Beer Bill, Sales Tax, Postal Revenues Included In Subjects Under Advisement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—Proponents of the Bingham four-percent beer bill wound up their arguments today with the announcement that labor will meet them on the subject and the statement that sentiment in Maine is undergoing a change for modification. Opponents will be heard next month.

An increase in postal rates to meet the prospective hundred fifty million dollar deficit in postoffice revenues was recommended by Postmaster General Brown. Exports were sent by the Treasury Department to Canada to study the manufacture sales tax. The House Ways and Means Committee was told the Canadian sales tax system is practical for the United States and it will bring a large federal revenue.

The Senate Finance Committee requested Secretary Stimson to furnish certain correspondence relating to the Barco oil concessions after the State Department had submitted telegrams with the oil matters eliminated.

The firm hand and genial forcefulness of Charles G. Dawes will guide the gigantic reconstruction corporation through its task of economic healing.

President Hoover announced yesterday that the brusque and distinguished soldier-statesman would head the emergency reconstruction corporation from Capehart House in a few days. It would begin its work of applying two billion dollars worth of soothing credit to the nation's business wounds.

The corporation all but had the full approval of Congress. Conference committees have the task of harmonizing the few divergent views of the two Houses on how the organization should function. Final agreement is not expected to be delayed.

To plan behind the corporation the federal measure of psychological support and public confidence, Mr. Hoover assigned the corporation's presidency to Dawes at the cost of an important change in America's foremost diplomatic personnel.

Axel Sjoblom, 68, Lake Mary Citizen, Is Victim Of Death

In the sudden death late yesterday of Axel E. Sjoblom, 68, Lake Mary lost one of its most prominent business and civic leaders, a pioneer resident for nearly 40 years.

Mr. Sjoblom, seized with a heart attack while inspecting a small grove near his home, fell to the earth and died before members of his family reached him.

Funeral services were announced pending the arrival of a daughter from Pennsylvania, but he will be buried in the Lake Mary cemetery.

Mr. Sjoblom was born in Finland, Sweden, coming to America and Lake Mary nearly 40 years ago. He owned in "colony" upon his arrival, and maintained a general store up to the present time. His real estate holdings were vast, although he sold considerable of his property during the past few years. Appointed postmaster of Lake Mary more than 15 years ago, Mr. Sjoblom had held that appointment to the present time.

FINAL DECISION IN CHARGE AGAINST MELLON STAYED

Committee Quick To Deny Matter Hasn't Been Pigeonholed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—A congressional jury of 23 yesterday held in abeyance its verdict on whether impeachment charges against Andrew W. Mellon warranted an investigation of the treasury secretary's official conduct.

Just after a table from President Olney, of Columbia, was read repeating Mellon's own denial of any conversations between the two on the Barco oil concession, the House Judiciary committee conducted hearings on Representative Patman's resolution seeking the secretary's removal on an allegation of illegal business connections.

The committee met briefly behind closed doors and Chairman Sumners then announced:

"We are going to wait the printing of the hearings. It was estimated this would require at least a week and perhaps longer. It will be applied for the record in a copy of the proceedings of the committee's deliberations. A list of the members of the committee will be published in the morning. The committee members, however, were quick to deny charges that (Continued on Page Six)

Opposition Voiced To Home Rule Rum Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—Opposition to the home rule liquor control proposal of Chairman John J. Raskin of the Democratic national committee was expressed yesterday by the Anti-Saloon League in a formal declaration.

The league, which said "prohibition is not a partisan political issue," expressed "confidence in the President of the United States" as the chief law enforcement officer.

"Let there be no mistake, Raskin home rule means eventually saloon rule," the league's declaration said.

The declaration of policy was made public last night at a banquet closing the prohibition organization's five-day convention.

It covered its primary points, opposing repeal, referendum, modification, state control, modification and beer proposals, and said "anti-saloonists are trying to saddle on the 'top' papers" expenses of their "selfish and hopeless" campaign.

SOUTH HONORS LEE'S MEMORY ON BIRTHDAY

Statue Of Great Military Figure Is Unveiled In Virginia; Eulogy Is Delivered

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—Virginia yesterday dedicated a statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in enduring frontage while the entire Southland joined in paying tribute to her illustrious son.

The heroic figure of the Confederate leader stood before a throng which packed the historic old hall of the Virginia House of Delegates yesterday just as Gen. Robert E. Lee stood on April 2, 1861, to accept command of the armed forces of Virginia.

Little Robert E. Lee IV, great grandson of General Lee, pulled the silken cord that withdrew the Confederate and Virginia flags from the statue. The ceremony was in the presence of a joint session of the Virginia general assembly, nine direct descendants of General Lee, a number of Confederate veterans, three members of the supreme court of the state and a long list of distinguished guests.

Gray Williams of Winchester, the orator of the day, said General Lee's military genius shone "like a sharp and shining sword" but that the Confederate leader reached his greatest heights of character in the extent of his armies.

"He had led the army in defeat at his own hand," Mr. Williams said. "He had led his people in defeat but his people adored him."

"But General Lee's failure was a moral success. He demonstrated that human virtue can be equal to human cunning; that failure can be the strength to justify the conduct of those who fall, the disloyalty of the sections into peace."

Lee met, but he saved his soul. The soul was like an Angelus. (Continued on Page Six)

FLOOD VICTIMS THREATENED BY FLANK ATTACKS

Mighty Mississippi Is Now Beginning To Show Signs Of Rise

GLENDORA, Miss., Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—Flooded residents of the Delta country who already have endured five weeks of water, yesterday were threatened by a flank attack from the mighty Mississippi.

Meantime the Coldwater, Tallahatchie and Yazoo rivers spread over additional acreage through the lumbering north and central delta levees with estimates of those driven from their homes running up to 37,000.

Until yesterday the Mississippi has remained neutral in the drive of the north and middle delta streams in which the water has overrun levee defenses at a dozen strategic points in seven counties.

The threat from the big river still is a passive one. It has overrun only a small area to the south of the flood district. Its principal contribution to the general difficulty is that with the Mississippi out of banks there is little or no place for the other flood waters to go.

The estimate of 37,000 homeless was made by the Memphis Evening Post. (Continued on Page Six)

Kiwanis Long's talk dealt with the practical value of Kiwanis to the member, the community, and the international club. He declared that not all the constitutions, by-laws, or ordinances ever written would be of value in prolonging the life of usefulness of the club if its members failed to seek the personal contact and fellowship which formed the basis of every successful club.

"Although I feel that our club has never known the enthusiasm and constructive thought and action which it now enjoys," he said, "let our new members I say 'let that which is feeling toward me in your heart; to our old members I say 'continue to make (Continued on Page Four)

Bilbo Ends Stormy Term As Governor; Conner Succeeds

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—Just past noon yesterday Theodore G. Bilbo rode out of office after four turbulent years as governor and Martin Sennett Conner, the smiling Irishman who blithely fought Bilbo politics and won, rode in.

Conner upset all precedent in Mississippi gubernatorial inaugurations by refusing to ride at the head of the inaugural parade with the outgoing governor.

Bilbo's automobile headed the parade through flag-draped streets of Jackson in the capital where the inaugural ceremonies were held. The Conner car was second in the parade.

Up to the another's stand the two political enemies were separated, but there Bilbo and Conner warmly shook hands and Bilbo expressed the wish that Conner's administration would mark a new day in the history of our state.

Conner in his inaugural address to 15,000 persons gathered, promised Mississippi an administration of economy and consolidation of administrative branches for the purpose of economy and "good government" at a time when the treasury is burdened with a huge deficit.

Governor Bilbo's last official act was to issue in the neighborhood of a hundred pardons. He announced he would enter the private practice of law in Jackson.

The defense counsel demanded a continuance of the trial.

James McGraw was another of the men picked up. Coast Guard officials said they did not learn the name of the third man.

A picket boat was sent from here and one from St. Petersburg to the assistance of the 61-foot yacht "Bee" reported aground near Alligator Key. RAIL EMPLOYEES ASK COMPANIES TO GIVE FIGURES

Unwilling To Accept Cut On Claim Of Inadequate Revenues

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—Railway workers asked the employers yesterday to explain why they thought a 10 per cent wage reduction necessary.

Labels, said the spokesmen of the rail wage reduction conference, was unwilling to accept arguments for wage reduction other than the claim of "inadequate return" on comparisons of the cost of living.

Instead, the union delegation suggested detailed explanation of the needs of the railroads, to meet their fixed charges and to maintain service.

"If the railroads desire the employees to give careful consideration" to the financial situation in favor of wage reductions, said H. Robertson, head of the rail presidents, "it would be advisable for the railroads to present a written compilation of what they regarded as important statistics."

The presidents agreed to submit such figures and the fifth session of the negotiations, the scheduled meeting this far, adjourned after an hour and 15 minutes.

Robertson, head of the Five men's Brotherhood and leader of the entire labor group, repeated a defense under the law.

"If there should appear in your mind a reasonable doubt as to the sanity of this defendant," would you hesitate to vote 'not guilty'?" defense counsel demanded of a jury.

The prosecution objected on grounds a jury should not be considered under the law as able to reach an adequate conclusion as to sanity of lack of it.

The defense argued: "All we have to do is to raise (Continued on Page Three)

House Committee To Consider Plan For Vote On Rum

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—The House Judiciary committee yesterday decided to consider on Feb. 10 the referendum proposal of the organized House members opposed to prohibition.

The measure has the support of the Republican anti-prohibition group led by Representative Beck of Pennsylvania, and that of the Democratic wet group led by Representative Linthicum, of Maryland.

It calls for a constitutional amendment which, if ratified by the people through conventions called for the purpose, would give the states control over liquor.

The federal government would regulate liquor in interstate commerce. Shipments from wet states into the dry prohibition zone would be prohibited.

Chairman Sumners of the judiciary committee said the proposals would be considered in executive session.

Meanwhile several members of the House anti-prohibition bloc testified before a Senate committee yesterday in favor of little introduced by Senator Birchard (R., Conn.), proposing that 4 per cent beer be legalized.

Among them were Representative Dickstein, New York Democrat; Representative Swancy, Ohio Democrat; Representative Cochran, Missouri Democrat; and Representative Sabath, Illinois Democrat.

Sabath said no other city in the nation had suffered as much as Chicago from prohibition, adding it was one of the most law-abiding and sober places in the country before enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment. Dickstein said an army could not enforce prohibition and urged return of beer.

The disease which is known as "the common cold" is a nuisance to many people. It is a disease which is caused by a virus, and is spread by contact with an infected person. The symptoms of the disease are a runny nose, a sore throat, and a fever. The disease is usually self-limiting, and will disappear within a few days. However, it can be a nuisance to many people, as it can interfere with their work and their social life. There is no cure for the disease, but there are many ways to prevent it. One way to prevent the disease is to avoid contact with infected persons. Another way to prevent the disease is to wash your hands frequently. These are the best ways to prevent the disease, and should be followed by everyone.

"LAND OF SUNSHINE" WILL BE BRIGHT SPOT AT CHICAGO EXPO

This picture shows a section of the Florida Exhibition Hall for the 1932 World's Fair. It is an artist's conception from which elaborations will be made. The size of the hall is 60x100 feet. There will be sixteen alcoves each taking care of some phase of Florida's activities. The material display will be in front and a diorama in the background of each will dramatize the subject matter in natural setting, color and perspective, many of the dioramas to be animated. Above will be sixteen panels, as a central painting depicting Florida historically and in perspective of events. The dioramas and panels will be available after the fair for a permanent exhibit in Florida. The ceiling will be a Florida sky with day-light and night effects. Looking through the entrance from the foyer the visitor will be confronted with a vista of palms and exotic plants, and at the far end a heroic figure of "Spirit of Florida" rising from an electric cascade. Over the entrance will be a daylight scene where a continuous 12-minute colored talking picture will further tell the story of Florida. The interior of the building will be finished in pecky cypress and a genuine rock. The picture as a whole will be highly dramatic and for its appeal as such visitors will praise it. There will not be a drab note in the entire ensemble.

Postponement Of Short Addresses Lausanne Parley Are Delivered By 3 Kiwanians Today

PARIS, Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—It appeared almost certain last night that Premier Laval would seek a postponement of the Lausanne conference called to determine what to do about German reparations. Meantime, the chamber of deputies put off until Thursday the business of voting confidence or non-confidence in the new Laval ministry.

In cabinet circles it was said it would be virtually impossible for the French to get through parliamentary business in time to appear at Lausanne next Monday, the date tentatively set for the beginning of the conference.

The premier, appearing before the chamber for the first time with his new government, flatly declared that France would not forego her right to reparations from Germany. He spoke after Fernand Bouisson, president of the chamber, had said that unless the creditors of France remitted a corresponding portion of the French debt, Paris would refuse to give up any of the reparations due her. The United States is the principal creditor involved.

The premier's parliamentary maneuvering was criticized from the left for what speakers called "dropping the bomb" in reference to the fact that in the new cabinet lineup the "A.A.A. of peace" was foreign minister for seven years has no place. Briand was not in his chamber seat.

PLANE STUNTS THRILL CROWD AT AIR MEET

(Continued from Page One) stration went away well pleased with the show," he said, adding, "personally I think it was an event long to be remembered, and that our field will be the meeting place for aviators from every section of America."

While there were numerous features on a long program presented yesterday afternoon, it remained for Wes Raymond, Lakeland aviator, to steal much of the thunder from the prominent out-of-state pilots present. Raymond took his silvered Kinner-Bird plane into the air near the end of the program and for half an hour put it through a series of tests which not only thrilled the spectator, but brought generous applause from every pilot on the field. Raymond set out to prove that a well-balanced and high-powered airplane could do the same things credited to an autogiro, including standing practically still in the air, climbing to a high point in quick order after a short run, and settling to earth almost as slowly as the autogiro. He brought his exhibition to an exciting close by making a dead-stick landing from 1500 feet, missing a designated spot on the field, by less than three feet.

Following closely on Raymond's heels in sharing the spotlight was the 25-mile race between three of the fastest ships on the field, the Gee-Bee sportster piloted by Al Nott, the tapered wing special Waco piloted by Art Davis, and the tiny Monocoupe piloted by H. A. Scott. The ships followed a circular course around the field, not more than 100 feet off the ground, at speeds estimated at nearly 170 miles an hour, with Nott winning by a small margin. It was probably the most thrilling of all the events, and the first air-race ever staged here.

Helen Fitzgerald, one of America's better known women pilots, opened the show with a series of difficult stunts at a height of 3000 feet. Then followed in order, formation flying by three Stinson planes piloted by G. Davis, Harold Reynolds, and E. S. Hensley; difficult stunt flying by J. O. Dockery, noted Texas aviator, who put a brand new Fleet plane through its first tests; outside loops, Immelman turns, snap-rolls, and other stunts by V. M. Snyder, well-known Kissimmee aviator. In his speedy Waco; stunt flying by Mrs. Freddie Lund, widow of the late pilot; in her Waco; a parachute jump by Floyd Stinson, of the Britton-Bayles circus, and a demonstration of the Pittsme autogiro, which simulated its performance by settling to earth slower than the parachute jumper.

Russ Brinkley, prominent radio announcer and editor of a Southern aviation magazine, kept the throng interested in a description of the planes, their pilots, and stunts, through a loud-speaking system installed on a truck. Brinkley has attended more than 240 air meets, and is well known to pilots up and down the coast. He answered numerous questions relating to aviation, and with Reo-De Brinkley assisting, played a large part in the success of the event.

Sanford's new field is now officially known as the air station, and with the completion of the new hangar, it will be a center of aviation activity for two or three days. J. J. Gossinger, manager of the post, will

Hoover Would Cut Own Salary, House Is Told By Solon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—President Hoover does not have a million dollar fortune but would voluntarily reduce his $75,000 a year salary if the wages of other government employees are cut. Rep. Will R. Wood, R., Ind., told the House yesterday.

"Mr. Hoover has made a lot of money but he has given it away," Wood explained.

Discussion of the president's wealth followed Wood's announcement he would introduce amendments to supply bills calling for reduction in federal salaries. In replying, Rep. Edward B. Almon, D., Ala., suggested "cut" should start at the top.

"I say that I have faith enough to believe that if the salaries of the federal employees are reduced, President Hoover will reduce his own salary," Wood said. "He has more than reduced it 10 times since this depression began by donations to charity he has made."

Rep. Joseph S. Cannon, D., Mo., interrupted Wood to ask if "it is not common rumor that he is worth many millions."

"Yes," Wood replied, "and I would say to the gentleman that I am informed that that is a mistake. Of course, that is a matter with which the gentleman and I have little concern but in an answer to it to set right the false impression that has gone over the country. I am informed the president is not worth a million."

THE WHIP IS IN YOUR HAND

When our grandmothers went shopping they were prepared to match their wits against the shopkeeper's. His was the whip-hand. Prices were anything the dealer had to pay, plus a profit. And his profits were as elastic as his necessity—or opportunity.

Our grandmothers had a very fine knowledge of woollens, cottons, silks. They used their eyes and fingers in buying. They tasted and sniffed at foodstuffs. Our grandfathers knew an intimate lot about woods, veneers, stans. They knew leathers and machinery and cutlery. They had to.

Today you can shop with assurance by designating this brand of this and that brand of that, and hardly bother to check the price on the bill when it comes. You can send a twelve-year-old to market with a note and never have a doubt of kind, quality or price—if you buy advertised goods.

Advertising has established standards, established values and established confidence. Advertising forces fair dealing and honest merchandise. It puts the whip in your hand.
