Legislative Benevolence

Recent information from Tallahassee is to the effect that the Senate has passed a bill, somewhat similar in intent to the proposal circulated in a petition in Sanford the other day, which would make it impossible to foreclose tax certificates on property on which the taxes had been allowed to become delinquent. We have not seen a copy of the bill but newspaper accounts indicate it was designed as a measure of tax relief and perhaps as a solution for Florida's bond problem.

In passing this bill Senators may have reasoned that those who were able to continue to pay taxes even though all danger of losing their property through the non-payment of taxes were removed. In this we believe they are mistaken. Even under the present laws, a comparative few are carrying the entire burden of the ad valorem taxes. Most of these, even the big corporations and the owners of important business property, do not consider themselves financially able to pay taxes and would not do so if the foreclosure laws did not make them.

The inevitable result, as we see it, would simply be that everyone would stop paying taxes. Not only would there be no funds available for the payment of either principal or interest on bonds, which may be, after all, the primary purpose of the bill, but neither would there be any local revenue for the operation of the police and fire departments, the hospital, the library, the welfare department, or the schools. City and county governments, which depend almost entirely on their operating revenue upon the ad valorem taxes on real estate, would completely collapse.

We reached this conclusion, of course, upon the presumption that the new law would stand the test of the courts. As a matter of fact, we do not believe it would. Section 10, Article I of the Constitution of the United States specifically provides that "No State shall... pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts". If that means anything at all, it means that the State of Florida can pass no law which would arbitrarily deprive the bondholders of the only security upon which the value of their bonds depends.

It is not necessary to conclude from this that there is nothing which the Legislature can do toward the solution of Florida's bond problems. There are a number of bills before the House and Senate at this very moment which would materially aid in reducing the debts of the various cities and counties and in providing relief for the taxpayers. A number of them have been advanced as Administration measures. Some of them are sponsored by the Florida League of Municipalities. But none of them have been acted upon favorably.

The one which passes is one which would throw Florida's whole tax machinery into chaos, and would provide no intelligent approach whatever to the bond problem. It would give the Legislators a chance to come home and tell the people how they fixed it up for them so that they would not have to pay any taxes at all. And then, after the law had been held unconstitutional, they could blame it on the Supreme Court.

Open Season For Long Sky Hops

The season for long-distance airplane flights is at hand. Among the most optimistic undertakings in the offering is the announced plan of two famous fliers, Wiley Post and James Mattern, to make solo hops around the world. This feat has been accomplished by pairs of aviators, but no one has yet set out on the venture alone, and its success would be quite a feather in the cap of the one making the effort.

Perhaps the most daring of the contemplated sky journeys is the one planned by General Francesco de Pinedo who is already poised for the takeoff on a 6200-mile flight from Floyd Bennett field on Long Island to Persia. The Italian flier will use a Bellanca plane, powered with a 525-horsepower motor, for the longest non-stop flight ever attempted.

The ship will carry 1050 gallons of gasoline and will make 140 miles an hour. A sensitive and unique device will be a spray which will sprinkle water on the face of the flier when and if he should fall asleep and his plane lose altitude. De Pinedo's effort is a bold one and if he manages to keep his plane aloft through fifty hours of flying time and land it safely in Persia, he will write a new chapter in aviation history.

Another trans-Atlantic venture is being planned by Asen Jordanoff and Captain Cesare Sabelli, who expect to take off from Roosevelt Field on their ocean hop about the middle of June. Jordanoff is a Bulgarian nobleman who says he was the first man in his country to fly a plane. Sabelli is an Italian war ace.

Word comes from England that the flying Mollisons are having a huge plane built for a contemplated flight from New York to Bagdad. The Mollisons have already won their riches in the hall of fame for famous aviators, but their proposed trip, if successful, would add considerable glory to their distinguished records.

However ambitious all these plans may be, we may have the reassurance that aviation has progressed a long way since the pioneering days of the Lindberghs, the Byrds, and the Earharts. Airplanes today are models of dependability compared to the aircraft of only a few years ago, and it is with this thought that we wish these daring fliers "bon voyage".

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

Sanford will soon be able to boast of having the finest water system in the state not only in service but in the quality of the water. The Southern Utilities Co. which some time ago purchased the public utilities of this city, outlined at that time that the water system would be improved and while this was thought at first to be an idle boast they are making good in record time and in a few weeks we expect to spend some $40,000 here in extensive improvements.

The committee of one hundred and fifty, which managed so well the campaign for county division, met yesterday at Sanford, and was asked to ask the Democratic County Executive Committee to recommend a name to Governor Bryan for the position of county clerk. The committee is composed of the following members: J. B. Smith, J. T. Malin, G. W. Hagan, Paul, and F. L. Woodruff, Sanford; for Clerk of Court, E. A. Douglas, of Ovidio; for Tax Collector, T. K. Bates, Sanford; for Tax Assessor, W. E. Nealey, Longwood; for County Judge, Capt. E. F. Whitner; for Sheriff, Charlie Hand; for Superintendent of Public Instruction, W. T. Lawton, Ovidio; and for Treasurer, J. B. Jones, Ovidio.

AMERICAN ECONOMIC NATIONALISM

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

The question is beginning to be asked whether the domestic program in the United States is consistent with the objectives set for the World Economic Conference. The domestic program is designed to produce an American recovery through the regulation of the American price level, direct stimulation of domestic purchasing power through public works, and the control of competition in agricultural and industrial production. This program quite clearly implies a determination to insulate the American price level against the effects of the world price movements. This program quite clearly implies also a determination to adjust the domestic supply of goods to the domestic demand. All of this has not been explicitly declared to be the purpose of the program but unmistakably it is implicit in the farm bill and the preliminary description of the forthcoming industrial bill.

Evidently, this program does not rest upon the theory that the United States must wait upon agreements at London for any considerable measure of recovery. The program rests upon the assumption that the United States can, by its own actions, greatly improve its own economic condition, and that it need not consider itself too dependent upon the outcome of the international conference. In this sense the program is nationalistic. It relies primarily upon policies which are wholly within the control of the American people to bring about relief and re-employment and a greater economic security.

But in describing the program nationalistic it is important to distinguish between an aggressive economic nationalism and an essentially non-aggressive nationalism. During the Twenties the United States drifted unconsciously into a policy of highly aggressive economic nationalism. It not only raised a tariff wall of exports which it forced into the outer world by heavy foreign lending. As a creditor power, it not only refused goods from the debtor nations, but it invaded their markets and the neutral markets with its own exports. That this was one of the major causes of the world crisis can hardly be doubted.

In carrying out this policy many important American producers adjusted themselves to a continuation of the artificial export trade and became dependent upon it. When it collapsed, as it has collapsed, the productivity geared to an export surplus exercised a very depressing effect at home. The potential supply threatened to overwhelm any probable demand. Now in these circumstances there have been, theoretically, two possible courses open to us. One was to return to the policy of the Twenties: this involved not only persuading the world to reduce its tariffs drastically, but also a resumption on a large scale of American foreign lending. But for more than a year, more particularly since Britain adopted protection, there has been very little real hope that the world would soon see so much free trade as prevailed in the Twenties. And as for American foreign lending; any resumption of that on a large scale is clearly improbable for some time to come.

It followed, therefore, that the export surpluses of the Twenties could not be restored, even if it were desirable to do so. But if they could not be restored, then a different course was necessary; the American export industries which had been artificially expanded, had to reorganize to a substantially domestic basis. The underlying meaning of the farm bill is to assist the farmers to do just that, and one of the obvious advantages of modifying the anti-trust laws is that it will enable other producers to do it also.

HAVANA'S HEART IS SCENE OF WILD BULLET BATTLE

One Pedestrian Hurt In Hail Of Shots Between Two Groups

HAVANA, May 15.—(AP)—One of the boldest blows terrorists have struck in recent years fell short yesterday when Sergeant Miguel Balmaceda, of the government's plain clothes police, escaped a hail of bullets in the heart of uptown Havana.

Two young Cubans were arrested, charged with participating in the attack. Their identity was concealed. Balmaceda and his chauffeur Miguel Menendez, counted 15 bullet holes in the automobile in which they were riding.

The daring attack occurred at Prado and Neptune streets, focal point of all the city's activities. Four desperados in another automobile followed Balmaceda's machine until Menendez, suspicious, wheeled sharply around the traffic base at Prado just as four consumes about 40 to 45 per cent of the world's raw materials. Clearly any measures which restore the buying power of the American people must have profoundly beneficial effects on the whole world. In fact, it may be said that quantitatively the largest part of the world depression is within our own frontiers, and that a frontal attack upon the American depression is a major attack upon the depression all over the world.

GRIMES OF THE WILLE SAYS "IT ENABLES ME TO DO MY HOUSEWORK IN MUCH LESS TIME AND SAVES US MONEY" I believe I have one of the first electric ranges in use in our city. We have used it three times a day for six years. With my range I have an electric refrigerator and many other electric appliances. The total cost of this service over the past year has averaged about $9.50 a month. This, I consider very reasonable for a family of four. In fact it is less than we used to pay for substitute service that was not so satisfactory. Our next investment in electric appliances will be a kitchen mixer and a water heater. This last we think especially important as our house was totally destroyed by fire a few years ago due to the operation of the water heater of another type we were using at that time. I thoroughly approve of electric service in the home. It enables me to do my housework in much less time and saves us money.

MENUS

Pastry in the form of lemon meringue and orange blossom pie is made the subject of the weekly menus planned by Miss Mable Wilson and Mrs. Gladys Adams Smith, home economics teachers at Seminole High School and presented to The Herald and its readers.

The teachers declare that the menus are best made from the products purchased through Herald grocery advertisers. The menus are:

Mock Mince Meat 1 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup vinegar 1/4 cup molasses 1 cup bread crumbs 1 cup raisins 2 T. Butter 1/2 cup boiling water 1 t. cinnamon 1/2 t. nutmeg 1 1/2 t. allspice Mix all ingredients together and cook as you would any two crust pie.

Lemon Meringue Pie 1 1/2 cups sugar 1 1/2 cups boiling water 5 T. corn starch 1-3 T. salt 1 T. fat 2 eggs 5 T. lemon juice Grated rind of 1/2 lemon Thoroughly mix sugar, corn starch and salt and add to boiling water. Stirring constantly. Turn heat to low. Cook 10 minutes. Add fat. Beat egg yolk and add to this just as you turn off heat. Add the lemon juice and rind. Let cool and put into baked crust. Add meringue and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

Orange Blossom Pie 2 cups milk 1/2 cup instant tapioca 1/2 cup x yar 1-8 t. salt Grated rind of 1/2 orange 2 eggs 1/2cup shredded coconut Heat milk in double boiler. Mix lapiots, sugar and salt. Stir into milk. Cook until mixture begins to thicken. Add orange rind. Cook 15 minutes, and stir to prevent lumping. Add beaten egg yolks and cook one minute longer. Cool. Then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into pastry shell. Sprinkle top with coconut. Brown lightly in oven. Chill thoroughly.

Notes: Use orange juice instead of water in making the pastry for this pie.

Plain Pastry 2 cups flour 1/2 cup cold shortening 1/2 t. salt 1-3 to 1/2 cup ice water The best results are obtained by having all ingredients and utensils as cold as possible. Use the smallest quantity of water that will hold the ingredient together. If you have time chill the pastry before you roll it out. Measure the flour after it is sifted. Mix the flour, salt, cut in the shortening with two knives until the mixture looks like meal. Add ice water a little at a time, mixing it with a knife until dough ceases the bowl of all flour. Roll out. This amount makes 2 cr. sts. To avoid a soggy undercrust, chill the filling before adding, or coat the crust with slightly beaten egg and let stand a few minutes before filling. To make a richer pastry follow the recipe for plain pastry using 1/2 cup shortening instead of 1/2 cup.

Premier Categorical-ly Rejects Further Reductions In Military Expenditures

(Continued from Page One) ment by the naval chancellor, combatting weapons. The conciliatory pronouncement by the naval chancellor, coming immediately after the message from Washington, increased feeling of optimism that the arms conference is now facing another great opportunity to reach its long awaited objective. Count Rudolf Nadolny, the German delegate, having come direct from a conference with his Berlin chief, was expected to be in a position to give the conference new light upon the German position.

Norman H. Davis, fresh from conversations with the heads of states at London and at Paris, was looked to by other chief delegates for an elucidation upon the new policy of the Washington government with regard to participation in an international guarantee of security against an aggressor.

Davis may be able to tell the conference what it wishes to know about the American attitude upon the following important points:

First, rigid international supervision of armament.

Second, participation in a world wide agreement of non-resort to force.

Third, helping the league to identify the aggressor.

Fourth, refusing assistance to the aggressor when he has been identified.

Fifth, participation in arms embargoes to state judged to be operating in violation of anti-war treaties.

Sixth, abandonment of the rights of neutrality in the event of war.

Important members of the conference have expressed the opinion that a clear understanding of America's attitude on these points would have a very salutary effect in discouraging warlike sentiment, and hence in assisting armed nations to reduce their armaments because of a greater feeling of security.

BALADIER BACKS STABLENESS OF FRANCE'S MONEY

Says Country Hasn't Anything To Fear From Its Currency

PARIS, May 17.—(AP)—"Our unit of currency, the franc, has nothing to fear from the fluctuations of other currencies," Premier Edouard Daladier said in the political address he made recently at Orange, near Avignon, in southern France.

"The franc," he said, "remains the most strongly supported and the most stable currency unit in the world today."

"We hope," he continued, "that the Washington conversations between statesmen will make it possible for our American and British friends to emerge from the phase of monetary uncertainties and will facilitate renewal of exchanges between the nations in preparation for the success of the world economic conference."

Marking that it had become a question whether a war of currencies now was to be added to the tariff war, the Premier said the French were convinced that they could withstand it.

"If, to our extreme regret," he said, "we shall have to depend upon our own resources, within the frontiers of the home country and those of our colonies we can resist suffering as well as, if not better than, other nations can do."

M. Daladier, in his address, referred to former Premier Edouard Herriot, who arrived in Washington recently to act for France in the conversations arranged there by President Roosevelt. The Premier spoke of him as being "a man so highly qualified to represent our country."

But it is no secret that not all of the members of the present French Cabinet support M. Herriot without qualification. Likewise, it is known that Senator Joseph Paul-Boncour, who has made the least conspicuous record to date of any foreign minister in recent years, is impatient because of M. Herriot's prospective laurels and is known to be in close contact with Colonel Maurice Buaucruille, the latter is the publisher of "Le Matin," one of several influential journals here which apparently are waiting for M. Herriot to "stab his toe in his negotiations at Washington."

M. Herriot's present task, moreover, has been rendered vastly more difficult by the pronounced apprehension existing in France over the possible consequences for this country if the dollar should be devaluated. The franc is at present almost isolated on the gold standard and France has been placed on the defensive as a result of the currency situation in America. It appears certain that M. Herriot's hands will be tied, so to speak, unless and until Mr. Roosevelt can give him assurance that the dollar will return to a gold basis.

Tampa Mayor Says City Must Keep Its Credit Unimpaired

TAMPA, May 19.—Mayor Chancey sent the annual budget to the board of aldermen Tuesday night with a warning that government must take care of its obligations and credit commitments, to preserve the credit and reputation of the city of Tampa. At the same time he emphasized that essential governmental functions must be reasonably provided for "so as to enable us to properly preserve the health, morals, property and good order of the people."

"In my opinion," the mayor said in his letter to the board, "the budget herewith transmitted to you, if adopted, will adequately make provision for these things."

The mayor said "the slight increase in the millage rate over last year", was not brought about by extravagant items in the proposed budget, but by the large reduction in the assessed values in the community. The assessed valuation reduction amounts to $12,000,000, the largest of its kind in the city's history, the mayor said, adding: "Except for the reduction in property valuations, the millage rate under the proposed budget would be less than it was last year."

The mayor frankly informed the board that "the intensified continuation of economic distress" finds the city government confronted with unprecedented failures in revenues and unprecedented failures in tax payments. Despite efforts by the administration to finish the year without a deficit he said it must anticipate a deficit of $150,000. He estimated delinquencies in revenues and taxes for this fiscal year of more than $725,000. Except for this delinquency there would be no deficit, he said, but on the other hand there would be a surplus of more than $500,000.

on Monday nights, did not meet until Tuesday night this week. They had also a 90 percent attendance, preliminary marksmanship being the subject under discussion, the discussion being led by Lieut. Rung and Nordgren. Medical Detachment, under the command of Capt. Knox, held their usual drill Tuesday night. Close order drill was held under the command of Sergeant Sands, while Capt. Knox had charge of the second period, it being devoted to infantry tactics and Organization of Infantry Regiment. At the close of the drill a short period was devoted to limbering exercises under the leadership of Private Joe Moss. Beginning next Tuesday night, the Medical Detachment will devote a part of their time to athletics in preparation for camp recreation activities this summer. 100, 220, 440 yard dashes and mile races, high jumping, broad jumping, shot put, discus, throw, boxing, wrestling, tug-of-war, etc. will be indulged in. A little later the boys will journey to some of the nearby swimming pools or lakes in order to perfect themselves in swimming and diving. Every member of the company is eligible to start, an elimination contest to be held before camp in order to secure the very best material for the different events. A diamond ball team will also be organized, the boys signifying their intention to attend the meeting of the Diamond Ball Association at the city hall tomorrow night for that purpose. The supply rooms of both Company D and the Medical Detachment were veritable beehives last Tuesday night, Supply Sergeants Stafford of D Company and Robertson of the Medical Department being very busy checking up and getting the supplies in A-1 shape for camp. The writer has been asked to call the attention of some of the non-coms to their lack of attention to their personal appearance at drills. The non-coms are supposed to set an example to the privates, and if they appear at drills dressed in a careless manner it is hardly to be expected that the privates will keep up a neat appearance.

Fans Speculating On Whether Garbo Is Still Popular

HOLLYWOOD—Now that the valuable—Greta Garbo is actually back among us, the question whether a star can remain off the screen for a long period and still retain her popularity poses up. In her case, Hollywood believes the answer is in the affirmative as it would be for any of the first 10 box office leaders. Obviously the studio that rehired Garbo for two pictures, with options for several more, at a reported whopping big figure, believes her absence will have no effect at the box office. Harold Lloyd, after a year and a half between comedies, declared a year is all any star could afford to spend thinking about his next picture. Two or three years are customary for Chaplin to give to "preparation." Mary Pickford allowed 18 months to pass. Two years was a trifle too long for Clara Bow to retire, although some critics blame her recent vehicle for the drop in Bow stock. A three year absence definitely harmed Colleen Moore. "Queen Christina", on which Miss Garbo is scheduled to start work some time in June, cannot be ready for release before Aug. 1, and there is the probability that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will hold the film for fall showing.

Dry Law's Repeal Will Finance Huge Bond Issue Of U. S.

(Continued From Page One) The means committee that hearings would be concluded Saturday noon and the bill reported for House action not later than Tuesday.

Doughton said he did "not think it will be necessary for the President to recommend a tax program" he declined to say whether the sales tax suggested by Douglas would be adopted.

Douglas, former member of the House from Arizona, spent an hour and a half explaining the industrial control section of the bill which is designed to stop cut-throat competition and to assure wages at or above defined minimum levels, and the immense program of public works to be undertaken by the federal government directly or through loans or grants to states, counties and municipalities.

But when he reached the taxation section left blank by President Roosevelt and the treasury all leaned forward intently, and soon began questioning him.

In regard to prohibition repeal he said federal revenues from liquor were $247,500,000 in 1919; in 1917 $284,000,000; in 1918, $443,800,000; and in 1919, $484,100,000. For the last two years the figures included beer.
