Post Office sites narrowed to seven

By Dan Ping
Editor

Sites include FP&L Building and retail center at the corner of 1st Street and Sanford Avenue

SANFORD — A Blue Ribbon Committee created to recommend a location and design for a new retail service U.S. Post Office has released its report listing seven possible sites for the facility. Established by the City Commission on July 23, the 10-person committee met five times during the last month to complete its task.

"We moved with deliberate speed because all of the information I have received indicated we needed to get this done quickly," said the committee's chairman, Millard Hunt, in presenting the report.

Hunt said the while the committee did narrow the site list to seven from 24 possible sites which met the Postal Service's criteria, it did not rank the seven.

"We were advised that publication of specific preferences might be counterproductive to the Postal Service bidding process," Hunt said in the report. Hunt said the committee used four criteria to make its recommendation: total acreage of the site; the presence of an existing building of considerable size on the site or immediately adjacent to the site; the potential economic impacts to the surrounding area; and the possible affects of displacing existing businesses or uses.

Because of pre-existing conditions, Hunt noted in his report that none of the seven sites meets all four of the criteria.

The sites and the committee's observa-

County approves I-4 pedestrian overpass

Construction of suspension bridge should be completed in less than a year

By Christopher Patton
Staff Writer

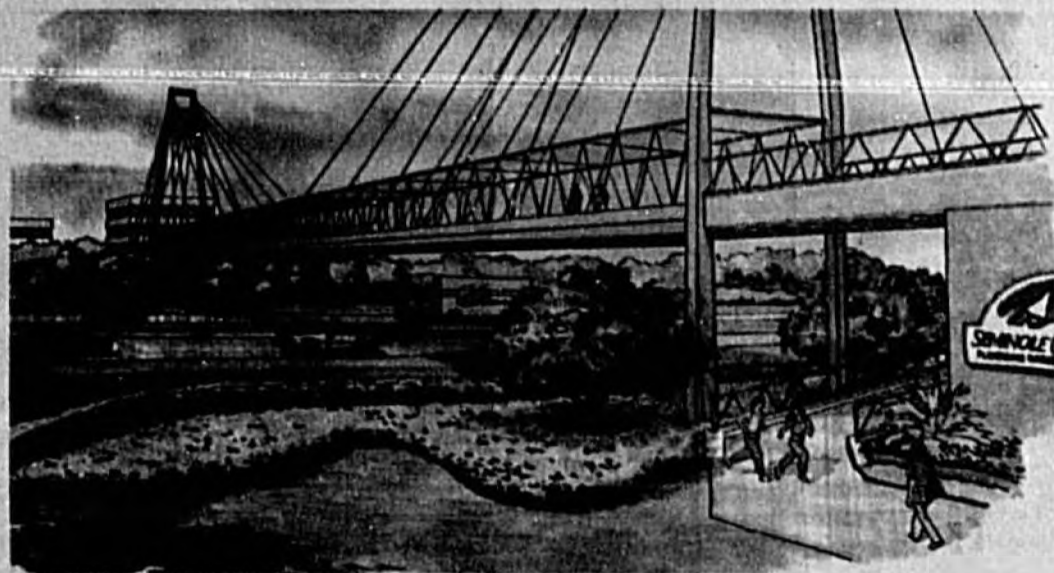

SANFORD — By Christmas 2002, Seminole County trail users will have a $3.5 million present to enjoy.

County commissioners unanimously approved Tuesday a new trail overpass over Interstate 4 to be constructed by Martin K. Eby Construction Inc. of Maitland.

The overpass structure, which Chairman Dick Van Der Weide referred to a miniature Mackinaw Bridge that connects lower and upper Michigan, will cross I-4 south of County Road 46A.

According to the county's principal engineer John Moore Jr., construction should begin by the end of the year and is planned to be completed in 343 calendar days.

When finished the trail overpass will help connect the trails that end near the post office on Rinehart Road and the Heathrow International Business Center.

The design will accommodate future interstate widening plans by the Florida Department of Transportation and the possibility of a light rail system in the interstate's median. The design of the suspension overpass also addressed the concerns of Commissioner

Carlton Henley.

"I was concerned about it having no center pieces," Henley said a day after a driver died when his car slammed into an overpass pillar. "As it turns out the design here is without a center support."

The overpass design also features a switch back ramp that actually runs underneath the overpass, similar to ramps seen at a large football stadium.

According to Commissioner Randy Morris, the price tag of the new trail overpass is similar to other comparable projects. A land bridge over Interstate 95 in Flagler County is going to cost $3.4 million and a pedestrian

Labor company making good on checks

By Dan Ping

SANFORD — The president of a Central Florida labor service says he is paying local merchants for the money they lost after cashing the company's bad checks.

Checks from LaborTemp USA, an Orlando-based company with offices in Sanford, began bouncing in July after workers cashed them at local businesses.

James Knepper, president of LaborTemp, said he has already made several payments to local merchants and will continue to do so until everyone is paid. Several local merchants have confirmed they have received either full or partial payment for the more than $50,000 in outstanding checks.

Store is a gift for teachers

By Michelle Jeria
Managing Editor

ORLANDO — When there isn't enough funding in a school's budget for classroom supplies, teachers will often spend money from their own pockets to make sure children have the appropriate tools to learn.

A Central Florida non-profit organization, however, is eliminating some of the financial burden for teachers. During the past three years, the Orlando-based "A Gift For Teaching" has given away more than $2.5 million worth of school supplies to Seminole, Orange and Osceola public school teachers.

"Teachers have to deal with the burden of needing school supplies and not being able to get them," said Aimee Hubert, marketing and public relations coordinator for A Gift For Teaching. "They aren't well paid to begin with, and then they have to try to give the children a quality education without having all the supplies they might need."

In fact, it was a teacher's need for paper that gave Gary Landwirth the idea to create the non-profit organization.

"A friend who teaches was always asking me for paper," Landwirth said. "Working in a low-income area, she had to buy many of the students' school supplies to make sure they had what they needed."

Landwirth, president of A Gift For Teaching, said he was surprised to discover teachers spend an average of $500 of their own money a year on supplies.

Since teachers are only allocated $.05 per student per day for classroom items, it didn't take him long to realize something needed to be done to help educators.

Soon after the discussion with his friend, Landwirth heard about a program in Ohio.

Students take a stand in favor of sales tax

By Christopher Patton
Staff Writer

SANFORD — With less than a week before the Sept. 4 vote on the continuation of the county's one-cent sales tax, preparations are being made by some expected and unexpected parties.

Saturday morning, Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard conducted a random test of the county's ballot counting machines. The tests helped make sure the machines were counting correctly and were also accepting three different ballots, said Goard. Voters in the cities of Oviedo and Winter Springs will have municipal issues to vote on in addition to the one cent sales tax.

Across the county the battle over the sales tax continuation has a very different face than 10 years ago. Much of the change can be attributed to the new tax also containing a quarter cent for local schools. Signs supporting the sales tax can be seen in almost every school campus, but more importantly, the schools' student bodies are also getting involved.

At Lake Mary High School, the school's newspaper staff is doing everything they can to make sure their parents are

Duo receives jail time for greyhound abuse

All but one of the dogs nursed back to health and adopted

By Christopher Patton
Staff writer

SANFORD — Two Seminole County men were convicted Friday for cruelty and abandonment of greyhounds that were once raced at the Seminole Greyhound Park.

Frank Ritt was found guilty of 70 counts of animal cruelty, and Bruno Steinmann was found guilty of 70 counts of animal abandonment.

Seminole County Judge Mark Herr adjudicated both men guilty and sentenced them to 365 days in jail. The judge suspended 155 days of the sentences, dependent upon the men turning themselves in Friday to begin the sentences at the Seminole County jail.

According to assistant state attorney Stacey Salmons, the judge permitted the defendants a full week to close down their kennel in Pensacola. If the men turn themselves in Friday, they will serve 210 days in jail or 3 days per dog, which was a "significant" sentence, said Salmons. The case began on Oct. 12, 1999 when the state department of Business and Professional Regulation launched an investigation into complaints by former employees of the Seminole Greyhound Park outside of Sanford. The state agency turned their findings over to the Office of Norm Wolfinger, State Attorney for the 18th Judicial Circuit, in March.

Salmons said that 17 of the 70 animals had untreated bite wounds and bed sores. The other 53 dogs had "severe tick and flea infestations" and suffered from anemia as a result. All the dogs were dehydrated from poor

One dies in I-4 crash

A man died Monday at approximately 11 a.m. after driving a 1994 Plymouth Eagle off Interstate 4 into the Lake Mary Boulevard overpass. Florida Highway troopers are not releasing the name of the middle aged white man until all relatives are notified. According to the police report, the man was traveling westbound in the left lane when he went off the road. After 439 feet in the grassy median, he collided into the overpass. It is unknown if the case is alcohol-related. Apparently no evasive action was taken by the driver as he sped toward the concrete overpass. Trooper John Bolton is investigating, while the Volusia County Medical Examiner is conducting an autopsy. Herald photo by Tommy Vincent

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Woman fears losing touch with grandson

DEAR ABBY: My 9-year-old grandson, "Grant," is in deep trouble. I must find a way to help him. Two years ago he had to take on a menopausal, reclusive stepmom. Of course, these poor children from broken homes don't get to vote their fate; they must accept whatever is thrust upon them.

Dear Abby

Stepmom has turned Grant's downstairs playroom into a master bedroom and entertainment center. She watches TV down there with my former son-in-law (Grant's father). Grant is not allowed to go down there unless he receives special permission. He spends most of his time alone in his upstairs bedroom playing his boom box or watching TV in the living room.

Recently, telephone privileges were cut off between Grant and me. Grant's father candidly told me that my not calling makes his home happier for his "recluse." I am sure he will cut off my visits if I try to help Grant.

Abby, I don't know what to do. Is there any way I can help him?

HURTING INSIDE

DEAR HURTING: Don't do anything to threaten your visits with your grandson. He needs you. You must become his loving, safe harbor. See him as often as you can. Help him to express his feelings. Let him know he can tell you anything, and you will not be judgmental or get angry.

Do things a 9-year-old boy will enjoy so he can bond closely and experience some happiness with you. Let him know he can count on you when things seem the darkest.

If his father and stepmother do cut off your visits, then call ChildHelp USA (1-800-422-4453) for expert advice on this sad case of emotional child abuse.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can stand one more letter about funerals. I read your "eulogy" articles on July 31. It was the day after my husband was buried.

My darling wore a red Hawaiian shirt and sunglasses. I included photographs, a back-scratcher, money clip, blue rose and a 1-inch-tall bear, a white rosary and a toy skunk that sang, "How Sweet It is to Be Loved by You." I wrote the eulogy and took lots of pictures. I had an open casket at the graveside service. An American flag draped the silver metal casket.

His family was horrified that I buried their family member in this manner. I had only known him 8 1/2 years and they knew him a lifetime.

I kissed him "bye" and let the skunk do its thing while I left. I had the funeral director give the flag to my husband's sister instead of to me.

Everyone should do what they feel is right in their heart, not what people tell them is right.

I sleep peacefully every night because I buried my friend, my husband, my lover in a manner he would have been proud of.

School Notes

Three Seminole County Public Schools students, who were state PTA winners, went on to be recognized by the National PTA Reflections Contest.

Elizabeth Gilbert, Millennium Middle School, was awarded the Award of Excellence. Jenn DeAngelo, Oviedo High School, and Ruthie Delany, Wilson Elementary School received Awards of Merit. "This is a great honor for Seminole County and Florida PTA and we are thrilled for these students and wish them good luck in all future artistic endeavors" said Sue Gladman, chairman of the Reflections committee.

Twelve Academy of Health Careers students, at Seminole High School, competed at the National Health Occupations Students of America Convention in Atlanta, Georgia on July 13 - 17. Many of the students earned national awards in their respective competitive events. Students earning national honors include:

- HOSA Bowl — Third place in the nation: Matthew Voke and Jordan Wilder;
- Newsletter — third place in the nation: Nikki Hosack, Isabel Quinn, and Thulasi Karunanidhi;

- Nursing Assistant — Top 10 in the nation: Jennifer Fitzgerald;
- Extemporaneous Health — Top 10 in the nation: Monique Taylor. Amir Taheri, 2001 Academy

Seminole High School graduate, concluded his term as a State of Florida HOSA officer and was elected as a national HOSA officer.

Craig "Rezzy" Hitchcock was the first-place winner of a $1,000 savings bond for his poem about his teacher. The poem is titled, "Mrs. Emens, the Teacher that I'll Never Forget." Although Rezzy is now at Lawton Chiles Middle School, he was writing about his teacher at Keeth Elementary School.

More than 6,000 children submitted poems about "The Teacher I'll Never Forget". In the note Rezzy sent with his poem, he said if he won something for the contest, it should go to his teacher. So Lands' End gave Mrs. Emens a $1,000 award too. Janet Emens is the SLD (Specific Learning Disabilities) teacher at Keeth Elementary School. A former Seminole County Teacher of the Year for her school, Janet has been making this type of impact on students for over 20 years.

Party Over

County deputies broke up a party Sunday at about 1 a.m. that had approximately 50 to 80 participants, according to the report.

Eric Olson, 18, who lived at the Lake Mary residence, stated to deputies he was just going to have a few friends over when the party got out of hand. Located in Olson's bedroom was a multicolored green glass bong, under 20 grams of marijuana and several other smoking devices.

Also located in his room was a beer keg, which Olson stated he had knowledge of and had his friends place in his bedroom. He was arrested for possession of marijuana, paraphernalia and drinking underage.

Larceny

Sanford police arrested Charles Taylor, 29, of Sanford Friday after he attempted to cash his payroll check twice.

Reportedly, Taylor cashed his first payroll check Friday morning and then went to his manager stating he lost his paycheck and needed another. With the second paycheck, he tried to cash it at the same business, but the manager became suspicious because he knew the man was only paid once a week. When confronted by police Taylor gave a false birth date because he later stated of two prior warrants against him.

Taylor was arrested for larceny over $300 and resisting an officer by disguising his person.

Bank Robber Caught

Nigel Williams, 27, of Fern Park was arrested by Seminole County investigators Friday for his involvement in two separate bank heists.

On Oct. 26, Williams reportedly used a Halloween style "Scream" mask and chrome semi-automatic handgun to forcibly remove currency from the First Union Bank located at Hunt Club corners in unincorporated Seminole County.

Williams was arrested as the mask left at the robbery had a fingerprint of his on the inside of the mask. A witness who also observed Williams put on the mask before entering the bank and also identified him in a photo line-up.

During his sworn statement, Williams also stated he committed another robbery last week at the Fairwinds Credit Union in Fern Park. Williams acknowledged he used a semi-automatic assault rifle and provided investigators with the location of the weapon and the remaining monies from the robbery.

Retail Theft

- Longwood Police arrested Juan

Silva, 20, of Altamonte Springs after the Albertsons' grocery store manager witnessed him shoplifting.

The manager advised police that he observed Silva remove items from the store shelves and conceal them in his pocket. After making contact with Silva, he admitted to taking the items and pulled them out of his right front pocket.

After searching Silva, police also found 99 hits of LSD in a plastic baggy in his rear left pocket. He was charged with larceny and possession of LSD with the intent to distribute.

Howard Robinson, 47, of Sanford was arrested by Sanford police Saturday after he reportedly tried to walk out of the Winn Dixie grocery store with $36 worth of unpaid items.

The stolen merchandise included Duracell batteries and body spray lotion. He was arrested on his second shoplifting charge.

Swim Away

- Keith Roach, 25, of Geneva was arrested by Sanford police Sunday morning on seven different charges. At approximately 2 a.m. Sunday, a Sanford officer stopped to check out a vehicle and driver at the Sanford Marina. As the officer stopped, Roach accelerated northbound on N. Palmetto Avenue.

Roach failed to stop at the Palmetto Avenue dead end and proceeded to drive off the sea wall into Lake Monroe. Roach then reportedly got out of his vehicle and started yelling obscenities at the officer. He then started swimming across the lake into Volusia County.

A search by city fire rescue boat and the county's rescue helicopter found Roach 300 yards offshore. When being admitted to the county jail a concealed baggy of marijuana was also found on Roach.

He was charged with smuggling contraband into the jail, reckless driving, driving on a suspended license, hit and run, possession of marijuana, driving without insurance and driving under the influence.

Stem Cells Why the press thinks President Bush lied

I bow to no man, including the president of the United States, in my ignorance of the details of stem cell research. But I do know something about the distrust and active hostility between government and the press, and it seems obvious to many reporters that the White House of George W. Bush either does not know what it is talking about in the matter of this possible medical breakthrough and is making it up as it goes along — or it is deliberately lying to mislead reporters, the medical community and the public.

There are, as you might suspect, many unanswered and some unanswerable questions about this promising new medical technology, beginning with: (1) What is it? (2) Will it work? (3) Why is anyone against it if there is the possibility that it could cure such horrors as diabetes, strokes and Parkinson's disease? Here are some answers:

Richard Reeves

(1) Stem cells are incredibly flexible (or still unformed) living elements found in days-old human embryos. They are self-replenishing and have the capability to become more than 200 different specialized cell types in the body, which means they could possibly produce unlimited numbers of new cells to replace diseased, damaged or dying cells in ailing bodies.

(2) Maybe. It will take a long time, billions of dollars and millions of cells to find out what they can safely do; among the mistakes that could be made is unleashing a plague.

(3) Because stem cells at this point can be derived mainly from destroyed human embryos — so far, from embryos destroyed in fertility clinics — there are many people who consider the process the equivalent of taking human life. Murder.

President Bush, on Aug. 9, announced a compromise policy designed to satisfy both researchers and others who believe in science above all and right-to-life activists. He said the federal government would fund expensive stem cell research, but only research using 60 "lines" of cells already in existence in laboratories. Federal money would not be made available for new "lines."

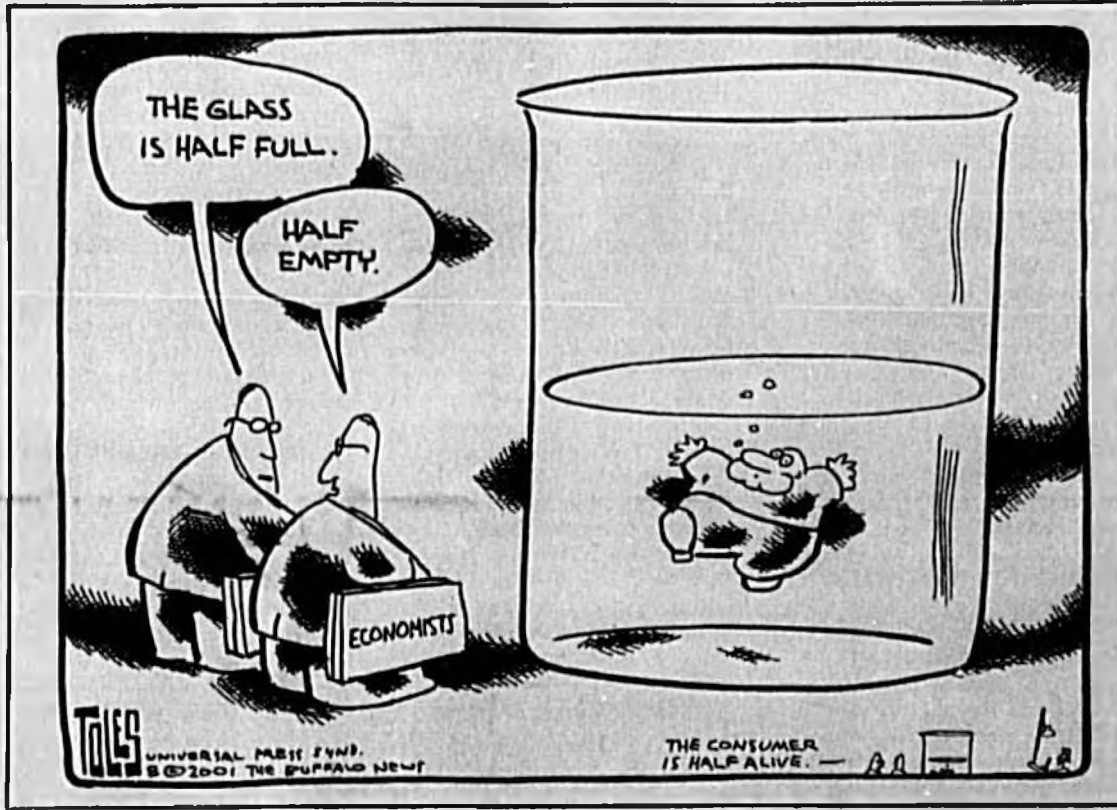

But — and here is the problem with the press — the White House will not or cannot identify the 60 lines and their characteristics. Scientific literature identifies fewer than a dozen lines. The highest previous estimate of lines was 23. The number is important, for instance, because most of the identified lines so far are from embryos produced in Asia. In the simplest terms, experimentation using only those lines would not benefit Caucasians or blacks. There is also a problem with the use of mouse cells to feed the existing lines as they grow — there is a fear that animal diseases could thus be transmitted to humans.

So, reporters have been asking the White House for specifics on the 60 lines referred to by the president. The answer has been: The burden of proof is on anyone who doubts the claim.

In other words, the press must either accept the government's numbers — without any proof — or go about the rather unpleasant business of proving that the government is wrong. Our job, on orders from the government, is to try to prove they are liars.

And we have begun to try to do precisely that, because that is the way our leaders want it. This, as Fleischer so candidly defines it, is a hostile relationship, an adversary process — and both the press and presidency will be diminished in this contest over the next few weeks.

Blacks are losing out to latinos as minority with clout

News from the U.S. Census comes as an unwelcome surprise to many African-Americans; it shows that Latinos are already as large a percentage of the U.S. population as blacks. The numbers reflect more than a mere demographic abstraction. They confer status, prestige and power.

As the Latino population continues to grow, the attention that federal and state governments, institutions and corporations have lavished on African-Americans since the 1960s will wane. From now on, the word "diversity" will no longer signal an intention to increase the representation of African-Americans.

The word "minority" will not be a substitute for the word "black," as it is in most public policy discussions outside California, Texas, Florida and New York. Instead, those words will suggest Americans whose ancestry traces back to Mexico and southward.

Some African-American leaders have responded to the growing political influence of Latinos by circling the wagons to keep the newcomers out. In the Georgia legislature, black lawmakers recently tried to block a proposal to broaden the state's definition of "minority" to keep Latino-owned businesses from qualifying for a state program that boosts minority-owned enterprises. Those black lawmakers fear competition.

But that sort of narrow-minded effort won't work in the long run. The reasonable thing for African-Americans to do in response to rising Latino power is to become more competitive: raise their SAT scores, increase their personal wealth through savings, and develop cutting-edge businesses that can compete for private-sector customers.

Even before the latest census, affirmative-action efforts aimed at blacks were losing political support. It's not just white conservatives who have begun to resent special assistance to black Americans. So have many Asian-Americans, who claim some of their kids, usually high-scorers on SATs, are shut out of prestigious colleges because of efforts to get black kids in.

The current discussion about dropping the SAT requirement at prestigious colleges won't change the need for black students to earn higher scores on standardized tests. As a college education has become the ticket to the middle class, more students want to attend good schools. Since the elite schools cannot accept every applicant, they will have to use tests of some kind to sort the brilliant from the mediocre. Black kids ought to aim for brilliance.

Something similar applies to black-owned businesses: They, too, will have to learn to survive without special assistance. It is high time for affluent African-Americans to start credit pools to assist struggling black business owners.

During the early 1990s, when multiethnic California languished in severe recession, fierce competition among blacks and Latinos generated profound resentments. Black Californians complained that they deserved the jobs, the college scholarships, the government set-asides for minority-owned businesses. It was black Americans, after all, who endured slavery and the stark oppression that followed, they argued.

That's all true, but it's also increasingly irrelevant. The United States is a country not much given to looking back. It looks forward, and Latinos represent the wave of the future. Their sheer numbers will make them the people of color to whom public policy responds.

If African-Americans are to continue progressing toward the nation's economic mainstream, we need to start looking forward, too. The heyday of black civil rights is over. It's time to let it go.

"I did not try to do anything wrong," Knepper said. "If I was trying to cheat everybody, I would have taken the money and gone to the Caribbean Islands."

Bob McGaffick managed the Sanford office for LaborTemp and left two weeks ago to work for another labor service, Staffing America. He said the reason he switched companies was the outstanding debts.

"I was very concerned about this," McGaffick said. "Everybody was in my face wanting to know when they would get their money. There was nothing I could do. I'm in the corner of the merchants 1,000 percent."

LaborTemp began having financial problems, Knepper said, when Capital TempFunds and AmSouth Bank of Florida began freezing the company's accounts.

"There was no criminal intent on my part," Knepper said. "Basically what happened is the funding company drew a line in the sand, and the bank drew a line in the sand. I got caught in the middle."

Smaller temporary labor services, like LaborTemp, usually contract with a funding company to ensure the business has enough cash flow to operate. For example, a construction company may call a labor service and ask for 20 workers. The labor service provides the manpower, and at the end of the day writes a check to each of the workers even though it has yet to collect the money from the construction company. Knepper said it is unusual for a company to pay its bills within 45 days.

Funding companies fill the void by providing money up front to the labor service. To secure the agreement, the labor service assigns its accounts receivable to the funding company; that is, companies that contract with a labor service pay the funding company, not the labor service, because the funding company has already advanced money to the labor service.

If a labor service's customer does not pay the funding company within 90 days, additional interest is charged to the labor service.

"The funding company will only allow a certain percentage of your outstanding bills to be more than 90 days delinquent," Knepper said. "That's what happened. Capital TempFunds said we had too many bills past 90 days and they stopped sending us money. They drew a line in the sand."

"We've got more than enough bills that we are owed to get everybody paid," Knepper added. As of last week, Knepper said LaborTemp had about $1.4 million in bills to be collected.

"That will cover the $600,000 for Capital TempFunds and all the merchants who cashed checks," Knepper said.

Capital TempFunds requested the Ninth Judicial Circuit Court put LaborTemp into receivership, but Knepper said the judge rejected that idea.

"He refused because he looked at the bills we had out there that have yet to be paid and determined there was enough money to pay everybody," Knepper said. Capital TempFunds did audit LaborTemp's books and Knepper said he is in the process of satisfying the debt he owes.

Knepper sold his business, minus the outstanding debts, to Bayside Staffing at the end of July.

"Me personally, I'm probably going to crash and burn after all of this," Knepper said, "but I'm doing everything possible to get everybody paid."

3 D's Restaurant

If you're in the mood to sample authentic Jamaican-Caribbean food, you don't have to travel outside downtown Sanford. A visit to 3D's restaurant and bakery at 110 South Palmetto Avenue is your answer.

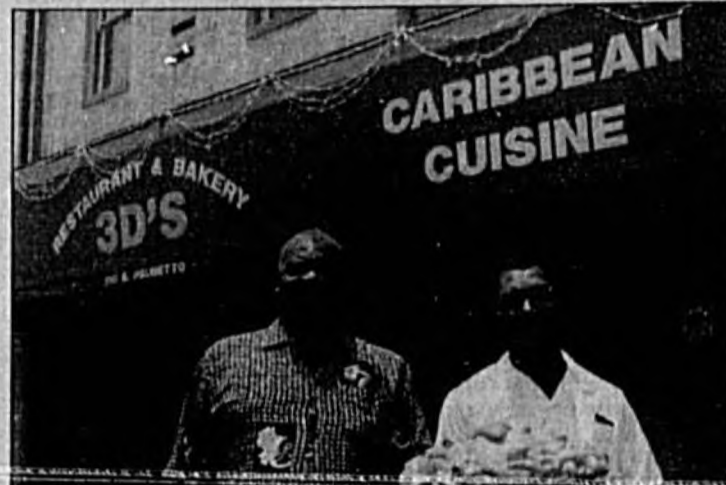

3D's is owned and operated by Lenford Wallace and Egbert Roy Chambers. The pair opened the restaurant 1993, and own a second 3D's in Brooklyn, New York. The name 3D's, Wallace said, comes from the names of his three nieces; Deborah, Dezen and Dorney.

Wallace first opened his restaurant in Orlando. The reason he moved his establishment to Sanford is an interesting story. According to Wallace, over a period of two weeks, he had the same dream three times telling him to re-locate to Sanford.

"I didn't even know where Sanford was," he said. In his dream he said he saw the building where the restaurant would be located.

"When I got to Sanford," Wallace explained, "I went to Palmetto Avenue and stood across the street and looked at the building. I knew it was the place in my dream."

The first two years were hard times, he said, but business has steadily improved since then. The unique taste of Jamaican bakery products makes up about 90 percent of the business. Wallace said he ships his bread three days a week to Caribbean stores in Jacksonville, Nashville, Tenn., and many other locations. Coconut Rock Cake & patties and Bulla Cake are two of his specialties.

3D's Restaurant and Bakery owned and operated by Lenford Wallace and Egbert Roy Chambers.

Bread isn't the only delicacy offered at 3D's. The aroma of Caribbean cuisine permeates the air throughout the restaurant. Lunch specials are $3.99 and are served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The lunch menu consist of Curried Chicken, Brown Stew Chicken, Curried Pork, Pig's Feet and Turkey Wings.

For dinner, Wallace offers Curried Goat, $5.75; Oxtail, $6; Curried Chicken, $5.75; Stew Beef, $5.89; Fish, $7.50; and soup, $3 small and $5 large. Wallace said all dinners are served with rice and beans or plain rice and a vegetable. 3D's is open Monday through Thursday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday 9 a.m. to 2 a.m. Phone: 407-321-6933.

Former secretary for Seminole Housing Authority arrested
A former secretary for the Seminole Housing Authority was arrested Friday on charges that she allegedly stole tenants' rent payments.

21-year old Kema Mullins (DOB 4/25/80) came under suspicion after two housing authority tenants' money orders were allegedly used by Mullins to pay rent to her landlord. The Seminole Housing Authority filed the complaint August 13th. The Seminole County Sheriff's Office investigated and arrested Mullins on a warrant.

Mullins turned herself in to face two counts of larceny in excess of 300 dollars. The charges are felonies. Mullins has since bonded out of jail.

It should be noted that the Seminole Housing Authority is located in Oviedo and is not affiliated with the Sanford Housing Authority, which has been the subject of a federal investigation.

PAL Hot Shot Hoops competition is Sept. 8

On Saturday, Sept. 8, the Seminole County Police Athletic League (PAL) will host the Hot Shot Competition.

Hot Shot is a timed basketball event where points are earned by shooting from pre-established locations. The event is free and open to Seminole County boys and girls, ages 9-14, as of September 1, 2001. There is no cost to participate. Competition will be held at Seminole Community College.

All competitors must fill out proper PAL paperwork including emergency contact information, a liability release, as well as provide a copy of birth certificate.

For more information, contact Sergeant John Zeh at 407-328-3762.

Mealor honored for first year service

In his first year in the House of Representatives, Rep. David Mealor showed a strong support for child welfare issues which helped him recently win the Children's Home Society of Central Florida Legislator of the Year Award.

Specifically, Mealor sponsored a bill that gave young teenage foster children the chance to learn how to drive. Because of liability issues, foster children between the ages of 15 to 17 could not obtain a learner's permit and could rarely participate in driver's training classes in high school.

"Foster children have to deal with enough stigmas, they should not have to be different," Mealor said.

In addition to the foster kids driving bill, Mealor also voted for increased funding for residential foster care, continued reforms to promote community based care and supported increased penalties for those who commit domestic violence crimes.

"I am honored to receive this prestigious award and will work hard to protect and enhance the quality of care for all of our children," Mealor said during the acceptance of the award.

aware of the importance of the tax to their school.

"I'm not old enough to vote, but it wouldn't make sense for a public school to be against it," said senior Rampage editor in chief Scott Gordon. "We just thought it was important to stress the issue. It's an issue that affects the school one way or another."

Complete with a front page story, an editorial and a picture with students pointing and smiling at a one cent sales tax support sign, The Rampage is full of pro-sales tax information.

"We rushed to get this one done because open house was Thursday," said the paper's advisor Dianne Burd. "We could have taken our time and come out with our first paper six weeks from now but we wanted to get this in."

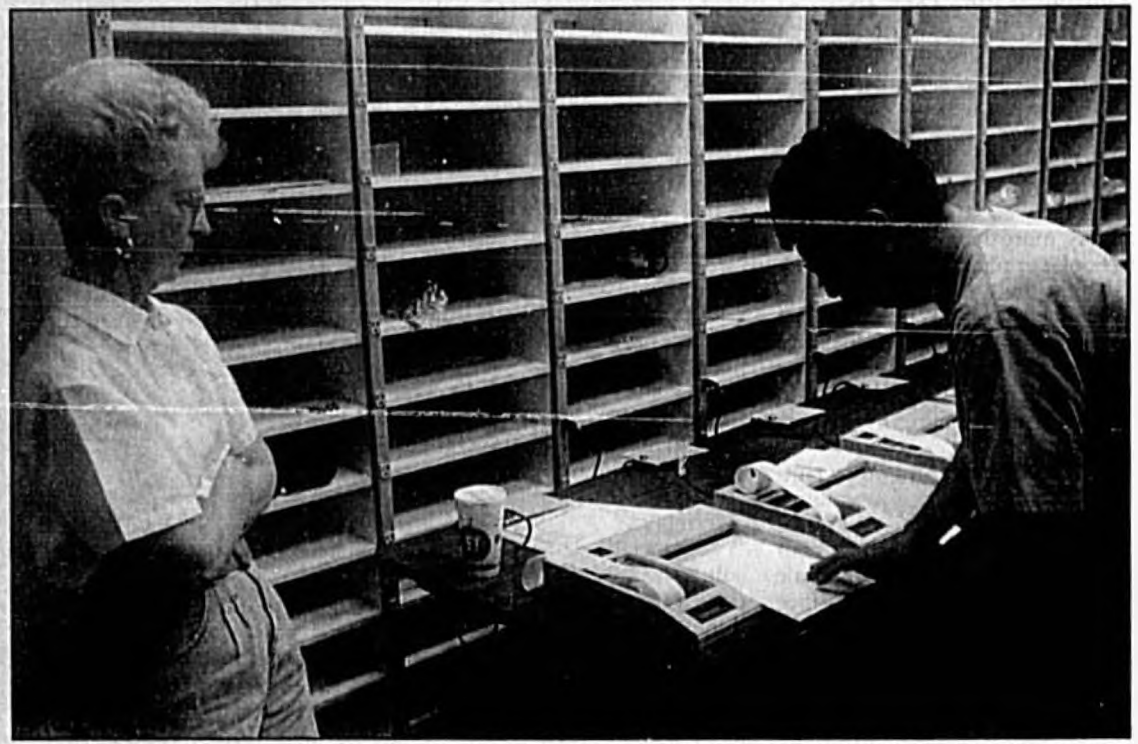

With the paper finished before open house, the parents of the school's 2,600 students had the opportunity to read some of the students' views on the one cent sales tax.

"We're more likely to reach the kids from the student newspaper than the Orlando Sentinel," Gordon said.

According to junior viewpoint editor Jennifer LaBrie, she may never see the changes that will occur with the passing of the sales tax, but she hopes maybe her siblings will.

"People are not going to stop coming (to Seminole County) because we're going to stop building roads," LaBrie said.

Some of the high school improvements planned with the new sales tax money include eight classrooms, tennis courts, locker rooms at the stadium and a media and drama center.

"I don't think there is any reason not to keep it," said senior editorialist Nichole Wilson about the continuation of penny sales tax. "Schools are important but we're not getting our improvements until probably 15 years. Keeping safe roads is more important for the community. No one is going to miss a penny. It adds up to more, but it's not a hassle to people."

According to vice principal

Kathy Roberts, problems of overcrowding are escalating at the school and may be the reason students have a special interest in the Sept. 4 election.

"Although they may or may not benefit from the improvements, their brothers and sisters will," Roberts said. "If schools start declining, for any reason, property values will go down, and we have more students in our school than we have ever had."

Long time Seminole County educator and current County

Commissioner Carlton Henley said he was pleased to see students taking an interest in local government.

"It's a good civics lesson for them to realize the process government has to go through to get the penny sales tax," Henley said. "They realize the benefit of a good school system — that is important."

overpass in Daytona Beach cost $3 million.

Moore said the design build process will be utilized in the construction of the overpass.

According to Moore, as construction crews begin on the initial land development plans the sub structure plans will be reviewed by the county and FDOT. After those are approved, plans for the structure will follow. This allows the county to exactly specify what they want in each stage of the construction, but it will also keep the project in-line with the schedule.

"That's one of the beauties of this type of selection," Moore said.

nutrition, and according to Salmons, the dogs were often kept in their kennels up to two or three days at a time.

"All of the animals that came out of this situation and were successfully adopted," Salmons said. "Fortunately, we got to them early enough that we lost only one dog and we think that was due to old age."

The dogs were turned over to Greyhound Pets of America, a greyhound rescue agency in Melbourne and are recovering.

In addition to jail time, the two men also must pay $7,000 each to the greyhound rescue agency and serve 10 years probation. As a condition of probation, they can not engage in any animal racing or have control or possession of any racing animal.

"It's my understanding their license is being revoked," Salmons said.

Assistant state attorney Dawn Krueger assisted in the prosecution of the case.

"Crayons To Computers," that gave away school supplies to teachers in a mock-retail setting.

"It was wildly successful among teachers," Landwirth said. "So, I decided to try to start a similar program here."

That was three years ago. Today, more than $10,000 worth of school supplies are given away daily at the Orlando outlet, with teachers from more than 140 area schools, including Goldsboro, Hamilton, Midway and Pine Crest elementary schools in Sanford, participating in the program.

The basis of the program is simple. Local businesses, foundations and individuals, including Publix, Universal of Orlando, Walt Disney World Co., and Scholastic Book Fairs, donate surplus office supplies and other items to the store. Schools are selected to participate in the program based on the number of students in the free/reduced lunch program. Teachers are then invited to come to the 5,000 square-foot store each month during a designated time to "shop" for supplies.

Teachers are allowed to choose 25 line items each month from the thousands of supplies available in the store. The amount of one line item varies depending on what it is. For example, 48 crayons or 10 erasers equal one line item.

Every teacher leaves the store each month with about $200 to $250 worth of school supplies. Their baskets are filled with the basic supplies, such as pencils and paper, and incentive items like stuffed animals and novelty toys.

"It's unbelievable for someone to do this," said Linda Crawford, a first-grade teacher at Hamilton Elementary School. "For teachers, this is remarkable."

For the past two years, Crawford has made regular trips into Orlando to shop at A Gift For Teaching. Before that, she was buying school supplies with her own money.

"Financially, it had been difficult," she said. "My budget was only so much, so I would pick things up from here or there when I could."

Since September 1998, more than 63,000 books and 365,000 pencils have been taken to classrooms as a result of A Gift For Teaching. Recently, socks and other clothing items have been added to the store's stock at the request of several teachers. The list of participants is also expanding.

Gary Landwirth and Aimee Hulbert discuss the need to assist teachers with supplies for their classrooms. Hulbert is the company's marketing and public relations director.

amazing things to help them in school."

Recently, the store also started a new program, "A Gift For Music," which enables students from four area schools to learn how to play cello, violin or viola by University of Central Florida instructors. The instruments are provided by the store through sponsorships.

In addition, Landwirth is working on a national network, where similar stores from throughout the country, including Portland, Maine, Atlanta and Miami, can swap items in order to offer more to teachers. And, with a $300,000 annual budget that is growing — it takes about $4,000 to sponsor one school — he hopes more schools in Central Florida will be added to the store's list.

"Education is such a critical issue," Landwirth said. "It's not just about educating our kids. It's about educating our future leaders."

A Gift For Teaching is located at 2814 Corrine Drive in Orlando. For more information, call 407-897-3612. Information can also be found at the organization's website at www.agiftforteaching.org.

Gimmler gets first TBARA sprint win

By Dave Westerman
Special to the Herald

BITHLO — Gary Gimmler of Palm Beach Gardens won his first career TBARA sprint car feature event last Friday night at Orlando Speedworld on a night that saw the point leader involved in two accidents and some wild action overall.

Jim Alvis outran Gimmler to win the first heat while white-haired veteran Sonny Hartley drove Dennis Hood's "Junkyard Dog" sprinter to the win in heat two.

The third heat was a wild affair including an incident between TBARA point leader Wayne Reutimann, Sr. and visiting USCS hotshoe Kenny Adams. Going into turn one, the rear-end gears stripped in Reutimann's machine and he slowed abruptly. Adams had nowhere to go and he rode over Reutimann's sprinter and took a hard trip into the wall.

Reutimann's crew went to work and got him ready for the feature while Adams' crew took some parts from teammate Red Stauffer's dirt car which was in the hauler and got him on track for the main just before the cars fired off.

Keith Butler went on to easily win heat three.

Alvis was on the pole and sped to a quick lead in the 25-lap feature. New Daytona Beach resident Tommy Cainey, making his first start on asphalt, spun on lap four to bring out the caution.

On the restart, Alvis' machine just wasn't running right and Gimmler blew by for the lead. Alvis dropped out three laps later. Gimmler opened up his advantage as Shane Butler worked his way into second just before caution flew again for debris on the track. Gimmler appeared to have the horses to hold off Butler and the rest of the pack behind him but everything came to an immediate halt when Reutimann and Todd Schmidt tangled going into turn one with both cars hitting the wall with devastating force. Schmidt's car rode the wall on fire into turn two and he climbed from the machine before it stopped moving. Reutimann got out of his car and sat on the track for a few minutes to get his breath and walked back to the pits.

There were tire marks from Reutimann's car on Schmidt's helmet and later Schmidt began having dizzy spells in the pits. He was transported to the hospital by Orange County Fire-Rescue with a possible concussion.

The long red flag period didn't bother Gimmler as he held Shane Butler at bay the remaining eight laps to score a popular victory. Gimmler had won a number of TQ Midget races at Speedworld in the 1980's, but this was his first win in a sprint car.

Russ Conway, the former operator of the NESMRA Supermodified group in New England, flew down to watch his old friend Doug Heveron race and Heveron didn't disappoint him by coming home a strong third. Dude Teate was steady as always and took fourth with Keith Butler cutting into Reutimann's point lead by finishing fifth.

Football teams ready for action

SANFORD — For football fans it has been an eternity. For coaches and players, the time has flown by.

The 2001 prep varsity football regular season begins Friday night with four games around the county.

Teams have had to cram a lot of work into little time as practice was not allowed to start until August 6th, which was also the first day of school, therefore canceling the traditional two-a-day practices.

And with the season starting this Friday, the Classics were played last week, teams only had two weeks to get through conditioning and put in the offensive and defensive schemes.

The quick start of the season actually

Varsity regular season kicks off Friday with four contests kept Lake Brantley from playing in a Classic as coach George Clayton wanted to give his Patriots an extra week of practice.

Lake Brantley will travel to Winter Springs' A. Wayne Epps Sports Complex to take on the Bears in the debut of Steve Katz as coach at Winter Springs.

One of the top matchups on the schedule finds Seminole and new coach Jim Bernhardt traveling to Lake Mary to take on the Rams of Greg Stanton at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

The Fighting Seminoles gave a good account of themselves in the Classic at Merritt Island last Friday, falling in a half to the always tough Mustangs, 8-7.

Quarterbacks Andre Raines and Carl Harris both threw touchdown passes, unfortunately, Harris' scoring toss was called back. And running back Tim Hunter scored on a touchdown run for the junior varsity.

Defensively for the Tribe, Justin McKinney and Idarus Chapman both had interceptions.

This Friday's contest should be a good showcase for two of the top athletes in all of Florida in Raines and Lake Mary's star running back Reggie Campbell, a junior who was a Third Team Class 6A All-State pick as a sophomore.

Another big matchup finds Lake Howell traveling to Oviedo to take on the Lions at John Courier Field.

The Silver Hawks are anxious to prove that they are back among the elite teams in the county, while Oviedo is out to prove that it will be contender for the playoffs.

The final game of the night finds Boone paying a visit to Longwood to take on Lyman at the Carlton Henley Sports Complex.

The Greyhounds are flying high after thoroughly dismantling the Oak Ridge Pioneers 41-14 in the Classic at Lyman High School last Friday.

All games are set to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Oviedo "wins" classic

OVIDEO — Predictably, Friday night's High School Pigskin classic between the visiting Lake Mary Rams and Oviedo Lions was as less-than-satisfying experience for the coaches.

Even though there were definite positives to the preseason workout, both Lake Mary head coach Greg Stanton and Oviedo head coach Greg Register know the negatives need to be addressed and expediently if their respective teams are to have successful seasons.

The Lions won the contest, sort of, 36-25.

More accurately, Oviedo won two of the three contests and took the overall victory. In the first quarter, which matched the schools' respective freshman teams, Oviedo scored an 8-6 victory. The Lions' junior varsity team romped in the second quarter, 21-6. The second half was won by the Lake Mary varsity, 13-7.

"It went very well," said Register, commenting about having all three levels of the WINTER SPRINGS — It was a night of Friday night shutouts in the Kick-Off Classic between the Lake Howell and Winter Springs football teams at the A. Wayne Epps Sports Complex at Winter Springs High School.

The freshman, junior varsity and varsity squads from each school took turns playing with the Bears winning by a combined score of 43-12.

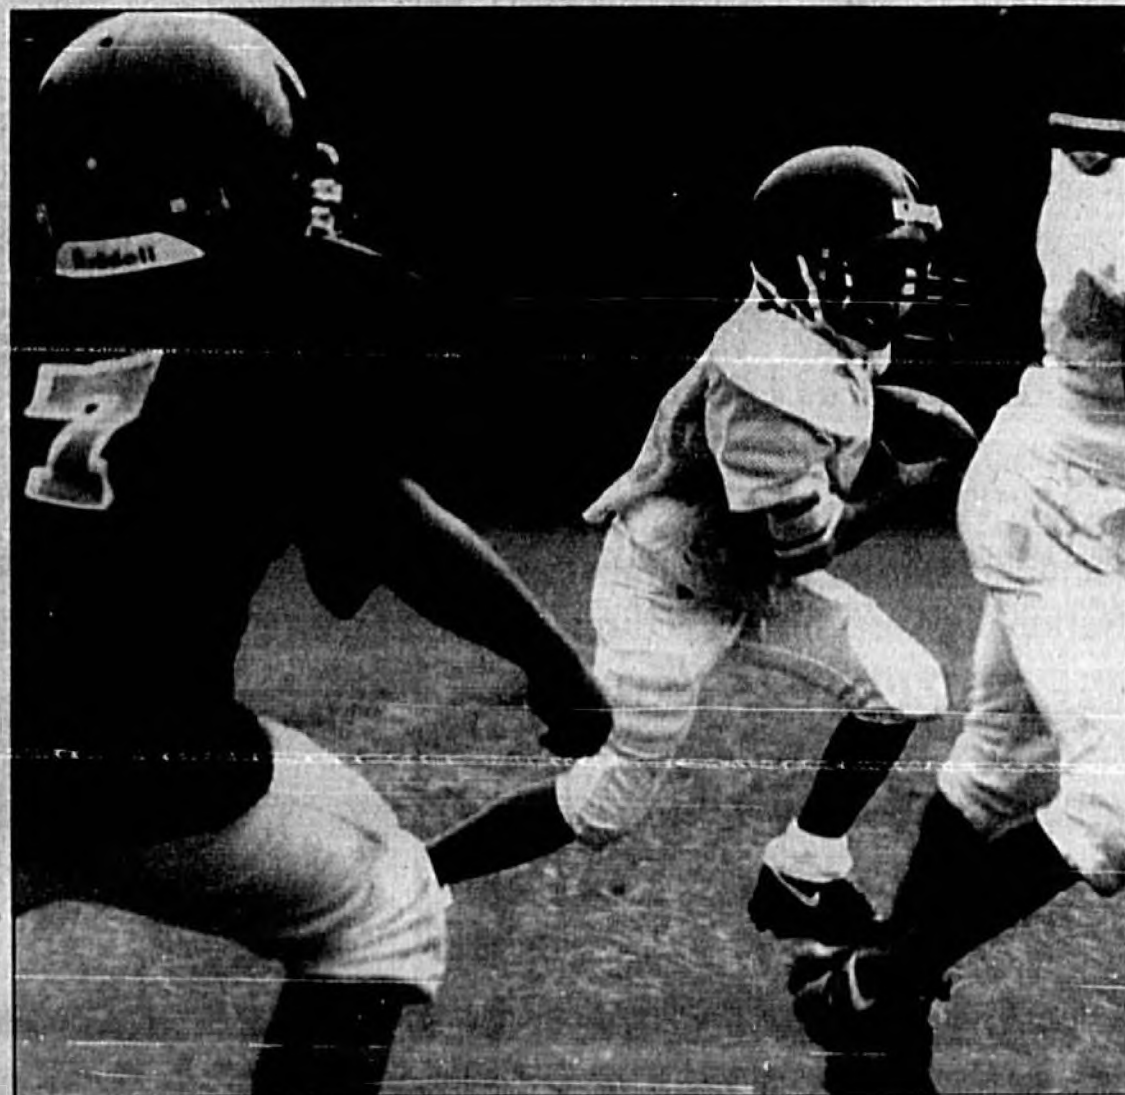

The Winter Springs freshmen came out red hot, slamming the Silver Hawks 28-0.

The junior varsity then took to the field for the second period and finished out the first half with Lake Howell coming out on top 12-0.

The marquee varsity matchup took place in the second half and it was the Bears getting by with a 15-0 win in the debut coaching appearance for new Winter Springs head coach Steve Katz.

The game was full of drama as each team committed some
