CHAPTER 30

When the heavy-set man and the woman had moved away, Pete said to Gallagher, "You'll have plenty of visitors today."

"Yeah," the seaman said, "but a lot of questions. That kind of just left—he hasn't any sense about boats."

"People don't, unless they live around water."

Gallagher shrugged. "I know that. That's a government boat out there, the gray job."

"Coast Guard."

"That's right. Come it brought to some of the big fellows. He looked at Pete as if he expected him to volunteer some information. There was a peculiar note in his voice that caused Pete to wonder. Did the man want confirmation of his conjecture regarding the reason for the Coast Guard cutter's being there?

"Who said anything?" Gallagher said, looking off to where the boat was anchored. "Too many boats crowded in here today... I couldn't get out. May be to do it yet."

When Pete was back on Main Street, he saw the heavy-set man and dark woman getting into a car. It was a gray Packard, with a license plate indistinguishable from rust. That was a little queer because the car was new. When he came closer, he saw that they were arguing.

When he was near enough, he said, "Hello!"

The man's expression changed instantly. "Oh—you're the young fellow we saw down on the water front just now... Tell me, is there a bar around here?"

Bill pointed out the Gibson Hotel a couple of blocks down the street. He told them there was a bar in the hotel and there was also one at Maud's Tavern just across the causeway.

"You live here?" the man asked.

"Yes, I was born here."

"Guess you like it, then. For myself, I've never understood what anybody does in a place like this. Any industry?"

"Oh—fishing, principally," Pete said vaguely. "Apalachicola has the largest oyster beds in the world. Mostly, we just—live. We don't hurry through life."

"That's good," the man said good-naturedly. "If you had a chance to hurry these days, well, I'd be hunting that drink. Thanks for the information."

The woman said something in Spanish to the man as the car backed from the parking space. Pete watched them park and enter the Gibson Hotel, then he went to look for Bill. He found him at the Park and told him what had happened.

"What did they look like?"

"The man was stocky. Well dressed, sporting a big diamond like a lump of ice. The woman was slender and dark, a good looking. Reminded me a little of Rita."

Bill stopped suddenly and looked at Pete. "Are you sure they're still at the Gibson?"

"Yes. He was hunting a bar. I directed him there. He didn't seem to be in any hurry."

"What sort of car were they driving? What license tag?"

"A gray Packard. I looked at the license but I couldn't read it. It was bent and rusty looking. Even the description tally sheet the people you're looking for?"

"The woman's description does. That car had already been spotted."

"Didn't you better go down to the Gibson?"

"It's better that I stay away. They're being covered anyway. And I don't want Alvarez to know that I have anything on my mind other than enjoying the day."

Pete stopped suddenly. "There's Peggy," he exclaimed, "with Rita and Priscilla! I completely forgot that I promised to pick Peggy up at eleven. I'm going to have to think fast."

Peggy didn't seem at all disturbed. She said they were three deserted females. Dick had called Priscilla and when she finally agreed to see him, he didn't show up, so she, Priscilla, and Rita had come together.

"Dick had an emergency," Bill said. "I talked to him. He tried to call you again, Priscilla, but you had already gone. Then he turned to Peggy. And you're going to have to excuse Pete, too. I had some business and wanted him to help me."

"I know," Peggy said cheerfully. "But no one should have business on Harbor Day."

Bill's eyes moved over the three girls. "I understand Alvarez is having a breakfast party on his yacht after the ball tonight. Anybody here invited?"

"I'm not," Peggy said immediately. "The Stanleys always have a breakfast party at their Lodge and we're supposed to go there."

"Maybe it would be more fun on the yacht."

"But we aren't invited on the yacht," Rita said.

"I have an idea that party is something Alvarez thought up on the spur of the moment," Bill offered. "But he'll probably carry it through. If he should have it and invite you, I wish you'd all go."

Pete said, "You know, Bill, I had that same idea—that Alvarez planned the party on the spot. If he really did intend to move out, he probably thought no one would suspect."

"We're still here," Peggy said. "What on earth are you talking about?"

Bill told them about the visit to the Gibson Hotel that morning. Rita said, "The man who went with you wore from the government boat, weren't they?"

Bill looked at her steadily. "How did you know?"

"I didn't," she shrugged slightly. "It was just a hunch. And I was bent and rusty looking. Even the description tally sheet the people you're looking for?"

Bill gave her another glance and said nothing.

Rita looked at her watch. "It isn't quite time to get in line for dinner. I'm going to run over to the post office to mail a letter. I'll find you somewhere on the grounds when I get back." She stopped as she caught sight of Dick.

Dick came up, apologizing for his delay.

"Remember all visitors are in one line, home folks in another," Peggy reminded Rita. "Bill, you have to get in line with Rita and Priscilla—you're really a visitor, you know."

"No use to get in line yet," Dick said. "There's plenty of time. Priscilla and I will walk around awhile."

"That leaves me out in the cold," Bill said. "Unless Rita will let me go to the post office with her."

"I wouldn't think of taking you away from the festivities," Rita said. "I'll be right back." She turned and walked away, giving him no chance to go with her.

Bill watched her get into her car. He was sure she had no letter to mail. Where was she going? As he had no particular interest in the speeches, he got into his own car and turned it toward town. He had almost reached the hotel when he saw the man and woman Pete had told him about come out. He slowed his car to a crawl. Another car got in his way, but he saw Rita stop her car, get out, and he thought the man said something to her before she started up again.

Governor, Benson Are To Discuss Agriculture Query

WINTER HAVEN (FNS) Governor LeRoy Collins is expected to discuss citrus and general Florida agricultural problems when he meets here with Secretary of Agriculture, Nathan Mayo, Friday, Feb. 13 as a part of the "Florida Agriculture Day" feature of the Florida Citrus Exposition.

The Governor has reshuffled a tight schedule of meetings and appearances to allow him to visit the citrus show, Winston Lawless, FCE president, said recently.

"The meeting of Governor Collins Secretary Benson and Commissioner Mayo should result in pointing up some of the problems such as water resources, spreading decline, the Med fly and the expansion of our export market for Florida citrus," Lawless said.

Lawless said the Governor, Benson and Mayo would be presented to a nationwide TV audience on the Garry Moore (CBS) show Friday morning, which runs for 90 minutes over the entire network. Moore is bringing his daily shows along with his Wednesday night "I've got a Secret" panel show to the Exposition beginning Monday, Feb. 11.

This is the first time in seven years of TV broadcasting that Moore has "gone remote," taking his show out of New York.

Posture Affects Health

By JAMES E. HENNING, M.D.

GOOD posture is a habit. Unfortunately, poor posture is, too. Good posture is desirable for appearance's sake, but it's also essential for good health. Whether you're standing or sitting, posture has a direct effect on your efficiency, comfort and body functions.

If you slump, you not only feel uncomfortable, but your blood circulation is reduced, your breathing is shallow and your abdominal organs sag and function improperly. You'll probably become tired much more easily.

Good Posture

Proper posture, on the other hand, permits use of the body in the simplest and most effective way. Because of proper balance, rhythm, timing, coordination and muscle contraction and relaxation, you can do everything much more easily if you maintain good posture.

What is good posture? Well, you should appear to be standing straight when viewed from the side. An imaginary vertical line should be able to pass through the ankle, hip, shoulder and ear.

Natural Position

You don't have to assume a military stance. Good, straight posture actually is a natural position. Practice it and it soon will become a habit.

First, of course, you'll have to break the poor posture habit many of you undoubtedly have. The backbone and feet and legs may have posture will help remind you of the need for doing something about it.

Some persons may be unable to assume good posture even though they try. Luckily they are in the minority. But if you find that it is virtually impossible to stand in an erect position, better see your doctor about it.

Sometimes there are physical imperfections which contribute to bad posture. This is a problem for your physician.

COMMON AND ANSWER

Q. B.: What are the symptoms of tumor of the brain?

A.: Symptoms of brain tumor depend upon the size and location of the tumor within the brain.

Most brain tumors cause headaches, disturbances of the various sensations and sense organs, such as the eyes; at times, attacks of vomiting may occur.

If a tumor of the brain is suspected, immediate study by a neurologist is advisable.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CORT

SOMEONE IS SURE to write a book about the Ritz Hotel in Paris. It dates back to 1893, when the gay Prince of Wales (later King Edward VII) summoned Charles Ritz and told him, "I want a nice, secluded little hotel in Paris where I can steal off for occasional—or, relaxation. It must have English service, American plumbing, and French cooking!"

Ritz went back to Paris and bought the Lausum Palace on the Place Vendôme. It contained only twenty apartments, the demand for which was so insistent that Ritz expanded less than two years later.

He bought a structure on the Rue Cambon, built an arcade to connect it with the Lausum Palace and that's the way it's been ever since—208 rooms with a staff of 480 to give guests the kind of service they wish they were accustomed to.

No electricity is allowed in the kitchen; the chefs claim it makes the "specialites de la maison" taste different—and heaven forbid that anything come along to disturb the ritual established 64 years ago!

Atomic, Hydrogen Bomb Production Increasing; Plant Expansion Needed

Dulles Defended By Ike Against Charges Of Demos

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower stoutly defended Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today against Democratic charges that Dulles' diplomacy has failed in the Middle East.

Criticism of Dulles has mounted since Congress began consideration of Mr. Eisenhower's "fight it out" plan to defend the Middle East against aggression.

The House expects a final vote on the proposal this afternoon.

The President told his news conference that he has no reason to change his opinion expressed Jan. 19, 1956, that Dulles is the best secretary of state he has ever known.

The President added today that Dulles to the best of his knowledge has never undertaken any foreign policy act which the President disapproved.

The Democratic fire has become so heavy that some senators have suggested Dulles' dismissal.

Answering this criticism, Mr. Eisenhower said he had noticed that Dulles' critics had not come with any constructive proposal of what should have been done—even with the advantage of hindsight.

Shriners Announce Hospital Expansion Improvement Plan

MILAMI (UP)—The board of trustees of the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children announced today an $8,500,000 expansion and improvement program for their 17 hospitals across the country.

Galloway Calhoun, president and chairman of the board from Tyler, Tex., said $4,500,000 would go to operation of the hospital clinics, $1,500,000 for rehabilitation of Shriners hospitals at Philadelphia, Springfield, Mass., St. Paul, Minneapolis and Greenville, S. C., and $2,500,000 for construction of a new hospital at St. Louis.

The announcement came during the board's mid-winter meeting here.

Calhoun said Shrine hospitals, since their inception, have served 245,000 children "regardless of race, color or creed."

Episcopal Diocese Launches Building Program Drive

ST. PETERSBURG (UP)—The South Florida diocese of the Episcopal church today launched a $400,000 to $700,000 for an ambitious building program.

Some 1,000 lay clerical members of the diocese met here Tuesday to map plans for the campaign.

WASHINGTON 47—The Atomic Energy Commission said today that A-bomb and H-bomb production is swelling at a rate that necessitates multi-million dollar expansion of its fueling weapons plant.

It also reported "new design principles"—stemming from last year's H-bomb tests—"which will lead to more efficient weapons that can be more effectively employed."

This apparently means the hydrogen weapon has been tailored to missiles and bombs for a variety of military uses other than mere destruction of cities.

The AEC also claimed "a notable advance" toward nuclear propulsion of aircraft. For the first time, it said, a turbojet plane engine was powered with atomic heat in a ground test.

These were highlights of the AEC's 21st semi-annual report in which it said "significant progress" was made in the last six months toward fulfillment of President Eisenhower's international atomic for peace program.

As a special feature the commission published a five-chapter report on "radiation safety" in the U. S. atomic project. Although 331 persons have received "overexposures" in the past 17 years, no serious health problems have been reported, the report said.

Of the 331 persons, 200 received their overexposures from the big H-bomb shot in the Pacific on March 1, 1954. The other 131 of whom died in 1945, received (Continued On Page Seven)

New Floods Strike Southwest Virginia

POUND, Va. (UP)—New floods struck southwest Virginia today, adding more towns to the distress area where waters of more than a dozen flooded communities near the Virginia-Kentucky border were marooned.

Disaster teams rushed help to the stricken mountain regions.

At least one person was known dead and three others were missing in tempestuous floods created by four days of heavy rain in the upper Cumberland River basin.

Damage estimates ran into the millions of dollars. Hundreds of persons evacuated their homes in the broad flooded area.

G. G. Collins, 66-year-old white man who gave his address as St. Petersburg and claims that he came originally from Ohio, was taken into custody Monday afternoon on a warrant signed by Carey Reams of Forest City.

Reams claimed that more than a thousand dollars' worth of merchandise had been taken from a home and farm which he owned on Cameron Ave. in a list submitted to Constable Galloway.

Collins denied taking the list of articles at first but, said the Constable, admitted the theft of the articles when confronted with the fact they had been found near Geneva.

2 U. S. Military Attaches Ordered To Leave Russia

LONDON 47—Radio Moscow announced today two U. S. military attaches have been ordered to leave Russia, apparently in retaliation for the expulsion of Soviet officials from the United States.

The broadcast said a Soviet note demanded the "immediate departure" for Maj. Hubert Tansey and Capt. Charles W. Stockell, assistant military attaches assigned to the U. S. embassy in Moscow.

The note, handed today to Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, said the two men had been "engaging in activities incompatible with their status as diplomatic officials."

Radio Moscow said: "Their further stay in the USSR is therefore undesirable," the note said.

Radio Moscow gave no details of the charges against the two men.

900 Non-Union Workers On Strike At Patrick AFB

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Va.—Some 900 non-union workers went on strike at the nation's top-secret guided missile firing range early today and picketed entrances of two government bases.

Scores of pickets manned entrances to Patrick, embracing a vast missile assembly area, and to the storage and firing reservation at nearby Cape Canaveral on the Florida east coast.

A civilian spokesman said the strike will not interfere with any test firing now scheduled.

A spokesman for Pan American World Airways, chief civilian contractor at the facilities called the strike "illegal" and said the workers will be fired if the strike continues.

The strike was called "by surprise" late midnight EST and pickets appeared in droves at each of four entrances to the bases in time to meet pre-dawn shifts with their "on strike" placards.

Wilson Sticks To Attack

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's "draft-dodging" statement about the National Guard was very unwise.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference that men who joined could not have been slackers when they entered the guard under proper provisions of law.

He said he did not believe that Wilson wanted to damage the National Guard, but he thought his secretary of defense certainly made a very unwise statement without stopping to think.

Wilson told a House subcommittee Monday that the National Guard was a "sort of scandal" during the Korean War; that some young men were using it as a "draft-dodging business."

Wilson stuck to his charge after conference with Mr. Eisenhower. Wilson told reporters his language may have been tough but that it was an accurate account of the situation.

His discussion of Wilson's remarks largely supported the secretary's position that the guard needs a more rigorous basic military training. But he openly disputed Wilson's choice of language.

His discussion of Wilson began with a simple question: "Do you share Secretary Wilson's complaint about the National Guard?"

The President said in a low tone of voice that his interrogator knew better than that.

He said that anything the leaders of the National Guard had done, to the extent of his knowledge, had been done under existing law which provides that young men between the ages of 17 and 18 can enter the guard directly.

He said he had struggled for years to make the guard a first line of defense. But, he said, it was never going to be that kind of force, a force needed by this country in a day of increasingly complex and more deadly weapons, until the government could have these National Guard recruits undergo six months of hard, efficient and basic training.

The President said he felt certain this was Wilson's goal. But he thought Wilson had made a very unwise statement without stopping to think.

Big Crowd Enjoys Comedy Classic 'Charley's Aunt'

A near capacity audience saw Players Incorporated present "Charley's Aunt" at the Pinerest School auditorium last night.

The Seminole Mutual Concert Association sponsored presentation was the third in a series of four concerts for the 1956-57 season.

A cast of ten displayed superb acting in the Brandon Thomas' comedy classic.

Possibly the most laughed-at phrase of the entire production was made by the sprightly old lady played by Ken Lynch Jr. when he repeatedly used in his lines "I'm Charley's Aunt from Brazil, where the nuts come from."

Others in the cast and the parts they played were: William Callahan who played Stephen Spetigue; Edmund Torrance played Co. Sir Francis Chesney; William Starrs as Jack Chesney; Frank Fabin as Charley Wykeham; Ken Lynch Jr. as Lord Fancourt Babberly; Christopher Kotschnig as Bassett; Constance Schneider as Donna Inez d'Alvador; Mary van Valkenburgh as Amy Spetigue; Carole Macho as Kitty Vernon; and Patricia Kern as Ella Delahay.

"Charley's Aunt" will not soon be forgotten by members of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association.

Final concert of the season will be presented on Feb. 14.

Repairs On Home Wrecked In Search Of Ghost Cat Start

GLENDORA, Calif. (UP)—Repairs began today on Vincent Carter's $20,000 home, almost wrecked in a search for a "ghost cat" whose haunting cries turned out to be a squeaky water meter instead of the cat's meow.

Construction crew began repairing holes in walls and torn down sections of siding left from a 22-day search by police, firemen, construction men and technicians for what was believed to have been a cat trapped inside a wall.

The actual cause of the wailing was finally located Tuesday when a sound engineer using sensitive equipment traced the menacing to the defective meter. Hundreds of spectators had crowded around the house and had to be roped off by police.

Carter, whose family was plagued with the cries ever since moving into their new house nearly a month ago, sighed with relief and said that he and his wife and their two small children could now return to "normal lives."

"You'd be a sort of adventure for you."

"Adventure?"

"We're going over to see George's now—in another boat."

"Really?" Priscilla's voice was trembling with excitement.

"I—I suppose so. I'm not afraid, if that's what you mean."

"There isn't any danger, but I had a little difficulty in persuading them to let me bring you along."

"Persuading whom?"

"The government men."

"Oh—we are going on the government boat?"

"No, we're going on a small cabin cruiser they've borrowed from the navy."

"Why are you taking me, instead of Rita?"

"I thought you might get a kick out of it as the owner—my mistake—as the former owner of Look-a-Boo. Thought it might be something for your memory book."

When they boarded the little cabin cruiser Priscilla's heart was beating faster than normal. She felt that she was in an Arabian Nights scene. One of the men said, "We're not expecting any trouble, but be sure you do what Duva tells you to. Presumably, we're just one of the boats going home from the Harbor Day celebration."

Bill, watching her standing there on the little deck in the golden path of moonlight, handed thrust deep in the pockets of the white coat she had brought along her hair blowing away from her face. She was a very nice sight. She has no idea what this is all about, but she came without question. It had been an impulse, asking her to come. He knew there was no chance of things going wrong now, at least not one in a million.

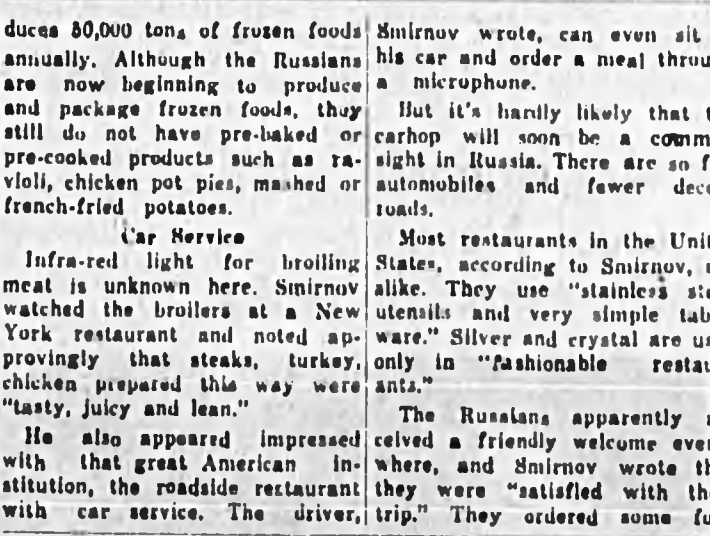

"Alvarez had a reason for planning the breakfast party and swim in the surf, didn't he, Bill?"

"He certainly did. He's done everything he could today to get you away from him and help. And this party on his yacht tonight is the climax. It diverts attention from other activities and the real reason he's making the trip to the island. I'm sure this wasn't his original idea, but he thought it was a hard for him to follow through as he had planned."

Story League Has Candles For Faith As Program Theme

Members of the Sanford Story League held their January meeting at the Episcopal Parish House Monday evening, Mrs. H. L. Moore, president, presiding.

The meeting opened with prayer and secretary and treasurer's reports were given. And invitation from the Eastern district of the National Story League, which will meet in Richmond, Va., June 24-29, was read, and plans made to send two members to the convention. Mrs. C. C. Welch read the life story of Elvira Carter Garner, written by Mrs. G. C. Williams, which will be published in the National Story Art Magazine.

Mrs. R. P. Moule, service chairman, asked for volunteer story tellers to answer the many calls from the public schools. An outstanding event to which the league is looking forward will be the Spring Story League Festival to be held April 22, at which time the Sanford Story League, assisted by the two junior leagues, and other guests, will present an Easter program which will be open to the public. Mrs. B. C. Moore was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. R. A. Cobb and Mrs. Helen Stephenson presented the program of story telling, their theme being "Candles for Faith," with Mrs. Stephenson telling one of Van Dyke's immortal stories "The Lost World," which she presented in a most impressive manner. Mrs. R. A. Cobb followed with the story "On the King's Highway," a story of simple faith.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, nuts and fruit punch were served by the hostesses for the evening, Mrs. E. C. Howard, Mrs. C. R. Jones, and Mrs. Fred Robb.

FINISHING TOUCHES ON BRACING THE PALM are added by Pinecrest students, as this tree is planted on the campus of the school Monday afternoon. The beautiful Palm tree was donated to Pinecrest school by Mrs. Harry Lee and is the first really large tree to be planted on the campus. The site chosen is in front of the East Wing in the front of the school. (Staff Photo)

Conning The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight. Kick, kick, kick! The second floor of the Elk's Club resounds these days with dancing feet and the instant music of the piano. The chorus lines are kicking, bending, turning, and kneeling as director Dean Reeder puts the girls in the cast of the High Fever Follies through their routines. Who would believe that these leggy females must return in an hour to the land of undressed beds and dirty dishes? And on opening night in the glamorous costumes and startling make up, it will be difficult to imagine these ladies of the theatre in their normal roles as wife and mother. Actually, for many, this will be just the beginning. The lure of the Theatre Guild will be irresistible now that the boards have once been trod, and I predict that organization will emerge with many new members.

By the way, don't know that anyone has thrown any orchids the Elk's way, but they certainly deserve them for allowing the Follies cast to use the Club for free. This can make a big difference when a practice hall must be rented, as it eats into the profits, but then, those men can be counted on to do the nice thing any old time. Three cheers for the Elks!

Joyce Myers and Diane Boston; Red Ribbon Awards went to Mary La Gier, and Annie Johns; and White Ribbon Awards were won by Catherine T'iti, Caroline Dial, Rachel Stevens, and Alice Busabe.

The young ladies completing these tests are qualified to go to the Tampa Fair. Mrs. M. O. Roberts is the advisor for the group.

The HATU square dance Saturday night was a great success as always. Harry Griffin played and called, and the band was supplemented by Bob Franz. The gay music caused many a joint to ache the next day, as participants whirled around the floor. Among those in the crowd were Gretchen Hall, Ruth and Joe Tully, Mike and Hazel Rowell, Jean and John Dooley, Judy and Jack Smith, Marilyn and John Bailey, Sonia and Bob Blackwood, Ella and Dick Morrow, Bob and Betty Mayer, Marge and Bill Martin, Millie Donnad, Harry and Helen Griffin, Lili and O. B. Gray, Marty and Lew Millsaps, Ruth and Forest Norvell, Mae and Bill Edwards Betty and Monty Mountcastle, Lib and Red Cleveland, Cliff and Rosemary Duncan, and Joyce and Bob Baker.

Thursday there will be a farewell coffee for Sally Weigle and Virginia Johnston. The Weigles are going back to VAH-11, and the Johnstons are going to VAH-5. Friday will bring all of HATU together at the chicken in a basket dinner at the B.O.Q. All students are asked to join the group too, if they so desire. Here again more farewells, to the Weigles Johnstons, and Ted Luken, who is getting out of the navy. Ted's sister is Mollie Barlow, who is familiar to many in Sanford, and whose husband John, is also in HATU. Involved, isn't it? Mollie and Ted's mother, Mrs. C. E. Luken is in town, and staying with the Barlows. She is from Philadelphia, Penna.

There will be a VAH-9 luncheon at the B.O.Q. Friday at 12:30. Hostesses will be Julie Anderson and Pauline Byus. Reservations can be made by calling ext. 319.

Part of VAH-7 have departed as some of you already know. This sort of thing means happiness for some since VAH-11 will start for home soon, sadness for others as this means separation of families for them. A popular thought is that VAH-7 is the super squadron of the wing especially since they have won the "Navy E" twice in succession.

Mrs. William Hilton is very happy these days looking forward to the return of her husband Aviation Machinist Mate William Hilton, some time in February from his 7 months cruise in the Mediterranean. Mr. Hilton is stationed at Cecil Field, Jacksonville but Mrs. Hilton chose to remain here with two children since, as she told me, "where could you find a better place than Sanford."

The Hiltons reside on Willow Ave. and during her husband's absence Mrs. Hilton has been keeping busy with her Brownie Troop which she accepted in October of 1956. She is also chairman of the landscaping committee at the new V. F. W. Building on 17-92 and active on the Sandspur bowling league each Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton plan a 15 day leave on his return before reporting back at Cecil Field.

The Enlisted Mens Wives Club met Monday evening, Jan. 28, at 8 p. m. in the U.S.O. Presiding over the meeting was Mrs. Howard Miller. Discussions of the meeting included preparations for a cake and cookie sale to be held Friday Morning, Feb. 1, at 9:30 at the Navy Exchange Building and followed by another sale Saturday morning, Feb. 2, in Downtown Sanford.

Curtis Hughes Feted Saturday With Fish Fry

Mrs. Curtis Hughes was hostess Saturday night at a fish fry in the back yard honoring Mr. Hughes on the occasion of his birthday.

A delicious dinner, consisting of fish, potato salad, cole slaw, hush puppies, baked beans, relishes, coffee and apple pie, was served to a small group of friends, after which everyone sat around and talked and relaxed and had a good time.

Those invited to be with the honoree were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fields, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rotundo, Mrs. Sacy King, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Walker, Mrs. E. J. Smith, Mrs. Julia Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ansley, Bill Neider, Joe Ludwig, and Eddie Hughes.

Mrs. Mildred Coleman, After much anxiety and expectation, the new ASD has finally arrived. It's going to be the replacement of the AJ's, and the maintenance personnel we've talked to, plane captains and captains and crewman, are looking forward to working on them since they are new. Most are anxious for their first flight aboard them, "to see how they ride."

VAH-9 received the first one and the other squadrons are awaiting theirs anxiously.

We would all like to see the day when all VAH squadrons are equipped with them. It would be a beautiful sight to see them in formation over Sanford.

Since they made the flight from California to Sanford in approximately 3 hours and 50 minutes you can certainly say they are an improvement to our modern Navy.

JVs Resume Winning; Top Leesburg 43-34

The Sanford Seminoles JV cage team resumed their winning ways by topping a much improved Leesburg JV five by a close 43-34 in a preliminary game last night at Seminole High School.

Mike Davis, newcomer to the Seminole camp, sparked the winning JV as they jumped to an early lead and held it throughout the game.

The visiting Yellow Jacket JV showed considerable improvement over the last meeting with the baby warriors from Sanford when, at that time, the Seminoles bested them 43-34.

U. S. Gymnas Is Specialize Too Much Says Swede

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State University's Larry Malmgren, a national Swede, has some very set ideas on why the United States gymnastics teams don't stack up to those of Europe.

Malmgren, a member of Sweden's 1952 World Olympic team at Helsinki, is presently a freshman on Florida State's gymnastics team.

According to the 27-year-old Swede, one of the biggest troubles with American gymnasts is that "they try to specialize too much."

"In Europe—especially in Sweden and Russia—a gymnast starts at a very early age, perhaps at six or seven. He learns the sport from every angle, not specializing in one special event."

"In the United States, gymnasts start at a relatively late age and specialize on one particular phase of the sport."

Malmgren said this is very unrealistic because "in order to qualify for an Olympic team even in the United States, the athlete has to compete in all events."

Another thing that holds American gymnasts back, said Malmgren, is the difference in rules.

"The United States insists on making its own rules through the NCAA and NAU. In Europe, we compete according to the rules of the International Gymnastics Federation—the organization that governs the rules at the Olympic Games."

There is also a difference in equipment, he said.

"The sidehorse which American gymnasts use is shorter and lower than the one used in Europe and the Olympic games. The parallel bars are shorter and stiffer than they are in Europe."

Malmgren said it has "always been a mystery to Europeans as a whole as to why America continues to follow this pattern when they know the situation."

"When Russia ran away with the Olympic team title in the closing days of the recent games at Melbourne, Americans didn't seem too impressed because the Russians won in Gymnastics—which is a minor sport over here."

"But in Russia, it is the no. 1 sport and Russians considered it as much of a victory to win in Gymnastics as the Americans did when they won all the track and field events."

Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer
MIAMI 28—Ted Williams, baseball's greatest hitter, has modestly identified Mickey Mantle as "the best batter of this era" and added that the New York Yankees again would be the team to beat for the American League pennant.

Williams, lean, tanned and fit, will go to Boston on Friday to sign his sixth contract at an estimated $100,000 for another season as the big slug of the Boston Red Sox. And the four-time batting champion left no doubt but what he expected to give Mantle a run for the crown in the coming season.

"Mantle surely was entitled to the batting championship," said Williams of the Oklahoma kid who won the American League title with a .350 mark against his .348 percentage and a lifetime average of .344.

"Mickey is certainly the best hitter of this era and should wind up as one of the all-time greats," Ted added with conviction. "But I am sure that, the way I feel, I can play at least 100 games this season."

Hopes for 23 homers
Ted also grinned that he "thought" he could hit "at least 330 and maybe bang about 25 home runs."

"Meanwhile," he added, "I'm going to try to beat that young fellow from the Yankees out of the batting championship—and the new rules which includes bases on balls in the necessary 477 times at bat figure. It hurt me too much."

As one of the perennial leaders in walks, Williams figures to benefit greatly from the new ruling. With his walks being counted, he won't have to go for the bad pitches coming down the stretch to get the previously needed 400 at-bats necessary to be eligible for the batting championship.

Williams, always a forthright talker, asserted that the American League pennant race was "between the Yankees and seven contenders."

"I hope I'm not misunderstood, again," he laughed. "I think our Red Sox have a terrific potential and you can bet we'll give it a run all the way. But who's going to deny that the Yankees are the team to beat?"

Respects Larsen's Pleading
Ted admitted, too, that he has for a long time had a terrific regard for Don Larsen, the Yankees' no-hit World Series hero.

"Way back when he was with the St. Louis Browns I said he had seen in a long time," Ted explained. "Well, I think the Dodgers will agree with me, anyhow."

Williams, who still carries a 10-inch pin in his shoulder as result of a shoulder separation operation several years back, said that it bothered him now only during cold weather.

"I feel great and I'm looking forward to this season—and several more," he reiterated. "I'd like to win that batting championship again—and maybe again."

Which, considering his admiration of Mantle, may be something of an enigma. But then, you have to remember that the immortal Ty Cobb named Williams as the greatest hitter of this era—and from the looks of tall Ted, his era isn't anywhere near ended.

The Sanford Seminoles cage improvement took another vacation last night as the undefeated Leesburg Yellow Jackets towered above them in man-power and scoring strength as the erratic Sanford Seminoles were whitewashed 61-32 not quite as bad as the last time the Seminoles tangled with the rangy Jackets.

It took the second string Seminoles to finally put the heat on the high-flying kings of the Orange-Belt Conference. After the first string had mustered only two free-throw scores in the first quarter, while letting the visitors walk over them to the tune of 30 points, the reserves were called off the bench and they turned the tide. Playing the same men, the Yellow Jackets were outplayed by the Seminoles reserves 14-10 in the second stanza.

But after the second half jump the Seminoles' second string couldn't hold the Jackets and were able to score only four points while Eddie Parker sparked the Jackets to 13 points in a tight defensive quarter by the Seminoles.

In the final stanza the erratic Seminoles again looked good. They dominated the floor as the Yellow Jackets applied the bench, but even when the starting five for the Jackets resumed their positions the Seminoles held their own. Had some streak of miraculous fortune erased the sad first quarter the score would have been 31-30, favor of Leesburg.

Phil Byrd tried to pump up the Seminole flat tire by leading the scoring with six points each, but to no avail. Last night was another off night for the Seminoles.

YOUR CONTRIBUTING ARTICLES to the coming Fish Fry and Auction sponsored by the Seminole Chiefs Club will help pay for the football uniforms pictured above. The Seminole Chiefs made it possible for youngsters of Pinecrest and Sanford Junior High to play football last year and the season to come. New uniforms must be paid for. If you have some article you would like to donate for the auction, call 251-W or 433 during school hours, or 3154 or 2044 during the late afternoon and evening. Contributions will be picked up by representatives of the Seminole Chiefs Club.

Chiefs Club Seeking Auction Contributions

Mrs. John Schirard Jr., chairman of publicity for the coming Fish Fry and Auction as part of a fund raising project to pay for the outfitting of Pinecrest and Sanford Junior boys with football equipment by the Seminole Chiefs Club, said this morning that articles were already being received for the auction.

"We were all thankful when the boys were given uniforms," she said, "but we mustn't forget that these same uniforms have to be paid for." Mrs. Schirard said that the Auction and Fish Fry would give many people the opportunity to clean out their attic or storage rooms and at the same time contribute to a very worthy cause.

"Also," Mrs. Schirard added, "attending the Fish Fry and Auction will not only afford an opportunity for an evening out with a meal, but will also give those attending the chance to pick those many needed items that would go nicely around the house."

Mrs. Schirard said that, human nature as it was, people would have the tendency to forget about football now that basketball season is in full swing. "We must, however, be progressive," Mrs. Schirard remarked. "We must look to the future and see that there uniforms are paid for. When we pay for them we will be able to look around and see if it is not possible to extend our present program."

The Lyman game, played last Thursday afternoon, saw John Lake from All Souls top man for the game with 11 points while the top man for the winning Greyhounds was Jackie Gerard with eight points.

In the Slavia game Lake was high man, this time tied with Arnot from Slavia with 15 points each. David Perella sparked the defensive game for the winning All Souls quintet.

Speckled Perch Are Biting Now In Lakes, Rivers

The Speckled Perch are biting now, both in the lake and in the river. The bedding seems to be centralized along the channel approaching the light plant, according to fishing scout reports released from the Boat Basin, just across the bridge.

Up the river the spees have already moved as far as red marker 114 and black marker 102.

All blacynths seem to have gone, and there are few obstacles to hinder trolling either in the lake or on the river. The "No Alby" is recommended for a trailer to an underwater plug while trolling. Use catgut leaders, checking carefully to see that there are no knots in the leader. Ask the fishing guide at the Basin for directions in using the leader to avoid making a knot. A knotted leader will not land a large speckled perch.

The preferable way to fish for the spees in the lake, however, is with a cracker pole and live bait. Approaching the power plant channel, cut your motor at black marker No. nine. The wind, which will be favorable in direction for the next few days, will float you in the right direction. By the time you reach red marker No. 5 you should have your limit—if you start early in the morning.

Remember the law—not more than three poles per person, and the limit is 25, not more than eight of which may be black bass.

3,000 Residents Visit Open House Saturday, Sunday

It can be said of Sanford and Seminole County folks, "when there's something to see everyone turns out to see it."
Last Saturday and Sunday, O. Ham and Tudor, Inc., held open house at one of their newly constructed homes in the Grove Manor subdivision.
Comments were numerous as visitors filed through the home. "It's the most beautiful I've ever seen," was the usual comment made by the ladies.

Diabetics Can Lead Fairly Normal Lives

By HERMAN H. DUNNISON, M.D.

THIRSTY all the time, even in this cold weather? I mean are you really thirsty? Do you gulp lots of water, milk and soft drinks between meals?
If you do, let me urge you to see your doctor. While there may be nothing seriously wrong, you may be a victim of diabetes "lith- oth even being aware of it."

Needn't Be Fatal
Diabetes no longer need be a fatal disease—if you get medical help early enough. With insulin and prescribed diets, the majority of diabetics can, and do, live to a ripe old age.
A diabetic does not necessarily have to lead the life of an invalid. With proper treatment, he can probably live a normal or near normal life.

Other Symptoms
Unquenchable thirst is always a symptom of diabetes, nor is it the only symptom. Be especially alert if your thirst is accompanied by a loss of weight, despite an increased appetite, weakness, pains in the legs, a dry skin and a general feeling of nervousness and irritability.
Frequent urination sometimes is a symptom, particularly if the urine causes great discomfort.
If you have frequent boils or ulcers on your feet, be sure to have your doctor check you for this cold weather? I mean are you really thirsty? Do you gulp lots of water, milk and soft drinks between meals?

If you do, let me urge you to see your doctor. While there may be nothing seriously wrong, you may be a victim of diabetes "lith- oth even being aware of it."

Children and Adults
Who gets diabetes? Both children and adults can be victims. But most diabetes are persons of middle age who have been heavily eaters for years and, generally, they are overweight. Since diabetes tends to run in families, any of you whose parents suffered from the disease may be more vulnerable.

A word of caution—let me urge you not to overeat. Be especially careful to avoid eating too much starchy and sweet foods. Get a lot of fruit and green and yellow vegetables. Also, have a physical checkup at least once a year.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
S. G.: I have dark spots in the corner of my eye. What causes this? I wear glasses.
Answer: The dark spots in the corner of your eye might be due to a variety of causes. They might come from irritation from the glasses, from some skin infection or possibly from some circulatory disturbance.
An examination is needed to determine the cause.

HOGAN'S ALLEY

WHAT TALENT and charm the children possess! Beauty innate in each graceful hop! I'm purely objective, 'though I confess I happen to be the genius' pop.

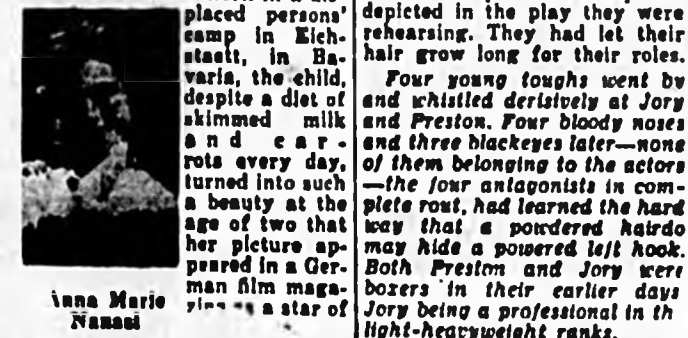

"I LOVE LUCY," which films its productions in front of an audience, has no trouble getting a sizable group of spectators into the studio each week. In fact, it's "Standing Room Only" at each showing, and inasmuch as the Fire Department won't allow standees at a TV show, fans who don't arrive early often don't get in to see the program. However, in case audiences waver in their loyalty to "Lucy," Anna Marie has discovered a sure-fire method of drumming up trade to fill the studio with a crowd. In one production recently, Desilu hired 26 child actors. More than 150 parents, aunts and assorted relatives clamored for tickets to see their little prodigies perform.

IN HOLLYWOOD you can't judge a man by his makeup. This adage was recalled on the set of the "20th Century-Fox Hour" TV program the other day where Victor Jory was co-star with Dale Robertson and Carol Ohmart in "The Still Trumpet."

Several of the production staff were reminiscing during a "break" when one of them reminded Jory of the time he and Robert Preston were seated on the curb in front of the famed Pasadena Playhouse several years ago. It was a hot night and the two actors were dressed in the silk pants of the period depicted in the play they were rehearsing. They had let their hair grow long for their roles.

Four young toughs went by and whistled derisively at Jory and Preston. Four bloody noses and three blackeyes later—none of them belonging to the actors—the four antagonists in complete rout, had learned the hard way that a powdered hairdo may hide a powerful left hook. Both Preston and Jory were boozers in their earlier days. Jory being a professional in the light-heavyweight ranks.

the Snapshot Guild

In making silhouette snapshots your range of subject matter is as broad as your interests and imagination.

Silhouette Snapshot:

Do you remember how much fun you used to have snapping silhouettes out of black paper and decorating the old schoolroom with your masterpieces? It seems to us we devoted a good part of February every year specializing in profiles of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington to be tacked up on the wall.

Ever since those days, we've somehow had a nostalgic fondness for silhouettes—a feeling that carries over into picture-taking, too. That's why we thought we'd spend a few minutes today talking about silhouette snapshots—a very special kind of black-and-white picture you might enjoy snapping for a change.

Like any other snapshot, a silhouette picture may be shot indoors or out, in the daytime or at night. But unlike the usual type of picture, this time you want the subject black and the background white. Therefore, you have to change the normal position of your light to accomplish this "reverse" effect. And that, in brief, is the basic principle underlying all silhouette shots. Contrary to the usual rule of having the light fall on the subject from over your shoulder, the light must be behind the subject and coming toward your camera.

For a daytime silhouette shot to be taken indoors, stretch a sheet over a doorway or window, opening to a bright outdoor scene. Pose your subject in profile against this luminous white background, darken the room, and make a short time exposure. That's all there is to it—except check to see that the sheet is smooth and uncrinkled, remember to set your camera on a tripod or some other firm support, and be sure your subject holds still during the entire length of the time exposure.

To get the same effect at night, stretch the sheet over an interior doorway and put a flood lamp behind it. Post your subject—again in profile—in front of the sheet, turn off all the lights except the flood, and make a time exposure. If you'd like to try an outdoor silhouette, the best time to shoot it is around sunset. Your subject should be directly between your camera and the setting sun. That way, his body will conceal the sun. (If this doesn't give you the angle you want, aim so that a tree or building will block out the sun instead.) You'll probably find it best to cut down on your exposure time a bit to keep foreground details from coming through.

States. In this country no member of the public has been hurt by radiation.

And 80.4 per cent of the nearly 200,000 workers in the project have received an exposure averaging "less than one-third the amount of radiation allowed by strict safety standards."

The commission said its own experimental program to develop "satisfactory progress" in the number of planned atomic power plants to be financed entirely by private industry has grown to seven, but the effort to make nuclear power pay its way is still "in its early stages."

Atoms-for-peace was advanced by adoption of a statute for an 82-nation international atomic energy agency. In addition, this country has negotiated 41 agreements to help 39 nations set up research or power reactors.

The United States still leads the free world in production of uranium, the atomic raw material. In the past half year it stockpiled more nuclear fuels and explosives than ever before in a like period.

Chests Expanding

NEW YORK (UP)—American women are bursting out of their raincoats, the Almar Manufacturing Co. reported today. The company said it had increased the frontal expansion of its medium size raincoats to 10 inches to rectify the situation. Its survey shows the average American woman's chest measurement is an inch and a half larger than in 1947.

Dunk for Shrimp Fondue

If you haven't had the gustatory enjoyment of sharing shrimp fondue with friends, you're missing something. Make sure there are none among you who would frown on "communally dunking" though, for fondue requires close friendship among the "indulgents."

To Americanize the fondue delightfully, try handy frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup as the base. It gives pretty pink color and the cheese and shrimp favors "marry" so happily. King Edward VII, a real gourmet considered genuine fondue one of his favorite recipes. And Swiss families have long enjoyed it . . . just as your friends will.

Fondue should be made in a chafing dish or double boiler, and is eaten directly from the dish. Proper procedure is to let guests spear cubes of crusty bread with two-pronged forks. Everyone gives the bread a dunk in the fondue . . . then a little stir. The stirring helps maintain the proper consistency of the fondue when each person takes his turn in rotation. Try to keep the mixture bubbling gently, but never let it boil!
Fondue, no detectable is a sure-fire way to break the ice at any party. Start dunking!

EDWIN MARVIN CARROLL, third from left on the front row, is shown as he received a diamond studded pin denoting 50 years of service with the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. Carroll has been in Sanford since Jan. 1, 1920 following 13 years at Port Tampa as a supervisor. He started work in Sanford for the ACL in 1907 but remained only two days before being transferred to Port Tampa. (Photo by Jameson)

Carroll With ACL For 50 Years; Is Presented Emblem

In the presence of Supervisory Officials and friends, Edwin Marvin Carroll was presented the Atlantic Coast Line's Fifty-year, solid gold, diamond-studded service emblem.

The emblem was presented by George R. Gibbs, Master Mechanic of Jacksonville, yesterday at 3:30 for 50 years of continuous service on the ACL.

The 50 years of service was completed by Carroll on Jan. 28, having first entered the ACL railroad service on Jan. 28, 1907 as a machinist at Sanford.

Two days later, on Feb. 2, 1907, Carroll was promoted to a Supervisor at Port Tampa where he remained until Jan. 1, 1920. He was then transferred back to Sanford and has worked on various supervisory jobs until the present date, and is still employed as such.

Carroll received his 25 year service emblem from officials of the ACL Railroad which he has worn until replaced yesterday by the diamond-studded 50-year pin.

Gibbs, in presenting the pin explained the meaning of it: A—the winged hourglass symbolizes the flight of time; B—the laurel wreath signifies honorable service; C—the gold from which the emblem is made is the most precious of metals and denotes the value placed upon the wearer's long and faithful service; D—the diamond is known to be the most precious of stones.

In presenting the pin, Gibbs told Carroll "The management appreciates your very fine services through these years, and it is a pleasure for me to present this beautiful 50-year, diamond-studded emblem in recognition of your long years of service."

Those present for the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Carroll, George R. Gibbs, M. M. Nikarik, retired engineer, George M. Shipp, retired machinist, J. A. Gainey, diesel instructor, J. S. Tillis, foreman car department, Mrs. J. A. Cunningham, Mrs. S. W. Smith, C. A. Milton, asst. storekeeper, Miss Charlotte Smith, secretary, and L. G. Cornell, general foreman.

Club Seeking Good Turn Out For Boat Regatta Feb. 17

"You have no idea of the work it takes to put on a project like this, especially for a small club like ours," Harry Robson told the Sanford Kiwanis Club yesterday at its noon luncheon meeting.

Robson spoke to the Kiwanis Club on the "work the Sanford Boat and Ski Club is doing to promote our waterways." He explained, in detail, the Regatta scheduled for Sanford on Feb. 17 at 1 p.m.

"What we want," said Robson, "is a good turn out and I hope there will be some world records broken here."

Robson emphasized that "This is of national importance and we're seeing that Sanford will get national publicity."

"If the regatta goes over we hope our next one will be expanded for it has excellent possibilities," he said.

The Kiwanis Club's guest speaker pointed out that the Regatta is a branch of the Grapefruit Circuit operating in seven Florida cities: Miami, Daytona Beach and

Gen. Sanford Had Many Interests

By Charles Edward Ironside
The forthcoming dedication on February 8 at four o'clock of the General Sanford Memorial Library has excited much discussion of this magnificent gift to the community, and aroused a great deal of speculation as to what this collection contains and as to how its contents can be used.

Curious inspection of the list of books reveals at once that General Sanford was a man of great intellect and wide interests. The collection comprises about 2700 volumes, covering mainly the 18th and 19th centuries. Of these works about one half are in English, about one third in French, one tenth in German, with a sprinkling of Latin, Italian, Spanish, and Dutch. The large number of professional legal works in English, French, and German indicate General Sanford's keen interest in international law and in diplomatic questions. The works in Latin, the oldest dated 1608, are mostly works dealing with the history and teaching of law. The above professional works represent however only one aspect of a many-sided individual. We have a truly amazing collection of works on art, literature, music, sculpture, painting, economics, education, law, diplomacy, history, travel, and philosophy, together with many complete sets of encyclopedias, and bound volumes of magazines of these periods.
