Lake Mary patterns development plan after county's

By NICK SPERFANO
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Seminole County got the ball rolling. Lake Mary is taking it and running toward the goal.

The project is to establish the target industry concept. It was originated as part of the Seminole County Economic Development Program. "We took what they had written for the county and changed it, only slightly, to fit our city needs," said City Planner Matt West.

"This is an exceptionally good plan, and it's designed to help our city in many ways."

West said the city is already a prime attraction for target businesses due to its low crime rate, low millage rate, good schools and rural atmosphere.

According to the original document, "Target businesses are identified as those which hire highly skilled workers, pay high wages, are recession proof and are generally involved in the information-based and service sectors of industry."

It continues, "These businesses usually have high property tax potential and low pollution potential."

According to the Lake Mary city staff which has been working on this, if it can be accomplished, it will increase local standards of living, reduce unemployment, and expand and shift more of the local property tax base to economic rather than residential uses.

"Generally," West said, "the area we are considering is between Rinehart Road and Interstate-4 to the east of the interstate, and that undeveloped area to the west of the interstate at Westhrow." Although Westhrow is not in the city, West said the western area contains approximately 1,000 acres.

County candidates take verbal swings

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The two candidates for the District 4 county commission seat have rolled up their sleeves and taken verbal swings at each other.

Earlier this month, Republican challenger Winsfield Adams criticized incumbent Democrat Larry Furlong's promotion of ties with Ireland as wasteful and called trips to Ireland "junkets." Furlong countered by chastising Adams for his party switches, saying they were a sign of his instability.

In an October letter to voters, Adams wrote "If you think higher taxes and bigger government — softball tournaments and junkets to Ireland — are the answer, then I'm not your candidate for county commission."

Adams said he referred to the county's funding of athletics and overseas connections instead of focusing on attracting job- and tax-producing businesses here.

"It's the philosophy we're talking about," said Adams. "We need to concentrate our efforts on getting businesses here. Larry has taken the attitude of 'turn it over to Mid-Florida (Economic Development Commission of Mid-Florida). Everyone wants to pass the buck'."

Furlong promoted a "Sister County" relationship with County Wicklow, Ireland two years ago as a way to boost Seminole County tourism. The exchange of ideas could be beneficial to the county, he touted.

To that end, county tourist taxes paid for $2,990 in travel, lodging, dining and entertainment expenses for commission chairman Dick Van Der Weide and tourism director Jack Wert to travel to Ireland for six days in April 1993, according to county Finance Supervisor Aaron Mann.

Longwood maps plan for sewer lines

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — City commissioners looked into the future Tuesday night, mapping out plans for installing commercial sewer lines until the year 2000 with an eye toward fostering development and attracting new businesses to Longwood.

The five-year plan proposed by the commission will depend on a number of variables, including the willingness of the owners of private lift stations to dedicate them to the city.

Mayor Steve Miller proposed the pay-as-you-go development of sewer lines as a means of attracting new business and development to increase the city tax base enabling the city to maintain the desired level of services without raising taxes.

Commissioners Iris Benson, Ron Sargent, Paul Lovestrand and Miller met in a work session Tuesday night. Commissioner Annamarie Vacca did not attend.

Until the city sewer bond is paid off after fiscal year 1998, the commissioners hope to spend from $75,000 to $100,000 a year on the pay-as-you-go sewer projects. When the current sewer bond is retired, more money will be available for the sewer expansion project, either through a new bond or allowing the county to take it over.

The county needs massive amounts of sewage flow in order to activate the idle multi-million See Longwood, Page 5A

Boy critical after near-drowning

ORLANDO — A 6-year-old London boy visiting Central Florida with his parents was in critical condition early today after nearly drowning at a water park.

Michael Roche was at the bottom of the wave pool at Wet 'N Wild for six to eight minutes before he was discovered by another swimmer, said police Lt. Joe Robinson.

The boy was taken first to Sand Lake Hospital, then to Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children and Women, where he was in the pediatric intensive care unit today, the hospital said.

"The first 24 hours in this condition, he is going to be considered critical," said a hospital spokeswoman who declined to give her name. The boy was admitted late Tuesday.

"Right now, it's no nip and tuck you don't know what's going to happen," the spokeswoman said.

The boy was unconscious and on life support; his parents, Pamela Roche and Anthony Kennedy, were with him, she said.

The part of the wave pool where the child was discovered is 4 feet to 6 feet deep. The wave-maker was not on at the time but had been only minutes earlier, park spokeswoman Linda Orgera said. She said no one has ever drowned at Wet 'N Wild.

Lifeguards watch beach conditions

ORMOND BEACH — Windy conditions caused only minor beach erosion along beaches in Flagler, Volusia and Brevard counties, but lifeguards expect to stay busy with runouts caused by the northeasterly winds.

Beach conditions will be closely monitored for the next several days because prevailing northeast winds have dug holes in sandbars. Outgoing ocean water will race through those holes for several days and can pull swimmers along in the strong current, said Al White, a lifeguard with the Volusia County Beach Patrol.

"We expect a lot of rescues because we have a lot of runouts," White said.

Last Friday, White said, 50 swimmers were rescued in Volusia County. The water temperature of 78 degrees and an outside temperature of 80 degrees continues to draw people to the beach.

The body of a New York man, last seen swimming Friday off a south St. Johns County beach, washed ashore Monday in Flagler Beach.

Kevin Doherty, 29, of Croton Falls, N.Y., was last seen swimming at Crescent Beach at 3:15 p.m. Friday.

Volusia County beach approaches were closed all day Sunday and Monday morning because of high tides.

Gay rights ordinance up for second vote

TAMPA — Opponents of a Tampa law banning discrimination against homosexuals have collected enough signatures to bring the issue before voters a second time to let them decide whether to repeal the law.

Hillsborough Elections Supervisor Pam Iorio certified a petition Monday that will send the sexual orientation measure to a public referendum on March 7.

It will be the second time in less than three years the gay rights ordinance will be up for a vote.

The law, adopted in 1991, forbids discrimination based on sexual orientation in housing, employment and public accommodations.

"We're very much prepared and ready to move toward a March election," said David Caton, head of a group called "Yes! Repeal Homosexual Ordinance Committee."

"The main message is that what one does in the privacy of the bedroom should not be protected as a right to be expressed in any manner in the workplace," he said.

Ordinance supporters also have regrouped. Formerly, they were known as "Say No to Hate" and now work as "Citizens for a Fair Tampa."

"I defy anybody to read the ordinance and find special rights for anybody. That is not what this is about. It's about protection for all citizens, and that's it," said John Dunn, chairman of the proponents group.

Tampa woman's killer charged, murder

WASHINGTON — A District of Columbia man accused of fatally shooting a Virginia woman and stealing her truck will return to Arlington, Va., to face charges.

Arlington police have charged Antonio D. Haggins, 22, with first-degree murder and carjacking in the shooting death of Meredith Miller, 23, of Arlington.

Miller, a native of Tampa, Fla. and a graduate student at George Washington University was getting into her 1993 Ford Explorer in the parking lot of her apartment building about midnight Monday when she was approached by a man with a gun, Arlington police said.

According to witness accounts, the gunman shot Miller, then fled in her truck.

A short time later, D.C. police pulled over the Explorer, with Haggins behind the wheel. He was arrested by police and will remain in custody in the district until Arlington officials arrive to return him to Virginia, authorities said.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Chiles: Bush corporations didn't pay taxes

By WILL LESTER
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — GOP gubernatorial nominee Jeb Bush is calling Democratic rival Gov. Lawton Chiles a mudslinger for making charges that Bush evaded taxes.

Chiles accused Bush on Tuesday of failing to pay occupational license taxes on some of the many development corporations he has established and some property taxes on others.

Bush, who has fired off questions about his business practices in the past, found himself defending them again during a debate carried by 36 radio stations statewide.

The only charge the Bush campaign admits to is the failure to pay a $61 filing fee for one of Bush's corporations. After a review of the rest of Chiles' charges, the campaign said they were "false and inaccurate."

"I have been investigated by the best and the brightest in this state and in this country," Bush said, referring to news reports about his business dealings while his father, George Bush, was president.

While Bush was found to have business dealings with people who later went bankrupt or fled prosecution, he was not found to have broken any law.

"I have met all of the requirements as a businessman that I was required to," Bush said, adding that Chiles was insulated from the pressures of running a business.

"You haven't been in the real world," the 41-year-old real estate developer said. "It is difficult because of the burdens of regulation. We've been successful. I'm about as rich as you are, but I haven't had the benefit of years in public office." Both men claim a net worth of about $1 million.

"State law requires that all businesses, regardless of size or legal structure, file tangible personal property tax returns," said Chiles' spokeswoman Jo Miglino. "Even if a business owns nothing more than a pencil, it has to file a tangible tax return."

"What the governor believes very strongly in is how important it is to look at a person's record," Miglino said. "The governor's record is an open book. The only record Jeb Bush has in his business dealings. Do people want a governor who runs his finances this way, with this kind of disregard for laws of state and laws of his home country?"

Chiles reiterated that position during the debate.

Chiles' campaign hired an attorney to comb through Bush's business records and said it found multiple violations of state and Dade County business-tax laws.

Bush had no occupational license on file for several of his development corporations and had not paid occupational taxes since Oct. 1, 1991, on five of his businesses, the Chiles campaign said.

It also said Bush failed to pay taxes on residential rental property in Dade and the annual state tax on one of his corporations.

Larry Tommaso, an inspector in the Metro Dade tax collection division, said Tuesday he was not familiar with the Bush records. The staffer who had researched Bush's background, Allen Vyc, was not immediately available.

Sally Harrell, Bush's campaign manager, said she didn't believe occupational licenses were required for some of Bush's corporations.

Also, in response to the allegation he didn't pay tangible taxes on rental property, Bush's campaign said one piece of property was Bush's garage, used as a command post by the Secret Service while his father was president and "was not rental property in any sense."

"This race is about judgment, leadership, the ability to best serve the people of Florida for the next four years," he said, his voice rising. "What kind of leadership, or what kind of example does this set?"

Air arrivals boost state tourist count

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida has experienced a slight jump in tourism, but the numbers aren't what they used to be. The state wants to find out why.

Florida saw a 0.7 percent rise in tourists in July, and early figures indicate a 12 percent jump in August, the biggest increase in nearly two years, state Commerce Secretary Charles Duseau said Tuesday.

Despite overall growth, visitors are spending less on attractions and lodging, and the number of people tourists driving to the state continues to drop, Duseau said.

A $200,000 joint state-industry research project will try to determine why tourists are staying away from Florida, Duseau said.

"We are hopeful we will get some answers within 60 days on why the market is the way it is," he said.

August marked a third month of increases after January-May tourist numbers sagged from year-earlier figures.

Officials blamed the declines on competition facing the $32 billion tourism industry — the state's largest with 675,000 employees — and the black eye dealt its sun-and-surf image by crimes against tourists.

Retooled petition drives aims for 1996

By The Associated Press

TAMPA — A ballot initiative to get prisoners to serve at least 85 percent of their sentences was struck down this year by the state's high court, but backers say there's always 1996.

The grassroots group STOP — Stop Turning Out Prisoners — Tuesday unveiled a retooled petition aimed at getting the 430,000 signatures necessary to get on the ballot in two years.

"STOP will not be stopped in our efforts to make Florida safe again," said Kathleen Finnegan, the group's director. "A few legal hurdles will not beat our cause."

STOP's initial petition had garnered 300,000 of the required signatures before the Florida Supreme Court struck it down in July as misleading and rhetorical. Finnegan said the newly worded petition has been reviewed by attorneys statewide to meet the court's concerns.

Among the changes in the new petition: the word "ensure" has been deleted, more specific language has been added to address the various means of early release, and it specifically states prisoners sentenced to life "shall be incarcerated for the rest of their natural lives."

The new petition drive will begin in earnest Nov. 8 when volunteers stand outside polling places to collect signatures.

Florida inmates currently serve only about 45 percent of their sentences because of prison overcrowding, and more than half of those released early commit crimes and are put back behind bars again.

Florida to mirror national economy

The Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Florida's economy will continue to grow, but at a slower rate because of rising interest rates, University of Florida economists predict.

Forecasters at the school's Bureau of Economic and Business Research say Florida can expect continued growth in tandem with the national economy.

Thomas Fullerton, a senior economist with the bureau, said the state has often steered its own economic course. Even in recessionary times, Florida has been buoyed by people moving in from other states, he said.

The Florida Outlook released Monday predicts the state's population will increase 1.9 percent, up slightly from this year's 1.8 percent growth rate. That would bring the state's population to about 14.2 million people next year.

Real personal income is expected to climb 3.4 percent, down from the 4.7 percent growth of 1994, the economists said.

A steep drop is expected in the growth of taxable sales from 9 percent this year to 4.7 percent next year. The drop is a direct result of higher interest rates, which tend to discourage sales on credit.

The economists predict employment will move up slightly. Total nonagricultural employment will rise 2.9 percent, down from 3.7 percent this year. The jobless rate is expected to slip to 6.5 percent, down slightly from this year's 6.6 percent.

Housing starts are expected to flatten, with gains in multi-family homes offsetting a decline in single-family home starts, another segment of the economy affected by higher interest rates.

The bureau is predicting 92,413 single-family homes to be started in 1995, and 29,724 multi-family starts.

Fullerton said the key factor that will determine the course Florida takes is the Federal Reserve's 10-month effort to tighten credit to keep inflation in check.

Housing costs rise, but still affordable

By JOHN D. McGLAM

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Higher mortgage rates made housing in America a bit more expensive in the second quarter of this year, but a builders group still found affordable markets in much of the nation, particularly in the Midwest and South.

"Even though interest rates rose somewhat during the second quarter, rates are still below 9 percent—and housing affordability conditions remain excellent throughout the country," Tommy Thompson, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said Tuesday.

The Home Builders said rates averaged 7.42 percent in the second quarter, up from 6.91 percent in the first three months. The rate is a national, weighted average of adjustable- and fixed-rate loans.

At the same time, the nation's score on the association's Housing Opportunity Index fell to 60, from 67.5 in the January-March period.

The index measures the ability of a typical family to purchase a home in its own market by comparing median family income with median home price. The median is the midpoint, meaning that half of the families earn more and half earn less, or that half of the homes cost more and half cost less.

In the second quarter, the national median home price was $114,000. That meant households earning the national median income of $39,900 could afford to buy 60 percent of the homes offered for sale nationwide.

"Despite somewhat worse affordability conditions due to the rise in mortgage interest rates earlier this year, there are plenty of tools at consumers' disposal to improve affordability," Thompson said.

"For example, adjustable rate mortgages have starting rates of about 5.5 percent today, giving home owners a break on their monthly mortgage payments for the first few years of ownership," he explained.

The index, based on a survey of 500,000 sales of new and existing homes in 186 metropolitan areas, showed the most affordable housing was in the Midwest and South and the least affordable in the Northeast and West.

In fact, the Midwest had 18 of the 25 most affordable markets, including Kokomo, Ind., the most affordable of all. California had 17 of the 25 least affordable, including San Francisco, which has been at the bottom of the index since the Home Builders began the quarterly surveys three years ago.

Kokomo, a central Indiana city north of Indianapolis, scored 92.6 on the April-June index.

"Once again, a Midwestern area tops the list of affordable places to live, which is not surprising given the relative abundance of land and reasonably high incomes there," Thompson explained.

The most affordable markets in other regions were the Vineland-Millville-Bridgeton, N.J. area of the Northeast with a 90.8; Brazoria, Texas, in the South, 89.9; and Salem, Ore., in the West, 78.0.

Besides San Francisco in the West, which had a 15.6 score, the least affordable markets in other regions were Des Moines, Iowa, in the Midwest, with 69.5;

New York in the Northeast, with 38.9; and Laredo, Texas, in the South, with 37.6.

In the second quarter, the median income in Kokomo was $41,900 and the median home price was $70,000.

According to the mortgage underwriting standards used for the index, a family could afford to purchase a home costing 3.3 times its annual income, or in this case $138,270. In Kokomo, 92.6 percent of the homes sold during the second quarter were priced at or below $138,270.

In San Francisco, on the other hand, the median income was $57,600 and the median home price was $285,000, meaning the typical family could afford a home costing $190,080. Only 15.6 percent of the homes sold in San Francisco were priced at or below $190,080.

At SSU, we "You"

Southern States Utilities didn't get to be Florida's largest investor-owned water and wastewater utility by accident. Since our incorporation in 1961, SSU has built a reputation of quality service to you, our customer, and to the communities we serve.

Formerly a subsidiary of Universal Telephone, SSU was purchased in 1984 by Topeka Group, a subsidiary of Minnesota Power. With the purchase of the Deltona Corporation's utility systems in 1989, SSU nearly doubled in size and became a statewide operation.

With more than 150 systems in 26 Florida counties, SSU serves some 160,000 customers. Systems range in size from those with 25,000 customers to the smallest serving just six. Whether large or small, however, SSU's staff of 400 employees is dedicated to making certain each facility provides the highest quality water and wastewater service to those we serve.

We look forward to serving you.

Form opinion based on facts

Serving on a jury is similar to voting in an election. People who have had an opportunity to closely examine both sides should be allowed to make the decision.

Selecting the jury for the O.J. Simpson murder trial is difficult. With his notoriety, it's taking a long time.

Admit it or not, we would suspect almost everyone has formed personal opinions about his guilt or innocence. Unfortunately, they have a closed mind about it, even before the actual trial begins.

These comments however, are not aimed at O.J. Simpson. Rather, they are to point out the difficulties encountered because of people who have a closed mind.

On Thursday, Oct. 27, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce is hosting a debate about casino gambling. It is, in effect, a dare to people we suspect have already decided how they will vote. Are people willing to listen to both sides, or has the proposal already been judged without learning the facts?

There is nothing wrong with voting according to one's personal beliefs.

The problem is when people vote for or against something without knowing anything beyond what they may have heard on the street, or when they discuss it with others who may actually be just as non-informed on the subject.

This debate is scheduled to present both sides of the issue. Each man will be given a specific length of time in which to state his views, then a brief time for rebuttal. In such a situation, it's not what many would call a "debate," in that it is not a continuous exchange of pro and con statements.

It will, nonetheless, be an opportunity for people to learn both sides of the issue. Each side can explain good points as well as bad points for the other.

We suggest that this debate, or the myriad pamphlet handouts and television and radio commercials on casino gambling, be used for informational purposes.

Yes, this November, vote your conscience. But in the meantime, allow your conscience to continue gathering information on all aspects of the question. Don't make such a major decision based on a closed mind or hearsay.

Huffington bashers miss the point

I was going to take a pass on the California Senate race pitting freshman Democrat Dianne Feinstein against her Republican challenger Michael Huffington.

But when I noticed that Huffington had come under savage attack by the running dogs of the media left - from Vanity Fair to Time magazine to the Democratic comic strip - I figured he must be doing something right. Perhaps the most impressive thing the one-term congressman from Santa Barbara has accomplished is to make a dead heat of a Senate contest that most political pros - Democrat and Republican alike - had conceded to the incumbent Feinstein at the beginning of the year.

Huffington managed to make up a 30-point deficit in the polls by spending $15 million (and counting) of his $75 million personal fortune to raise his profile with California's 9 million voters.

The predictable response from the Feinstein camp has been to yell that the Republicans are trying to "buy" his way into the Senate. But, to the minds of many Californians, better that Huffington finance his own campaign than rely on special-interest money as Feinstein is doing.

When all is said and done, the outcome of California's Senate race will not be decided by who spends what. What is far more important are the ideological differences between the two candidates.

On at least a handful of issues, Huffington and Feinstein really are not that far apart. Both favor so-called abortion rights, for instance. Both support the death penalty. Both agree that Congress should pass a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

But that is where the similarity ends. On most other defining issues, the candidates could not be further apart.

Take taxes for instance. Feinstein cast a crucial vote last year in favor of President Clinton's ill-conceived economic package, which not only imposed the largest tax increase in American history, but also will add another $1 trillion (that's right) to the national debt. If Feinstein had had the best interests of her constituents at heart, she would have joined fellow Democratic Sens. David Boren of Oklahoma, Richard Bryan of Nevada, Bennett Johnston of Louisiana, Frank Lautenberg of New Jersey, Sam Nunn of Georgia and Richard Shelby of Alabama in opposing the Clinton plan.

In so doing, she would have spared California's businesses and working families $37 billion in new taxes (or roughly $1,200 per resident) that are now being sent to Washington.

National defense is another area in which Huffington and Feinstein are far apart. Taking her marching orders from party leaders, the Democrat blithely voted for Clinton's $122 billion escalation of the military. Those severe cuts amounted to more than double the amount recommended by Colin Powell, who was serving at the time as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They were even double the level of cuts that Clinton himself pledged while campaigning for the White House.

It seems clear that Dianne Feinstein has placed faith in the Democratic Party leadership and the Clinton White House above the interests of her state.

The outcome of California's Senate race will not be decided by who spends what.

Staidness not so shocking

BOSTON - If Jesse Helms had known it would come out this way, he might have mortgaged the state of North Carolina to come up with the research funds. But when the conservative senator put the kibosh on federal money for a study of sex back in 1991, he didn't want to pay for filling in a landscape of incertiduousness.

O, ye of little faith. It turns out that the report, and the book released this week, presents a portrait of "Sex in America" that is anything but X-rated. Our national sex life is rather staid, especially compared to our sexual fantasies about this life.

Sex is by and large married and monogamous and if it's not hot, it's warm enough to please 88 percent of the couples. Some 75 percent of married men and 85 percent of married women remain faithful.

Singles who have to pursue sex actually have it less often than married people who only have to roll over in bed and bump into it.

Based on a sample of 3,432 Americans from 18 to 80, it appears that the average American has sex once a week in positions that would be familiar to their missionary forebears. Men have had a median number of six partners over their lifetime, women have had two.

Moreover, sex does not appear to be an animal instinct on the rampage, barely checked by willpower and fear of AIDS. It exists in a wide social context, not in an elevator, and by and large obeys a series of social rules. Americans meet, date and mate people from their own socioeconomic circle. If they see someone across a crowded room, it's likely to be a room crowded with friends and colleagues and people like them.

In short, we are not all Sharon Stone. In fact Sharon Stone probably isn't Sharon Stone.

Now staidness shouldn't be so shocking. Yet the University of Chicago researchers who have put "Sex in America" between hard covers have a good many myths to debunk. "We are not teakettles full of hot sexual steam."

It seems that we have had years of flawed research from Kinsey to Hite to Playboy. More to the point, we've had decades of what amounts to propaganda from Hollywood, television, and advertising suggesting that we are teakettles. Or, rather, that everybody else is a teakettle and we're just tap water.

For decades now, the boys and girls in the Calvin Klein ads, the zippers sex in the movies, the endless couplings on soap operas and talk shows, the gyrations on MTV, have all added up to an American counterlife. In this counterlife, somebody, maybe everybody-but-us, is going at it full steam ahead.

Now it's good news of a sort that this propaganda hasn't actually changed behavior. The sexual lessons from the media, the chief teaching tool of our times, haven't reproduced a generation of students practicing what the media preach. The soft porn on the movie screen hasn't spawned soft porn lives anymore than the slim waistlines of stars has made us a thin nation.

It turns out that we live in a land where sex has its place in the social order. Mostly married, mostly monogamous. It's a land where sex has its moments in a busy life - somewhere between 15 minutes and an hour, maybe once or twice a week.

Funny, but you'd never have guessed it by looking around.

Sex is by and large married and monogamous and if it's not hot, it's warm enough to please 88 percent of the couples.

Right to speak

In today's world we hear everyday about animal abuse, child abuse and abuse of environment, etc.

I make mention today of abuse of senior citizens because I am a senior citizen that is/was abused by your local mayor and her commission. In the meeting of the mayor and her commission on Oct. 10, 1994, I was prevented from speaking and so was my representative.

I went to this meeting to tell the mayor that I was present when the toilets overflowed into my home. I wanted to tell them because of the hour that this occurred, it was reported to the sewer department after 9 p.m. and I was too frightened to let anyone in my home.

I wanted to tell them that the city could have returned the following day to see all the damage from the sewer overflow but they never came. I wanted to tell them that the city manager was invited to my home numerous times over several weeks to see the damage but he never came to view the damages in the home. I wanted to tell them that I have a chronic bronchial condition that causes me to have to use a breathing machine periodically and that we could not leave that mess in my home until the city decided to do something about it for the odor from the waste and the mold and mildew would only make my condition worse by breathing unclean and unsanitary air.

I wanted to tell them that the toilets overflowed in February 1994 and the sewer department was called. At no time did any city employee ask to come in to view the damages. I wanted to tell them that the city does not keep the culverts cleaned out in front of my home and this causes flooding at my home. I wanted to tell them when it rains that my toilets will not flush properly and that my sinks will not drain properly and it is because my house was built too low. I wanted to tell them that the city sewer line is too low according to a local building contractor's advisement. I wanted to tell them this needed to be corrected if the contractor was right in his assumption. I wanted to tell them that I would like the city to raise my house so that it won't continue to flood from the sewer line and from the stormwater.

I wanted to tell them if the cost was too great for the city to bear that there was an alternative method expressed to Mr. Simmons which would be less in cost. I understand that there was no mention at the work session before the meeting by Mr. Simmons that an alternative method was suggested by the homeowner if the home could not be raised. The mayor never gave my witness (a resident of Michigan), a visitor to the home, opportunity to speak about the toilets overflowing. My daughter who shares the home was never afforded the opportunity to tell what happened. We three are all senior citizens who were denied the opportunity to speak.

If ever anyone was verbally abused, these senior citizens were, by the act of the mayor to deny us the opportunity to be heard. It is supposed to be a free country but at 83-years-old I believe my freedom to speak was taken away by an unconcerned mayor who exercised her authority to keep the evidence from being told. The mayor spoke of "good government." I wish I would have seen good government in action but what I did see was a mayor who could have cared less about the hardship being placed upon me by their advisement to their insurance company to deny our damage claim. To think I helped put this woman in office now upsets me for I realize she cares more about putting on a show that she did anything else.

If she cared about this resident she would have at least listened. The commissioners could have requested to hear more but they didn't. Not one of them cared even enough to listen to the plight of this senior citizen. I have read about this happening in communist countries but never dreamed I would experience this myself.

We filed a claim just as we were instructed to do by Mr. Simmons, the city manager. It was rejected by the insurance company because the city of Sanford advised the insurance company that they were not liable. If I were out driving my car and ran into the mayor's car and I called my insurance company and I said "Don't pay the damage," and my insurance company said "Ms. Jordan advised us not to pay and we aren't going to pay," wouldn't this seem a bit strange? Same principle here.

I know I have a limited time to live now and at 83 there are not many days left for me. I never dreamed that the city I have lived in since 1972 would ever put me through this hardship. I never dreamed I would live long enough to be denied the right to speak before my own city government. I never dreamed the non action of my commissioners would cause me such grief. Especially my commissioner, Mr. McClanahan, who just sat there and said nothing.

It is my understanding that the Good Book says that widows and orphans are to be helped. Guess the city of Sanford's mayor and commissioners do not read the same book I read. They should read Deuteronomy 27:19.

I thank you, Madame Editor, for allowing this 83-year-old mother to speak. I wish I had been treated differently by my city officials.

Clinton's future

The national Republican Party is impatient for election day to come. The Republicans need seven seats in the Senate and 40 in the House of Representatives to take control of Congress. They have not controlled the House of Representatives since the 1980s. The odds are that the Republicans will pick up 2 to 4 seats in the Senate and 15 to 25 seats in the House. Although they will not control either body in 1995, the Republicans and the conservative Democrats will effectively control the House and have the ability to block any major legislation in the Senate.

Democratic candidates across the country are running as fast and as far as they can from Pres. Clinton. Speaker Foley in Washington is over 15 points behind his Republican rival. Commercials run by Republican candidates tie Democratic congressional candidates to Pres. Clinton. The polls reveal that there is a strong feeling of dissatisfaction in the country. It is not strident in tone but just a feeling of something being wrong. It is not just with Perot voters, but broad based and, therefore much more dangerous to incumbents.

While most people conceded that the Democratic party is in trouble nationally, they also write off Bill Clinton as a one-term president. I think his obituary is being written prematurely. To begin with, a day in politics is a lifetime. Look at George Bush, who had the highest approval rating of any president in February of election year. Furthermore, the economy will be much better in November of 1996 than 1994. Whether Bill Clinton deserves credit or not, he will take it, and most Americans vote with their pocketbook.

One last important fact. Although the Republicans and conservative Democrats will be more of a factor in the Congress, this does not mean there will be gridlock. If there is one quality that Bill Clinton has, it is his ability to shift positions. If there is legislation that makes Bill Clinton look good, it won't stop him from working with Republicans. If I was establishing odds on the '96 race today, it would be a 50/50.

Road, just south of the Mayfair Country Club golf course. The land is presently owned by Mack Cleveland and Patricia Stenstrom. According to information submitted to P&Z, 106 single family homes are being proposed for approximately 20 acres of land. Two separate requests are agendized. One is for conditional use, and the other is for a dimensional variance (see below).

The land is bordered on three sides by the Mayfair golf course property, within the Sanford city limits. Other adjacent property, some of which is immediately north and west of West Crystal Drive, is outside the city limits, and consists of residential development.

Homeowners on adjacent and nearby property have expressed concern over differences between present development and the types of housing proposed for the Park Avenue Development Corporation project.

"From what we understand," said Dr. Bill Edwards, "they plan to have small lots with only five to ten feet between the houses and property lines, cramming those houses into almost every available bit of space. That's just not in keeping with the homes presently in the surrounding area.

The Sanford dentist explained that other homes have large lots, and have been occupied by long-time residents, some with as many as four generations in the same area.

Edwards said some of the area homeowners will be meeting privately tonight to discuss the proposal, then many plan to attend tomorrow night's P&Z meeting to voice their objections to the development.

"What we are primarily concerned with," Edwards said, "are traffic and safety problems, as well as the water runoff which such an extensive development will be producing."

Edwards said the property was annexed to the city approximately 20 years ago, and at one time was planned for some type of high density apartments, but the proposal was dropped in the mid 1970s. Since that time he said the land has remained relatively undeveloped.

The city's Director of Planning and Development, Jay Marder, is recommending the P&Z to approve both requests to be presented tomorrow night.

The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission will hold its regularly scheduled meeting this Thursday evening beginning at 7 p.m.

lot of people like the food fried.

"People like the fried fish," said Vivian Buck, co-owner of Buck's Restaurant in Sanford. "They're interested in the taste. I think. The health benefits are secondary."

Buck said the buffet is heavy with fried foods because those are the most often requested items.

Several steamed, baked and broiled items are available, but she said the fried items are "what people want."

The Center for Science in the Public Interest, which made waves with studies lambasting Chinese, Italian and Mexican fare and movie theater popcorn, says seafood restaurants offer a greater variety of healthy meals than other establishments.

"Bake it, broil it, blacken it, grill it - as long as you don't fry it - seafood is a great catch," said senior nutritionist Jayne Hurley.

"Do people want to eat healthier?" asked Rocco Monaco, manager of Otter's Riverside Restaurant in Sanford. "They come in and order what they like to eat. Even if they order baked fish, they brush it with butter and get it with a potato with everything on top of it. People order what they like."

The report, titled "Seafood: What a Catch," was released today.

low-fat and delicious choices available at seafood restaurants than at any other restaurants we've seen," she said.

The consumer advocacy group also released results of a national poll that found some public appreciation for its efforts, and reported that restaurants are making their menus healthier because of the prior studies.

Despite sodium levels that were high but below those found in meals at other restaurants the group has studied, Hurley said the nutritional leaders were baked, broiled, blackened, grilled or steamed seafood.

Flounder, cod, haddock, sole, shrimp, scallops, crabs and clams are the best choices because of their low fat and high vitamin and mineral content.

A good meal averaged 723 calories and 18 grams of fat when served with a baked potato and one tablespoon of sour cream, a salad with a tablespoon of low-calorie dressing and two dinner rolls with half a butter pat.

Fried fish was out of the question.

A fried seafood combo - almost a pound of fried fish, shrimp, clams and scallops served with tartar sauce, french fries, cole slaw and buttered biscuits - weighed in at 2,178 calories and 130 fat grams.

The recommended daily allotment for fat is 65 grams.

Information from the Associated Press was included in this report.

dollar Yankee Lake sewage treatment plant. The commissioners said they would work with county officials in hopes of reducing fees as an incentive for businesses to get on sewers. The more businesses on-line would increase sewage volume needed for Yankee Lake to operate. Even if the Longwood system is sold or turned over to the county, the city could continue to install lines within the city, Miller explained.

Lovestrand said several years ago, the city attempted to give the service to the county. However, county officials were not interested because of the bond debt still owed, he said.

A $103,800 sewer line project is already budgeted at Longdale and industry this fiscal year and commissioners hope to bring on-line the North Street Industrial at North Street and Forest with the property owner financing the majority of the construction costs. Jim Danahy, owner of Action Screen Printing, told the commissioners his septic system is not operating due to the high water table at his business. Installation of a dual septic system, now required, will not solve the problem, he added. Employees must use portable outside toilets.

The commissioners also agreed with a suggestion from Director of Public Works Fernand Tibler that casings for future sewer lines should be installed when the county widens County Road 427 to avoid expensive procedures at a later date. Longwood faces a $375,000 bill for relocating water lines along the road during the county construction and does not have sufficient revenues to install the sewer lines at this time. By adding the casings, however, the city will not have the expense of the bore-and-jack procedures or cutting the road later.

Sewer lines along State Road 434 are earmarked in the 1996 project list. The commissioners noted sewers are the key to development of commercial properties on vacant or underdeveloped land along the major roadway through the city. Benson noted the rapid development of businesses similar to what is taking place in nearby Lake Mary along Lake Mary Boulevard could also occur in Longwood after sewer lines are installed.

Originally proposed by the city engineer for 1996, 2000 and 2001, the commissioners placed all three sections of State Road 434 in the 1996 plan.

Baywood Industrial Park is slated in 1997. County Road 427 and Baywood, County Road 427 at State Road 434 and Baywood will be split between 1998-99. The historic district and Palmetto Industrial are also planned for 1998-99. East U.S. 17-92 from Centra Care to State Road 434 and State Road 434 to Oak along with Wilma Industrial (South State Road 434) are planned for the year 2000.

The estimated capacity is 164,850 gallons per day on the total sewer project. The total estimated construction cost $1,210,300.

ly 200 acres of land located within the city limits.

The city staff is also studying Seminole County's interim economic development incentive policy, to determine if the city should look into adopting a similar program of this type as well.

Among the key points of the city's plan will be to establish two levels: one for target uses, the other for support uses. Each will require large lots to allow for business expansion, and restrictions will have to be relaxed on open space, building heights and signage regulations.

While cluster residential concentrations will be allowed near the target industry district, residential development will be restricted within the district itself.

City officials predict property taxes won't increase in the area being designated as a target for industry development.

Two public hearings are scheduled. The first is Thursday. The second public workshop is expected to be scheduled for November 3, to present the first drafts of the city proposed amendments to the Comprehensive Plan and Land Development Regulations, which will be required in order to officially establish this district.

The special public meeting on this subject is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. this Thursday, in the commission chambers. The regular City Commission meeting will follow beginning at 7 p.m., or as soon thereafter as possible.

The Target Industry Development District meeting is open to the public, and interested persons are urged to attend.

wasn't aimed at his powerful supporter, Van Der Weide was required to go as the chairman of the commission, Adams said.

Furlong himself has not taken an Irish trip at county expense, according to Mann. In June 1993, Furlong hosted a $403 reception in Ireland for leading officials. The county paid for only the reception and not Furlong's travel or other personal expenses, said Mann.

Furlong defends the trips, saying they generate tourism which in turn produces revenue for the county. Through county ties with County Wicklow, Furlong said Florida Irish Festival will be held at Seminole Greyhound Park next March after a move from the Tupperware Auditorium in Kissimmee. The four-day festival attracts tens or thousands, he said.

Furlong also backs the county's support of amateur sports, the county's Tourist Development Council's top priority. Furlong said a recent men's softball tournament, promoted by tourism dollars, placed $8,000 in direct fees and concession earnings in county coffers, Furlong said.

Wert admits it's difficult to place a dollar value on the benefit derived from the Irish trips. But Wert says preliminary figures show the county benefited from the Irish national World Cup soccer team training here this summer. Wert said tourist tax collections were up 26 percent over the year before for June. The tax is paid on short-term lodging.

Wert said Hilton Altamonte Springs reported its best month ever in June.

Furlong said he played a large part for the county's focus on economic development and was the sponsor of an economic development incentive fund approved by his fellow commissioners.

Furlong says the attacks "smack of half-truths and innuendo," and says he expected as much from his former Democratic protégé. Furlong appointed Adams to the Road Impact Fee Citizen Advisory Committee on Jan. 12, 1993.

That's when Adams was a Democrat.

Elections supervisor Sandra Goard said Adams originally registered as a Republican in July 1988, but switched to Democrat in 1991. Adams switched back to the GOP on Sept. 30, 1993 - one day after Gov. Lawton Chiles announced the appointment of Carlton Henley to the county commission to replace the late Bob Sturm.

In Adams Sept. 21, 1993 application to the Governor's Office for the vacancy, he stated "As a Republican, I supported the Democratic ticket. This can be verified by contacting the current chairman of the Orange County DEC, Doug Head. I am a current member of the DEC."

Seminole County Democratic Party Chairman James Purdy said Adams was listed as a Precinct 36 committeeman in a May 21, 1993 party list. To be a committeeman, Purdy said registered Democrats must attend at least three meetings and sign an oath they will not contribute to or publically support a Republican against a Democrat.

Adams was not listed by Nov. 29, 1993, Purdy said.

Furlong said Adams was a frequent visitor to his third-floor office in the County Services Building and even solicited his endorsement of his commission appointment. Furlong said he was unimpressed with Adams' performance on the RIF CAB so did not endorse his application.

"His idea of commitment is the perceived benefit of the moment," said Furlong. "He wasn't just a Democrat. He was a Minister Democrat."

Adams explains his switches by saying he was always a Republican, but he became angrier at President George Bush's backtracking on his "Read my lips. No new taxes" pledge.

"If you look at my record, it hasn't changed," said Adams. "I've always been enthusiastic about cutting waste."

"I'm sure he's just trying to explain the frequent and sudden political shifts," said Furlong.

Second-ranked Lakeland Christian tips OCS Rams

From Staff Reports

MAITLAND — After scoring two goals in the game's first 15 minutes, visiting Lakeland Christian went on to post a 2-0 win and hand the previously undefeated Orangewood Christian School Rams their first loss of the fall boys' soccer season.

The OCS Rams, who won the Florida High School Activities Association's fall soccer state championship last year, came into the game with a 16-0 record and the No. 1 ranking in the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's state poll.

After beating the Rams, No. 2-ranked Lakeland Christian improves to 19-0.

"Both goals came off set pieces, one on a direct kick and one off of a corner kick," said Orangewood Christian coach Shawn Brower. "We knew what was coming both times and we still couldn't stop them."

Once in front, Lakeland Christian was able to shut out Orangewood Christian on six shots, only one of which required a save by the Lakeland Christian goalkeeper, and a corner kick.

Lakeland Christian finished with 10 shots on goal and four kicks, forcing the Rams' goalie to make three saves.

"Our defense did a pretty good job," said Brower. "But without Chris Miller and Jakob Hardrick (who missed the game for unspecified reasons), we just don't have any offense."

Brower is hoping to get Miller and Hardrick back in time for the Rams' next game, a home match this Friday at 4 p.m. against seventh-ranked Gainesville-Oak Hill.

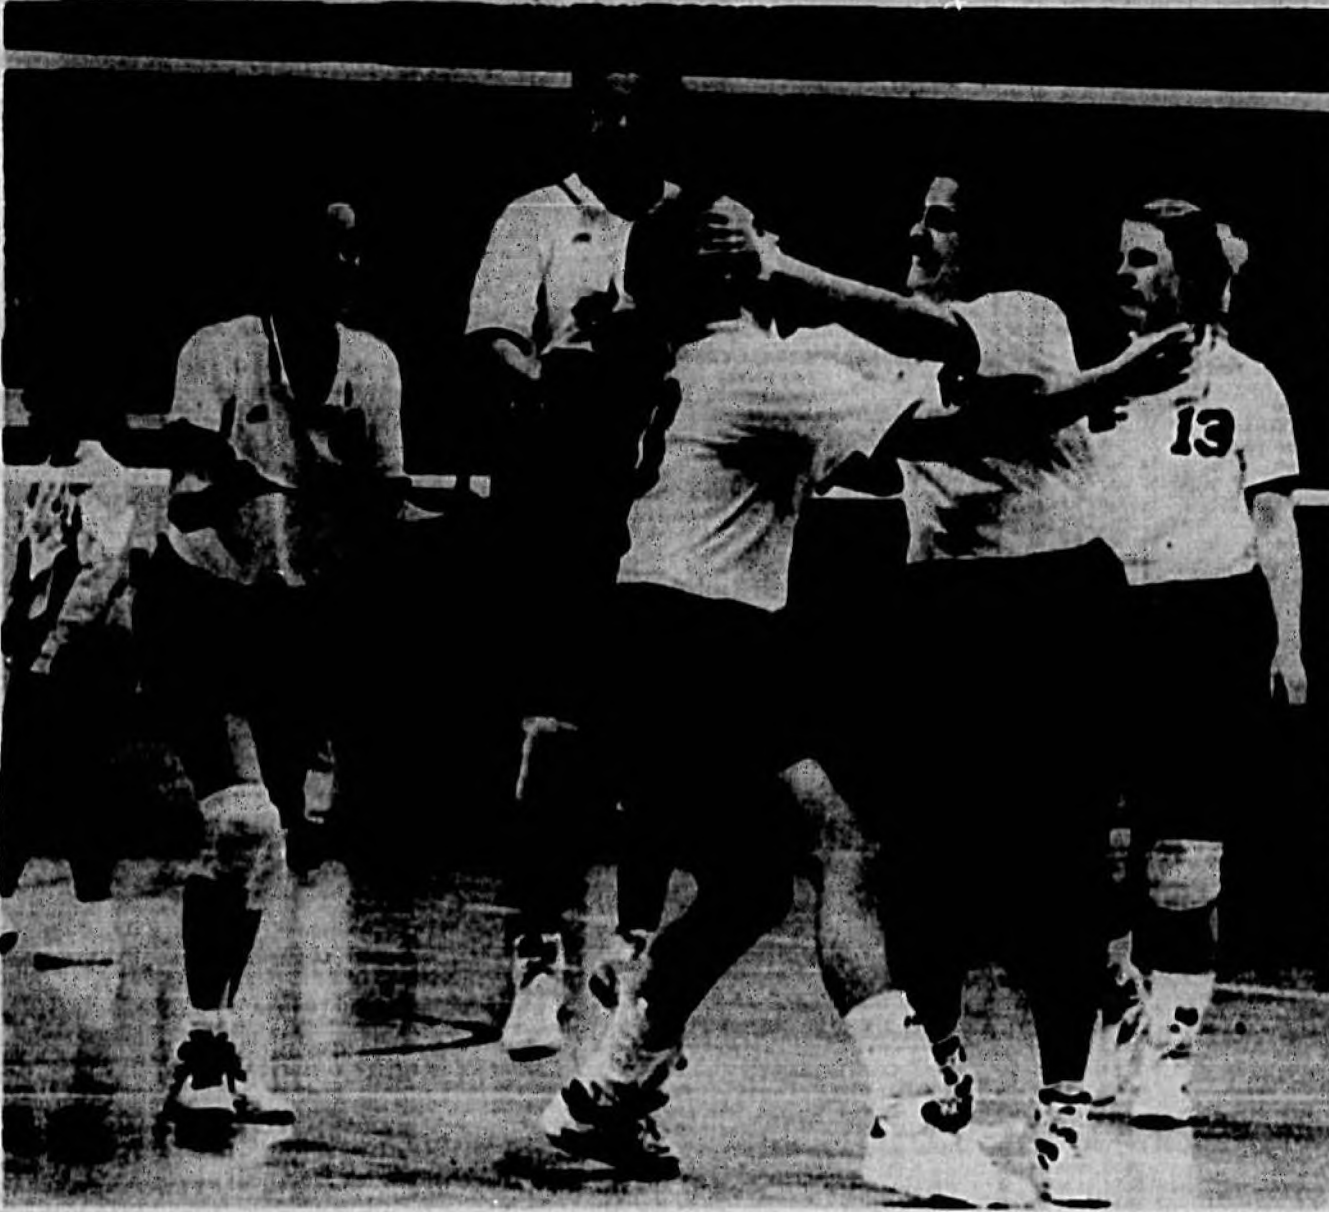

Also expected to play for the Rams is Sebastian Janethowski, who will make his Orangewood Christian debut now that he has gained his Florida eligibility after having moved to the area from Poland.

Despite losing the first game and facing three potential match points in the second game, Laurel Ecker (No. 4), Jill Mendelsohn, Jonnie Beland (No. 10), Jamie Mendelsohn (No. 16), Karen Kalicak (No. 13), and the Lyman Greyhounds managed to pull out an improbable 9-15, 17-15, 15-12 win over the Oviedo Lions Tuesday.

Greyhounds spoil Lions' party

By TONY BOGOSHIAN
Herald Sports Editor

OVIEDO — Lyman's Greyhounds ruined an otherwise perfect evening for the Oviedo Lion girls' volleyball team Tuesday.

Having received their first state ranking Monday in the Florida Sports Writers' Association's inaugural Class 6A volleyball state poll, the Lions were both celebrating Seniors' Night and attempting to clinch the Seminole Athletic Conference championship Tuesday.

The emotion of the evening was augmented by the last-minute arrival of Oviedo senior co-captain Lisa Liljenquist, who flew back from the funeral of a family member in Arizona to participate in the ceremony.

Having landed at Orlando International Airport shortly after 8 p.m., Liljenquist entered the Oviedo gym just as the pregame warmups had ended and the ceremony was about to begin.

All the Lions needed was a win to make it a perfect night.

But the Lyman Greyhounds, sparked by the clutch performance of Angel Rhodes and strong net play by Carolyn Crager and Laurel Ecker, provided the ultimate wet blanket, rallying from a first-game loss and three match points to beat Oviedo 9-15, 17-15, 15-12.

"This is just awesome," said Lyman coach Christy Tibbitts, who registered the first volleyball coaching win over Oviedo of her career. "The girls were psyched tonight. They were ready."

"Before the match, we talked about Oviedo being ranked, about how they were honoring their seniors and trying to clinch the conference championship tonight. And we decided we weren't going to make it easy for them."

The match wasn't easy on anyone who witnessed it. Using the metaphor of a pendulum to describe volleyball's often-changing momentum, that bad boy was whipping back and forth at neck-wrenching speed Tuesday night.

Jamie Mendelsohn, who played the match hampered by a sore left hand (her strong side), opened the first game with a six-point service run for Lyman. When Shannon Munns answered immediately with a four-point tear for Oviedo match, the tone was set.

With Liljenquist on the bench to start the match, the early going was marked by a quick shootout featuring Oviedo's Stephanie Noiseux and Lyman's Carolyn Crager.

After getting the serve back for Oviedo with a solo block, Noiseux put down a pair of kills to get the Lions

Sunniland Corp., Gress Towing win in a hurry

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The co-leaders in the Sanford Recreation Department Women's Fall Slowpitch Softball League had little trouble in staying tied as they both cruised to mercy-rule victories at Pinchurst Park Tuesday night.

Sunniland Corporation and Gress Towing are both 3-1 on the season, while Oop! is 0-4. Next week, Sunniland Corporation hosts the

McCabe wins race, but Wood takes title

By Peter Macchiarola
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Cocon's Dave McCabe won the Late Model feature event last Friday night, Oct. 14, at Orlando Speedworld, but Ricky Wood — despite a last-place finish — took the 1994 FASCAR Late Model points championship.

McCabe, who took the lead on lap 14 from early leader Mack Hanbury, held off repeated challenges from Dick Douglas and Tuffy Hester to win his second feature event of the season.

Finishing behind McCabe, Douglas and Hester were Hanbury and Craig Reynolds. Wood, last week's feature winner at Orlando, started the race from the seventh position. On lap seven, he pulled into the pits with mechanical problems. After some lengthy work on his car, Wood returned to the race on lap 15 but was never in contention.

"I feel bad about dropping out tonight," said Wood, who has 11 feature wins on the season. "I feel awfully good, though, about winning the championship."

more-to-tail and wheel-to-wheel in the Limited Late Model main event with Mike gaining the advantage over his brother at the checkers.

Chasing the Todd brothers to the stripes were Michael Williams, Andy Saffell, and Gary Schlicher. With a pass on the back straightaway of the last lap, Mike Peppier got around Brian Schlammer and held on to win the Bomber feature. Peppier crossed the finish line inches in front of Schlammer, who was trailed by Bobby Stevens, Dale Napier, and Bill Gibbons.

Barbara Pierce cruised to her 12th Sportsman win of the season. Jim Robinson was second with Art Chapman, Rusty Edwards, and Walt Loggins in tow.

Dave Sevicki — the feature event winner at New Smyrna Speedway on Oct. 15 — raced bumper-to-bumper with Greg Hughes for the first 11 laps in the Modified headliner. Four laps to the checkers, John Lovelady squeezed between the two, allowing Sevicki to pull away to a four-car advantage.

But Ecker snuffed the rally with a kill off a set by Jamie Mendelsohn, who finally served the match-winning point on the Greyhounds' fifth attempt.

The outcome means that Oviedo (19-3, 8-1 SAC) will have to beat Lake Brantley on Thursday to wrap up the conference crown. Lyman (13-4, 8-2 SAC), which could earn a share of the SAC title if Lake Brantley upsets the Lions, is off until the 6A-District 4 tournament next week at Oviedo.

"This was really important for us," said Tibbitts. "Now the girls know what they can do when they play together, when they play as a team. This is definitely a plus going into the districts."

SANFORD — Taking advantage of their host's trouble receiving serve in the third game, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks hung on for a 15-7, 12-15, 15-3 varsity girls' volleyball victory over the Seminole Fighting Seminoles Tuesday at the Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

Lake Howell also won the junior varsity match in three games (15-2, 13-15, 15-4) and swept the freshman match in two games.

"We had some serve receive trouble in the third game and that got us off to a bad start," said Seminole coach Beth Corso. "We were able to get it taken care of, but we just couldn't get anything going."

Seniors Christina Campbell and Jill Jasevic led the Tribe's effort. Campbell collecting six assists, 28 other good sets, three good spikes, three dinks, and three digs while Jasevic contributed six kills, five other good spikes, eight blocks, six digs, and three dinks.

Aubrey Nelson had eight kills, seven good spikes, two blocks, one dink, and three digs. Mariana Alford added 19 digs and five blocks. Sabrina Sapp posted seven digs, seven blocks, and one dink. Chipping in with digs were Yuka Shimira (seven), Dawn Traina (five), Liza Jones (four), and Vliaphone Ratanavong (three).

Seminole (13-16 overall, 0-9 SAC) travels to Leesburg for a match this evening. Lake Howell hosts Deltona tonight.

What's Cooking?

Experience a tasty Florida seafood venture

On Oct. 11, Florida Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford introduced a cabinet resolution proclaiming October as "Florida Seafood and Aquaculture Month." Following the Cabinet meeting, the governor and Cabinet accepted a variety of seafood dishes including the accompanying recipes.

According to Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, more than 180 million pounds of fresh seafood is harvested annually, making seafood an important part of the state's $6 billion agriculture industry. Florida ranks first in the United States with more than 500 seafood processing and wholesaling plants.

Consumers may receive three free brochures and recipes on Florida seafood. To receive the series, send a self-addressed, stamped, legal-sized envelope to: Seafood Recipe Brochures, Fla. Dept. of Agriculture and Consumer Services, Bureau of Seafood and Aquaculture, 2061 East Dirac Drive, Tallahassee, FL 32310.

Enjoy these recipes. For perfectly cooked shrimp:

1. Bring enough water to cover the shrimp to a vigorous boil. Season the water according to personal taste, adding 1 or more of the following: salt, vinegar, beer, prepared commercial "season blend, allspice, mixed pickling spices, whole peppercorns, bay leaves or lemon slices.

2. Drop the shrimp into the boiling water and begin timing immediately. Cook for 1-5 minutes, according to the size of the shrimp, until the shrimp are tender and no longer translucent in the center. (Check for doneness by breaking a shrimp in half).

3. Drain shrimp and immediately "shock" the shrimp by immersing it in a bowl of ice water. This will halt the cooking process and prevent overcooking.

Shrimp Linguine

1 lb. cooked shrimp, peeled and deveined

Parmesan cheese (optional)
 Melt butter with olive oil in a large skillet. Add garlic, mushrooms and green onions; saute until tender.

Add shrimp and heat through. Stir in parsley.
 Serve over hot, cooked linguine; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Discover versatility of turkey

Turkey is a good choice for healthy heart

Trim calories as well as your budget, have more turkey in your meals. Turkey is high in protein yet low in fat and cholesterol, making it a good choice for a healthy heart food plan. It is milder flavored than many meats, making it readily enhanced by seasonings and sauces. It also can be substituted in many of your favorite family recipes such as chili or sloppy joes.

Discover the versatility of turkey as you enjoy trying these easy microwave recipes.

This is a colorful and flavorful old favorite.

SPANISH TURKEY SOCS

3 slices bacon
1 lb. ground turkey
1 small onion, chopped
2 cups chopped fresh tomato
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 cup quick-cooking rice
1/4 cup snipped fresh parsley
1/4 cup sliced ripe olives
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 green pepper, cut into rings

Place bacon between paper towels and microwave on 100 percent power 2-3 minutes or until crisp. Remove bacon and set aside. Discard drippings. Crumble turkey into dish; add onion. Microwave (100 percent), uncovered, 5-6 minutes or until meat is no longer pink, stirring once. Stir in tomato, tomato sauce, rice, parsley, olives, salt, paprika and pepper.

Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100 percent power 4-5 minutes or until hot. Stir rice and arrange pepper slices on top. Crumble bacon on top. Cover. Microwave (100 percent) 3-4 minutes until pepper is tender-crisp. About 6 servings.

Serve this entree with a salad and vegetable for a luncheon or dinner.

TURKEY A LA KING WITH NOODLES

8 oz. uncooked noodles
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 tsp. salt
3 green onions, sliced
2 cups (8 oz.) sliced fresh mushrooms
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. instant chicken bouillon
1/2 tsp. cream-style horseradish
2 cups milk
2 cups cubed cooked turkey

2 Tbsp. white wine
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1/4 cup snipped parsley

Cook noodles as directed on package; drain and rinse in cold water. Combine eggs, sour cream and salt; mix well. Fold in noodles. Spread in buttered 9-inch micro-safe pie plate. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on 70 percent power 7-8 minutes or until just about set. Set aside. Combine green onions, mushrooms and butter in 4-cup glass measure. Microwave on (100 percent) 2-3 minutes or until mushrooms are just about tender, stirring once. Stir in flour, chicken bouillon, horseradish and milk.

Microwave (100 percent), uncovered, 7-8 minutes until mixture boils and thickens, stirring once. Stir in turkey, wine, beaten egg yolks and parsley.

Microwave (100 percent) uncovered, 3-4 minutes or until bubbly around edge, stirring once.

To serve, cut noodle mixture into wedges. Spoon sauce mixture over each serving.

*Turkey mixture can be served over mashed potatoes, rice or patty shells.

Chili is even better if it is made ahead so flavors have longer to blend. Keep individual portions in the freezer for quick lunches.

TURKEY CHILI

1 lb. ground turkey

1 small onion, chopped
1/2 cup green pepper, chopped
2 cups fresh tomato, chopped or a 16 oz. can whole tomatoes chopped and undrained.

1 can (15 oz.) chili-style kidney beans, undrained
1 cup zucchini, sliced
1-3 tsp. chili powder
1/2 tsp. salt
Crumble ground turkey into 2-quart casserole. Add onion and green pepper.

Microwave (100 percent) uncovered, 5-6 minutes or until no longer pink, stirring once. Stir in tomatoes, beans, zucchini, chili powder and salt. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave (100 percent) 12-14 minutes or until heated through and flavors are blended, stirring once.

Chunky Garden Gazpacho

Chilled soup goes back to the basics for new taste treat

Gazpacho, the famous chilled soup of Spain, travels to the New World via Asia to take on a new taste in "Chunky Garden Gazpacho." Like the original, diced tomatoes and cucumber are used — then the flavorful difference happens. Asian and Mexican seasonings and ingredients — naturally brewed light soy sauce, sherry, cilantro, hot pepper sauce and black beans — are added to create a refreshing, zesty soup.

The benefit of light soy sauce is that it has the ability to bring all of the individual flavors into balance. It also has less sodium than regular brewed soy sauce. The result retains all of its distinctive qualities. Taking little time to prepare, you'll enjoy the worldly zing of the hearty, spicy soup.

CHUNKY GARDEN GAZPACHO

2 pounds fresh tomatoes,

seeded and diced
3 Tbsp. light soy sauce, divided
2 Tbsp. dry sherry
1 can (15 oz.) black beans, rinsed and drained
1 cup diced seeded cucumber
3 Tbsp. minced fresh cilantro or parsley
1/4 tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce

Combine tomatoes, 1 Tbsp. light soy sauce, sherry and 1 1/2 cups water in medium saucepan. Cover; bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and cool, then refrigerate until thoroughly chilled. Stir in beans, cucumber, cilantro, pepper sauce and remaining 2 tablespoons of light soy sauce. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings.

A word of warning to do-it-yourself electrical workers

DEAR ABBY: I recently experienced a tragic loss. My husband was electrocuted in our swimming pool. I feel an obligation to warn others who are planning to put a swimming pool on their property.

My husband was in our swimming pool, and for some reason, he reached over to plug in the pump. The long prong on the 110-volt plug had broken off in the receptacle, and the second prong touched the box, causing an electrical shock that killed my husband instantly! The coroner said he had a massive heart attack.

This could have been prevented. My husband and a friend of his did the electrical work themselves, which seemed like a good way to save some money. Now I realize that one should always get a qualified electrician to do all electrical work.

It is too late for my husband, but I am writing so others can be warned not to make the terrible mistake my late husband made. Sign me ...

A YOUNG WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Thank you for writing to warn others. Your message will reach millions of people, and let's hope they'll realize the importance of hiring a qualified electrician to do all their electrical work.

DEAR ABBY: Today I read something in your column that makes me want to blow my top.

Anyone who knows anything about radio knows that you never say "over and out." "Over" means that I'm going to let you talk now, while "out" means I'm hanging up. I'm outta here.

Talk about a slap in the face: "over and out" really is one.

If you have to say something, say "over" or say "out," whichever one is appropriate. Never, never both.

JIM BARNHART, EDGWOOD, TEXAS

DEAR JIM BARNHART: Thanks for the lesson in radio jargon. It is very much appreciated. Out.

DEAR ABBY: I think you and Letitia Baldrige, your etiquette expert, should update your rules on writing thank-you notes.

You both are entirely out of line to expect a written thank-you note for a card expressing sympathy.

When my father died, my mother received 150 sympathy cards. People who sent flowers or food — and there were close to 50 — were thanked with individual notes, which we purchased in a card shop. We signed our names and wrote a line or two to very special friends. I think it is entirely out of line to expect the bereaved (especially those on a fixed income) to spend $50 for stamps alone, plus another $10 to $20 for cards.

ADVICE

If I thought that every sympathy card I sent required a thank-you card, I would stop sending them out of consideration for the bereaved. I would either telephone or call on them personally.

I wonder how many others feel the same way?

MARY ELLEN HALL, TUPPER LAKE, N.Y.

DEAR MARY ELLEN HALL: According to the mail I've already received, I would venture to guess that several thousand readers agree with you.

DEAR ABBY: When my girl and I started going together, I asked her to please get her teeth fixed, as she needed it badly. I even offered to pay for it. She agreed to see a dentist, but she never did. I know she hasn't been to a dentist in a good many years.

We are planning to be married in a few months. Last night I reminded her of her promise and told her to start right away so she would look nice for our wedding. She turned very cold on me and said she didn't want to discuss it.

Abby, she's a very pretty girl, but her teeth are ugly. When she smiles, it spoils her looks.

She's a wonderful person in every other way. But her teeth are so bad, I would even postpone our wedding until she gets them fixed. What should I do?

THE GROOM

DEAR GROOM: The only logical reason for your fiancée to duck the dentist is fear. She needs to be assured that dentistry has come a long way since she was a little girl. Offer to go with her and let the dentist examine her mouth and explain exactly what must be done. A neglected mouth is not only unsightly, it's unhealthy. She may be a wonderful girl, but she needs to grow up and face reality. Help her.

Tuesday lineup puts ABC at top of ratings

By SCOTT WILLIAMS
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — With five of its shows in the Top 10, ABC coasted to ratings victory on its Tuesday lineup of "Home Improvement," "Grace Under Fire" and "NYPD Blue."

For the fourth consecutive week of the new season, "Home Improvement" was TV's top-rated show, drawing more than 34.2 million viewers. "Grace Under Fire" was second, according to Nielsen ratings released Tuesday.

The season premiere of "NYPD Blue" finished eighth for its highest ratings ever, and ABC's "Monday Night Football" was sixth.

ABC won the week of Sept. 10-16 with a 12.4 rating and a 20 percent audience share. NBC edged out a second place finish by one-tenth of a ratings point, earning an 11.5 rating, 19 share to CBS' 11.4 rating and 19 share.

NBC had nine of the Top 20 shows, with "Seinfeld" finishing third and its new-season hit "ER" in fourth place. CBS squeaked its venerable "60 Minutes" into fifth place, and "Murder, She Wrote" was ninth.

A single ratings point equals 954,000 TV homes, or 1 percent of the nation's estimated 95.4 million TV homes. Share is the percentage of sets in use that are tuned to a network or show during a specified time period.

Among the evening newscasts, ABC's "World News Tonight" was first, with a 9.8 rating, 20 share — its 110th victory in the past 111 weeks. "CBS Evening News" was second with an 8.6 rating, 17 share. "NBC Nightly News" was a close third with an 8.5 rating, 18 share.

Here are the Top 10 shows, their networks and ratings:

"Home Improvement," ABC, 21.0; "Grace Under Fire," ABC, 20.1; "Seinfeld," NBC, 20.0; "ER," NBC, 19.1; "60 Minutes," CBS, 18.3; "NFL Monday Night Football," ABC, 18.1; "Roseanne," ABC, 18.0; "NYPD Blue," ABC, 17.4; "Murder, She Wrote," CBS, 17.0; "Frasier," NBC, 15.9.

Does bowel disorder lead to cavities?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm experiencing cavities and problems with my teeth. My dentist informed me that part of my problem could possibly be from the saliva and acidity in my stomach. I do have irritable bowel problems and am curious if there is a connection.

DEAR READER: There is ordinarily no connection between dental disease and irritable bowel syndrome, a chronic condition marked by poor digestion, gas, constipation and/or diarrhea.

There is, however, a relation between dental disease and eating disorders, especially bulimia, which is characterized by binge eating followed by self-induced vomiting. The gastric acid in the vomit will cause deterioration of dental enamel, leading to cavities.

Therefore, unless you vomit periodically (in which case you need medical attention), follow your dentist's advice about suitable oral hygiene and the use of fluoride to strengthen your teeth.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 56-year-old male and never had a reaction to poison ivy until six years ago. The reaction seems to get more severe each year. What changes occur after 50 to cause this to happen? Is there a treatment for poison ivy?

DEAR READER: Although increasingly severe reactions to poison ivy are not related to age, they can be devastating, because with each bout of blisters your body becomes more sensitive to the juices of the ivy plant.

You should ask your doctor about desensitization injections with a product called Poison Ivy Extract. You initially would receive three injections, spaced a week or so apart, followed by a booster every spring. Such a program will markedly diminish your reactions to poison ivy.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been on a low dose of prednisone for the past couple of years. I'm in my 30s. My doctor has suggested I get a flu shot each year because of my chronic disease and my daily intake of prednisone. However, the last time I had my prednisone refilled, the instructions at the pharmacy were to avoid vaccines while taking the drug. Now I'm really confused.

DEAR READER: Because prednisone (a cortisone drug) inhibits the immune system, people taking this medicine should avoid "live" vaccines (those containing living microorganisms). Vaccines such as flu shots that contain killed microorganisms are safe to use.

Follow your doctor's advice; your pharmacist is merely being properly cautious.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Michel Eyquem de Montaigne, in the 16th century, wrote: "Our wisdom and deliberation for the most part follow the lead of chance."

Well, when you make an opening lead at the bridge table, there is, of course, an element of chance. But if you have listened closely to the bidding and built up a picture of the opposing hands, you should do better than someone who is picking a suit at random.

What would you lead from the West hand against three no-trump in today's deal?

South was too strong to make a one-no-trump overall in the balancing position, which shows about 12-14 points. So, he doubled first and then rebid in no-trump after his partner's strength-showing cue-bid. Being a textbook sort of chap, West led the heart 10.

The dummy came down and South saw that he had two aces to dislodge. Yet while he was doing that, it was obvious West would establish and run his heart suit. There was but one chance. When East produced the heart jack, South played low. As East didn't have another heart to lead, the contract was safe. South, still having two heart stoppers, was a tempo ahead of West.

That was well played, but now consider the difference it makes if West makes the imaginative opening lead of the heart king. Even if this pins the singleton queen in East's hand, the contract will still go down (unless dummy has a long minor suit). West is one step ahead. He establishes his heart suit before South has driven out both of West's aces.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Oost
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 20, 1994

Several interesting proposals for joint ventures might be brought to your attention in the year ahead. Their chances for success will be determined by the caliber of the people involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be both prudent and defensive in money matters today, especially if conducting business with a person or firm in whom you don't completely trust. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your pride might be your Achilles' heel today. Don't treat situations as serious affronts when friends only mildly disagree with you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually you're the type of person who is willing to help others. Today, however, you might step out of character and turn your back on someone who really needs your assistance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Beware of your inclination to split hairs today in your involvement with others. This could create serious complications if something of value must be divided.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To be effective today, you must be focused and single minded. If you attempt to do one thing while your thoughts are on another, failure is probable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you're likely to be more productive and a better performer when left to your own devices. Try to get out from under the heavy gaze of supervisors.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be patient in your financial and commercial affairs today. If you feel impelled to take erratic action to stimulate situations, it could be detrimental rather than helpful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to be unbiased today when dealing with people you don't like. Indifferent or spiteful actions on your behalf could boomerang.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Tasks or assignments you usually handle in stride might prove difficult today, especially if you're working with ineffective aids.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Being a big spender in hopes of impressing others is a foolish role to play today. Don't insist on picking up the check if everyone has already agreed to pay his/her share.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though your motives may be laudable today regarding the objectives you hope to achieve, you must be very careful that the tactics you use are equally laudable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you might be a bit more talkative than usual and this could create complications. You might say something you shouldn't and end up trying to extricate your foot from your mouth.
