County Gives State DOT Its List Of Highway Needs

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioner Robert Sturm headed a delegation of county officials to DeLand today to seek more state aid for county roads.

Sturm, armed with documents estimating $110 million in needs for county roads and another $50 million in needs for state highways in the county, asked Florida Department of Transportation officials for help with at least five projects in the county.

Those projects, not on the DOT's agenda for attention this year, are considered urgent by county officials to relieve the congestion along State Road 436 and its access roads.

The county asked the state to improve the intersection of SR 436, Redbug Lake Road and Winter Park Drive; to build four lanes on State Road 426A and State Road 431; to improve to four lanes a section of State Road 419 between SR 434 and Tuskawilla Road to construct a new two-lane section of SR 419 between U.S. High 17-92 and SR 434; and to make traffic signal improvements on SR 434 and SR 436 both east and west of Interstate 4.

But commissioners already have been told the chances are slim of getting additional funds for construction in Seminole County.

The meeting in DeLand is part of DOT's annual budget review.

The biggest construction project slated in the county is the addition of two lanes on a portion of SR 436 through Altamonte Springs. That project will provide six lanes on the road between Boston Avenue and Douglas and Wynmore Roads.

Work is scheduled to begin by fall with a two-year construction schedule already announced. DOT also will begin work this year on $250,000 in electrical system improvements to the Lake Monroe bridge on U.S. 17-92. That work will cost $250,000 and is expected to take more than a year.

Several minor projects are also on the agenda for construction this year. A new left turn lane will be constructed on U.S. 17-92 at Seminole Boulevard; the left-turn lane will be extended on U.S. 17-92 at SR 434; Dual left-turn lanes will be built at SR 436 and Red Bug Lake Road and signal work and a left-turn lane are planned for State Road 46 and Park Avenue in Sanford.

Work on the Seaboard Coastline Railroad overpass on SR 46 west of Sanford will be completed by January 1984.

In a letter to DOT District Engineer C.A. Benedict, commissioners thanked the agency for the assistance it has rendered to help improve highways in the county.

The county also asked the DOT for cooperation in funding for the Seminole County Expressway Authority. The authority has asked for $109,000 to fund two staff positions and studies of potential toll highways in the county.

Additionally, county officials are making a pitch to both DOT officials and state legislators for the state to take over payments on SR 434.

Those payments, about $411,000 annually, come from the county's receipts from the state sales tax and are tying up those funds, preventing them from being used by the county to fund further road construction.

The county constructed SR 434 through Seminole County using a $6.2 million bond issue. When construction was finished, the state took over maintenance responsibility for the highway but left the county with the responsibility for paying off the bonds.

The bond issue runs through the year 2003.

Board Suspends SHS Dean With Pay

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole High School Dean of Students Jacqueline C. Pearson has been suspended with pay by the County School Board until criminal shoplifting charges have been resolved against her in Circuit Court.

The trial date has been scheduled for Feb. 22 for Mrs. Pearson, who is pleading innocent to the theft charge.

County School Superintendent Robert W. Hughes had previously informed Mrs. Pearson in a letter dated Jan. 7 that she was "suspended with pay until the regular meeting of the School Board Tuesday for the purpose of considering further suspension."

"The suspension is based on the adverse effect the arrest has had on your performance of your duties," the hand-delivered letter stated.

Mrs. Pearson was arrested on Dec. 29 at Publix Market in Sanford and charged with shoplifting $10.28 in merchandise. Prior to her suspension, she was allowed to remain on the job. This is Mrs. Pearson's first year as dean of students after 10 years as a biology teacher at the high school.

Before voting 3-2 to suspend Mrs. Pearson with pay, the board voted down 3-2 a recommendation from Hughes that she be suspended without pay. School Board members Jean Bryant and Pat Telson voted for the suspension without pay.

Hughes based his recommendation for suspension on "immorality and moral turpitude" charges as defined in the criteria listed in the Rules of the Department of Education. The rules on suspension define immorality as "conduct that is inconsistent with the standards of public conscience and good morals."

"Moral turpitude" is defined as "a crime that is evidenced by an act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and social duties."

Mrs. Pearson did not appear in person before the board. She was represented by Ron Boeth, executive director of the Seminole Education Association. Boeth reminded board members that a person is innocent until proven guilty. The penalty should be equal to the proof of guilt, he added.

"I am here to raise procedural concern and the underlying philosophy I think is that the allegation of charges are not the charges that were given to the employee in the letter," said Boeth. "The charge that her arrest is adversely affecting performance of the employee's duties needs to be substantiated."

"That is not a reason for suspending an employee and the recommendation to the board on another set of charges that I don't think would stand the test of legality," he said.

Seminole High School Superintendent Wayne Epps told the board how the arrest was affecting his dean of students. "Mainly in respect to her embarrassment and not wanting to communicate openly with students and other staff members."

He said the incident had caused a normal disruption in so far as the students have made it a center of attention and there have been a number of calls from parents about it.

"She has lost her credibility as far as dealing with students and establishing their guilt or innocence it has cast doubt," said Epps.

School Board member William Kroll commented, "I don't feel we should suspend an employee without pay. We should either utilize them in another position or suspend them with pay."

OUCHLESS LIFE SAVER

The first time is always the best. Or is it? Wendy Trammell (at left in the photo above), an employee of the Flagship Bank, looks unsure about giving blood while her pulse is checked by Patty Carter before Mrs. Trammell donates a pint of blood during Tuesday's open house of the Seminole County Branch of the Central Florida Blood Bank. First time donor Sandi Barton of Goldenrod (in the lower photo), an employee of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement Crime Lab in Sanford, seems to be bracing herself while Tim Tobin, supervisor of the branch office at 1302 E. Second St., checks her blood pressure. A total of 45 persons gave blood Tuesday. Anyone can donate blood at the facility on Mondays and Wednesdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. or on Tuesdays and Thursday between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Cable Customers Face Rate Hike

The rates paid by the nearly 30,000 cablevision subscribers in Seminole County could be raised or some of the service lost unless Congress continues its stay on a federal agency ruling.

The copyright Royalty Tribunal, which regulates the fees paid by cablevision stations for importing signals from distant stations — places 50 to 75 miles and beyond — announced that rates would be quadrupled to the stations, beginning Jan. 1.

Congress, however, has stayed the execution of the order until March 15.

Steve McMahon, regional manager of American Television and Communications Corp., the parent company of Orange-Seminole Cablevision which serves most of Seminole County, has called on the city governments it serves for help in getting the Congress to eliminate the ruling.

He explained the Federal Communications Commission two years ago deregulated cablevision as far as the number of stations it could carry. Previously the regulations allowed a cablevision company to pick up the signals from only two distant cities and Orange-Seminole's choices were Tampa and Atlanta.

"The FCC ruling meant we could carry three, four, 10 additional stations," McMahon said. "And many cablevision companies added additional stations." Orange-Seminole added the new station at Melbourne.

Meanwhile, Storer Cablevision in Altamonte Springs is now carrying four distant station signals, said Pat Israel, public relations representative of the firm.

McMahon said now the Copyright Royalty Tribunal, which regulates payment for using those distant signals, has ruled that the costs per station will be increased from 1/4 percent to 3.75 percent of the cablevision station's gross revenues per signal, effective Jan. 1.

"That's a quadrupling of the cost," McMahon said. "The result is that the cablevision companies will either pass the increased costs to its customers or drop the signals. Those are the two options available." Some 4,000 cablevision stations in the nation would be affected by the ruling.

He noted the U.S. Congress has stayed the order until March 15.

"We are caught between two federal agencies — the FCC and Copyright Royalty Tribunal. The options we have are not something any city or customer would like and federal government action is forcing us to that position," McMahon said.

He said ATC and other cablevision firms have joined together in a lawsuit to have the ruling overturned. "We also are involved in legislative action which may reverse the tribunal's ruling," he said.

"We want to keep the rates low and we don't want to drop signals," he said.

McMahon said the ruling does not affect those channels delivered by satellite. It only affects broadcast stations being brought in from other markets.

The regional manager said any plans Orange-Seminole Cablevision may have had to import distant signals from stations would die if the ruling stands. "They would be inordinately expensive and of marginal value," he concluded. — DONNA ESTES

Killer Of Sanford Man Says He Wants To Die

By VICTOR ASSERSOHN
Herald Staff Writer

Convicted killer Richard Earl Gourley, sentenced to life imprisonment 10 years ago for the brutal killing of a Sanford man, has submitted a petition saying he wants to die in the electric chair.

But the petition, a copy of which has been sent to the Evening Herald, has been called a "ploy" by Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson, who said Gourley had tried various means to get his sentence commuted.

The petition, signed by Gourley who is now serving his life sentence at Tomoka Correctional Institution in Daytona Beach, was sent to the Seminole County Court in January and a report on the case is being prepared for submission to Judge Dominick Salfi.

Robinson said he is preparing a report on Gourley's latest effort to commute his life sentence. Gourley was sentenced May 18, 1972, when he was 20 for the "blatant, heinous, cold-blooded" murder of 69-year-old George DiGiovanni of Sanford. Gourley lived in Lake Mary.

"Mr. Gourley has over the years attempted various means for a commuted sentence. He has filed several motions," Robinson said. Referring to the petition signed by Gourley asking for death, Robinson added: "He is not under sentence of death. I would describe this as a ploy in an attempt to focus attention on himself."

The petition calling for "execution in the electric chair" refers to the Gary Gilmore case, the convicted Utah killer who fought the state of Utah for his death sentence to be carried out. He was eventually executed.

Portable Rooms To House Retarded Students

The Seminole County School Board has approved the construction of six portable buildings to provide needed facilities at Rosenwald School in Altamonte Springs for severely retarded students.

The Sunland Centers have been ordered closed by the state Legislature and Seminole County Schools now have the responsibility to educate and train an additional 25 or more of these boys and girls who will come to the county to live.

"We don't have any classrooms and we are heavily impacted with children who are severely retarded," said School Superintendent Robert Hughes.

The school board has state funds available up to $295,000 to house the 25 students. But there are no funds for their transportation to school. The funds must be spent by June or the county will lose the money, Hughes said.

The portables will each be equipped with toilet facilities suitable for use by the handicapped. The project also will involve building sidewalks, access ramps, and covered walkways connected to the rest of the buildings.

Some of the severely retarded students from Sunland are already in the school, while the remainder will begin filtering into the program Monday. School officials said they do not know what the total impact will be.

Because time is of the essence for completing the portables and the money for funding is coming from another source, the school board voted 4-1 to contract with an outside builder, rather than use county labor. Board member William Kroll voted no.

Miss Sandy Pruette, residential services director for Health and Rehabilitative Services, said although the Sunland-Orlando facility will not be completely phased out until the end of June 1984 through a gradual process, all of the clients coming to Seminole county will have been placed in facilities in the county by the end of March 1983. There will be no more than 32 total, she said.

Some of the students will be from Sunland-Gainesville, Miss Pruette said. A criteria for placing the students who are physically handicapped as well as severely retarded is to return them to the area they were admitted from if they still have parents, relatives or guardians there, she added.

They are given occupational and physical therapy, and training in social skills and basic academics to the extent of their abilities. Miss Pruette said 17 of the students, already are housed in the Howell Branch Road residential facility and 15 more will be placed at the new facility on Fern Park Boulevard in Fern Park. A 64-bed four building facility, it is scheduled to open sometime in February.

Several years ago before the phase out of Sunland started, several children were transferred from there to Kradle Kare on Lake Howell Road in Casselberry.

The board also voted 3-2 to lease a 12 foot by 50 foot trailer to provide additional classroom space for Woodlands Elementary School at Longwood at $200 a month. Nancy Warren and Jean Bryant cast the no votes. This will be an interim solution for this school year only. By using the trailer for an emotionally handicapped class, more room would be available for the gifted class. The gifted program at Lake Orienta Elementary School now has 64 students and 10 of them are from Longwood. They could be transferred to Woodlands if more space is provided there, according to Don Ricci. The 55 gifted students at Woodlands do not now have enough space and are now in the program two days a week. School officials propose making it a full-time program.

Herald Heckenbach expressed concern about moving an autistic class into the 12-foot-wide classroom. "Some of these students have a very low boiling point. It took a teacher, a coach, and myself to get one boy into the time-out room the other day when he got upset and began throwing desks and chairs around. I am concerned about the safety of the other children in the class when this happens in the confines of a smaller space."

"We need the additional space and I have mixed emotions like when your mother-in-law goes over the cliff in your Cadillac," said Heckenbach.

Gunman Holding Hostage Upset World Didn't End

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — An unemployed "wild" man with a history of mental problems who became "extremely upset" that the world didn't end Monday held a wounded policeman hostage today and threatened to "blow his head off."

"Lynn" Lindberg Sanders, 49, who police believe is the leader of a group holding the officer inside a small frame house, had demanded to talk to a rock disc jockey, but then refused to talk to him over a police radio.

He repeatedly threatened to kill the hostage, and screamed obscenities at negotiators over a portable police radio he took from police. He told authorities he had already "hurt someone."

Schweiker Quits Cabinet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker will leave the government's biggest department next month and become the fourth person to quit the Cabinet since President Reagan took office.

Schweiker, 56, will take a six-figure salary as president of the 573-member American Council of Life Insurance, a lobbying group based in Washington, administration sources said Tuesday night.

White House aides said former Rep. Margaret Heckler, a Massachusetts Republican defeated in November, is the leading candidate to take over the $276 billion Cabinet department whose programs touch nearly every American. They said it was possible her appointment could be announced today.

In a "pleasant meeting" with Reagan last Friday, Schweiker said he would depart in early February to take an "irresistible offer," officials said.

NOW Chief Held In Murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California president of the National Organization for Women has been arrested in the fire-iron slaying of an Argentine businessman she allegedly lured from a New Orleans' French Quarter bar 17 years ago.

Ginny Eleanor Foat, 41, who was to have been a delegate to the state Democratic Convention in Sacramento this weekend, was arrested Tuesday morning at Burbank Airport by the Police Department's fugitive detail.

Louisiana authorities said Ms. Foat and her ex-husband — who is now serving a 25-year sentence for a Nevada killing in which Ms. Foat also was implicated — are suspected of the November 1965 slaying of Moises Chayo, 62, who had been visiting a sick son in a New Orleans' clinic.

Gusty winds pushed torrential rains across the Southeast. Residents of Enterprise, La., found themselves nearly surrounded by water and unable to use highways because of renewed flooding. Ten parishes in north-central Louisiana were declared major disaster areas by President Reagan. Nearly 10,000 people have been forced from their homes since waters started to rise Christmas Eve. A fast-moving storm, carried by a blast of Arctic air, raced across the Dakotas, Iowa, Minnesota and Upper Michigan Tuesday with snow and ice that closed schools in a number of towns and caused scores of traffic accidents. Fifty mph winds kicked up blinding snow across much of the region, frequently dropping visibility to near zero. In its return to the Midwest, winter strewed snow from Upper and Lower Michigan across the Great Lakes into western New York State, and from Illinois to Tennessee. Pellston, Mich., reported 3 inches of snow and Chicago had more than 1 inch, prompting the city to send out 125 trucks to salt alley roadways. Snow changed to rain as a band of the storm pushed from northeast Mississippi to western North Carolina.

Reagan Does About-Face On Defense Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In agreeing to scale back his military budget for next year, President Reagan has strayed from the course he set months ago, but in a way his advisers hope will avert political embarrassment in the 98th Congress.

Economic and political realities appeared to win out over Reagan's drive to "rearm America" as he announced Tuesday he will bow to pressure to scale back his fiscal 1984 defense budget to help prevent a $200 billion deficit.

In Dallas, where he addressed the American Farm Bureau Federation, Reagan told reporters he was "delighted" the $11 billion-plus cutback could be made without jeopardizing his military goals.

"Obviously, there might have been some things that will be slowed a little bit, but they are not absolutely essential to the major buildup," he said. "So we're not reversing our course."

With the 1984 budget due at the printer's in a matter of days, crucial decisions on taxes and jobs programs have yet to be made.

The cutbacks and deferrals announced by Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger at the Pentagon and applauded an hour later by Reagan in Dallas amount to 3.2 percent of the $247 billion the Pentagon intended to request.

More significant, they represent a long-expected major concession by the president that could set the stage for another compromise later in the week on the issue of using higher taxes to restrain burgeoning deficits.

Administration officials, at Reagan's urging, are drafting a plan that would trigger tax increases in 1986 and beyond if the deficit — which could reach $300 billion by 1988 — reaches a certain percentage of gross national product.

Reagan stressed the military savings would come from lower fuel costs and inflation and a "slight slowdown" in programs such as housing and training, but "is not setting back in any substantive way at all our defense program."

Drawing the line on what he deems acceptable, Reagan warned additional cuts by Congress "would be, I think, endangering the security of this country."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes later told reporters aboard Air Force One Reagan does not consider the $11 billion figure "a token" or "a bargaining chip."

"He feels like this is a good-faith effort and hopes Congress will accept it in the spirit in which it was given," Speakes said.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, the conservative chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called the action "a squalid political approach to the issue."

"I think enormous pressure was brought to bear on the president against his basic instincts," Tower said. "I think his basic instincts were right."

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., said the cutbacks would damage the readiness of U.S. conventional forces and should come from such "big-ticket items" as the B-1 bomber, the MX missile and two new nuclear aircraft carriers.

Customer Suspects Robbery, Summons Police

An armed robber who held up the Imperial gas station at State Road 46 and Interstate 4, Sanford, Tuesday night, told the manager to stop shaking and serve a customer as he held a gun to her ribs.

The customer, realizing that something was wrong left the store, went across the street and telephoned police, according to a police report.

The man, armed with a small blue steel pistol, walked into the store about 6:45 p.m. as manager Mary J. Pinkerton of Sanford was behind the counter with clerk Dave Kreusner of Deltona, the report said.

Sticking the gun into Kreusner's side, the robber said: "Slick 'em up." A few minutes later, a customer came into the store to buy a pack of cigarettes and the robber told Ms. Pinkerton to stop shaking and serve the customer which she did, the report said. The customer later told police that he could see something was wrong and left the store as though he was unaware of what was going on and went across the street to summon help.

After taking an undisclosed amount of money, the robber told Ms. Pinkerton and Kreusner to lie on the floor and not get up for three minutes. He then fled in a pickup truck occupied by a male.

No Motive Established For 2 Miami Bombings

MIAMI (UPI) — Bombs exploded in two businesses in the heart of the Little Havana district and a police bomb squad defused a third explosive found near the Spanish-language newspaper Replica, officials reported.

Miami Fire Chief John Bertzel said bomb blasts occurred at Paradise International travel agency and the Patron Cigars factory shortly before midnight Tuesday.

There were no fires and no one was injured, said Bertzel, but windows were blown out of both of the 2-story buildings and glass hurled hundreds of feet.

Officials were unable as of early today to give an estimate of the damages, or what the motivation behind the bombings was.

Killer Sentenced To Die

TAVARES (UPI) — The third of four men accused of robbing, kidnapping and murdering teenage Evinrude heiress Frances Julia Slater has been sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Circuit Judge Philip Nourse pronounced the death sentence Tuesday on J.B. Parker, 20, for his part in the abduction-slaying last April in Stuart. Parker, like the other men accused of the crime, is an unemployed fruit picker from Fort Pierce.

The fourth defendant, Terry Wayne Johnson, is scheduled to go on trial in Fort Lauderdale in April.

Sharks! Beaches Close

HALLANDALE (UPI) — A thousand or more sharks slicing through waters near oceanfront resort hotels has forced lifeguards to have vacationers out of the water until a shark watch confirms the school is gone.

Officials hoped the sharks would leave today so beaches can be reopened.

Hallandale Beach Patrol lifeguards ordered vacationers out of the water Tuesday after the sharks were sighted about a quarter of a mile off the beach at Hollywood, just north of Hallandale.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Greg Robinson said crew members of a U.S. Navy anti-submarine helicopter based in Massachusetts reported about 2,000 sharks in the water.

IN BRIEF

Plane Crashes In Cemetery Near Airport; Five Killed

TORONTO (UPI) — Five people, including two executives of the Sun Oil company and the president of its Canadian subsidiary, were killed when a company jet crashed into a cemetery less than five miles from Toronto International Airport.

The pilot and co-pilot of the twin-engine Sabreliner jet also died when the small aircraft suddenly flipped over Tuesday and plowed into a muddy and unused part of Beechwood Cemetery in the northwest part of Toronto.

Authorities were mystified as to the cause of the crash, which occurred minutes after the pilot received clearance to make his final approach to the airport.

A team of investigators from the Canadian Department of Transport were expected early today to begin probing the wreckage of the plane owned by Sun Oil Co., the 11th largest U.S. oil conglomerate.

Arafat Meets Andropov

United Press International
Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, disgruntled with U.S. efforts to negotiate Middle East peace, turned to Moscow today for his first in-depth talks with Yuri Andropov since the new Soviet leader took power two months ago.

Arafat arrived in Moscow Tuesday following talks with Jordan's King Hussein in Amman, where he charged the United States was not dependable because of its inability to influence Israeli policy.

The official news agency Tass said only that Arafat was on "a short business visit" but the guerrilla chief said his talks with Andropov would focus on "current international efforts to bring about peace in the Middle East."

Sex-Based Mortality Tables Called Unfair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration urged the Supreme Court for the first time Tuesday to rule that it is discriminatory to use sex-based mortality tables to calculate unequal retirement payments for men and women.

The Justice Department said a lower court correctly ruled that an employee retirement pension based on widely used insurance annuity tables to pay women lower benefits violates the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The tables are based on the theory that women, in general, live longer than men.

"Whether a woman contributes a greater amount of her compensation than a man for an equal benefit or contributes an equal amount for a lesser benefit, the use of sex-based actuarial tables in calculating periodic benefits results in the same discrimination," the government said.

The government filed its position in a case involving Long Island University Professor Diana Spirt, who challenged the use of the benefit calculations used by the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association and College Retirement Equities Fund.

Although Ms. Spirt did not file a class action lawsuit, a Supreme Court ruling on the issue could have widespread effect on how retirement benefits are paid to women.

More than 400,000 employees at approximately 2,800 colleges and universities participate in the TIAA-CREF system.

Under Ms. Spirt's pension plan, tenured faculty members contribute 5 percent of their yearly salary and the university contributes an equal sum. The contributions are forwarded to the insurance companies that use mortality tables classified by sex in calculating plan benefits.

The Supreme Court has not yet decided whether it will hear the case. The insurance companies have asked the high court to rule that the employment discrimination law does not apply to them because it interferes with their insurance business.

Fetal Surgery

When Unborn Babies Must Be Treated

ROGERS CITY, Mich. (NEA) — Paul Martin Bennett is a typical 13-month-old. The youngest of Dick and Terry Bennett's five children, he's clearly a delight to the entire family and has a normal active life.

But things could have been different. Doctors discovered in September 1981 that the fetus Terry Bennett was carrying had hydrocephalus, a buildup of fluid in the brain. It can prevent development of nerve cells, causing severe retardation, blindness, cerebral palsy or death.

Had it been left untreated, Paul almost certainly would have a short, tragic life. But he is one of a handful of infants who have been surgically treated while still in the womb. The youngster is part of medical history.

In June 1981, in the early stages of her pregnancy, Terry had some problems. Her physician suggested she undergo ultrasound testing, a painless procedure that allows medical personnel to view a live "picture" of a fetus on a screen. With this, they can make inferences about fetal health and function.

Immediately after the test, the doctor "asked if I had ever heard of 'water on the brain,'" Terry recalls. During a second test, Terry could see the image of her son. "He looked like he had a football helmet on," she recalls grimly.

A genetic specialist said that the youngster would likely have physical problems in addition to retardation and would almost certainly have to be institutionalized.

Some suggested that Terry have an abortion but, she says, "I am very anti-abortion."

"We asked, 'Where in the world can we go?' We were willing to go anywhere, to do anything we could, for the baby.... We consulted with the priest and prayed heavily about it."

Doctors told Dick and Terry about experimental fetal surgery being conducted at a few facilities, including the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center in Denver. In April 1981, physicians there had operated successfully on another hydrocephalic fetus. He was born that July to John and Susan Talbot of Glendale, Ariz.

In September 1981, the Bennetts flew to Denver. Medical staff at the University of Colorado stressed that the prenatal procedure was still experimental. Terry says they explained that the surgery presented several risks, including the possibility of breaking the amniotic sac or of premature labor and the danger of infection to both the mother and child.

On Sept. 29, 1981, a team headed by Dr. William Clewell inserted a needle into Terry's abdomen, into the uterus and through to Paul's brain cavity. A shunt, a tube with a one-way valve, was inserted into the brain through the needle so it could remain until birth and drain fluid into the amniotic sac surrounding the infant.

The only guide the physicians had for their work was the image on the ultrasound screen. The extremely pain-staking work took only about 20 minutes.

The operation was performed in the 23rd week of pregnancy. Everything seemed to go well. But testing a few weeks later showed that the shunt had become dislodged — apparently the baby had pulled it out.

Despite the even greater risks of a second operation, the Bennetts decided to try it. That procedure was performed in Denver during the 27th week of pregnancy. There were several complications. But subsequent tests showed the baby's excess brain fluid was draining properly.

Paul Martin Bennett, pictured here with his mother, Terry, when he was 7 months old, could have had a short, tragic life. But a new procedure — fetal surgery — has helped him.

On Nov. 23 at the health science center, Paul was delivered prematurely by Caesarean section. He weighed a mere three pounds, 15 ounces.

Within four hours, the baby underwent surgery to have a different shunt inserted to drain off the fluid into his abdominal cavity. As with all hydrocephalics, he will have the shunt, barely visible under the skin at the back of his head, in place permanently.

After two months the Bennetts were able to take him home.

Trudeau And Gang Take A Breather

We're missing an old friend. The last cartoon panel of Doonesbury, in which readers witnessed the birth of Joanie Caucus' baby, marked the end of the comic strip's 12-year run.

Doonesbury's author, Garry Trudeau, has cleaned off his drawing board and put his pens and brushes away. He says he needs a "breather" and he wants to give his cartoon characters time to grow up. He plans to resume the strip in about 20 months.

Trudeau won't be idle during the recess. He is expected to work on a movie about the new political right and collaborate on a musical version of his Doonesbury strip.

At the end, Doonesbury was carried in more than 700 papers. In the beginning, newspaper editors were reluctant, not quite sure what to do with Doonesbury, which was really more political comment than comic-page humor.

Often there was heavy pressure to drop the strip, which shocked the old guard with its attacks on pomposity and hypocrisy.

Trudeau took up where Walt Kelly's comic strip, Pogo, left off. Where Kelly depicted President Lyndon Johnson as a longhorn steer and Vice President Spiro Agnew as a slinking hyena, Trudeau used people to represent people.

His comic-strip newspaperman-Rick Redfern was a takeoff on Robert Redford, and drug enthusiast Uncle Duke was modeled after Hunter Thompson, the Rolling Stone's political and social commentator. And, of course, there was Lacey Davenport, as Rep. Millicent Fenwick of New Jersey, who was defeated for re-election last November.

Even some of those who were attacked, by Trudeau were followers. President Gerald Ford, press secretary Ron Nessen, John Ehrlichmann and others have requested the originals of panels in which they were featured.

We've enjoyed the years with Trudeau's Doonesbury. We know many of our readers have, too. We eagerly await the return of Doonesbury.

Moscow Terrorism

Americans can be grateful that their country has been largely spared from the scourge of terrorism. Our good fortune is attributable to geography, competent police work, and the fact that most terrorists are busy striking at enemies other than the United States.

It is less certain, however, that the latter will always be so. Much of the world's terrorism is perpetrated by fanatics of the left who share a common hostility to any government perceived as "counterrevolutionary." That makes Americans and their country a target of opportunity to be attacked when circumstances permit.

In the meantime, the activities of Puerto Rican terrorists should serve to remind Americans of their vulnerability. Recently, for example, a Puerto Rican terrorist group known as the Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) claimed responsibility for planting four bombs in New York City.

The bombs, placed outside police headquarters and at three federal buildings, severely injured several police officers. One officer had to have the mangled remains of his foot amputated after doctors failed in efforts to save it.

The members of the FALN and other similar Puerto Rican terrorist groups have a long history of political violence, both in the continental United States and in their island commonwealth. Their proclaimed goal is independence for Puerto Rico, a status repeatedly and overwhelmingly rejected by Puerto Rican voters.

FBI Director William Webster has said publicly that at least some of the Puerto Rican terrorist organizations have links to Cuba and to that country's Soviet-controlled intelligence service.

If Webster is correct, the continuing campaign of political violence by Puerto Rican terrorists might properly be considered as one more bit of evidence that the United States is indeed on the target list of an international terrorist network directed at least in part from within the Soviet bloc.

BERRY'S WORLD

"What's the point of being a kid, if when school is closed, YOU'VE GOTTA SHOVEL SNOW?"

Seminole County School Superintendent Robert Hughes has been named to the 1983 statewide advisory council for school volunteer programs.

"We are extremely proud of our school volunteer programs in Seminole County," Hughes said. "Our Dividends and our community resources programs make invaluable contributions to all areas of our educational program. I am sure that Florida's other counties would like the opportunity to learn more about our outstanding programs. That is one of our great success stories."

Last school year Seminole County had more than 1,700 volunteers to donate more than 89,000 hours in the district's 42 schools. Additionally, the community resources program averages 150 presentations each month in the schools by citizens of the community.

The first meeting of the advisory board will be held in February.

Speaking of committees, the regional mental health advisory committee, which supervises mental health programs in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties, will soon expand to 21 members from its current 18.

But Seminole County Commissioner Robert Sturm thinks reducing the size of the panel would be a better move.

Sturm thinks the group should have six members, three from Orange County, two from Seminole and one from Osceola. That 6-member body would accomplish much more than the larger panel, he claims.

But a move to formally ask for the reduction fell short this week. Sturm and Commissioner Bill Kirchoff were the only supporters for the idea from the 5-person commission.

ROBERT WAGMAN Changes Ahead In Congress

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Schools group their students by the year of graduation, but Congress groups its members by the year in which they're first elected. And the newly arrived Class of '82 probably will affect Congress more than any incoming class since the early 1970s.

This is especially true in the House, which has 79 first-time members — 55 Democrats and 24 Republicans — or almost one-fifth of the body. (Two other Democrats in the Class of '82 are former congressmen who won election after an absence from Washington.)

The Class of '82 is mainly male and white (only five new members are women), but its members come from widely divergent backgrounds — ranging from Mike Andrews, a Democratic Texas lawyer who won his seat with the backing of minorities and the poor, to Ed Zschau, a California Republican computer executive. As is normally the case, many of the arrivals are lawyers and many have served in state and local government, but for 15 of the new members, this will be their first political office.

There are a few illustrious names among the incoming freshmen. Harley Stagers Jr. takes a seat in the body in which his father was a power for many years, and Connie Mack III's grandfather was the legendary owner-manager of the old Philadelphia A's. But these are the exceptions.

The oldest freshman, at 65, is James Clarke, D-N.C., a longtime state senator. The youngest is 28-year-old Jim Cooper, D-Tenn., scion of a famous political family, who defeated Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker's daughter Classy in November.

Age makes the Class of '82 different from many past freshman classes, especially those of recent years. In general, it is older: More than half of the freshmen — 45 in all — are over 40, including 21 over 50 and three over 60. This reverses the youth trend of recent years, in which most incoming freshmen seemed to be in their early 30s, with many still in their 20s. Jim Cooper is the only class member under 30, and only 11 are under 35.

More important, lack of ideology seems to set this class apart from others in recent years. A number of the classes entering in the immediate post-Watergate era were outspokenly liberal. The Class of '80 was stridently conservative, with many of its members having ridden to Washington on Ronald Reagan's coattails. In contrast, both Republicans and Democrats in the Class of '82 seem moderate almost to the point of lacking strong ideology.

For many years, before each new Congress has convened, the incoming freshmen class has gathered at the Harvard University School of Government for a week-long series of seminars. Those running the program this year are unanimous in their opinion of this freshman class: Its members are "pragmatic." As one observer noted, they seem more united by the fear of the present world and domestic situations than divided by party labels. Almost all of the freshmen reject partisanship and political posturing.

Few of the 57 Democrats seem either ultra-liberal or arch-conservative. Only a couple of them are likely to join with the conservative Democratic "boll weevils" who helped push through the Reagan program in the 97th Congress. In fact, the freshman Democrats voted unanimously to deny Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas — the chief boll weevil — his seat on the Commerce Committee because of his lack of party loyalty.

JACK ANDERSON

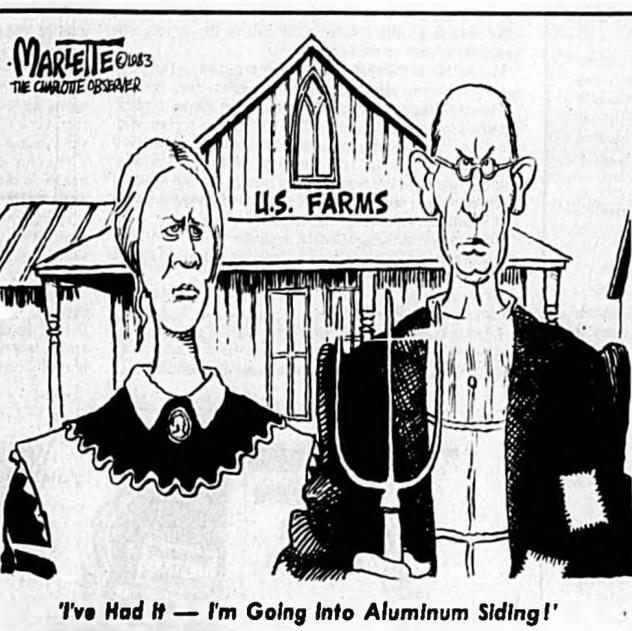

She Wages War Against Bureaucracy

WASHINGTON — In the backrooms of the White House, an undaunted Donna Quixote has been waging a one-woman war against the federal establishment. Her name is Annelise Anderson, and she has tried to dismantle just about every government agency that has come within her purview.

She took seriously Ronald Reagan's campaign speeches denouncing the evils of big government. Through her political zeal, Anderson wound up as an associate budget director. She mounted her swivel chair in the White House complex with all the majesty of a noble knight astride a charger and began tilting with the Washington windmills.

As a deep-dyed, determined libertarian, she believes devoutly that the less government interference in people's affairs the better. This is at odds with the creed of the bureaucrats who man the bastions of government. Those familiar with her views regard her as a Trojan horse lodged inside the federal command post, itself.

Anderson proved equal, alas more than equal, to the bureaucrats' apprehensions. She blocked a proposal that would have required federal identification cards for every man,

ROBERT WALTERS

New Witch Hunt

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Those who weren't born in time to enjoy the thrills of the witch hunts of the Colonial era have a rare opportunity to participate in a latter-day search for traitors, perverts, subversives and other evil-doers.

This time around, we're seeking "secular humanists" and the hunt is being organized by the Moral Majority, Christian Voice, National Christian Action Coalition and assorted other "New Right" organizations peddling a mean-spirited approach to public affairs poorly disguised as religion.

Nobody has a very precise definition or description of a "secular humanist" but that makes the search more lively for the narrow-minded people convinced that the enemy lurks in homes, libraries and schools all across the land — and even in the halls of Congress.

"Secular humanists" were most recently sighted on Capitol Hill by Christian Voice, which earlier discovered that the nation's schools were being abused "to brainwash our children with secular humanist hogwash."

In a "confidential" letter to prospective donors, Christian Voice warns that various candidates seeking the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination are "all ultraliberal who put the values of secular humanists above the name of Christians."

The appeal for funds is made under the name of "Christians to Re-Elect President Reagan," an organization apparently un-deterred by the president's insistence that he hasn't even decided whether to seek a second term.

Although Reagan is "the greatest president of this century," says the letter, he has been forced to back away from tough stands on issues such as abortion, pornography and homosexuality because of pressure from "the liberal power structure and many of his own 'moderate' advisors."

Christian Voice doesn't confine its political activities to presidential campaigns.

Immediately prior to last autumn's elections, for example, it issued a "report card" on the votes cast by members of Congress on important "moral issues" — and the elastic definition of "morality" extended to criticism of the Federal Election Commission and the National Science Foundation.

Attempting to offset that intemperate propaganda is People for the American Way, a Washington-based, nonpartisan, educational organization whose founders include some of the nation's most respected religious and lay leaders.

Anthony T. Podesta, the organization's executive director, explains the group's principal concerns:

"Some prominent religions and their leaders seem to have chosen a belligerent, divisive role. From time to time, they glorify authoritarian, not democratic, values. They often attack the goodwill and integrity of people who disagree with them. They occasionally claim a monopoly on Christian rectitude . . .

"From their television pulpits and in their direct mail letters . . . (they) preach a gospel that makes genuine ecumenical cooperation unlikely. Understanding and reconciliation are not part of their vocabularies.

"Their ministries do not lead to a necessary national consensus but to new recriminations, more religious intolerance and greater national discord."

The growing importance of religion in contemporary society was illustrated in a 1981 nationwide public opinion survey, conducted on behalf of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., which concluded that religious commitment has a greater impact in determining an individual's values than do age, race, sex, income or political viewpoint.

"Our findings," said the survey report, "suggest that the increasing impact of religion in our social and political institutions may be only the beginning of a trend that could change the face of America."

But that trend holds the potential for danger as well as opportunity — especially if the politico-religious zealots persist in ignoring the words of President Abraham Lincoln: "I am concerned to know not whether the Lord is on my side, but whether I am on the Lord's side."

JEFFREY HART

Right On, Kirkpatrick

Rumors are all over Washington to the effect that U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick will resign soon, reportedly over differences with Secretary of State George Shultz.

It would be a great loss. Mrs. Kirkpatrick has brought a measure of truth and reality to the world of diplomatic euphemism; and democratic policy making, which requires the support of public opinion, cannot be effective in an atmosphere of euphemism and evasion.

The United Nations, which former ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan called a "dangerous place," is the sort of place in which U.N. information officers could issue a report unfavorably comparing the Western press with Soviet news media, a report the present secretary general, Perez de Cuellar, called "really incredible."

In a recent speech at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, a speech which has been largely unnoticed, Ambassador Kirkpatrick gave us a dose of reality about the United Nations. She employed honest, descriptive words seldom heard in muffled diplomatic corridors.

The U.N., she declared, is engaged in a Marxist "class war" against the United States and against the private sector.

She blasted the "arrogance of the new class" of international bureaucrats who are now running the U.N. and charged that they are trying to achieve "global socialism."

She was right on the mark when she charged that the controlling bureaucracy at the U.N. views poverty as the fault of the rich nations, believing that Third World nations are poor because of "exploitation" by American multi-national corporations.

"It's a bad theory," she replied. "As Adam Smith said, wealth is created by savings, investment, entrepreneurship and hard work. Poverty cannot be ended by transfer of wealth but by development in the Third World."

I would like to interject a thought here. The resources of Third World countries are valuable today precisely because the industrialized nations have devised uses for them. The oil producing nations sat on their petroleum resources for millennia until the West devised motors to burn the fuel. The same is true of other mineral resources. Furthermore, the caricatured multi-national corporations provide thousands of jobs in their host countries, virtually all posts — including management — being held by local nationals. An excellent structural case could be made that the international corporation is now the real "international organization," the United Nations the spurious one.

Ambassador Kirkpatrick does not advocate U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations, merely a clear-eyed recognition of what it really is, and a determination to fight its ideology at every turn.

A more ironic suggestion has been widely discussed. That is, that the U.N. meet for only six months of the year in New York, where the delegates and other officials enjoy the restaurants, theaters, artistic life and other delights of civilization. The other six months of the year, the U.N. would meet in Moscow, where the civilized pleasures are very few and far between. Those on-the-make Third World delegates would learn in short order where the good life really is.

woman and child in the country — a bureaucratic dream that would employ more bureaucrats to keep a closer, benevolent watch upon the citizenry.

But she galloped into the fray, assailing the idea as an intolerable intrusion on the privacy of free Americans. The victory and the glory were hers.

Next she did battle with the Coast Guard. She wanted to scuttle it altogether and shut down the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn. If there were functions that couldn't be eliminated, she suggested, they could be distributed among the Navy, the Army and such private functionaries as could be hired on the free market.

For an awful moment, she made some progress in the backrooms, and a cruel uncertainty clouded the air for the Coast Guard careerists. But they rallied quickly — with the support of alumni and friends — and rescued the venerable service.

Undismayed, Anderson charged off in another direction and assailed the creaky U.S. maritime industry — which manages to stay afloat only through loan guarantees and subsidies from the taxpayers.

Supporters of maritime subsidies argued that an American merchant marine was essential to our worldwide military commitments. As evidence, they pointed to the Falkland Islands conflict; the British commandeered 70 commercial ships, including the Queen Elizabeth II, to transport men and supplies to the South Atlantic.

But the flag waving did not impress Anderson, who set forth her views in a comprehensive treatise intended for official eyes only, but intercepted by my associate Donald Goldberg. She made these contentions:

— "Most of the major arguments advanced in support of assisting the U.S. merchant marine for national security reasons are seriously flawed."

— "There is no evidence that relying on foreign shipping poses a significant risk to the United States in times of peace or war."

— "There is no basis for believing that non-U.S. flagships would not be available in an emergency."

— "Economic justifications for federal assistance to the merchant marine industries are weak."

These dogmatic statements caused instant trauma in maritime circles. With the allocation of funds in jeopardy, the industry's powerful friends in Washington engaged Anderson in mortal combat.

An Interagency Cabinet Council headed by Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige issued its own report, which buried Anderson's work and replaced it with a new report, which solemnly declared that a healthy merchant marine is vital to U.S. security and, therefore, should continue to collect its subsidies.

In a passing nod to the feisty libertarian in the budget office, footnotes to several sections of the interagency report said: "This section does not have the concurrence of the Office of Management and Budget."

Footnote: There have been whispers that the embattled Annelise Anderson is weary of her tilts with windmills and that her illusions about Ronald Reagan have been shattered by his political penchant for compromise. Whatever the reason, she intends to quit her post and rejoin her husband, Martin, who worked briefly for the White House before returning to the Hoover Institute in California. Meanwhile, she has no comment for pesky journalists the likes of us.

L-Reactor: Military Necessity Or An Environmental Disaster?

United Press International

Defense Department plans to boost production of bomb-grade plutonium by restarting a 28-year-old reactor at the top-secret Savannah River Plant have unleashed a mushroom cloud of controversy.

Defense Department officials said the L-Reactor will allow the United States to produce about 100 additional nuclear bombs a year and help the U.S. keep pace with the Soviet Union.

Environmental groups and state officials fear radiation from the reactor will contaminate the Savannah River, disrupt the ecology of Georgia-South Carolina border wetlands and foul the water supply of 70,000 people.

No one has determined yet whether discharges from the L-Reactor — a product of 1940s technology — will violate South Carolina's water quality standards. But environmentalists have already filed suit to stop the project and alarmed officials in Georgia and South Carolina have hinted they may join the action.

"If state standards aren't met, we could file a lawsuit against the government," said Russ McKinney, spokesman for South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley.

"Of course, the federal government can pre-empt state standards in defense matters," he said. "It may very well come to a confrontation someday, but right now it's just too early to tell."

The Savannah River Plant, a 192,000-acre complex near Aiken, S.C., has been operating since the 1950s. The L-Reactor was shut down in 1968 after 14 years of activity.

President Carter decided in 1980 to produce more radioactive bomb parts at the Savannah Plant, Energy Department spokesman Cliff Webb said, and the L-Reactor was chosen for the project. The anticipated cost of restarting the reactor — set for October — is about $214 million.

Last November, a coalition that included the Energy Research Foundation, Natural Resources Defense Council,

Georgia Conservancy, Coastal Citizens for Clean Energy and the Environmental Policy Institute of Washington, filed suit in U.S. District Court in Washington demanding an environmental impact statement for the project on grounds that federal law requires them for any "major federal action affecting the quality of the human environment."

The South Carolina Coastal Council, Georgia Gov. George Busbee and legislators from both states have questioned the safety of restarting the old reactor.

The government, however, maintains the L-Reactor project is "not a major federal action" affecting the environment and therefore does not require an environmental impact statement.

Energy Research Foundation Director John Lawson said restarting the L-Reactor will release radioactive cesium into the Savannah River, which could be ingested by fish, wildlife and people drinking the water.

"In our combined experience of several years of monitoring the federal government's implementation of the National Environmental Policy Act, which mandates an environmental impact statement for major federal actions, we have never seen such a blatant attempt by an agency to evade its responsibilities," Lawson said.

Department of Energy reports said the L-Reactor is expected to discharge 46 curies of cesium into the river, 10 curies during the first year of operation.

"Ten curies is not a small amount of radioactive cesium," Georgia Environmental Protection Division spokesman James Setser said. "Usually we deal with thousandths or millionths of curies."

The lawsuit is aimed at "forcing the Department of Energy to acknowledge that the days are over when you can flush that much radiation into the environment and deny the people affected the right to know the facts about the environmental and economic impacts," Lawson said.

Here Are Some Tips On Saving Energy At Home This Winter

Do your heating bills leave you with a slow burn?

An industrial energy manager says some simple homeowner energy tips can reduce those bills by 40 percent or more.

Richard H. Cooper, an industrial energy manager, helped save his company more than $33 million in energy costs during 1981. Cooper plans and manages long-term energy conservation programs, minimizing energy use today while planning for the future.

Cooper says an energy "audit" is as essential at home as in industry, and the same principles apply. The audit identifies how and where energy is being used in order to pinpoint where it is being wasted.

"As much as 70 percent of residential energy is used to heat or cool our homes," Cooper says, "so this is where the most energy can be saved."

To conduct an energy audit in your home, take an inventory of things that affect temperature, Cooper says. This winter, he suggests:

- Tune and set heating units properly and operate only when needed; maintain units to keep them in good condition. A dollar spent on maintenance will often return $2, $4 or more.
- Feel for air cracks around doors and windows. Seal by weather-stripping or by using a high quality caulking.
- Consider installing storm windows. They keep cold air out and warm air in and can be made inexpensively with sturdy plastic.
- Check insulation throughout the attic and basement. A reputable insulation dealer or local utility company can determine if there is enough insulation. Look for missing insulation and be sure to insulate spaces around pipes and fixtures connected to the outside.

- Set the thermostat between 65 and 68 degrees during winter days and 55 and 55 to 65 degrees at night. Each degree less than 70 represents about a 1-to-3 percent cost savings. "Remember, an electric blanket is a big energy saver, costing about $1.80 a month to use," Cooper adds.
- Use fireplaces efficiently. "Fireplaces may be aesthetic but they are not generally energy efficient. They pull as much as 80 percent of the warm air out of the room and up the chimney," Cooper explains.
- Lower the temperature of your hot water heater. "The hot water tank is one of the biggest users of energy in the home, accounting for about 15 percent of your bill," Cooper says. Consider setting the temperature between 120 and 130 degrees depending upon your hot water needs, he says. "If you feel heat when you touch the tank, add an inexpensive insulating blanket to reduce heat loss. Be sure to insulate hot water pipes in unheated areas. Don't leave a water leak alone—a leak of one drop of hot water every second wastes 5,000 gallons of water and more than $40 in energy per year."
- Keep the furnace filter clean and change periodically.
- Make sure furniture is not blocking vents.
- Keep draperies open during the day to let in sunlight. Close at night to maintain household heat.
- Use full loads in dishwashers and washing machines.
- Turn off unnecessary lights.

Nuts

Peanut Business Is In A Turmoil

NEW YORK (UPI) — The most controversial industry in America right now is not automobiles, oil, television or steel — it's peanuts.

Not only is a raging war going on between the peanut processors and the holders of peanut growing allotments, with the federal government in the middle, but now the retail market's being shaken up by the appearance of the first new national brand of peanut butter in a quarter of a century.

Kane-Miller Corp. of Tarrytown, N.Y., and its subsidiary, Sunnyland Refining Co. of Birmingham, are spending some millions of dollars on advertising to launch Superman peanut butter, which already has grabbed 10 percent of the $900 million a year retail market from the three top brands, Procter & Gamble's Jif, which has 24 percent of sales, CPC International's Skippy with 23 percent and Esmark's Peter Pan with 14 percent.

About 88 percent of Americans eat peanut butter. It was invented and first patented in 1897 by Dr. John H. Kellogg, founder of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium in Michigan.

Overall, peanuts are a $3 billion-a-year industry in the United States, with salted, roasted nuts, mixed nuts, peanut oil and peanut confectionery making up the rest.

According to James C. Kalbach of Edwards-Freeman, Inc., of Conshohocken, Pa., president of the Peanut Butter and Nut Processors Association, no one can grow peanuts for the domestic market unless he owns or rents a peanut growing allotment and one can't own an allotment unless his grandfather grew peanuts in 1938.

The allotments are confined to specific counties, mainly in six southern states, and are not transferable outside the county. The Department of Agriculture says 70 percent of the crop is grown by farmers who rent allotments at $200 to $400 an acre. Kalbach said an allotment holder in a favored area might realize $15,000 or more a year renting allotments on 50 acres without growing any peanuts himself.

The allotment rentals, of course, figure in the overall price of peanuts. Canada and other countries buy for $350 a ton or less American peanuts that are price supported at $550 a ton on the domestic market.

The on-going controversy between the peanut processor and the peanut allotment holders' lobby in Congress was aggravated tremendously when a drought in 1980 cut the domestic crop by around 42 percent. That forced prices up for a prolonged period and created a lot of disturbance and disruption in the various peanut markets.

Things subsided after an emergency decree permitted the importation of peanuts on a fairly large scale for the first time in years but the processors and marketers are more up in arms than ever about the allotment system. They call it an anachronistic monopoly that hurts poor farmers who don't own allotments and say it hurts the processing industry and consumers by keeping prices artificially high.

The processors say they are not opposed in principle to support prices for peanuts but only want Congress to abolish the allotment monopoly.

The Reagan administration has been sympathetic to their view but so far has not been able to get the system changed.

Those who favor the allotments contend they assure the growing of good quality peanuts, that the system has worked well over the years, is not excessively expensive and that peanuts are a unique crop and the owners of land suitable for growing them are entitled to special treatment from the government.

They point out that the allotment system was adopted at a time when many peanut farmers were destitute and conceivably it could protect them from such conditions again.

Windfall Brings Trouble

MIAMI (UPI) — A 67-year-old retiree who found $60,000 in a briefcase on his front lawn six months ago says the windfall has brought nothing but death threats, pleading letters from strangers and legal fees.

"It has given us nothing — nothing but headaches and fear," Donald Behrens said.

Behrens turned the money over to police shortly after he found it on June 19. Officers told him the cash was his if no one claimed it within six months.

"I don't think anyone is going to come calling for it," Metro-Dade Detective Ralph Little said at the time. Police assumed the cash was part of a bungled drug deal.

But Little's prediction was wrong. Six months later, the Behrens have not seen a cent of the money. Who finally gets the money will be decided by Dade Circuit Judge George Orr early this year.

James L. Burton, who said he deals in guns and gold, claims the money is part of an insurance settlement from the unsolved murder of his second wife. She was stabbed to death last year in their home in Bonifay, Fla., a small town in the Florida panhandle.

Burton's gun license was found in the black leather briefcase along with the stacks of $100, $50 and $20 bills. Police say he still hasn't explained how the money landed on the Behrens' lawn.

Other claimants to the cash began calling the Behrens' home after their windfall was publicized.

"The phone rang constantly," said Verdel Behrens, Behrens' wife.

Behrens said the callers were "black, white, male and female. And let me tell you, they were educated in fourletter words," he said. "I've never been called such names in my life."

Some callers backed up their demands for the money with threats.

"They would tell us to give them the money or they would firebomb our house or kill us," Mrs. Behrens said. "It has been a nightmare."

Burton sent an attorney, Mike Gold, to claim the money from police. At the police department's suggestion, the Behrens also hired an attorney.

The Behrens said they don't care how the briefcase arrived on their lawn. They said they didn't ask for the cash and wish they had never discovered it.

But the couple needs the money now — to pay their attorney.

What Happened To The Balanced Budget?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "By fiscal 1984 — under the policy recommendations presented in this document — the federal budget should be in balance."

That bald statement is found in the second paragraph on page 12 of a booklet issued Feb. 18, 1981, by office of the White House press secretary and entitled, "America's New Beginning: A Program for Economic Recovery."

Among the first official documents issued by the administration of President Reagan, who came to office only the month before, it began with a copy of his first major address to Congress. He said at that time that his four-part plan, if "taken together," would "put the nation on a fundamentally different course — a course leading to less inflation, more growth and a brighter future for all of our citizens."

When the book dealt with the question of the federal deficit, it confidently came out with the statement of a balanced budget by fiscal 1984 if the policy recommendations suggested were acted upon.

The numbers it put forth were simple and direct. It said that in the 1981 fiscal year, the deficit would be $54.5 billion, and in fiscal 1982, it would shrink to $45 billion.

For fiscal 1983, the deficit was to be slimmed even more, to an even $23 billion, and for fiscal 1984, it would be in the black by a half-billion dollars.

Obviously, something has gone wrong. The deficit figure now looms at near $200 billion for the current fiscal year. The Wall Street Journal reported that by fiscal 1988, it could jump to $300 billion if current economic policies are not altered. Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., one of the president's closest allies, this week said the "huge" deficit figures were "terrifying" and unacceptable.

Administration officials are quick to say now that a number of built-in costs are to blame and that the Congress did not give Reagan the requested tools he needed to curb the runaway deficit. Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said this week that the president "will make every effort to reduce the deficit and we will set the country on a target of declining deficits in the coming years."

Are they correct? The president's original message to Congress, as cited in the "New Beginning" book, does not support them.

"The economic recovery" plan consists of four parts: (1) a substantial reduction in the growth of federal expenditures; (2) a significant reduction in federal tax rates; (3) prudent relief of federal regulatory burdens; and (4) a monetary policy on the part of the independent Federal Reserve System which is consistent with these policies. These four complementary policies form an integrated and comprehensive program," Reagan said at that time.

COMMENTARY

On the first part, the administration now proudly points to its cuts in federal spending growth over the past two years.

The second part is fuzzy, although Reagan did push through Congress income tax reductions, although last year he also backed a huge tax increase in other areas.

The third part of his plan also has been accomplished, according to administration officers and the president himself, who continually cites the work of a special commission he created on the topic.

Number four — FED policy — has seen the Federal Reserve work almost hand-in-glove with the administration in lowering interest rates, another of the successful points the president uses in his speeches.

Of the four points of his program, three have been done and the remaining one — tax reduction — is partially in place.

'Ash Bag' Is Simple, Safe

ATLANTA (UPI) — Everybody loves a wood-burning stove or fireplace until it's time to empty the ashes — a messy and potentially dangerous chore.

Even with the exercise of great care, scooping up ashes touches off a cloud of fine dust that settles on furniture and carpets. Worse still, live embers removed with the ashes can result in fires if accidentally dropped on the floor or placed in a combustible container.

The "ash bag" may be the answer to the problem, says Ken Driskell, 30, an Atlanta-area banker and novice inventor who has come up with what he hopes will be a new and indispensable fireplace appliance.

Driskell's "ash bag" invention is a simple contraption consisting of a scoop-like device that looks like the front part of a dustpan. The scoop is enclosed and a metal throat attached to it is connected to a fire-resistant cloth bag. A person using the ash bag can scoop ashes from his fireplace or stove and by tilting the device up cause the ashes to fall into the bag, Driskell said.

This, according to the inventor, eliminates the dust problem and the fire hazard. With the ashes and hot embers in the bag, they can be safely dumped outside.

Driskell believes there's a market for the contraption in view of the fact that few modern-day fireplaces and stoves have ash dumps that allow for removal of ashes from the basement or from outside the house.

In 1980, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission reported 112,000 fires that involved solid fuel heating appliances — wood and coalburning stoves and fireplaces.

"I feel a substantial amount of these were caused by blundering around trying to remove the ashes," he said.

The bag itself would be made of the same kind of fire-retardant fabric used in race car drivers' suits and firemen's uniforms.

The device could be hung by the fireplace for convenience, said Driskell. The bag would be removable and made available in different colors to suit the decor of the room.

"Everybody I've talked to think it's a good idea," said Driskell, who lives in Alpharetta and is vice president and branch manager of a bank in Roswell, near Atlanta.

"They're interested in buying one."

"I think that if a manufacturer got a hold of it he could manufacture it at a reasonable price."

"It seems so simple, it's not logical that something hasn't been developed like this already."

Aliens

5 Million Illegal People Now Live In The United States

LAREDO, Texas (UPI) — Joaquin Macias crossed the Rio Grande without even getting his back wet, only to be nabbed by the U.S. Border Patrol and deported within the hour across the river to Mexico.

But, meantime, other undocumented aliens were streaming successfully into the United States, swelling to as high as 5 million the estimates of the number of people who now live illegally in this country.

Still called "wetbacks" by some border patrolmen — an official directive to the contrary notwithstanding, many of them hold jobs at a time when more than 12 million Americans are unemployed.

Mexico's worst recession since World War II is expected to increase the illegal influx as the United States suffers its highest unemployment rate since the Great Depression.

About 1 million illegal aliens were apprehended and deported last year, the great majority of them Mexicans like Macias, a stocky man of 23.

On a recent sweltering night, Macias hid in the brush on the Mexican side of the border, peering across the river at lights flickering on the streets of Laredo.

He and other "indocumentados" boarded a boat which had been crudely fashioned by welding together two automobile hoods.

They paddled stealthily but by the time they crept ashore they already were under surveillance by Border Patrol officers staked out in the brush on the U.S. side of the border.

Officer J.A. Garza, 27, without even bothering to draw his sidearm, quickly rounded up Macias and about two dozen other docile men, women and children. They were jammed into two vans and taken to the Border Patrol station.

The illegal aliens signed documents stating they were willing to be deported voluntarily. An hour later they were trudging across the international bridge toward Nuevo Laredo on the Mexican side.

Macias, a $5-an-hour employee at a meat-packing plant in Oklahoma City, had been trying to return to his job after a visit with his parents deep in the heart of Mexico.

Before Macias boarded a van for the ride to the bridge, a reporter asked him if he would try again to cross the border.

Grinning, Macias nodded affirmatively.

"He'll try until he makes it," commented an officer who acknowledged illegal crossings were difficult. "Some of them commute to jobs on this side by innertube."

If the Border Patrol tries hard but with limited success to apprehend people like Macias, its main targets are the "coyotes," men who for a fee smuggle Mexicans across the border to jobs in the United States.

"I was a coyote," admitted Haul Guerra, 41, who did a year of hard time after his conviction in 1978 on charges of smuggling aliens.

Guerra, who got religion in prison and now works at Laredo's Salvation Army headquarters, said, "I got involved because it was easy money."

"At the time I was arrested I was running two cars and a pickup truck," said Guerra, who added that he also was paying spotters to keep an eye on Border Patrol highway checkpoints.

Some weeks he transported as many as 60 illegal aliens from pickup points near the river to Houston and San Antonio, he said, clearing as much as $1,200.

Guerra said the operation was masterminded by a ring headquartered across the border in Nuevo Laredo.

"I was picking up people at the riverbank before dawn and stashing them in a room on this side," he said. "We would move them out to Houston or San Antonio after dark. We provided them with water and food — bags of tortillas and gallon cans of refried beans."

Guerra acknowledged some "coyotes" in danger of capture abandon their charges, sometimes leaving them stranded without food and water, or fighting for air in locked car trucks in temperatures that often top 100 degrees. Many illegal aliens have died under such circumstances.

"I used to pick up people down at the river just a half mile from here," Guerra said in an interview in his office where he works for a prerelease program for prison inmates near the end of their sentences.

"I'm glad I was caught," he said. "I was at the point where I was thinking of buying a gun. I could have gotten into drug trafficking."

Guerra said many "coyotes" use the people they smuggle into the United States as narcotics carriers.

He said that since he was arrested four years ago the price Mexicans pay to be smuggled into the United States has tripled from about $200 to as much as $600.

"I was never involved in any assaults or drugs or anything like that," Guerra said. "I was picking up mostly single males. There were some women and children who wanted to join men already working over here. Mostly they were just poor Mexican people who were coming across to earn money to support their families."

"Back then," said the convicted felon who "accepted Jesus as my Lord and Savior" in prison, "I didn't consider what I was doing too much of a crime."

That is a view unshared by Senior Patrol Agent J.M. Trevino, an accomplished tracker of "coyotes."

Trevino, a former U.S. Army paratrooper who has been in the Border Patrol for eight years, said, "The coyotes drop people off to walk through the brush around our checkpoints. Then they pick them up again on the other side."

Trevino said some indocumentados spend a week walking 150 miles through the sagebrush, mesquite and cactus to San Antonio.

"Some of them have been bitten by rattlesnakes," he said.

"We've got sensors out there in the brush that can detect movement," said Trevino, but he acknowledged hundreds of indocumentados get through, evading checkpoints by walking through rangeland, drinking from cattle ponds.

"We've known babies to be born out here in the brush," he said. "A baby born out here could be entitled to U.S. citizenship."

Trevino stopped his patrol car at a checkpoint 11 miles from the river on the highway leading north toward San Antonio where a border patrolman was stopping every vehicle that approached.

"We get a lot of counterfeit and altered documents at these checkpoints," Trevino said.

"I've stood at checkpoints where the temperature hits 110 degrees," he said. "You stand in the same place for a while and your heels just sink down into the asphalt."

About 20 miles out of Laredo Trevino stopped his patrol car and walked out in the brush to "cut signs."

"See those tracks," he said. "They're fresh. This is a pickup point. The coyote will just pull over off the highway and honk and they'll come running out of the brush line to be picked up. They're one step ahead of us all the time."

Trevino said some smuggling rings guarantee success.

"Some of them you don't have to pay until they get you to where you want to go," he explained. "If you get caught, they'll try again until you make it."

Most illegal aliens are caught near the two biggest cities — El Paso and San Diego — on the 1,952-mile border which slashes through open desert.

Health Officials Fighting New Killer Disease

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal health officials are pouring more money and manpower into an investigation of a new killer disease that attacks the body's immune system than was spent on Legionnaire's disease or toxic shock syndrome.

The disease is called AIDS — acquired immune deficiency syndrome — and Dr. William Foege, director of the national Centers for Disease Control, said that "it is safe to portray us as being very concerned and very worried by this."

"Number one, it is increasing in incidence. Number two, it has such a high fatality rate. Number three, we continue to see new (population) groups at risk. And number four, we don't have an agent."

Responding to what could be its greatest challenge in tracking the cause of diseases, the CDC has set up a special investigative task force of over 100 doctors and support personnel. In 1982 alone, it spent more than $2 million on its AIDS investigation, according to CDC spokesman Don Berreth.

He said the agency spent $1.6 million in an 18-month probe of Legionnaire's disease in 1976-77 and $964,000 investigating toxic shock syndrome in 1980-81.

With Legionnaire's disease, "it soon became clear the epidemic had peaked and there was a declining incidence" of the respiratory ailment, Foege said. With toxic shock syndrome, associated with the use of tampons, "there was a very low absolute risk."

None of these factors is present in the CDC's investigation of AIDS. The cause of the disorder is yet to be identified and reports of new cases continue to reach the CDC.

The fatality rate of AIDS approaches 40 percent with expectations that it may eventually go as high as 65 percent. Hardly a week goes by that investigators do not list new population groups at risk of getting the disease.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome is a disorder that weakens the body's natural defenses against certain rare diseases. Victims are prone to a list of lethal infections not often seen by doctors, including Kaposi's sarcoma, a soft tissue cancer.

The first cases were reported among homosexual men in Los Angeles in October 1980. The CDC investigative task force was established in June 1981. In the months that followed, cases were also detected in intravenous drug users, Haitian refugees, hemophiliacs, and four infants.

Evidence is beginning to accumulate indicating the disorder is transmitted sexually and through blood transfusions by an infectious agent. Foege said the chances are high that the causative agent is a virus.

Counseling In Business Offered

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the Small Business Development Center at the University of Central Florida are offering free small business counseling twice a week on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce Building, 400 E. First St. in Sanford.

An experienced business counselor from the Small Business Development Center at the university conducts these individualized one-on-one counseling sessions with those individuals who are either interested in starting their own business and desire help with appropriate steps to follow or for those individuals who are currently in business and require help with certain problem areas.

Sanford Chamber board chairman Dennis Courson announced the service is provided at the Chamber for those who are in the Sanford and Seminole County area who for special reasons cannot make it to the university because of their current working schedule or because of transportation problems.

The Small Business Development Center is a joint venture between the Small Business Administration and the state of Florida through the University of Central Florida. It has been in existence since Spring 1980 to provide free business counseling and seminars-workshops for current and prospective entrepreneurs in the Central Florida Community.

Persons may call the Small Business Development Center at 1-275-2796 or the Sanford Chamber at 322-2212 to schedule free consultations.

Getting Even

Now, You Too Can Spy On The Russians

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ever since the days of the Cold War, anti-communists have claimed that Russian diplomats do double duty in the United States. They manage their country's international relations, which is orthodox, and they try to steal American security secrets, which is not.
Worse, the charge is that the Soviets spy with impunity. They move about freely. They investigate what they please. The critics say hundreds of Red agents regularly survey military installations, college laboratories and even the testimony given to congressional investigators.
Now a new group has formed to stop the nonsense.
It says it is going to spy on the spies. The new group is called Togetherness International, and it's described by its creator as a "patriotic research organization." Dr. Boris Korczak, something of a spy himself, says the group is enlisting the aid of ordinary Americans to monitor Russian activities in various U.S. cities.
Korczak says the monitoring is passive, but thorough. The monitors are not permitted to interfere with the Soviets, but they do watch them with a vengeance. Korczak says the watch goes on around the clock; the goal is to record every movement that every Russian makes in America.

In other words, Dr. Korczak says he is launching war on Soviet intentions. He claims the Red agents have been left alone to their mischief for too long. Besides, he adds, turnout is only fair play: "The Russians spies follow people all over the world. It's time someone followed them."
And Korczak believes he's just the fellow to do it. At least he has a passionate motive. He is a one-time European businessman (his Ph.D. is in art history) who used to spy for the Soviets. Check that: he says he only pretended to spy for them. He was a double agent for the American CIA.
Korczak says he worked for the CIA in Denmark, until the communists learned of his betrayal in 1979. He says the Russians were so angry that they tried to murder him; eventually, the threat was such that he had to leave his Scandinavian home and flee to the United States for CIA protection.
That protection has not been offered, apparently. Korczak insists he is still being abused by the Kremlin. He says he has been attacked by Russian thugs, and shot with microscopic pellets. Once, he goes on, Red agents even threw a poisonous snake through his bedroom window.

Therefore Korczak feels Togetherness International is one way to get even. And he has set about the task with enthusiasm. He says he has recruited a "growing" cadre of monitors, most of them young, all of them anti-communist, and they are even now scrutinizing Russian spies.
Korczak says the monitors stake out the Soviet embassy here. Then they follow the departing automobiles. They trail the diplomats to lunch, to shops, even to Sunday outings. Korczak says the monitors record everything they observe, down to and including all traffic violations.
The violations are thereafter reported to U.S. authorities. The monitors are not supposed to get personally involved. Korczak says his group is not a law enforcement agency, it is a detective bureau. "We find out what the communist spies are doing, and we let the government know."
The trouble is the government doesn't care to know. Because it conducts its own surveillance of Russian diplomats. The FBI has monitored Soviet activities in the United States since the end of World War II, and dozens of other investigatory bodies are likewise watching for and listening in on the Reds.
So official Washington is not too excited.

More Applicants Hedge On Truth

NEW YORK (UPI) — The recession has brought a significant increase in falsification of credentials and other deceptions by executive job seekers, says an executive search firm.

Observing the increase among some of its own clients, Thorndike Deland Associates, queried 223 company personnel officers around the country. A good third of them said they had encountered rising deception.

"We're not talking about the majority of jobhunters, however," Rawle Deland of Thorndike Deland told United Press International. "Most people tell the truth on job applications, but those who don't can cause a lot of trouble for employers, recruiters and themselves."

He said the survey showed 82 percent of those responding found checking references more troublesome while 12 percent reported some "bad experiences" which had caused them to tighten reference checking procedures.

Why do people lie on job applications? "Well, mostly because they're naive enough to think their resumes won't be checked, but it really goes deeper than that," Deland said. "Psychologically, people rationalize the deception by saying they have to do it in order to get the job and the salary they need."

"A chap who thinks his actual business experience is at least the equivalent of a university MBA degree will put down that he has an MBA and list a university. That puts the recruiter or employer in a somewhat embarrassing spot. You can't check such a thing confidentially; the university won't give out the information without a letter from the applicant authorizing it. But the sensible thing to do is to go through with the embarrassing procedure of demanding the letter of permission. If the fellow is lying, he'll then own up to it."

It's even necessary, he said, to check if the applicant offers photostats of credentials. They could be forged.

Another frequent area of deception is past earnings. Applicants overstate their past earnings in the hopes of getting a bigger pay offer. Again they rationalize this deception by including in the figure bonuses or pay raises they didn't actually get but figure they should have gotten, Deland said.

They also try to gloss over past employment difficulties by leaving periods in their job history out of the resume. This can cause the recruiter or employer to suspect the applicant is trying to conceal adverse personality traits.

The personnel people queried in the Thorndike Deland study all said it is clear that reference checking is now more difficult than at any time in the past. The respondents said the hardest thing to check was the applicant's actual job performance followed by his or her real job history. Next most difficult to check were personality traits and interpersonal skills.

Deception on the part of the applicant is most likely to be concerned with his or her job performance, followed by the compensation history and employment history. But they also gave false answers to various personal questions other than about their academic records.

Deland said people not engaged in the personnel business often assume reference checking is just a matter of getting confirmation of facts cited in the resume.

"It's not nearly that simple," he said ruefully. "The answers from the references often require some sophisticated evaluation to determine whether the applicant really has a suitable record of performance and the ability to manage people," he said.

This winter, warm up your house with a new heat pump. And a check from FPL.

We could pay you several hundred dollars to replace an inefficient heating/cooling system with a high-efficiency central heat pump.

You save two ways. Your new efficient heat pump can lower your heating bills by as much as 50% when compared to the conventional electric heating systems that many of our customers have. And, if you qualify, you'll also save with FPL's Watt-Wise™ cash incentive.

A heat pump both heats and cools your home very efficiently. In the winter, it extracts heat from outside, pumping it indoors. In the summer, it cools by removing heat and humidity from your home. Ask your contractor for details.

Will everyone benefit from this Watt-Wise Products Program? Yes.

Because this program costs less than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient heating and cooling systems.

We're working hard at being the kind of power company you want.

For more information on how to qualify for the Watt-Wise incentives, send us the coupon or call the toll-free Watt-Wise Line, weekdays 9-5 at

Bishop Moore Wasn't Much Without Harry

If you don't think Harry Nelson can coach football — look at what Bishop Moore has accomplished since he left the school.

Nothing. Since Nelson's departure to Colonial in 1978, the Hornets have put together a string of losing seasons and fired or resigned coaches. At one point, the losing skein reached 19 games.

"Yes, Harry's a good man and a good coach," said Bishop Moore Principal Angelo Massaro. "He demands a lot but that's part of football."

In 1970, the new Lake Mary football coach demanded the ultimate — a state championship. And he got it. It was the first state championship ever won by an Orlando team.

The city fathers were so impressed they honored the prestigious Catholic school with its own day. On Feb. 6, 1971, Orlando declared "Bishop Moore State Championship Day" and threw out the red carpet for the Hornets.

Bishop Moore went 12-1 in its most glorious year. What makes the record more impeccable is the Hornets played primarily a 4A schedule until the playoffs.

Bishop Moore opened the season with victories over Bishop Kenney (20-12) and Apopka (35-6). The lone loss of the season came next to Edgewater, 21-0.

The Hornets then handled Winter Park (13-7), Colonial (12-7), Oak Ridge (21-14), Mainland (7-0), Evans (21-7), Boone (21-0) and Jones (20-19) in the regular season finale.

In the playoffs, Bishop Moore blitzed Bartow (21-0), Hollywood Chaminate (42-12) and Quincy (21-12) in the title game.

"It was a great season," remembers Massaro. "I would've loved to keep him. But he wanted to go 4A."

His career record at Bishop Moore was 65-49-3. In three years at Colonial, Nelson was 17-14 for a total ledger of 82-63-3. Prior to Bishop Moore he coached football with Gene "Torchy" Clark at Xavier in Appleton, Wis. All Torchy and Harry did there was go undefeated for three years (1961-63).

Although Massaro and Lake Mary Principal Don Reynolds were tremendously impressed with Nelson's football expertise, they were more impressed with his classroom performance.

"Harry's excellent in the classroom too. He's a super teacher," said Massaro. Nelson is certified in art, history and physical education. He'll probably teach the latter two at Lake Mary.

The Big Man Will Be Missed By All

The big guy in the striped shirt won't huff and puff down the basketball floor any more with a quickness which belies his size.

He won't keep his eyes peeled on the action while Bill Payne controls his ears with a barrage of taunts about his lack of favorable calls.

He won't act like he's not listening, but all the time he's giving Payne that smile saying, "Can't you do better than that? I've heard better insults from JJ coaches."

It was hard to get Terry Manfredi mad. That's why he was a good referee. And that's why he was a good coach. And, most of all, that's why he was such a good person.

The world lost a good man. Terry Manfredi, former prep All America football player and high school coach at Spruce Creek and Colonial, drowned in a boating accident on Saturday. He was 37.

He will be missed by coaches, fans, players and sports writers.

Mayors Toe Line

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore can shoot free throws. He used to do it every year at halftime of one of the Seminole High basketball games.

As for the other Seminole County mayors, that remains to be seen. But they'll get a chance to show off their shooting touch Saturday night at halftime of the Seminole Community College and Central Florida Community College basketball game.

Toeing the stripe Saturday night will be Longwood's June Lormann, Oviedo's Robert Whittier, Winter Springs' John Torcaso, Lake Mary's Walter Soranson, Casselberry's Charlie Glasscock, Altamonte Springs' Raymond M. Ambrose and Sanford's Moore.

Intense Tribe Overwhelms Brantley

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole High basketball coaches Chris Marlette and Wayne Talbot had the guards out Tuesday night to stem any overconfidence which might be brewing before their Five Star Conference encounter with Lake Brantley.

"I told the kids to approach the game like it was for the district championship," said Marlette. "They may have been a little overconfident but they sure didn't play like it."

Harnessing an intensity which hasn't appeared until the second half of recent games, the Fighting Seminoles blitzed the Patriots, 25-10, in the first eight minutes en route to a 79-46 victory at Seminole High School.

The victory upped the Tribe season mark to 10-7. In the Five Star, Sanford is 5-1. Lake Brantley fell to 4-8 overall and 2-5 in the conference. Seminole hosts Apopka Friday while the Patriots travel to Lake Mary.

"We had great intensity in the first quarter," said Marlette. "We switched defenses well and our press was the best we've had all year."

The Seminoles forced 10 Lake Brantley turnovers in the first quarter and bolted to a 10-2 bulge on two baskets by Law and one each by William Wynn, Calvin "Kiki" Bryant and Torie Hendricks.

Paul Hoffman, Brantley's 6-4 center who averages 21.8 points a game, countered with two of his own, but two minutes later he picked up his second foul and went to the bench.

During his absence, Bryant hit three jump shots, Michell dripped two buckets after rebounds and Wynn made a great steal off the press and dropped it in for a two-pointer.

"We weren't meeting the passes on the press," said a subdued Bob Peterson in the quiet Brantley locker room after the game. "But they're awful tough. They can really get it going when Bryant sticks it in the hole, Mitchell works inside and Law hits a couple of perimeter shots."

The second quarter was slowed by fouls until Bryant and Wynn combined for eight points for a 34-15 lead. Law added the final four of the half, the last on a nice feed from sophomore James Rouse.

Seminole hit 15 of 29 shots (52 percent) while building a 39-19 halftime advantage. The Patriots converted 8 of 23 for 35 percent. Bryant tossed in 12 points and Law had 10. Wynn chipped in eight and grabbed seven rebounds.

Hoffman contributed nine points for the Patriots while sophomore Dennis Groseclose had eight.

The Tribe blew away any respectability at the outset of the third quarter when Bryant and Torie Hendricks combined for 10 points as the lead grew to 54-23. Hoffman got a measure of revenge when he broke loose for a rousing left-handed slam dunk which excited the crowd.

Both coaches turned loose the second and third teams in the final eight minutes. Seminole's biggest lead came in the final minutes when Eugene Nathan and Jimmy Gilchrist each hit field goals to run the margin to 33 points.

"I thought they'd handle our press better than that," said Marlette. "They're a better team than they showed. I don't know what was wrong with them. But we rebounded every missed shot."

Peterson could only speculate. "We spent a lot at Deland Friday (four-point loss)," he said. "We dragged tonight. We came out flat."

Seminole completely dominated the backboards as Wynn, Bryant and Michell each had seven caroms. Tracy Holloman and Hendricks had six apiece while Gilchrist and Nathan fetched four.

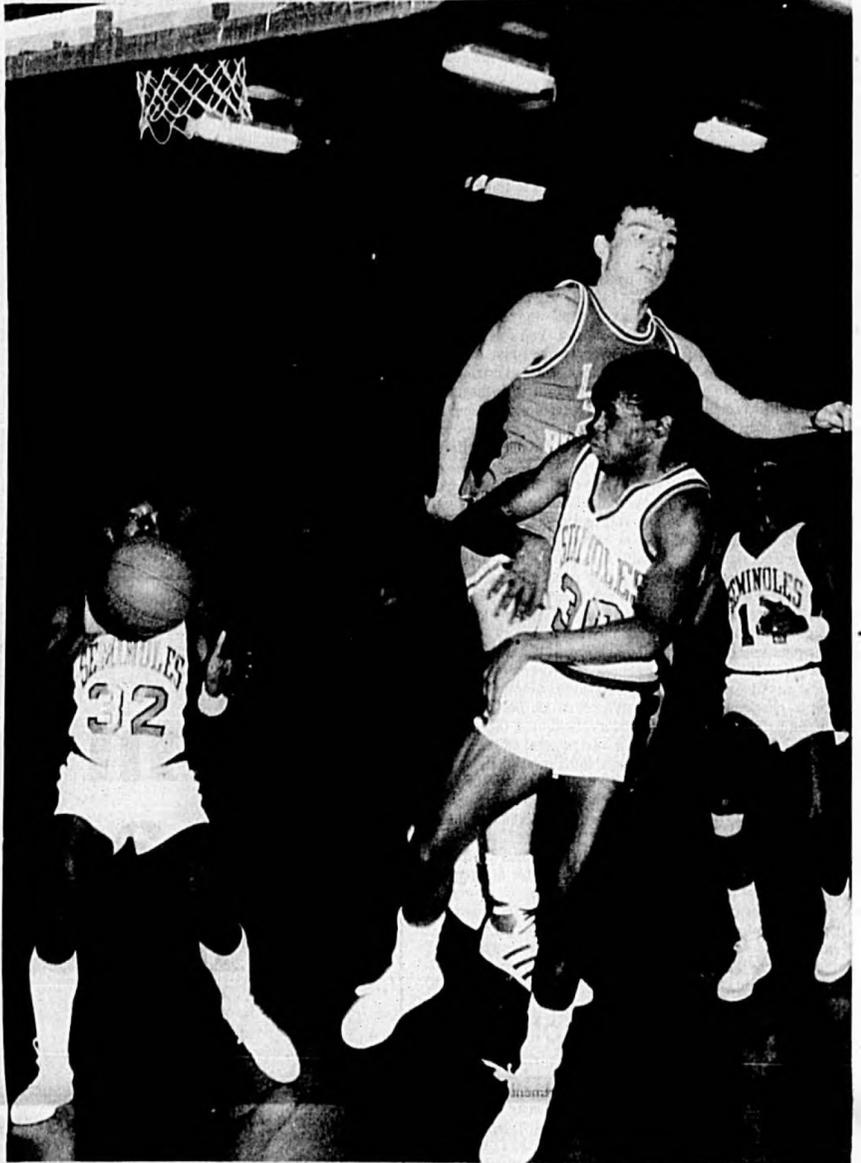

Bryant led the Seminole scorers with 18 points, although Hoffman took game-high honors with 20. Law added 12, Wynn eight and Mitchell seven. Law handed out seven assists.

In the junior varsity game, Seminole snapped a six-game losing streak with a 55-43 victory over the Patriots.

Sophomore Kenny Gordon hit three big buckets down the stretch and guard Sam Redding added three points as the Seminoles broke open a close game in the last two minutes.

Gordon had a game-high 22 points and 14 rebounds. Fred Brinson scored nine and Jo Jo McCloud added eight. Brinson and Ricky Whitaker had six boards apiece while McCloud, Terry Marshall and Leroy Richardson doled out three assists.

Mike Laughlin led the Patriots with 11 points.

their first action since being reinstated after disciplinary problems. "It's like that guy out there," said

Assistant Principal La Marr Richardson gesturing to a custodian with a broom. "They had to clean up their act."

Siebmann's Boot Beats Seminoles

There still isn't too much difference between the Seminole and Lake Mary soccer teams. But there is a difference and Mark Siebmann supplied it Tuesday night by booting in a penalty kick to give the Rams a 1-0 victory over the Tribe at Lake Mary High School.

"We probably played our best defensive game of the season," said coach Howard Hawkins about this hard-luck 1-7 Seminoles. "Our defense was fantastic but our inability to score cost us again."

Seminole travels to Port Orange today for a 4 o'clock game with Spruce Creek. Lake Mary, 6-3, hosts Lyman Friday at 8 p.m. The Lady Rams play Vero Beach St. Edwards at 8:30 p.m. while the Ram junior varsity takes on the Greyhounds at 5 p.m.

Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle, too, was pleased with his defenders. "Last time, I felt we were pretty lucky to win (2-1 on Dec. 17), but this time I felt we held our own," said McCorkle. "Mark Volchko did a good defensive job on Juan Falcon and Jose Delrosario shut off (leading scorer) Ricky Nooney."

While the Rams were silencing

Seminole's big guns, the 'Noles did likewise. Scott Meck shadowed Donald Kelly while Stan Bacon did the same to Lake Mary's Andre Sanders.

Lake Mary missed a good opportunity to score halfway through the first period when Stan In goalie Rob Cohen made a great, diving stop on a penalty kick by Kelly. Cohen is subbing for Dean Shoemaker who is sidelined with the flu.

Ten minutes later, the Tribe's Paul Griffin missed another scoring opportunity when his penalty kick hit the right post and bounced away.

The only goal came eight minutes into the second half when a Seminole player was flagged for touching the ball in the penalty area. Siebmann grounded the ball to Cohen's left to give Lake Mary a hard-earned 1-0 victory.

Cohen turned in 10 saves for the Seminoles while Mike Dunlap, subbing for injured Joe Dalton, had five saves for the Rams. — SAM COOK

Patrick Runs Lady Raiders Past Siena Heights

Seminole Community College basketball coach Sol Batoon didn't need to go to the lost and found to rediscover his Lady Raiders' fastbreak. He only had to look as far as point guard Mindy Patrick.

The former Lake Brantley cager took things into her own hands (five assists) Tuesday night, engineering a 93-45 rout over Siena Heights (Mich.) College at SCC.

"We haven't had the break for a while because of turnovers," said Batoon about the Lady Raiders sixth win in 13 games. "But Mindy (Patrick) did a superb job of handling the ball and running the break."

So superb that Valerie Roessler turned in a career-high 28 points as she hit an outstanding 11 of 13 field goals and 6 of 9 free throws.

"Valerie (Roessler) has been a consistent player all year. She really put it all together tonight," said Batoon about his 6-1 scorer.

The Raiders had several turnovers at the outset, but quickly regrouped to blow the Michigan visitors out of the gym. SCC went up, 36-22, at halftime.

In addition to running the offense, Patrick spearheaded a strong defensive effort with a whopping 17 steals as the Raiders continually harassed Siena into bad passes and violations.

The Raiders hit 38 of 73 shots for 52 percent. Tonight at 7:30, SCC takes on powerful North Carolina-Asheville.

Lake Mary Grapplers Rout Boone

Lake Mary's Bob Olson (161), Willie Green (170) and Virgil Grant (122) all recorded pins Tuesday night as the Rams routed Boone, 54-4, in prep wrestling action at Orlando.

The victory upped Lake Mary's dual meet record to 6-1-1 while the Braves fell to 0-7. Tonight at 8, the Rams host Oak Ridge.

After Lake Mary took the first two weight classes via forfeit, sophomore Ivan Carbia, wrestling up two classes at 115, throttled Craig Edwards, 21-2.

Tonight Soccer

4 p.m. Seminole at Spruce Creek. Coach Howard Hawkins' booters travel to Spruce Creek today for a match with the Hawks.

Ricky Nooney has been the main offensive weapon for the 'Noles all year while Paul Griffin and Brian Nully have kept Nooney productive with several good assists.

Wrestling

8 p.m. Oak Ridge at Lake Mary. The Rams' precocious wrestling team is only two years old, but its already knocking heads with the big boys.

After hammering Boone Tuesday night, Lake Mary looks for its seventh win in nine dual meets against the Pioneers tonight. The Rams have lost one and tied one.

Juniors Jack Likens (108), Robert Rawls (UNL) and Bob Olson (141) lead the Lake Mary attack. Likens has two championships already this season while Rawls has one.

Sophomore Ivan Carbia (101) and Sanford's Willie Green (170) join Ned Kolbjornsen (189) and Ed Ades (223) to give the Rams a solid nucleus. Green, who had three pins was Red Lobster Wrestler of the Week.

Martin Dons Yankees Pinstripes For 3rd Time

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hoping for improved fortunes in the American League East as well as increased box-office revenues, the New York Yankees Tuesday named Billy Martin to manage the club for the third time in eight years.

Twice hired and fired by principal owner George Steinbrenner, Martin was tabbed to replace Clyde King, King, who had been named manager last Aug. 4 after Gene Michael was fired, was returned to a position in the Yankee front office as a principal adviser to Steinbrenner.

Also, Steinbrenner said he had been fined $5,000 by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for remarks he made to Chicago White Sox owner Eddie Einhorn and Baltimore Orioles' owner Edward Bennett Williams. Steinbrenner termed the incident "unfortunate." The Yankees' owner said he had been provoked by remarks Einhorn and Williams made concerning New York's signing of free-agent outfielder Steve Kemp. Einhorn and Sox co-owner Jerry Reinsdorf were fined $2,500 apiece by Kuhn.

Martin, who was fired as Oakland's manager after last season with three years left on his contract, had his contract extended an additional two years with a substantial salary raise to approximately $500,000 a year.

"I'm happy to be back," Martin said. "This is where I started and this is where I'd like to end my career." Martin said he felt his relationship with Steinbrenner, which has been tempestuous in the past, would be much better in the future.

Reds Make Langdon 1st Pick

NEW YORK (UPI) — On the second go-around, things worked out perfectly for Leroy Langdon.

The 19-year-old, right-handed pitcher from Brevard Community College in Cocoa, Fla., was selected by the Cincinnati Reds as the No. 1 choice in baseball's 18th annual winter free-agent draft. Last year, he was picked by the Boston Red Sox but opted to remain in school.

"It's quite a surprise I was the top pick," said Langdon, adding that the Reds have been his favorite team over the years. "I've always wanted to play professional baseball ever since I can remember and now it's finally paid off."

Nets Jet Past Lakers, 110-96

United Press International
Nobody told the New Jersey Nets they couldn't outrun the Los Angeles Lakers.

So they beat the fast-breaking defending NBA champs at their own game, sprinting to a 110-96 rout Tuesday night for a team-record 10th straight victory. The triumph was played before a crowd of 20,149, the Nets' first sellout at the Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J.

Mickey Johnson, with a season-high 32 points, finished off many of the Nets' breaks while Buck Williams, with a season-high 21 rebounds and 21 points, usually started them.

Even Lakers' Coach Pat Riley was impressed. "I'm taking my hat off to New Jersey," said Riley, whose team had won nine of its previous 10 games. "They played an incredible game. We scored only two fast-break baskets in the second half and nobody ever did that to us before."

In other games, New York belted Golden State, 103-79, Philadelphia tamed Atlanta, 109-99, Phoenix dumped Chicago, 109-98, San Diego trimmed Houston, 105-97, San Antonio topped Dallas, 106-101, Utah whipped Kansas City, 108-98, and Denver downed Seattle, 131-119.

Hughes Sets Scoring Mark

United Press International
If at first you succeed — try it again.

And that's exactly what Edmonton's Pat Hughes did Tuesday night. He set an NHL record by scoring short-handed goals within a 25-second span of the second period to lead the Oilers to a 7-4 triumph over the St. Louis Blues.

In other games, Los Angeles blitzed Washington, 9-7, Montreal crushed Hartford, 8-4, and the New York Islanders topped Winnipeg, 4-1.

Seminole Hosts JV Tourney

Seminole High will be the site of the Fourth Annual Seminole County Junior Varsity Wrestling Tournament this Thursday with wrestling beginning at 5 p.m.

The tourney is sponsored by Burger Chef and teams competing include Seminole, Lake Mary, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley, Oviedo and Lyman. Last year Lake Brantley upset Lyman for the title. Lyman won the tourney the first two years.

Medlock's Free Toss Propels Lake Mary Past Bobcats, 82-81

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

According to Wymore Tech coach Calvin Lange, the Bobcats know only one speed, full throttle. Tuesday night the visiting Bobcats collided with the speedy Lake Mary Rams and the Rams came away with an 82-81 victory in a fast-paced game from the opening minutes.

Reggie Medlock hit one of two free throws with six seconds remaining in the game to ice the victory for Lake Mary whose record now stands at 8-3.

"This was really a good win for us," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson said. "All the kids did a good job and we had some real intensity on the boards."

For about the first seven minutes of the contest, it seemed the Rams would blow Wymore out of the gym. Lake Mary was on a runaway locomotive that finally crashed with the Rams ahead, 12-1.

Lake Mary built an 18-8 lead after the first quarter and, thanks to a three-point play by Donald Grayson, the Rams took a 39-27 lead into the locker room at half-time.

Lake Mary shot a blistering 64 percent in the first half on 18 of 28 shooting from the floor while Wymore Tech hit 11 of 37 shots for a frigid 30 percent.

The Rams continued to shoot well from the field in the second half, but managed to get off only nine shots in the third quarter, hitting six of them, while the Bobcats made 12 of 20 shots for 60 percent.

In fact, Wymore's run-and-gun game was working to near perfection as the Bobcats outscored Lake Mary, 29-14, in the third quarter and took a 56-53 lead into the final quarter of play.

The furious pace set in the first three quarters carried into the fourth as both teams traded baskets throughout the rest of the game.

Wymore Tech took its biggest lead, 60-56, early in the fourth quarter on a layup by Ken Cooper. Moments later, Lake Mary's Billy Dunn grabbed an offensive rebound and hit the follow up shot to tie the game at 60. It was Dunn's basket Saturday that nipped Hastings by two.

The game see-sawed until Lake Mary ran off three points on two free throws by Fred Miller and one by Grayson to take a 75-70 lead with 2:38 remaining.

The Bobcats didn't give in though and fought back to within two points, 81-79, with 12 seconds remaining.

Wymore then sent Medlock to the line for a one-and-one situation with six seconds left. Medlock canned the first shot to give the Rams an 82-79 lead.

Wymore hit a shot with one second left but it was too little, too late for the Bobcats.

"They (Wymore Tech) matched up well against us," Richardson said. "It could have been a blow out but they didn't crack."

For the night, Lake Mary hit 33 of 50 shots for a sizzling 66 percent while the Bobcats hit 36 of 60 shots for 45 percent.

Darryl Merthie took high scoring honors with 26 points for the Rams, Fred Miller added 19, Grayson netted 12 and Dunn chipped in eight.

The Bobcats had five players in double figures led by Cooper's 18 points, James Walker added 15, Toney Witherspoon 13, Darryl Harrison 11 and Gayron Hamilton had 10.

The Rams host Lake Brantley Thursday night at 8 with the Lake Mary girls varsity playing the 6:15 opener.

Late DeLand Field Goal Nips Greyhounds, 54-53

When Alexis Cleveland stepped to the free throw line with eight seconds remaining in Tuesday night's game at Lyman, and the Greyhounds holding a one-point lead, it appeared the 'Hounds were in pretty good shape. But, two missed free throws and seven seconds later, DeLand's Mark Carter threw in a desperation shot with one second remaining to give DeLand a 54-53 victory.

"After we missed the two free throws the ball bounced around and DeLand picked it up and threw the ball the length of the court," Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said. "The guy (Carter) was falling out of bounds and it looked like he travel'd."

Had it not been for that last-second shot, Lyman would be right in the thick of things in the Five Star Conference. The loss drops the 'Hounds conference mark to 3-3 (6-5 overall) while DeLand upped its Five Star record to 6-1 (10-5 overall).

"It was a close game all the way," Lawrence said. "I thought we played well and rebounded well."

The Greyhounds had a balanced scoring attack with Greg Pilot leading the way with 14 points, Rod Hillman added 13 and Cleveland tossed in 10. DeLand's Chase Brown led all scorers with 18 points.

Lyman travels to Spruce Creek Friday night for an important conference matchup with the Hawks.

Chargers' Defense Impresses Steelers

Everyone knows the San Diego Chargers put a lot of points up on the board — more than any other team in the league. But they also give up almost as many, which makes their defense into the butt of many jokes around the NFL.

Even the Pittsburgh Steelers, beaten, 31-28, by San Diego Sunday, came away enormously underwhelmed by the Chargers' defense. A couple of the Steelers said they thought the Dolphins would beat the Chargers in Miami this Sunday and when they were asked why, they answered by saying San Diego's defense.

Now this strikes straight at the heart of a man like Tom Bass, who happens to be a good man and an exceptionally capable one. He's also the defensive coordinator for the Chargers. But he doesn't get all upset and start kicking things every time he hears someone say San Diego doesn't win games on defense.

"That's true," he said amiably from San Diego Monday. "To an extent, anyway. But it's not true all the way down the line."

"... When we went on strike, I think it hurt our concentration a great deal. We had trouble getting back the discipline we had before when the players came back, but we are making steady progress."

The Chargers' defense took its worst beating in the final game of the strike-shortened season when the Los Angeles Raiders outlasted San Diego, 41-34.

Bass, however, doesn't think the Chargers' defense was that bad in Sunday's win in Pittsburgh.

"It came out in the Pittsburgh papers before the game that all the Steelers had to do was give the ball to (Franco) Harris, but their whole team made only

UCF Rips Rollins
Central Florida's Knights placed five players in double figures Tuesday night as they thrashed rival Rollins College, 93-68, in the Sunshine State Conference opener at the UCF gym before 2,876 fans.

The victory was the sixth straight for UCF against Rollins and upped the Knights series lead over the Tars to 14-9.

Dave Murray paced the Knight effort with 20 points while Ronnie Thornton (16) Terrence Stanley (14), Isaac McKinnon (10) and Dan Faison (10) joined him in double digits.

Ronnie Harris, a 6-6 center from Apopka, led all scorers with 21 points. Former Seminole High cager Glenn Stambaugh was limited to one basket.

Among other things, Tom Bass has a sense of humor.

Not long ago, a newsman, talking about the Chargers' defense, asked him if he would call it a defense that bends but doesn't break.

Bass, who plays tennis, thought that over a moment, then laughed and said: "Right now, all we're trying to do is break serve."

School To Be Named After Former School Board Member

A $2,849,000 elementary school scheduled to open in September in the Tusawilla area of Winter Springs has been officially named by the Seminole County School Board in honor of former school board member Allan F. Keeth.

How does it feel to have a school named after you? "Rather unnerving. I'm flattered and humbled," Keeth said. "I can hardly believe it. I thought they were kidding. There are a lot of other people associated with education in the county that are more deserving, but it's a real thrill and will make my mother proud."

Keeth found out about the action Tuesday in a call from his wife, Jerry, a teacher at Geneva Elementary School. The principal had been at the board meeting and when she got back to the school, announced the news over the loudspeaker.

The board unanimously approved a recommendation by County School Superintendent Robert Hughes that the facility being constructed by Graham Contracting Inc. of Orlando be called Allan F. Keeth Elementary School.

After 16 years on the board, Keeth was defeated in the primary election by Mrs. Jean Bryant, former board member, who later defeated Ken Patrick in a run-off election, ending her eight year hiatus from the board.

High Court Debates Ban On Contraceptive Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 100-year-old postal law banning the unsolicited advertising of contraceptives is before the Supreme Court to decide whether it unconstitutionally restricts free speech.

The justices will hear arguments today by contraceptive manufacturers who say the law unjustifiably bars them from conducting mass mailings of promotional material for birth-control devices.

The United States Postal Service is urging the high court to overturn a ruling that found the agency was violating free speech rights by enforcing the law prohibiting the controversial mailings.

The service says the 19th-century law, passed to protect citizens against literature and articles considered immoral, applies only to commercial or economically motivated speech. Commercial speech enjoys more limited First Amendment protection and may be regulated if Congress has a "substantial interest" in prohibiting a practice.

Congress has decided the law helps parents supervise the mail which falls into their children's hands, and protects unwilling recipients from possibly offensive material, the agency said.

The law imposes a "minimal burden" on free expression because it only bars unsolicited and mailed advertisements, the agency argued. Advertisers "remain free to promote contraceptives in a wide variety of ways."

Challengers claim the mailings convey "truthful information on important social issues — such as family planning and prevention of venereal disease" and are entitled to First Amendment protection even if they are economically motivated.

The Postal Service is defending the law against attack by the Young Drug Products Corp., a New Jersey manufacturer and distributor of prophylactics.

Kissing: Doc Says It's Good For You

ROME (UPI) — Kissing is good for your health and will make you live longer, a newspaper said in its daily health column.

Under a cartoon of a couple passionately pawing at each other while a doctor watches approvingly, Il Messaggero reported Tuesday the findings of a Peruvian doctor on the effect of kissing on humans.

Psychiatrist Hildebrando Salazar found kissing stimulates the heart, which gives more oxygen to the body's cells, keeping the cells "young and vibrant."

Salazar also found kissing produces antibodies in the human body that in the long run can protect the body against certain infections.

Double Taxation: 7 Cities To Review Sheriff's Budget

Seminole County commissioners will allow seven municipalities to review the sheriff department's budget for fiscal 1983-84 to check for instances of double taxation.

Commissioners agreed Tuesday to provide information to the cities by May 1 outlining their approach to the adoption of the budget.

Under the agreement the cities will complete their review by June 1.

The commissioners also agreed to notify the cities of any decisions that result from budget work sessions.

The seven cities — Sanford, Lake Mary, Winter Springs, Longwood, Casselberry, Oviedo and Altamonte Springs — filed a lawsuit last summer charging the county was receiving about $2.4 million annually in taxes from the cities for which the cities received no benefit.

But after several months of negotiations, the cities dropped all their claims against the county except for the sheriff department's road patrol. The cities said they paid $1.2 million for the road patrol but received no benefit.

As a result, representatives of the county and the cities agreed to the compromise allowing the cities to review county budget procedures.

In exchange for the county's promise to let the cities review the budget, they promised to withhold filing a lawsuit against the county.

The county's resolution to the cities also asks the state Legislature to address the double taxation issue. The legal definition of double taxation has never been clearly established, county officials said. — MICHAEL BEHA

Dollar Gaining Strength In Europe

LONDON (UPI) — The British pound, trading at a six-year low against the U.S. dollar, was steadier today but the dollar continued to rise against all the major European currencies. Gold prices also climbed.

The dollar surged to its highest point in London since 1976, with the pound opening at $1.5805 against Tuesday's closing price of $1.582.

A late rise in British bank lending rates and intervention by the Bank of England brought some relief to the pound, which has been battered by international fears of an imminent general election after Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's trip to the Falkland Islands.

Three of England's biggest banks raised their base lending rates by 1 percent to 11 percent Tuesday and a fourth — Midland Bank — followed Wednesday, hiking its rate from 10.25 percent to 11.

"The pound was much steadier when currency markets opened Wednesday," a dealer for Barclays Bank International said.

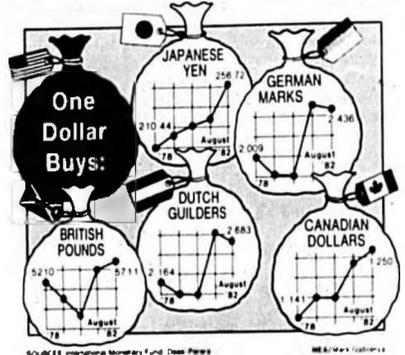

Elsewhere, the dollar advanced although it is still below its best on European markets.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 2.3565 marks from 2.344 and in Zurich, at 1.94125 Swiss francs from 1.9345.

The U.S. currency also advanced during opening trading in Paris and Brussels, selling for 6.66875 French francs, up from 6.6525, and 48.90 Belgian francs, up from 48.50.

The dollar jumped against the lira in Milan, opening up at 1,355.625 from 1,345.45.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 231 yen, up from 227.60. Gold opened higher again after heavy trading Tuesday that left the metal at its highest level since September. In Zurich, gold opened at $481.50 an ounce, up from Tuesday's closing of $479.50. In London, it climbed to $485.00, up from $481.50.

The dollar has been making a strong and continuing recovery in world markets. It is at a high point for the last five years against most major currencies. The dollar's strength is a drag on U.S. trade — making American products more expensive abroad — but a boon to American tourists.

Cook Of The Week

Cool Weather Calls For Hearty Soup

By LOU CHILDERS
Herald Correspondent

Let the mercury dip, and Nancy Smith of Sanford is ready to make some scrumptious homemade soup. A native of Connecticut, Nancy is fond of a northern favorite, U.S. Senate Bean Soup.

The Smiths moved to Sanford five and one-half years ago. Bill, her husband, works for the Seminole County School Board, and Nancy is a secretary at the American Produce Exchange in Sanford. Their children, Bonnie, 12, and Billy, 8, were excited when Nancy's mom, Ann Pia, their grandmother, moved to Casselberry last year.

Another all time favorite soup that Nancy makes, Vegetable Beef, comes from a recipe handed down from her mother. Nancy uses "a chunk of soup meat" which is a big piece of beef chuck with a bone.

Nancy loves to read old recipes. Mrs. Pia, who saved all of the recipes, menus and food advice brochures that the A&P Tea Company gave its customers during the Depression years, passed them on to Nancy recently. One interesting issue dated March 25, 1937, shows how "a family of 4 can enjoy Easter dinner for $5.50!" A comparable circular tells "How a family of four can live well on $13 to $15 a week for food."

One of the unusual recipes Nancy has from these oldie-but-goodies is Strawberry Puff Pudding.

Nancy also reads recipes on boxes. "I found a wonderful recipe for Jelly Roll on a cake flour box," she explains. "I really surprised me how easy it was to make because I always thought jelly roll cakes would break when you rolled them up, but they don't."

Nancy adds that her family really appreciates it when she makes a jelly roll for them and she explains, "I usually make jelly rolls to take to a church supper, and by the time our family makes it through the line, the jelly roll dish is empty!"

U.S. SENATE BEAN SOUP

2 1/2 cups Northern beans (dried)
1/2 pound salt pork
1 large onion, minced
Wash beans in cold water removing any foreign particles. Pour off water. Put washed beans in slow cooker and add 5 cups of water. Let beans soak overnight. Turn on slow cooker in morning allowing beans to cook all day, adding cubed salt pork. Two hours before ready to serve, add onions and salt and pepper to taste.

VEGETABLE BEEF SOUP

1 chuck soup meat (beef chuck with bone)
3 quarts water
2 parsnips
6 onions
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 carrots
1/2 cup celery tops
4 tablespoons tomato sauce
salt to taste
1/4 cup rice

Put meat and water in large soup pot and bring to boil. Boil about 15 minutes. Cut up parsnips, carrots, celery, onions and parsley and add to soup along with tomato sauce. Cover and simmer 45 minutes to an hour. Add salt to taste. Add rice and continue simmering 20 minutes longer. Let soup stand 1 to 2 hours. Skim off excess fat and remove meat. Cut meat into bite-sized pieces and return to soup. Reheat when ready to serve.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

2 tablespoons cooking oil
small chicken, cut up (about 1 1/2 pounds)
1 bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 green pepper, sliced
1 teaspoon grated parmesan cheese
1 large onion, quartered
2 15-ounce cans tomato sauce

In large pan place chicken and onion. Brown in oil for 15 minutes turning to cook evenly. Pour off any excess oil and chicken fat. Add tomato sauce and spices. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Let stand 15 minutes and remove any excess fat floating on top. Serve with rice. Yield: 3 or 4 servings.

JELLY ROLL

3 eggs

1 cup granulated sugar
1-3 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup berry jam
powdered sugar

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Line jelly roll pan (15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1-inch) with aluminum foil or waxed paper, grease the paper with shortening. Beat eggs in small mixer bowl until thick and lemon colored, about 5 minutes. Pour eggs into large mixer bowl. Beat in granulated sugar slowly. Blend in water and vanilla on low speed. Add flour, baking powder and salt gradually, beating just until batter is smooth. Pour into prepared pan, spreading batter to corners.

Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean (12 to 15 minutes). Loosen cake from edges of pan and invert on towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Carefully remove foil or paper; trim off stiff edges of cake if necessary. While hot, roll cake and towel from narrow end. Cool on wire rack. When completely cool, unroll cake; remove towel. Beat jam slightly with fork to soften and spread over cake. Roll cake and sprinkle outside with powdered sugar. Yield: 10 servings.

STRAWBERRY PUFF PUDDING

1 pint strawberries
3/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons tapioca
2 eggs
6 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons sifted cake flour

Cook crushed berries with sugar and tapioca for 5 minutes. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, add sugar and beat again. Beat egg whites until foamy, add salt and cream of tartar, beat until stiff, but not dry. Fold in yolks, then flour gradually. Place fruit in casserole, pour batter over. Bake in a 325 degree oven for 40 minutes. Serve cold with or without cream.

Nancy Smith puts the finishing touches on Jelly Roll which she says is "easy to make."

Parents Hurt Over Son Dropping Family Name

DEAR ABBY: Our 25-year-old son, who is graduating from law school in a few months, is being married soon. His fiancée is a college graduate, and they are both intelligent adults.

Our son just informed us that he plans to take his fiancée's name rather than have her take his name! Needless to say, we are shocked. My husband feels that our son is disgracing our family and abandoning his heritage by doing such a thing. Our name is not difficult to spell or pronounce. It is Orlikoff. Hers is Reilly.

Our son explained that he may one day pursue a career in politics and Reilly would be better than Orlikoff because Orlikoff sounds Russian, and people would be more inclined to vote for a candidate named Reilly.

Abby, have you ever heard of a man taking his wife's name? My husband I are so hurt over this we may not even attend the wedding.

PROUD ORLIKOFFS

DEAR PROUD: Yes, I have heard of a man taking his wife's name. Please accept your son's decision with grace and attend his wedding. If you refuse, you will surely alienate him. I can understand your disappointment, but your son is an adult and free to make his own decisions.

DEAR ABBY: I have a

Dear Abby

part-time job delivering parcels to homes. Sometimes it takes a very long time to locate an address because half the houses on a street are not numbered anywhere that's visible from the street.

I keep wondering what would happen if some of these people needed the police, an ambulance or a fireman in a hurry.

I hope you think this is important enough to print.

D.H.

DEAR D.H.: I do. Readers, if your address cannot be easily read from the street, you could lose more than a parcel!

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for you! Just keep telling people that there is no excuse for failing to write a thank-you note.

I have three children, ages 5, 8 and 10. My job as a parent is to teach my children good habits. When a gift arrives, we have a rule at our house. If it's something to wear, it is not worn until a thank-you note is written. If it's a toy, it may not be played with until a thank-you note is written. If it's a check or money, it may not be banked or spent until a thank-you note is written.

My children have been writing their own thank-you notes since they were 4. (I guided their tiny hands, but they "wrote" the notes, and I addressed the envelopes.) The older ones do it by themselves now.

The writing is not always perfect and neither is the spelling, but the gratitude is theirs, and it is sincere.

Children cannot be expected to know what they have not been taught.

High-Fiber Foods Combine Taste Appeal With Good Nutrition

Adding more fiber to your diet can be very simple and tasty. Breads, main and side dishes, desserts and nutritious snacks can all play a part in providing dietary fiber.

Not all foods have fiber — even in their raw, unprocessed state. Only foods from plant sources have dietary fiber. There is no dietary fiber in meat, fish, poultry, eggs or milk. However, there is fiber in a wide range of foods, including fruits, vegetables, cereals, nuts, seeds and legumes.

Like a supporting cast, vegetables, salads and other side dishes serve to complement the leading element or main dish in a menu. Appetizing and colorful accompaniments are not only an important source of nutrients essential in a well-rounded diet but also a significant source of dietary fiber, especially when bran cereals are used to add crunch to a topping or flavor to a casserole.

Stuffed Eggplant Italiano, with 5.6 grams of dietary fiber per serving, is a delicious way to introduce the beautiful eggplant to those who are unaccustomed to its versatility.

STUFFED EGGPLANT ITALIANO

- 1 medium-sized eggplant (about 1 lb.)
- 1-3 cup all-bran cereal
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms (2 to 3 oz.)
- 1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
- 1 small garlic clove, finely chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
- dash pepper
- 1-3 cup shredded mozzarella cheese

1. Cut eggplant in half lengthwise. Place halves, cut side down, in shallow baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees F for 15 minutes. Remove from oven. Cool slightly.

2. Scoop out pulp, leaving 1/4-inch shell. Place shells, cut side up, in baking pan. Coarsely chop pulp. Combine with remaining ingredients except mozzarella cheese. Fill eggplant shells, pressing firmly. Cover with foil. Pierce foil in several places to allow steam to escape.

3. Bake at 350 degrees F about 40 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Remove foil and sprinkle with mozzarella cheese. Bake, uncovered, about 2 minutes longer or until cheese melts. Cut each half into 2 pieces to serve. Yield: 4 servings. PER SERVING: 150 Calories, 5.6 grams dietary fiber

While flavor and variety are often primary concerns when choosing the menu's main dish, it is just as important to consider its nutrient, calorie and dietary fiber content. A successful new main dish may feature a familiar food with a flavor or texture twist. You'll be pleased to present a tasty new recipe to the family that is not only attractive and nutritious but also easy and quick to prepare like Cheese-and-Meat Balls with Savory Onion Sauce.

CHEESE-AND-MEAT BALLS

- 1/2 cup all-bran cereal
- 1 egg
- 1-3 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 pound lean ground beef
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese

1. In medium-size mixing bowl, combine cereal, egg, milk and pepper. Mix well. Let stand about 5 minutes or until cereal is softened.

2. Add ground beef and cheese, mixing until well combined. Shape into 1-inch meatballs. Place in single layer in greased, shallow baking pan.

3. Bake at 400 degrees F about 10 minutes or until browned. Remove from oven and immediately loosen meatballs from pan. Serve with Savory Onion Sauce over noodles, if desired. Yield: about 2 1/2 dozen meatballs, 6 servings.

PER SERVING: (without Savory Onion Sauce or noodles): 160 Calories, 2.3

grams dietary fiber
SAVORY ONION SAUCE
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup margarine or butter

1/4 cup all-purpose flour
dash pepper
1 can (10-1/4 oz.) condensed beef broth soup

1 cup water
2 tablespoons sherry
1. In medium-size frypan, cook onion in margarine over low heat until tender. Stir in flour and pepper. Cook until bubbly and lightly browned, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

2. Stir in condensed soup and water. Increase heat to medium and cook until mixture boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Stir in sherry. Serve over Cheese-and-Meat Balls. Yield: about 2 cups.

PER SERVING: 1-3 cup: 100 Calories, 0.2 grams dietary fiber

Research Shows Onion Now Widely Hailed For Health Benefits

For centuries, the onion was considered one of the world's most sacred vegetables. More recently, the vegetable has been unjustifiably abused and neglected.

Although known to have medicinal value since the earliest times, it is now being widely hailed for its health benefits as a result of scientific research.

The following recipes have been kitchen tested by the National Onion Association.

STUFFED ONIONS

4 very large or 6 medium onions
3 tbsp. butter
1/4 pound bacon, finely diced
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/2 cup stale bread crumbs
1/2 pound mushrooms, finely chopped pinch of nutmeg
salt and freshly-ground pepper

1 cup bouillon or stock
Peel the onions, cut off about a quarter from the top and cut across in root end of each. Drop in a pan of boiling water and simmer for five minutes. Drain thoroughly and remove the centers, leaving a double thickness at the sides and bottom. Chop the tops and centers finely and stew with the bacon in one tablespoon of the butter for fifteen minutes. The bacon should be limp and the onions soft and yellow.

Stir in the parsley and bread crumbs. Place the remaining butter in the pan, add the mushrooms, and stir over high heat for two minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste and gently but firmly mound into the onions.

Place in a covered casserole, pour stock around the onions and bake, covered, at 375 degrees for about an hour, basting frequently for the first fifteen minutes. Serves four to six.

PEANUT-ONION CASSE-ROLE

3 cups cooked, sliced onions
1 cup ground roasted peanuts
2 cups white sauce
1 cup bread crumbs
2 tsp. melted butter
Place alternate layers of onions and peanuts in baking dish. Cover with white sauce and top with bread crumbs mixed with melted butter. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until crumbs are golden brown — about 20 minutes. Serves 8.

SAMBAL SHRIMP 'N' ONIONS

1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
2 tbsp. vegetable oil
2 cloves garlic, chopped
1 slice fresh ginger, chopped or 1/2 tsp. ground ginger
2 tsp. chili powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 pound shrimp, shelled, deveined
1-3 cup Amaretto
2 tsp. lemon juice cooked rice (optional)
In large skillet heat oil; saute onion, garlic, ginger, chili powder, and salt, stirring constantly to prevent spices from sticking. Add shrimp; cook about 3 minutes until pink and tender. Stir in Amaretto and lemon juice; heat. Serve with rice, if desired. Four servings.

BEEF FUJI

1 small onion, sliced
2 tbsp. vegetable oil
1 pound beef steak (round, chuck, blade, or flank), 1 to 1 1/2 inches thick, cut into thin strips
1 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced into "T" shapes.
1/2 cup chicken or beef broth
1/4 cup soy sauce
1 tsp. cornstarch in 2 tbsp. water
1 8-oz. can bamboo shoots, sliced
1 8-oz. can water chestnuts, sliced
3 scallions, cut into 1-inch lengths
1 6-oz. pkg. frozen, defrosted pea pods
1 1-lb. can sliced peaches, drained
Heat oil in wok or skillet and stir-fry beef, mushrooms, and onion for 4 to 5 minutes. Add broth, soy sauce, and cornstarch mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until it thickens. Add vegetables and peaches. Continue heating until heated through. Serve at once with rice. Four servings.

STUFFED ONION SALAD

4 to 6 large sweet onions
1 8-oz. package cream cheese
2 tbsp. deviled ham
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. finely chopped pimento

1/4 tsp. salt
few grains pepper
Peel onions. With apple corer remove centers of onions. Reserve center portions for use in other dishes. Beat cream cheese until soft and creamy. Blend in deviled ham. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Fill centers of onions with cream cheese mixture. Chill several hours or until cream cheese centers are firm. To serve, slice onions and place on lettuce leaves. 6 to 8 servings.

CREAMED ONIONS
12 medium-sized white onions

1/4 cup butter or margarine
3 tbsp. flour
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper

1 cup light cream
1 cup milk
Peel onions; cook in a little

Create Special Cake Frosting

How long has it been since you made a cake from "scratch"? Here is white cake you can adorn with your favorite fillings between layers, such as custard, chocolate or a coconut-filled frosting.

Serve with strawberries, raspberries or pineapple and ice cream.

COCONUT CAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
1 tablespoon baking powder

1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup butter or margarine, softened
2 1/2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
1 3/4 cups sugar
6 egg whites, unbeaten
3/4 cup milk

Sift flour with baking powder and salt; set aside. In large mixing bowl, cream butter and vanilla extract with sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg whites, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour. Mix batter 1/2 minute. Turn into two well-greased, lightly floured, 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pans for 10 minutes. Turn out onto racks and cool thoroughly. Spread your favorite frosting with coconut between layers and over top and sides of cake.

Exercising To Help Improve Bustline

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am very self-conscious about my measurements. My figure is OK except for my breasts which are entirely too small. They have always been that way. I'm 28 years old, and otherwise reasonably attractive but I would be a lot happier if I had some cleavage.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Tell us about the spread of staph. We know it usually begins in hospitals. What are the ways of catching it from another person? What about handling clothing belonging to someone who has it? Also, what are the early symptoms if one is infected? What about filthy restrooms where the floors and stools are not cleaned or sanitized for many months?

DEAR READER - There are several strains of staphylococcal bacteria. These bacteria normally inhabit the skin and mucus membranes. When the skin is broken or injured in some way that may allow the bacteria on your skin to enter and start a localized infection. They may also invade a hair follicle causing a furuncle or boil.

Such bacteria may also cause staphylococcal pneumonia and other infections. The infection from one person to another is usually spread by personal contact. That is why washing the hands after handling an infected person is important. Hexachlorophene will kill these bacteria. Washing the hands after handling clothing, bedding or towels of anyone who has skin lesions from staph is also important. The clothing and articles should be all right after washing and use of a regular dryer.

The exercises you need to do are those that contract your muscles over the front of your chest. The breast sits on these muscles. The enlargement of the chest muscles behind the breast will set the breast forward and increase your bustline, even if your breasts are small. But this doesn't enlarge the breast. If you develop good posture - avoiding rounding of your shoulders - that helps too.

These points about what you can do are discussed in more detail in The Health Letter 18-12, Breast Basics, which I am sending you. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge game information including North-South and East-West hands, vulnerable status, dealer, and opening lead.

America's top players, their six children and two sons-in-law. Jack Kennedy, also a life master, and the Kennedy children didn't get to go, but Jack was in daily touch by telephone. These days women seem to like to play no-trump as well as men and here we see Carol at three no-trump. She won the club lead with her queen over East's jack and led a heart to dummy's 10 and East's queen. East returned the nine of clubs to dummy's ace. The 10 of spades was led and covered by East's queen. Carol won and led her last heart. West discarded a diamond. Carol played dummy's ace and gave up on hearts. She could only come to eight tricks even if spades broke 3-3, but she wanted nine. She led dummy's queen of diamonds and when West let it hold, Carol went out for everything that wasn't nailed down. She led the jack of the suit. West took the ace and led a diamond back. He was sure that Carol still held the 10 and three of clubs. Now Carol scored an over-trick. Making three would have been a near top, making four was a top. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

It's Teatime: Entertain At Elegant Fete

Yes, indeed! All over the country, in the finest hotels and restaurants, the hours between three and five are being devoted to serving that most gracious and relaxed of meals — afternoon tea. In the elegant, flower-filled lounge of the Mayfair Regent Hotel on New York City's Park Avenue, for instance, it's the time to relax with friends and enjoy quiet conversation "over the teacups." Guests are offered a choice of teas, brewed in individual white teapots, carefully kept warm under pretty tea cozies. Sandwiches are made with the thinnest of breads, scones are accompanied by an individual jar of strawberry jam and a little crock of "hard" whipped cream. A selection of luscious cakes is also available, including a delectable pear tart.

Afternoon tea is a delightful way to entertain in your own home. Do it on a weekend or holiday after the workaday week is over. Get out your Sunday-best china and linens; splurge on some pretty flowers. Refreshments can be as simple or as elaborate as you wish. Serve traditionally paper-thin sandwiches filled with cucumber slices and watercress sprigs or spread with anchovy paste.

Or break with tradition and serve an array of open-faced canape-style sandwiches. Either kind should start out with the perfect slice for tea sandwiches — Pepperidge Farm Very Thin Bread — white and whole wheat — and just right tea sandwiches. Directions for these eye-catching, palate-pleasing tidbits follow.

For the piece de resistance you couldn't do better than to reproduce the Mayfair's pear tart. Start with a sheet of frozen puff pastry to make a flaky tart shell. This is then filled with a creamy custard, topped with fresh pear slices and glazed with apricot preserves.

Make sure that the tea you serve is freshly made, hot and fragrant. Start with a good quality tea to ensure that you'll have a brew that relaxes and revives at the same time. Just follow the simple rules below to bring out the fine qualities and full flavor of the particular tea you choose.

THE PERFECT POT OF TEA

Use a teapot, preheating it by rinsing it out with hot water. Bring freshly drawn cold tap water to a full rolling boil. Put the tea (one teabag or one teaspoon of loose tea per serving) into warmed teapot.

Pour the bubbling water (about 5½ ounces per serving) over the tea.

Cover and let stand 3 to 5 minutes. Remove teabags and stir before pouring. If you like tea less strong, add a little hot water after the brewing period.

Serve with milk (not cream) or with lemon slices, and sugar to taste.

FRENCH FRESH PEAR TART

1 frozen puff pastry sheet
Yolks of three large eggs
1-3rd cup sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 ripe pear, peeled, cored, halved and thinly sliced crosswise
1-3rd cup apricot preserves, strained and heated
Thaw puff pastry for 20 minutes, then unfold. On a lightly floured surface, roll one sheet to a 10½x17½ inch rectangle. Trim edges so rectangle measures an even 10x17 inches. From one short end cut two 1¼ inch wide strips. From a long side, cut four 1¼ inch wide strips. Moisten the top of all the pastry strips and a 1¼ inch wide border around the outside of the pastry rectangle with water. Arrange pastry strips in two layers around edges of rectangle, moist strips down, cutting when necessary, to fit. Press firmly with fingers; then press edges with tines of a fork to seal. Using a sharp knife, make shallow diagonal slashes ½ inch apart around pastry border. Transfer tart shell to baking sheet and prick the inside very well with the tines of a fork. Line with wax paper and fill with rice or dried beans. Freeze 30 minutes. Bake in a preheated 425 degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes or until puffed and golden. Remove, discard wax paper and rice and cool shell completely.

In a bowl, beat egg yolks, sugar and flour together until smooth. In a medium sized saucepan, over moderately high heat, bring milk to a boil. Stirring constantly with a wire whisk, gradually add milk to egg mixture. Return egg-milk mixture to pan, add vanilla and heat over moderately low heat for 5 to 7 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and is the consistency of a thick pudding. Pour immediately into a bowl and put a sheet of plastic wrap directly on the surface of the cream. Chill at least 1 hour or until very cold.

Spread cream filling evenly over the inside of the baked tart shell. Top with pear slices and brush with apricot preserves to glaze. Refrigerate for 2 to 3 hours and serve. Makes 1 tart, 8 servings.

TEA SANDWICHES

Using a sharp knife, cut crusts off very thin white and whole wheat bread. Cut bread slices into ovals, diamonds, triangles, squares and other fancy shapes. Top with any of the following:

— Spread with cream cheese and top with red salmon caviar.

— Spread with cream cheese and top with a thin slice of smoked salmon and a sprig of dill.

— Spread with cream cheese or butter and top with sieved egg yolk, black lumpfish caviar and sieved egg white arranged in a stripe pattern.

— Spread with butter and top with thin-slices of cucumber and/or tomato; sprinkle with salt and pepper.

— Spread with Blue Cheese Butter and top with thin-sliced red radishes and capers.

Blue Cheese Butter: Mix ¼ cup softened butter with 4 ounces crumbled blue cheese. Mix until smooth.

— Spread with Herbed Watercress Butter and top with sliced cherry tomatoes and a sprig of watercress or thin pieces of smoked salmon.

Herbed Watercress Butter: In a food processor, put ¼ cup softened butter, 1 cup packed watercress leaves and 3, 3 inch long pieces of scallion or green onion. Cover and process until smooth. Add salt and pepper to taste.

— Spread with Strawberry Cream Cheese and fresh strawberries.

Strawberry Cream Cheese: Beat ¼ cup strawberry preserves with 6 ounces softened cream cheese.

— Spread with Ham and Almond Pate and top with sliced black olives and a sprig of dill.

Ham and Almond Pate: Put ¼ cup chopped almonds, ¼ pound boiled ham, 3 ounces softened cream cheese, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 drops Tabasco sauce and 2 to 3 tablespoons sour cream into food processor. Cover and process until smooth.

— Spread with Gingered Cream Cheese and top with kiwi-fruit slices.

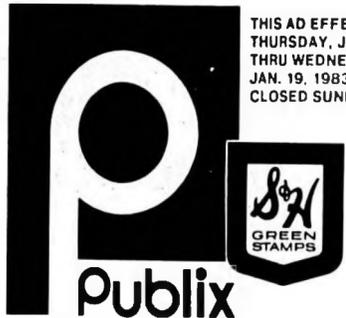

Gingered Cream Cheese: Mix 3 ounces softened cheese with 1-½ tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger and 1 tablespoon ginger syrup.

— Spread with Curry-Chutney Butter and top with a piece of thin-sliced boiled ham.

Curry-Chutney Butter: Mix ¼ cup softened butter with ¼ teaspoon curry powder and 1-½ tablespoons chopped chutney.

French Fresh Pear Tart using frozen puff pastry is the perfect piece de resistance to serve at a tea. Or break tradition and serve trays of tiny appetizing open-faced tea sandwiches. Use your Sunday-best china, linens and, of course, splurge on a dainty floral arrangement.

Filling Cobb Salad and lettuce hearts are popular main dishes for women and men watching their weight.

Cobb Salad Light Main Dish Meal

With an eye on the scales, more men and women are enjoying main dish salads for lunch or light suppers. Use a variety of greens, such as Iceberg lettuce, Romaine, watercress, spinach and escarole, rinsed and dried. Pour salad dressing over greens at the last minute and toss with just enough dressing to coat the leaves lightly.

COBB SALAD

- 1/2 head Iceberg lettuce (about 2 cups), washed, well-drained
- 1/2 head Romaine lettuce (about 2 cups), washed, well-drained
- 1 bunch watercress, washed and trimmed
- 2 small tomatoes, cut in wedges
- 1 medium ripe avocado, peeled and thinly sliced
- 2 cups cooked, diced chicken
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
- 1/2 pound bacon, cooked, crumbled
- 2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
- 1 tablespoon chopped chives
- Fresh Lemon Dressing

Tear lettuce into bite-size pieces. In large salad bowl (preferably glass), combine lettuce with watercress. Arrange wedges of tomato and avocado slices around edge of bowl; spoon chicken into center of bowl. Arrange egg slices around chicken; sprinkle bacon, blue cheese and chives over all. Serve with Fresh Lemon Dressing. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

FRESH LEMON DRESSING

- 1 cup vegetable oil
 - 1-3rd cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
 - 1 clove minced, fresh garlic
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- In small bowl, combine all ingredients; mix well. Serve over Cobb Salad.

LETTUCE HEARTS WITH AVOCADO DRESSING

- 2 avocados, vary ripe
 - 6 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
 - 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 - 3 cloves fresh garlic, mashed
 - 1/4 teaspoon chili powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 head Iceberg lettuce, cut in 6 wedges
- In small bowl, mash avocados with fork. Add lemon juice, oil, garlic, chili powder and salt; mix well. Spoon over lettuce wedges. This kitchen tested recipe makes 6 servings or (2 cups dressing).

Casserole Is Delightfully Different

For something delightfully different, give Candleglow Casserole a try.

This flavorful buffet dish combines both hard-cooked and straight-from-the-shell eggs, cottage and mozzarella cheeses, spinach noodles and zesty Italian seasonings for a bountifully nutritious and cheerfully colorful casserole.

CANDLEGLOW CASSEROLE

- 1 package (7 oz.) spinach noodles, cooked and drained
- 1 cup diced, cooked turkey, chicken or ham, optional
- 5 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup (8 oz.) small curd cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves, crushed

In greased 12 x 7 x 2-inch baking pan or dish, layer 1-3 of the noodles, turkey, if desired, sliced eggs and mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers twice. Beat together 3 eggs, cottage cheese, milk and seasonings until well blended. Pour over layers. Cover and bake in preheated 350 degrees F. oven 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking until cheese is lightly browned, 5 to 10 minutes. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Note: to hard-cook, put eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand covered in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller.) Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

Sauerbraten: A Real Classic Revisited

Sunny Sauerbraten gives a Rhenish specialty a wonderful, stick-to-your-ribs flavor. It starts with a piquant sauce, made by simmering Florida orange juice, vinegar, onion, pickling spice, peppercorns and bay leaves for a few minutes. When it cools, the sauce is poured over the beef, which then marinates for two to four days. This gives the roast time to absorb all of the rich flavor from the marinade while also tenderizing the beef. After this prolonged pampering, the meat is browned and then cooked slowly in the marinade for three hours, becoming meltingly tender.

The gravy is the superb soul of Sunny Sauerbraten. The marinade is strained and defatted, then thickened slightly and combined with brown sugar, ginger snap crumbs, raisins and Florida orange juice. Sweet and sour, its distinctive and sparkling zestiness makes it a winner.

And while your family is raving about the dinner, give yourself a pat on the back for the vitamin C bonus they're getting from the Florida citrus. It will help the family ward off all those pesky winter infections and keep you smiling with its sunshine taste till spring.

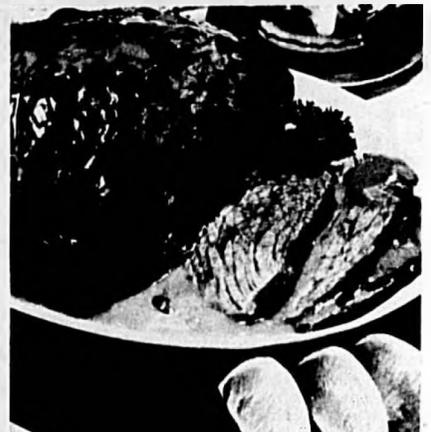

SUNNY SAUERBRATEN

- 5 pounds boneless bottom round, chuck or rump roast
- 2 1/2 cups Florida orange juice, divided
- 1 cup wine vinegar
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 tablespoon pickling spice

- 10 peppercorns
- 3 bay leaves
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup ginger snap crumbs
- 1/2 cup raisins
- Orange sections

Pierce meat in several places with a fork; place in large, shallow, glass dish. In medium saucepan combine 2 cups orange juice, vinegar, onion, pickling spice, peppercorns and bay leaves; bring to a boil. Simmer about 4 minutes. Cool; pour over meat. Cover. Refrigerate 2 to 4 days, turning occasionally. Remove meat from marinade; pat dry with paper towels. Reserve marinade. Heat oil in heavy kettle or Dutch oven; brown meat on both sides. Add marinade. Cover, cook 3 to 3 1/2 hours, or until meat is tender, turning occasionally.

Remove meat to heated platter; keep warm. Strain marinade; remove fat. Return marinade to kettle. Combine flour with remaining 1/2 cup orange juice; mix until smooth. Slowly stir flour mixture into marinade; cook, stirring constantly, until gravy boils and thickens. Blend in brown sugar, salt, ginger snaps and raisins. Cook 1 minute longer. Garnish meat with orange sections and serve with gravy. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Sunny Sauerbraten is laced with a piquant sauce made with Florida orange juice.

Microwave Magic

Use Oven For Variety Of Cooking

Many readers may have received a microwave oven as a gift and now are confronted with the operation of it and understanding this new method of food preparation. This column, I hope, will aid you in using your equipment more efficiently and inspire you to try many different kinds of foods and recipes using your microwave.

Use your microwave oven for more than defrosting and reheating foods. Good results are possible for roasting, simmering, cooking and baking. The beginner should: use simple, easy microwave recipes, use appropriate microwave utensils, experiment and make notes about your results, enroll in a microwave cooking class taught by a knowledgeable and experienced microwave instructor and start a file of microwave recipes.

This Tuna Noodle Casserole is an old familiar one that can be easily prepared by a new microwave.

TUNA NOODLE CASSEROLE

- 4 cups uncooked medium egg noodles
 - 1 can (6 1/2 oz.) tuna, drained
 - 1 can condensed cream of celery soup
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1 can mushroom stems and pieces, strained
 - 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 cup coarsely crushed potato chips
1. Cook noodles on stove top as directed on package. Drain

- well.
2. Combine all ingredients except potato chips in a 2 quart glass baking dish. Mix well. Cover with plastic wrap.
 3. Microwave 100 percent power 6-8 minutes, or until heated through.
 4. Remove covering and sprinkle with crushed potato chips. Return to the microwave.
 5. Microwave 100 percent power, uncovered, for 1-1 1/2 minutes or until hot.
- Another easy basic recipe is this Meat Balls and Tomato Sauce. The sauce can also be used as a topping for pasta or vegetables.

MEAT BALLS AND TOMATO SAUCE

- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 2 cans (16 oz.) crushed tomatoes

- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon thyme
 - 1 pound ground beef
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 egg
 - 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1. Place garlic, onion and oil in a 2 quart glass casserole. Cover and microwave 100 percent power for 3 minutes. Stir in tomatoes, tomato sauce and seasonings. Cover and microwave at 50 percent power for 38-40 minutes.
 2. Combine ground meat and remaining ingredients. Mix well. Shape mixture into balls 1-1 1/2 inch in diameter. Uniform size and shape is important for even cooking. Arrange on a rack or round shallow dish. Cover with wax paper; microwave at 100 percent power for 4 minutes. Add partially cooked meat balls to tomato sauce in large casserole. Cover with wax paper or casserole cover and microwave at 100 percent power for 2 minutes, reduce power to 50 percent power and microwave 12-14 minutes.
- Microwave hint: Use minimum times and check; if food is cooked, no need to give more cooking time. Factors involved in cooking time variables are: shape, density, amount of moisture and temperature of the food.
- Next week's column: Kitchen wraps and microwave usage.

Tuna Treats Take On New Look, Taste

Tuna sandwiches, the working mother's standby, take on a new look and taste with youth-oriented sandwich makings. These combination sandwiches are high in essential nutrients growing youngsters need.

- TUNA GOODY HOUSE
- 1 can (6 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
 - 1/4 cup chopped celery
 - 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
 - 1/2 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
 - 1 medium zucchini
 - 4 1/2 slices whole-wheat bread
 - 3 raw broccoli buds
 - 1 cup toasted sliced almonds
- In medium bowl, combine tuna, celery, mayonnaise, lemon juice and garlic powder; mix well. Slice 2 slices of bread in half diagonally. On luncheon plates arrange bread triangles, to form roofs, above each whole slice of bread. Spread tuna filling over bread "house." Cut zucchini into 6 pieces 2-by-1 inches and 18 julienne strips 1 1/4 inches. Decorate house using zucchini pieces for doors and chimneys and julienne strips for windows. Arrange broccoli buds for bushes. Form a shingled roof by overlapping sliced almonds. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 3 servings.

- SMILING TUNA HERO
- 2 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
 - 1-3 cup mayonnaise
 - 1/4 cup chopped scallions
 - 1/4 cup chopped water chestnuts
 - 3 hero rolls, split lengthwise
 - 6 pineapple rings, cut in half
 - 6 green pepper slices
 - 1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
- In medium bowl, combine tuna, mayonnaise, scallions and water chestnuts; mix well. Spread tuna filling on split rolls. Top with pineapple and green pepper. Sprinkle with cheese. Place under broiler 3 minutes or just until cheese melts. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 open-face sandwiches.

Hearty Winter Dip

When pretzels, nuts and party minis are making your guest yawn, it's time to revamp the menu. Try a dip, served hot for a change that is unique enough to satisfy any hungry party person. And don't worry, this recipe, tested by the Banquet Foods Test Kitchens, only takes minutes to prepare in the microwave oven. Start by combining cream cheese with frozen prepared creamed chipped beef as the base. The addition of chopped green pepper and onion add color plus crunch, and the seasonings add just the right snap to this recipe. Serve with crackers or crisp cut-up vegetables and any party menu will be revived!

- CHIPPED BEEF DIP
- 1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
 - 1 package (4 oz. ea.) frozen prepared creamed chipped beef
 - 1-3rd cup chopped green pepper
 - 1/4 cup sliced green onion
 - 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 3 drops hot pepper sauce
 - 2 tablespoons sliced almonds (optional)
 - Assorted crackers
- In 1 1/2-quart round glass casserole, place cream cheese. Microwave at HIGH 30 seconds to 1 minute or until softened. Set aside.
- Cut slit in each beef bag. Place on microwave-safe plate. Microwave at HIGH 2 to 3 minutes or until warm. Combine chipped beef, cream cheese, green pepper, onion, Worcestershire sauce and hot pepper sauce. Stir until smooth. Microwave at HIGH 1 to 3 minutes, or until warm, stirring once. Sprinkle almonds on top, if desired. Serve with crackers or crisp cut-up vegetables. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.
