Blocking driveways, sidewalks prohibited

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies, under a new program, are issuing $15 citations to drivers whose vehicles block sidewalks and driveways in subdivisions in the county.

A sheriff's spokesman said blocking a sidewalk can be an insurmountable barrier to the freedom of movement for the handicapped, and life threatening if it prevents residents from making an immediate exit from their house in an emergency.

Drought forces worm prices up

CLAREMORE, Okla. (UPI) — You can't even go fishing these days without being reminded of the drought.

The hot, dry weather gripping the United States and Canada — the natural habitat of the really big worms that fishermen use for bait — has caused a shortage of the squiggly night crawlers. And, that's meant higher prices for bait.

Canadian night crawlers have been selling in bait shops for up to $2.50 per dozen — the highest in at least 21 years, says Pete Watson, head of National Bait and Tackle of Claremore, which provides a large section of the nation with fishing worms, supplying "jobbers" in 22 states.

Elk tranquilized on golf course

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A wayward elk kept officers guessing for about eight hours before the animal was tranquilized near the 15th green of a local golf course and driven to Mount Hood National Forest.

Police, Multnomah County sheriff's deputies, state troopers and city Parks Department crews spent most of Tuesday morning trying to round up the 10-point elk before state Fish and Wildlife game experts and veterinarians from Washington Park Zoo zapped the animal with a tranquilizer dart near the 15th green at Glendoveer Golf Course.

"We have absolutely no idea where he came from or how he got here," a mystified Dave Simpson of the Portland Police Bureau said. "We asked him that, but he exercised his Fifth Amendment rights to refuse to comment. So, as with most prisoners, we gave him a citation and let him go."

Autopsy reveals murdered child died of stab wounds

By Wayne Wise
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Cornelia Ammons, 11, who was found murdered Sunday evening on a deserted city street, died of knife wounds to the neck and heart, according to the medical examiner's autopsy report.

Dr. Sara Irrgang, Seminole County medical examiner, said Tuesday an autopsy revealed that Ammons received two severe cuts to the throat, one severing the jugular vein, and a stab wound directly to the heart.

Irrgang said that Ammons also had multiple superficial stab wounds to the chest.

The time of Ammons' death could not be pinpointed but was "sometime Saturday night," according to Irrgang.

Dr. Irrgang said no positive evidence of sexual battery was revealed by the autopsy but tissue specimens have been sent to the state crime laboratory of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement in Orlando for examination.

"The problem was the body had been in the woods for 24 hours and decomposition had begun," said Irrgang. "It made it difficult to be absolutely positive."

According to Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriott, the lab results will be returned directly to his office. Harriott said, depending on the work load at the crime lab, test results usually take approximately a month.

Ammons was discovered at 6:30 p.m. Sunday in bushes along Jerry Avenue near Fifth Street by a man walking his dog. The body was discovered more than 24 hours after she left her home at 22 William Clark Court.

Ammons was on her way to her grandmother's house less than a half-mile away. Her mother, Curleen Ross, reported Ammons missing to police on Sunday afternoon.

While clues are scarce, Harriott said investigators are looking for a black vehicle that was seen by neighbors in the area about the time Ammons left to visit her grandmother on 20th Street.

Ammons mother, Curleen

Ross, said Tuesday she hopes the police find the killer soon. "It is cruel for me to say, but I hope they put him in jail and he gets killed," said Ross.

Ross also said that Ammons' favorite record was "Dear Mr. Jesus," a song about child abuse recorded by the Powerhouse.

"She use to always say she didn't like other kids to get beat," said Ross. "She got spankings and was well-disciplined, but she was not beaten. She just loved that record and loved other kids, who were not as fortunate."

Funeral services for Ammons will be held at the New Life Word Center, 1402 W. 16th St., Friday, 4 p.m.

Flag taken down for repair

Sanford city workmen remove the giant flag, located in Memorial Park on the lakefront near city hall, from its pole Tuesday afternoon. The giant Old Glory was replaced with a smaller version until a tear on the original flag is repaired. The work crew was made up of (left to right) Anthony Neal, Howard Jeffries, Herman Eason and Charlie Collier, the filed supervisor for the city of Sanford.

State ends Seminole County probe

By J. Mark Barfield
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The state will not pursue insurance fraud charges based on information stemming from last year's Yankee Lake investigation, the last of possible illegal activities the state was pursuing.

Stephen Kunz, the assistant attorney general assigned to investigate public corruption in Seminole County, says with the decision to not pursue the charges, the state's probe into Seminole County is complete.

When the U.S. Attorney's Office in Tampa completes its review of the state files, the state can officially wash its hands of Yankee Lake and subsequent matters found during its investigation last year.

"Our executive assignment in Seminole County can then be concluded," Kunz says.

Seminole County Commission Chairman Fred Streetman had no comment on the state concluding its probe.

"Ours was over way back when," Streetman says. "I was very pleased with the results of the inquiry and have no comment on anything else they may have been looking at that didn't involve us."

"You're always disappointed when justice isn't served, no matter which side you're on."

says Grant McEwan, a county critic partially responsible for the state and federal investigations. "It's an absolute whitewash. Absolutely a scam."

Another county critic also in part responsible for the investigations is also disappointed.

"I gave the investigators documented facts," says Art Davis, now a Democratic candidate for the District 5 county commission seat. "There has to be something going on — call it a cover-up, political pressure, people don't care or what."

"I was told by the FDLE (Florida Department of Law Enforcement) investigators a lot of

Sinkhole forces condo residents out of homes

By J. Mark Barfield

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Residents of three buildings at the Capistrano Condominiums at 200 Mallard Avenue were evacuated Tuesday afternoon after what may be a sinkhole began forming in front of one of them.

The residents of the three buildings were evacuated by city police and firefighters shortly after 1 p.m. after the parking lot and common area in front of one of the buildings sank about an inch. Cracks began forming in a building in front of the depression by the time city police and fire department authorities arrived.

The 50-by-40-foot depression sank about another inch during the night, authorities say. The cracks widened, in some cases, to two and three inches, they said. The other two buildings evacuated were not immediately affected, but were evacuated for safety reasons, said city Fire Battalion Commander Bill Baer.

Ed Grykin, Capistrano property manager, said the building is insured for sinkhole damage by Nationwide Insurance, but was uncertain how much coverage was on the structure. He said individual unit owners are responsible for damage to their contents should the depression worsen.

A team from the Florida Sinkhole Research Institute surveyed the area Tuesday afternoon and determined the area of subsidence was about 60 feet by 40 feet located in front of the building with the cracks, Baer said. The area of earth that had shifted extended to about 40 feet underground, he said.

A team from Jammal and Associates of Winter Park, the engineering firm that investigated the Winter Park sinkhole, was expected at the condominiums this morning to take core samples, Baer said. The core samples would allow investigators to determine how deep the depression could sink and whether it can be stabilized by pumping concrete into it.

Longwood official denies allegation

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — An allegation that the city's management consultant had a personal interest in the firm that the commission awarded a computer software contract to brought a strong reaction from City Administrator Gene DeMarie Tuesday night.

"You are treading on dangerous ground. Your charges are bordering on criminal charges," DeMarie told city resident Carol Odom at the city commission meeting. "If you have any charges of criminal wrongdoing you should make them to the proper authorities."

He was responding to Odom's allegation that Jeff Etchberger, brother-in-law of Deputy Mayor Lynette Dennis, and the city's consultant, had in the past worked for HTE, the Orlando firm from which the city is buying $41,275 worth of software for its new IBM computer system. Odom implied Etchberger had influenced the city's choice of vendors.

An angry DeMarie, who came to work full time for Longwood on May 31, replied that Etchberger had absolutely nothing to do with the decision to award bids to HTE and IBM. "I personally looked into all the proposals and went to IBM and looked at what they had to offer," DeMarie said. "The decision was mine alone. I don't know what you are implying, but if he was ever involved I don't know about it."

Odom's probing questions and allegations, which came during the public participation period at the city commission meeting, concerned Etchberger and IAP Financial, Inc., the company the city paid for his services.

Odom wanted to know why

Jail guard appealing dismissal to board

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County jail guard who was fired by Sheriff John Polk last May is scheduled to appeal her dismissal before a Sheriff's Department Civil Service Board Thursday.

Martha "Marty" Brown, 40, of 150 Lori Ann Lane, Winter Springs, was fired as a result of her allegedly lying to state prison officials and loaning her car to a convicted felon.

The appeal hearing will begin at 9 a.m. at the sheriff's department. The board is comprised of Chairman Bill Colbert, a Sanford attorney; Chief Deputy Duane Harrell, appointed to the board by Polk; and Deputy Ralph Salerno, elected to the board by co-workers. Colbert was appointed to the board by the two other members.

The board can either support Polk's decision to fire

Surrogate parenting, 76 other bills signed into law

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez signed 77 bills into law, including a ban on for-profit surrogate parenting contracts, before leaving on his Fourth of July holiday, the governor's press office said Tuesday.

Martinez also signed a bill setting up an aid program for cities seeking professional sports franchises. He allowed 40 other bills to become law without his signature, and vetoed eight others.

Under the surrogate parenting bill (SB 9), prospective parents can pay the expenses of a volunteer surrogate mother, but cannot give her any direct payment.

Martinez also signed House Bill 1717, a financial aid package intended to help lure the Chicago White Sox to Florida.

The White Sox are now expected to stay in Illinois, but Martinez said the bill could still bring other sports franchise to the state.

Lotto winner shuns publicity

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A New Jersey man claimed his $10.5 million lotto jackpot Tuesday, but he and his family were staying out of the limelight, said the manager of the convenience store where the winning ticket was sold.

Michael Gabriele of Lyndhurst, N.J., filed a claim for his winning ticket in the lottery department's Clearwater office early Tuesday, said Lottery spokesman Ed George.

Gabriele gave the department only his New Jersey address, George said.

He will receive $10.5 million in 20 annual payments of $525,000 each. The first payment will be wired to New Jersey Friday, after the ticket is validated, George said.

Shop name angers Jewish leaders

CORAL SPRINGS (UPI) — The owners of a boutique whose name plays on the term JAP, for Jewish American Princess, said Tuesday they will not rename the store despite protests from some Jewish community leaders.

Barbara Fedderman, who owns the PAJ boutique, said the term has no negative connotations for her and added she is proud to be a Jewish American Princess.

"That's what I call myself, a Jewish American Princess," she said.

Fedderman and her partner Martin Rubin said the term was only damaging if used as an insult.

But one local leader described the term very differently.

"With the exception of this one woman, JAP is universally understood to mean what its jokes tell it to mean: materialistic whines, non-domestic, very sexual," said Rabbi Paul Plotkin of Temple Beth Am in the neighboring Broward County town of Margate.

Sheriff's captain's wife stable

EUSTIS (UPI) — The wife of a Lake County sheriff's captain heading drug and vice investigations was in stable condition today after being shot at the couple's home in what authorities believe was a warning to her husband.

Investigators said the wife of Capt. John Collins answered her door late Tuesday afternoon and was asked by a man if her husband was home.

When she replied no the man said, "Well, we can get a lot closer to him than this" and fired a small-caliber pistol at the woman, wounding her in the abdomen," an investigator said.

Denise Collins, 29, was recovering in the intensive care unit after surgery at Waterman Medical Center, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Deputies searched the house and dusted for fingerprints, and a police bulletin was issued for a clean-shaven white male wearing a gray jumpsuit.

Officers speculated the gunman was not trying to kill the woman but warn her husband to back off from a probe into the drug trafficking, motorcycle gang activity or pornography her husband's unit investigates.

Martinez signs transportation bills

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez has signed into law bills to expand the state turnpike and raise $500 million for right-of-way acquisition and bridge construction.

"Today we embark on a journey to begin erasing two decades of transportation neglect and complacency," Martinez said before signing the two bills Tuesday afternoon.

The first of the bills (HB 1639) calls for expanding the Florida Turnpike to create an interconnected statewide system, incorporating road projects to be proposed by the Department of Transportation and approved by the Legislature.

The second bill (SB 1429) will allow the use of gas taxes to back the sale of bonds, provided voters approve the idea in a constitutional amendment this fall. That would raise $500 million over the next two years.

The state now has an estimated $40 billion backlog of unmet transportation needs. Secretary of Transportation Kaye Henderson said the two bills would be a major help in paying off that backlog.

"We're thrilled with the prospective new money, that will bring into the state treasury our ability now to begin to eat through, in a very meaningful way, a 20-to-25-year backlog of transportation needs," Henderson said.

The turnpike bill specifies some projects that will be included in the DOT's proposal, most of which were part of a 20-year plan Martinez proposed last November.

It also calls for a 43-mile extension from the Wildwood to Lebanon exits in Sumter and Levy counties, and for an extension of the Sawgrass Expressway to I-95 in Broward County.

Other projects will be proposed by DOT and approved by the Legislature based on need and financial feasibility.

If voters approve the constitutional amendment this November, the second bill would use $30 million in gas taxes this year and $20 million more in 1989 to raise $500 million for right-of-way acquisition and bridge construction.

Martinez said the state needs to buy rights-of-way quickly because of the skyrocketing price of land in Florida. Bridge construction is badly needed, he said, because most of the state's rapid growth is along the oceanfront where new bridges will be placed.

FBI agent admits campaign against colleague

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lawyer for Donald Rochon, the black FBI agent accusing colleagues of racial harassment, maintains there are files far more damning than the court papers showing white agents in Chicago talked about ways to punish his client.

"There are other documents from the FBI's own internal investigation showing circumstantial evidence linking (white agents) to the most explicit death threat," said attorney Adam Thurnschwell after the court papers in question were examined Tuesday.

Thurnschwell said the worst death threat, a typed message to Rochon, warned in vulgar and explicit language that he would be mutilated and his wife would be sexually assaulted following his allegations of racism within the FBI.

An FBI spokesman said Tuesday the bureau had no comment on the matter.

The court papers made public were filed Friday in connection with a civil lawsuit lodged by Rochon against his employer. The suit charges the FBI and several white agents in Chicago and Omaha with violations of civil rights laws and claims Rochon was the victim of a campaign of harassment in Chicago, where he worked from 1984 to 1986. He now works for the FBI in Philadelphia.

The court filing, first reported Tuesday by The New York

Times, includes a sworn statement given to FBI investigators by agent Gary Miller and shows Rochon was the focus of anger and suspicion by white colleagues in Chicago, particularly Miller and Thomas Dillon, who regarded him as a troublemaker.

Miller and Dillon accused Rochon of bringing unfounded charges of racism against them and others in Omaha and Chicago in an effort to get transferred to Los Angeles, his hometown.

Miller, in the sworn statement dated July 30, 1985, said that in April 1985 "a discussion arose in the Squad 9 area of the Chicago division" regarding Rochon and allegations he reportedly made "against various agents."

"During this conversation, the topic extended to retribution against Rochon for his statements about these agents," Miller said in the statement obtained by Rochon's lawyers.

Miller also conceded that on April 4, 1985, he forged Rochon's signature on an application for death and dismemberment insurance for the Rochon family.

Rochon, who has charged that while living in Chicago his family's safety was threatened repeatedly in anonymous telephone calls and racist letters from white agents, has termed the unsolicited insurance policy a death threat.

Miller, who was suspended without pay for two weeks as a result of that incident and others aimed at Rochon, denied "ever typing any correspondence with racial and/or sexual connotations addressing same to Donald Rochon," according to his statement.

But Miller acknowledged he began a campaign against the black agent "as personal revenge against Donald Rochon for making allegations against my personal friend, Tom Dillon." He explained, "It was my way of putting a burr under his saddle."

Miller and Dillon are still assigned with the FBI in Chicago. Dillon worked with Rochon first in Omaha and later in Chicago and the documents suggest he knew of Miller's activities but denied involvement.

The Chicago incidents are now the subject of an investigation by a federal grand jury. The Justice Department and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission already have found Rochon was the victim of racial harassment in the FBI's Omaha office in 1983 and 1984. Rochon has charged that the later incidents in Chicago were more serious than the harassment in Omaha.

Five hijackers to hang

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A special court sentenced five men believed to be Palestinians to death by hanging today for the 1986 hijacking of a Pan Am jetliner that left 21 people dead and more than 100 wounded.

A judge handed down the maximum penalty to the five hijackers after a trial that lasted nearly a year.

The sentence may be appealed to the Supreme Court. The death sentence in Pakistan is carried out by hanging.

The men, who are believed to be Palestinians, were convicted of the Sept. 5, 1986, hijacking of a Pan Am jetliner in the southern port of Karachi that ended 16 hours later when the battery-powered lights on the plane failed and the hijackers opened fire and hurled at least two grenades.

Twenty-one people died, including two Americans, and about 150 were wounded before security forces moved in and seized four of the hijackers. The fifth suspect was arrested in Islamabad a few days later.

President Mohammad Zia ul-Haq, carefully balancing his relations with Washington and the Palestinians, refused to extradite the hijackers to the United States, but indicated he hoped the hijackers would receive death penalties.

Extremists vow suicide actions against U.S. targets

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Pro-Iranian zealots vowed to launch suicide actions against U.S. targets to avenge the downing of an Iranian passenger plane by a U.S. warship in the Persian Gulf, but there was no indication extremists carried out a threat to kill an American hostage.

Police remained on alert early today after a telephone caller set a 1 p.m. EDT Tuesday deadline to "execute" and dump in the seaside Ramlet Al Haida area in west Beirut one of two U.S. hostages held by the Islamic Jihad.

Six hours after the deadline, police said their patrols in the Moslem part of the city reported no sign of a dead body.

500 Arafat followers surrender

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — About 500 followers of Yasser Arafat defending their last strongholds at the sprawling shantytown of Bourj Barajneh in southern Beirut surrendered to pro-Syrian guerrillas encircling the camp. Palestinian sources said today.

The sources said 120 Fatah guerrillas surrendered to their Syrian-backed rivals late Tuesday and at least 40 emerged from the ruins of the shantytown to give up earlier in the day, bringing to 500 the number of pro-Arafat fighters who dropped their guns in 48 hours at Bourj Barajneh.

The Palestinian sources said the Palestine Liberation Organization leader's followers who are holed up in the badly damaged camp may withdraw to two refugee camps near the southern port city of Sidon after receiving guarantees from Syria.

Arab merchant's strike over

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Arab merchants reopened their shops today following a daylong commercial strike, and the underground group coordinating the nearly 7-month-old Palestinian uprising called for more strikes.

Palestinian protesters clashed Tuesday with soldiers in at least nine towns and U.N.-run refugee camps in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. Palestinian sources said. Soldiers shot and wounded an Arab man during a protest in Qabatta, the sources said.

Police clashed with Arab demonstrators in at least three East Jerusalem neighborhoods, state-run Israel Radio reported. Police fired tear gas and rubber bullets to disperse stone-throwing demonstrators in the Jebel Mukaber neighborhood.

Anglicans close to women priests

LONDON (UPI) — The Church of England has moved one step closer to the ordination of women priests despite a warning by the Archbishop of Canterbury that the church may "break in two."

Though the margin was smaller than expected, the church's governing General Synod voted Tuesday in favor of a bill that would enable women to be ordained to the priesthood.

The leader of the church, Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, voted against the measure despite his support in principle for women priests.

Many faithful, including priests and bishops, have said they would leave the church if women were accepted as priests.

Meese resigns as attorney general

Edwin Meese

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese said today now is the "opportune time" to announce his resignation following the apparent decision of a special prosecutor not to indict him, adding he would have been a "political liability" had he quit under fire.

In a surprise announcement Tuesday, Meese claimed he was vindicated by the findings of independent counsel James McKay and said he would step down by early August as the nation's 75th chief law enforcement officer.

McKay apparently decided not to seek an indictment against Meese for alleged conflict-of-interest violations and instead filed a secret 830-page report with a special three-judge federal appellate panel in Washington.

"With the successful conclusion of this investigation and the burden of false allegations now lifted, I can look ahead to returning to private life, where I intend to continue making a contribution to society," Meese said at a news conference in Sacramento, Calif.

Meese appeared on the three major television news programs today and was asked why he decided to resign now.

Meese said "there are some things I want to do" and "some personal plans I'll be announcing later," without elaborating.

He added, "This seemed to be an opportune time. My name has been cleared."

And he said he was not forced out.

"I can assure you, in no way was I shoved," Meese said. "As a matter of fact, this was a personal decision I made personally. ... Nobody tried to shove me and nobody could shove me, as a matter of fact."

Meese said, "I don't think there is any cloud at all" hanging over him and he denied his resignation is leaving the Justice Department in a lurch.

"No, not at all," Meese said, adding, "People are on duty everyday... carrying out their functions."

Meese also denied his tenure at the Justice Department was hurting the presidential campaign of Vice President George Bush.

"I think I would have been a political liability if I had quit under fire," Meese said.

On the CBS "This Morning" program, Terry Eastland, the Justice Department spokesman who was fired in May reportedly for failing to adequately defend Meese against mounting criticism, said Meese "has done the right thing ... and I think it would have been difficult for him to have left any earlier than he did today."

Meese said, "One of the things that I want to do is speak out about this administration and its successes, its achievements, and I think I can do that better before the president leaves office."

"I don't know whether I'll be high profile or not but I certainly want to speak out and talk about the outstanding achievements of President Reagan and his administration," he said.

Asked if he will be speaking out during the presidential campaign, Meese said, "I'm sure that some of the things I'll be saying will happen to coincide with the next few months, which will include the presidential campaign."

"He's a darned good attorney general," declared Reagan, served by Meese as a trusted adviser for more than 20 years. "He's a good friend and I'll miss him," the president added.

Meese, in Northern California to check up on anti-marijuana efforts, said he had spoken with the president about leaving and received Reagan's "permission" but had not discussed a possible successor. Chief White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan would begin a search "immediately."

Lawmakers agree Meese 'did right thing'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Critics and supporters of Attorney General Edwin Meese seem to agree he "did the right thing" by resigning, but they differ widely about why he should have stepped down.

"It's best for the country and best for the interests of justice," argued Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., after Meese announced Tuesday he would leave office by early August. Levin and other leading opponents of the attorney general say ethical questions surrounding him have damaged the Justice Department.

Conservative supporters, meanwhile, say the trusted confidant of President Reagan has led the department with strength but his emergence as a lightning rod for liberal attacks has wounded his family and the president.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, told reporters Tuesday, "I wouldn't blame anybody for hanging it up who has been through what Meese has been through."

Finally there is the feeling, acknowledged or not, that Meese's refusal to step down was hurting the White House candidacy of Vice President George Bush.

Bush, the prospective Republican nominee to succeed Reagan, issued a telling response to Tuesday's announcement saying, "Ed did the right thing and we wish him well."

Meese made his surprise announcement shortly after independent prosecutor James McKay filed a secret report on his 14-month investigation of the legal questions hanging over the embattled attorney general.

Meese assented McKay's report vindicated him from any criminal wrongdoing and freed him to quit the Cabinet to pursue unspecified private opportunities.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., spoke for many critics when he dismissed Meese's explanation and said the Reagan foot soldier was leaving under pressure from Bush and other Republicans concerned about the presidential election.

"He clearly is getting out because the Bush people have come to him and said, 'You're too much of a political problem for us ... You will hurt us if you stay in,'" Frank said. "He has become too much of an embarrassment."

Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa, a Republican on the Judiciary Committee, said he suggested to mid-level officials in the Bush campaign that they push for their own choice as a replacement.

"There should be a Bush person nominated by President Reagan that would send a clear signal on the type of person Bush would have if he is elected," said Grassley, adding that he did not know whether the Bush campaign agreed.

"The Meese resignation is good politically for the party but only if they see this as an opportunity," Grassley maintained. "Will Bush push his own person and is Reagan smart enough to respond?"

Rep. Robert Kastenmeier of Wisconsin, a Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee, took Bush's theme one step further. "I think the attorney general did the right thing," he said. "It may have been a little late in coming."

Bush's prospective Democratic opponent for the White House, Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, termed the resignation "long overdue."

"I think it's very unfortunate that we now have to confront this resignation and what's happened in the Justice Department over the course of the past few years," Dukakis said. "But the Meese resignation by itself is not going to solve this administration's problems with ethics in government."

Russian missile experts leave U.S.

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Seventy Soviet missile experts flew back to Moscow Tuesday after conducting the first inspections of key western U.S. military weapons sites under the Intermediate Nuclear Forces Treaty.

The Russian entourage left the U.S. air base at 12:15 p.m. PDT aboard the same white Soviet Aeroflot plane — emblazoned with red and blue emblems and writing — that brought them to the United States for their first monitoring visit under the historic missile-banning pact.

They left under the same guarded secrecy that surrounded their fast-paced tours of a half dozen Air Force and Army missile production and training sites in California, Arizona, Utah and Colorado.

The Russian treaty inspectors and their U.S. escorts made written reports. But they would say nothing about their findings to reporters.

"The conducting of the inspection and the releasing of the results are protected information under terms of the treaty," Army Major David Georgi said at Fort Huachuca in the Arizona high desert after a Russian team verified Cruise missile ground-launch training had been halted at the installation.

Another 22 of the Soviets who arrived at the California base 45 miles east of San Francisco last Friday will stay behind in the United States.

They set up an outpost on a bleak, tiny, arid patch of the top-secret Hercules Aerospace Co. rocket-making plant at Magna, Utah, to guard against outlawed Pershing 2 missiles for the next 13 years.

Under the INF treaty, an American inspection team will man a similar permanent station outside a Soviet missile assembly plant at Volkovsk, 600 miles northeast of Moscow.

The other 48 Soviet inspectors and 10 crew members of the Soviet Aeroflot plane spent the night at Travis AFB after the inspections were completed.

U.S. officials conducted similar verification inspections in the Soviet Union in the first stage of the treaty agreement finalized earlier this year by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to abolish intermediate-range missiles.

Tour: Poppel wins 3rd stage

LE MANS, France (UPI) — Jean-Paul Van Poppel of Holland proved his boast as a "summer sprinter" by speeding ahead of a huge pack to win Tuesday's third stage of the Tour de France, while compatriot Teun Van Vliet maintained the overall lead.

Van Poppel, who rides for the Superconflex team, edged countryman Mathieu Hermans and Belgian Eric Vanderaerden in the final sprint that capped the 132.7-mile stage from Nantes to Le Mans on the flatlands of northwestern France.

Suns sign free-agent Chambers

PHOENIX (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns Tuesday announced the signing of unrestricted free-agent forward Tom Chambers to a five-year contract, the first such signing under the NBA's new collective bargaining agreement.

Chambers, 29, averaged 20.4 points and six rebounds a game for the Seattle SuperSonics last season. The 6-foot-10, 230-pounder is a seven-year NBA veteran, the past five seasons with Seattle.

Under the terms of the new collective bargaining agreement and players union, the Suns owe Seattle no compensation, and the SuperSonics have no "right of first refusal" — the option of matching the Suns' offer.

Seattle reportedly offered Chambers a four-year contract worth $5 million — a 25-percent raise over his 1987 salary — but the deal hinged on his signing before the June 28 draft.

Seattle President Bob Whitsitt met with Chambers after the season, telling him he could try to sign with the SuperSonics before the draft or wait to test the market.

Doctors said Richard suffered a temporary loss of memory but X-rays of his skull, neck and knee showed no fractures. He was expected to stay in the hospital for observation for two to three days.

The fourth stage Wednesday is a 98-mile run from Le Mans to Evryux. The Tour will last for 21 days, covering 2,008 miles across France.

Richard, the world cross country cycling champion, fell about two-thirds of the way through the 128-mile stage from Nantes to Le Mans.

Birkbeck hurls Brewers over KC

AMERICAN LEAGUE

United Press International

Milwaukee right-hander Mike Birkbeck is demonstrating that the opportunity to pitch regularly has perked up his performance on the mound.

Birkbeck, who spent time at Triple-A Denver, returned to major-league action and led the Brewers to a 3-1 victory Tuesday over the Kansas City Royals. In improving to 3-5, Birkbeck retired the first 13 Royals he faced and allowed only three singles until the ninth.

Kurt Stillwell then opened with a double and one out later scored on a single by Kevin Seitzer. Dan Plesac relieved and got two outs for his 18th save.

Birkbeck, recalled from Denver Saturday, was sent to the minors June 2 with an ERA of 6.13.

"He never got an even chance before to get going," Milwaukee Manager Tom Trebelhorn said of the right-hander's early season problems that led to a demotion.

"With hindsight being 20/20, yes, I guess it was a good thing," Birkbeck said of his demotion. "I got the work I needed. There is no substitute for consistent innings."

At Denver Birkbeck was 4-1 with a 2.01 ERA.

It was the first time Birkbeck, who walked none and struck out four, beat Kansas City. He was 0-3 with a 6.28 in three previous starts against the Royals.

"Birkbeck threw a game unlike his statistics. We're scratching our heads a little bit," Kansas City Manager John Wathan said. "I'm not taking anything away from him. I think Birkbeck threw a great game."

Floyd Bannister, 8-7, walked one and struck out one over 7 1/3 innings. Milwaukee managed just six hits off the left hander, but three of them came in the second inning.

Jeffery Leonard led off with his third American League home run and Dale Sveum followed with a double. After a sacrifice, Joey Meyer singled in Milwaukee's second run.

Elsewhere in the AL, Cleveland swept two games from Oakland, 3-0 and 4-2. Toronto whipped California 4-1. Seattle nipped Detroit 5-4. Baltimore drubbed Chicago 5-1. Minnesota overcame Boston 6-4 and New York held off Texas 5-3.

Indiana 3-4, Athletics 0-2

At Cleveland, Cory Snyder stroked two RBI singles to lead the Indians in the nightcap. Rick Rodriguez, 1-1, allowed one run on six hits and four walks over 6 2/3 innings. Doug Jones went two innings for his 20th save, escaping a bases-loaded situation in the eighth. Rich Bordi, 0-1, took the loss.

In the opener, Scott Bales retired 16 straight en route to a five-hitter and Snyder slammed a two-run homer. The Indians had lost their previous eight meetings with the A's dating to Sept. 23. Oakland had its winning streak end at five games. Dave Stewart, 11-7, took the loss.

Blue Jays 4, Angels 1

At Toronto, Jimmy Key, in his second game since elbow surgery, combined with Duane Ward on a seven-hitter for the Blue Jays. Key, 4-1, allowed six hits, struck out three and walked none over 8 1/3 innings. Ward earned his sixth save. Mike Witt, 6-9, has lost six straight decisions to Toronto.

Mariners 5, Tigers 4

At Detroit, Dave Valle's two-run double highlighted a three-run fourth to spark Seattle. Steve Trout, 4-4, gave up a first-inning homer to Luis Salazar, then kept Detroit scoreless until being chased in the sixth. Mike Schooler came on in the eighth for his fourth save. Walt Terrell dropped to 3-6.

Orioles 5, White Sox 1

At Chicago, Jose Bautista scattered five hits to lead Baltimore. Bautista, 4-6, struck out six and walked none in his first major-league complete game. Cal Ripken slugged his 15th home run of the season, a two-run shot, for the Orioles. Dave LaPoint, 6-9, took the loss.

Twins 6, Red Sox 4

At Minneapolis, Gary Gattis hit a three-run homer off Lee Smith in the eighth inning to lift the Twins. Juan Berenguer, 8-3, won in relief and Jeff Reardon earned his 23rd save. Smith fell to 2-4. In the eighth, Kirby Puckett and Kent Hrbek singled, and with one out, Gattis hit his 18th home run for a 6-4 lead.

Yankees 5, Rangers 3

At Arlington, Texas, Ranger starter Ray Hayward allowed five runs without retiring a batter to help New York. Winner Tommy John, 7-2, allowed six hits and two runs over six innings. Tim Lincecum got the final out for his second save. Hayward, 4-6, was relieved by Craig McMurtry, who worked 7 2/3 scoreless innings.

Browning, Reds silence Mets, 3-1

United Press International

Tom Browning views last season's demotion to the minor leagues as the key to this season's success.

Browning, pitching a year and a day since returning from Triple-A Nashville, allowed three hits over eight innings Tuesday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets.

"It was a pleasant," Browning, 3-3, son of his stint with Nashville from June 10-July 4, 1987. "But it made me a heckuva better pitcher. I learned what it takes to stay in the major leagues. It's something that will stay with me my whole career."

If anything, playing in Nashville lengthened Browning's career, which had been deteriorating since 1985 when he won 20 games.

Browning notched 14 victories in 1986 but slumped at the start of last season and was demoted.

"I learned that I'm not a power pitcher. Sometimes in a tough situation you can forget and try to bull the ball by someone instead of working your way out. I've learned to stay on an even keel."

However, Browning finished strong at the end of last season and has won six straight decisions.

"In the last month of last season he was one of the best pitchers in baseball," Reds Manager Pete Rose said. "If ever a guy went down for a mental rehabilitation it was him. To his credit, he kept his mouth shut and did it."

The left-hander walked just one Met and struck out five. He hit walked 27 batters in 116 1/3 innings (2.1 per nine innings) this season.

"He was no nonsense," Mets second baseman Tim Lincecum said. "He came at us and threw strikes."

The last time Browning faced New York was April 30. He hit two Mets and that was a prelude to Rose bumping umpire Dave Pallone and subsequently receiving a 30-game suspension.

Braves 10, Phillies 5

At Atlanta, Bruce Benedict drove in two runs and Ron Gant scored three times to help down the Phillies. The Braves pounded out 15 hits and were aided by five Philadelphia errors. Reliever Jose Alvarez, 3-2, worked two innings for the victory. Bruce Ruffin fell to 5-7.

Expos 4, Astros 3

At Houston, Luis Rivera tripled home Tom Foley with one out in the 11th inning to lift the Expos. Foley opened the 11th with a double off Dave Smith, 3-5. Jeff Parrett, 8-2, allowed one hit and two walks over 1 1/3 innings. Neal Heaton hurled the 11th for his first save.

Pirates 3, Padres 2

At San Diego, Andy Van Slyke snapped a tie with a home run in the seventh inning, then preserved the lead by throwing out a runner at home in the ninth to lead the Pirates. Van Slyke's blast came with two out off Jimmy Jones, 5-8. Bob Walk improved to 9-4 and Barry Jones watched his second save.

Dodgers 6, Cardinals 3

At Los Angeles, John Shelby doubled in two runs and Mike Marshall slammed a two-run homer to pace the Dodgers. Orin Hershiser, 13-3, went seven innings to hurl for his sixth consecutive win. Tim Lincecum pitched two innings for his fourth save. Cardinals starter Danny Cox fell to 2-4.

Giants 9, Cubs 0

At San Francisco, Terry Mulholland fired a six-hitter for his first major-league shutout and complete game to help whip the Cubs. Mulholland, 1-0, walked one and struck out two in his first major league start since September 1986. Calvin Schiraldi, 4-7, has lost five of his last six decisions.

Elbow injury sidelines Tigers' Trammell

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers will be without shortstop Alan Trammell until after the All-Star break because of a left elbow injury, the club announced Tuesday.

Trammell was placed on the 15-day disabled list retroactive to June 29 with a contusion on the head of the radius of his left elbow. Detroit purchased the contract of veteran shortstop Ivan DeJesus, 35, from its Toledo farm club of the Triple-A International League to replace Trammell on the roster.

"They say it's coming along good now. They say it might be totally healed in another week or eight days," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said of his shortstop and cleanup hitter, who finished second to Toronto's George Bell in last season's Most Valuable Player Award balloting. Trammell becomes ineligible to play in the All-Star game July 12 at Cincinnati. He held a slim lead over Baltimore's Cal Ripken in the last voting to be announced, and was expected to have been chosen a reserve if he did not start.

Trammell will be eligible to return to the active roster when play resumes following the All-Star break. Detroit plays at California July 14.

DETROIT recently signed the veteran DeJesus to Toledo, where he was hitting .306 in 13 games for the Mud Hens.

BASEBALL CENTRAL
NEW YORK (UPI) — Detroit outfielder Pat Sheridan was named AL Player of the Week Tuesday after driving in 10 runs with two homers, two triples and three doubles. Sheridan hit 500 for the week, with 11 hits in 22 at-bats, and had a 1.091 slugging percentage. He also scored five runs, walked twice and had a .520 on-base percentage.

Montreal first baseman Anders Galarraga was named NL Player of the Week for the third time this season, after hitting .548 with two homers and nine RBI. Galarraga went 17 for 31 with four doubles and eight runs scored, and drew five walks.

SCOUTING REPORT

Entering Tuesday's games, he led the NL in batting average (.345), runs (62), hits (112), total bases (203) and slugging percentage (.625).

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Oakland Athletics Tuesday placed outfielder Dave Parker and reliever Eric Plunk on the 15-day disabled list and recalled two pitchers from the minor leagues.

Rich Bordi was promoted from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League (AAA) and Joe Law was elevated from Huntsville of the Southern League (AA). In addition, the A's transferred outfielder Doug Jennings from the 15- to the 21-day disabled list with an ailing back.

Parker batted .261 with nine homers and 37 RBI in 70 games before suffering a sprained right thumb. Plunk, who has a sore shoulder, is 5-1 with a 2.70 ERA and two saves in 28 games.

Bordi was 5-6 with a 3.99 ERA in 25 games for the Tigers. He previously pitched in the majors for Oakland, Seattle, the Chicago Cubs, the New York Yankees and Baltimore and has a 20-19 lifetime record in 171 games.

Market active, prices mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 27.03 Tuesday, was up 1.42 to 2160.03 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 336-313 among the 1,138 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 9,130,000 shares.

Stock prices closed sharply higher Tuesday in moderate trading, pushing the Dow to its highest closing level since the October collapse. Stronger oil, blue-chip and technology issues fueled the advance.

The Dow industrial average closed at 2158.61, surpassing the previous post-collapse closing high of 2152.20, set June 22.

"Frankly, I'm surprised at the strength," said Sid Dorr, vice president of block trading at Robinson-Humphrey Co. in Atlanta. "I don't think the market is focusing on any particular element right now."

Dollar drifts lower; gold, silver higher

By United Press International

The dollar drifted lower today on major foreign currency markets. Gold edged higher.

The dollar's slide began in earlier trading in the Far East, where the dollar closed at 133.53 yen, down 0.77 from Tuesday's close of 134.30 yen.

In Europe, the dollar began the day at 1.8135 West German marks in Frankfurt, down from Tuesday's close of 1.8234.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.5092 Swiss francs, down from 1.5195 and opened in Paris at 6.1105 French francs, down from 6.1390.

The dollar also fell in Amsterdam where it opened at 2.043 Dutch guilders, down from 2.058 on Tuesday.

The dollar opened at 38.33 Belgian francs in Brussels, down from 38.445, and started the day in Milan at 1,346.25 lire, down from 1,354.25.

In London, the pound rose to $1.7125 from $1.7085.

In early New York trading, the dollar was higher against key foreign currencies in what currency traders described as nervous trading.

On the bullion markets, gold opened $1 an ounce higher in Zurich at $438.50 and gained 95 cents in London to $438.70.

More oil coming from biggest field

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — A new project to inject natural gas back into the Prudhoe Bay oil field, the largest in North America, will increase production as much as if the drillers had found a major new field.

Oil producers announced the new $350 million project Tuesday, saying Prudhoe Bay will give up another 400 million barrels of oil — an amount "equivalent to a major new oil field," said Susan Andrews, spokeswoman for ARCO Alaska Inc., operator of the expansion project for the major Prudhoe Bay producers, Standard Alaska Production Co., Exxon and ARCO.

The project will put an estimated 2,885 people to work on 1,750 construction jobs in Alaska and another 1,135 jobs in other states building prefabricated modules for shipment to Prudhoe Bay in 1990, Andrews said.

The Prudhoe Bay field on Alaska's North Slope is expected to go into a natural production decline beginning in 1990 as oil depletion reduces the pressure underground and makes it more difficult and expensive to bring the crude to the surface.

The new gas handling expansion project will increase the companies' ability to take the natural gas that comes up with the oil and reinject it into the ground.

Citrus Shipments

Citrus shipments reported by the Division of Fruit and Vegetable Inspection will be made weekly on Tuesday through the summer. The reports will be published by the Herald in the Tuesday editions.

Etchberger was being paid through I&P Financial, Inc., a company for which Etchberger occasionally does work. She said I&P is not licensed in Seminole County. I&P is reportedly licensed in Orange County and doesn't need another license in Seminole. Odom said I&P obtained a license in the city on Jan. 27, just prior to getting the contract for Etchberger's services.

When the commission wanted to hire Etchberger to do a management study as a "sole source" without advertising for bids, Dennis declared a conflict of interest and didn't vote on issues concerning his hiring to avoid charges of nepotism. The city contracted with I&P Financial rather than hiring him directly.

Odom wanted to know why, if the contract was with I&P Financial, which is chartered with the state, the checks were deposited to "I&P Marketing, Inc.," which she said isn't chartered "even though they say they are."

"If you spend $17,000 of taxpayers' money, I have a right to know where it's being spent and why you're paying an illegitimate company without a proper license."

This was not the first time Odom has used the public participation time as a forum to question the commission's hiring of Etchberger to do a management study of the various city departments and investigate the handling of the Police Benevolent Fund. At a previous meeting she was told to come in and talk to DeMarie during office hours so that information she wanted would be available, or to submit her questions in advance so facts could be researched prior to the next meeting.

Odom said it is impossible for her to meet with DeMarie during the day because she works.

Odom again wanted to know if the management study has been completed and was told it has not, but soon would be. Although the last of the reports was due by the time Etchberger's contract ran out June 30, DeMarie told the Herald that Etchberger would be completing his study of the police department on his own time. He said Etchberger, who assisted DeMarie with preparation of the proposed 1988-89 budget, will be attending budget workshop sessions without further pay.

Brown or to return her to duty. The next level of appeal would be through a civil court suit.

Brown met convicted felon John Kovacs, 32, when he was an inmate in the county jail. She picked him up when he was released from state prison in Mayo on Feb. 19. Sheriff's Department records indicate Brown and Kovacs went to St. Augustine and checked into a motel together.

While at the motel, Kovacs took Brown's car, with her permission, to go for champagne. He never returned and Brown reported the car stolen several hours later. Her .357-magnum revolver was in the car when it was loaned to Kovacs. Investigators said Brown knew the weapon, for which she has no permit, was in her car when she loaned it to the felon.

The car was later recovered and the gun found under the driver's seat, not in the glovebox, where Brown allegedly said it was. Kovacs is still at large.

Polk alleges Brown lied in filling out state prison documents when she applied to visit Kovacs in prison. He says she listed her occupation as "freelance artist-entrepreneur-SCC on prison documents, and included the wrong Social Security number."

"Mayo had no idea she was a corrections officer," sheriff's records state.

Sheriff's internal affairs investigator Lt. Randy Pittman said the implication was that Brown was associated with Seminole Community College, not the Seminole County Corrections Facility.

Pittman also reported Brown listed an Oviedo post office box as her address. Instead of having her hometown police department in Winter Springs check her background, as is required by the state for all who apply to visit prisoners, Brown had her background checked by Orlando police. The discrepancies in her application were not discovered by prison officials, Pittman reported.

Investigators say when Brown picked Kovacs up at the prison on Feb. 19, she was on full workman's compensation and medical disability and had not received authorization from the jail doctor or supervisors to make the trip to Mayo. Several years ago a Seminole County sheriff's deputy was fired under similar circumstances — a personal business trip to Miami while on sick leave.

Brown, the divorced mother of two sons, reportedly told prison officials she and Kovacs were engaged to be married.

She had been a Seminole County jail guard since Aug. 1, 1986 and was the focus of allegations of sexual misconduct on the job.

Documented in a sheriff's department internal probe begun March 11 by Pittman, are oral inmates' allegations that she sexually harassed them by making lewd comments and gestures toward them and by watching them as they showered. A formal complaint against Brown was signed by 29 male prisoners.

the things were too political to handle; that we should take it to the polls. That's a heck of a way to deal with things."

Kunz says the decision not to prosecute the allegation of a fraudulent insurance claim was based on the fact that it pertained to an old incident and did not involve a public official. He would not elaborate.

"Our directive was to investigate charges of public corruption," Kunz says. "Due to the age of the matter and the fact that it was not a public official, the attorney general decided not to pursue it."

Subsequent to the county's post-midnight decision to purchase the 2,867-acre tract of land near Yankee Lake from developer Jeno Paulucci in 1985, county critics claimed the purchase was made through illegal deals and the unpublicized decision itself might have been illegal. The Federal Bureau of Investigation made inquiries in early 1986, but did not pursue federal charges.

Then-Gov. Bob Graham appointed State Attorney Robert Eagan of Orange and Osceola Counties to look into the purchase, but members from a subsequent grand jury called his investigation a "slam-dash."

Gov. Bob Martinez appointed a special investigation team of prosecutors and investigators in June of last year that spent several months in Sanford and Seminole County investigating the claims.

A Seminole County grand jury concluded this February that although the county was not as thorough as it could have been in considering the $7.5 million purchase, it had done nothing illegal.

COOK OF THE WEEK

Being a Southerner taught mayor to cook

By Jane Hale
Herald Correspondent

How does the mayor of Sanford attend all those required meetings and still find the time to cook? "It is easy," said Mayor Bettye Smith.

Smith was born in her grandmother's house in Margerun, Ala. Smith remembers that the town was what most people called just a wide spot in the road.

Smith's grandfather was the post master general in Margerun. "Both of my parents worked," she said. "My mother was a school teacher, and my father worked for the Tennessee Valley Authority."

Her parents were married during the Depression. She is the oldest among her siblings—two brothers and four sisters. On the weekend of July 16-17, Smith is hosting a family reunion, with all her brothers and sisters, and their spouses and children attending. "I am really looking forward to this," she said.

"I learned some of my cooking from my mother and both of my grandmothers, and I taught myself. You do not grow up in the South unless you learn the basic fundamentals of cooking," Smith said.

"I remember the first dish I ever prepared by myself was potato salad with lots of eggs, onions and mayonnaise. It was a great hit with my parents and my brothers and sisters."

Smith said she has never entered a cooking contest, for lack of time and lack of interest.

"My family being from the South always looked on meat and potatoes with lots of fresh vegetables as a good meal," she remembered. "The first meal my mother-in-law ever fixed for my husband and I was country-fried steak, with mashed potatoes and gravy."

Smith met her husband, Dr. Robert J., while attending the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, Tenn. The couple have three sons. Sons John and Cary live in Sanford. Their son Robert lives in Washington, D.C., at the present, but is moving to California at the end of summer. "I just saw Rob last week when I was in Washington attending a meeting," Smith said.

The Smiths moved to Sanford in 1958, where Smith's career was that of being a "mommy" for 21 years. "This was the greatest joy in my life," she said.

Her career began to change in the early '70s, she said, when she returned to college. She attended Seminole Community College in Sanford and graduated from the University of Central Florida, when it was called Florida Tech University. Smith also commuted to the University of Florida for two years, where she attended to receive a graduate degree.

Exotic shark dishes turn tables on 'Jaws'

By Brian Hedberg
People Editor

SANFORD — Man bites shark.

It's not revenge for nightmares or an interspecies prejudice that has Fannie A. de Boer promoting sharkmeat for human consumption. She thinks it tastes good.

As a representative of Premium Shark, a shark supplier based in Daytona Beach, de Boer, of Haiti, was at Winn Dixie in Sanford Saturday showing shoppers how to sizzle the sea-going predator and what qualities to look for picking out sharkmeat in the seafood section of your grocery store.

The lesson in consumer education came from a woman who also belongs to Argus Marine, a consulting firm of scientists helping the sharkmeat business pick up speed.

De Boer's demonstration convinced enough people Saturday to try the boneless fish that two sharkworth of meat were sold out.

Among the recipes de Boer recommends are:

CHARCOAL BROILED SHARK
2 pounds fresh shark meat
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

1/4 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
Dash pepper

Cut fish into serving size portions. Place fish on a well-greased grill. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Brush fish with sauce. Cook about 4 inches from moderately hot coals for 5 to 8 minutes. Baste with sauce. Turn fish, baste and cook 5 minutes more. Fish is done if it flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes 6 servings.

OVEN-FRIED SHARK

2 pounds fresh shark meat
1/2 cup half-and-half
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

1/4 teaspoon basil
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup melted margarine
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

Cut fish into serving portions. In a flat dish combine half-and-half, salt, pepper and basil. Dip each fish portion into milk mixture; then into bread crumbs. Arrange fish in greased, shallow baking dish and pour melted margarine over fish. Bake at 350° F for 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Garnish with chopped fresh parsley. Makes 6 servings.

SHRIMPY DELICIOUS FLORIDA SHARK SOUP

2 pounds Florida Shark, cooked and flaked
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup margarine or butter

1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of shrimp soup
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon white pepper
1 quart half-and-half
3 tablespoons dry sherry
3 hard-cooked egg yolks, chopped

Chopped parsley (garnish)

In a 3-quart saucepan, saute onion in margarine until tender but not brown. Add soup, flour, lemon peel, paprika, salt and pepper, stirring constantly. Gradually add half-and-half and sherry; cook until slightly thickened. Stir in shark and egg yolks and continue to cook until heated through. Just before serving, garnish with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

Microwave baking takes the cake

Janet Emal loves the old-fashioned image of baking, complete with hot oven and great expenditures of time. She doesn't, however, bake that way anymore.

So convinced is Emal that her microwave can do any baking she needs, she has converted her conventional model into extra cabinet space. She's so busy turning out cakes and brownies, in fact, she almost doesn't realize she's on the cutting edge of a brand new part of the food business. "The microwave has been thought of as a reheater and a defroster, not as something with which you cook breakfast, lunch and dinner," said the home economist and cookbook author recently during a visit to New Orleans. "Baking is one of the things people always thought you couldn't do in a microwave, even though there were those in the industry who knew better."

There's so much more to microwave technology, Emal said, than the five chores it most often handles—warming coffee, cooking bacon, baking potatoes, heating leftovers and defrosting frozen foods.

Midge Mycoff

Even veteran bakers will have to learn a new trick or two to bake with their microwaves. These are pretty simple, though, and will no doubt make more sense to the veteran than they do to a novice unaware of the basic concepts involved.

Here are the Big Five.

1. Solid shortening works best, for instance, when you're greasing microwave baking pans. If necessary, you can substitute butter, margarine or shortening spray.

2. All ingredients should be blended thoroughly so the batter cooks evenly. Mix manually with a spoon. Do not use an electric mixer unless the recipe calls for it, as a mixer (or even using a whisk) would introduce too much air into the batter.

3. When given a range of cooking times, cook the medium recommended time and test for doneness. If more cooking is needed, add time in 30-second intervals and check after each interval.

4. Test for doneness according to the recipe. But here are two quick rules of thumb. The top should look more moist than a conventional cake, and the cake should be easily removed from the pan. If it sticks, an additional 30 seconds in the microwave might be called for.

5. Cover and wrap microwave baked goods after cooling completely to maintain freshness. These foods do not form a crust during the baking process, so they tend to dry out more quickly than conventionally baked goods.

See if you can top this bad vacation

I remember my folks taking me to St. Louis, Mo., when I was a child. It was the worst week of rain the city had seen in a long spell. The riverboats were out of commission due to a swollen Mississippi River and the Cardinals were rained out. Our plans were ruined.

The horrific climax of the whole excursion was when Grandma, who was driving, was trying to return us to our hotel. During that rainy night, we kept missing the freeway turn again and again and again, as if we were in some scene from The Twilight Zone.

We at the Sanford Herald know that for most of us, who have gone on more vacations than our memories or bank accounts care to recall, at least one stands out as being exceptionally rotten or dreamy. In celebration of summer, the favorite time for getaways, we invite our readers to tell us about "My

Believe-It-Or-Not Vacation."

In entering our contest, follow these instructions: Type or print clearly your name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of your entry. Then write your vacation experience, good or bad, without embellishing the truth.

There is no length limit, but the Herald reserves the right to edit as necessary. Mail to Vacation, c/o The People Editor, P.O. Box 1657, Sanford, Fla. 32771. Deadline for entries is noon on Monday, Aug. 1.

The top winners in the categories of best and worst vacations will have their experiences featured in the Aug. 14 edition of the Herald. Photographs should not be mailed, but winners will be asked permission to reprint any available photos from their vacation.

taught history. She also has helped the Seminole County Sheriff's Department in working with the victims of such crimes as rape and spouse abuse.

Then she moved into the public service field. In 1984, she was elected mayor of Sanford, and she plans to run for reelection this year.

Smith belongs to several organizations such as the Woman's Club of Sanford, where she is past president; the Lions Club; SISTERS, Inc.; and Parkhurst. She is also chairwoman of Council of Mayors and many other advisory boards and committees.

"If I had my life to live over again, I would not change a thing," she said. "I have enjoyed my life, my husband, and my children too much to want to change anything in it. Life is too short to want to go back and change things. Never look back on your life because something you don't like may be gaining on you."

Smith's hobbies include playing the piano and exercising. She recently has taken up dancing as a relaxing way of exercising. "It is hard work, but well worth it," she said.

"I am happiest when doing for others," Smith said. "It makes you feel really great when someone less fortunate appreciates what you have done for them."

Recently Smith received the Professional Achievement Award for Career Excellence as recognized by the college of arts and sciences from the University of Central Florida Alumni Association, an award she said she was thrilled to receive.

Listed below are some of her recipes that are easy to fix and can be fixed quickly.

ALL DAY STEW

GREEN PEA SALAD

1 package frozen peas, not thawed

Add butter, stirring, until it becomes opaque and forms a sauce. Stir in chives and dill. Spoon sauce over chicken and serve.

CRAB DIP

1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 onion, grated fine
1 package frozen crab meat
Mix well. Bake at 350° F for 30 minutes. Delicious either hot or cold, served with Triscuits for dipping.

together Emal's tips and recipes using eight different baking mixes is available to those who write: Dessert Lovers Guide to Microwave Baking, The Pillsbury Co., 2891-T Pillsbury Center, Minneapolis, Minn. 55402.

Here is one of Emal's favorites from the booklet, Banana Fudge Cake, made from the new fudge Bundt cake mix.

BANANA FUDGE CAKE

1 package fudge Bundt microwave cake mix with pan
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons oil
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup oil

1 egg
1 medium-sized banana, mashed

Using solid shortening, generously grease fluted tube ring pan provided with the mix. In a small bowl, combine the filling mix, 2 tablespoons water and 2 tablespoons oil. Stir until smooth. Set aside while preparing the cake batter.

In a medium bowl, combine 1/2 cup water, banana, 1/2 cup oil and egg. Blend well, then add the cake mix and beat with spoon 75 strokes, or until well blended. Pour the cake batter evenly into the prepared pan.

Spoon prepared filling evenly into the narrow ring over center of cake batter. Filling should not touch sides of the pan.

Microwave on High for 5 minutes (7 minutes for compact ovens under 600 watts). Cake is done when top no longer has any wet spots and loses its shiny appearance. If cake is not done, add additional time in 30-second intervals.

Immediately invert onto serving plate. Cool 10 minutes. Cut glaze packet along cut line and drizzle over warm cake. Serve warm or cool. Makes 8 servings.

Tips: If cake appears to be baking unevenly, rotate once or twice during baking. If preparing recipe at altitude higher than 3,500 feet, add 1 tablespoon flour to dry cake mix. Rotate 1/4 turn halfway through baking.

My favorite cake, prepared from a mix and baked in the microwave oven, is this Raspberry Cake Ring.

RASPBERRY CAKE RING

1/4 cup margarine (or butter)
1/4 cup red raspberry preserves
1/4 cup flaked coconut
1 package (18 1/2 oz.) lemon cake mix with pudding
3 eggs
1/2 cup oil
1 cup water

1. Grease and sugar a 12-cup fluted plastic or ceramic tube pan. In a 2-cup glass measure microwave butter 30-60 seconds, or until melted. Add preserves and coconut, mix well. Spread evenly over bottom of pan.

2. In a large bowl, blend cake mix, eggs, oil and water until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at highest speed. Pour batter over preserve mixture in pan.

3. M/W on 100 percent power (high), uncovered, for 12 minutes, or M/W on 30 percent power (low) for 11 minutes, then 100 percent power for 5 1/2 minutes.

4. Cool cake upright in pan for 10 minutes, then invert onto serving plate. Spoon any remaining topping in pan onto cake.

Cool completely.

If you have no mix on hand, this classic cake is quick and good. Uses a Bundt pan also.

EASY CHOCOLATE CAKE—MICROWAVE

1 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1 1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup sweetened cocoa
1 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine—soft

1 1/2 cup sour cream
1/4 cup milk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine flour, sugar, cocoa, baking soda, and salt in large mixing bowl. Add soft butter, sour cream, milk, eggs, and vanilla. Blend at low speed. Pour batter into a greased 10-by-12 Bundt pan. M/W for 12 minutes at 100 percent power. Cool 10 minutes, remove from pan. Cool completely on wire rack.

Glaze for Easy Chocolate Cake:

3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons milk
1 cup confectioners sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter in microwave for 45-50 seconds at 100 percent power. Add cocoa and stir until smooth. Add milk. Blend well. Beat in confectioners sugar and vanilla until smooth. Spoon onto inverted cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Reader misreasons that calls are safe in lightning storms

DEAR ABBY: Having just read your article on lightning, I commend you for your efforts, but I must correct one of your "facts."

You said, "Do not use the phone during lightning storms." Abby, there is no possibility of being killed by telephone-line electrical surges caused by nearby lightning strikes, because the size of the wires in the telephone prohibits transmission of high voltage. The wires would "blow" much like a light bulb filament when a light bulb burns out.

However, the rest of your information is very good. You are right: Lightning can strike twice in the same place. In fact, lightning must strike the same place at least eight times before it can be seen by the human eye. Electricity is that fast!

WASHINGTON READER

DEAR READER: Read on, please:

DEAR ABBY: Your column on how to avoid the dangers of lightning ran in the Syracuse (N.Y.) Post-Standard on Saturday, May 21. Thank God, I read it carefully that morning, because Saturday afternoon the storm clouds gathered and I quickly called my three children indoors. We shut all the windows and doors—and stayed away from the windows as you advised. Then the storm broke loose, and it was terrible!

Later we read in the paper that a 22-year-old woman, eight months pregnant, was killed during that storm while talking on the telephone! Lightning had struck the telephone wires and traveled into the receiver, killing her instantly. In your column you said, "Do not use the telephone unless it's absolutely necessary. Electricity can travel through the telephone wires."

Abigail Van Buren

All I could think of was that if she had read Dear Abby in the Syracuse Post-Standard that day, this tragedy could have been avoided.

Abby, we'll never know how many lives you saved that day. Moral: Read Dear Abby every day.

SADDENED IN SYRACUSE

DEAR SADDENED: I checked with the Syracuse Post-Standard and discovered that the cause of death is still in dispute, with some investigators pointing the finger at a microwave oven the woman was standing next to, and others blaming the phone wires. Stay tuned.

DEAR ABBY: Although I have an extraordinary relationship with my mother, my father has never been able to accept affection, or give it. When my older brother, "Buddy," died unexpectedly a couple of years ago, Dad brooded silently over his death. He had never really verbalized his love for Buddy.

Last year, on Father's Day, I took your advice and wrote Dad a letter, telling him how much he meant to me. I recalled some memories—some happy, some sad. When he called to thank me for my "wonderful letter," I was thrilled. Then he told me that he had received a similar letter from Buddy shortly before his untimely death.

Six months ago, Dad suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, causing him to lose most of his long-term memory. Had I put off writing that letter, I would have lost the opportunity to share some of my most cherished memories and tell him how much he meant to me.

I can't tell you how glad I am that I wrote that letter while Dad was still able to enjoy it. Thank you, Abby, for motivating me.

JOAN M. FOWLER
BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor in our subdivision has been doing me the "favor" of retrieving my mail from my mailbox and bringing it to my door! I would accept it as a kindly gesture if it didn't always occur when there is an obvious change in our home routine—such as when we have company, or she is curious about our family activities. I understand she has done this to other neighbors, too.

There is nothing in my mail that would embarrass me, but I feel that my privacy is being invaded. This neighbor's children have also brought our mail to us on occasion, and I fear that an important letter or bill could be lost in the process.

I do not wish to confront this neighbor personally, as she has contact with many neighbors and I would hate to get on her blacklist.

Please comment on what she is doing. A mention in your column would be great.

LEAVE MY MAIL ALONE

DEAR LEAVE: It is a federal offense to remove mail from a mailbox other than your own. Leave a note to that effect in your mailbox where she will be sure to see it.

Forest, brush fires raging in Alaska, Arizona, California

By United Press International

Five major forest and brush fires started by lightning or fireworks were burning over 266,000 acres in Alaska, Arizona and northern California, where a camper faces a $300,000 fine for starting a wildfire near Yosemite National Park.

The fire near Yosemite was nearly contained before embers shot it out of control again Tuesday and it grew to 2,500 acres. A fireline had been cut around 90 percent of the blaze late Tuesday, and full containment was predicted sometime today.

Three large fires were burning in Alaska, the biggest a month-old blaze that has consumed 118,000 acres of the Yukon Flats National Wildlife Refuge. The fire had been allowed to burn without any attempt to fight it, but on Tuesday firefighters began battling the fire when flames quickened their pace and headed for the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

Agent orange victims may collect

NEW YORK (UPI) — Disabled Vietnam war veterans exposed to Agent Orange will receive payments as early as January under a settlement in which seven chemical companies will issue individual benefits averaging $5,700.

While there was never any direct link proven in court between the disabilities suffered and exposure to Agent Orange, the chemical concerns involved in the suit agreed to settle with the veterans groups in May 1984.

Various appeals blocked the distribution of the $180 million settlement, which grew to $240 million by this year. The Supreme Court last week declined to hear the two remaining appeals, freeing the money for disbursement.

U.S. District Judge Jack B. Weinstein ruled Tuesday that the $240 million settlement must be distributed to the families of deceased Vietnam veterans and long-term disabled veterans as early as Jan. 1, 1989.

Homemade bombs planted in town

SALEM, Ind. (UPI) — Police hope the setting of at least 13 crude time bombs — most of them duds and timed to explode within a five-minute period — was nothing more than "a poor joke," although the explosives if properly ignited were powerful enough to destroy any building in town.

Ten of the bombs, discovered Tuesday scattered around the town of 6,000 residents about 40 miles northwest of Louisville, Ky., were duds. One device sparked a small fire that did no damage to an abandoned county jail. In the other two other cases, the detonator failed to trigger the attached dynamite.

No injuries were reported, and all the bombs — consisting of 2-50 pounds of dynamite — were defused by late Tuesday.

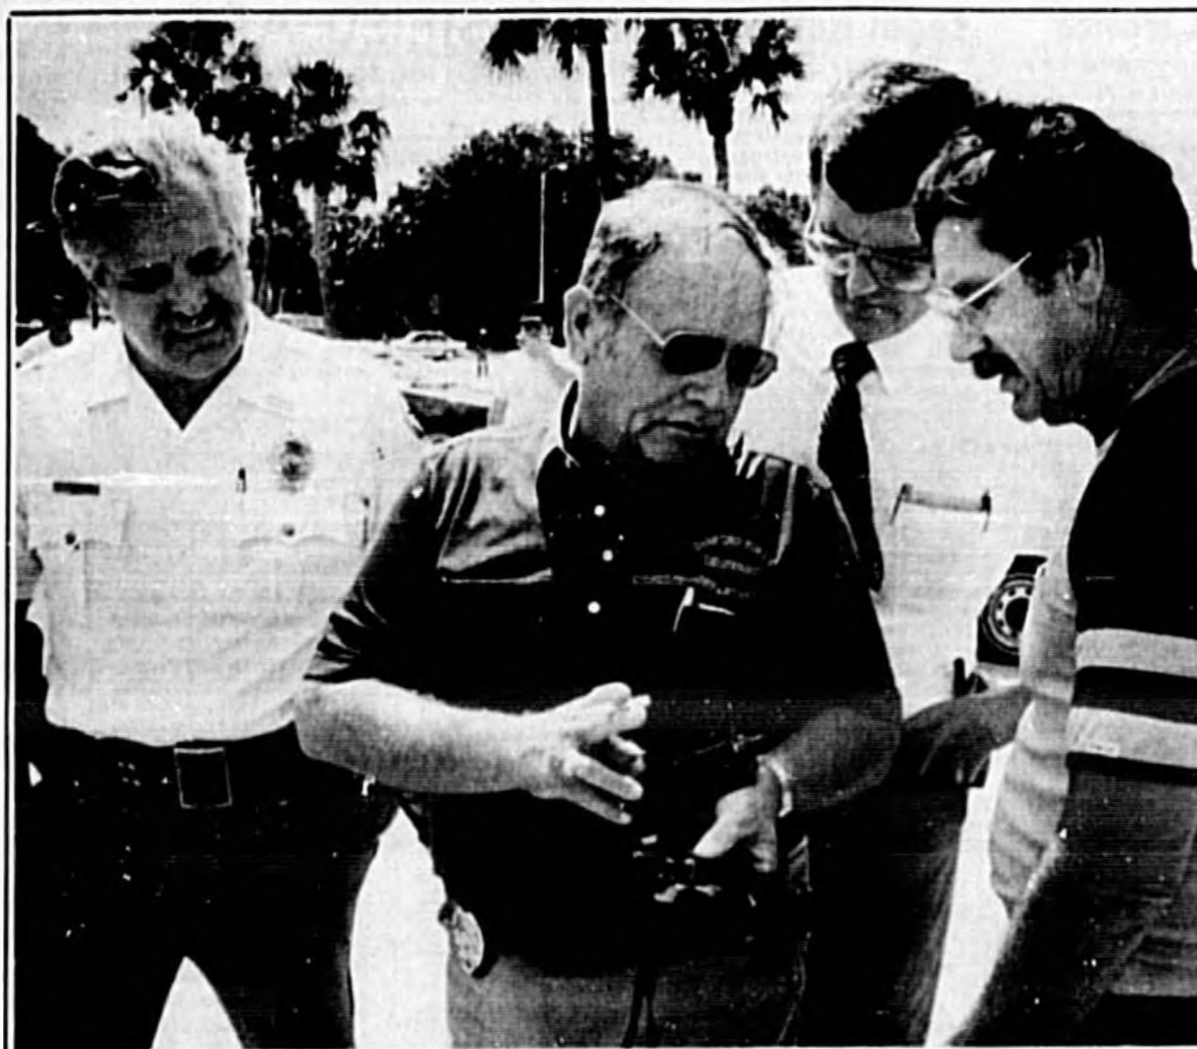

Pentagon: Airliner gave signal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon chose to release classified information to bolster its explanation for the downing of Iran Air Flight 655, saying the civilian plane was sending an electronic signal used by F-14 jet fighters.

The decision to declassify the data was made because of the number of news reports questioning the Navy command to fire on the jumbo jetliner over the volatile Persian Gulf, Pentagon spokesman Dan Howard said Tuesday.

Howard explained that the Iran Air Airbus A-300 was emitting two kinds of electronic signals — a "Mode 3" used by military and civilian craft and a "Mode 2" used by military craft. The use of Mode 2 had been "identified or associated with an F-14 previously in the gulf," he said.

Iran has been flying F-14 Tomcats, made in the United States and purchased during the reign of the shah, from the military/civilian airfield at Bandar Abbas, the Iranian city that was the starting point for Flight 655 with its 290 passengers and crew to Dubai in the United Arab Emirates.

Bomb scare at Herald

Police and fire units responded to a bomb scare at the parking lot of the Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., about 11 a.m. Tuesday. Charles Seward, 18, of Casselberry, had dropped off a friend at the newspaper when he noticed a black box with wires hanging from the underside of his car. Police and fire departments were notified and cordoned off an area around the vehicle. Upon close inspection by a police officer with binoculars, the device was determined not to be a bomb and was removed from the car. Police Chief Steven Harriett said he did not know the function of the black box, but said it was "definitely" not a bomb. Shown examining the device are, left to right, Lt. William Bernosky, Lt. Mike Rolundo (holding the device), Harriett and Capt. Charles Fagan.

Iran mourns dead from Flight 655

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Memorial ceremonies were held in Manama today to coincide with the mass funeral for some of the 290 people killed in the downing of Iran Air Flight 655 by an American warship that mistook it for an Iranian F-14 fighter.

Iranian armed forces chief Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani warned his countrymen against "amateurish" retaliatory strikes that would divert international attention, saying Tehran would decide in its own time when to take revenge on the United States.

In Bandar Abbas, the southern Iranian port where the doomed airliner took off Sunday morning, officials prepared for a mass funeral service today for the victims of the disaster.

Official Tehran Radio said memorial ceremonies would also be held in other Iranian cities.

A shipping source in Dubai, United Arab Emirates, said he monitored a distress call early today from a tanker captain who said his vessel, identified as the Atlantic Ocean, was under Iranian attack and on fire.

"Mayday, Mayday. Under Iranian attack. On fire," the ship ping source quoted the captain as saying.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said he had no information about the tanker attack, the second since Sunday's downing of Flight 655 by the USS Vincennes.

The registry of the Atlantic Ocean was not immediately available. Lloyd's Register of Ships lists two vessels by that name, one Greek and the other Liberian. Both are tankers.

The Norwegian supertanker Berge Star was attacked by Iranian gunboats about three hours after the Iranian plane went down Sunday, but no casualties were reported.

A six-member Pentagon team headed by Rear Adm. William Fogarty arrived in Bahrain Tuesday with orders to conduct a "thorough investigation" and submit a report within 15 days.

Magistrate frees two Indians

NEW BERN, N.C. (UPI) — A U.S. magistrate released two Indians jailed since their Feb. 1 arrest for the seizure of a Lumberton newspaper office, but said he considers them dangerous criminals and that he was simply bowing to an appeals court ruling.

Timothy Jacobs, 19, and Eddie Hatcher, 30, were freed Tuesday on $100,000 unsecured bond, but Magistrate Charles McCotter severely restricted their movements and actions and ordered they find jobs while awaiting trial.

The two Tuscarora Indians are charged with taking 17 people hostage at The Robesonian. Armed with sawed off shotguns and a pistol, they demanded an investigation of local government corruption before surrendering to authorities after taking over the newspaper office for 10 hours.

The Robeson County men had been in custody since seizing the paper and were denied bond three times.

U.S.-Soviets exchange film

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Directors Guild of America and the USSR State Committee of Cinematography have signed a film exchange agreement, the first government-to-government exchange of motion pictures since 1959.

As part of the exchange, 10 recent Soviet films will tour five American cities in late spring 1989, while a similar number of American movies will be seen in five Soviet cities.

"This agreement will give Americans their first thorough look at new films produced in the era of glasnost," said DGA President Franklin Schaffner.

"The motion picture industry in the Soviet Union has undergone tremendous change in the past three years."
