Local cop officials not impressed with punishment

Local law enforcement officials are in agreement that the punishment is not strong enough. The measure, approved Tuesday during the legislative special session, is aimed at teens who are not yet hardened criminals; Gov. Lawton Chiles praised it as a good first step against luvenile crime.

"It gives the law enforcement officers tools to take guns away from kids," he said, adding that the legislation was only one step in reforming the state's juvenile justice system.

Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger doesn't think the new law will deter juvenile crime. "The Cisco Juvenlie, Page 5A

Limber athlete proves old age is just a state of mind

SANFORD - While many of her compatriots are still lollygagging around in bed, Ria Terhaar said she is up making sure she stays fit as a fiddle.

Terhaar, who has been participating in the Sanford Golden Age Games for several years now, no longer wants to give her age. The numbers don't mean anything, she said.

"I'm a year younger than I was last year," she said, readjusting the natty bandana around her

She said that she likes to look good for the races that she is confident of doing well in. Terhaar sits on the sidewalk outside the Sanford Civic Center at quarter of seven on this cloudy, damp morning and touches her nose to her unbent knee. She reaches forward and rests her chin on the ground while holding her outstreehed ankles.

Teacher's sex case

Certificate to teach turned in; bankruptcy filed

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Former Lakeview Middle School band teacher Stephen A. Paterson has voluntarily surrendered his teaching certificate bringing to an end the formal process to revoke his ability to teach in Florida.

Paterson will be sentenced later this month for molesting four male band students. Paterson pleaded no contest to four counts of lewd and laselylous acts in the presence of a child and will serve up to one year in fall under terms of a negotiated plea, followed by two years of community control (house arrest). He will then be on probation from 10-15 years. As a provision of probation, the state will recommend Paterson not have unsupervised contact with anyone under 16.

in exchange for his piea, 38 other sex charges were dropped.

In August, Florida Commissioner of Education Betty Castor filed a complaint to revoke Paterson's teaching certificate. Paterson challenged the move and requested a formal hearing.

However, on Oct. 28, attorney Ron Myers from the state teachers' union in Tallahassee informed the Education Practices Commission, Paterson was voluntarily surrendering his teaching certificate for permanent revocation.

The information concerning Paterson's revoked certificate will be sent to a national clearing house and distributed to almost all the states, according to a spokesman in the EPC.

Paterson, who taught at Lakeview for 10 years, was arrested in February after four of his former students told police the Instructor often hugged and kissed them at school and fondled or attempted to fondle their private parts. In pretrial depositions, one youth said Paterson performed oral sex on him. The acts took place in the school band room, in Paterson's Lake Mary home and in his car. The allegations by the four teens, who are now in high school, came to light during an investigation of alleged violation of Paterson's school probation.

City wants more time to consider office site

By NICK PFEIFAUF

SANFORD - An effort to purchase a building and build another one at Monroe Harbour Marina has stalled. The land is owned by the City of Sanford.

A group headed by Dr. G.W. Edwards, DDS, has been attempting to take over the building presently containing Edwards' office and the Orlando Sentinel facility on the lakefront. The mortgage at One Harbour Place has been foreclosed upon by Sun Bank.

Edwards, and others including Mark F. Tracey, Thomas Broderick, M.D., Stephen Reed, M.D., and Narinder Aujla, M.D., have entered into an agreement with Sun Bank to purchase the building. The group wants to arrange leasing of the city land on which the building is located.

Another request is for the city to lease land immediately to the east of the building, known as Area 2, on which Edwards and the group proposes to build an 8,000 square foot of additional space for rental purposes, some time in the next five years.

During previous discussions, the Sanford City Commissioner has suggested that the buildings should be used for some type of retail businesses ☐See Offices, Page 5A

Clerk kills alleged robber

ST. PETERSBURG - A convenience store clerk killed a teen-ager in an exchange of gunfire during a holdup, the seventh robbery attempt at the store in two years, police said.

Pong Hwa Lee was shot in the hand and fired one round from a .357-caliber Magnum, killing Clarence Carter, 16, investigators said.

Police spokesman Bill Doniel said three masked men had entered Lee Market just before closing late Monday.

The other two suspects fled by the time police arrived and were still being sought Tuesday.

Orlando cops still seek rapist

ORLANDO - Police are tracking a knife-wielding serial rapist who invades his victims' homes and holds them hostage for hours, acting out his sexual fantasies.

The same method of operation has been used in three recent cases, including the rape of a 6-year-old girl Monday, and investigators are reviewing still others to see if they fit the pattern.

"We want to make people aware of this, but we really don't want to cause public panic," said Ken Cox, head of the sex-crimes unit of the Ominge County sheriff's department.

The only evidence left behind was a fingerprint at one scene and semen at two others. The rapist has been armed with a knife and covered his face during the three recent attacks. He has i't been deterred by the presence of sleeping children. Each of the victims has been ordered to do the same thing.

Abortion clinic seeks arrests

TALLAHASSEE - A Melbourne abortion clinic is asking the state Supreme Court to order police to arrest pickets in a buffer zone the court upheld in an earlier ruling.

As many as 15 anti-abortion demonstrators at a time have picketed in the buffer zone in recent weeks, Paula Hurley, a worker at the Aware Woman Center for Chioce, said Tuesday.

The state Supreme Court ruled Oct. 28 that First Amendment rights of free expression didn't mean protesters could "force speech" on clinic patients. It upheld a circuit court injunction barring picketing within 36 feet of the property line. But a three-judge federal panel earlier questioned the injunction because it appeared to be aimed specifically at anti-abortion demonstrators. The panel of the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta didn't uphold or overturn the injunction, but ordered a U.S. District Court in Orlando to reconsider its dismissal of a challenge by abortion foes.

Pending that hearing, and the resolution of a motion for a rehearing of the state Supreme Court ruling, Melbourne police haven't made arrests for violating the injunction.

Carjacking killer plea bargains jail time

ORLANDO - A man accused of killing two people during a 1992 carjacking in an Osceola County cow pasture has pleaded guilty to two counts of first-degree murder in exchange for a prison sentence.

Prosecutors agreed Tuesday not seek the death penalty against 18-year-old Leondra Henderson. He is to be sentenced to life imprisonment without eligibility of parole for 25 years when he is sentenced in January.

He will testify at the January trial of three other Polk County men accused in the killings.

Anthony Clifton and Michael Rentas, both 20; Anthony Faiella, 17; and Tammy Ocorge, 25; were Rithapped in St. Cloud after a car containing four men hit their vehicle. They were driven to a pasture outside Kissimmee, where Faiella and Cliston were fatally shot in the head.

Also charged are Gerard Booker, 22; Jermaine Foster, 19; and Alf Catholic, 21. Booker, Foster and Catholic face the death penalty if convicted of first-degree murder in state court. Under the deal made Tuesday, Henderson will serve his state life prison sentence at the same time as the federal term.

Connor, 46, is focusing on crime, education, taxes, and the effect of government on citizens and business, many of the same populist themes used by other Republican candidates.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Cost keeps a quarter from care

GAINESVILLE - The high cost of health care has kept about 25 percent of Floridians from getting adequate treatment for medical problems in the past two years, a University of Florida study shows.

"The results are disturbing because people who postpone treatment often face more serious medical problems down the road that require more expensive treatment," said Bruce Vogel, an associate professor of health services administration who analyzed the findings.

Even among those who have insurance, the deductible and co-payment requirements may be so large that some postpone treatment, Vogel said.

The study also found that 18 percent of the respondents said they had no health insurance. If this figure were translated into a number for the entire state, about 2,475,000 Floridians would be without health coverage. Vogel said.

Ed Towey, a spokesman for the state Agency for Health Care Administration, said he was not surprised that a fourth of Floridians did not receive care because of "The whole equation in health care is cost, access and quality," he said Tuesday.

State administrators estimate that 20 to 23 percent of Floridians, or about 2.5 million. do not have health insurance, he said. "If costs are not brought into line, that number will grow higher and higher and higher," he said.

The survey also showed that 21 percent of the insured reported the cost of health care compared to 50 percent of the uninsured.

"These findings underscore the importance of health insurance in ensuring access to care. But they also demonstrate that merely having health insurance is no guarantee, since one in five Floridians with insurance reported health-care costs barred them from getting adequate care," Vogel

Throughout the 1980s, many health plans required patients to spend more of their own money in the form of co-payments and deductibles before their insurance kicked in, he said.

But many of those surveyed indicated they are not willing to pay for health insurance. Half of the statewide sample said they wouldn't be willing to pay at least $100

Gov praises comp bill. today vote

TALLAHASSEE - A new workers' compensation system would cut businesses' premiums an average of 15 percent and let them take steps such as safety programs to boost savings to 25 percent, Gov. Lawton Chiles said.

Managed-care medical plans and drug-free workplace programs also would add savings under a bill approved Tuesday by House-Senate conferees. House and Senate floor votes were slated today.

"Everything in this I think changes the philosophy from one that was to litigate, to delay, to one that's an administrative process to get people back to work," Chiles said at a news conference Tuesday night.

"With the components that were added today, this bill becomes one of the most important economic development initlatives ever undertaken by Florida," he said. "That savings will translate into more id pay and better benefits for our workers."

Chiles had threatened to veto any bill that wouldn't slash employers' premiums 20 percent for the mandatory coverage of on-the-job injuries.

"He's the only one who's got red ink in his pen," said Sen. W.D. Childers, D-Pensacola, the conference committee chairman. as the panel made changes to meet the governor's demands. Chiles originally called a Nov.

1.5 special legislative session on workers' compensation. Friday, saying his analysts estimated lawmakers had cut premiums about 16 percent, he extended the session through Wednesday.

The panel added incentives for employers to use managed-care programs to cut medical costs and mediation of disputed claims to try to avoid costly court action.

The panel rejected a move to relax restrictions on attorneys' fees in contested claims. Chiles had called for tougher restrictions.

The group scratched chiropractors from the health-care professionals who can act as case managers for injured workers or decide the impairment ratings on which their benefits are based.

State to insure against losses but federal help is needed

TALLAHASSEE - A state-run disaster fund to reimburse insurers' losses froin hurricanes will keep 700,000 homeowners from losing coverage but federal help is needed to solve Florida's insurance crists, officials said.

The Legislature gave final approval to a bill (CS-HB 31C) to create a catastrophe fund and sent it to Gov. Lawton Chiles, who is expected to sign it. It also passed sweeping insurance reforms (CS-HBs 33C & 43C) with tougher regulations on insurers and limits on the number of policyholders that companies can drop over the next three years.

Chiles said the legislation will case the insurance crunch but Florida will need a federal catastrophe fund to deal with major disasters in the future.

Selling NAFTA a little easier?

By TOM RAUM An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON - No one televised debate on the North American Free Trade Agreement. But Vice President Al make it easier for the administration to sell its case to wavering lawmakers.

That's because Tuesday's curlous debate between Gore and Ross Perot on CNN's "Larry King Live" was the most extensive public airing yet of the issues involved in the complicated trade agreement.

And that could work to the White House's advantage, with Just a week to go before Wednesday's critical House vote scored a knockout in the on the pact to end trade barriers among the United States, Mexico and Canada.

Up to now, the opponents Gore's strong performance may clearly had the upper hand in presenting their case.

But Gore managed to get before the public a point-bypoint rebuttal to the opposition's main contentions that the agreement will send U.S. jobs to Mexico.

If Perot had dominated the debate. It could have buried the administration's efforts - mak-

As it is. Gore managed to keep the administration's hopes alive. viewers thought Gore outdebated Perot.

A CNN-USA Today-Gallup poll - based on 357 telephone interviews with adults who watched the debate - showed that 59 percent thought Gore did a better job; 32 percent thought Perot did.

The same poll showed that 72 percent sold they had a favorable view of Gore after the debate compared to 57 percent before. Perot's favorable numbers went from 49 percent before the debate to 45 percent after it.

"Perot was flat, testy, defensive, the famed Rosa Perot sense of humor seemed little in evidence. Gore on the other hand was clear and much more focused than Ross Perot," said Allan Lichtman, a political scientist at American University.

"If you're going to play the politics of fear, you darn well better scare people. Perot didn't do that," Lichtman said.

Perot had charts and photos. Gore had charts and photos. The two argued at great length at ing it very hard to persuade who was interrupting the other undecided Democrats to take the the most. And both repeated political risk of supporting the arguments that both sides had used before.

But for once, the arguments: Early polls suggested that appeared side by side. And Gore clearly had done his homework. rattling off facts and figures and mentioning how the agreement would affect specific companies.

> The decision for Gore to challenge Perot carried a big political risk.

> "I was uncertain about whether it was a good idea" former President Jimmy Carter said in an interview. "I was pleasantly surprised."

Carter, who supports the agreement, predicted undecided lawmakers would now be emboldened to come out for the pact. "This debate will make it easier for them to face the political conscouences at home," he sald.

Nervous Democrats "can say: if that's the strongest arguments the opponents can make, that Ross Perot can make, then NAFTA can't be all that bad. I can take him on." said Democratic consultant Ann Lewis.

Researchers tiptoe toward suggesting a drink a day

By PAUL RAEBURN AP Science Editor

ATLANTA - After years of debate over whether alcohol reduces the risk of heart disease, some researchers are reluctantly beginning to admit that nondrinkers might be wise to pour themselves a glass of wine with dinner.

The data support that quite strongly - a small amount of wine with meals is a healthy lifestyle," Dr. R. Curtis Ellison of Boston University said Tuesday.

The focus on wine comes from continuing studies of one of the most intriguing puzzles about the cause of heart disease:

How can the French devour buttery croissants, drench their filet mignon in bearnaise sauce and follow it with Camembert enough that some researchers cheese or creme caramel while still maintaining one of the world's lowest rates of heart disease? The French death rate from heart attacks caused by clogging of the coronary arteries is about each year. In the United States. drinker. about 200 deaths per 100,000 people. Yet the French diet is even higher in fat than the American diet. Americans get about 22 percent of their calories from fat: the French 25 percent.

Evidence increasingly andparadox is probably due to yet another French passion: wine.

Contraceptive maker questioned on prices

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - An Oregon congressman wants to know why an American drug company charges $365 for the implantable contraceptive Norplant that is sold in some Third World countries for $23 with U.S. taxpayer support.

Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., said Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories' pricing of the breakthrough contraceptive is the latest example of a manufacturer charging high prices in the U.S. market for a product developed partly through governmentbacked research.

"It is one matter when private companies shoulder the bulk of the risk It is quite another when the U.S. taxpayer does much of the heavy lifting." Wyden charged in a statement.

The company defended its pricing of the popular, under-the-skin, five-year contraceptive, saying it was cheaper than the pill and not much more expensive than condoms.

Medicald programs already get Norplant at a 16 percent discount.

The issue was being aired today at a hearing of Wyden's House Small Business subcommittee on regulation and technology.

The Clinton administration has raised the heat on the pharmaceutical industry as part of its drive to combat soaring medical costs. Many firms have agreed voluntarily to limit price their upper arms.

hikes to the general rate of Inflation.

But industry critics say many popular drugs are priced too high to begin with.

Just last week, Rep. Pete Stark, D-Calif., chairman of the House Ways and Means health subcommittee, accused Du Pont Merck Pharmaceutical Co. of price gouging for its plan to repackage the blood-thinner Coumadin and three other drugs now sold to hospital pharmacies in individual packages for a few pennies apiece.

In the new, 100-pill bottles, the drugs would cost up to 50 centa aplece.

Dr. Marc W. Deltch, Wyeth-Ayerat's vice president for medical affairs, said Norplant's price works out to 20 cents a day over five years, which is "considerably less than the price of oral contraceptives."

The pill costs $1,481 over five years, diaphragms $762, an IUD $326 and male condoms $312, he estimated in prepared testi-

He questioned how "a significantly improved product" in the same price range as other contraceptives could be deemed overpriced.

But Dettch called that "an apples and oranges compartson." Wyeth does not sell Norplant outside the United States. The $23 is a price a foreign manufacturer charges public agencies "in a few developing countries" for bulk supply of capsules alone, not the surgical kits, he said.

Duany plan would improve all of Sanford

The development of standards to restalize a portion of Sanford's historic residential district have been slow. Andres Duany first began compiling the suggestions almost two

The Historic Preservation Board has already discussed the Duany project at length. The plans finally reached the Sanford City Commission on Monday of this week.

Although still in the consideration stage. some of the ideas are now beginning to show an expanded value. A few suggestions may even be carried over to other parts of the city.

We see this as a good move. Many of Duany's proposals for the preservation of the historic area would help improve all of Sanford.

This appears to be what members of the City Commission are working toward. During Monday's work session, commissioners discussed expanding some of the maintenance standards beyond the historic district.

Although it may appear as a minor change. even a reduction in the allowable height for lawn grass and weeds would make all of Sanford more beautiful.

A number of suggestions were stricken from the Duany proposals. They were determined not to be directly related to the architectural guidelines which are the main goal of the plan. Many of them will not be forgotten however. Some are already contained in the city's planning codes, while others may be added separately.

Even though the Duany plan is aimed at just the area he has labeled as "Old Sanford," It is olganiy, not his idea to ignore the rest of and rundio's the city.

In a latement made during a Charrette when he first started his planning. Duany said, "The reputation of Old Sanford cannot be weighed down by all the terrible stuff along its edges. The Historic District as currently drawn, is too tight. It is too specialized since it only cares about historic structures."

He continued, "It is obvious that there are a lot of additional structures that are quite wonderful." He added however, that people have commented about some of these "additional structures," as being crack houses. houses of prostitution, or littered with trash.

Duany suggested these problems must be eliminated in order to restore the image people get of Sanford.

We applaud the commission's initial venture into these plans. We hope they will not only continue considering improvements for Old Sanford but expand further into the city.

Andres Duany, members of the city commission, and a large number of residents agree that there is much potential in all of the residential as well as commercial districts of our city.

We see this as a starting point to bring this potential into reality.

Suggestions for downtown

Well, I must say the downtown of Sanford looks so much better. When people put their minds together instead of jealousy, something nice can happen. I saw what looked like fresh rye grass growing in that ugly corner, vacant lot. Not enough to make fresh rye bread to go with those planters sticking out into the street. I realize labor is very expensive but the Florida employment could furnish a lot of young people needing lobs to build their self-esteem. These young people need that also. Of course a contractor is needed to take care of office affairs and experience to guide these first-time wage carners. If they see how hard it is to put up they will think twice about tearing it down.

Now let's see how this can be turned around for some good. There are two buildings with blank walls staring you in the face when you turn into the street; that's bad, so on the large and tall, empty wall, a beautiful mural of Lake Monroe, the park and boats. Have the water extend all the way to the top with landscaping as it is all in the mural; it will last for years in regard to the changing skyline. The other wall is a restaurant with a blank wall also. Let's put a mural there of Lake Monroe with iron railings and with tables and flowers like in Paris or the Three Sisters in New Orleans.

Now I guess you wonder just where will the artist be found to do these beautiful murals. From our own college art classes in Seminole and Orange counties. Where else? Have a contractor again oversee using the same ladders and scaffolding. but let our students put everything up all around that fall building. No junk now, real art from their souls. Their first job will be with them all their

Good for business: America grows

New population projections from the Census new line shows 337 million people, 86 million Bureau show, once again, that America will grow more than the 251 million of 1990. Ameni We more rapidly than expected. The change from last year's all-but-ignored projections are small but important; the change from five years ago is stunning. We are moving away from a demographic glide path that was heading from low-growth, to no-growth, to population loss. The new trajectory is something quite different: ongoing, moderate demographic liftoff. The implications are powerful, affecting business, economics, social policy and geopolitics.

Consider the difference in projections issued in 1988 and 1993: The earlier one showed the 1990s as a slow-growth time with a net add-on of 17 million people, the lowest number in recent decades. The revisions show growth of 25 million people, only slightly trailing the record-setting Baby Boom 1950s.

Langer-term changes are starker. For the year 2010 not so lar away - the earlier projections showed 32 million more people; now it's 49 million. By 2015 we will have grown by 62 million — adding one France!

The earlier projections showed a platcau by about 2025, and population diminishment thereafter, reversing America's oldest trend. The remain a vigorously growing nation, as ever.

The value of more population can be argued pro and con in many ways. But for business, certainly for existing businesses, the effect is salutary, dwarfing any temporal good economic news. Thus, It's nice to hear that the Gross Domestic Product is slightly higher and the budget deficit somewhat lower than expected. But more population growth offers big-time and long-term meaning: more customers. Eight million more in the 1990s will yield a

"customer boom," in America wili grow more rapidly than expected.

some ways similar to the 1950s.

For example, look at housing and real estate, suffering now from a condition described as "overbuilt." That is only another way of saying "underpopulated." The 8 million extra Americans will live somewhere and work somewhere. They will fill up the existing stock (including the infamous "see-through" office buildings) and then trigger more building, and more sales of drapes and dishwashers, let alone bicycles, clothing and Halloween candy.

Why are we growing? Two major reasons: more immigration and higher fertility, much of which comes from newer immigrant groups.

The extra immigration — legal immigration comes from the immigration Act of 1990. The birds rate has I preced across the board, twill the biggest rise occurring among Hispanic Americans. The 1998 projections were based on 1.8 children per lifetime per woman; the current projections are keyed to a 2.1 rate. (Fertility began going up exactly nine months after the publication of my book, "The Birth Dearth.") And so, we are becoming a more variegated nation, bubbling every which way,

Don't ask, don't tell won't work

BOSTON — It is morning when people begin to line up at the daily tell-all talk shows. At 11 a.m. cheating flances are on Sally Jesse Raphael. Ostracized pregnant teens are on Montel Williams. Self-described male chauvinist sons are on Ricki Lake.

A bit later, a mother, her teen-aged son and the girlfriend he admittedly abused all air their wounds to Maury Povich. Single mothers who can't get dates appear with Jan Whitney.

By afternoon, a woman is telling Phil Donahue that she falsely accused her mother of sexual abuse. Parties in a custody dispute are pleading their case in Oprah Winfrey's court of public opinion.

The spirit of boundless openness, irrepressible self-expression, and gawd-help-us sharing pervades the entire land. We air our linen. dirty and otherwise, on the airwaves. We live in a cultural climate of true confession.

Yet this is the very culture in which the Clinton administration is now scrambling to defend a compromise policy on gays in the military, a policy that wears the motto: Don't Ask. Don't Tell. Don't Pursue.

Don't Make Me Laugh. Such a policy may work in England where people wear discretion on their lapels as a national insignia. But in America we are more likely to wear our hearts on our sleeves. We do ask and increasingly we do tell.

Indeed what brought us to this new chapter - what is it? Chapter 12 on Gays in the Military? - was the revelation by Petty Officer Keith Meinhold that he was homosexual. He told - on television of course - and the Navy pursued. They discharged Meinhold, who went to court for reinstatement.

A California Judge then ruled that the secretary of defense couldn't discharge or deny enlistment to any person based on sexual orientation. Months later, the same judge extended the ruling to protect all military personnel. His response to "don't ask, don't tell" was don't implement.

But the Clinton administration asked for and won "emergency relief" from the Supreme Court. On Oct. 29, the court lifted the part of the order that went beyond Meinhold's case to encompass the entire military. The future of "don't ask, don't tell" will be murky until the Ninth Circuit Court rules on the appeal it will hear next month.

So the Clinton Justice Department is now arguing feroclously for a stand the president was forced to accept. If this were a talk show Clinton would appear as what? Men Who Compromise Too Much?

Last January, the new president promised to lift the ban on gays in the military and all hell broke loose in the Pentagon and the Congress. Back then, Clinton said, and apparently believed, that allowing gays and lesbians to serve openly wouldn't harm the military. Now, his solicitor general is assigned to argue that it could cause "Irreparable harm." I understand the need for compromise, for politics is the art of the possible. This is a president who has also appointed openly homosexual people to high-ranking jobs. But this is just the sort of double-take that makes people wonder whether Clinton has more political skills than principles. Like many a good lawyer, he has the unsettling he is arguing against his own original beliefa. More to the point, this is a president who understands the culture of confession. As a candidate, this baby boomer was routinely compared habit of moving step by logical step until — favorably — to talk show host and guest. He first came into our living rooms talking about his marriage on 60 Minutes. Having passed that openness test he told us his feelings; about his stepfather's alcoholism, the abuse of his mother, and his half-brother's drug problems. He barely flinched when another half-brother popped up from the distant past. Like it or not, the tenor of times is openness and he sings like a tenor.

Don't Tell. Don't

Don't Make

Me Laugh.

This same president cannot possibly believe that a policy upholding the closet is going to work. Under the new rules, gays can serve as long as they can pass. In this nice, neat, theoretical world no one will ask a soldier about sexual orientation, nor will any soldier ever utter a forbidden word.

But silence is not golden in the 1990s, Silence is considered a taboo to be broken. This is not the Age of Innocence when discretion is everything and repression is valued. It's the age of Phil, Oprah, Sally,

Don't ask, don't tell will never survive. But thank you, anyway, as they say, for sharing.

Threat of nuclear terrorism grows

WASHINGTON - The two great fears in the U.S. intelligence community are a "spectacular" anti-American explosion by a Palestinian rejectionist group — and, a little farther down the road, the acquisition and possible use of a nuclear weapon by an Iranian-sponsored terrorist group.

Though there has been no "spectacular" terrorist incident in the United States since the World Trade Center bombing earlier this year, the United States continues to be the top target of terrorists, according to our sources in the Central Intelligence Agency and State Department.

The next most likely attack will come from one or more Palestinian rejeutionist groups aiming to foment dissent toward the PLO-Inrael accord signed at the White House in September. According to and because the United States has an extensive official and commercial presence overseas.

Last year alone, 40 percent of all international terrorist incidents were directed against the United States. The next most threatened countries were Israel, other Western democracies, moderate Arab governments and Latin American democracies. The most dangerous continued trend in terrorism is its support and sponsorship by countries that supply money, direction, training and safe haven. Without state sponsorship, many terrorist organizations would only be a ghost of their former selves and the chief terrorist danger in the future would focus on lone fanatics.

But Iran gets top honors. It stands out from the pack as the largest single terrorist threat and the country with the most extensive worldwide terrorism network.

Easily the greatest concern to the CIA is Iran's appetite for nuclear weaponry. Internally, the Iranian government's push for domestic nuclear bomb production is labeled "the great secret plan." Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani is speeding this Teheran-style Manhattan Project along, devoting more time and resources to it.

Most alarming, in the meantime, a highly classified report prepared for President Clinton by the CIA says there is a high probability that Iran has already acquired two nuclear warheads from a former Central Asian republic of the Soviet Union. The report says Iran is not believed to have a "delivery system" capable of using these warheads yet. These two bombs have a destructive capacity several times greater than the bomb used in Hiroshima in World War II.

Iran has reportedly already paid for four other warheads from the former Soviet republic of Kazakhstan, but these have not been delivered. The deal began with a visit by the republic's minister of Transportation to Teheran in April 1992. The following August. senior Iranian officials met with top Kazakh officials and consummated the plan. Iran has fully paid for the warheads, which Kazakh officials pretend have been destroyed as part of ongoing arms negotiations with Russia and the United States.

Rafsanjant's "great secret plan" for developing and producing indigenous Iranian nuclear bombs involves setting up competing centers for nuclear weapons production among different government agencies.

Gas tax helps boost inflation rate by 0.4 percent in October

By DAVE SKIDMORE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - A gasoline tax enacted by President Clinton and Congress last summer helped boost consumer prices by 0.4 percent in October, the worst increase in six months, the government said today. The rise in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index followed no change in September.

Despite last month's worrisome jump, economists say the recent upturn in economic activity has not been enough to end what has been the lowest sustained inflation since the 1960s.

The governor and legislative leaders have said they plan to take a long hard look at both the juvenile justice and adult criminal systems in the regular 60day session that begins in Feb-

Russell suggested, "We should get those boot camps for juvenile offenders started," he said, "and be certain the judges go along with the guidelines for these violations, rather than go off on their own and come up with differing punishments for various offenders." Currently, the key law dealing with teen-agers and guns merely says anyone under 16 must be with an adult while hunting.

Chiles wanted lawmakers to ban gun possession for those younger than 18 except for hunting and marksmanship.

Under the bill (CS-HB 91 C) the House and Senate passed Tuesday, that age limit is established with the hunting and marksmanship exemptions.

The Lill makes gan possession by a minor a first-degree misdemeanor, punishable by 100 hours of community service and a suspended driver's license. It also allows police to seize weapons when they catch armed teen-agers, something that can be done now only if a crime is being committed. Getting caught with a gun during the commission of a crime means a mandatory sentence of five days for a first offense and 10 days for a second offense under the legislation. The debate over a juvenile gun bill began a week ago when a special session, originally set for five days, opened. Lawmakers couldn't reach agreement on any of the major issues on their agenda and Chiles extended the session into this week.

The legislation calls for $900,000 to open up 121 detention beds starting in mid-April for violent teen-agers to be held up to three weeks before trial.

It also includes $1 million to oversee 100 hours of community service required for teen-agers convicted of gun possession and $4.6 million for residential programs.

Earlier Tuesday, the governor and Cabinet delayed action on a fund shift Chiles proposed two weeks ago. His plan was to use $3.2 million in unneeded welfare dollars and another $5.5 million already set aside for juvenile justice construction and programs to build residential programs that could hold 366 teen age extention by his y.

The governor and Cabinet have the authority to move the $3.2 million from one place in Plorida's $36 billion budget to another. House Speaker Bolley "Bo" Johnson said he asked for the delay in the fund shift vote because of concerns about Florida's financial condition. State economists expect to lower the predictions on the level of incoming tax revenues after meeting today. The shortfall could be as much as $92 million.

Chiles said if the expansion isn't funded, he'll take his $8.7 million plan back to the Cabinet in two weeks.

Commissioner A.A. Me-Clanahan observed, "The original lease on the building was designed so the city would receive more money than just rent. If we allow the building for something other than retail, we will be limited to the money we will be receiving in taxes."

"I'm willing to deal with proposals on the existing building." McClanahan said, "but I want something else for the additional property to bring some income into the city.

'Canes hope for reunion with ex-teammate Fortay

By STEVEN WINE AP Sports Writer

MIAMI - Quarterback Bryan Fortay will be back in the Orange Bowl and back on the bench Saturday.

"When your chance comes, you have to be ready to play. He must not have been ready to play," Sapp said. "Not too many bad decisions have been made around here about starting people. Why all of a sudden is his

Speedworld 'rolls over' into new season

By PAUL MARSEQUIA Special to the Herald

BITHLO. - Orlando Speedworld and FASCAR (Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing) opened the 1994 racing season Friday night with a wild evening of racing spiced with three rollovers and plenty of slam-bang action.

Dave Debelius scored his first Late Model win in three years in the 25-lap headliner.

Debelius was running in third position and closing on the lead duo of Ricky Wood and Tuffy Hester when Hester tapped and spun Wood. Both Wood and Hester went to the rear of the field for a restart with Debellus taking the point.

Debelius took the checkers four car-lengths in front of Forrest Goff. Goff. making just his second appearance at Orlando SpeedWorld, finished shead of Wood, Scott Reeves and Heater.

A wild Sportsman feature vic-tory went to Barbara Pierce as nearly every car in the field received some kind of damage in a long 15-lap affair.

Robert Eddleman, who won the heat race, scored a career

Governor's Cup on Nov. 27

By PAUL MARSEGLIA Special to the Herald

SAMSULA - The 29th annual 200-lap Governor's Cup Late Model Championship has been scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 27, at New Smyrna Speedway.

The Governor's Cup, halled as the Super Bowl of Late Model stock car racing in the Sunshine State, dates back to

The race was first hosted by the old Golden Gate Speedway In Tampa under Frank Dery's promotion. Haydon Burns, Florida's governor at the time, arranged for the trophy and a great tradition was begun.

The prestigious event is a memorial to Al Keller, a Buffalo, N.Y. transplant, who successfully campaigned stock cars, midgets and modifieds throughout Florida.

In 1961, Keller notched a Afth-place finish in the Indianapolis 500, from a 26th place starting position. That same year Keller lost his life at Phoenix, Arizona, after setting a new track record.

The race was conducted at Golden Gate Speedway until 1983. After a five-year layoff, it was resumed at the half-mile high banked oval of New Smyrna Speedway.

Top drivers and teams from throughout the Southeast usually compete in this event. Georgia's Bobby Gill is the three-time defending champi-

Showers took the checkered flag ahead of Wayne Shugart, Joe Hall, Gary Flynn and Mitch Kilpatrick.

In other divisions Friday night. Shane Williams grabbed the Pro Stock feature. Tom Mulligan claimed the Mini Stock main and Kenneth Hall took home top honors in the Hobby Stock finale.

Cook of the Week

Todd's recipes much like her life: planned

Cook of the Week Heather Todd might be young in years, however, this gal has her life completely planned out and has had since before high school. Having a close and supportive family as Todd does, makes reaching her goals that much casier.

"When I graduated from high school, I really thought about going to cosmetology school, getting my license and working towards owning my own beauty salon," she said. However, "once I did start taking the classes I felt more interest in the manicuring end of cosmetology than anything else." All-in-all, cosmetology turned out not to be Todd's life's calling, but she is licensed by the Board of Cosmetology, and this is how she will support herself while she's in college.

Career-wise and in cooking Todd has and will continue to follow in her mother's footsteps. Upon graduating from Halifax Medical Center, Todd will be a licensed radio graphic techni-cian, working in the field of nuclear medicine. Her mother is an intensive care registered

As for her cooking skills, they were learned by simply watching and being allowed to help mom out in the kitchen. With her mother being a gourmet cook thefe was just always something new to experience in the culinary arts. But when Todd explained her most memorable recollection as a little girl. she said, "I remember as a little girl I always felt so important as a cook because mom would let me mash the potatoes." "I was about 6 or 7 years old, but I still remember those feelings."

Todd much prefers baking to cooking a complete meal. "I ☐See Cook, Page 5B

Stop now; adultery is wrong, even if you are never caught

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to the same man practically all my life, and we have worked hard in our business. Together, we raised a family any parent could be proud of.

I had never looked at another man - until last year, when I fell head over heels in love. He's also married, we meet once a week at a motel for three hours of heaven.

My husband knows nothing about this, and neither does his wife. Sex with my husband to even better now. so it's not as though I am denying my husband anything.

I teach a class at church every week, but for some reason, I feel no guilt about our little trysts. By the way, I'm 63 and my lover is 59. Sign me...

DEAR GRANDMA: Although you appear to have ratonalized these little trysts very well, adultery is wrong - even if you never get caught. Should your luck run out the pain it could cause others would be a high price to pay for your weekly 'three hours of heaven."

A little unsolicited advice: Quit while you're ahead, Granny. DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, a Clifton, N.J. reader asked why people switched hands while eating with a knife and fork. This "etiquette" began in the British North American colonies for a very good reason.

Almost all of the colonists had grown up being taught to hold the fork in the left hand and the knife in the right. Such a lifelong habit is not easily abandoned.

Table knives in those days had very sharp edges and pointed tips to effectively deal with the meats that, by modern standards, were somewhat on the tough side.

As political opinions began to become more polarized between those loyal to the crown and those advocating rebellion, hosts (particularly in taverns and inns) found it advisable not to allow guests at tables to constantly have such a weapon in their right hands.

They insisted that the knife be used only for brief periods, when meat-cutting was required. And, to ensure that the knife wuld be place on the table (thus presenting less of a threat), that the fork be used with the right hand. While this did not eliminate all violence in the dining area, it did suffice to greatly reduce such incidents. To lay down the knife and occupy the right hand with another less lethal instrument became the symbol of peaceful intent, and was generally adopted. Robert F. Blackburn, VANCOUVER, WASH. DEAR ROBERT: Fascinating Thaks for the etiquette (and history) lesson.

Adjusting dosage of cholesterol drug

Mevacor for nearly two years for high cholesterol, but I am concerned about long-term usage affecting my eyes and/or liver. Since taking 20 mg. daily, I've also become a vegetarian, retired from a stressful job, and walk an hour or more a day. I've attempted to split the pills in half, but they simply crumble in several pieces. Your suggestions?

DEAR READER: Mevacor (lovostatin) is a cholesterollowering drug, which reduces the body's manufacture of the fat. The prescription medicine may cause liver inflammation that can be monitored by blood tests (before treatment begins, every six weeks for the first three months, every eight weeks for the first year and at sixmonth intervals thereafter). If the blood tests indicate progressive liver irritation. Meyacor should be discontinued.

Therefore, rather than (unsuccessfully) attempting to set your own dose. I urge you to work with your physician to 1.) discover the appropriate dose by monitoring blood cholesterol levels, 2.) further understand the necessity of drug treatment, 3.) undergo periodic blood tests of liver function, and 4.) continue to engage in healthful habits. such as exercise and a low-fat

Because Mevacor has also been reported to cause eye irritation and cataracts, you should pay regular visits to your ophthalmologist.

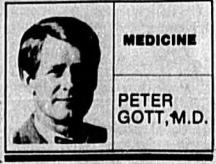

The usual dose of Mevacor is 20 to 80 milligrams a day. If your cholesterol is well controlled (below 200 mg. per deciliter) on 20 milligrams, you needn't break the pills to reduce the dose. Rather, you might be able to discontinue Mevacor entirely and rely on nonprescription methods, such as Niacin and Metamucil, to keep your blood fats in the normal range. Ask your doctor about

IN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

When someone gives you a bidding problem, you are always interested to know how your choice would have worked out in practice. But you must bear in mind that this is only one deal out of many that satisfy the auction. To get a realistic appraisal, you must carry out a computer simulation and analyze the generated deals.

Most of the September/October issue of Bridge Today magazine is given over to bidding problems. Each answer is supported by a full deal. And almost every time the editor seemed to argue that as his bid worked on the given deal, it had to be right.

Well, look at the East hand in the diagram. After three passes to you, do you open or throw the hand in?

According to the Rule of 15, you should pass. Add your high-card points to the number of spades you hold, and open in fourth chair if the total is at least 15. Here it is only 12. But in the magazine a deal is given where four hearts is laydown and the opponents have at best a 300point sacrifice.

I wonder what the editor would say if presented with my deal, where North-South can make six clubs and six spades! In the given auction, both West's and North's cue-bids show good support for partner.

South makes three no-trump comfortably by being careful to unblock dummy's high clubs. And how do East-West fare in a heart contract? The defense can take eight tricks: the diamond ace, three diamond ruffs, three spades and one club.

I am going to stick with the Rule of 15.
