Wonder Woman, where are you? That's the question some top-ranking county executives are asking as the popular television series comes to life starring a "stacked" female superstar as the incredible Wonder Woman. Since few of the women working at the courthouse measured up in toto, one director told The EAr that a composite was the only remaining answer. Yea, Earlings, you guessed it. Courthouse employes were chosen to represent certain Wonder Woman attributes. Put them all together - and presto,

Seminole County's very own Wonder Woman. A little EAring around, and we learned who has been chosen to represent the composite that makes up Seminole's "Manly" conception of the woman who's got it all. Wonder

The EAr obtained that "highly classified" document. Some females knew about the new "Composite Game," others didn't.

Here's names that made up the "Confidential" Wonder Woman as of last Thursday: Penny Salerno, of purchasing; Deborah Rusciano, of county planning; Jennipher "Jeni" Hicks, of personnel; Sissie DePasquale, formerly of OMAE; and Linda Eland, of administrative services.

The composite game is all in fun. And EAr sources say the next composite executives are shooting for is Farah Fawcett Majors, the curvy movie star.

The EAr hears where Sheriff's Department communications supervisor John Spolski suspects there's an angry thief out there...While he was attending classes one night last week at Seminole Community College someone made off with the high-gain two-way radio antenna that was mounted on Spolski's unmarked sheriff's car... He chuckles that when the thief hooks the antenna up to a citizens band radio he can look for fireworks...seems the stolen antenna looks a lot like a CB antenna but electrically it won't match up...It could short out things and put a CB out of commission. The EAr is proud of Spolski's loyalty...although the college is inside the city of Sanford, Spolski reported the theft to the sheriff's department - not the city

On your next visit to the Central Florida Zoo EArlings, you may notice happier-than-usual smiles on the faces of zoo employes. The smiles are not just because the people down there are working with beautiful animals, but because the Central Florida Zoological Society trustees have approved an across-the-board five per cent pay hike for zoo

Employes have been toeing the breadline for a long time, and for just one reason: they love animals and care about them too much to quit and find better-paying jobs. Healthier looking animals and a cleaner zoo would be hard to find. EArmuffs off to you, trustees. As president John Sobik says: "We can't really afford to give pay raises - but we can't afford not to."

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore isn't looking forward to public hearings on the city's plan for a landfill on the west side of town, Members of the 46-A Environmental Protection Association are fighting the city's

Meanwhile, there's a severe housing shortage in Sanford, particularly for lower-cost housing, says Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) Executive Director Thomas Wilson III. The city is now considering participating in a federal housing program to put the houses back on the tax rolls.

It's called the urban homesteader program, and it is successfully operating in several cities throughout the country, such as Baltimore and Dallas. If the city commission decides to go ahead with the homesteading program, Sanford would become the first city in the state to participate. Under the program, a selected family would occupy the federally foreclosed house, after agreeing to make the necessary repairs to bring the house up to city building and safety codes within 18 months of occupancy.

Homesteaders could obtain loans to make the repairs from banks or through federal low-interest loan programs. After three years of occupancy, the city would convey a title to Bridge the home to the homesteader - for free. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Calendar

Andy Devine Dead At 71

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) - Andy Devine, the gravel-voiced sidekick "Jingles" to television's Wild Bill Hickok, died at the University of California Irvin Medical Center of cardiac arrest, a family spokesman said. Death came to the jovial 71-year-old character actor at 6:38 p.m. Friday. He had a history of leukemia and recently had been treated at several California hospitals for that disease and related ailments.

When told by doctors that he had the disease but that they had diagnosed it as not being serious, Devine said, "I might die of two or three other things before leukemia gets me."

Angry Ex-Husband Pleads No Contest

A Daytona Beach accountant who mistakenly thought a Sanford loan office manager had broken up his home and chased the man's auto at high speeds on French Avenue, rammed it twice and then allegedly shot the man has entered no-contest pleas to felony charges in circuit court.

Defense attorney Dan Warren told Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor that Steven Pickett Weems, 29-year-old Root Company chief accountant for a hotel and two restaurants in Daytona "was of the impression" that James Vernon Frame, 32, of Sanford, "had broken up his (Weems') marriage and thought if he could scare Frame away that he (Weems) could get his ex-wife back." Warren said Weems drove to Sanford and waited until he spotted Frame's auto at 1 a.m. on French Avenue last Dec. 29. Warren said Weems was unaware that his 4-year-old daughter was also in the auto with Frame and Weems' ex-wife, Elizabeth Weems, 29, of Port Orange. The attorney said Weems rammed Frame's auto in the side at First Street and French Avenue and rammed it again in a high-speed chase south to 18th St. and French before fighting with Frame and firing several shots from a revolver. Frame was hospitalized with gunshot Warren said Weems drove his damaged car back to Daytona Beach where he was arrested by police.

"Now Mr. Weems realizes that Frame didn't break up the Weems' marriage,' Warren told the court. He said Frame turned out to just be a friend of Weems' ex-wife. Warren said his client "doesn't know why he did this" and is undergoing psychiatric motor vehicle and State Atty. Douglas Cheshire' office dropped counts of aggravated assault and aggravated battery as part of plea negotiations. Judge McGregor set sentencing in the case for April 19. Weems could get a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison on the nocontest pleas. He was allowed to remain free on bond if he continues therapy and has no contact with Frame or his ex-wife. Warren said Root Company officials say Weems, a five-year employe who is studying to become a Certified Public Accountant, still has a job, even if he becomes a convicted

The court views no-contest pleas as guilty pleas in criminal cases, but they are not considered such in civil proceedings. Warren indicated no-contest pleas were entered by Weems because there is a possibility that lawsuits will be filed in connection with the auto chase-shooting incident.

Probe Of Relief Program MIAMI (AP) - A federal task force will meet Monday in Immokalee to begin a probe into allegations of fraud involving the government's disaster-relief program for farm workers, Sen. Lawton Chiles says. A spokesman for the Florida Democrat said late Friday that part of the task force would look into possible criminal violations by some recipients of emergency food stamps. He said others would seek ways to improve the management of the program. President Carter declared much of the state a disaster area after a Jan: 18-20 freeze wiped out part of the citrus and most of the vegetables crops. THE POLE POSITION

Repairman checks power pole on SR 419 at Chuluota that was damaged Friday evening when, according to Oviedo police, it was struck by a car driven by Wayne Stanley, 37, of Orlando. Sgt. Larry Neely reported that Stanley and a passenger, Edward Riepe, 55, of 470 East 4th St., Chuluota, were trapped in the car between 15 and 20 minutes before being freed by firemen. The impact caused the power pole to explode resulting in an outage in Oviedo and Winter Springs for about 20 minutes. Both men were taken to Winter Park hospital, treated for cuts and bruises and released. Neely said Stanley apparently just lost control of the car. Charges are pending.

Environmentalists: Act On Power Plant Or We Sue

urging federal officials to clamp down on a Tampa Electric Co. power plant saying that state officials knew for more than a year that the plant is operating without a bona fide permit.

Audubon Society lawyer David Gluckman said Friday that the group would file suit in two months if the Environmental Protection Agency doesn't take action against TECO's Big Bend No. 3, a coal-burning plant. "We're telling them either to come in and enforce the law or we're going to come in and try to enforce it for them," Gluckman said, threatening to seek a court injunction against TECO. He accused TECO of violating emission standards by burning coal with a higher sulphur content than allowed by law. He said TECO was given a permit for an oil-fired generator is 1973, one year after the state denied a permit for a coal-fired plant. TECO then installed a coal-fired boiler in 1975 without getting the permit changed.

"It was the exact same boiler" that had earlier been approved, Gluckman said. "There were people in the Department of Environmental Regulation who knew this."

comment on Gluckman's charge that the agency has known about the permit problem since 1975.

Jeff Rankin, TECO's environmental planning manager, acknowledged that the coal plant was never issued a revised permit. He said DER didn't take action on the firm's request for a change However, he said subsequent agreements with DER allowed the plant to burn coal instead of oil.

"It's operating under an agreement with DER which governs the amount of pollutants it can put out," Rankin said in a telephone interview. "The fact that it's a coal-burning unit is well

He said the plant was well within emission standards. That plant is one of three in a controversy over state air standards that are tougher than their federal counterparts.

DER wants to classify the plant as a new one and thus subject if to more rigorous standards than would apply if it were considered old. TECO is resisting the change, saying it would lead to higher coal costs that would be passed on to consumers. The Cabinet has set that rule and several similar ones for final

Policy Hints Not In Tune

One item on Vice President Walter Mondale's agenda in Tokyo was to assure the Japanese that there would be no more "shocks" from Washington in the way of unexpected changes in U.S. foreign Japan has been slow to forgive the Americans for not advising them in advance of President Nixon's historic decision to open relations with Communist China in 1972. Presumably Mr. Mondale has now explained President Carter's ideas about reducing U.S. troop commitments in South Korea — an issue of great concern to the Japanese and one which merits full discussion between Washington and Tokyo before any policy is announced.

Mr. Mondale's six-nation tour has been valuable in this principal respect, giving our allies and trading partners an idea of what to expect from the Carter administration and what Mr. Carter expects from them. But even as Mr. Mondale was winging homeward there were signs that the administration is coming up with some surprises — if not shocks - in foreign policy.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance told a news conference he is willing to discuss normalization of relations with Cuba without "preconditions." This is a sharp turn from our previous policy of linking Cuban relations with a change in Fidel Castro's support of guerrillas in southern Africa and subversion in Latin America.

He also said steps are being considered to normalize relations with Peking, which doubtless means a change in policy toward the Chinese on Taiwan. And he hopes "in the near future" to start normalizing relations with Hanoi, which raises the normalizing relations with the normalizing relations with the normalizing relations with the normalizing relations with the normalization of the no Americans in Indochina will continue to be linked

What is puzzling is where President Carter fits into these significant foreign policy initiatives. It turns out that Mr. Carter was not consulted before the State Department issued a statement of protest over Moscow's treatment of the dissenting scientist Andrei Sakharov. In fact, he says he's not sure whether it was a good idea, since high-level relations with the Russians could suffer if we appear to be "preaching" to their government.

Mr. Carter wants to change the style of American diplomacy, and give it a more visible moral content. He drummed on that theme during his campaign, finding fault with the behind-thescenes maneuvering that characterized the Henry

The style we are seeing right now is not reassuring.

Trimming That Fat

The federal government, because of the self-serving bureaucratic assumption that bigger is better, spends about $10 billion a year for services that could be provided more efficiently and less expensively by private firms. Maintenance, cafeteria services, security, data processing are among the several occupational areas in which government competes with the commercial sector. But a 20-year effort to have many functions performed under contract has been effectively stymied by government employe unions and powerful congressional chairmen. Contract negotiation is limited by "prevailing wage" requirements, which often wipe out the potential economies. Now, however, cost-cutters in the Office of Management and Budget, have insisted that the fringe benefits enjoyed by federal workers be included in making cost comparisons. The result is an approximate hike of 18 per cent in the comparative cost of government labor. Private contractors suddenly discovered they could compete on an equal footing. A new effort on the part of bureaucrats to change the rules may lead to a confrontation with President Carter, who has declared his own zeal for cutting costs. If he means it, the taxpaying public will benefit.

The kid on the tricycle pedalled furiously, his tiny tennis shoes forcing pedals up and down so fast that eyes couldn't stop the motion. He leaned far forward, intent on the sidewalk in front of him. From his throat came a sound like a lion with a scratchy throat.

"Varrooom," he shouted at the top of his lungs. Not too many years passed and the boy was now 16. Behind the wheel of a car (a present from his folks like the tricycle of years gone by) he pushed his tennis-shod feet against the pedal till the car roared. The sounds were the same, but the vehicle

Most of us understand that the child on the tricycle is playing "let's pretend." His little threewheeler may be a huge truck, a fire engine or a police car as he pretends he is an adult. Is it also possible that the 16-year-old behind the wheel on the verge of facing his own adulthood is still, to some degree, playing "A let's pretend?"

Can it be that the only way he can convince himself he is really moving with any speed is by making versions of the same sounds he made when he rode that tricycle in imaginary situations?
"It sounds plausible," according to Dr. Burton

Blue goes on to discuss a subject that is heavy or he minds of "sports" fans throughout Florida right now with Sunday's Daytona 500 - automobile

Blau, Altamonte Springs psychologist.

"The whole idea of racing is an expression of strong, deep emotions," he says, "that might not come out any other way. For instance, it's an expression of aggression. It provides an acceptable outlet for emotions that might not otherwise be permitted expression," says Blau.

Blau says he is unaware of any studies that might have been done correlating the fantasies of children roaring up the sidewalk and parking their trikes in the family driveway with those teenagers who tend to race their engines, squeal their tires, and create a noise level only slightly short of sonic

It would be interesting to see such a study done perhaps by the insurance companies which must bear the brunt of the teenager's careless driving

It might be equally interesting to see a similar study done on race drivers, crew members and others involved in the "sport" of daring death from behind the wheel of an automobile. If studies should show that the tendency to brutalize an automobile into a show of noise and speed is related to childhood fantasies, then perhaps parents could be taught to counteract the problem when it first occurs in their children - at the age of four or five as they pedal around the neighborhood

Jackson Key Figure In WarnkeVote

WASHINGTON - Much of the initiative in the challenge to President Carter's nominee for the nation's principal arms control post is coming directly from associates of one of the most influential senators in the president's own party.

That development provides one of the best illustrations of the extent to which Carter's honeymoon" with Congress has been summarily terminated - if indeed it ever existed. The key figure in the mushrooming conflict is Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., one of a dozen men who lost out to Carter in last year's Democratic presidential primaries. Jackson is one of the country's most outspoken proponents of both the strongest possible defense posture and a give-no-quarter attitude in dealing with the

The ill-kept secret on Capitol Hill is that Jackson's advisors are deeply involved in According to congressional sources active in that effort, Richard M. Perle, a senior member of Jackson's staff and the senator's second-public statements on disarmament. That unsigned memo is generally a factual account of Warnke's written and spoken comments in the area of arms control. It emphasizes, however, his "soft-line" positions and described him as an advocate of "the unilateral abandonment by the United States of every weapons system which is subject to negotiation at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks."

The memo concludes: "Warnke supports anything being proposed in current arms competition of high interest rates in banks and limitation talks. He doubts the usefulness of such bonds

Jackson's public stance is one of being "disturbed at some of the positions and recommendations made by Mr. Warnke." He has not formally declared his opposition to the nomination and one political ally says "he hasn't necessarily made up his mind irrevocably to go all the way" because that step could mean an early break with Carter.

The man doing the talking is Barry Jagoda, Jimmy Carter's former transition press aide, who now holds the $37,800-a-year position of Special Assistant to the President for Media and Public Affairs. He is quoted in a new book by political reporter, Richard Reeves, titled "Convention," which will be published next month by Harcourt, Brace and Jovanovich.

The "this" Jagoda was so concerned about according to Reeves, was a plan by certain key Carter aides to eavesdrop electronically on their opponents' walkie-talkies and the three major TV networks at the Democratic National Convention last July.

The idea was ultimately scrapped when Jagoda threatened to tell either Mr. Carter or his er, Hamilton Jordan, about it But the way this story has been ignored shows why many Republicans believe that the national news media employs a double-standard when it comes to reporting on GOP "dirty tricks" as compared to "dirty tricks" by the Democrats.

As Reeves tells it, planning for the project was begun in April of last year by William Simon, a Carter campaign aide who is now a $24,300-a-year Deputy Staff Assistant to the President, and James Gammill, Mr. Carter's convention coordinator who now holds a $35,000a-year post as the President's Deputy Director for Personnel. Well, Since You Asked...

I wouldn't presume to name all of them, but the youngsters urge you to watch are a couple who'll be playing for New York teams - outfielder Lee Mazilli of the Mets and Mickey Klutts, hoping to fill the shortstop gap on the Yankees - plus second baseman Rich Bauer of Baltimore and Bumper Wills of Texas (he's Maury's son). Add to them outfielder Steve Kemp of Detroit. Q. In reference to scoring a boxing match, what are the things the judges score by. Also, where could I write to subscribe to Ring Magazine? - Gerald Meyer, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Authorities such as Nat Loubet of Ring have been pushing for years to have a national clinic to standardize judging. The general criterion is effectiveness - judging who throws the most punches and who has more effect with them. But the human factor remains - a referee whose style was to be a slugger in his ring days will generally favor the slugger. To subscribe to boxing's journal, write to Ring, 120 West 31st St., New York, N.Y. 10001. Q. When a team calls time out in a football game, can the coach go on to the field and talk to his players, or can all the players come to the sideline like in basketball, or is the coach just allowed to talk with offensive or defensive captains? - J.M., Oakland, injury to a player. There's no apparent limit on the number of players who can come to the sidelines, but as a matter of practicality, it's generally limited to two or three and they don't have Q. What is the most points scored in a single game by a high school football team? What high school went the longest without giving its opponents any points? - C.S., Nanticoke, Pa. To the first question, Haven High School in Kansas beat Sylvia High School, 256-0. Haven won all nine of its games that year, scoring 578 points to the foes' 0. I can't find a record for scoreless streaks. But the most impressive record for shutouts must belong to Ashland (Ky.) H.S. From 1925 to the end of 1933, it won 82, lost and tied 4 and shut out its opponents 53 times. Q. I have lived in various parts of the country and never have heard so many excuses and whines as I have from Oakland fans in any sport. I'm not particularly impressed with the Raiders as a ampionship team until this year. Their soft schedules and weak

Q. Are there any dry moats around some soccer fields in South America? Also, I remember hearing about a most around the track at the Pan Am Games in Mexico. Is this true? - Mark S.,

Moats around soccer fields have existed for quite a few years, since soccer fans frequently got so frantic they went after players and officials. This is particularly true in South America, where they take the sport fervidly. There is no moat around the infield at ager Paul Owens has an- today and Sunday. the Estadio Olimpico, where the Pan Am Games were held. There is only a most at the end of the 100 meters run, where sprinter Silvio Leonard of Cuba fell and hurt himself.

Q. Several years ago, the National Basketball Association, along with a major advertiser, conducted "one-on-one" elimination tournaments. Can you tell me what years this took place, the two finalists and the winners for the respective years?

This was a halftime TV gimmick in the 1972-72 and 1972-73 Gene Garber, Jim Lonborg, seasons. Cember of 1974. Q. How do you get the percentages figured out in pro football, ncluding the tie game? — S.D., Santa Ana, Calif. At one time ties were ignored, so that if a team went 8-1-1, its winning percentage was .899. But that was amended so that a tie now counts as a half game won and a half game lost, so the same 8-1-1 results in a percentage of .850. If I've lost you by now, resort to your pocket calculator.

Q. I would like to know where I might obtain a schedule for the 1977 football season for all of the pro teams. - Brad Rist, Chico,

The schedules are not out yet. They are formulated by the commissioner's Office of the NFL, with Jim Kensil (Pete Rozelle's chief aide) bearing the major burden. You might write that office, 410 Park Ave., New York 10022, for the schedules when they're available. Or you might try the pro team nearest you. Q. I am requesting your assistance in locating Carroll Hardy, former professional football (S.F. 49ers) and baseball (Cleveland Indians) player. I was a patient of the Shriners Hospital in San Francisco during the East-West Shrine Game period when I met Mr. Hardy. Although I have not corresponded with him since, my search begins. Any assistance will be greatly appreciated. — Ray

When I contacted Carroll, he remembered the Shrine visit immediately, and also the name of Ray Nobriga. Each Player was assigned a boy, and the memory of Ray has lingered with Carroll all these years. Hardy is now the director of player personnel for the Denver Broncos - he's been with the pro team ever since he retired as an active baseball player in 1968. He'll be in touch with you, Ray.

Q. I have heard about a young girl out West who is making quite a reputation as a boxer in kids' matches. Can you tell me about her? - L.L., Elizabeth, N.J.

You must be referring to Amber Hunt, who calls herself Jim. She's an 11-year-old in Salt Lake City who competes in a Junior Olympics boxung program, taking on boys. She had eight bouts all have ended in knockouts, with Amber Jim delivering the finishing blows. And all on the receiving end have been boys. She's encouraged in this boxing endeavor by her father, Jack

Q. Could you tell a little about Johnny (The Italian Stallion) Musso's professional football career before he joined the Chicago Bears? - Robert Moglia, Oakland, Calif.

After making all-American as a running back at Alabama in 1971 and though selected by the Bears in the third round of the draft, Musso chose to play with the British Columbia Lions in the Canadian Football League. After knee surgery in '74, he was sold to the Birmingham Vulcans of the World Football League in '75 and signed with the Bears late that season after the WFL disbanded. He has been valuable as a backup to Walter Payton, particularly in goal-line situations. Johnny was called The Italian Stallion long before Sylvester Stallone invented the charcter of "Rocky." Musso doesn't like the name.

Leagues? Take Your Pick

There are various types of leagues bowling weekly. These include men's and women's leagues, senior citizen's leagues, collegiate leagues, junior bowlers leagues and mixed leagues. Of all these, the one that has shown an increase in popularity are the mixed leagues. Meaning exactly what it says, these leagues are comprised of teams made up of men and women. Statistically nationwide, and over the past year, the mixed league has increased 53 per cent. Coming in a close second are the women's leagues. Going along with the national trend, at Bowl America, you will find there are twenty-seven mixed leagues.

Twenty-four of them bowl evenings throughout the week along with three men's leagues and three ladies leagues. Three mixed leagues bowl in the day along with about eight other leagues made up of women. Calling attention to you men, there are only three all ched regularly in a major sport male leagues in the house and they are The Unprofessionals, The Sanford City League, and the DeBary Social League. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Ink Dipper (KYZ-3916) is the handle of the editor of The CB Times-Journal.)

Canada is experiencing a CB explosion It's not as large as the one that hit the U.S. within the last 18 months, but it's still significant. The country's Department of Communications (counter-part to the U.S. Federal Communications Commission) estimates that there will soon be 1.2 million Canadians licensed to operate CE transceivers. Right now there are just over 200,000 legal CB sets in Canada and an unknown quantity of people operating without licenses.

The latest FCC report shows that more than eight million persons of businesses hold U.S. licenses, and it's probably safe to assume that several million more operate on the citizens band without a license. Keep in mind, though, that Canada's opulation is about one-tenth that of the J.S., so the per capita use of CBs in Canada might one day surpass the U.S. What's causing the increasing popularity? A lot of the same things that have sparked the growth here. Canadians want to keep up with radar and speed traps, they like the instant convenience of CBing for obtaining highway information, and the CBs have proven themselves time and again during emergencies. But Canada is also, for the most part, a rural country. People in far-flung areas use their radios as a way to keep in touch with neighbors. The CB becomes a party line for Canadians in isolated areas who, even though they might have telephones, still enjoy the companionship of a dozen or more other CBers who ratchet-jaw into the night.

The growth in Canada has given the DOC

some of the same growing pains encountered by the FCC. In some urban areas, the original 23 channels have become congested. And the flood of license applications has been almost over-

> To cope with congestion, the DOC has allocated 17 new channels — the same new requencies allotted for U.S. CBing - and set April 1 as the day the new channels can be opened. The lag, DOC officials explain. is because the DOC fiscal year runs from April 1 to March 31, and the channel expansion will coincide with the new year. Just as in the U.S., the channel expansion in Canada has prompted CB retailers to offer price cuts on 23-channel

The glut of license applications has put a strain on the DOC, officials say, but they've been able so far to cope with it and not fall far behind like the FCC, which at times took up to 90 days to process an units to clear their inventories for the 40-

An example of the DOC service is temporary licensing of American CBers traveling in Canada with their radio gear Most applications from U.S. CBers for the temporary permits are answered by return mail. Canadians going into the U.S., though, have sometimes had to wait up to three months for the FCC to send them emporary permits.

Of course, DOC personnel are hoping that they can keep up with the increasing numbers of people applying for permanent licensing. They want to go through the Canadian boom in better shape than the FCC managed when CBing exploded in the U.S. agency's face.

First Federal Honors Touhy, Shinholser

George Touhy and A. Edwin Shinholser have been honored by First Federal of Seminole by being named Directors Emeritus, according to Gib Edmonds, president of the Sanford-based savings and loan association. Touhy has served on the board of directors of First Federal of Seminole since 1946 Shinholser has been a director since 1948.

Touhy, retired executive vice president of First Federal of Seminole, served as managing officer of the association from 1951 to 1972. He has served as president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and two terms as president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Shinholser, who served as city attorney of Sanford from 1948 to 1955, has served as First Federal of Seminole's attorney since 1949. A former president of the Seminole County Bar Association, Shinholser also served as secretary of the Orange County Bar Association. He has served as president of the Kiwanis Club of Sanford and chairman of the Seminole County Red Cross.

Center Trains Telephone Technicians

Hello, Central? Sanford Calling...

The school employs four full-time instructors.

Herald Staff Writer

Not many people have heard of the Telephone Communication Fraining Center located at the Sanford airport. But the school, operating under the auspices of Seminole Community College (SCC), is the nation's largest independent telephone technician training school.

Last year the school trained more than 800 students during 73,000 hours of training in cable splicing, phone station installation, repairs and service of central office equipment. "We want to give the students enough training to get them employed," said Tom W. Fetterhoff, coordinator of telephone training. "After 2-5 years with a company, we get them back for more sophisticated courses.' The center handles training for independent phone companies all over the state and southeastern United States. The center also has trained students from Jordan, Trinidad, Panama Canal Zone, now offers 40 different courses and has about $500,000 worth of equipment donated by independent phone companies and the Bell

"Winter Park Telephone got the ball rolling in 1971. They contacted other independents and Bell and worked on plans for a year." Detterhoff said. Sanford's central location was key factor in locating the school here. The training center was located at SCC's main campus for several months before moving to the airport. "At first, we had one full-time administrator and one instructor. We borrowed instructors from the phone companies and manufacturers," Fetterhoff said.

The center trained 269 students in its first year. The companies provide financial support to the center in addition to donating equipment. Though the center does not train suppliés equipment. Since 1974 the center has offered training programs for people with no technical background such as veterans and participants in federal employment programs. The center was the first school > to offer telephone training to such persons. The center stresses "hands-on" training, working with equipment the students will use on the job. Courses include about 20 per cent theory and up to 80 per cent hands-on- experience, A related area of training is the assembly line electrical work class, which teaches students wire wrapping and printed circuit

Tucker Backs Hike In State Sales Tax

Florida has to expand its tax base if it wants to keep up with rapidly growing needs for public services, says House Speaker Donald Tucker told the Winter Park Chamber of Commerce Friday he would support a proposal for an additional one-cent sales tax if all other revenue sources proved insufficient. One of the state's top priorities is quality education, the speaker said, and a way must be found to provide sufficient money for an upgraded system of public schools and

Reep PSC Trapped Gas Elections Chairman Paula

NEW YORK (AP) - Natural gas trapped in rock under the nation's seabottoms became the subject of bitter controversy in two government arenas this past week. A federal judge here declared that the Interior Department's leases with oil companies for the development of oil and natural gas fields in the Atlantic Ocean violated environmental law. At the same time, in Washington, the new secretary of the interior, Cyrus Andrus, launched an investigation to determine whether oil companies were delaying production of gas in Gulf of These events were significant for two reasons: -The gas produced on federal leases in the Gulf of Mexico goes to interstate pipelines, where this winter's shortfall of some 2.5 trillion cubic feet is concentrated.

-The mid-Atlantic leases in dispute are thought to cover land holding a lot of natural gas, near the Northeastern states most in The Interior Department is considering an appeal of U.S.

District Judge Jack Weinstein's ruling. If the ruling stands, drilling in the mid-Atlantic, previously scheduled to start this spring, will have to await revision of Interior's environmental impact statement and a new lease sale, lawyers in the case say.

A second sale covering the same tracts leased last Aug. 17 would put the oil companies in an untested position, since this is the first time that leases have been voided The companies have already made public, through their bids, their evaluation of each tract.

'THE NEW ACCIDENT INSURANCE'

New products and ideas are always being developed in the insurance industry. The more than 1,800 companies try to find something that sets them apart from the others. This week a brochure reached my desk that tells of a really exciting new idea

In the event of accidental death, your spouse receives $1,000 per month for life. This monthly benefit will continue to be paid for the entire life of your spouse beneficiary. If your beneficiary dies? before 20 years are up, $1,000 per month will be paid to your spouse's estate until 20 years of monthly payments have been

This means at least $240,000 minimum benefit will be paid to someone, but there is no maximum benefit. If your spouse lives for 50 years after your death, the policy will have paid out $600,000! Should your spouse live for only 5 years after your death, $60,000 would have been paid during life so the spouse's beneficiary would then receive $1,000 per month until an additional $180,000 had been paid.

The premium remains level from age 18 to 65 and is $20 per month for most people. The policy is a 24-hour, all risk protection and is guaranteed renewable to age 65.

This may seem to be just what you are looking for, but I have to point out why it is not the solution to everyone's problem. For the policy to pay, you have to dic as a result of an accident. Believe it or not, most people who die before age 65 die from illness, not injury. Obviously then, accidental death only coverage is supplemental coverage and is not meant to replace your primary basic life insurance. Accident insurance is most in demand by executives and salesmen who feel the danger of an accident while travelling If you need additional accident protection, this new insurance idea may make sense to you.

Letters on this or any other insurance or tax matter are welcome. Please send them c-o Evening Herald, Box 1657, Azaleas to beautify Sanford will be sold at cost March 4 and 5, from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. in three Sanford locations: Fairway Plaza, Magnolia Mini Mall and Chamber of Commerce

The sale is sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's Civic and Community Affairs Committee. According to the committee's chairman, Woodrow Clark: "Our objective is to beautify Sanford with azaleas at a price you can't get anywhere else." Last year, 2,400 plants were offered, and the project was a sell-out. This year, 3,000 plants have been ordered.

The stall at the Chamber building will be run by Margie Smith and Barbara and Troy Ray; the Magnolia Mall stall by Charlotte Donahoe; the

with the color of native costumes, the folk melodies of the land of Anton Dyorak and the vitality of native dances will be brought to the Sanford Civic Center on Feb. 26 at 8 p.m. by the Seminole Mutual Concert Association.

Broin is a youthful company of 35 singers, dancers and musicians from Czechoslovakia. Founded in 1952, Broin has enjoyed great popularity in its own country and on numerous tours in Great Britain, Scandanavia, Germany, Holland, Poland and Russia.

The company toured the U.S. for the first time in 1971: this will be their second tour. The program has been acclaimed as "exciting, stylish ethnic entertainment," and the dancers as "highly trained, beautifully costumed and precise." Tremendous energy characterizes the swirling folk dances, and the music is lilting and romantic by turns. The concert is open to all Mutual Concert Association members. Following Broin, the Norman Luboff Chorus will be brought to Sanford March 17 by the association.

About a year and a half ago, Mrs. Prochaska talked the situation over with Stephen A. Calder, president of Orlands Jai-Alai, which owns the fronton, and Gordon E. Hulbert, the fronton's general manager.

Mrs. Prochaska claims her Altamonte agency is "the most complete ticket service in the State of Florida," selling tickets for shows as far away as Lakeland.

Sheriff's deputies, state troopers and firefighters evacuated residents from about 30 house trailers at the San-Mo South trailer park on U. S. 17-92 as a precautionary measure.

Forestry service tractors blocked the wild fire's advance on the trailer park by plowing firelanes. The fire jumped into the four-lane highway median at one point and officers blocked traffic on U.S. 17-92 bet ween Five Points and Lake Mary Boulevard because of dense smoke. County fire officials said fire fighters went back to the fire area several times Sunday night to extinguish rekindled spot fires.

DAYTONA BEACH - Never mind what you hear about Cale Yarbrough winning the Daytona 500 last weekend. The race was decided in dozens of verbal bashes at 3 a.m. on raceday in the Daytona International Speedway infield. I know, because I was trying to sleep.

And, in case the rest of the world hasn't heard, the south didn't ose the Civil War. It simply staged a tactical retreat.
