

'Gators To Be Underdogs In Game With Tech

Jackets' Powerhouse Expected To Overpower Floridians

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 16.—It would take an extraordinary person to see anything hopeful in Florida's grid assignment this week in Atlanta.

Georgia Tech's sensational 11-11 tie with Alabama last Saturday speaks its own powerful eloquence in behalf of the Yellow Jackets, and bodes no joy for supporters of the Florida Gators.

Then too, no Florida team has been able to win from Tech on Grant Field since that memorable afternoon in 1936 when an underdog Gator eleven rose up in an amazing way to route the Jackets 5 to 7.

In fact, Georgia Tech took that defeat so much to heart that it has been tough on the four Florida teams that have played in Atlanta since that never-to-be-forgotten November 25 full game.

At home, since 1930, Florida has not done so poorly against Tech, winning 13 to 12 in 1931, and losing 6-0 in 1932 and 12-0 last year, but up in Atlanta the Gators have had it mighty tough, beaten 23 to 0 in 1931; 19 to 7 in 1933; 20 to 6 in 1935 and 38 to 11 in 1936.

The last two times were mighty bad for Florida, the jackets putting up a total of 77 points, and

Local Man Attends Dairy Short Course Held In Gainesville

James Bradford is attending the short course being conducted by the Dairy Department, University of Florida, Gainesville. The course is open to all operators of milk and ice cream plants, and is under the direction of Professor L. M. Thurston, dairy technologist, assisted by Prof. A. D. Burke, head of the dairy department, Auburn, Ala. Prof. Burke is considered one of the leading authorities on the manufacturing of ice cream in the country.

During the past week, the morning sessions were devoted to lectures on the production, testing, composition, and pasteurization of milk, the making of cultivating the Gators meanwhile to 20.

Tech's own 1938 powerhouse tradition, as well as the Grant Field jinx, combine to offer no promising picture for the Orange and Blue this week.

Georgia Tech was good enough to play a 11 to 6 game with the nation's No. 1 team, Notre Dame, and those who saw the game say the Jackets played well enough to have earned a tie, or possibly to come a victory in that tilt. They held the unbeaten, unscorched on Duke team to a 6-6 win, and beat Auburn, the team that last Saturday wallowed L. S. U.

The dopesters say Florida is in position to get one of its worst beatings in years in Atlanta Saturday.

It might be said of Paul Christman that he has a fine grip on football. The 202-pound sophomore passed, punted, and piloted the University of Missouri Tigers into national spotlight.

Few Objections Made To Proposed Project

BRADENTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)

Scattering objections from farmers to the city's proposal to construct a weir dam across the Braden river at Osprey as part of its plan to give Bradenton soft water were voiced at a public hearing yesterday at the city hall conducted by army engineers from the Jacksonville division office.

The objections, made in oral form, dealt primarily with possible damage that might be done farm lands by backed water but most of the objectives seemed satisfied when told the department's permission to construct the dam would not relieve the city of any responsible for damage that might result from its construction. Others favoring the proposal urged that permission for the work be granted.

The engineers made it plain the government was interested only to the extent of navigation in the river and the testimony in Supreme Court.

Tennis Devotees Ohio Wesleyan's Re-Organize Club, Bishops Plan To Select Officers Use New Offense

Plans Are Made For Placing Courts In Playing Condition

The Sanford Tennis Club was reorganized last night when a large number of tennis enthusiasts met Wednesday afternoon on its 1,200-acre trip to Orlando, where on Friday night the Battling Bishops will meet Rollins College in an intersectional game.

The group will have the two courts at the Water Plant for their use. The City and the NYA are going to rebuild the two courts and they will be ready about February. However, the local organization is making plans to get permission to play on the courts Seminole High School.

The club elected its officers last night and R. A. Smith was named president with Dr. T. F. McDaniel as vice-president and Miss Margaret Wright as secretary and treasurer.

G. L. Ash, city recreational director, spoke during the meeting and reported that the city and NYA were going to help with the upkeep. The city will turn the courts over to the Tennis Club and the NYA will keep two boys there to do the work.

The club decided to have two divisions of the organization, the senior division and the junior division. The junior section will be made up of youngsters between the age of 12 and 16 year old.

The members present last night decided to limit the club to 100 members, 25 junior members and 75 senior members. The present officers will serve for six months and it was also planned to hold the next meeting on Nov. 29.

ACCEPTS APPOINTMENT

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The War Department announced An drew Jackson Brooks, Jr., 919 East Gadsden St., Pensacola, had accepted appointment as second lieutenant, infantry reserve, in the officers' reserve corps.

Brooks has thrown 129 of the 180 passes attempted by the Bishops this year. Of the 180, a total of 81 have been completed. While Brooks has averaged better than 500 on his throws, the other passers have only a 115 percentage, but Gaither still thinks it is better to use an occasional ineffective slinger than to force Brooks to take all the punishment that passers receive.

Brooks missed one entire game because of injury and played only a few minutes in another, so his remarkable record was rung up in six of the Bishop's eight games. This means, then, an average of better than 10 completed passes for more than 100 yards in each game in which he has participated. It is no wonder that

Judge Denies Mistrial Move In Bribe Case

Defense Asks Retrial On Grounds Of Infringement Upon Religious Freedom

Expert Implicates Power Firm Head

Grady Says Compromise In Rate Case Suggested By Banks

MIAMI, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A defense motion for a mistrial based on the infringement of constitutional freedom was denied by Circuit Judge W. M. Murphy today after the prosecution argued that Thomas E. Grady, electric rate experts charged with soliciting a bribe, what claim he would make on a particular Sunday.

Grady took the witness stand for the second day to continue his testimony after denying that he solicited the bribe and charging that Bryan C. Daniels, president of the Florida Light and Power Company, on whose word he and two other city officials were indicted had himself suggested a $3000 payment to compromise a rate case.

The rate expert told a jury that on one Sunday when he was alleged by the prosecution to have been in the Florida Keys he actually was in Miami attending church.

County Senator Robert B. Taylor interrupted to ask what church he attended.

The defense counsel leaned up to demand a mistrial, asserting the question was in violation of Grady's constitutional right of religious free dom.

"I asked the question as a preface to an attempt to impeach Grady's testimony," Taylor asserted.

The court upheld him and denied the motion.

Bestiality Of Pagan Hitler Is Attacked At Meet

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—(UPI)—Comdemnation of the "bestiality" of "the Pagan Hitler" was expressed yesterday by the Massachusetts governor's council.

The attack was made in a resolution recommended by Governor Herbert and adopted by his council of one Jew and seven Gentiles. Simultaneously, Harvard and Simmons college students at mass demonstration wired resolutions to President Roosevelt supporting his criticism of the anti-Semitic drive in Germany.

Praising Roosevelt for championing the cause of the German Jews, the resolution of the governor's council read:

"The world must rally to the side of our noble President who demands justice and fair play for the victims of Nazi barbarism and an opportunity for them to resettle elsewhere with the help of the great nations of every continent."

The student demonstrations, sponsored by the American Student Union and addressed by faculty and student body members, urged Roosevelt to help Jewish refugees find homes in the United States and Great Britain.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

HOPE IS A FORM OF COUR-

AGE: For we are saved by hope:
But hope that is seen is not hope; for what man seeth, why sleth he yet hope for? But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it.—Romans 8:24, 25

Then in a Hidden Valley

(From a Lublin Magazine).
Then in a hidden valley, following the leaf-matted stream, towered evening, while the autumn light paled now, we found an eastward wall and the peaked chancel light of some forgotten Celtic church.
And leaves dropped hushing down as in all centuries of that ruined solitude.

Our sad November days are less than momentary in this long autumn of the Western World.

Only may our memorials be as grave unperious, asking no pathos, publishing no host,
in the leaf-drifts and dull November rains, when priest, and sacristan, and we, have gone.

Issue of hunting licenses so far is way behind the mark not last year, a fact which some attribute to the increased practice of fencing land, making it more and more difficult to pursue game.

Over 200,000 Jews are on the waiting list for entry into the United States from Germany following recent outbreaks of anti-Semitism among Nazis. The sympathy and charity of this country will probably cause us to take these unfortunate people, but the situation certainly won't help the unemployment conditions here.

With the announcement of organization plans for utilizing Lake Monroe for boating activities, and with the possibility that several motor-boat races will be staged here this winter, Sanford should take stock of its possibilities as a motor boat center and should lend all its efforts to any endeavor pronouncing this popular sport.

Mississippi and Arkansas football players, together with spectators, engaged in a riot following the close of the Ole Miss-Razorback grid game yesterday, in which Mississippi won 20 to 14. Football is a spirited game in which animosities are likely to be aroused, but any sport is rendered a disservice when either the players or the spectators become involved in fighting.

A California man is completing an undersize dredge which he expects to use in bringing up 10,000 tons of rich ore daily from deposits known to exist under the sea. If his plan is successful and he is able to recover as much of the precious metal as he claims, he will be defeating his own aims. Gold is valuable chiefly because it is rare. If the supply were unlimited its worth would dwindle to where a pound of gold would be worth no more, perhaps, than a pound of iron.
Iron is valuable because they are scarce. If everyone could play a violin like Fritz Wunder, none could demand $1,000 for a night's performance; if everyone could knock 60 home runs during a season, no one would be paid $75,000 a year for playing on a baseball team. And if everyone had a million dollars, we would all still

America Arms

At first thought, it may be difficult to reconcile the War Department's general announcement of plans for a vast militarization program with the specific provision for increasing the numerical strength of the standing army and National Guard by a scant few thousand men.

Upon investigation of the government's plans, it can be seen that emphasis is being laid not on man power but upon the implements of fighting and the means by which the implements of fighting are made. This policy is based upon the recognized fact that, whereas the foot soldier is still the backbone of an army, he loses most of his effectiveness if he is not amply supplied with every modern means of destruction.

This fact has been clearly demonstrated in the Sino-Japanese conflict in which the Army of China outnumbers the invaders and in which the individual Chinese soldier has more than held his own when fighting the Japs with equal weapons. The success of the Mikado's forces has been largely a story of mastery of the air and a preponderance of artillery. Without these two war implements in large quantity, no mere army of men can be very effective.

The government's immediate objective is to procure an air force equal or superior to any other in the world; to begin the manufacture of anti-aircraft guns and artillery in mass production and to orient the industry of the country in such a manner that it can on moment's notice begin the output of all necessary paraphernalia of war in huge quantities.

The perfect war machine would come into being if we then trained an army of a million men or more to operate the equipment. But the United States has always been traditionally a country with a small standing army. We have looked upon the maintenance of powerful army as a threat to democratic principles and have turned to the conscription of soldiers only in emergency.

However, the lack of a large and skillfully trained man power need not be a menace to our security if we adjust our industrial capacity to maximum efficiency and we procure efficient weapons in sufficient numbers to arm a hastily formed defense force.

It is recognized that trained leadership is the most important factor in so far as handling large numbers of fighting men is concerned. It has been shown in Spain that raw recruits become worthy soldiers in short order when they have undergone brief training periods under the direction of skilled officers. The difficulty of the Loyalists in Spain, as of the Chinese, has been lack of equipment.

It may be a matter of two or three years from the time a gun model is conceived in the mind of a designer until it passes through the drafting stage and is translated into cold steel. So too, is it necessary to plan far ahead in designing and building airplanes, and solving problems of quick transportation and furnishing supplies. These are the problems with which the government is chiefly concerned now, so that when and if war begins our men will not be handicapped by any technical disadvantage.

National Defense Is Far From Sole Purpose Of Public Utilities Loans

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—A back-stage analysis of the arrangement by which the public utilities are to get something near two billion dollars of government money in the next two years discloses that national defense is far from the sole purpose of the outlay, although an important one.

At various times during the depression "low" it was estimated that if the utilities could get credit they would start a building boom of their own by putting up new transmission and distribution lines and installing new generating equipment.

Because of the bad odor surrounding utility investments due to the Insull debacle and a mass of adverse legislation connected with TVA and the Utility Holding Company act, utilities have fallen behind in their spending for expansion and betterment. Just how long and how much is speculative, but a competent government source has computed figures indicating these things:

Normal annual spending by the utilities in the mid 'twenties for plant betterment and expansion was about $500,000,000 a year.

From 1928 through 1933 the utilities speeded up expansion, at times pouring out $700,000,000 a year.

Special note: It will be well to watch if the "needs of national defense" do not arise to justify a large loan to railroads for equipment—as a means also of easing the present wage controversy.

supplying the credit, they will be able to take up this slack of $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 a year for three years with a total outlay of close to a billion. Then the average half-billion dollar requirements each year for 1939 and 1940 could take up another billion.

That is a rough outline of the "why" in regard to the two billion.

The bulk of the building is to be in the so-called "bottleneck" of the heavy industries. That is the industrial quadrangle bounded by Massachusetts on the New England corner, and Chicago, St. Louis and Birmingham, Ala., as other corners.

The money will be used to install new generating equipment in private plants. It also will build inter-connecting units between industrial zones, so that one source of power is cut off (perhaps by bombs or sabotage), an important industrial link can be kept going with power from another zone.

Equally important, it will give power companies the money they have been unable to get elsewhere for the very sort of plant expansion they would have carried on if public confidence had not been jarred.

This was above the average requirement and left the industry perhaps "overbuilt" so that during the next two or three years the utilities had to spend only $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 a year for plant betterment in order to keep even.

By 1936 the demand for power had caught up with the expansion but instead of resuming the half-billion dollar average, the companies could take up only $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 a year. As a result, they fell behind a corresponding amount in 1936, 1937 and 1938.

Slain German Diplomat Given Martyr' Burial

western "Lanchow," capital of Kansu Province.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was believed last night to have embarked on an entirely new foreign policy which has the two-fold purpose of providing North and South America and Canada with an impregnable defense and uniting them against Fascism.

He is believed to have received the policy when Germany forced dismemberment of Czechoslovakia and Japan penetrated China so deeply that complete conquest appears inevitable.

Supporting this belief, in the opinion of foreign affairs experts, are developments of the last 24 hours, including:

1. The President's announcement of a multi-billion dollar defense program so comprehensive that it will virtually surround the nation with a ring of steel and assure adequate defense of neighbor nations against foreign invasion.

2. The President's unspoken denunciation of Nazi persecution of the Jews. The White House did not include the unprivileged status of Catholics.

3. The recall of Ambassador Wilson from Berlin for "advice and consultation." Wilson left Berlin yesterday and will report personally to Secretary of State Hull and Roosevelt. Although the White House would not say so, observers saw the move as the prelude to a definite diplomatic break which they believe will result in the recall of German Ambassador Dieckhoff. The summoning of Wilson, coupled with the President's outspoken castigation of Germany is adequate proof, they say, that the two countries have come to an irreparable breach.

4. Convening of the conference of Pan American nations at Lima, Peru, on Dec. 8. It is indicated strongly that Secretary Hull and the American delegation will seek to draw all the Central and South American countries into a common bond against Fascist encroachment. Such a program is not on the agenda but the President's newly enunciated "continental defense policy" virtually

Chain Store To Push Sales Of Florida Citrus

LAKELAND, Nov. 17.—(AP)—With the finest eating quality ever produced Florida and other citrus producing areas will this year offer the consuming public the nation a real "buy" on oranges, grapefruit and tangerines. The record crop of citrus fruit to be marketed in the next few weeks is of national size.

Marketing efforts will be made by the Economic Association of the National Association of Chain Drugs Stores to help the chain stores in the first of their promotional efforts in the period from January 15 to February 15.

T. W. Marvin, sales promotion manager of the Commission announced that more than 1,000 members of the National citrus growers have appealed to the food chain stores for assistance in moving a bumper crop. As a grower and member of the Commission I feel considerably more optimistic over the possibilities of getting a little money for my fruit. The chains are willing to pay a good price but it is up to the world despite the fact that the growers to organize. We must all cooperate by real support of a definite marketing plan to give further impetus to the chain store promotion."

Marvin's efforts will be joined by the Economic Association of the National Association of Chain Drugs Stores to help the chain stores in the first of their promotional efforts in the period from January 15 to February 15.

Martial Mix Up As Background For Hope, Ross Big Hit

The hilarious tragedy of a newlywed couple trying to get ahead in the world despite the fact that the husband and wife are of all possible difficulties to make marketable. The story forms the main theme of the new romantic comedy "Thank You, For the Memory" which will open Friday at the Ritz Theatre.

Bob Hope and Shirley Ross are the couple in question and we will remember them for their amiable rendition of the musical entitled "Thank You, For the Memory" in the "Big Broadcast of 1938." Other songs have featured roles include Claude Dauphin, Otto Kruger, H. L. Hunter and Rosemary.

The plot of the story follows from the start. The newlyweds

Wallace Unable To Dispose Of Wheat Abroad

Departments Shaping Arguments Against Domestic Allotment

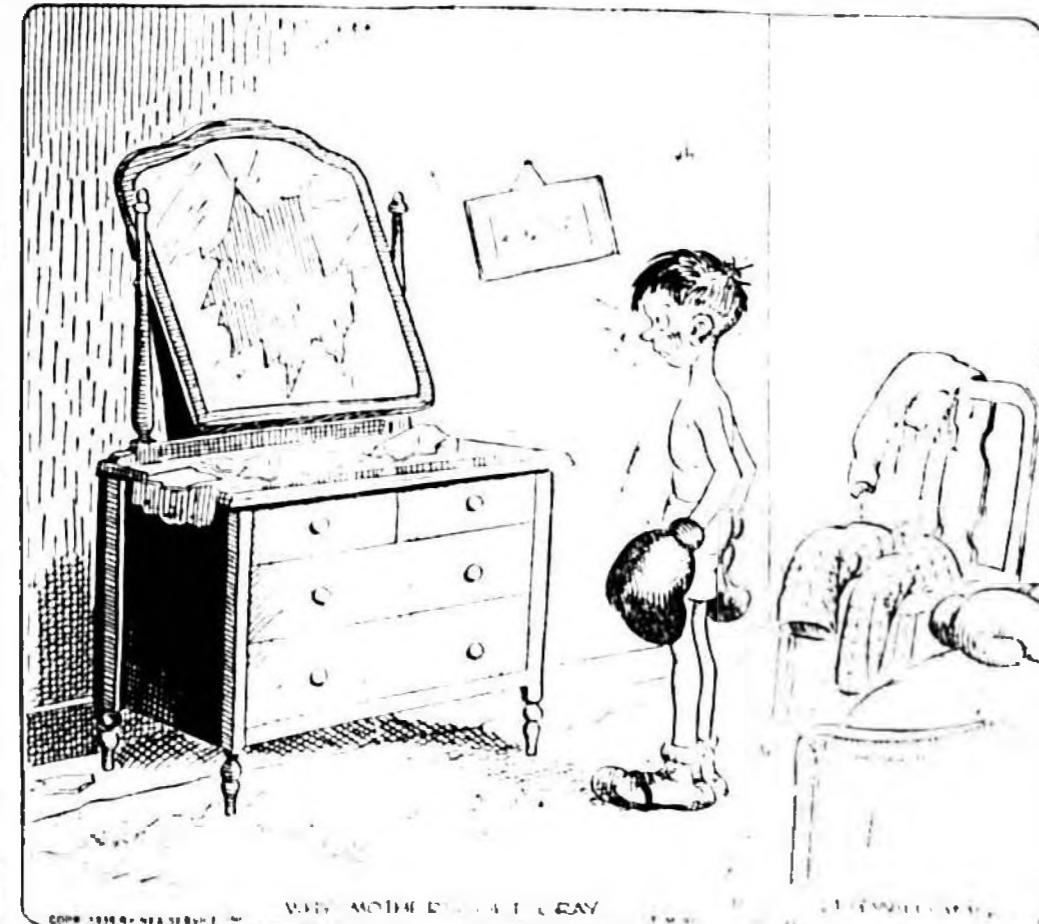

By Preston Grover
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Out of its troubles the department of agriculture is shaping up arguments against the demand for the domestic allotment plan rising from the farm belt.

One of the tasks the department undertook when it began controlling wheat production was to market the surplus abroad. This year the exportable surplus was estimated at 10 million bushels, or roughly one-tenth of the supply.

In normal years the amount would have slid into the world without much difficulty, but due to zero wheat exporting countries have surprised this year while the usual heavy buyers of American wheat are buying more heavily and more when?

Other wheat countries, including Canada, began selling the export of some of its wheat and the department of agriculture

Lyman Greyhounds Defeat Baby Feds By 3 To 0 Score

Entzminger Kicks 38 Yard Field Goal On Last Play

Baby Feds Play Excellent Game Behind Captain Danny Altman; Hugh Lester Makes Touchdown But Called Back

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Herald Sports Editor

With five seconds remaining just enough time for one play, Percy Entzminger, Lyman back, ran up to his 38 yard line and dropped-kicked the ball over the center and thus scored to give the Lyman High Greyhounds a 3 to 0 win over the baby Celery Feds yesterday afternoon in Longwood.

It was the first time this season that a field goal had been attempted against a Sanford team but Entzminger did it with the ease of a veteran.

The Feds first punted by man territory on the 14 yard when Captain Danny Altman took the boot and ran it to the Lyman 10-yard marker before being brought down.

Late in the second period, Altman threw two good passes, one to Bobby Newman and the other to Jimmie Page. A 10 yard play with Page going over the tackle was good for three yards, placing the ball on the Lyman 10-yard stripe. However, Entzminger intercepted a short pass and finding the two broken, had the ball returned to him.

Early in the third period, the Feds began another drive after an exchange of punts. On their own 30, Altman flat passed to Newman for six yards. Angel went around end on a reverse play for a first down. Lester plunged over center for four yards and then on a quick play through the line, Lester tore through the entire Lyman team for 50 yards and a touchdown but the play was called back by the referee.

The Lyman team, however, was not to be denied. After a 10 yard run by Entzminger, the ball was snapped from center and ran across the middle to break the ball out with the thoughts of a touch- down in mind.

Re-designing For Convenience Was Begun By Dreyfuss

Industrial Designing Started By Lifting Alarm Clock's Face

By SIGRID ARNE.
AP Feature Service Writer
NEW YORK. Remember several years back when the alarm clock had its face lifted? The tubby-looking tin number that was always tumbling over on its tiny feet suddenly came out with a substantial base and a thinner base.

That change was dictated by a young man who had been designing stage sets. Name: Henry Dreyfuss. The cottage 34 Both New York. Works here. Has lived there in a penthouse.

That's what put him into a profession now; it had no name. Now it has some industrial designing. There are several industrial designers, but Dreyfuss is a pioneer and he's still a leader.

A trio of "Easiers." The thing that makes his tick is his desire to redesign objects so they will be easier to use, to keep clean and to look at. When that happens, he says, sales jump; whether it happens to ice picks or trains. And Dreyfuss has designed both. He did the new rugged train. He did the new Twentieth Century muted.

He started as a stage designer at 19 and kept at it until a huge store wanted him to redesign kitchen utensils. He turned that down, but got on the road himself. The clock job was the result.

Since then he's dipped his fingers into the average home a dozen times. Take ice picks. The manufacturer of one type wanted to have sides. His pick had a long handle, not very easy to grasp. He chipped away and that's about all. First, Dreyfuss turned the handle into a ball that fit the hand snugly. Then he flattened one side so it would roll when you laid it on the table. And he put a piece of metal into the flattened part that made the handle a well hammer for cracking the ice after you'd chipped it off the cake.

Another time he tackled a washing machine. He went to the factory and ran one. The controls were on the side, and he grew tired bending over to find them. The Dreyfuss model has controls on top in plain sight, and the machine is encased in a white metal cylinder that's easy to keep clean.

He got another idea because he travels everywhere by plane. He noticed that stewardesses had trouble juggling lunch trays when a plane was in the air. So he designed a spill-proof lunch tray of paper mache. It's the size of a portable typewriter. The dinner plate is merely an indentation in the tray. Several paper cups are set around the edge in other indentations that prevent them from spilling. A top fits over the whole tray to keep the food warm. And the trays are so inexpensive they can be thrown away without means no washing and saving of dishes.

Dreyfuss is entranced with his Twentieth Century. It's sleek, swank on wheels. Inside it is two shades of gray with accents of rust and royal blue. Outside it's grey with accents of shining aluminum and blue. The club car has cork walls with strips of copper for accent. Dreyfuss doesn't like the old facing-forward of train chairs, so his club car couches are grouped as they are in a real club lounge. But the gadget that really pleases the travelling boyz and girlz is the speedometer in the observation car. Dreyfuss puts that in because he had $\frac{1}{2}$ much fun watching the speedometer in the railroad president's private car.

He's having great sport now designing via telephone, one of the two thousand buildings in the New York's west fair. It's a ball, 180 feet in diameter. It's filling it with a model city near the base. The cash customers will look down on the city from two circular platforms moving in opposite directions high in the ball.

Recently Dreyfuss was the subject of an editorial in an important New York paper. He never thought that would happen until he was dead. So now this enthusiastic young man refers to himself as "The Late Mr. Dreyfuss."

Florida has 274,781 rooms available in hotels, apartment houses and rooming houses operating under the supervision of the Florida State Hotel Commission this season, according to statement released this week by Commissioner Taylor.

Mannequins With Curves Developed By Jean Spadea

By SIGRID ARNE

NEW YORK. Miss Jean Spadea was going along in a well-tempered way as one of Fifth Avenue's bright young things. A very arty, slinky young blonde, five figures.

But two years ago she became annoyed by the glass-veined store window mannequins with straight up-and-down muscles that she sat down and carved her own idea of a mannequin. Thereby she announced herself for the very small crowd that's pioneering in new ideas of store display.

Her mannequin had the curves of a live, alluring lady. One of Fifth Avenue's fanciest stores snapped up Eve (that's what Mrs. Spadea had named it) and Spadea figures are being sold across the country. And Eve has been booked to appear at the New York World's Fair of 1939.

Old fashioned mannequins, says Mrs. Spadea, weren't clothes racks, but neither were they women.

Mrs. Spadea's models are brooding beauties. They are plenty thin, but they bulge where they should. They're long-legged. Some stand on one foot, and that curves the other leg nicely. They have deep eye sockets and high cheek bones.

One with real hair costs $165 and one with silk cold locks is $135. The stores that buy Spadea models use about 20 a year.

They must be something because they seem to be cutting in on the flesh-and-blood beauties. There's a legend that New York young bloods are sneaking off each week to ogle their favorite Spadea model in the window of the New York store that has them exclusively. Seems the gents want to see how their pleasant lady looks in each week's change of dress.

They're turned out in the dim-witted heart of Manhattan—57th Street just off Fifth. Mrs. Spadea uses a whole floor of the building; one room for what she meant to do (draw fashion pictures) and the rest for the mannequin business that just happened.

Fact is, the Spadeas live all within a radius of three Manhattan blocks. Jim Spadea's "turning" in the new-beauty mag.

"You," in the new issue across the street. Their two children are stowed away at home three blocks off with their nurse. Weekends they rush off to their Pennsylvania farm.

The Spadeas met in Chicago where she'd arrived from Wisconsin to learn Michelangelo's tricks at the Academy of Fine Arts. She designs in so many directions so naturally that she's found she doesn't know her own strength.

That crushed ice cream cone women have been wearing as a hat is an example. Mrs. Spadea made one for herself four years ago. Forgot about it. Then dug it out to put on a mannequin in a display window. Month later similar hats popped up all over New York. Maybe there's no relation, but anyway Mrs. Spadea eventually saw hats like

The reason the Democrats favored for the New York governorship was that the Republicans were pushing the international young racket-buster Thomas Dewey for the important office. A Dewey victory might foreshadow further political advance. Already there is talk of the presidency.

It's selling by the hundreds in bargain basements.

So she's probably a good fashion weather vane. Which brings up pleasant news for the ladies. Just now she has a feeling (she doesn't know why) that she should add half an inch to her mannequin's hips. That could start a new style trend—and one more comfortable to the ladies.

Foreign Policy Of U.S. Is Opposed By Germany, Japan

Nazi Ambassador Called Home To Explain "Queer Attitude" Toward German Events

American Demand Rejected By Japs

Note To Washington Says Treaty Obsolete Since Conquest

Japan and Germany both took action today in opposition to the American foreign policy.

Germany called home her ambassador to Washington, Hans Dieckhoff, to explain the "queer attitude" in the United States toward "events in Germany."

Japan rejected major contention of the United States protest against closing the "open door" in China and declared that "ideas and principles of the past" no longer applied.

The Japanese answer to Washington's strong protest of Oct. 6, protesting "unwarranted interference" with American rights in China was interpreted authoritatively as a notice that Japan considers her conquest of a large portion of China has made the nine-power treaty obse-lete.

In Tokyo, radical-socialist deputies unanimously adopted a resolution opposing the revision of any French possession to Germany and approving France's lack of racial prejudice.

Radical-socialist Premier Daladier's own party split, however, on a vote to endorse his drastic economy program which brought a warning from former Socialist Premier Leon Blum against attempting to set up a dictatorship.

Daladier won a majority but nine of 112 of the party's deputies voted against him and 31 others abstained from voting.

Recall by Germany of Ambassador Dieckhoff followed the summons to Washington last Monday of U. S. Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson from Berlin.

In Spain, insurgents were reported preparing a new general offensive against Valencia and Tarragona, while the Japanese forged deeper into China from Hankow, captured provisional capital.

The first witness to be called to the stand yesterday was P. Davis, chief arsenic inspector, who testified that more than 2,100 acres of oranges and tangerines were tied up by the Commission because of the use of arsenic in violation of the spray law.

Lions Pass Resolution Against Use Of Seines, Nets In Fresh Water

Harry Rockwood, a member of the Gainesville Lions Club, presented a set of movie reels centered on organized major league baseball at the regular weekly meeting of the local Lions Club held Wednesday evening at the Valdez Hotel.

Claude Howard, deputy State game warden, was the guest speaker at the meeting and gave an address on the conservation of game and fish and at the conclusion of his remarks, the following resolution was adopted for transmission to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission:

"We the Lions Club of the City of Sanford, Florida, in regular session, take this opportunity to advise the Honorable body of Game and Fresh Water Fish Commissioners, against the opening of any of the fresh water in Florida to seining or the use of gill nets in any manner.

"Due to the fact that an overwhelming majority of our own people, as well as visitors, derive pleasure and benefit from fresh water fishing, we would even recommend more stress be paid to the protection of the same in the future than in the past."

Mr. Rockwood presented the moving pictures through the courtesy of the American League of Professional Baseball Clubs and the General Motors Corporation. The sound movies showed what a young boy or man could accomplish in baseball by clean living, being a true sportsman and playing the game, if he were inclined toward following such a career.

John Meisch, Jr., president of the club, said that it is hoped
