Coach Bodle remembered

Felled by cancer, Bodle's team plays on in his memory

By GARY COATOAM Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley high school lost a special member of its family last Wednesday when teacher and football coach David Lee Bodle lost a four month battle with

Friday night, the Lake Brantley varsity football team honored Bodle with a 21-14 victory over Mainland. During the game, players and coaches wore T-shirts with a "1" silhouetted against a red heart and "Coach Bodle" printed underneath. Since the players'

David Bodie T-shirts were hidden by their shoulder pads, they also wore red wrist bands on their left arms. Lake Brantley defensive line coach Gary Smith, who retains his composure in most situations, had tears in his eyes during a moment of silence before the Patriots took on the Buccaneers. After Friday's win over Mainland, Smith fought back tears again as he remembered Bodle. "It was tough to see us lose a tough game in Coach Bodle's last game here." Smith said.

"He's smiling now. Even after it happened, the kids were focused. We had a plan to win this game for him. David Bodle was a true professional in every way. He was a professional on the field and in the classroom. David was a great leader, and set a great example for every kid he ever coached."

The tribute continued Saturday as LBHS faculty, alumni, students and parents filled the school auditorium for Bodle's memorial service. During the ceremony, Lake Brantley principal Darvin Boothe commented that he felt Bodle was expecting a miracle that never came.

Smith, along with head coach Fred Almon and current LBHS players Jason Lipsey, Justin Varitek and Brent Standage, recalled their momories of Bodle at Saturday's memorial service. Florida State University linebacker Daryl Bush, a former high school All-American at LBHS, was also in attendance. Bush also fought back tears as he talked about Bodle.

Bodle called Boothe in June to break the news that he had been diagnosed with lung and liver cancer. In July, Bodle informed Boothe that he wanted to continue teaching and coaching at Lake Brantley even though his condition had become worse. Boothe had no objection, and Bodle resumed his normal duties of teaching physical education and coaching the football

The Patriots lost to Orange Park 24-14, and also dropped a 25-24 heartbreaker to Lake Howell in Bodie's final games. Four days after the loss to Lake Howell, the Patriots' hearts were broken again when Bodle died. The football players, coaches and school administrators were called to the LBHS auditorium when the news arrived, and LBHS guidance counsclors were waiting to comfort them.

"At first, it was a really touchy subject and no one wanted to talk about it," said Lake Brantley quarterback Dee Brown. "We know that he is in heaven. The rest of the season is dedicated to

Are you gambling at work?

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - You could bet it all...and lose. From that World Series pool you anted up a couple of bucks for at work to the more sophisticated fantasy football league that netted (or lost) you a few bucks on a couple of calls made on the sly on the Job, gambling could cost you more than a few headaches in the workplace.

Technically speaking, even that World Series pool is illegal. The one who organizes it is, under Florida statutes considered a bookmaker. More often than not supervisors will turn a blind eye to gambling in the workplace. Some may even participate in the sport themselves. Though there are legal avenues for dealing with gambling, most department heads handle the problem internally.

The biggest problems arise, officials said, when the prognosticating, the laying down of money, the distribution of winnings and, even the playing of the game take up company time.

SANFORD - The question is, where should the Seminole County judicial facilities be located, in downtown Sanford or at Five Points?

This past Thursday, the results of a Master Space Plan were turned over to Seminole County by Architects Design Group, Inc., of Winter Park. President Keith Reeves pointed out that the plans were, as presented, a draft. In the cover letter of his presentation. Reeves wrote, "This is a draft submittal which will be augmented by additional material based upon subsequent meetings with the County Commission, if deemed necessary."

He continued, "The premise of presenting the draft findings of our study is to permit staff and individual commissioners the opportunity to have input prior to issuance of a more final version of the study.'

Commissioner Win Adams met with Reeves this past week. Chairman Randy Morris and the other commissioners are scheduled to meet with Reeves on a one-on-one basis during this coming week.

After those meetings, it may be determined that a full commission work session may be required in order to discuss the findings collectively.

The following is based on the information contained in the Architects Design Group draft as presently being considered. The points brought forward (below), will be in in consideration of both sides of the issue: (Note: See

Sleek, round, wedge, curvy: The evolution of car styles

By BOB SCHMERLING Herald Correspondent

There is a saying that goes. The more things change, the more they stay the same." This is true when talking about automotive styling. Back in 1985, when Ford introduced the 1986 Taurus. its rounded shape was heralded as innovative and inturistic. In many respects, it was. However, as many seasoned car enthustasts know, the idea of rounded cars was really nothing new. Many cars of the forties and fifties had very rounded, curvaceous shapes.

The truth is that over the decades, popular automotive styling has switched back and forth from angular to rounded. Each time a particular theme comes back, however, there are styling cues that are unique to its own generation of cars. For example, in the late fifties and sixties, angular styling was popular. In this time period, the cars typically had many creases and body lines as well as tailfins. When angular styling later returned in the early eighties, it did so without the many creased body lines and fins. These angular cars, such as the 1980 Datsun 2005X, 1982 Toyota Celica, and 1982 Sunbird, had broad, flat panels instead of intricate creases and folds in their bodies

Dole defends GOP plan on medicare

LAKELAND - GOP President candidate Bob Dole said Saturday that Republicans want to overhaul Medicare similar to the way they reformed Social Security more than a decade ago under President Reagan.

We put together a package in 1983 that, in effect, saved Social Security," said Dole, Senate Majority Leader, "Seniors are still getting their checks. We told President Clinton six weeks ago ... 'Mr. President, why don't we do the same with Medicare as we did with Social Security in 83.' He called that a gimmick.

The U.S. Senator from Kansas spoke to 150 people at a Florida campaign stop at a posh resort. Sixty-three of those people were delegates to Presidency III. which is the state's GOP straw poll next month.

Dole made a three-city stop in Florida hours after the Senate passage of a new federal budget-balancing plan.

In a last-minute package of changes early Saturday morning. Senate GOP leaders restored $2 billion for Medicare and $10 billion for Medicaid to ensure support from moderate Republicans.

Medicare is the medical program for the aged, while Medicaid helps the poor.

Clinton has vowed to veto the GOP budget in its current form. The Senate, along with the House budget that passed Thursday, now go to joint conference for reconciliation.

Dole repeated that Clinton is using scare tactics to turn public opinion against the Republicans on the Medicare issue.

"(Clinton) comes down to Florida and he sits with an 85-year-old lady and he says 'They're going to take away your Medicare," the Senate Majority Leader said. "He's trying to frighten people.'

Dole said the GOP wants to just slow the rate of growth in Medicare, not eliminate it. "We are trying to save Medicare,"

Republicans won't compromise with Clinton on basic principles set forth in the budget, he said.

"We are going to balance the budget in seven years." Dole said. "That's what the American people want. We are going to reform welfare - really reform welfare - and we are going to preserve Medicare, we are going to have tax cuts."

Sen. Phil Gramm, also in Florida Saturday, has accused Dole of opposing Medicare in 1965. Dole's campaign has demanded an apology from Gramm for the Texas senator's claim that Dole differed with Ronald Reagan on the issue in 1965 when, in fact, they shared the same position.

"I have the same position as Ronald Reagan had." Dole said. citing the former president's support for Eldercare, the means-based health care program for the elderly. "That's how Medicare has gotten in trouble. The cost has far outpaced the money coming in.

Dole also planned stops in Punta Gorda and Fort Lauderdale on Saturday.

Aero Modelers dedicate airstrip, plan improvements

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Remote control aircraft enthusiasts dedicated and officially opened a new airstrip just for hobbyists Saturday afternoon.

Nearly 100 people turned out for the ceremony, lunch, and an opportunity to fly their aircraft from the 400-foot runway.

Bob Thomson, president of the Sanford Aero Modelers, the organization responsible for opening the new R/C airfield. said members worked hard for the past three years to secure the airstrip, and a 15-year lease for the 40-acre facility.

On Saturday, the field did not look like much with its grass runway, but the organization has big plans for the R/C park.

"What we want to do is ultimately to make this a park for R/C and U-Fly (wirecontrolled) airplanes, boats and cars," Thomson said. "We want to make it a total facility anybody can use.

The Aero Modelers began using the 40-acre parcel for flying earlier this year. Since taking over, they have leveled the land and made it suitable for R/C aircraft.

But that is just the beginning. Thomson said plans for the R/C airpark include installation of a sprinkler system, construction of structures to provide shade for pilots, and eventually, construction of an asphalt runway and a track for R/C cars.

With the new airfield, the club has blossomed to more than 75 members, Thomson said.

For all involved, safety is foremost in the pilots' minds.

While real aviators often practice an "eight hours bottle to throttle" alcohol baseline, the club's aviators have "zero tolerance" on alcohol.

According to Thomson, ban-ning alcohol keeps the sport safe, and also makes it more family oriented.

Thomson said that is important because the club has junior members, and even has a speakers bureau with speakers that meet with junior organizations, such as the Boy Scouts.

The club has been in existence since 1977. Anyone interested in joining is encouraged to call Thomson at 323-3841.

had heard about my store and my reputation and gave me a call. Needless to say I was very excited, and a bit nervous at the very though of working on a movie set." Davidson said.

After 14 years in the costume and clothing business in Sanford. Davidson has realized many different avenues that can be traveled in order to succeed when you own your own business. The month of October is her busiest month, providing contumes for Halloween.

'My employees as well as myself work our backside's off. There are times that I swear every person in Sanford has rented a costume or needed some sort of accessory for Hallowcen."

Davidson said she doesn't mind. She loves her work.

"Given the chance, I wouldn't change a thing." she said. A Second Image Costume Shoppe, now in downtown Sanford, was established in 1981 on a shoe-string budget, with Davidson always believing in the strength of God and that she would be a success. Her first store was in a small strip mail on Sanford Avenue. She started out strictly as a clothing consignment shop, carrying a complete selection of family clothing. What Davidson couldn't build with her own two hands, she would find somehow the money to get the necessary items to keep the store going. "It was really tough in the beginning. I remember one time when I had to sell my cance for the extra money to buy something that I just hadn't thought about needing."

Davidson said. As the year passed. Davidson saw her business really start to flourish.

In 1982, Davidson moved her business to a new location. This was an exciting time for her as it was a much larger store at a more visible location. She was now operating in the Pine Crest shopping mall on 27th Street and 17-92. It was at this location that she crossed into another venture. "Since I dealt mainly in second hand clothing, my store seemed to be the place that people would look into first hoping to find something for that special party, such as a Halloween party." Having had such a large assortment of items, few people left without being able to put something together. 'One year I had a customer that wanted to enter a contest as the headless horseman. I went ahead and did my best for her and lo and behold she won the first place prize." From there the costume end of the business just kept growing. Word spread, and business grew. Davidson now knew that she had tapped into a hidden resource.

After eight years at her Pine Crest location. Davidson once again felt some growing pains. She decided to move her business to its current location at 102 East First Street. In Sanford. Although she was still dealing with consignment clothing, the costume end of the business really blossomed. In fact, she finally quit the clothing end of the business completely. Davidson rented the space right next to her existing store and expanded by twice the size.

"Now, I'd become a complete costume shoppe." Davidson said.

Davidson has every costume imaginable. Her selections range from Scarlett O'Hara to Little Bo Peep, as well as an array from monsters to monks.

There is no person too small or too big that I can't get into a costume." And if it's not on her racks, that hold over 5000 costumes. Davidson, herself will make it for you...

Her stint at Unversal turned out to be an extremly long and exhausting day for Davidson. But, the experience was more then she'd every dreamed it could be. "I worked with the hair and costumes for the actors in this commercial. They portrayed cavemen and women as well as Eskimos."

But that was Just a warm-up for Davidson. y is Halloween people in costumes.

While Simmons said gamling is "not high on (his) list of priorities" when it comes to disciplining his employees, he does not want to be taken advantage of by employees looking to supplement their income through sporting wagers made in the office.

"What they (city employees) do on their time," he said. "I have a problem with doing it on my time."

Though betting is technically illegal, very few employees are ever prosecuted by legal means.

Suspension from work for a brief period may be the harshest punishment doled out for such an offense.

'In my time as an inyestigator." Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire of the Sanford Police Department, said, "I have seen only once case where we were called in to investigate an incident of gambling."

That case involved an alleged incident at Lakeview Middle School in Sanford where employees were playing "paycheck poker" with wagers ranging from a dollar or two to the entire amount of the paycheck.

The superintendent of schools, Dr. Paul Hagerty, requested an investigation into the matter more than a year ago.

Though the case remains open, Whitmire said, there have been no arrests, nor have any charges been filed.

'To the best of my knowledge this is not something that is happening here at this time," Jim Shupe, principal of Lakeview said. "I don't think this is a problem."

Hagerty could not be reached for comment.

In a society which does little to discourage wagering on sporting events, officials are not surprised that employees are placing friendly wagers on the job.

historic usage of the site lat Five site as compared to Five Points. Points) for Vehicle Fleet Maintenance and Fueling may have resulted in some site contamination.

The (downtown location) option considers the continued reuse of the courthouse in downtown Sanford and construction of a new facility on land contributed by the city. It also discounts the cost of a new parking garage by the anticipated contribution to the city. Cost of the development is estimated at $64,302,811. (Note. this is an estimated $268,000 less than the cost of the Five Points estimate).

The historical loation of the judicil system has been in downtown Sanford for over 100 years. As a result of this, numerous businesses associated in one manner or another with the judicial process, have elected to locate in proximity to the courthouse. These businesses would be adversely financially affected by the relocation of the judicial functions to the Five Points site.

The Five Points site is not currently served by adequate utilities (water, sewer) or by a roadway system with sufficient capacity to accommodate the anticipated increase in traffic.

The city of Sanford, in order to retain the judicial system in its downtown environment has tendered a preliminary offer or contribution, with an approximate value of $5 million, subject to City Commission approv-

Recommendations

The report from Architects Design Group, Inc., includes the following recommendations: •Suitability: Many important aspects of the judicial function deal with the issue of dignity and respect which are issues of public perception and that are initially based upon the surroundings and character of a courthouse. In that respect, we must suggest that the downtown location, as reflected by our eviuation matrix, potentially offers a more appropriate location. The matrix indicates a signifianalysis), it is assumed that the cant advantage of the Downtown

 The conclusion of this consultant is that the County Commission should give consideration to the continued utilization of the downtown Sanford

•The existing parcels of land in downtown Sanford are estimated to consist of 9.2 acres or approximately one half of the land allocated for usage at Five Points. As an urban site, it envisions that a more vertical solution (building height. multi-deck parking garage, etc.) would be the appropriate solution. Utilizing that concept, the downtown site will provide sufficient area for utilization.

Conclusion

In its final statment, the document gives an overview with the following statement. Each observance is stated in considcration of an artist's conception of the two possible structures, both in Five Points and downtown Sanford. The drawings however, are merely used as examples, and would not specifically be used as any building plans. The document says:

Both sites lend themselves well to varying concepts of Master Planning. The Five Points site, by utilizing the property currently occupied by Public Works, Fleet Maintenance and Vehicle Fueling, offers a greater challenge because of the distance from U.S. Highway 17-92. The building, in response to that issue, has been located across from the open, undeveloped area fronting on U.S. Highway 17.92. This tends to offer a visual access to the facility and potentially provide for a more formal (and appropriate) location separated by other county functions that are at Five

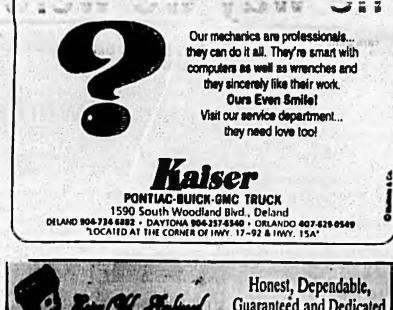

The Downtown Master Plan. as a result of its urban location, provides for a more formal Master Plan concept. The buildings are larger in vertical mass and include twin, multi-level parking garages for the proposed 1.000 vehicle parking capacity. The downtown site has more constraints as it becomes critically important to provide connectors to the existing courthouse for purposes of circulation and security.

As noted, these are just two concepts of many that are available for consideration. Actual Master Planning services would evaluate a variety of opportunities and constraints, and would be accomplished with the facility users and other county staff, including engineering. parks, etc.

A veritable public library

There is a veritable self-help library in Sanford. Written information on just about anything a person could ask for is available free of charge. Yet few take advantage of the offerings.

For young children, there are comic books on such matters as gun safety and fire safety.

for adults, there are pamphlets on drug abuse, community, block and neighborhood watch groups, latchkey children, parents gun safety, preventing auto theft, and how older Floridians can help prevent crimes.

In health matters, there are pamphlets on various subjects such as communicable diseases including AIDS, and venereal diseases. There are also booklets on rape, and sexual assault.

For the party people, there are even suggestions on party tips using non-alcholic beverages, and the need for designated drivers when alcohol does come into use.

That's quite a library. It's an excellent source of information for one and all. Very few people can say they don't need any of these pamphlets.

Yet they remain on display, offered free to the public every day, but seldom taken. Why? Because these pamphlets are in a display case located in the lobby of the Sanford police station.

We suspect many law-abiding respectable people have an unnecessary fear of going to a police station. They may realize that they would be safe stopping in at the station, but perhaps there is something in the back of the mind which makes them hesitate. After all, police are associated with criminals, and criminals are associated with jail.

Naturally, people who may be on a wanted poster will definitely not want to visit the police station to pick up pamphlets, but they probably wouldn't want any in the first place.

For the average citizen however, we suggest paying a visit to the Sanford police station at 815 S. French Avenue and look through the display case. You are bound to find something of interest as well as something which may be of vital importance to your life and those of your family, friends and neighbors.

Yes, police are after the law-breakers. But they are also doing what they can to help honest citizens as well.

Now that we have shootings in our schools, perhaps it's time to reintroduce prayer in the classroom.

Rising to the top in corporate America

The United States Labor Department Glass Ceiling Report confirmed what other indicators suggested might be true, women and minorities are not significant players in corparate America. Persons who subscribe to the notion that there is no need for affirmative action programs should examine the facts. Heidi Hartmann (Institute for Women Policy Studies) stated that the Glass Ceiling Report affirms the need for "goals and time tables in terms of what happens in the work place".

The only group that has made any inroads into corporate America's highest decision making structures are women. The decade (1962-1992) witnessed the percentage of female executive vice presidents more than on the double from 4 percent to 9 percent gender distribution.

In 1992 white males comprised 43 percent of the total labor force at Fortune 1,000 Industrial and Fortune 500 service companies and occupied 97 percent of the senior level decision making managerial positions. At that level there were 0.6 percent African-Americans, 0.4 percent Latino's and 0.3 percent Asians.

The natural payoff is that income levels for minorities is depressed. Contrary to some misconceptions that African-Americans have reached parity in the world of work, the study also revealed, that even with equivalent credentials African-Amerians carn less. Males with professional degrees earn 79 cents and females earn 60 cents for every dollar received by white

This continuing attack on affirmative action programs through the mechanism of reverse discrimination suits created a need to analyze the problem.

Rutgers Law Protessor, Alfred W. Blumrosen reviewed more than 3,000 reverse discrimination, opinions rendered by Federal District and Appeals Courts over a four year time span (1990-1994). He determined that there were fewer than 100 reverse discrimination cases and actually in only six of the cases reviewed was reverse discrimination legally established.

Blumrosen concluded that many of the reverse dicrimination suits were filed symptomatic of the prevailing feelings of white male applicants "who rather than examine their qualifications objectively projected their disappointment to causes beyond their control, i.e. women or minority preferential treatment.

There is a positive correlation between education and employment. However, there is also a negative correlation between education, employment and lucrative salaries when race and gender are factored into the picture. The facts cannot be disputed. Why affirmative action programs are under attact does not compute logically with the reality of the job market.

We all concur that income is a necessity in providing for basic needs and that one's standard of living generally rises with increased income. The principle sources of income are from small business and corporations. The continuing mergers have made the corporation so powerful that their influence in every aspect of this interdependent society can be felt. If the corporation have elected to exclude minorities and women from the pinnacle of decision making in their companies than other answers must be sought.

It would appear that the proverbial handwriting is on the wall and instead of continually standing at a door that will not open, minorities and women need to create their own businesses. The first step in the process is to use all their God given talents to acquire all the knowledge and skills possible and once this is accomplished determine how to best use these skills in the market place.

That's the way it is, Tiffany Ann

I'm sure there must have been a smug smile of profound approval when I hung the latest addition in our family art gallery this week. Born to a granddaughter (from the Chicago area) who is serving in the Army stationed at Fort Rucker, Ala., Tiffany Ann is a little beauty if ever I saw one.

While admiring the photo of the little doll who was born on our wedding anniversary, I continued to muse about Tiffany Ann's future, making her social debut and how she will be a ravishing Southern belie someday.

On second thought, "Oh, my Lord, I hope

On second thought, "Oh, my Lord, I hope not." as I reflected back about all the prejudice and discord I have encountered during my lifetime because I am a Southerner.

My family's chief prejudice was against "yankees" and Republicans and particularly. Southern Republicans "who should be exiled," as I heard so often. Little mischievous kids were affectionately admonished, "Why. you little skally-wag." It was not until many years later I learned in history class that this scurrilous label of scalawag was applied to white Southerners who turned Republican during the Reconstruction following the Civil War.

I recall taking a flying cadet stationed at Maxwell Field (now Maxwell AFB) in Montgomery to my proper grandmother's home once and I thought she would have a hissy fit because he was from north of the Mason-Dixon Line. The only time I ever heard her use any off-color language was when she called the future pilot a "D-yankee" (but she still didn't use the D-word) and shamed me to kingdom come and back for disrespectfully denying my Southern heritage.

I remember drawling with my hands held up to protect my face in case my petite, hostile grandmother retaliated with a blow, "My Gawd, I'm not going to marry him! It's not like he was a Republican."

I have fought the Civil War all my life just as if I wielded the pen that signed the formal declaration of war back in 1861. It was all my fault. The same applies to the slaves brought from Africa in 1619. Why, through the years, adversaries have been so brutal that I swear they have thought that my delicate frame rowed the Africans across the shining sea.

I attended school with several races and so help me did not know the meaning of the word "racist." In fact, a dictionary I have in my possession from those early years does not even list the word "racist." My best girlfriend was a Jew and I dated a lot of Jewish boys during my teen years. Their country club served such delicious foods and their mothers were such wonderfully different cooks.

Being Southern has caused me lots of woes, but it has brought many a chuckle during the years. I have been through discrimination, prejudice, sexual harassment and the whole 99 yards. And I have been called white trash and Southern seum. Many years ago, I was among a group asked to leave a restaurant in Chinatown in San Francisco because the all-white contingent "doesn't belong here." On the other hand, my neighbors in Los Angeles ostracized or downright snubbed me for becoming friendly with a Mexican woman.

I was refused a job as a receptionist in the "Nawth" because of my Southern drawl. In another situation, a smart Alec northerner informed me he knew the Democrats' "symbol is the Jackass for males but what kind of ass is the female symbol?" Grrrr!.

One of the most vivid trials of my younger years was auditioning for a gig in LA. I might have made it bigtime [and then again, I might not have] except I tearfully refused to submit to the so-called casting couch. The director cockily informed me that I would never make it in show biz. "Go back home to yo' mammy in Alabamy," he mocked.

Tiffany Ann, what I'm trying to say is there has always been prejudice and there always will be. Nations have been enslaved and entombed since the Sumarians started it all in the fifth millineum BC in the quest of cheap labor. There will always be war, crime, disease and poverty and some people will never get along. As I tell my colleagues, lions and tigers are both great big, gorgeous cats, but they have always been brutal enemies.

Yes, it's a jungle out there.

But you can do and be anything for which you are willing to work. Just remember to follow the rules and don't do anything that you don't feel good about.

Even to this day, I am teasingly taunted by insensitive clods about the war, my accent or some such nonsense. Do you know what really makes me feel good? It's to see the ridiculing grins on their faces fade to total bewilderment when I quip. "Hey, I was grown, married and with child before I learned that Damnyankee was two words.

Being proud of your heritage

I was always taught to not see people as black and white. I've, in turn, taught my daughter to do the same.

Lately, it has occurred to me that by saying I do not see people in terms of their skin color, I am denying a person's heritage.

In delented Black of guilty as those who hurl racial perioratives.

I am Sicilian. Not Italian, mind you...Sicilian. And Argentinian.

And very proud of my heritage.

People of color are also proud of their heritage. To deny their skin color is, in effect, to deny their heritage.

A person is not simply a skin color, but the pigmentation of one's skin is a part of who that person is.

Because of my heritage, I have dark eyes.

Because of my heritage. I have dark eyes, dark hair and olive skin. Those characteristics are a part of who I am.

My family has traditionally been olive farmers with an odd bookseller, evangelist and grocer thrown in for good measure. In this country we've branched out, professionally speaking. My grandfather was a barber, my grandmother a seamstress; my mother a professional ice skater who settled into dull government work in order to support a young daughter.

Not an exciting history, but one I am proud

I would not want someone to tell me that they did not see me for my "Sicilian-ness". Blacks, too, are proud of their heritage.

Proud of the African kings and queens who ruled with strength and honor. Proud of those who rose from slavery in this country to educate themselves and succeed in business, agriculture and politics.

Many deride people of color for wearing their hair in traditional styles and for donning traditional garb. I wear a charm of a mate, an ancient Argentine drink container. I try to speak to my daughter, at least occasionally, with the few Sicillian words I know so that she learns that tradition.

How are those things different? Certainly, we are all one people. We are all created in God's Image.

But we are all different, individually and culturally. To blur those differences would weaken us all. But we should celebrate our differences and revel in the similarities.

Those of African descent should be proud of their blackness, as I am proud of my heritage.

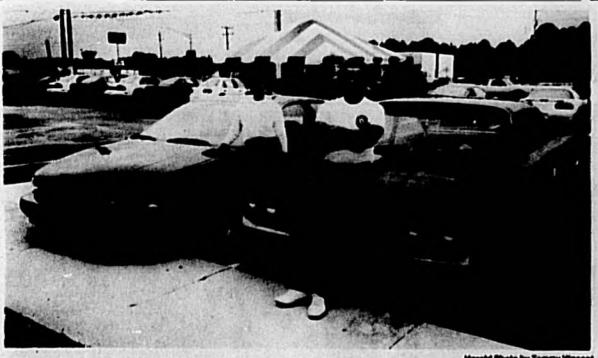

Perhaps I have been wrong to tell my daughter not to look at people as black and white.

We are black and white and yellow and thousands of variations in between. We should see the colors. We should also see the history and the beauty in all of them.

Be proud of your blackness, your Sicilian-ness, your Irish-ness, your German-ness...

After the stylistic angles of the fifties and sixties came the stylistic curves of the seventies. The curves of the cars of the seventies were typically more intricate than today's curves. Seventies cars usually had bodies that curved out for the doors and curved in for the windows. Also, there were frequently curves and bulges by the fenders and headlights. When the Taurus ushered in the newest wave of rounded cars, it did so without all of the these intricate curves and bulges. The newer cars had much smoother contours, with windows flush with the rest of the body and doors that smoothly flowed to the surrounding panels. Because these broad, smooth curves didn't usually include much intricate detailed sculpting, many people felt that these cars tended to look alike. Partially as a result of this, the newest rounded cars included some sculpting in their styling. For example, instead of a broad sweep from front to back, many new cars have a large, smooth indentation in the middle of the sides, giving the car a sort of Coke-bottle shape.

So, what is it that influences people's preferences in car styling? Why is one man's sleek aero car another man's look-alike jellybean? Why is one woman's muscular sixtles sports car another depends on who you talk to, but many people agree that it has to do with what you remember from your past.

Don Wade, a member of the Fat Fender Friends club of Central Florida, owns a 1957 Hideaway Hard Top Ford. He said that what you drove as a teenager can influence what kind of car you want to own and restore later in life. As its name implies. Fat Fender Friends is a club for eathusiasts of the broad, rounded cars and trucks that were made in the forties and fifties. They meet every Saturday evening at the Steak 'N' Shake in Altamonte Springs on 436, just east of I-4.

Sharing a similar point of view is Tim Sylvia of Altamonte Springs. He owns a 1971 Chevy Chevelle SS, a limited edition 365 horsepower muscle car. As with most sixties and early seventies muscle cars, this car has sculpted angular styling. He said one of the reasons he loves his car is because its like the first car he ever owned.

Other people have a fondness for older cars because they feel the newer cars look too much alike. Steve Ettinger, owner of Main Street Auto Sales in Casselberry, feels this way. He likes the style of the sixtles and early seventies muscle cars because "they are very unique; you can tell a Ford Mustang from a Chevy Camaro." He said that not only do cars look very similar today, but a buyer might not always know what they're getting. For examples the Honda Passport sport utility vehicle is actually made by Isuzu. and the Geo Prizm (sold through Chevrolet/Geo dealers) is actually a variation of the Toyota Corolla. Steve owns. among other cars, a 1969 Ford Mustang Mach I.

Booker Jones, also a member of Fat Fender Friends, owns a 1956 Ford Panel Truck. He said that these antique panel trucks are popular now due to the popularity of trucks in general today. He said that back in the fifties, when these panel trucks were new, you'd never see someone drive one just for recreation. They were only used for

So what does the future hold for car styling? Will the current wave of rounded cars continue for a while? Or will we start seeing a new form of angular styling soon? Round cars will probably be with us for a while yet. Ford just introduced its newest version of the Taurus, which has rounded and oval themes throughout the entire car, not only in the shape of the car itself, but also in the shape of details such as the headlights and interior instrument panels. Other recently redesigned models, such as the Chevrolet Cavilier and the Ford Explorer, also show a move to more rounded styling than the design of their previous versions. However, there are signs that anglular cars may have started to make a slow comeback. One such example is the newest Toyota Tercel. While the previous version had a bubbly look to it, the newest version has a definite body line running down the side of the car. The latest version of the Honda Accord (introduced in the 1994 model year) also has a slightly more "creased" appearance than its previous version.

Basically, what happens is that cars are styled based on what's popular at the time. After a while, however, so many cars have such similar styling themes for so long that the public starts to get bored with it. At that time, the automakers usually do one of two things. They either gradually switch to another style, or they take a chance with a radical new design unlike anything else being currently sold. If the radical design catches on, then other automakers start to mimic it, until the point that the once-radical look becomes commonplace. At that point, the cycle starts all over

The number of children and women helped by Florida's Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program has topped 320,000 — an 18 percent increase since 1993.

WIC helps pregnant, postpartum and breatfeeding women and their infants and children up to age five who are at risk medically or nutritionally and who meet the criteria of an income test.

The program offers professional nutrition care, including nutritious foods, nutrition education, breastfeeding promotion and support and referrals for health care.

WIC's goal is to begin a pattern of good nutrition and health behaviors.

Debbie Eibeck, chief of WIC and Nutrition Services for the department of Health and Rehabilitative Services said WIC in Florida should be lauded for its cost-effectiveness as well. Every dollar spent on Medicaid-eligible, pregnant WIC participants saves $1.77 in Medicaid costs for mothers and newborns during the first 60 days after birth.

Sharon Nardini of the Central Florida Blood Bank spoke to the students at Seminole High School recently about the ultimate gift they could give to the community: their donation of blood. The blood is used to be sure that community blood supplies are at an appropriate level and to be sure that there is plenty of blood available in case of emergency. Blood donors have to be at least 17 years old, they must weigh at least 110 pounds and they should be in good health. Nardini spoke to the students prior to a successful blood drive held recently at the school.

Virginia school launches combined residency: family-internal medicine

By JOE TAYLOR Associated Press Writer

NORFOLK, Va. - As Dr. Lynn Moore was finishing her studies at Atlanta's Morehouse School of Medicine, she began looking for a residency program that would combine her career goals: family medicine and internal medicine.

"To my dismay, there was none," said Moore, a former emergency room volunteer who became a registered nurse before training as a physician.

But about that time, officials at the Eastern Virginia Medical School started planning for the nation's first dual residency in those two crucial fields of primary care.

of the American Board, of Internal Medicine and the American Board of Family Medicine already were talking about such a program last year when EVMS approached them, said Dr. Verdain S. Barnes, director of the Nonoik medical school s for Generalist Medicine.

"So it was a fairly receptive group," said Barnes, whose school submitted a formal proposal to the two accrediting agencies in September 1994. To the school's surprise, approval came last January.

"We expected to start in July
'96," said Barnes, who wanted to start an initial class of four residents. "But we decided to move forward, even though we had less than a month to recruit residents."

The void didn't take long to fill.

"When this option became available, I jumped at it," Moore said. "I was so delighted when it was approved."

Dr. Keith Baxter was a little slower to act. When he got a notice in the mail that the program was about to open, he set it aside.

"I felt this was a great idea. but I just thought it was too late to apply," said Baxter, a gradu-ate of the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences. "I kept it on a shelf for about a week.

Then, I called one day. That call led to an interview. and soon Baxter - like Moore was packing for Virginia.

Along with Dr. Kim Warfield from the University of Texas at Galveston Medical School, the new program started this summer. A fourth resident who was selected decided to stick with family medicine only, Barnes said.

"We felt like this would be another way to get at the shortage" of primary care doctors, he said.

The primary care fields family medicine, internal medicine and pediatries - have lost ground in recent years because of technological advances that generated a move toward medical specialties.

Now, with health care reform giving a new focus to the "gatekeeper" generalist. primary care is making a comeback. The medical school conducted a National Primary Care Day observance recently to try to lure more students into that area of medicine.

"We're probably on the road to enough" primary care doctors. Barnes said. "It's the distribution that's the problem.' Typically, rural areas remain badly underserved, and some inner-city locations also have doctor shortages.

The EVMS dual residency will help doctors who plan to work in underserved areas by giving them additional diagnostic and care skills where access to hospitals and backup specialists may be limited.

"We're trying to combine them in such a way that we'll produce a generalist physician who has the capability to take individuals further in their overall care than either discipline alone." Barnes said.

The program, which Barnes describes as "an experiment in progress," takes four years, a year longer than the standard residency. As a result, some doctors in a hurry to set up practice might steer away from

But Barnes sald, "You get some advantages by having that extra year. They'll have a lot of capabilities that three-year residents don't have.'

Among those is a final-year 'tailoring period" of about four months, when the residents focus on one speciality of their

Happy birthday, Pearle Vision

SANFORD - One Sanford business that has really "seen." a lot of changes in the area since it first opened its doors will celebrate its tenth annivesary next week.

Pearle Vision Center, located in Seminole Centre, adjacent to Wal-Mart and Ross, opened for business on Nov. 2, 1985, in the spanking new shopping center on the south end of town.

Rick Moses, manager of the Pearle franchise, has more than 25 years experience in the optical business and said the best thing about his store is that he knows most of his customers by name the moment they walk through the door.

While Sanford continues to grow, especially with the addition of the new mail, Moses said he plans to stay right where he is, "so that we can continue to provide personalized service to all of our customers.

Win one for Bodle Patriots salute fallen coach with victory

By GARY COATOAM Herald Stalf Writer

DAYTONA BEACH - Lake Brantley's goal in Friday night's game against Mainland at Larry Kelly Field was very clear; win one for detensive coordinator David Bodle, Bodle, who taught and coached at Lake Brantley for six years, lost a four month battle with cancer Wednesday. He was 39

The Patriots honored their fallen coach by wearing red wrist bands on their left arms. Lake Brantley coaches wore white T-shirts with "I" sillhouetted against a red heart and "Coach Bodle" printed underneath, while the players wore the same T-shirts under their shoulder pads. Prior to the game, a moment of silence was observed in Bodle's honor.

'We had a reason to play well because we lost a great friend and a great coach," said Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon, "Mainland has got a great football team. They have a lot of great athletes, but we won this one for Coach Bodle. There's no doubt about that."

When the game began, it was Mainland who took the early lead. Mike Lloyd returned a Brad Bateman punt 70 yards to give the Buccaneers the first score of the game with 7:46 left in the first quarter. Wes Gibson's point after gave Mainland a 7-0 lead.

Lake Brantley drove to the Mainland 25-yard time on its next possession before being stopped on fourth and one. The Buccaneers then got their second and final score of the constest by driving 75 yards in 11 plays. A two yard run by Tony Jackson, followed by Gibson's point after, gave Mainland a 14-O lead with 11:54 before halftime.

The Patriots' offense got on the scoreboard two possessions later with a six play, 60 yard drive. Lake Brandey quarterback Dee Brown connected with wide reciever Brian Whitman on a 31-yard pass play for a touchdown with :57 left in the first half. John Berardi's extra point cut the deficit to 14-7 just before intermission.

"This has been a very tough week for us," Almon said. "The kids really rose to the occaission in the second half. Mainland made us look bad early, but we started calling the right plays in the second half. You can't stop triple option football if you know what you are doing, and we know what we are doing."

Lake Brantley's triple option attack, which had just 53 yards rushing on 15 carries at halftime, exploded for 171 yards on 27 attempts after the break. Brown finished the game with 111 yards on 18 carries to lead the Patriots, while Ryan Pagan added 109 yards on 16 carries.

Dell McGee gave the Patriots excellent field position to start the second half with a 38-yard kickoff return to the Lake Brantley 49-yard line. Seven plays later, Brown and Whitman hooked up for a 26-yard pass play. Whitman's diving eatch in the endzone, coupled with Berardi's Lake Howell blocked a punt on the Wolves first attempt of the second half and Marcel Allen capped 30-yard drive with a 15-yard touchdown run. Deltona then fumbled on its next possession and Lieflander went five yards on the first play for his second touchdown of the night.

The Silver Hawks' final score of the evening came with 1:37 left in the game when third-string quarterback Jeremy Bedor hit Jim Yonish with a 22-yard touchdown pass.

Lake Howell only had 216 yards of total offense. but they almost always had the ball on Deltona's end of the field.

The Silver Hawks defense held the Wolves to 19 yards rushing on 21 carries and 114 yards of total offense. But 47 of those yards came on a screen pass with just 22-seconds left in the game and 18 of the rushing yards came on a fake punt in the first half.

"This is not a real talented team," said Bisceglia. "We have a couple of real good skill position players, but the kids just work real hard and are very coachable. They have a lot of confidence in themselves and play real well

Friday night. The Bulldogs scored the first touchdown on a 2-yard scamper by Travis Robinson. The extra point run was stopped short and the Bulldogs led 9-0 with 10:36 left in the game. The Bulldogs defense added to the lead on the first Lake Mary snap following the DeLand touchdown when Mike Jackson intercepted Rams quarterback Shaun St. Dennis on the 15-yard line and thundered in for another touchdown, Roger Gray added the extra point giving DeLand the final 16-0 margin. Gray added a 26-yard field goal in the third quarter following an 85-yard punt return to account for the other three DeLand points. Although neither team was able to score in the first half, the Rams managed to penetrate Bulldog territory on four of five first half possessions. The Rams came up empty handed though. settling for a blocked field goal, a missed field goal, a punt, and a turnover on downs.

"We had our opportunities in the first half, but we just weren't able to take advantage of them when we needed to," Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "Our kids played a hard football game. We lost field position in the second half and you just get do that against a strong defense like DeLand has. This was really a tough game for us to lose."

The momentum seemed to switch from the visiting to the home team as Lake Mary's longest drive in the second half was 18-yards on six plays. The other Ram possession resulted in either punts, interceptions, or failed fourth down conversions and lasted no more then four plays. The Lake Mary offense could not put together. tain any serious threats in the second half. The two defenses played stellar football holding the two offenses to a combined total of 193-yards rushing and 134passing.

"I thought our defense played exceptional tonight," Peters said. "They kept their composure and held their ground."

One factor which hindered the Rams, both offensively and defensively, were penalties. Lake Mary had seven penalties for 55-yards while DeLand was called for a total of two penalties for 10-yards.

Donnie Casey paced Lake Mary's rushing attack with Dennis led the aerial assult completing six of 18 passes for 89-yards. The Rams will complete its point after, knotted the score 14-14 with 7:50 to go in the third quarter.

"The last two weeks before this, we had no intensity," Whitman said. "This week we came out with the most intensity we've had all year. Everybody was kind of down in the first half, but we picked it up in the second half. We just came out of the locker room firing, especially on defense.

Mainland had just four possessions in the second half. Two of them ended in punts, and the other two were killed by fumbles. Lake Brantley took its first lead of the game after Eddie Lee recovered a Jackson fumble. The Patriots then drove 54 yards in four plays to close out the scoring. What kept the Kowboys in the first half was a 59 yard fumble recovery returned for a touchdown by defensive back Bree Cobb.

Lyman could have expanded their lead in the third quarter when Bree Cobb fumbled a punt that Matt Helman recovered on the Kowboy 16. But the Greyhounds failed to score on four chances from the six.

Osceola could only put together one scoring drive in the second half, when Dewayne Cruz scored from three yards out. However, the seven play 79 yard drive put the Kowboys back on top 20-16.

With Florida's major junting seasons getting under way, officials with the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission are once again urging safety for sportsmen heading outdoors. The latest warning comes from an increase in the number of hunting accidents and fatalities during the past hunting season.

"It's always important to take steps to prevent accidents," said Capt. Ed Tyer, the GFC's hunter education coordinator. "We try to educate people about hunting and outdoors safety throughout the year, but especially now when more and more people are heading outdoors with guns and archery equipment."

The archery season is under way in the state's central and northwest zones (it ended in the south zone on Oct. 8). Muzzleloading gun season is now under way in the south zone and will begin shortly in the central and northwest zones, and the general gun season will open in all three zones in either October or November.

'It's obvious that this is the time of year when most people are out hunting," Tyer said.
"That's why it is so important for people to pay attention to their surroundings, to make sure they have the proper safety equipment such as orange vests or jackets, and to think smart when handling a gun."

Despite efforts to improve safety, the number of accidents and fatalities increased during last year's hunting seasons. There were 29 accidents and five deaths in 1994-95, up from 23 accidents and no fatalities during the 1993-94 seasons.

We were very pleased following the 1993 season, but we also knew that it was only one year." Tyer said. "Last year's statistics as a bit alarming and show that we have to continue to be vigilant in our safety efforts."

PISHING FORECAST Sebestian Injet continues to provide steady action with snook, redfish, flounder, jack crevalle and ladyfish. Schools of migrating finger mullet have attracted large numbers of pre-dators to this inlet for this moving feast. Back in the Sebastian River, snook and tarpon are hitting on a regular basis.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore fishing has been non-existent due to high seas. Inside the Part , expect plenty of sheepshead and flounder to keep rods bending. Redfish and trout are rated as fair on the flats of the Besess and Indian Rivers.

Peace Inlet still has swarms of sheepshead that are biting on live shrimp or fiddler crabs. Redfish, drum, small bluefish and jack crevalle are also roaming in and out of the inlet. Redfish are rated as good in Mooguito Lagues, while trout are a little more difficult to locate in the high water.

Eastern Star Chapter 388 marks anniversary

Sweet Harmony Chapter No. 388 Order of Easter Star celebrated 12 years of being a chapter of over 40 women doing Christian community services which includes helping those in distress, sickness and in times of family crises.

Under the leadership of Eartha Milton, Worthy Matron, and Arthur Mae Scott, Associate Matron, this organization of dedicated women has become active workers in the community of Sanford. Their motto is to share, to give, to love, to show someone you care. That's what living is all about.

This truly exemplifies the work being done by the chapter.

During the weekend gathering, their first anniversary banquet was celebrated. The group generously donated over $400 of the proceeds to a needy family who will be preparing to get a kidney transplant. By putting God first in their lives they are making the community better.

Through the 12 years, Worthy Matron Melton gives all of the glory and praise to God for the success of the chapter and organization. Melton says there have been many experiences. challenges, but success has come with the help of God.

The chapter is concerned with their spiritual growth as well as well as their physical growth. She encouraged them to be true philanthropists in sowing seeds of good deeds. Planting the seed, she says, is just not enough. "We must nurture, feed the seed and with the help of God we all will make this a better place to live," she added. On Sunday the 12th anniversary continued with an afernoon of Gospel music by the renowned national recording artist, Vernon Jones and the Sanford Community Workshop Choir in a mini concert, the message of love, praise and fellowship was shown throughout the weekend of cele-

"Family History" was the topic of Carl Patin, guest speaker of the October meeting of the Sallie Harrison Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Patin told the members how public records (births, marriages and deaths) are collected and distributed to the public. He mentioned how today's computers have enormously speeded up the assembling and distribution of this information.

According to Virginia Powell, DAR spokeswoman, the latest technology developed by the Mormon Church is called GEDCOM and makes information readily available.

The business meeting was preceded by a memorial service for Lucille Rowe led by Regent Virginia Mikler and Chaplain Esther Anderson.

BSP meets for All-chapter luncheon

A well-known story teller, Ms. Charite Wilson, Mistress of Madcap, delighted members of the Sanford chapters of Beta Sigma Phi at the annual All-Chapter Luncheon.

Held on Saturday, Oct. 21, at Timacuan Golf and Country Club, Alpha Tau Chapter was the hostess chapter under the chairmanship of Joyce Sammet.

According to Grace Marie Stinecipher, the storyteller "delighted the group with her torn-foolery." She enlisted several women to help with her antics, one of which was the enactment of the song. "Would You Like to Swing on a Star?" Grace Marie said the participants were given masks of various animals in the song and instructed to act out the words. "The results produced much merriment," Grace Marie said.

The delicious meal featured lemon-peppered chicken breast with light herb sauce or London Broil Bordelaise.

Centerpieces on each table were yellow roses in wooden vases hand-made by Bob Tromblay, husband of member Laurel Tromblay. Mememtoes of the event were dream catchers. symbol of the sorority's theme of the year.

you have to donate time to Legal Aid, or money. Sylvia's old law firm didn't want to donate the money, so Sylvia was given her first guardian ad litem case.

A guardian ad litem is a volunteer who works for children involved in the justice system. The guardians are working with the children in the worst possible situation. They have come into the system as victims of crime, abuse or neglect. HRS has its position, the parents have their position, but the guardian's position is the child's position. The guardian is the child's advocate. The guardian goes with the child through every process of the legal system, with only the child's best interest at heart. In Orange County, a lawyer often acts, pro bono, as guardian. In Seminole County, the guardian is usually a volunteer. The lawyer is there just as legal advice.

There was a 12 year-old-boy who had been so severely abused he had a stroke. He was placed in a medically supervised foster home. The state sought termination of parental rights. The guardian was there, not as an agent of the state, but as a friend who sought what was best for the child. The guardian helped the child through the process until the parental rights were terminated. A little girl was placed with her maternal grandmother after she witnessed her father kill her mother. The girl lost her ability to speak because of the trauma. A guardian was appointed to by the Stardust Girl Scouts.

help the child get through the legal system without additional trauma. The girl is now in school and doing well.

Right now, the guardian program desperately needs volunteers. Volunteers come from all walks of life and can be any age. Sylvia once worked with a 76 year old grandmother who came into the system because she said her 14 grandchildren didn't need her anymore. She wanted to work with kids who did need her. To be a guardian ad litem. you have to love and care about children and you have to be willing to take a few classes. The classes teach you about the laws regarding child abuse and neglect. Other than that, volunteers don't have to have any special skills or talents. You may sometimes come home in tears. Sylvia told the club members. but you will also come home with the knowledge that you have made a difference in a child's life.

To volunteer to be a guardian ad litem, just call the Seminole County Legal Aid Office or the Seminole County State Attorney's Office. In other club news, the Lake Mary Woman's Club announced that members will be participating in Olde Lake Mary Holidays. The city festival. scheduled for Friday, Dec. 1 beginning at 6:30 p.m., is emphasizing community giving this year. Attendees who donate non-perishable food items for the needy will be given free cookies and punch by the Woman's Club. People who donate toys will be given a Holiday ornament

DEAR KATHRYN: If this isn't the most-requested letter to be rerun, it's a close second.

The letter you're referring to was written by Doris Burville of Olympia, Wash., and was titled, 'An Open Letter to a Teen-Ager." Here it is:

"Always we hear the plain-tive cry of the teen-ager, 'What can we do? Where can we go?"

The answer is, go home!

"Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork. Rake the leaves, mow the lawn, shovel the walk. Wash the car, learn to cook, scrub some floors. Repair the sink, build a boat, get a job.

"Help the minister, priest or rabbi, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons. "And then when you are "Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your city or village does not owe you recreational facilities. The world does not owe you a living. You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy and your talents so that no one will be at war or in poverty or sick or lonely again.

"In plain, simple words, grow up; quit being a crybaby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone, not a wishbone, and start acting like an adult.

"You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibility your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, helped, appealed, begged, excused, tolerated and denied themselves needed comforts so that you could have every benefit. This they have done gladly, for you are their dearest trearight to expect them to bow to every whim and fancy just because selfish ego, instead of common sense, dominates your

Hobbyist of the Week

Chuck Base includes musical instruments in his autstanding woodwarking menagerie.

Retired firefighter takes his woodworking seriously

By SUSAN WENNER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Woodworking has been a relaxing hobby for Chuck Bose for many years. Although he is a retired firefighter from the City of Sanford he takes his retirement with an attitude that working is good for the soul.

Bose does frequently labor as a scene constructor for the Central Florida Civic Theater and the Mark II Theater yet his philosophy has been, "I work when I want to work and I choose to work a lot."

His talent for woodworking seems to be inborn from his father. "My Daddy was a woodworker," he said. "I got into it seriously 20 years ago."

picked up the art of whittling. He .. sassafrass wood. now has several pieces he has made. With a little paint added. these pieces came alive with character.

A alim gentleman holding a shotgun caught much attention. "I made him from a pattern in a was lonely and needed someone one." so I made a lady with a rolling pin to go with him."

Several other whittling projects such as hound dogs, a man with wrenches, a mule, a shoe on a hill, man with a fishing pole and a pheasant were among the numerous pieces.

Hose also took to canemaking. He picked up wood from areas that he visited and then carved types Bose has worked with.

them into a cane. Wood from as far away as Egypt is next on the list for a cane.

Bose has also contributed much of his talent to his church. First Baptist of Sanford where the family has attended for 35 years. "I'm a deacon there but I've done a lot of the carpentry work," he said. "I try to help wherever I'm needed. I was very involved in the new building project.'

Other church endeavors have taken Bose's time. "I worked at a church in Montana for two weeks rebuilding and remodeling," he said. In most recent times Bose has taken his skills to the music field. Building instruments such as a violin, a guitar, a dulcimer At the tender age of 12. Bose and bowed positrie made from

"I take a lot of pride in my work" said Bose. "I'm most proud of the mandolin I made. I am presently making a bending iron for the instruments. I had stemaed them before. I could buy a bending iron but why buy book," he said. "I thought he one when it's more fun to make

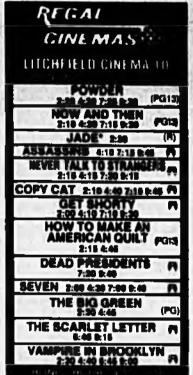

Making cabinets for his cabin in North Carolina as well as much of the furniture kept Bose busy for some time. The kitchen table, corner hutch and a bed are displayed in his own home showing his creations.

Woods such as oak, poplar, maple, walnut and sitka spruce have been among the different

Bose doesn't just deal with wood. He enjoys the art of being a silversmith making jewelry such as bracelets, rings and earrings. "I do weld too," he said. "I do auto mechanics and really just any stuiff that needs to be done. I just like to diddle and piddle around and have

Although work doesn't necessarily take a back seat, Bose does keep busy in many other areas of his life. He and his wife of 35 years. Linda, have lived in Sanford their whole married life. They have two children, Mark and Alice-Margaret and five grandchildren. He is a Mason member and involved in York Rite which is a part of the Masons. He is also a Blue Lodge member.

By Phillip Alder

Daniel Webster, who lived from 1782 to 1852, wrote, "Men hang out their signs indicative of their respective trades: Shoemakers hang out a gigantic shoe: lewelers, a monster watch; and the dentist hangs out a gold tooth." Which of these tradesmen would have found today's contract easy to make?

How should South play in four spades against the club-two

North might have raised to three no-trump, but with a doubleton, one is often better off playing in a 4-4 major-suit fit.

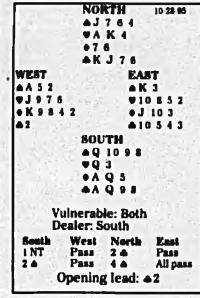

Since he could do nothing to stop a club ruff, South won the first trick in hand and played a trump. After winning with his king. East returned a club. West ruffed, cashed the spade ace and exited with a heart. South had to take the diamond finesee for his contract, but it lost: one down.

South had an uneasy feeling that he could have made the contract. The next morning. while sitting in the dentist's chair, he spotted the best play, After winning the first trick, South should cash his three heart tricks immediately, discarding the diamond five from hand. Then he plays a trump. Let's assume East wins with the king and gives his partner a club ruff. (If East switches to a diamond. West doesn't get his ruff.) West may cash the spade ace, but then what? If he leads a heart, it concedes a ruff-anddiscard. Whereas if West switches to a diamond, it is into South's ace-queen tenace. Either way, South doesn't lose a diamond trick.

This is called the Dentist's Coup because South extracts West's exit cards.
