Split County Seen In New Tax Area

By LARRY NEELY

The Orange-Seminole legislative delegation will be asked by the Seminole County Commission to submit a bill to the state Legislature which would allow the establishment by referendum of a second hospital taxing district. The action was passed by the County Commission Tuesday night with only Edward Yarborough in opposition. Al Davis said he is in favor of letting the voters decide but could not take a position on the matter until he has further information.

Both districts, if the measure is approved by the Legislature and is subsequently approved by the voters on the November 1972 general election ballot, will be committed to the retirement of an original bond issue through 1983 and also any commitments such as the recently authorized expansion of the laboratory and intensive care unit at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

John Kimbrough said the purpose of the two taxing districts, which would roughly divide the county by an east-west line running through Five Points, would be to relieve people from taxes for services they do not receive.

Kimbrough said, according to a study by a university graduate student and supported by statistics provided by Hospital Administrator Robert Bessner, only five per cent of the hospital load is generated in the south end of the county while 25 per cent is generated by South Volusia County residents and the remainder coming from the north Seminole County area.

Harold Johnson Reported In Line For County Prosecutor's Position

By BILL SCOTT

The Sanford Herald has learned that Harold Johnson, County Commission attorney now being relieved of his duties by the Commission, will be named to the post of county prosecutor by Gov. Reubin Askew as a replacement for Kenneth McIntosh, who soon will resign.

Johnson, contacted today by telephone at his home and asked about the report, admitted having informal conversations with McIntosh concerning the disclosure but said he does not want to speculate on anything.

"I'm still working for the county and I have not been contacted by Tal-lahassee," the attorney said.

Johnson's tenure with the County Commission ends Nov. 2, when E. Thom Rumberger, unsuccessful candidate for Florida attorney general in 1970, will take the reins of handling the County Commission's legal affairs.

Johnson said he could not deny there had been some conversation concerning the appointment, but added, "This was only on an informal basis." He was hesitant to discuss the report and explained that McIntosh had not announced he is resigning, and any word on the matter should come from him. (The Herald attempted to contact McIntosh but was informed the prosecutor was in court and unavailable for comment.)

According to reliable sources, the Governor is expected to appoint Johnson since his name has been submitted by the Seminole County Askew patronage committee.

Rezoning Protests Scheduled

By MARION BETHEA

The meeting of the County Planning and Zoning Commission at 7:30 p.m. tonight promises to be controversial with several delegations anticipated to protest some of the public hearing items.

Possibly raising the most protest will be a delegation from Hidden Estates on SR 436, east of I-4. A spokesman for the residents, Myron Lowenthal contends there have been "secret operations" for rezoning to permit condominiums and commercial buildings on 134 acres owned by HI-Acres adjacent or behind Hidden Estates.

The public hearing will be held on a request for a proposed zoning change from A-1 agriculture to PUD (planned unit development) on property south of the southerly right-of-way of SR 436 and parts of Hudson Park. The request is being made by HI-Acres, Inc.

Also expected to cause contention are three requests for zoning changes by Francis Tompkins in the Winter Woods subdivision.

Tompkins, in the first reading, is requesting a zoning change from R-3 multiple family to C-2 commercial on property located at the southwest corner of SR 436 and Winter Woods Boulevard.

The second request is for a zoning change from A-1 agriculture to C-2 commercial on property located at the southwest corner of SR 436 and Winter Woods Boulevard.

The first request by Tompkins is for a zoning change from A-1 agriculture to CN (neighborhood commercial) on property located on the south side of Winter Woods Boulevard, east of the intersection with SR 436, containing about 30 per cent of 110,000 sq. ft. for that is what we need. This year, let's give the agencies what they ask for and what they desperately need."

The recreation center would be located adjacent to the present ball field.

Councilman Charles Kelley assailed the defunct civic association, noting that it had built expectations to a pinnacle and then "died down." Kelley questioned who, assurance the village will have the present group will eliminate its plans.

Mrs. James Palmer, wife of the village building inspector, said the association has among its members many qualified craftsmen who will be willing to assist in the building. It also was stated several county firms have agreed to donate materials.

UF Reaches 42% Of Current Goal

Forty-two per cent of its goal "71 in '71" was reached this morning in the United Fund's current campaign when division chairmen chalked up totals at a breakfast meeting of the Oviedo Rotary Club at the Town House restaurant.

"But," Robert Morris, campaign chairman, said, "we're not going to talk about the 71 — let's just say that 10 per cent of our real goal of 110,000."

The jump of $7,000 over last week's total $22,307.36 to $29,343.50 came from the major contributions of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and its employees, and a pledge of $1,500 from Jack Ledoux, general manager of the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club.

Russell Kiner, representing the Communications Workers of America, reported his drive in the Southern Bell plants department is 50 per cent complete with 11 "fair shares" totaling $1,265.

Robert Shelden announced the Southern Bell's company gift would be $750. In addition, $863.80 was 100 per cent participation.

The Kennel Club's pledge will be handed over after its Charity Night slated for March 30. This year's pledge is up $500 from last year. However, records indicate that Ledoux presented

Fringe Operators Being Pushed Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House drove toward a decision today on a consumer protection bill that backers say will help chase "fringe operators, fly-by-night and the quick buck artist" out of America's marketplace.

Willis said the incident was probably the result of the ambulance service having a different payment policy in Seminole County than it does in Orange County where the ambulance run originated because the South Seminole based ambulance was busy. Commission Chairman G.W. Drummond reported the Orange County driver "must be doing an awful lot of business in Seminole County" because of several other incidents brought to the attention of the Commission.

Action Follows Charges Against Herndon County Probes Ambulance Service

The Seminole County Commission's administrative assistant, Rodney Laver, will be investigating charges leveled against Herndon Ambulance Service of Orlando that the ambulance firm has been requiring payment in advance for transportation to hospitals despite a $22,500 subsidy being paid by the county to assure the concern of a profitable operation in Seminole County.

The action was a result of Herndon representative Idus E. Willis' appearance before the Commission Tuesday to explain circumstances surrounding one incident brought to the attention of the Commission by Commissioner Edward Yarborough. Yarborough had told the commission Assistant Police Chief Wesley T. Place of Oviedo had called him to report a woman had fallen and injured herself. According to Yarborough, Place continued Herndon was summoned to the scene but would not take the woman to the hospital until she had paid the $35 ambulance fee.

Willis said the incident was probably the result of the ambulance service having a different payment policy in Seminole County than it does in Orange County where the ambulance run originated because the South Seminole based ambulance was busy. Commission Chairman G.W. Drummond reported the Orange County driver "must be doing an awful lot of business in Seminole County" because of several other incidents brought to the attention of the Commission.

Supreme Court Mum On Viet War Legality

By HARRY SHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — New school desegregation disputes head by the Supreme Court. Despite two vacancies, the court handed down more than 400 orders Tuesday, the first round of decisions of the 1971-72 term.

Several cases were appealed challenging the constitutionality of U.S. military action in Southeast Asia and the government's "public safety plan" for giving minority groups construction jobs.

The war test, brought by civil liberties lawyers, was rejected 5 to 2. The court has consistently spurned suits that contend soldiers cannot be sent to Vietnam without a congressional declaration of war.

The Philadelphia plan, devised by the Labor Department in 1960, requires contractors to hire a specified percentage of blacks and other minorities. Similar plans are in effect in the District of Columbia, San Francisco, St. Louis and Atlanta, and the issue is likely to spread.

WASHINGTON (AP) — After winning organized labor's cooperation in his post-freeze economic controls, President Nixon turned today to lining up members for two key boards that will vote on future wage-price increases.

The 90-day wage-price freeze due to expire Nov. 12, is becoming crucial on the appointments. The boards must be operating with wage and price guidelines developed by that time.

The White House said membership on the 15-member Pay Board and the 7-member Price Commission will be announced soon. Some potential members contacted "are not particularly interested," said one official.

Florida Legislators-Time For '72 Homework

Confronting the 1972 state legislature will be issues which are basic, essential, controversial and worthy of careful study, honest judgment and action which will not embarrass.

The elected senators and representatives will be convening with the rather unfortunate record of the 1971 sessions which were widely proclaimed as the "best prepared" and turned out to be most expensive.

True, this is only October. True, there are changes in the political climate which will take place before the day the solons convene.

True, the trial run of an early presidential preference primary will produce a plethora of words and promises from hopefuls which will taint the air with partisanship.

But the hard fact remains that the legislators were elected to legislate. Law making is a demanding and precise operation. Mistakes made in the writing of laws are part of the over-loading of the courts.

The 1972 legislature will not be able to avoid action on the reform of the judiciary which has been an obvious duty since the state constitution was written with the exception of the judiciary article.

Certainly this is a prickly but not many fingers will be pricked. But the continuing proof that, in many instances, the courts are resorted to when laws are contested makes reform of an archaic, overlapping judiciary critical.

Gov. Reubin Askew's commitment to tax reform so that a fair share of this burden will be born in a more equitable manner than at present, will have come to a peak when the public votes on the constitutional referendum allowing a corporate profit tax to be levied.

Regardless of the result (and we strongly support a YES vote on the referendum) the legislature will have to do something to make the raising of tax funds equal to the unavoidable expenditures of the state government.

In this respect there are growing signs that, even among their own ranks, there needs to be a much harder hand laid on the spending of tax dollars. Even a cut in the legislators' salaries has been proposed by one of the recipients.

Responsible legislators have spoken out during these between-sessions months pointing to the one department which spends the most money, has had the highest percentage of increase, and is wrestling with a problem which is not peculiar to Florida, but which is in an acute stage here.

We refer to education. Piling bureaucracy on bureaucracy has been a process which must be stopped. Search for some sort of a "productivity" standard must be made by professional experts, unaligned with the teachers' lobby.

There is another approach to their obligations as elected representatives of the public which old hands in Tallahassee recognize.

This is the adoption of a standard of values which the representatives can detect the difference between the public interest and the private interest, sound information and propaganda, solid facts of expert researchers and the allurement of public relations people.

We believe that the state legislators will be confronted next year with the greatest of opportunities to marshal the considerable talents which exist within their ranks and be well enough prepared to do their jobs as they themselves would wish, if not on the public payroll.

Only time will tell. Right now there are no "leaks" from this authoritative source!

'Tomato' Invited To View Florida Tomatoes

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The chairman of the Florida Tomato Committee wants Miss America of 1941 to come to Florida and find out what makes a "really good tomato."

J. S. Peters says he will invite Bess Myerson, the former beauty queen and present television hostess, to personally inspect the state's tomato crop so she can correct what he contends is a misconception about the tasty vegetable.

Miss Myerson, acting in her capacity as New York City's consumer affairs commissioner, Saturday accepted Florida tomato growers' offer of the public "inferior" green tomatoes which are gassed with a chemical to turn them red.

Miss Myerson also implied that there was a conspiracy between Florida growers and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to keep what she called "delicious, higher quality" Mexican tomatoes off American grocery shelves.

"Her statement was rather upsetting," Peters said Tuesday. "We expect to invite Miss Myerson and other consumer groups to observe our product during our next producing season."

"We realize that we need the support of consumers to survive. But we feel that their (consumers') statements are based on a misconception of not only the relation of Florida growers to the Secretary of Agriculture, but of what constitutes a really good, palatable tomato."

In her formal statement, Miss Myerson complained of a procedure where the Florida Tomato Committee — made up of the state's tomato growers — make recommendations to the Secretary of Agriculture on what state tomatoes can be shipped.

She said Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin relies heavily on the committee's recommendations and, as a result, a size limit is established which discriminates against smaller Mexican tomatoes. She charged that Hardin is "setting up a protective trade barrier all by himself."

Peters scoffed at the allegation. "The facts will show that the secretary has been very reluctant to initiate the recommendations of the committee and has only done so after delays which had no explanation and cost the industry in Florida an untold amount of money."

Meanwhile, a public hearing to consider a proposed amendment on the present tomato control procedure is in its second week in Orlando and Peters predicted it would drag on for another three weeks.

"It's moving very, very slowly," he said. "It's impossible to think that anyone can talk about tomatoes for that long, but it looks like that's what we're going to do."

Dickinson Neutral On Askew Tax

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Gov. Reubin Askew wasn't happy when Comptroller Fred Dickinson declined to endorse the proposed corporate income tax, but Askew wished him to do so, said Dickinson's job adviser.

The governor jumped on the Cabinet member at Tuesday's meeting when Dickinson quietly announced he would abstain from voting on a resolution endorsing Askew's corporate tax.

The resolution passed 60-2. Dickinson, who earlier sent out news releases saying he had to maintain "a position of neutrality" because he was state banking commissioner, seemed content to make no comment at the meeting.

But Askew was loaded for bear.

"His position neutral in regard to the Board of Education of which you are a member? Is it neutral in regard to the Board of Natural Resources?"

The governor went on to reprimand Dickinson, as a Cabinet member, has some say. They all have need for new dollars which the $100-million-a-

Earned Laurels

One of the abiding rewards of a local newspaper, such as we are, is to record in the news columns and comment on this page when a worthy, needed and important effort by conscientious citizens succeeds.

We refer to the expanded clinic of the Seminole Mental Health Center on Robin Road in Altamonte Springs.

In these facilities this voluntary non-profit community corporation serves children, adolescents and adults. Its broad program embraces various kinds of therapy, diagnostic services, drug abuse, alcoholism, rehabilitation with consultation and education.

To state that this is an essential need for any community, but especially so when an area such as Seminole County is being stretched by an influx of newcomers, is nothing remarkable, which have resulted in this forward step are recalled. It is an achievement which, in itself, recalls some of those who were trailblazers.

One of these was Dr. Frank Leone, former county health officer, whose promotion of such a clinic did not have the force or the drive which was needed. But he was a pioneer and should be so remembered.

We shall not forget the years when Ann Siczekowski was president of the Sanford Woman's Club and had for the project which this organization would promote — mental health.

Naming Dr. Leone and Mrs. Siczekowski as pioneers does not cover that group which, within government, had detected this need and started the movement of which the clinic is now a visible result.

We have been and will continue to be a supporter of this attack on mental illness and we quote here that what clinics this comment today is, in truth, only a beginning.

We pay tribute to those who are in the forefront of operations and even more so to the supporters who provide the inspiration and — even more so — the muscle to keep the motion forward, never on dead center.

Phase II Restraints Have Club

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The peril for President Nixon in Phase II of his new economic policy is this: Imposing economic controls in peacetime is like fighting a limited war. Since survival is not clearly at stake, it is very difficult to get broad acceptance of the need for heavy personal sacrifice.

Fundamentally, the President is instituting a system of voluntary restraints on wages and prices. But with the club of government enforcement against violators standing visible in the corner.

The voluntary feature is the obvious price paid to organized labor for his cooperation. The men and workers — not understanding the crises in inflation and unemployment.

Secondly, the heritage of that unrestrained period at war's peak may tend to sour if not by a third element in the present climate. It may be a consequence of affluence but the people of this nation have come to expect steadily rising economic rewards without regard to performance.

Those maladjustments were frozen by the President in the 90-day freeze set in Phase I. But the clamor will be loud when the freeze ends Nov. 12, to permit increases in the earlier excesses.

There will also be immense pressure from unions whose existing contracts contain systematic wage escalation features which were rendered temporarily inoperative in Phase I.

And many businesses will be whooping for big price boosts on the ground the material and other costs have risen, even though wages have largely been held firm in recent months.

The new-born price commission and pay board will be functioning from guidelines fixed by them, to judge what post-Nov. 12 increases may be reasonable. But the circumstances here set a forth make it plain their task will be monumental.

It will be made still tougher by a third element in the present climate. It may be a consequence of affluence but the people of this nation have come to expect steadily rising economic rewards without regard to performance.

Those maladjustments were frozen by the President in the 90-day freeze set in Phase I. But the clamor will be loud when the freeze ends Nov. 12, to permit increases in the earlier excesses.

There will also be immense pressure from unions whose existing contracts contain systematic wage escalation features which were rendered temporarily inoperative in Phase I.

And many businesses will be whooping for big price boosts on the ground the material and other costs have risen, even though wages have largely been held firm in recent months.

The new-born price commission and pay board will be functioning from guidelines fixed by them, to judge what post-Nov. 12 increases may be reasonable. But the circumstances here set a forth make it plain their task will be monumental.

It will be made still tougher by a third element in the present climate. It may be a consequence of affluence but the people of this nation have come to expect steadily rising economic rewards without regard to performance.

Profit-Making Groups Helping

By KENNETH J. RABEN

A year ago September, 27,000 public school pupils nationwide, most in months or more behind in reading and arithmetic, turned to private enterprise for help. They were part of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity's $10 million experiment in making schools accountable for results known as performance contracting.

As the year progressed, periodic tests showed little pupil improvement in 38 schools. Systems awarded contracts with six firms. The one-year experiments were in all types of communities, including Harford, Conn.; the Bronx; Philadelphia; Jacksonville, Fla.; Dallas and Seattle.

Nearly a million dollars is being spent this fall to test pupils in experimental programs that include a substantial number of minority group youngsters and to compare their growth with an equal number of children receiving conventional training.

In December January when the analysis is released, the public may learn whether performance contracts provide an effective alternative to traditional schooling, it could bring about a major structural change in education.

Under a performance contract, a private, profit-making firm, or a teacher organization as in Mesa, Ariz., and Stockton, Calif., accepts payment based on improving each pupil's achievement. The firm or organization is to be paid for a one-year improvement in reading and arithmetic.

Rip Taylor "Tells 'Em The Truth"

By DON FREEMAN

Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD—"I know this girl who went on a diet," Rip Taylor confided. "Nothing but garlic and limburger cheese. She didn't lose any weight, but she looks like she's from a distance."

That's Rip Taylor for you, a handy man with a quip and one of the more familiar comedy faces on the talk show circuit, from the Steve Allen Show to Mary Griffin to Johnny Carson to Mike Douglas to Virginia Graham and so on. Rip is also impressively visible as a semi-regular on the Dean Martin Show wherein he turns up as Dino's barber.

In common with any number of good comics, Rip has been around for years and has lately taken Nobody Sleeps with the Rip Taylor works in his usual engaging state of rowdy tumult.

"First I have to get their attention," Rip was saying, referring to an audience. "I ring a bell and squirt saltwater at them and then I'm in the air and carry on with my silliness. Once I have them listening, I tell 'em the truth."

"What kind of truth?"

"Real truth," Rip said. "For instance, it isn't generally known that the smog which often blankets cities is now occurring even at the north pole."

"You're kidding," I said, repeating a phrase I have heard once or twice on television.

"At the north pole?" Rip persisted. "And if the smog comes up there, it could make the place uninhabitable!"

How, I wondered, did he acquire the nickname of Rip? "When your name is Charles Elmer Taylor, you have to do something about it," Taylor explained.

"At first, when I became a comic, I worked as Charlie Taylor. Then Chuck Taylor and then Charles Taylor. People said to me, 'That's no name for a comedian.' So I became Rip and my surname changed."

"But why Rip?"

"Don't you get it?" Taylor asked, astonished. "It's a play on the word Taylor and tailor. A tailor leaves you in stitches. Stitches—rips. Hence—Rip. But it's a funny word. It just has a funny sound."

Then he frowned indignantly. "But enough of such solemn discourse," he cried. "Did you hear the one about the farmer who crossed a Brussels sprout with a leak? He got a leaky sprout. Do you want to hear some more 'creasing' jokes?"

"Well, not exactly," I said. "All right," Rip breathed on. "You heard about the fellow who crossed an owl with a snunk? It still smells, but it doesn't give a host."

Projections For The Future Machines Speed News

The mechanics of gathering and distributing news are changing rapidly. In the following article I, William Hill, chairman of the New Technology Committee of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association and Associate Editor of The Washington Star, discuss some projections for the future.

By I. WILLIAM HILL

For the benefit of their readers, newspaper editors these days are taking giant steps into an area that, for them, is as exotic as the moon.

They are entering a bewildering world they've always left to production experts. It's a world of fast-as-light computers, fast-as-thought cathode ray tubes and fast-as-mind optical character readers. It's a world they know they have to face if they're to protect their readers in a life that's always accelerating.

It's only in the past few years that science has invaded the newsroom, not always with a welcome. Some stand pat editors scoff at the impersonal invader and groan "Oh, no!" At the same time, just behind them, stand young-in-spirit editors ready with a "Wow!" All the while, however, even the stand-patters have begun to sense that newsroom practices are changing at a rate that guarantees more change in the next 10 years than in the last 100.

They've all had to realize the time spiral is one of acceleration. It took four months for word of the South's Civil War surrender to reach her last continental ship. But, when President Kennedy was assassinated, most of the world knew it almost immediately. Even the most conservative editor will admit the day of the quill pen flourished and died. What he has to face now is the fact that the same thing can happen to his typewriter.

To prepare for tomorrow's newspapers, more than 110 editors from all over the country have accepted an invitation by the New Technology Committee of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association to get together Oct. 18, 1971, and pool their technological knowledge. On that date, an all-day seminar is planned at Philadelphia's Bellevue Stratford Hotel as a preliminary to the annual APME Convention, Oct. 19-22.

Not quite three years old, the New Technology Committee, composed of 40 editors, has already developed some firm ideas. Most of them believe, for example, that the newspaper of the year 2000 will resemble today's newspaper but it will be prepared, printed and distributed by entirely different processes.

Members of the committee are free with their long-range predictions also. Here are some of them:

1. Instead of files containing photographs and negatives, pictures will be stored and instantly retrievable in a computer.

2. Instead of files containing news, news will be stored in a computer.

3. Instead of files containing news, news will be stored in a computer.

Moscow Visit By Nixon. No Surprise To Anyone

BY KENNETH J. FRED WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's announcement that he will attend a summit conference in Moscow next May should have come as no surprise, say U.S. officials and foreign diplomats.

"It is a logical extension of the growing improvement in American Russian dealings since Nixon took office," one diplomat said. "The only surprise is that so few people were talking about the possibility. One of those who did talk in advance about such a trip was Soviet Communist party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, who U.S. sources say had been discussing a Nixon visit with several people for several weeks.

But whether it should have been a surprise, the fact is that Nixon did catch many people off guard when he announced unexpectedly at the routine Tuesday morning news briefing that he had agreed to the trip.

"The leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union in their exchanges during the past year, have agreed that a meeting between them would be desirable once sufficient progress had been made in negotiations at lower levels.

"In light of the recent advances in bilateral and multilateral negotiations involving the two countries, it has been agreed that such a meeting will take place in Moscow in the latter part of May 1972.

Following reading of that announcement, released at the same time in Moscow, the President told questioning newsmen he had agreed to the Moscow summit because of the possibility of making significant progress.

Although he declined to detail what areas will be discussed with the Soviet leaders, Nixon indicated the talks will cover arms control, the Middle East, a European security conference and a balanced, mutual troop cut in Central Europe.

Nixon was specific in outlining the areas of progress he said led to the summit talk agreement.

"We have had a treaty with regard to the seabeds. We have had one with regard to biological weapons. We have had an agreement coming out of the SALT talks (strategic arms limitation talks) with regard to the hotline and accidental war and, of course, most important of all—and I think this is the item that, for both of us and for them, led us to conclude that now was the time for a summit meeting—we have had an agreement on Berlin."

What made no difference in setting on a Moscow summit in May, the President declared emphatically, was his plan to visit mainland China before that month.

"The two," he said, "are independent trips. We are going to Peking for the purpose of discussing matters of bilateral and the Soviet Union . . . concern there. And I will be going to the Soviet Union for the purpose of discussing matters that involve the United States and the Soviet Union . . ."

Candid Chatter

GLENN TURNER FAN-tastic!

Camaraderie is the word to describe THE party of the season!

Guest of honor was pretty ELAINE GUTMAN, who could have easily been celebrating "sweet sixteen."

Host with the most for the occasion was Elaine's husband, DR. E. MICHAEL GUTMAN (Miss the "ah-ha's" for short, who readily admits he enjoys the Maverick role on occasion).

Site for the birthday gala was the vast but remote Gutman spread out in the "boomer" on Longwood Markham Road, where shades of the wild, wild west were reflected in the rustic and quaint decor, including old lanterns for lighting with the great outdoors (yes, real trees) brought inside for further pioneer effects.

The guest list (over 200) included Bobo, Feds, spies and slouches and a host of doctors, lawyers, merchants and for all I know a few Indian Chiefs.

It was a night when the dress code ran rampant . . . flares, boots, denim, mod, minis, mid, elegant formals, way-out pants with the more reserved keeping it conventional.

Elaine greeted the guests wearing a colorful print formal pants costume, fashioned with a fitted black top.

Order of the evening was eat, drink and be merry!

Center of attraction was the saloon on the patio adjoining the pool where guests were served their favorite liquid refreshments (blended to perfection, "nach" in mason jars, "Chug-A-Lug!"

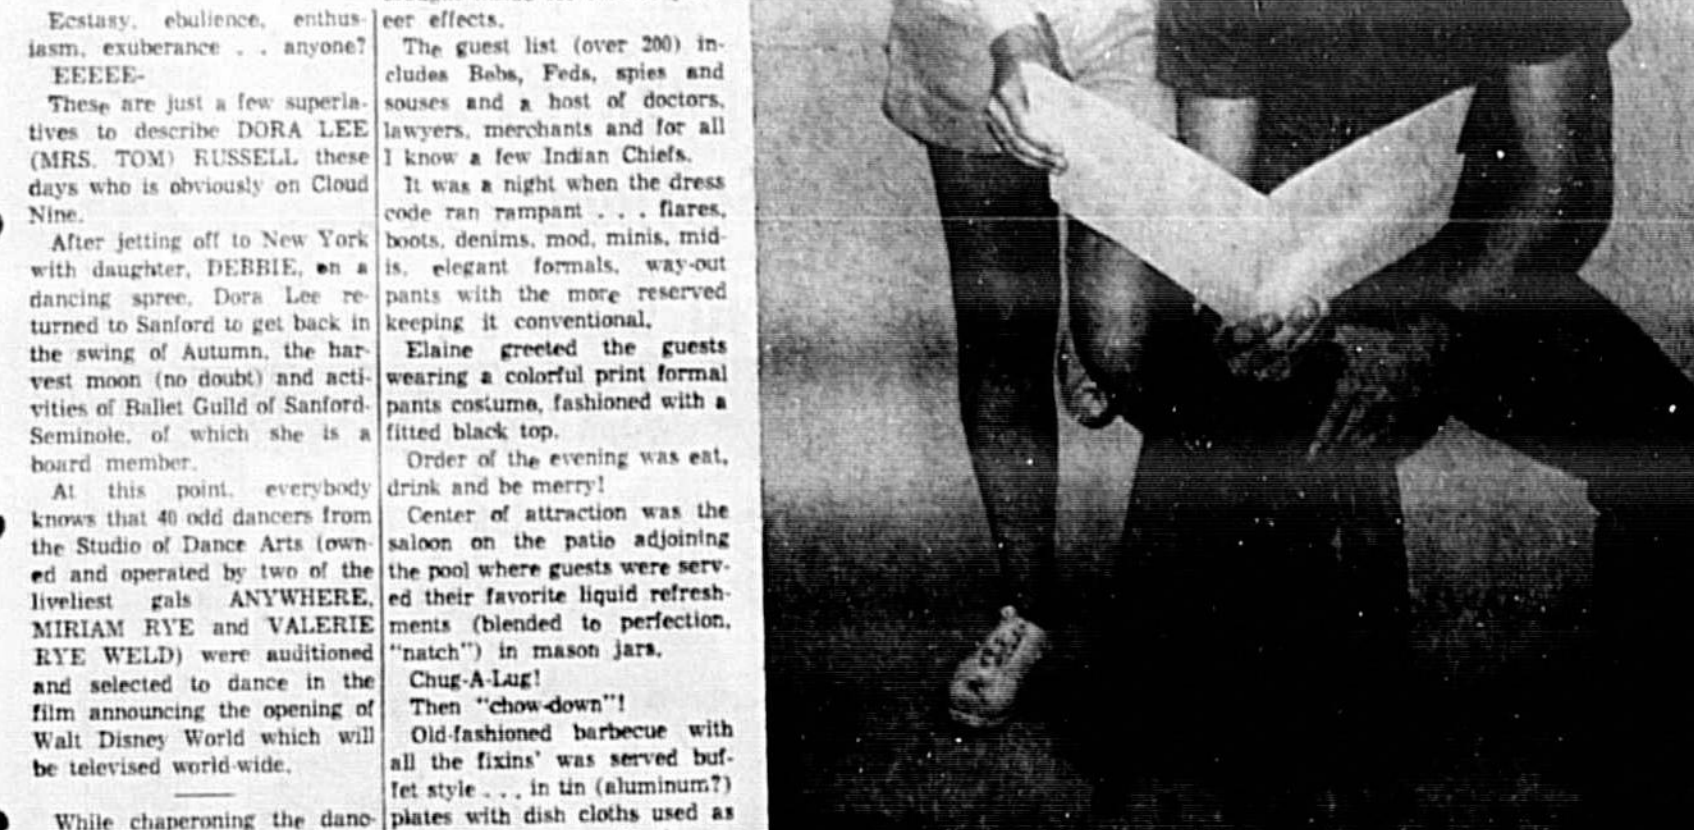

Then "chow-down"! Old-fashioned barbecue with all the fixins' was served buffet style . . . in aluminum? plates with dish cloths used as napkins . . . most effective . . . and I might add a lot of hard work, plenty of thought and quite a few "bills" went into the makings of this successful party.

Guests were mostly from Orange County but among those on the list from Seminole were (and I am sure to inadvertently omit several) MR. and MRS. ARTHUR BECKWITH, MR. and MRS. GUY ALLEN, MR. and MRS. JOHN CARLI, MR. and MRS. GREG DRUMMOND.

Also DR. and MRS. JORGE GOMEZ, DR. and MRS. NICK PASTIS, JUDGE and MRS. THOM RUMBERGER, JUDGE and MRS. DOMINICK SALTI, MR. and MRS. SID VILLEN and JIM RYAN with JUNE LORMANN.

Also DR. and MRS. MITCHELL SHAPIRO, DR. and MRS. EARL WELDON, MR. and MRS. KEN LEFFLER, DR. and MRS. FRANK CLONTZ and DAN KIRKPATRICK with YOURS TRULY.

Boy Kills Mother's Tormentor

MIAMI (AP) — A 12-year-old boy Tuesday shot and killed a man who had beaten his mother and was chasing her across a parking lot, police said.

Dade County officers said Earlean Shorter and a male companion, 40-year-old Willie Pearson, went to a lumber yard where Pearson worked to pick up some handling.

Mrs. Shorter began backing her car out of the lumber yard gate before Pearson told her to, and he became enraged and jumped into the car, police said.

Pearson began striking Mrs. Shorter while her son, Lovoy, and his 9-year-old sister, Tony, watched from a back seat.

As Mrs. Shorter leaped from the car with Pearson chasing her, the boy took a pistol from his mother's purse and yelled for Pearson to "leave my mother alone," officers said.

The boy then raised the gun and fired, striking Pearson in the back. Pearson collapsed and died.

The boy was not charged, police said.

Psst! Your Gestures Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Communicating with gestures began with the cave man, but recognizing the true meanings of gestures is something people have just begun to do, says Glenn Feldman, co-author of a book called "How To Read a Person Like a Book."

"People give off all kinds of non-verbal clues about what they're really thinking," Feldman says. "For instance, people don't like to lie and they practically tell you when they do it. One might put his hand over his mouth, cough or turn his body to the side.

"Or a politician might say, with his hands open, 'I love the youth of this nation,' then add one hand pounding the other. They're the most patriotic of us all—giving off with his hands, the clues that he doesn't mean what he's saying at all."

Nierenberg says his book is the outgrowth of sessions he conducted in the art of negotiating. "We began doing video tapes of the sessions," he explains, "and people started recognizing the meanings of gestures—first the other person then their own. And they began to understand how the right interpretation of gestures can help at communicating."

For instance, in a negotiating situation, Nierenberg distinguishes between two attitudes—open and closed. A person with an open attitude would sit on the front of a chair, lean forward on his toes and not have his arms closed. But a person with a closed attitude would sit back in his chair, feet flat on the floor and have locked arms.

Festive Halloween Recipes

by CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We had a pre-Halloween rehearsal. We tested Creamy Orange Punch and Halloween Cookies before October 31, so we could pass along the recipes to you well ahead of the merry-making occasion.

Both the drink and the cookies were thoroughly enjoyed by our tasters. However, you want to skip making the creamy beverage, consider serving orange-flavor Hawaiian punch just as it comes from the can. It is a blend of seven natural fruit juices and has the same amount of vitamin C as a comparable amount of orange juice. It's such a brilliant orange color that it is right in tune with Halloween.

CREAMY ORANGE PUNCH
2 cups orange-flavor Hawaiian punch, chilled (from a 48-ounce can)
1 quart vanilla ice cream
1 pint orange sherbet
Put half the punch, half the ice cream and half the sherbet in an electric blender; blend until ice cream and sherbet are melted. Pour into glasses. Repeat using remaining ingredients. Serve at once with straws.

HALLOWEEN COOKIES
2 1/2 cups unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup (1/4-pound stick) butter or margarine
1/2 cup vegetable shortening
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup very finely chopped walnuts
On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder and salt.
In a large mixing bowl cream butter, shortening and brown sugar; beat in egg. Stir in flour mixture and walnuts. Wrap dough in transparent plastic wrap and chill until firm enough to roll—about 1 hour.

On a floured pastry cloth, with a floury stockinged-covered rolling pin, roll out the dough 1/4 at a time to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut out with Halloween cookie cutters—owl, pumpkin, cat or other appropriate shapes. Place an unsweetened cookie sheet a couple of inches apart.
Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until lightly browned around edges—4 to 10 minutes. With a wide metal spatula remove to wire racks to cool. Store in a tightly covered container.

Yield will depend on the size and shape of the cutters used.

1 can (14 1/2 ounces) sweetened condensed milk
1 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 squares (each 1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla
Grease a 9 by 9 by 2 inch cake pan. In a heavy 2-quart saucepan mix together 1-3/4 cup of the condensed milk, corn syrup, sugar, butter and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, to 235 degrees on a candy thermometer or until syrup, when dropped into very cold water, forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from water. Stir in remaining condensed milk slowly enough to keep mixture boiling. Stir in chocolate. 1 square at a time. Continue boiling mixture until temperature again reaches 235 degrees. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla. Pour into prepared pan. Cool. Turn out. Cut into 1-inch squares with a sharp knife. Wrap each piece in plastic wrap. Makes 64.

Bake Party Biscuits Easy Way

by CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Even a novice at cooking can turn out a beautiful batch of biscuits. We're talking about miniature drop biscuits, not the rolled variety, because the former are foolproof to make. These biscuits are prepared with cake flour instead of regular flour, heavy cream instead of shortening and they are so rich that they almost shatter as you butter them or spread them with jam. We like to serve them to company because they always get raves.

They have extra good flavor because wheat germ is added to the dough. Wheat germ, made from the heart of wheat, contributes protein of good quality, many mineral elements (particularly iron) and a host of vitamins, including the B family—more than 20 essential nutrients in a 1/2 cup.

PARTY CREAM BISCUITS
2 cups sifted cake flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 cup wheat germ
1 container (8 ounces) heavy cream
3 tablespoons undiluted evaporated milk
Into a medium mixing bowl sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Stir in wheat germ.
Open fully the container of cream and stir the undiluted evaporated milk into it, with a fork, stir gradually into flour mixture. Mixture will be stiff. Using a 1-tablespoon and a small metal spatula drop dough into small buttered muffin-pan cups (each 2 inches across top and 1 inch deep). Dough will almost fill cups. Smooth tops with the small metal spatula. Bake in a preheated 450-degree oven until golden brown—12 to 15 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 24.

GOOD DINNER
Roast Beef Oven Potatoes Green Peas Bread Tray Beef and Cucumber Salad Molds

APPLE TART Beverage
BEEF AND CUCUMBER SALAD
A pleasing combination of flavors.
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1 can (8 1/2 ounces) sliced beets
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
2 tablespoons undiluted bottled white horseradish
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup diced seeded cucumber
In a medium mixing bowl sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. Drain beets and dice. To be liquid add enough water to make 1 cup; in a small saucepan bring to a boil; pour over gelatin, add sugar and stir to dissolve. Stir in lemon juice, vinegar, horseradish and salt. Chill until mixture starts to congeal. Fold in diced beets and cucumber. Turn into 8 cup cups. Chill until set. Unmold; garnish with lettuce; pass commercial sour cream mixed with minced chives or scallions (green onions) as a topping. Makes 4 servings.

Oyster farming is putting fresh oysters on more tables year-round than ever before. Farming on Long Island, for example, means fresh oysters on the half shell were available throughout summer months in Connecticut, New Jersey, parts of Texas and Washington, D. C. And they're being shipped to more chain stores throughout the country each month. Oyster lovers will want to try a Barbecued Oyster treat. This is a good recipe for holiday entertaining. 100.

BARBECUED OYSTERS
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1 slice bacon, diced
1 dozen oysters on half shell
Preheat broiler. Mix bread crumbs and seasoning and sprinkle over oysters. Top each oyster with pieces of diced bacon. Arrange on bed of rock salt in shallow pan. Place in preheated broiler. Broil approximately 5 minutes or until bacon bits are cooked.

Chicken Prepared W/Herbs

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

Anyone who ever faced the task of choosing a family cook can get a faint idea of the formidable problems involved in selecting an executive chef for a top restaurant.

"Finding such a chef is more an art than anything," said Henri Eschmann, director of the Restaurant Management Division of Cantor Corp. Eschmann recently had the job of finding a chef to run the kitchens of the three restaurants of the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. They are La Grande Scene, a French dining room; the Gallery an intimate European-style cafe; and the Promenade a buffet.

"First," said Eschmann, "I always try the calves brains and sweetbreads and see how the chef deals with them. These are tricky because they must first be poached, then a thin tissue must be removed very carefully."

"Once they are poached," he continues, "they are sliced and cooked, and each step must be just so."

Another barometer for Eschmann is the quality of the soup prepared.

"I always taste three different kinds of soup: a consommé, a cream soup and a cold soup such as gazpacho. Each has special characteristics, and you can tell about the stock and how well it has been prepared," he said.

Eschmann likes to take three or four people with him to a restaurant whose kitchen he is thinking of raising so that he can taste several foods.

"Never steak or filet mignon," he said. "These are simple. I want a poached fish with hollandaise sauce, two different kinds of veal, and many other sauces as possible. And I go back three, four, five times to sample other dishes to see if the quality is consistent."

Finally, Eschmann visits the kitchen to see if the chef is actually hovering over the pots or sitting behind a desk and letting someone else prepare the food.

The man Eschmann finally selected as head chef for the Kennedy Center is Claude Bouche, who formerly prepared food for several embassies including that of France. One of Bouche's specialties is chicken prepared with herbs, spices and a cream sauce. Here is his recipe:

EMINCE DE POULARDE
2 chicken, 1-4 lb.
4 oz. zinc pinch thyme
2 bay leaves
2 carrots
1 onion
2 cloves
3 stalk celery
4 oz. heavy cream
6 oz. roux (butter-flour mix, prepared and used for sauces)
Boil chicken with thyme, bay leaves, carrots, onion, cloves and celery for two hours. Remove one of the breasts for sauce while allowing chicken and spices to continue to boil for another hour. In sauce pan combine roux and chicken broth and boil for 45 minutes. Then add cream and boil another 15 minutes. Remove chicken, bone it and spread over cooked rice, topping with sliced fresh mushrooms that have been cooked in butter and lemon juice. Pour sauce over mixture and serve on a platter surrounded by fresh, cooked spinach. Serves six. Goes with a dry Graves served cold.

Housewife Gets More Food Info

By GAYNOR MADDOX
From Washington comes the news that increasing consumer demands for more informative food labels are beginning to get results.

But what specific information should the cans, packages and jars of food reveal?

We asked four housewives what they wanted labels to tell them about food. And we received four different answers. So you can understand why the government regulatory agencies such as the Food and Drug Administration and manufacturing groups are still uncertain about what to tell about their products.

Christine R. Pines of Long Island, N. Y., is a housewife with three children, a husband and a part-time job. She's not too keen about how much protein a product contains.

"We are all overburdened with protein, I think. Look at my teen-age son. He is six feet, six inches tall, fed up on protein. We should all be told the proportion of protein in TV dinners, combination package meals and other food mixtures."

She wants labels to tell what kind of oil is used. "Coconut oil is cheaper, but saturated, and is not good for anyone with heart trouble, but a lot of people don't know that," she says.

A New York junior high schoolteacher wonders how sincere some of the leaders of consumer drives are. "Do they carefully examine the label enough before they start a crusade against it?" asks Natalie Stiber, house wife and mother of two.

"I'm no longer interested in price as a guide to quality," she says. "I have come to believe recently that most canned foods are processed by a few large companies under various names. Then some are priced higher, some lower, but they are all practically the same product."

A New York executive housewife, mother of two growing children, with a husband who admits that consumer groups opened her eyes to the need for honest food labeling.

"Now I read the complete list of additives on the labels. When I buy the product with the carefully examined label, I usually say Anita Fial of Lewis-Neale Corp. "Canned meat is one good example. How much is filler? I don't know how to answer that question clearly," she adds.

Marian Tripp, group organizer supervisor with J. Walter Thompson Co. of Chicago, a housewife with two sons, is convinced that consumer groups rather than individual housewives are behind the new drive for better labeling.

Certain companies voluntarily are adding nutritional facts on the labels of their products. Jewel Tea Co. is experimenting with their canned corn, peas and beans. There is a growing trend toward better labeling," she says, but adds, "It is only a trend. Not yet a rush. But factories are watching very carefully."

A family that eats on the run when school is in full swing can be slowed down a bit. Try serving a hot soup before dinner with members of the family sipping the hot beverage in the rec room or living room and hopefully chatting. Then sit down to a dinner of baked chicken and buttered broccoli and a favorite family dessert.

SPICY TOMATO SOUP
2 cans (19 1/2 ounces each) condensed tomato soup
2 soup cans water
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Dash ground cloves
Stir soup in saucepan; gradually add water and remaining ingredients mix with rotary beater. Simmer a few minutes. Garnish each serving with whipped cream, grated cheese, pat of butter or croutons. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

BAKED CHICKEN
2 broiler fryers, cut in pieces
1 cup melted butter or margarine
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Arrange chicken in shallow baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Brush chicken thoroughly with butter mixture. Bake in 350-degree oven one hour, or until tender, basting occasionally. Makes 6 servings.

Tasty Way To Reduce

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Calorie counting is a realistic way to lose weight. Exercise more to burn up calories as you eat less and the pounds will slowly but surely disappear. This method does take more time than the quickie diets which take off pounds in a rush, but create a physical strain. All so most individuals immediately regain pounds lost in this way. Many delicious foods are low calorie. Memorize a list of these as you will have a variety of foods while dieting. A Mushroom-Beef Roulade casserole provides many nutrients in a flavorful way. With it serve low-calorie cauliflower seasoned with herbs rather than butter or a cheese sauce.

LOW-CALORIE ROULADE

MUSHROOM - BEEF

1/4 pound fresh mushroom or 1 can (8-oz.) mushroom stems and pieces and 1 can (3 to 4-oz.) sliced

1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup grated carrot
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper

2 1/2 pounds (8 individual) lean minute steaks (cut from chuck or round)

1 can (8-oz.) tomato sauce
Rinse, pat dry and dice 1/2-lb. and slice 1/2-lb. fresh mushrooms or drain can of sliced mushrooms; set aside. Add to mushrooms in skillet, onion, celery, carrot, parsley, water, lemon juice, poultry seasoning, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4-teaspoon black pepper. Cover tightly and cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are tender, about 15 minutes.

Sprinkle steaks with remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4-teaspoon tablespoon of cooked mushroom mixture on each steak. Roll up and fasten with toothpick or tie with string. Place under pre-heated broiler and broil, turning to brown on all sides; arrange in casserole. Pour juice from broiler pan and tomato sauce over meat. Stir in reserved 1/4-cup sliced fresh mushrooms or drained sliced mushrooms. Cover casserole and bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Makes 8 portions.

1/2 cup raisins
2 cups very finely chopped peeled apples, packed down

1 large egg
In a medium mixing bowl sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and cinnamon; stir in walnuts, raisins and apple. In a large mixing bowl cream shortening and sugar; beat in egg; add flour mixture. With a wooden spoon work together well. (It will seem impossible to do at first, but don't worry because it will work.) Spread in a greased 8 by 8 by 2 inch cake pan. Cherry Trifle Dessert

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A listing of ingredients soon makes one realize that a "trifle" is anything but insignificant. Traditionally a trifle is a dessert of sponge cake spread with jam or jelly, sprinkled with crumbled macaroons, soaked in wine and served with custard and whipped cream. Here is a Cherry Trifle to keep dessert lovers a trifle happy.

CHERRY TRIFLE

3 packages (3 ounces each) ladyfingers, split
1 jar (8 ounces) red maraschino cherries
Cream sherry or other sweet wine

2 cups milk
1/3 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Toasted almond almonds
Separate ladyfingers and spread out on tray with soft side up. Drain cherries, pour syrup into measuring cup. Add enough cherry to syrup to make 1/2-cup liquid. Sprinkle syrup mixture over ladyfingers and cover while making custard. Chop cherries and set aside. Heat milk in top of double boiler until hot. Beat 1/3-cup sugar, salt and cornstarch in large bowl. Beat in eggs. Gradually add the hot milk to egg mixture, stirring constantly. Return to top of boiler and cook, stirring constantly over a simmering water until thickened. Remove from the heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla and chopped cherries. Cool custard to lukewarm, stirring occasionally. Line a 1/2 quart glass compote or bowl with ladyfingers. Layer custard with remaining ladyfingers. Chill about 4 hours. Whip cream with 2 tablespoons sugar and 1/2-teaspoon vanilla until soft peaks and garnish with almonds. Makes 6 servings.
