminded legislators and government officials of Mr. Roosevelt's unsuccessful proposal to reorganize the Supreme Court and other branches of the judiciary in order, as the President said, to get new blood into the judicial system.

From the galleries packed to the doors, persons high in the social and official life of the capital looked down on the colorful scenes. Members of the Supreme Court and the Cabinet had seats on the floor of the huge chamber along with the lawmakers and foreign diplomats.

The President spoke of the keystones of democratic rule—trial by jury, free speech, free press and freedom of religion. He said that in lands where democracy had been snuffed out the "right to worship God in one's own way is circumscribed or abridged."

"Shall we by our passiveness, by our silence, by assuming the attitude of the Levite who pulled his skirts together and passed by on the other side, lend encouragement to those who today persecute religion or deny it?" the Chief Executive asked.

He said the answer today is "No" just as it was in the early days of the nation.

He added "Not for freedom of religion alone does this nation contend by every peaceful means. We believe in other freedoms of the Bill of Rights, other freedoms that are inherent in the right of free choice of free men and women."

Lake Mary Girl Scouts Plan Tea

Lake Mary Girl Scouts as their part of the annual Girl Scout International Month observance planned for the month of March, will hold a tea in the Lake Mary Community Building at 4:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, March 7.

An Amazing Situation

It comes as a distinct surprise and shock to many Seminole County people to learn that Joe Jarrell who was convicted a year ago of violating the State lottery laws has continued to operate other lotteries in this county even while his case was pending before the Supreme Court.

The public in Seminole County is not disposed to make anyone a scapegoat for the "Cuba" racket which has been conducted here for the past several years. It is not inclined to be vindictive or to persecute any particular person for offenses for which others have escaped punishment.

But it is hard to understand anyone who persistently defies the law and continues to violate it even after being repeatedly warned, indicted, tried and convicted, sentenced to a year in the State prison, and had that sentence upheld by the Supreme Court.

All in the name of breaking up the "Cuba" racket in Seminole County which has been robbing our negro population of their nickels and dimes and depicting the pocketbooks of many of our better class families. This desire on the part of the public has been demonstrated time and time again by various grand jury actions, the verdicts of petit juries, the frequent raids conducted by the police force and the heavy fines levied in Municipal Court.

If the conviction of Jarrell had succeeded in showing him the error of his ways, and he had given up the "Cuba" racket for good and all, the public would be perfectly willing to forget all about his case. As it is, the public sees his appeal for a pardon as a climactic struggle between the forces of law and order on the one hand and a complete surrender to lawlessness on the other.

In the light of all existing circumstances, if Jarrell is pardoned now, those who are inclined to scoff at the laws of this state, as well as the entire lawless element, will have no other alternative than to assume that the lid is off and that Sanford henceforth will be a wide open town.

We do not believe that is what the great majority of our people, who we know to be law-abiding citizens, want to see.

The Egret Is Attacked

Florida egrets, if a recent story from Des Moines, Iowa, is any indication, may become as controversial a conservation subject as the Florida alligator and who's her or not Florida deer are carrying cat's ticks, according to the Tampa Times.

"Mississippi fish hatcheries are reported to be complaining that the birds should be shot—not for their colorful plumage which once adorned women's hats, but because they eat small fish," the Times says. "Conservation officials reply, however, that egrets feed mostly on the sluggish carp and other undesirable fish easy to catch, hence they serve a useful purpose."

"Florida conservationists have been urging protection for the fast-diminishing birds and thus far they have had no great public opposition; but with alligators it has been different.

"There have been arguments that alligators, if not actually destructive of game and fish and dangerous to man, serve no useful purpose except as unique souvenirs to be shipped out of the state; but horrified conservationists and humane officials insist that the alligator should be protected because he feeds on the enemies of good fish and therefore is a conservationist himself.

"The controversy about ticky deer is apparently going to be revived at the next session of the Legislature and it is hoped that the Mississippi egret situation will not arise in Florida to add to the confusion."

While We're Celebrating The Anniversary Of Congress

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY" BY RUSSELL KAY

Whipped down from a month of fairs, festivals, expositions, press breakfasts and what have you, I yielded in temptation last week and permitted "Red" Edgerton, dynamic representative of the Western Newspaper Union, to drag me away from it all for a week of rest and recreation.

Choosing Crystal River in Citrus county as the scene of our inactivity, we arrived at Magnolia Lodge, a delightful sportsman's rendezvous, at the same time that King Water blew in from the north, which more or less nullified our fishing plans, but didn't prevent our wrapping up in topcoats and sweaters for a try at the chive black bass.

Another newspaper man from Chicago, Phil Bernstein of Meyer-Bluth Service, joined us and for three days Florida weather was the chief topic of conversation. There is nothing more embarrassing to a Floridian than to have to entertain his northern friend during one of our sharp cold spells after we've been telling 'em for years of the delights of Florida's warm balmy climate where "summer spend the winter" and every one goes about in their shirt sleeves.

Naturally "Red" and Phil had a swell time razzin' me as the three of us huddled in that bar, our knees chattering like a pair of castanets and our hands so blasted cold they were numb.

To make matters worse, the fish—probably as uncomfortable as we were—refused to do their stuff, and the three or four that did venture a rise to connect with a plug or barbed back-tail were too small to keep and only served to further damage Florida's reputation.

But our trip was not without interest, for when we returned from our fishing to sit comfortably about a roaring fire in the cozy Lodge, we were entertained by Frederick Van Roy, Crystal River tycoon, who took us into his confidence to present a preview of the amazing platform upon which he will stump the state as a candidate for the governorship.

While the rest of the boys who expect to see their names run into the ring are dragging out and dusting off such commonplace lumps as "economy", "efficiency", "progress", and "reason", Frederick, with old of nose, bushy, statistical grin and official reports, will point out the fact that Citrus County is both the state's agricultural and population center and is the ideal location for the state capital.

It's not so business like where it is now, he points out, and to move it to such desirable cities as Ocala or Orlando would necessitate the expenditure of vast sums of money for the purchase of a site and would never work out.

But as Frederick says or says that just about all of the town of Ocala is to be moved to the site of the new state capital, he says that he has a plan to build a new town, to be named Citrus, in the heart of Citrus county.

Will Germany And Italy Be Able To Collect?

By WILLIS THORNTON

With the military phases of the Spanish war largely over, a new struggle begins. First, the Franco regime must restore internal order, and must make some kind of concessions that will get it at least the passive, if not the active, support of a majority of the Spanish people. Otherwise it can not govern.

The Spanish are a fiercely proud and independent people, and it is highly unlikely that Franco can impose on it any such iron-clad discipline as that to which Germans and Italians submit. Frankly in order to get any sort of co-operation at all from what has been Republican Spain, compromise measures will have to be taken.

Second, the struggle for influence with the new Franco government begins in earnest. The heading such of the British and French to recognize the Franco government, whether one agrees with this policy or not, has a clear intent. It is this: if those countries refused to recognize Franco and had no traffic with his government, he would turn exclusively to Germany and Italy for the reconstruction and future help which Spain now desperately needs under any regime.

Wisely or not, the British and French have decided that with Franco victorious in a military way, their best bet to salvage something from the wreckage is to recognize him, by extending help, try to offset German and Italian influence in Spain.

The intelligent know that have gone up in both Germany and Italy at this show that the move is not without possibilities. Germany and Italy put up the men and the equipment with which Franco won his war. They naturally figure that any Spanish navy that is ditched ought to go to them.

Will it? That remains to be seen. Our own United States would probably have lost its war for independence had it not been for French men and ships who fought in the United States. The American army swarmed with volunteers who, through the American stars, were striking at European tyrannies.

And yet 17 years after the Revolution, the United States was virtually at war with France, which had befriended her. Napoleon's "Capitulation" idea, but like Gracie Allen, "I don't get it" and I doubt if many voters would.

Leading Contenders To Compete In Regatta At New Smyrna

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Mar. 4.—Speed, with at least one world record on the chopping block, will reign supreme on the Indian River's "perfect racing" waters during the Smyrna Yacht Club's Tenth Annual Outboard Regatta here Sunday, Mar. 5, starting at 100 o'clock.

Entry of Paul Wearnly, the 22-year-old college student of Muncie, Ind., in the annual water classic here assures spectators of one of the fastest and most thrilling races ever held on the famous dog-legged Indian River course.

Wearnly put on a one-man show in Jacksonville recently when he swept all three heats in the Class A race and took both heats in Class B. The Ball State Teachers' College student, who holds the World's Championship for Class C outboards, also won top honors in the Class A and B outboard races at Cocoa-Rockledge on Feb. 18.

The list of outboard contenders in the A, B, C and X classes includes such other famous drivers as Claude Smith and Charles Toll, Atlanta; Frank Baker and Charles R. Keough, Sarasota Lake, N. Y.; Marshall Eldredge, South Weymouth, Mass.; Tom and Jack Cooper, Kansas City, Mo.; Fred Jacoby, Jr., North Bergen, N. J.; Ralph Hagood, Orlando and Leslie F. Dyer, Deland.

Smith won the Class C race at Rockledge, placing first in both heats. Tom Cooper was second and Eldredge was third. Smith's fastest time was 50.761 miles an hour.

Sanford Drops Second Tourney Battle To Lee

Seminole Lose Hotly Contested Fray By Score Of 33-28

The Lee Generals came out on top yesterday afternoon in the final first round of the Class A No. 2 regional meet, defeating the Sanford Celery Feds, 33-28, in a hard fought battle.

The Generals paced by Patton and Jennings, led all the way out. Darrell Ferguson's drive kept the Feds in the contest to the end. Lee faltered near the end of the game temporarily, when Long and George were ejected via the foul route, but Jennings slipped in a ball rolling again, and the Jacksonville engers moved to their victory with comparative ease.

The latter won from Orlando 40-34. Box score: SANFORD (28) D. Ferguson, 1; Patton, 1; Jennings, 1; Long, 1; George, 1; Lee, 1; Smith, 1; Taylor, 1. Totals 28 10 28.

LEE (33) Patton, 1; Jennings, 1; Long, 1; George, 1; Lee, 1; Smith, 1; Taylor, 1. Totals 33 10 33.

Leesburg Changes Name For League Entry To 'Anglers'

LEESBURG, Mar. 4.—From now on the Leesburg entry in the Florida State Baseball League will be known as "The Anglers" instead of "The Gondoliers" as they have been for the past two years. Many thought that this name was not short enough and was the directors of the baseball club offered a season's pass to the Leesburg baseball park, to the one suggesting a name that was accepted by the board of directors.

Over 100 were submitted and "The Anglers," sent in by E. C. Rogers and James R. Mahoney, was the name decided upon. Both Rogers and Mahoney will be giving season passes.

The first wire leading was invented during Civil War times by James Ledy of Watertown, N. Y., who took the springs out of a buggy seat and put them under a mattress.
