16 Local Rainbow Girls Attending Grand Assembly

Sixteen Rainbow girls of Sanford Assembly 25 left Sanford Sunday morning for St. Petersburg by chartered bus to attend the Grand Assembly.

Miss Margaret Ellison, a Past Worthy Advisor of the Sanford Assembly, will serve as Grand Nature, State of Florida, during the session.

Miss Jana Williams will be a member of the Grand Choir and Miss Carol Ellison will be Grand Page.

Sunday afternoon, after their arrival in St. Petersburg, Mrs. Marjorie Shepard and Miss Peggy Jane Lundquist were awarded the degree of the Grand Cross of Color. This is the highest honor that can be attained by those in Rainbow Girl work.

Others attending the session in St. Petersburg are: Miss Rickie Cox, Miss Linda Cannon, Miss Georgia Ann Jones, Miss Janie Brown, Miss Amoret Speer, Miss Nellie Pickens, Miss Joan Jones, Miss Dottie McAlexander, Miss Ruthie Carlson, Miss Sherlene Shepard, Miss Diana Haynes, and Miss Linda Sue Kinko.

Chaperones for the group are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds. The girls will return to Sanford Thursday afternoon.

A method has been devised for fusing 23-carat gold into the surface of ceramic panels. It is said the cost is such as to make them practical for building exteriors.

Adventists

The resolution also stated that "there are many Christians and other devoutly religious persons who hold that there is no Scriptural support for the claim that Sunday is a sacred day."

The action, which re-affirms the Adventists' long-standing position on religious liberty, maintained that "history is replete with instances of religious persecution instigated by well-intentioned efforts to secure enforcement of religious views by the civil authority of the state."

Pastor Harold H. Schmidt, president of the state conference, said "the commendable feature" about Blue Laws is "the assurance they give to the working man or woman of at least one day in seven from unnecessary labor."

"But, he pointed out, they deal directly with matters of conscience when they purpose to name the specific day that must be on. This is in direct contradiction to the American principle of separation of church and state."

Taking issue with published statements attributed to Dr. John B. Dickson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Tampa and president of the Florida Council of Churches, pastor Schmidt said, "It is the very genius of Christianity to grant to every man the right to believe in the gospel or not believe in it, to obey the divine law or not to obey it, and what the Author of Christianity has granted, no authority has the right to abridge or take away."

cal option featured being added to present Blue Laws. "Whenever anyone locally decides that keeping the 10 Commandments is optional then the church of the living God had better get awake," a story of June 8 quoted Dr. Dickson as saying.

Pastor Schmidt said that "the tragedy of such efforts to seek state enforcement of religious beliefs is that the Christian leaders seeking such enforcement are usually sincere and well-meaning in so doing."

"But the fact remains," he added, "that any law respecting an establishment of religion is a violation of the United States Constitution and is in opposition to our American principle of liberty of conscience."

The Adventist leader said his church opposes both the state-wide Blue Laws now existing and those proposed with local option features. He said his denomination officially objected to a proposal in Israel, requiring all business there to be closed on Saturday.

"We would object on the same principle if we lived in a Moslem community and an effort should be made to compel matters of conscience on Friday," he said. "I'm sure our many Christian brethren in other churches in Florida would object to Friday or Saturday enforcement, when they sincerely believe in the sanctity of Sunday. 'Let's keep Christianity free,' the clergy man concluded.

Brownie Day Camp Opens At Silver Lake

By VIRGINIA CONN

Monday morning, June seventeenth, the Brownie Day Camp opened at Silver Lake. Brownie Scouts of Seminole County brought their nosebag lunches and rugs to the beautiful shores of Silver Lake to enjoy a week in the open, with the emphasis this year on nature.

The flag ceremony was performed by the girls and leaders forming a semi-circle under the big trees in a clearing. Sharon Drum, Barbara Stone and Celeste Camel were assisted by Mrs. E. E. Austin in raising the flag and leading the assemblage in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mrs. Thomas Drake, Day Camp director, then introduced the Reverend David Carmel. He spoke to the Brownies briefly on the meaning of the Brownie Promise, which had been said by Susan McMurray. Mrs. Ralph Wight Jr. led the singing of the Brownie Promise—"When e'er you make a promise..." After a prayer by Reverend Carmel, and assistants, including several Girl Scouts who are helping. It is announced that the "buddy" system would be used, thereby avoiding confusion when trying to locate the Brownies.

The Silver Lake Camp belongs to Seminole County. The site is beautifully located on Silver Lake beyond the Naval Air Station. A shelter has been erected permanent camp. There is a cement block latrine. This camp is a spot that could be enjoyed by many boys and girls. There is a fence and was a gate, clearly stating the property owners. The gate has been torn off. The door has been torn off the latrine. These were used for fire wood by trespassers who abused the camp in every way.

Before the Brownies could start their summer program, a number of mothers, fathers and children, led by Mrs. Ralph Wight Jr. and Mrs. Robert Cobb had to clean the place. The trees and shrubbery are lovely. The water sparkles in the sun, and wild flowers bloom on the trails. But beer cans, whiskey bottles, paper boxes, broken glass, rusty cans and other trash litter the entire camp. The cleanup job was remarkable, and yet there was even too much for the eager workers to accomplish. As fast as signs are put up against trespassing, they are torn down.

Those living on adjoining property have complained about the noise that goes on at the camp during the night. Surely there must be some way to preserve the beauty and fun of this camp for those who deserve it. It is too bad to think that one or more children will inevitably cut themselves on a can or broken glass left by the revellers who are defiling the grounds.

Mr. Carmel and I were taken on a guided tour of the separate unit camps by two of the assisting Girl Scouts. In each camp a clothesline had been strung between the trees, and the nosebag lunches had been fastened thereon with clothespins. This, of course to keep the ants out.

Each camp was situated in a hollow surrounded by trees, private, enticing spots to little girls where nature has built a room. Cold water in jugs were stored in large lard cans. There is no running water at the camp, although there is a well that works upon occasion. This can be used for washing hands and equipment. The girls had not yet made their "sitopons," so they were reclining on the small rugs or towels they had brought from home.

The first camp site we visited was that of the Third Graders, led by Mrs. James Rowe. This unit had selected the name of "Oak Tree", and had already made name tags by writing on circles of wood and gluing them to pins. This was their first year at the camp, so they planned to orient themselves and find out where to pick the best leaves. The Fly-up unit, those who will enter the fifth grade in the fall, has not yet chosen a name. Their camp was decorated with brightly colored leaves, and leader Mr. E. E. Austin, was equipped with tremendous whistle and cane chair.

Through the bushes and along the paths was the fourth grade unit, who voted to use the name "Brownie Den", while we were there. The "Brownie Den" had made a cup tree, by taking the leaves off a small tree or bush and putting their labeled cups on the ends of the branches. An additional line was covered with raincoats. This is a very cautious group, or else they realize that the shelter and dressing tent will not hold all the campers.

As we returned to the shelter, Mrs. Drake was unpacking the canteens, which are actually surplus gas mask knapsacks. Mrs. John Lundy of Oviedo had set up her first aid tent, which is complete with a cot. The large dressing tent will be used for changing suits when the swimming program starts tomorrow under Miss Frances Cobb. Monday was used for lectures in water safety.

Also on the Brownie Day Camp staff are Assistant unit leaders, Mrs. Robert H. Powell, Mrs. Richard Conn, and Mrs. Arthur E. Brown. Additional Assistance will be from Mrs. James Buckler, Mrs. Harry W. Flannery Jr., Mrs. H. C. Francisco, Mrs. H. L. Weigle, Mrs. Arthur Harris and Mrs. D. W. Linker. Water front director, Miss Cobb, assisted by Mrs. Robert Kennedy. Music director Mrs. L. M. Millaps. Nature consultant, Mrs. James Guy. The site chairman are Mrs. Ralph Wight Jr. and Mrs. Robert Cobb, General chairman is the neighborhood chairman, Mrs. Randall Chase. Mrs. Fred Robb is also assisting in many spots, besides offering her daughters as assistants.

As I trudged back to my car, I was overwhelmed by the feeling that must come to all those who give of themselves selflessly to children. Contentment, the reward of happiness—And was even more inflated to see a half rotten piece of watermelon lying on the road, and innumerable mounds of rusty cans and debris in the bushes. There is something very fine going on at the Brownie Day Camp, and you may be sure that these children would never destroy property as theirs is being destroyed. They are learning about nature, housekeeping and how to get along with others. Their future as fine young women is assured.

Troop

now hold their weekly meeting on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. At the beginning of reorganizing a remark was made to John Keeling that Troop 214 was never heard from. Keeling told the boys this and it was unanimously agreed that this would be changed.

The 42 met their first competition against other troops at the Kick-a-boo-kie in Ft. Mellon Park. The lads, weak in experience, placed in a couple of events but were outstanding in number and all in uniform.

Following on the heels of the Kick-a-boo-kie, Camp-O-Res at Camp Wilderness for the District in uniform, still shy on experience, but offering no excuses, participated in this competition. The Scouts of Troop 214 brought home several Blue Ribbons and placed Second in the overall completion of games and camping, but first in the hearts of all the Leaders and in the eyes of the other Troops.

The Armed Forces Day Parade saw 34 members of the Troop looking sharp and proud to be part of the parade. The Troop has averaged an overnight camping trip a month since December and not less than 32 Scouts have been present on each hike.

The Sponsor of this Troop, Elk's Club BPOE 1211 offered two free trips to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Penn. and one free trip to Camp LaNoche, Palestine. The three outstanding Scouts were chosen on their merits of Scouting; and a 250 word essay on "What Scouting Means to Me" was the basis of selection. This final judgement was made at the National Boy Scout Headquarters.

Will join the Troop for a Summer camp leaving Sanford Sunday, June 23. A total of 37 boys will make this week long camp, the largest group from any area.

The Colors of Troop 214 of Sanford will be carried by Jerry Henson and Don Coleman, first and second place winners, at the National Jamboree. They will leave by bus July 8, at 7 a.m. and arrive at Valley Forge, July 9. With the local Scouts will be 35 other Scouts from Central Florida District. These 37 Scouts will join some 30,000 Boy Scouts from all over the Country and many foreign Countries. It will be a City in itself on the famous Battle Ground, an event that takes place but once every four years. Many sight-seeing tours and events are planned. The Central Florida boys leave the Jamboree on July 19 with a sight seeing tour of the Capitol of the Nation on the return trip, the boys will arrive at Orlando July 21, 8 p.m.

Troop 214, Sanford, appearing at its first District Court of Honor on Monday night at DeLand, walked a way hands with Attendance honors, 25 Scouts and 88 parents and visitors. Inspection Honors went to Troop 214 with all boys in uniform and looking "sharp" as well as proud. A clean sweep was made with Troop 214 winning the Advancements Honor.

Advancements went to following Scouts: second class Rank: Jack Elam, Alex Carman, Fred Sells, Robert Smith, Darne Clemmer, Wayne Clemmer, Jack Caslo, LeRoy Groover, Johnny Clark, Tommy Miller, First Class Rank: Danny Mathers, Donald Wilmon, Richard Jansen, Kenneth White, Johnny Jansen, Richard Keefe,

The highest rank for the night went to Cliff Ables, Star Rank. Before the summer is over Troop 214 of Sanford will be known all the way to Pennsylvania and back. The present Leaders are Scoutmaster D. E. Coleman, Explorer Advisor J. H. McDaniel and Assistant Scoutmasters R. L. McKnight and R. I. Elam.

New Defense Highway Route Is Proposed

Board Refuses To Put 11 Lots Up For Public Sale

Casselberry Motel Operator Beaten By Unknown Man

Mrs. Robert G. O'Neil, operator of the Top Motel in Casselberry, was severely beaten about the face by a man apparently applying for a room, according to the records of the Seminole County Sheriff's office.

The incident occurred last night between 8:30 and 9 o'clock. The woman was taken to the Winter Park Hospital for treatment.

The man whose identity has not yet been revealed abandoned his automobile in a Casselberry field. Warrants for the man have been issued by Deputy Sheriff Pat Bayer and Florida Highway Patrol Trooper T. Mark Mack investigated.

A 17-year-old Sanford boy is being held in the Seminole County Jail on a charge of rape, according to the records there. Virgil Lee Gracy was arrested and is being held on a warrant issued by Seminole County Judge Ernest Housholder. No other name was given in the Sheriff's records.

A 35-year-old man, whose last name is Egert, pushed his way into the side of an automobile over the weekend, according to the Sheriff's Department records. The man was taken to the Winter Park Hospital for treatment and has been released. No charges were filed against the man or driver of the automobile, William Hossman of Sanford.

P. Wise Jr. was being held in the Seminole County Jail on a charge of grand larceny. He has been released under a $1,000 bond. The grand larceny charge involved the taking of a 600 gallon tank, hand pump, and other merchandise.

Fred Kelly, a Sanford Negro, is being held in the Seminole County Jail on a charge of assault with intent to kill. The Negro turned himself in after he severely beat a Negro woman. His bond was set at $2,500.

The Board of Seminole County Commissioners, in a complete reversal of its stand at previous meetings, refused to place eleven lots, adjacent to the Seminole County Courthouse, up for public sale.

Voting against the sale of the property which is estimated would bring $4,000 minimum revenue in taxes to the county were Board Chairman Fred Dyon, Commissioner B. C. Dodd, and Commissioner Homer Little.

Voting for the sale of the 11 lots were Commissioners John Krider and Lawrence Swafford.

Seminole Attorney Mack N. Cleveland advised the Board of Commissioners at its meeting yesterday afternoon that the "property can be legally sold."

"You can also include in the deed for the property whatever restrictions the county might want to impose," said the County Attorney.

Chairman Fred Dyon's remarks were "The more I think about it the more I realize that the county will need it. We should have a public hearing on the question of whether or not it should be sold."

Commissioner John Krider quickly answered "I feel this one thing—I went through that public hearing when I ran for this office. That's what we were elected for—to decide such issues as this."

Commissioner Homer Little's excuse for voting against the sale of the property probably came in a remark he made prior to the vote when he said "I wouldn't want to sell it to somebody to speculate."

Chairman Dyon contended "The way we're growing the vault downstairs will be full in two years. Then why don't we start building now," said Commissioner Krider.

Commissioners unanimously agreed that the county could not afford to build a new courthouse and neither would the taxpayers agree to adding additional taxes for the construction of one now.

"Let's start a fund," said Commissioner Dodd.

"With what and where are you going to get the money?" Commissioner Krider retorted.

Commissioners attempted to avoid the vote on the issue but were repeatedly called back to the subject by Commissioner Krider.

Now is the time to make known which way you'll vote, said Krider.

County Commission Clerk O. P. Herndon interrupted the conversation to say "If you're going to disburse your assets then you should sell."

It was following the remark from the Clerk that the vote was taken.

Bandits Force Way Into Star's Home; Take Cash, Jewels

HOLLYWOOD — Four armed bandits forced their way into the home of Lauritz Melchior late Tuesday night and robbed the opera star and his family of $175,000 in cash, jewels and furs, police reported.

Detectives said the bandits tied up Melchior and his wife, Marie, before fleeing from the swank home on Mulholland Drive. Officers said the Melchiors were uninjured.

Officers said the men wore stocking masks. They said the bandits ordered Melchior to turn over all the cash he had in the house in addition to the jewels and his wife's fur coat.

Melchior told police the bandits were "real courteous and gentlemanly." He said they forced him to open a safe containing the jewels and $300 in cash.

Sgt. William Vowles said the four men rang the doorbell and a maid answered. He said they forced the maid to ring the doorbell and at this time Melchior came to the door.

Vowles said the men pulled a gun on Melchior and forced him and the maid into the living room where Mrs. Melchior was reading. The men also hustled the Melchior's cook into the room and quickly put the lot into a bag after ordering the singer to open the safe.

Delegation Offers Sketches New Girls' State Officers Are Sworn In By B. Roberts

A delegation from Altamonte Springs headed by Leslie Bryant, chairman of the Florida Planning and Zoning Commission, discussed the Seminole County route of the Limited Access Highway yesterday with the Board of Seminole County Commissioners.

Also taking part in the discussion was the Seminole County delegation including Senator Douglas Stenstrom, Representative Mack N. Cleveland Jr. and Representative Gordon V. Frederick.

Members of the delegation, other than Bryant, included Bob Bradford, John Fox, Don Harris, and George B. Rogers, developer of Oakland Shores.

The delegation presented a blue print and sketches of a new route for the "Defense" highway as it is being called, which would bypass Altamonte Springs to the west.

John Fox contended that the new route "should be west of the city of Altamonte Springs where there are no acquisition problems."

However, in proposing the new route which would connect with the proposed cross-city leg of the route south of Altamonte Springs near Lee Road in Orange County, Commissioner John Krider remarked "I am satisfied you are going to have to arrange for a meeting with the State Road Department group in DeLand."

Fox contended that "this is not a South Seminole County problem alone for it takes a lot of money off the tax rolls of the entire county." He also contended the highway would, in all probability, open up a lot of property where the right-of-way goes through unimproved land.

Senator Stenstrom asked "If the Board of Seminole County Commissioners could authorize its engineer, L. P. Hagan, to look into the situation and make a recommendation."

Commissioner Krider stated that "we would offer our cooperation to discover the route that will

Some 250 girls are attending at Florida State University to learn about the running of the state's government.

Attending Girls' State from Sanford are Nancy Richards and Shirley Morgan.

The officials were elected Tuesday from a two-party slate of nominees.

Gayle Rooley of Daytona Beach was named governor from the Federalist Party.

Jean Vitek of Miami was elected secretary of state; Mary Ann Hollingsworth of St. Augustine, attorney general; Kay Kenny of St. Petersburg, treasurer; Jackie Gregory of Miami, comptroller; Jo Ann Harrison of Palmetto, commissioner of agriculture; and Susan Lee Shuler of Fort Lauderdale, superintendent of public instruction.

Supreme Court seats captured by the Federalists went to Ann Sessions of Kissimmee; Pat Smith of Dade City; Linda May Beck of Orlando, and Jane Phelps of Lakeland.

The Nationalists placed three on the high court—Julie Thorburn, St. Augustine; Mary Howell, Neptune Beach, and Pat Nelson of Miami.

FP&L Installation Here To Expand

McGregor Smith, chairman of the board of Florida Power and Light Company, revealed in the June issue of Sunshine News, a company published magazine, that the 20,000 kw installation here will be expanded to a 160,000 kw unit.

"Our company, which brought us generating capability beyond one million kw mark in a little over 30 years it has been in existence is already planning to more than double that capacity before another five years has gone by," said McGregor Smith in his Sunshine News article.

No definite date was given for beginning the expansion program for the installation here.

However, it was said that "Well along in the planning stage is a 160,000 unit at Sanford, dwarfing

Big Road Construction Plan Told

TALLAHASSEE — Florida plans the biggest road construction program in its history during the coming fiscal year, a good part of it in collaboration with the federal government.

The State Road Board Tuesday approved a record budget of $321,781,300 for the year starting July 1, the biggest chunk of it—$173,000,000—paid for by the federal government.

Richard Grant, District Engineer at DeLand, said this morning that the only new project in the coming budget for Seminole County would be the approach to the Osteen Bridge at a cost of approximately $50,000.

However, the new budget includes the two projects already stated for the county, the north section of 17-92 which got underway last week and the State Road 46 project from Melville Ave. to Lake Jessup which is slated to be let next Tuesday.

Road Board Member William A. Dial said this morning that "plans

Lions Install New Officers Last Night At Annual Event

Officers of the Sanford Lions Club were installed at the club's annual Ladies Night event at the Elk's Club.

Burton Brown, International Counselor of DeLand was the installing officer.

Dallas Loop, the club's outgoing president, reported on the past year's accomplishments. He told the group of Lions and their ladies immediately following the banquet "1956-57 hasn't been an outstanding one but it has been a good year."

In the year's activities, Loop included 55 specific activities in which the club participated. Ten pairs of eye glasses were bought, there were 35 eye examinations, operated 46 gum ball machines, and sponsored the 30th year of Little League Baseball.

"We conducted a light bulb sale under the leadership of Ben Wade," from which we realized $400 and co-sponsored with the Casselberry Lions Club a variety show from which the club received $150."

Judge Valle A. Williams Jr., immediately prior to the installing of new officers, presented C. C. Welch an attendance pin for five years perfect attendance.

Outgoing president Dallas Loop, introducing the installation ceremony said "the club's membership next year will be in the hands of good Lions."

Burton Brown, commenting on the report of the previous year's activities stated "Think what your city would be like had you not participated in those activities."

The efforts that are put into keeping a club together result in better things, said Brown "I think all of us come out as better Lions after experiencing the trials and tribulations."

He also congratulated C. C. Welch for his perfect attendance and said "Through your attendance you'll become interested in what's going on."

Officers installed were: W. Hugh Duncan, Club President; H. W. "Buddy" Rawls, 1st vice president; Joe Barnes, 2nd vice president; Clifford Ables, 3rd vice president; Jack K. Morrison, secretary-treasurer; Grady L. Duncan, Lion Tamer; Jack E. Stember, Tail Taster; and Directors Ben F. Wade, Clarence C. Welch, James S. Williamson Jr., and Edward S. McCall.

President Defends Civil Rights Plan

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today defended his civil rights program as a very moderate, decent one.

He told his news conference he was disappointed that some opponents contended it would destroy their own civil rights. He apparently referred to critics who attacked the House passed measure on grounds it would deprive persons of trial by jury in certain cases.

Eisenhower said the program was designed with the idea of moderation and not with the idea of persecution of anyone.

He ducked a question about whether he would recommend that Republicans try to keep the Senate in session long enough to break any filibuster by southern Democrats against the legislation.

In other news conference highlights, Eisenhower:

Supreme Court Study
Said the Justice Department is studying recent far-reaching Supreme Court decisions on the question of constitutional rights of individuals. He declined to comment on whether he believes the court has gone too far at the expense of law enforcement procedures and investigative functions of Congress. However, he indicated the administration might ask for new legislation in offset parts of the decisions.

Described the most recent disarmament proposals by the Russians as hopeful signs which deserve the most earnest and energetic study. He said he would be willing to make some temporary arrangement to suspend nuclear tests, with safeguards as a preliminary step toward general disarmament on a permanent basis.

County Medical Examiner E. R. Koontz said after an autopsy that Mrs. Margaret O'Grady, about 61, died of a brain hemorrhage apparently caused by a fall or blow on the head. But he said he found no evidence of such a blow. The woman was arrested for drunkenness after police said she called for help over her telephone party line. Police said the woman had a record as an alcoholic.

Mrs. O'Grady, who died in her cell about 1:30 p. m., said when she arrived at police headquarters that her husband truck her but O'Grady denied this.

Church Families Will Be Given Money To Invest

Sunday morning, following the sermon on "The Parable of the Pounds," by the Rev. Parry L. Stone, the First Christian Church of Sanford, will give to each church family a crisp, new $10 bill, to be invested by them until Thanksgiving. On the Sunday following that day or Dec. 1, each family is to bring into the church the original amount plus whatever increase they have achieved during five-and-a-half months.

The planning committee, consisting of Earl Evans, chairman; George W. Morgan, E. C. Dodson, Mrs. W. L. Rowland and Mrs. Chandler Val, have sent out a letter this week explaining the project. Each family is asked to be present next Sunday for the initiation of the plan. The money is needed for the planned Religious Education Building to care for the crowded classes of the church school, and for its growing fellowship program.

New 'Combination' Vaccine Discovered

CARMEL, Calif. — A "combination" vaccine for polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus can now be used effectively and with no apparent hazards on babies, a Nashville, Tenn. research scientist has reported.

Dr. Randolph Batson of Vanderbilt University told members of the American Pediatric Society that polio vaccine and other vaccines can also be administered to infants under six weeks of age.

Batson said he and other scientists working on vaccine reactions feel that "if significant antibody responses were demonstrated in this age group the poliomyelitis vaccination program could be integrated into well established well baby and immunization procedures."

Such antibody responses were observed in practically all cases, he said.

Her owners, Mr. and Mr. B. F. Banks, say the cat locked the bathroom door Tuesday. The lock is 2 1/2 feet above the floor.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

I was in prison and ye came unto me.—Matt. 25:36.

County Can Grow If Progressive Methods, Faith Are Brought Forth

A good farm must produce crops, if not, the farmer could not exist. A good business must produce customers for the revenue necessary to keep that store or factory in operation. A professional man must use every resource at his disposal to offer his services in the very best manner possible.

And so it is with a city or county—all of its resources must be used to advantage for revenue to keep its government in operation. If not, the community is not progressive and its success is limited.

With each municipality or county government revenue must come from the taxpayers on whom the burden is shifted.

Yesterday, idle land was reduced to further idleness. When an opportunity came to place vacant, useless, unprofitable, expensive land into use, these vested with the authority to do so shifted the extra burden of taxes onto the shoulders of the taxpayers 'round about.

It was admitted that no one knew how much the eleven lots in question would bring as an initial payment to Seminole County. Some guessed $50,000. There was another who ventured that they would bring $75,000, or even more.

But that was just a start. Buildings on the property proposed for sale would bring the county government upward of $4,000 a year. Again, no one knew just how much the government would reap from its investment.

Too much of the land within city and county boundaries are reduced to non-revenue producing areas and as demands from modern thinking citizens begin to mount, governments are bewildered as to which way to turn to gain revenue as budgets begin to soar.

Commissioners admit that coming budgets will have to be doubled, even tripled in some instances, in order to meet the demands for more and better roads; equipment to service roads; additional personnel for offices and equipment; for all of the needs to support a mushrooming community.

Idle lands owned by the county are taking money out of the pockets of Seminole County citizens since the revenues ordinarily produced from these lands must be replaced by additional taxation.

Sanford and Seminole County can progress along with Central Florida if progressive methods and faith in the growth of the community are manifested by those who guide it and manage its affairs.

One of the most backward steps the county could have taken yesterday was its refusal to put into circulation revenue producing land that is destined to stay "mere vacant lots."

Polio Picture Is Changing

With the introduction of the Salk vaccine the polio picture in this country has undergone a radical change. Since this change has a bearing on the health of your entire family, you ought to know about it.

Here's what has happened in the past few years:

Children from five to nine years old used to be one of the largest group of victims. In 1952 they accounted for 24 per cent of all paralytic cases. By now most of these school youngsters have been vaccinated and the proportion of cases among them is declining. In 1956 it dropped to 16 per cent of all cases. That's the bright side of the picture.

Of course, with a decline in one age group, there has been a corresponding rise in percentages among other age groups not yet protected by Salk vaccine.

Take pre-school youngsters under five years old, for instance. In 1952 they comprised 29 per cent of all paralytic cases. In 1956 the proportion had climbed to 39 per cent. Infants one and two years old had the highest percentage of all. That's why polio authorities like the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis urge that they be first on the vaccination list.

The next vulnerable group in the new polio picture are teenagers and young adults from 15 to 40 years. In 1952 they comprised 35 per cent of paralytic cases. In 1956 the percentage was 34 per cent. Since polio paralysis is especially disastrous to wage earners in a family, they need protection urgently.

Think these figures over. If your school-age children have been vaccinated, that's fine. But don't forget the other members under 40 in your family, starting with the baby.

Mental Health

The National Association of Mental Health has come forward with some good advice for people who suffer from tension—that is to say, for almost all of us. A booklet published by the group points out that a certain amount of tension is helpful in some situations, and that reaching for a tranquilizer is by no means the best solution.

The conditions of life in our complex society make a certain amount of tension from time to time almost inevitable. Life for most of us is not placid but consists of a series of challenges and perhaps aggravations. These tend to build up worries and tensions. Dr. George S. Stevenson, author of the mental health group's booklet, argues that such tensions should be dealt with intelligently.

There is nothing particularly new in his advice but it is sound and well worth repetition. For one thing, Dr. Stevenson says, worry should not be bottled up within one. It should be talked about, if possible; the mind should be diverted, too—with a book, a movie, a brief trip—to give it some relief from concentrating on worries. Anger can be worked off by games or physical activity, even by such a mundane thing as cleaning out the garage or hoeing the flowers. Dr. Stevenson also advises us to give in occasionally, take one thing at a time, do something for others, recognize that all human beings have faults that must be allowed for.

This is sound approach. It is based on the idea that individuals can do much about their own mental health, just as they can do much to keep themselves physically fit. Pills and nostrums are no guarantee of physical health. By the same token, tranquilizer pills do not get at the root of worries, tensions and other common mental ailments.

The Old Days
Lewiston, Me.—Faculty members of the Bliss Business College unearthed several 19th century rule books when they recently celebrated the school's 60th anniversary. Along with an announcement that the school would teach use of a new machine, the typewriter, the handbooks stated: "Young ladies are admitted on the same terms as young gentlemen."

Four Measuring

U. S. Dollar Slowly Losing Beauty

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Closer to home and pocket than nuclear fallout or the effect of tobacco smoke on the human lung is that beautiful item, the United States dollar.

It is not pretty to contemplate the possibility of physical deformities among humans caused by nuclear fallout. There is nothing attractive about lung cancer. That beautiful United States dollar is going to look as bad as either or both of the foregoing if the present trend of creeping inflation continues. Inflation is a college word which doesn't mean much to living Americans because they never have been up against what the word signifies.

Ostrans Everything
The word signifies a situation in which money goes bad — goes so bad that shopkeepers don't want it, so bad that waiters prefer a cigaret to money as a tip, bad enough that a man with a pocketful of dollars might die of starvation while gazing into a food store window.
When inflation really gets going everything. Not even the most generous employer with the fastest purse can raise his employees' salaries fast enough to provide a living wage. The first babies to starve to death are the children of persons on fixed incomes. The first adults to go are pensioners and others whose income also are fixed.

Inflation is deadly stuff, like cancer, and, maybe, more than fallout deformities. The inflation of currency is reflected in a steadily descending purchasing power of money. It can be a slow and gradual process as presently in the United States, or it can strike with snake suddenness after some national catastrophe, such as defeat in war.

Like A Snowball
Gradual inflation is like a down hill snowball. It picks up speed or momentum, and if it picks up enough it becomes uncontrolled inflation. That is the point of no return. Beyond that point lies measurable human suffering and absolute economic chaos.
There is an inflation snowball in the United States today and it is

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Kwame Nkrumah, leader of Africa's newest nation, seems to be having a wonderful time.

Not only is he prime minister of Ghana, the former British Gold Coast colony, but he also is its foreign and defense minister.

He enjoys virtual dictatorial power as head of his Convention People's Party.

He has moved into magnificent Christiamberg Castle, which used to be the residence of the British colonial governor.

And now Nkrumah is having his own head, instead of that of Queen Elizabeth II, put on Ghana's stamps and coins.

His political opponents are not pleased. They complain that he spent nearly $200,000 in having the 300-year-old castle, built by Danish traders, fixed up for himself and his mother. He is a bachelor and she is his official hostess.
Supporters Answer Complaints

Nkrumah's supporters say the castle was renovated to house the Duchess of Kent, who represented her niece Queen Elizabeth when Ghana attained its independence last March 6 as the ninth member of the British Commonwealth.

The opponents retort that with Nkrumah occupying the castle, the taxpayers will have to pay for the construction of a new and equally impressive residence for the new British governor-general.

In the castle incident, and in the decision to put Nkrumah's head on the stamps and coins, his opponents see signs of delusions of grandeur and hint that Ghana is heading toward a dictatorship which might take either a Fascist or an extreme leftist slant.

Nkrumah said in his inaugural speech that he would pursue a pro-Western policy. He asked Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who represented President Eisenhower at the ceremony, for American cooperation.

Nkrumah's enemies say that at one time he carried a Communist Party membership card. Nkrumah points out that it was unsigned. He says he carried it only so he could get into Communist meetings and learn about scries himself as a Marxist Socialist. Both Britain and the United States regard him as a Democratic-minded man and an anti-Communist.

Nkrumah is 47. He is an eloquent speaker. He has a thick head of bushy frizzled hair. He was born in a mud hut, the son of a goldsmith. After he attended a Roman Catholic mission school and Achimota College in the Gold Coast, a diamond prospecting uncle gave him the money to go to the United States. Nkrumah entered Lincoln University, near Philadelphia in 1935. He took degrees as a bachelor of arts and of sacred theology.

Returns Home in 1947
After his graduation, he became an instructor in philosophy, and also took the degree of master of arts in anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania. After 10 years in the United States, he went to London and returned home in 1947 after attending the London School of Economics.

As soon as he got home, Nkrumah got political. He was jailed for taking part in strike riots and later got a three-year prison term for fomenting strikes. While he was in prison, Britain gave its colony a constitution and held elections. Nkrumah's party won a landslide victory.

The governor, accepting him as a popular hero, released him and he was made leader of the native government, with powers approximating those of a prime minister.

Raisins destined for cakes and breads will be plump and juicy if they first are soaked in warm water and then added to the batter or dough.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

Anne Bear has left with her children for several weeks visit with her family in Peoria, Illinois. Terry and Jim Martin slipped out of the navy and out of town before many people were aware of it. Understand Joanie Fellini is in the hospital, but still no reports on the baby. Either the grapevine is slow or she is still waiting.

This is VAH-11 news that I squeezed out of Polly Brubaker, Polly and Don have orders to the Staff, and will be a great addition. VAH-11 will feel the loss, although perhaps they will be able to keep up with groups as Spook Hook does. For a while it seemed Spook would keep up with three.

Am in a great rush, as Bob's parents are arriving this afternoon from Palm Beach. They are on their way to Yarmouth, Maine for the summer. My oldest child, Portia, is leaving with them on Thursday, and I for one wish I could hide in some suitcase. How I miss the cold blue water and the smell of spruce and balsam. Even miss the foggy days, when the sea is gray and calm, and everything drips. And all uprooted New Englanders miss the boiled lobsters and creamed clams, saturated in butter and preferably eaten on a craggy rock over looking the ocean or a fisherman's cove. Nostalgia is a strange emotion. Sometimes I feel the same way about New York City or Saipan. And undoubtedly will about Sanford when we leave. The grass was always greener when you were there, but you never take the time to appreciate it fully. Once, over three years ago, I swam daily in the ocean off Virginia Beach—that perfect temperature, delicious salt water—and every minute I said to myself:

"Enjoy it, it will be a long time before you have such pleasure again" and constantly the memory of those swims will come to me and entertain this dreamer with visions of a cool green expanse of water. By now, most of my readers must have the idea that I am hot. And who is not?

At this moment I am talking to Rosemary Duncan, saying goodbye. Her voice, reverberates with that hollow tone from an empty house. The movers are almost through and it is nearly time for the Duncans to leave. They are going to Rosemary's home in Pensacola, then to Ohio to see Cliff's family before reporting to Boston. Rosemary was one of my A number 1 reporters and I will miss her tremendously—and for other reasons, as well.

Woman's View

NEW YORK — Good looks and charm help a girl in the business world. But one successful business woman warns that the combination only opens the doors, it doesn't guarantee tenacity. This advice to the girl graduate job hunting this summer comes from Dorothy Noyes, who managed to become a big wheel in advertising without developing an ulcer.

Miss Noyes is vice president and treasurer of Noyes and Sproul, Inc., an agency specializing in medical and pharmaceutical advertising. She was named Advertising Woman of 1957 by the Advertising Federation of America.

"Don't depend too much on good looks and charm," said Miss Noyes, who has both. "They may open the doors, but they won't make the sale."

Just Beginning
This was one of the five "do's" she believes all job applicants, men and women, should remember. The other four:

"Don't think your college diploma is the end of your education; actually you are just beginning to learn."

"Don't look for a mate who is physically attractive only. Don't fitter away your leisure time. Plan how to use it as constructively as your office hours."

"And as a girl, don't base all your hopes on being just a homemaker. Be prepared to contribute to the family income if it is necessary."

She also listed five "do's":
"Do devote yourself wholeheartedly and constructively to the job."

"Do all you can to improve your skills; learn all you can in the scientific, mathematical and technical fields especially."

"Do find out as soon as you can what you are most interested in, and then go after a job in that field as fast as you can."

Do More
"Do more than your daily job requires. Everyone owes something to his or her community, and to the advancement of his or her profession."

"Do develop an interest in things international... be aware of what is happening in the world around you."

Miss Noyes, a native of Baltimore, began her career at 18, when she began a librarian for a medical society. By the time she was 24, she was account executive and copy writer for a New York agency specializing in pharmaceutical advertising. Then she decided to open her own business, and with Eugene Sproul, another specialist in the same field, formed the Noyes and Sproul agency.

She later married Sproul. The couple is now divorced although the business partnership is going strong. The couple has one child, Barbara, 12.

Spring flowers decorated the living room and dining room of the home—pink and blue colors predominating.

Now Hear This!

JACKY FENWICK

Attendance fell off a few couples at the Monday night square dances at the Chief's Club. Not considering all the people taking off left and right, the crowd was very good. Twelve couples showed up, enough for three squares. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brinn, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Higgenbotham, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bone, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Rawls, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Higgenbotham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson who again brought as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robson. The group has definitely decided to move outside while the weather is so warm, though they haven't decided on an exact place as yet.

Finally found out a few details about Saturday night's party for the new chief, Sidney Veklin's orchestra was on hand to play for the dancing, and in addition, there was a nice buffet set up for the guests. Baked beans, potato salad, sliced cheese and ham, pickles and olives, etc., comprised the menu. The "proper" beverages were available to make this a good, all-around party! The Japanese lanterns and other decorations from Friday night's farewell party for Capt. and Mrs. Jackson were left in place, and added as much to this affair as they did to the other.

Real ashamed of myself for not getting around to congratulating Bill and Alice Pulver's son on their "blessed event!"

His name is Michael Douglas, and he weighed in at 7 lbs. 3 ozs. A husky little boy, and he'll have to be, to keep up with Daddy and Stevie! Alice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Finlayson of Washington, D. C., are visiting the Pulver's at their home on Forest Drive. The proud grandparents don't plan to tear themselves away from their grandsons until after the Fourth of July. Nice for Alice, as a girl always needs her mother at a time like this.

Those of you who remember Louisa and Jay Goldman when Jay was in IATU, will be happy to hear that they are now the proud parents of a baby girl, born on June 7. They've named her Lenore. Arlene. They have one little boy named Michael, and I imagine a girl was just what they were looking forward to.

Katie and Bud Horn left Monday on a month's leave. They and their little Cindy are heading first to Alabama, where they'll visit Katie's family, and then on to Akron, Ohio, to visit Bud's family. Katie and Bud have made plans to get together in Akron as Bud's trip will take her that far also. She too left on Monday with her daughter Lucille, and goes first to Harrisville, West Virginia, and then on to Akron. She plans to be back in time to greet her returning VAH-17 husband Rex. He should be in some time late in July.

Latest bulletin on our new couple. He definitely takes after my husband! They are both stretched out on the couch, fast asleep!

Singer Thinks Pop Music Lost

NEW YORK — Andy Williams, a singer who gets his own TV show next month, seems to have found himself. But his business-pop music seems to be lost.

"Everybody in this business is groping right now," said Williams who kicks off a 15-minute music segment with June Valli on NBC July 2. The show will replace the Jonathan Winters offering.

"The record business is run by grown-ups, but it's the kids who make or break a record now. They're the ones buying all the singles. It's gotten to the point where the heads of some record companies are checking with their kids to find out whether a record can make it or not."

Steve Allen Singer Williams, who used to chirp on the Steve Allen "Tonight" show, currently cuts for Cadence Records, a firm run by Archie Bleyer. You may remember Bleyer as one of the earliest refugees from the Arthur Godfrey family.

The 23-year-old Williams, who has been singing professionally since he was eight, never managed to dent the juke boxes until recently. However, over the past few months he has hit with "Canadian Sunset," "Butterfly" and "I Like Your Kind of Love."

"I don't make records to please myself anymore," said Williams. "You can't do that and stay in business. I make a record that I hope will sell."

Want Rock 'n' Roll
"Right now, the kids want rock 'n' roll. So I give them rock 'n' roll. I don't dilute it—I think some of it is good and some of it is terrible. I don't say it's the best music, but I don't think it's as bad as some adults."

Williams and Miss Valli promise to give the entire musical spectrum a fair shake when they unveil their new show.

"Everybody's moaning about the music business now," said Williams, "but there are good tunes around like 'On the Street Where You Live' and 'Joey.' Everybody's always asking where are the great ones like 'Body and Soul,' but they forget the junk that was sung back then, too."

"As for rock 'n' roll, it's not all alike as some think. I wish it were just formula music. If it were that simple, I could make a million dollars with a new hit record every week."

Correct Habits Of Eating

By EVANGELIST CEMER, Health Specialist
There is no doubt that the average person gives less thought to the selection of his food and so what he eats and drinks than to any other act of his life. He eats what he likes or what is set before him without considering his bodily requirements or the fitness of what is eaten for supplying the body's daily needs.

If a person has a good appetite, the capacity of the stomach may be the only limit to the amount of food taken. Dr. Hindeha of Denmark, a great authority on diet, speaking from wide experience, has said that the chief causes of disease are food and drink.

Our food should not only supply heat and energy, but material for repair and replacement as well. It should contain elements which sustain the body and protect against disease. In selecting our food, three things should be kept in mind. More than six million school children in the United States are suffering from malnutrition. The vast majority of these little ones are improperly nourished not because they receive insufficient food, but improper food. Many times cases of malnutrition among children are found in the families that are well able to provide abundance of good nourishing food, but who, because they lack knowledge on how to properly balance the family diet or lack of application of the knowledge have fallen into improper dietetic habits.

The command "Let Your Soul Delight Itself in Fatness" suggests that God planned that we should enjoy our food while "waiting for strength." The purpose of eating is not alone for enjoyment but for the supplying of the necessary elements for growth and work.

This is really not a difficult problem but it does mean that we must understand something of food values and how to balance the diet.

To make it possible for you to improve your health and the health of your family, Mr. Cemer will conduct special FREE HEALTH CLASSES in connection with his Evangelical Meetings.

FRIDAY, JUNE 21, WOMAN'S CLUB AUDITORIUM
In the first class, Mr. Cemer, who has helped thousands physically and spiritually, will show you according to U. S. Health Dept. Tests "How To Add 10 Years To Your Life." U. S. Legion Baseball Team Loses Season Opener To Orlando

Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — The big plane thundered up from the Toledo Airport and broke through on top of a solid layer of thick white clouds and the handsome blond man looked out the window musingly.

"I've been on top of a lot of clouds," he smiled slowly, "and I've been under a few, too."

Frank Stranahan ran a big, sun-tanned hand along his square cut jaw and looked out the window again. He had just finished in a tie for 13th in the U. S. Open, played over his home Inverness course, and now he was off on the first leg of his 10th trip to England to compete in the British Open.

He was, even this high, under a personal cloud. Because Frank had been one of the well-liked choices in the Open on a course he had played since boyhood. Thirteenth wasn't very lucky for him.

Mayer Win No Upset
"I don't see why they call it an upset when Dick Mayer beat Cary Middlecoff," he said reflectively.

"Everybody in the Open has a chance or he wouldn't be there in the first place, particularly the tournament pros."

"Take the time when Jack Fleck beat Ben Hogan," he added.

"They forgot that Fleck had been working on his game 10 or 15 years. They acted like he came right out of a cow pasture to play Hogan. They should remember he's a fine player, even though Hogan is the greatest and probably still will win the Open again."

You wondered, while he spoke, whether he was finding a reason why those 12 who finished ahead of him had been able to beat him on his own lot.

"When they held the Open at Inverness in 1927, Ted Ray drove the green on that dog-legged seventh hole four times," he said.

"Now the manufacturers say every year that they add 10 yards to the ball. Well, in just 10 years that should add up to 100 yards. But the closest anybody came in the seventh green this time was 20 yards short of the green."

Frank Liked Britain
He was watching the fat white clouds below again now, his mind leaping ahead and on across the ocean. Now his mind was on top of them.

"Funny," he said slowly, "but British galleries are different from ours. They appreciate the play but they don't yell and whistle like we do."

Britain is a happy place to Stranahan. He won two of the seven British Amateurs in which he played and another time was runner-up. This will be his 10th British Open and he was second twice. Now he hopes to win it. It's a matter of personal progress, not a matter of money to this son of a Toledo industrialist.

With which, Frank Stranahan took one more look at the clouds and went to sleep.

The Sanford American Legion Baseball team blew a four run lead yesterday afternoon in a reaction to what they termed several bad calls and bowed to Orlando 9-4 in the season opener in Orlando.

Going into the fifth inning with a 4-0 lead the Sanford team, behind steady pitching from Eddie Barbour, fell apart as tension mounted from calls by the Orlando umpires.

Apparently pitching his way to a season opening victory, Barbour fell apart after a close play at the plate by Sanford catcher Bobby Johnson in which the Orlando player was called safe. The steal play at home plate followed closely behind a similar incident at second base.

Ken McMurray was called on for relief duty for Sanford but the team failed to rally and played hitless ball for the rest of the game.

The Sanford American Legion lineup to date is:

Doyle Corley, 2nd base
Jim Wright, ss
Ronnie Russi, 3rd base
Johnny Yeackle, CF
Claude Hittell, 1st base
John Barley, LF
Bobby Johnson, C
Cecil Dandridge, RF
Eddie Barbour, P
Ken McMurray, P
Jack Slotzky, OF Henry Russi, OF
George Harriet, IF

McMurray is scheduled to start on the mound for Sanford Thursday afternoon at 3:30 on Field One as they play host to powerful Ocala.

Hall Pitches Fleet Reserve To Victory

A. D. Hall pitched the Fleet Reserve team to the first victory in the Sanford City Softball League last night as he went the entire route with no hits and no runs to start the season with a perfect pitched game.

Edging out Robson Sporting Goods 3-0 in the thrilling opener, Hall and his teammates drew in to sudden prominence and became the team to beat this far in the young season.

Hall sidlined the one hit pitcher of Robson's Jowers who also went the full route and suffered the loss despite plenty of speed and surrendering only one hit. Jowers fell behind the tally in the first inning as he found trouble with his control, but he smoothed out to pitch no-hit, no-run ball until Reserve pitcher A. D. Hall rapped out a single to spell trouble.

Only three of Robson's players touched first base as Hall racked up the perfect game.

Discussion Set Tonight On Semi-Pro Baseball League

Official and sportswriters concerned with the Central Florida Semi-Pro Baseball League will meet in Orlando tonight to discuss problems of the League.

The meeting, prompted by several confused schedules, is to iron out all "wrinkles" left after the first half of the baseball season.

W. C. "Red" Hires will represent Sanford for the team and sports editor Hugh Ansley will represent Seminole County newspapers, which covers four of the teams in the League.

Polio Season Is Getting Underway

By LOUIE CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Health authorities said today there is every reason to hope that this will be a light year for polio. But it is still too early to be sure. The polio season is just now getting underway. The number of cases usually climbs steadily from late June until August or September.

So far this year, there have been only about half as many polio cases as there were during the same period of 1956—and 1956 was itself a light year by comparison with the pre-Salk vaccine era.

Public Health Service figures published last week showed 1,033 polio cases reported through the 23 weeks ending June 8, compared with 2,040 during the same period last year.

A spokesman said the figures "are not very significant" this early in the season. Some of the worst epidemics have begun in July or August after a comparatively slow start.

65,000,000 Vaccinated
The main reason for hoping that this year's record will continue to be good, he said, is that nearly three-fourths of the people in the most susceptible group have received some degree of protection from Salk vaccine.

By June 1, 65,000,000 Americans had received one or more Salk shots. Nine million of these were vaccinated during April and May.

Polio strikes hardest among youths under 20 and among pregnant women. There are 67,000,000 people in this group, and 54,000,000 of them have had one or more shots.

Although polio incidence declines above age 20, it continues to be a substantial threat to all ages below 40. Only 11,000,000 of the 42,000,000 Americans other than pregnant women; between the ages of 20 and 40 have received shots.

Health Drive Successful
The American Medical Assn. and other health groups launched a nationwide drive last February to vaccinate everyone under 40. The response far exceeded expectations.

Within a few weeks, the "get vaccinated" campaign had stimulated such a heavy demand for vaccine that a backlog of 24,000,000 shots, built up during the winter, was exhausted.

By March 30, there was an acute nationwide shortage, and Surgeon General LeRoy H. Burney called an emergency conference to consider rationing. At that time, the national inventory of Salk shots stood at 3,200,000 doses—the lowest since the vaccine was released for use in 1955.

The March 30 conference decided to ration the vaccine until fall. In the meantime, communities were urged to give priority to young people under 20 and pregnant women. With these adjustments, it was felt that no return to voluntary rationing was necessary.

Decision Vindicated
Time seems to have vindicated this decision. Despite widespread vaccination program for school children during the past two months, supplies have held up well. By mid-June, the national inventory was 9,200,000 shots, an increase of six million since reviews two weeks ago.

"The first call after my show was from Ralph Edwards," she beamed. "He also sent me roses."

March 30. With manufacturers scheduled to release about 20 million more shots during July, health officials believe that supplies will be ample to meet all demands during the summer — unless an unexpectedly severe epidemic should develop.

The Public Health Service devoutly hopes that adults who have postponed getting their shots will go ahead with inoculations this fall and winter, when supplies again begin to pile up. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the American Medical Assn. plan to launch new adult — vaccination drives then.

Until the great majority of adults, as well as young people, have the protection of the vaccine, polio will continue to be a threat.

Winning Contests Science, Not Luck

Says W. Shepherd

By JAMES SCHOTTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA — In 23 weeks of less, finish this sentence: "I love whistles because..." Ever finish one of those sentences? Win the roundtrip to Patagonia and the furnished deep freeze?

Well, there's a man here who stopped entering contests 23 years ago and started advising other people how to win them. This year he gave his advice to 23,000 contest entrants. He has built up a million-dollar business on the theory that winning contests is "science, not luck."

Wilmer S. Shepherd Jr. won so many contests himself in the early 1930s that other contestants began writing to ask him how he did it. So he pushed aside the entry blanks and began answering the letters.

Contest School Born
It wasn't long before he decided there was more cash in that than winning refrigerators or toasters. And so the "Shepherd Correspondence School of Contest Technique" was born.

Today the business has two suites in an office building with a staff of nine, the 25,000 enrolled in the course pay $36 apiece. Eight thousand others subscribe to his bi-monthly contest bulletins. Shepherd-trained contestants—now known as "Shepherdites"—have won more than 4 million dollars. They have won 49 new cars so far this year. The Shepherdite recently won his 1,500th prize. A half dozen of them are scattered over the world right now on expense-paid tours.

Some firms around the country write contest entries and sell them, but each Shepherdite's work is his own.

Stick To Creative Field
"We stick to the creative commercial field," said Shepherd, a soft-spoken executive type in his 50s. "Last lines, naming contests—we're not in the puzzle field at all. We can't handle TV contests like 'The $64,000 Question.' They require specialized knowledge and we can't provide that."

Prize Show 'Jinx' Hits M. Williams

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — What happens to the tearful, happy subjects of "This is Your Life"?

To singer Mae Williams, recovering from a broken back and a bout with polio, appearing on the Sunday show Feb. 9, 1955, seemed a stroke of good fortune. Master of ceremonies Ralph Edwards happily announced that a New York night club job, a TV show, a beautiful bracelet, were to be hers.

But since then what has happened to Mae would make another weepy program. She was hit by the prize show "Jinx"—not a superstition, but a disrupting of her normal life that often hits excited winners of fame and fortune on television.

Manager Objected
Mae Williams, although some contest managers feel they enter on a professional basis and some are pretty irritated about it. Shepherd insists that they are not pros. Most of them, he says, are housewives.

His school is licensed by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction. The lessons go out in plain envelopes marked "Shepherd School." The school has a "library" of winning contest entries—40,000 of them by Shepherdites.

Shepherd has on file many letters of appreciation. One reads: "I am, as they say in Dixie, as happy as a dead pig in the sunshine. However, warm my sentiments, I could never have woven them into a winning statement without the techniques you've taught me."

Her "prize" of a singing job at Monte Proser's club in New York never came about.

Ralph Edwards did his part, but my manager and I couldn't agree," explained Mae. "I believe he asked too much money, and we never got together on a deal and then he was closed, so that took care of that."

"I was offered singing jobs all over the country. But my manager kept adding more money because of the 'This is Your Life' show—so I never got any of the jobs."

"We shot two episodes of my filmed TV series, and then that bogged down and never was finished or sold."

After a blow-up, Mae and her manager parted company.

"I couldn't get a job for $1 a day," he said.

Mae, known as the "hard-luck" singer, had to knock the gold bracelet Edwards gave her on the show. She later retrieved it from the pawn shop. She had to sell her house.

Luck Finally Turns
She opened a little nightclub here but had to close when the rent was doubled. Her father also had a stroke.

"Then I got a job in Bakersfield and my life began to go up," she smiled.

She met nightclub comic Vic Perry. After one date he proposed to her in the middle of his floor show, and one date later they were married last November.

Vic got Mae a record contract at Verve. With the movie producer she won on "This is Your Life," he showed the pilot film of her TV series — and it finally opened on a local station so good

Pony Is 35
BROOKINGS, S. D. — — There's a pony on the F. W. Pon to farm near here that is 35 years old. Three of the Pon to children, now all married, used the Shetland pony to ride to and from school. Pon to considered doing away with the animal several times, but each time the children intervened.

SPICED 'MILK SHAKE'
NOTTINGHAM, England — The mayor of Nottingham touched off what may have been the world's most spirited "milk shake" at a dairy festival Monday.

The mayor pushed a button which started automatic milking machines and also set a herd of cows, licking, belching, jumping and mooing.

An official said the Jersey bounced because a short circuit in the wiring of the milk machines gave each bovine a jolting series of electric shocks.

Body Chemistry

By DELOS SMITH
 United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK — A newly learned trick in body chemistry rescues the defenders against disease after they've been laid very low—which is not only a very neat trick but one which has life-saving possibilities for people.

These defenders are our scavenger cells, the phagocytes, which consume and digest foreign substances that could sicken and end up killing us if these phagocytes weren't both energetic and exceedingly devoted to duty.

Ordinarily there is peaceful co-existence if not quiet cooperation between them and the potent chemicals which come out of the adrenal glands — cortisone and its related hormones.

That goes, too, for their relations with hormones of other glands, especially those which, depending upon the abundance of production, are responsible for characteristic contours and features of men and women.

Effect Like Magic

Bodily things that were that way until it was discovered that when the body's normal supply of cortisone was increased from the outside, the effect upon inflammatory processes, like arthritis, was like magic.

Cortisone and its chemical derivatives become "miracle drugs." Chemists learned how to make them, in factories, and so suffering mankind was no longer dependent on animal bodies as sources of supply.

Then it was discovered that some people not in all people, mind heavy doses over a considerable time, laid the phagocytes very low. With the body defenders stymied, infections got going at a galloping pace.

Tuberculosis, for instance, and pneumonia, becoming bacteria which had been held in check by busy little phagocytes, suddenly became like the avalanche and an inflammatory process was reversed but the patient died.

That made cortisone and its derivatives, chemicals worthy of the most profound respect. They remained "miracle drugs" in the full sense of the word—but their use became matters for high skill and keen vigilance.

Biochemists Learn Tricks

Now, comes the trick learned by two biochemists, T. Nicol and D. I. J. Bihby, of King College, London. They took a laboratory-manufactured replica chemically speaking of one of the hormones manufactured in abundance by female bodies, which assist in making women feminine.

With techniques too complicated here, they found out what was the normal phagocytic activity in the bodies of male white mice. The average phagocytic activity index was 24.

Some of the mice were injected daily with heavy doses of cortisone for one week. Their phagocytic activity index sank to 7, which was more than enough to put them in grave peril from any infection which might be around.

Then they were injected daily with the synthetic female hormone, and their phagocytic activity index went up to 48—that is well above what it had been before there was any interference with their body chemistry.

Some mice were not injected with cortisone but were with the female hormone. Their index went up from the normal 24 to 108 which—in the dry words of the scientists—"indicated marked stimulation of phagocytic activity."

The next step is in finding out if what happened in mouse chemistry will happen in human chemistry. The scientists suggested it in their report in the technical journal, "Nature."

Eggers told the commissioners and delegation that the proposed route has stalemated the sale of homes and homesites for the present time.

Senator Stenstrom advised that "the point now is procedure. I'd like to see the route moved. The County Commission, now in session, could instruct its engineer to make the survey and recommend to the board a route, the delegation will offer its support."

The Board of Commissioners' approved the study by its engineer.

Commissioner Kridy stated that meeting of the Long Range Highway Planning Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce will be attempted on June 23. "We will try to get Road Board Members William A. Dial and District Engineer Richie Green to the meeting to talk over the proposal," he said.
