Lake Mary eyes traffic problem solution

Commission says new road near SCC would alleviate congestion .

By SANDRA BOUCHAMME Horaid staff writer

LAKE MARY - City commissioners unanimously agreed last night that building the proposed Hospital Road would be the best way to alleviate traffic congestion in residential areas around Seminole Community College.

Hospital Road, proposed to run roughly north-south between Lake Mary Boulevard and U.S. 17-92, east of SCC, would traverse Sanford and Seminole County as well as Lake Mary.

The cooperation of all three governments would be necessary to adopt the road and pay for its construction.

Lake Mary officials estimate that it will take at least two years to work out the agreements, including financing.

Hospital Road is considered a solution to relieve traffic by encouraging the thousands of motorists who cut through residential areas along Broadmoor and Main roads and along Country Club Road (C-15) each day to continue east on Lake Mary Boulevard.

This solution was one of seven recommendations also favored unanimously by the Lake Mary Traffic Study Committee. The ad-hoc committee, comprised of residents, county officials and a college representative. was appointed by the city commission in June.

SANFORD - A Sanford nurse's aide was convicted Thursday of third degree grand theft for stealing $44,000 from the bank account of an elderly Longwood man she was caring for.

Patricia Ann VanDyke, 43. claimed George Reek. 85 at the time, gave her the money to purchase a mobile home for him and his wife, who was in a nursing home at the time.

The jury also convicted VanDyke of two counts of failure to appear in court as she was scheduled to do. Judge Robert McGregor set senten-cing for Dec. 14. She could receive up to 15 years in prison.

Robert Fisher, assistant state at-torney, introduced evidence that VanDyke had converted two checks on Reek's accounts, one for $5.933, and one for $38,000, to her own use. He said the same day as the $5,933 check was written. VanDyke made deposits to her own account and those in her mother's and daughter's names, and got $300 cash back. See Guilty, Page 5A on to enter contest. While he does not train in the strictest sense of the word, he said he heeps up the activities he had always done to keep in shape. Exercise was not some-thing he had ever thought of doing. "But I always made time for the things that gave me pleasure." he said.

Keeping in shape, he advised, should not be work. "Don't run or jog." he advised. "That's too hard on the legs, especially the knees." Instead, he advises, people to do things that are fun. He likes to swim, jump rope and ride bicycles with his grand-children. "That's not work," he said.

Maine has always contended that dancing is one of the best ways to stay in shape. In 1965, he and his wife won the national Fred Astaire dance competition. Now he dances solo. This year it was the Charleston. Over the next year he plans to learn to tap dance and do the Irish jig. and do one of those for the Golden Age talent show next year. Another goal he has set for himself for the "People have been after me to do this." he said. "I think it will be a fun project."

Two prested on narcotics charges

SANFORD - After arresting James Andrew Scott. 22, 1011 W. Sixth St., Sanford, on a charge of sale of a controlled substance and possession with intent to distribute. Sanford-police also searched and arrested another man at the scene. Both arrests were made just after 9 p.m. Thursday outside Pearlie Mae's Tavern on W. 13th Street. Police allege Scott agreed to sell what he claimed was cocaine to another man. Cash and the bag with the suspected narcotic were recovered beside him at the scene, police said.

The other suspect. Andre Allen, 19, 1306 Williams Ave., Sanford, was charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana after police reportedly found contraband in his pocket.

Armed suspect apprehended

SANFORD - Ronald Wayne Adkins, 21, of no address, was charged with loitering and prowling after Sanford police found him crouched down behind the Labor Force. 405 E. Fourth St., Sanford, at 1:11 a.m. Friday

Police said they took two hunting knives and a throwing knife from Adkins' pants. He is also charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Wife reports punch in face

SANFORD - City police report charging Earl Cleveland Fisher, 32, 1511 Elliot Ave., Sanford, with battery after he allegedly punched his wife Terry Fisher in the face.

The arrest was made at 6:36 p.m. Thursday at Fisher's house.

EDITORIALS HUD's honey pot

The newest scandal involving the troubled Department of Housing and Urban Develop-ment is Congress' refusal, despite pleas from Secretary Jack Kemp, to abolish the secre-tary's $10 million discretionary fund.

For years, the HUD secretary has had the authority to dip into this fund to finance projects that did not necessarily meet the department's specifications. Secretary Kemp wants to abolish this alush fund. But the House Appropriations subcommittee recently voted to nearly triple 2 and transfer control of much of it to Capitol Hill. The subcommit-tee's plan is to siphon $28 million from HUD's Community Development Block Grant pro-gram, which is designated primarily for low-and moderate-income projects.

It is no coincidence that the subcommittee is chaired by Rep. Robert Traxier, D-Mich., whose district is slated to receive four of the 40 discretionary grants. This includes $390,000 for a library and recreation center at Mackinac Island. Mich., where Rep. Traxler recently purchased an unimproved lot. Most of the subcommittee's other members also have managed to get a big chunk of this federal pork.

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, whose Cleveland district has been earmarked for an $600,000 housing-project grant, asserted with a straight face: "What we are doing is exercis-ing here some congressional discretion, without any political implications."

is there a difference between HUD funds being channeled into dubious projects by well-connected consultants or. by unscrupulous members of Congress? The shameful result is surely the same. Worthwhile projects for the truly needy go begging, while golf courses in Miami Beach, swimming pools in Beverly Hills and performing arts centers in Newark devour the discretionary budget.

Mr. Kemp is trying to clean up the meas at HUD by opening the entire grant process to greater public scrutiny. His biggest obstacle at this point are members of Congress who have a vested interest in perpetuating the abuses from which they have derived political benefit for far too long.

DAVID S. BRODER The dangers of the summit

WASHINGTON - President Bush is upset that David Hoffman of the Washington Post broke the news of the seaboard summit with Soviet President Mikhail Gorpschev 12 hours-before Moscow and Washington had agreed to announce it. His pique is understandable: That's the kind of news any President likes to the south insert seminounce it. His pique is understandable: That's the kind of news any President likes to give out himself. But the remarkable thing is that negotiations for the summit, which began last July, stayed secret so long, not only from the public but from 90 percent of the people involved with foreign policy in the Bush administration. Once again, this President has demonstrated his tendency to make his big decisions with only a handful of chosen adivaers, and to spring the results without warning to the world at large or to the government he heads. The announcement last week cut off another round of griping about what leading Demo-crats had called Bush's "timid" and grudging response to the emerging democratic forces in Poland. Hungary and East Germany. Lord knows, there's nothing timid about signing up for 48 hours of unstructured. "feet up" conversation with Gorbachev, unconstrained by any agenda and therefore unfettered by any pre-negotiated understandings. This is exactly the kind of summit that foreign-policy traditionalists – of whom Bush was though to be one – had always warned was to be avoided. The traditionalists' argu-ments were reinforced by the last such improvised U.S.-Boviet summit, the 1905 meeting of Gorbachev and President Reagen in improvised U.S.-Soviet summit, the 1966 meeting of Gorbachev and President Reagan in Reykjavik. Reagan got so caught up in Iceland's camaraderie that he came within an inch of negotiating away the whole NATO nuclear deterrent.

Kenneth L. Adeiman, then the head of Reagan's Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, has written in his lively memoir, "The Great Universal Embrace," that, "The discussions that afternoon (in Reykjavik) should never have happened. They showed gross ignorance of essentials of Western security by the guardians of that security, not just the President but a few of his top advisers as well."

It's worth remembering that Reykjavik, like the shipboard summit coming up Dec. 2 and 3. was described as a "non-summit summit." just a preparation for a formal negotiating session to be held a few months later. That fiction did not limit the risks in Reykjavik and it will not limit them in the Mediterranean either.

Gorbachev has to be regarded as a desperate man. His empire is breaking up faster than anyone could have imagined: Hungary is gone: Poland is going: and East Germany, hitherto the most economically successful and most politically reliable of the major Warsaw Pact countries, is wobbling badly. Meantime. eco-nomic conditions in the Soviet Union continue to stagnate, if not deteriorate. Gorbachev really needs a deal. Against that tempting prospect, there is the chilling history of what has happened when other American Presidents have gone into summits early in their terms. The last elected President to meet the Soviet leader in his first year in office was John F. Kennedy. At his meeting in Vienna with Nikita Khrushchev, he conveyed such a sense of unreadiness that Khrushchev was tempted to erect the Berlin Wall and to try putting offensive missiles in Cuba.

These are different times, of course, and Bush is a different President. one with his own intriguing pattern of behavior. He appears most of the time to be a cautious, plodding. rather unimaginative fellow. But he clearly sees himself as capable of the bold. unexpected stroke. He stunned his advisers with the choice of Dan Quayle for Vice President land again by reiterating the choice, almost three years prematurely. for 1992, in his in-terview last week with the Dallas Morning News). He stunned NATO and most of those who manage foreign policy by his disarmament proposal last May. And he stunned the world to say nothing of the senior bureaucracy of the State Department, the Pentagon and the National Security Council) by deciding on an open-ended meeting with Gorbachev a few weeks hence.

What happened back in May shows there can be a payoff for such bravado. For months. the young Bush administration had dawdled through a protracted foreign-policy review process, while the President and Secretary of State James A. Baker III said it was only prudent to proceed with great caution in assessing the seemingly dramatic changes taking place in the Soviet Union. Then, after allowing allied leaders and congressional critics to fill the air with complaints about his dillydallying. a suddenly energized Bush came up with an arms-control proposal for the NATO summit in Brussels. In a single stroke, he solved a bitter dispute within the alliance and trumped the last offer Gorbachev had put on the table. Wigwam. According to doc-uments we obtained from the Defense from the Defense Nuclear Agency, Operation Wigwam was a series of deep water nuclear tests in May 1955 in the Ps-cific Ocean about 500 miles southwest of San Diego. Most of the crew were not on deck during the explosion. After the test, Weldon and a abipmate west on deck and spied a buoy that had been blown from its spot by the explosion. case I got sick." Yes, something showed up last February, but no. Weldon did not qualify for treatment. While being examined in proparation for eye surgery in Louisiana. Weldon was diagnosed with Chronic Myelogenous Leukemia. He was flown to a VA hospital in Ban Antonio, Texas, where the diagnosis was confirmed. The VA doctors in Texas strongly recommended Alpha Interferon as the best treatment. Weldon went back to his home in Long Beach, Calif., where he assumed he would be treated at the local VA medical center. He asked for Alpha Interferon, an expensive experimental drug that has proved effective in the treatment of leukemia. His VA doctor rejected that approach and proposed a more in the treatment of leukemin. His VA doctor rejected that approach and proposed a more traditional treatment. Weldos wrote to several members of Congress and a letter to the editor of his local newspaper. The VA discharged him from the Long Besch outpatient program. Tearing for his life, Weldon turned to a civilian doctor who put him on Alpha Interferon. It costs more then $3,000 a month and Weldon's insurance runs out next April. Three weeks ago, he got a letter from the VA saying that he was not eligible for treatment anyway because he didn't come down with leukemia within 30 years of his military exposure to radiation. That 30-year limit has little to do with the course of the disease and more to do with politics. When iscase and more to do with politics. When Congress was debating the Atomic Veterans Compensation Act of 1967, the 30-year statute of limitations on leukemis was one of the budget compromises that was struck. "It was a matter of getting what I could get." and Rep. Roy Roland, D-Ga., who led the fight for compensation to veterans exposed to severe radiation. "I didn't even expect the president (Reagan) to sign the against filing an immediate pro-test. But a State Department spokesman said Thursday the insue will be raised next week by U.S. officials who will be in Moscow to discuss imple tion of a new pact, which takes effect Jan. 1, dealing with pre-vention of such military incidents.

The four separate incidents occurred more than 1,000 miles south or west of the Hawaiian Island chain in an area-where Soviet ships routinely recover their test intercontinental ballistic missiles fired from Soviet territory.

The Air Force and Navy planes were observing the Soviet vessels when crew members reported experiencing laser "il-lumination." Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said. On Oct. 17, an Air Force crew member aboard an HC-130 command and control plane "experienced what may have been laser illumination about 1,200 miles southwest of Hawaii. resulting in possible visual inju-ry." Williams said. The crew member was wear-

Lt. Col. Darrell Hayes, an Air Force spokesman, said there is no danger of the crewman losing his eyesight and explained that the medical evaluation is continuing only to determine if there are any "long-term effects."

The Soviet ship involved was identified as the naval missile range vessel "Marshal Nedelin." The authoritative publication "Jane's Fighting Ships" said the Nedelin is fitted with a variety of space and missile-associated electronic systems and is probably used for monitoring of missile tests.

Lake Howell, Oviedo wrap up 1989 regular seasons

Maybe the Lake Howell High School football team is human after all.

Currently 9-0, ranked second in the Florida Sports Writers Association Class 5A poll and 18th in USA Today's national poll, the Silver Hawks have suddenlt come face-to-face with a dangerous opponent: injuries. Last week, Lake Howell lost super sophomore Ken Times to a stress fracture. That started a string of injuries and other destructions that has Coach Mike Bisceglia and staff doing some uncommon scrambling.

"We've had some injuries and some kids sick," said Bisceglis, whose team will help celebrate Lake Howell's homecoming with its game ninot DeLand tonight. "In addition to Times, Cortes Graves is out with a thigh bruise. Linebacker Dave Collins has been out of school all week with bronchitis.

'We also lost one kid who would have taken Times' place to academic ineligibility. All of a sudden, we're without four possible starters."

But Bisceglia is quick to point out that he's not crying the blues over his team's recent and relatively minor misfortune. He is using these facts to underscore how important it is for his team not to take anything or any opponent for granted.

Sometimes things aren't always what they seem in high school athletics.

This weekend, for example, Seminole County prep swim coaches will be doing what they can in the 4A-District 5 swim meet at the Orlando International Aquatic Center to qualify as many of their swimmers as they can for next weekend's state meet.

To do that may mean sacrificing some point and, possibly, a district chan ionship.

"In the boys, I've kind of ancri-ficed team points at the district meet to get kids to the state meet." said Lyman swim coach Don Clark. "You can swim kids in two individual events and one relay. What I've done with some kids is hold them back in some events that they could posibly make the consolation finals in order to concentrate on events in which they would make the finals."

Clark is hoping that by allowing those swimmers to concentrate on just an event or two will improve their chances of qualifying for the state meet in those events. And qualifying as many swimmers as possible for the state meet will only help in Lyman's attempt to finish among the top teams. "I think that our boys could be in the top three at the state meet," said Clark. "We should finish higher at the state meet than we do at district. That's typical of every year. The cream rises to the top at the state meet. If you have really good kids and score points at state meet. you'll be there.

Bishops want Palestinian homeland, withdrawal of troops from Lebanon

BALTIMORE - The nation's Roman Catholic bishops called for establishment of a Palestinian homeland and an immediate withdrawal of Syrian troops from Beirut, Lebanon, and eventual withdrawal of all foreign troops from the strifetorn nation.

In a 50-page statement, the bishops also urged the Bush administration to take a more activist role in seeking peace both between Israelis and Palestinians and in Lebanon. The Middle East statement said. "The United States is positioned to help break the political impasse in the Middle East. It cannot substitute for others but it can assist them." In calling for a Palestinian homeland, the bishops also asserted that Palestinians must have the "right to choose their own leadership without iniervention by others" and the "right to participate as equals.

through representatives selected by Palestinians, in all negotiations affecting their destin

"The conclusion which follows from these assertions is as clear as it has been controversial: Palestinian representation in Middle East negotiations least to Palestinian territorial and political sovereignty." the statement said.

Jewish groups immediately criticized the statement. especially its stress on Palestinian sovereignty. "The Synagogue Council of America does not see this doctiment as helpful to the peace process, because it tends to favor those elements in the Palestinian community and in the Arab world, which have not reactabled their call for larael's destruc-tion," the council said in a statement.

Senford Hereld, Senford, Florida - Friday, November 10, 1999 -

in addition. the states called the Palestinian up "cry for justice" and ci "a more creative and con-structive response by the U.S. government."

On Lebanon, the statemen said the United States "should be actively involved in support ing the process of constitutional reform and reconciliation in Lebanon."

In her book. "Gift From the Sea." written shortly after the end of World War II. Anne Morrow Lindbergh says, "Sincethe war. Europe has been forced into a new appreciation of the present. The good past is so far away and the near past is so horrible Give thanks for special moments and the future so perilous that the present has a chance to expand into a golden eternity. "Europeans are enjoying the present moment even if it means merely a walk in the country or sipping a cup of black coffee at a sidewalk cafe."

Jump forward now 44 years. Trainloads of happy endgrants from East Germany are bound for freedom. For them this is a moment of high cestasy. Nothing will be able to take this moment away from them though they cannot know what lies in store for them once they reach their new home.

Their situation matches that of the people in Europe after World War II. The good past is so far away and the near past so horrible and the future so uncertain that they are "forced intoa new appreciation of the prescni." Those smiles and happy faces showing through the train windows reflect their joy of the present moment. Forgetting the past and refusing to perinit any possible perils lurking in the future to darken their mood. they allow the bliss of the moment to "expand into a golden eternity." Most of us count our blessings in days and years rather than in momenta. When we pause to give thanks, we think more in terms of the good life we enjoy than the precious moments we

We thank God for family and friends, good health, material success and abundance - all shared by those close to our hearts.

There is nothing wrong of course with being grateful for such larger blessing. We should be. But why haven't they brought us the happiness we seek?

The reason is that we live such problem-oriented and futureoriented lives. Our preoccupation with our troubles and our fretful concern over what next week and next year will bring keep us from savoring those moments in our lives which we can later recall with pleasure.

It is when we have such moments to remember in our lives, moments that expand intoa golden eternity as we relive them up and down the passing years - it is then that we are most truly happy.

All of us have these moments in our lives. Sometimes they are right under our noses but we fail to notice them. Sometimes we consciously bring them into our experience - like the Mormons who set aside each Monday night as Family Night.

Whatever it is, let this be our prayer of thanksgiving. "Thank you. Father, for this wonderful. fleeting, precious moment I am now enjoying."

The deal comes from the 1966 Epson World Pairs competition, and many declarers did arrive in four hearts. A few saved something when they managed to take nine tricks with careful play. When the club five was led, East won the jack and tried to cash the king. South ruffed, led a spade to dummy's queen, and played a heart back to his jack. West won

If he discarded a diamond from dummy, West would play a heart to dummy's queen, and declarer would then have to play up to his king of diamonds. But East had passed originally and had already shown up with A-K-J of clubs. He could not hold the diamond ace. So South overruffed the nine of hearts with dummy's queen, cashed the good nine of clubs, and then threw West on lead with the last heart. West had to take the ace the king and played the 10 of of diamonds, and declarer was clubs, covered by the queen and down only one.
