Antique tool swap meet

SANFORD — Members of three antique tool clubs will display and offer their collectables for trades at a swap meet on the grounds of the Seminole County Historical Museum this weekend.

Members of the Florida Flywheelers, the Society of Workers in Early Arts and Trades and the Midwest Tool Collectors Association will be on hand to show off examples of the earliest tools and machines in use in this country. The Celery City Cruisers will also display their member's vintage autos and trucks.

The swap meet, which will include food and drinks, was organized by George Scott, Sanford, a member of the Seminole County Historical Commission. The event will be held Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day. The event and the museum are open free to the public.

Children's stories at the zoo

SANFORD — Every Wednesday morning through April is storytime at the Central Florida Zoological Park. Pre-schoolers are invited to attend the free programs.

According to Marketing Coordinator Andrea Farmer, "It's an opportunity for children to learn about animals, sing songs about animals, and actually get a chance to meet many of them."

The Children's Storytime programs are open to children age 3 through 5, and will be held at the zoo's pavilion. The sessions begin at 10 a.m., and last approximately 45 minutes.

Stories are told by Sandi Pilwick, educational coordinator at the zoo, as well as a number of volunteer docents.

The next story, "Fond of a Pond" will be told next Wednesday, Mar. 11. "We hope an even larger number of children will turn out," Farmer said. "There is always room for more."

The Central Florida Zoological park is located on Highway 17-92, just east of I-4 exit 52, in Sanford. For further information, phone 323-4450.

Michelangelo virus dormant

NEW YORK — Computer users braced for a virus set to strike on Michelangelo's birthday today, but some experts weren't looking for widespread damage.

If unchecked, the rogue program found in machines built to the IBM standard can destroy all the information in a machine.

The virus turned up in computers at the New York City Transit Authority and the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, but officials at both agencies said they had eliminated it before today's deadline.

School boss in running

SANFORD — Acting superintendent Richard Wells declared today that he is a candidate to be the permanent replacement for Robert Hughes as superintendent of Seminole County schools.

"I've been in the job (as acting superintendent) for a couple of months now and I see what needs to be done," Wells said. "I think I have the capability to do the job."

Wells, who served as superintendent of schools in Flagler County before coming to Seminole County in 1987.

At that time he was hired as to head the transportation department and soon thereafter was named as assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation.

He is still serving in that assistant superintendency while he is acting superintendent. Wells agreed to continue on in both capacities in order to save the district money as he is only being paid the salary for the interim superintendent's work.

Wells said that if he were given the superintendent's position, he would be working fewer hours than he is now. He joked that he wants the top job because he needs a break.

"This is really the toughest time of year with budget planning and with rezoning," he said.

By the time the new superintendent is set to begin work on June 15, Wells said, the hard part for the year will be over.

The salary range for the position will be between $90,000 and $105,000 per year plus benefits.

With less than a week before the application deadline, 97 candidates have applied for the superintendent's position. District officials expect that as many as 40 more applications may be received by the March 10 cut off date.

A citizens committee will recommend 15 names to the school board by the March 24 meeting and the final decision will be announced no later than May 5.

"I'm confident that I am capable of doing the job," Wells said.

Storm water ordinance unresolved

By NICK PFEIFAU

LAKE MARY — The often discussed Lake Mary Storm Water Utility ordinance is to be brought back for consideration. The City Commission moved in that direction last night, on a 3 to 2 vote following almost two hours of discussion.

The ordinance would charge each resident $3 per month, with others to pay higher fees, to finance a major stormwater management project city wide. It has been presented several times in the past, the most recent at the Jan. 23rd meeting, when the Commission agreed to postpone it.

The city is trying to combine paying with the drainage project, and has been working on the matter for almost a year. The main problem however, has been financing.

Last night, Finance Director Robert Lockridge

County rated well in housing review

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development gave Seminole County a nearly perfect score for its 1990 Community Development Block Grant spending, but urged the county to do more in the way of protecting minorities and ethnic groups from housing discrimination.

The review, received this week, approved of the county's management of $1.6 million in block grants received in 1990. HUD awards grants to counties based on the number of low-income residents for neighborhood improvements, programs and individual aid.

The county, in turn, uses a portion of the grants to pay for the improvements or awards a "subgrant" to cities or agencies to perform the work or provide

New entrance road to SCC re-aligned

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The City of Lake Mary worked on a proposed north/south entrance road to Seminole Community College last night. The City altered an SCC proposal for a road routing.

The new roadway would connect the college to Lake Mary Boulevard, traveling from the college's eastern side through a wetlands area and near the Cardinal Oaks Cove subdivision.

During Thursday's City Commission meeting, the city's Director of Public Safety, Charles Lauderdale, presented a report from the Seminole County Blue Ribbon Traffic Committee of which he is a member.

Lauderdale explained the College has been informed that requests for financing the roadway, "did survive the first round of budget cuts by the Legislature, and remains on the SCC project list as the priority one project."

According to a map however, the alignment of the roadway connector, referred to as Hospital Road, would have an impact on four of the 110 homes in the Cardinal Oaks Cove area. Lauderdale suggested the City consider an alternate route.

Although there was a question of postponing the item until more information could be obtained, Commissioner David Meador, who serves as the city's representative to the college explained, "We have a deadline of March 12 to submit the

Warmest winter bypasses us

From Staff and Wire Reports

SANFORD — Even though temperatures recorded by the National Weather Service for Central Florida were deemed average, the winter of 1991-92 may be the warmest on record for the entire United States.

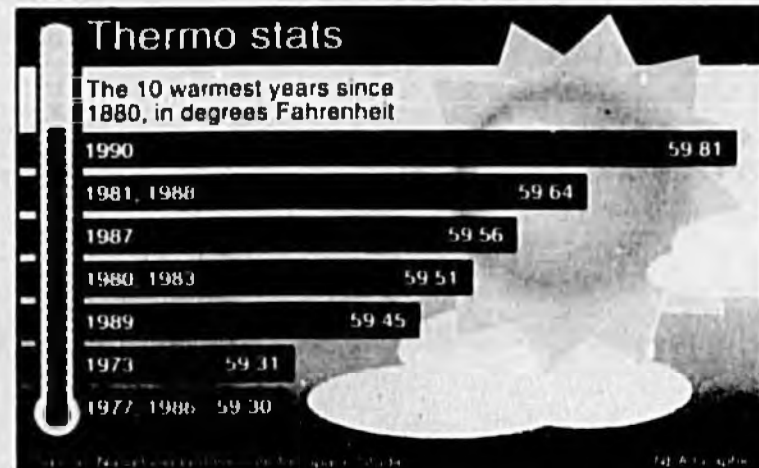

"I don't believe our weather here in Central Florida this winter was above or below average," Don Martin, at the weather service observation station at the Orlando International Airport, said Thursday.

"In January the average temps were one degree below normal, but in February it was 3.2 degrees above," he said.

The National Climatic Data Center, in Asheville, N.C., reports that the season's average temperature for the 48 contiguous states was 36.87 degrees. The old record was the winter of 1953-54, at 36 degrees. The records go back 97 years.

Meteorologist Richard Heim of the Earth has an average surface temperature of slightly less than 60 degrees. Seven of the 10 warmest years on record (since 1880) occurred in the 1980s — and the warmest year ever was 1990. In the past 100 years, the average worldwide temperature has risen by only about 1 degree. However, a rise of 2 degrees would produce major changes in climate; a rise of more than 3 degrees would produce drastic changes. Some experts believe global warming might raise temperatures by several degrees in the 21st century.

Sex-abuse case settles after four years

MIAMI (AP) — A man who spent almost four years in pre-trial detention was convicted of sex-abuse charges after only 40 minutes of deliberation by the jury.

"If you want to do a good job, it can take a long time," Dade Circuit Judge Thomas Wilson after Grover LeBlanc was found guilty on Tuesday of all 11 sexual abuse charges involving three children.

LeBlanc, 42, was arrested in April 1988 and later complained that he was victimized by a slow-moving court system. His case was one of the longest in the county to come to trial.

But the judge and the prosecutor said his defense attorneys share the blame because they called for 10 continuances over the past 47 months.

LeBlanc was sentenced to 40 years in prison, with a minimum of 25 years served before he's eligible for parole.

Deputy justified in shooting

FORT LAUDERDALE — A Broward Sheriff's deputy who killed a suicidal man by emptying nine rounds into his body was justified in the shooting, a grand jury has ruled.

Deputy Joe Hoffman has now shot four suspects to death in the line of duty. Each time, a jury has cleared the SWAT team member.

The latest panel ruled in the Sept. 9 shooting of Michael Gottlieb, 38, a dependent Pompano Beach man who called 911 after taking pain-killers and threatened to kill himself. He had a gun in his mouth when deputies arrived.

Hoffman, 38, said he opened fire to protect a police negotiator when he saw that Gottlieb, who was sitting on his bedroom floor, raised his gun.

Counseling could be confidential

TALLAHASSEE — Non-medical psychotherapists' communications with clients or patients could be held confidential under a bill sent to Gov. Lawton Chiles.

The measure (CS-HB 1925) that received final passage 26-8 Thursday in the Senate would give the confidentiality privilege to clinical social workers and marriage, family and mental health counselors licensed by the state.

Existing law says only that courts can't force medical doctors, lawyers and accountants to divulge such information.

The House passed the bill by Rep. George Crady, D-Yulee, 59-52 Tuesday.

Senate sponsor Arnett Girardeau, D-Jacksonville, said non-medical practitioners need the privilege because they do 60 percent of all psychotherapy, and patients and clients reveal their innermost secrets.

Sen. Fred Dudley, R-Fort Myers, questioned the public purpose served by expanding what now is a very limited confidentiality privilege and pointed out the state began licensing the non-medical psychotherapists only last year.

Senate bans ammunition

TALLAHASSEE — The Senate passed a bill that would ban three types of highly lethal ammunition, including incendiary rounds known as "dragon's breath" shells.

The vote Thursday was 29-0. The House passed the bill (CS-HB 417) 110-0 Feb. 28, but it was returned with a technical amendment added by the Senate.

The so-called "dragon's breath" shells ignite spontaneously when they come in contact with the air, causing a shower of sparklers and a momentary fireball of up to 4,000 degrees that engulfs the target.

Cop car, sand truck tangle

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Florida Highway Patrol investigation into yesterday's accident involving a Seminole County sheriff's sergeant on West State Road 46 has not been completed.

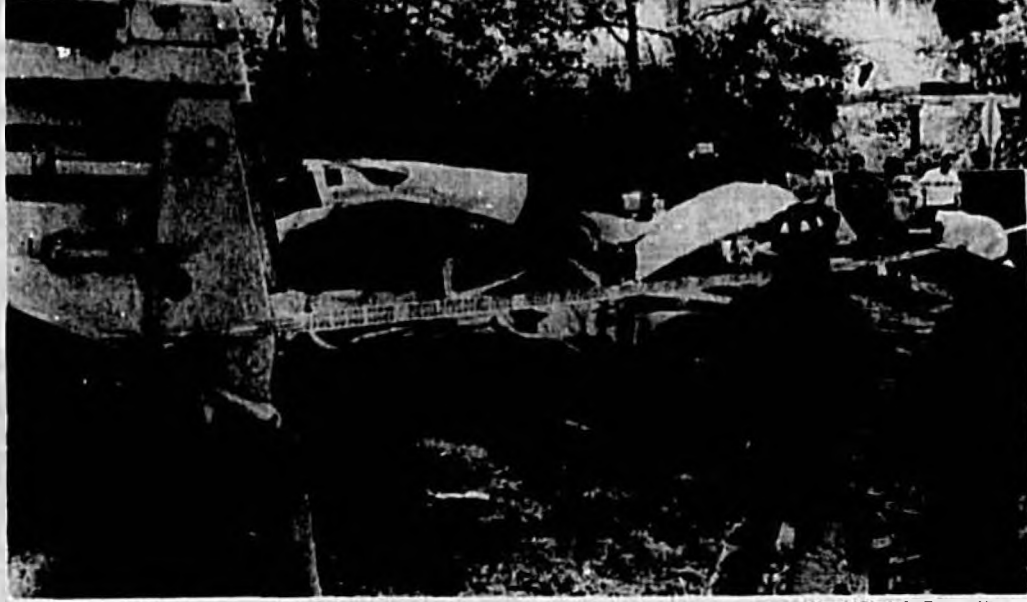

Sgt. Larry Zumbrun, 38, of Geneva, was taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center following the 1:30 p.m. accident. Although his squad car had to be cut open by emergency workers to release him, Zumbrun was later released from ORMOC after treatment for back strain, said a hospital spokesman.

"That was the worst non-serious accident I've ever seen," said sheriff's spokesman George Proechel. "The passenger seat was under and behind the driver's seat."

Information from the FHP was unavailable today.

Proechel said Zumbrun was attempting to drive south across SR 46 from Orange Avenue when his squad car was struck on the passenger side by an eastbound sand truck belonging to Melbourne Sand Transport Co. The impact hurled the squad car into the median. Proechel said Zumbrun was on patrol and not responding to a call.

ment of the sheriff's office, said Proechel.

Proechel said sheriff's officials would review the FHP accident report when it is completed, but the main concern is for the sergeant's health.

"We're glad to know he's OK," said Proechel after learning Zumbrun was released last night. "The sheriff was very concerned. He called from Washington several times yesterday to see if he was OK."

Sheriff Don Eslinger will complete an 11-week Federal Bureau of Investigation course for senior law enforcement officials in Quantico, Va. March 20. Eslinger will return to full-time duty March 23.

Outburst precedes the House passage of redistricting map

From Staff and Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE — A controversial redistricting plan in which Seminole County would lose one state senator caused tempers to boil Thursday. Hispanics and blacks scrambling for additional seats in the Legislature argued before the House sent its approved redistricting maps to the Senate.

Rep. Miguel De Grandy, R-Miami, objected strongly Thursday to comments from the black legislative caucus chairman, Democratic Rep. Willie Logan, implying that Hispanics were being greedy in seeking 11 House seats through the once-in-a-decade reapportionment process.

"We are being punished for exercising our rights and for having the guts to be uppity spies and stand up here and fight for the Hispanic community," De Grandy said, shaking his finger at Logan. "This plan is shameful."

The legislative redistricting map (HJR 2491) passed 89-48 by the House contains seven Hispanic seats in Dade County for the lower chamber, the same as now. The Senate plan has three seats, also the same as today.

Three Democrats — Reps. Corrine Brown of Jacksonville and Darryl Reaves and Art Simon of Miami — joined 45 Republicans in opposition.

Hispanics, who now comprise 50 percent of Dade County and are overwhelmingly Republican, want at least half of county's 18 House seats and six Senate seats. Logan, D-Opalocka, said Hispanics must be more willing to compromise.

"In this process, you've got to give a little," Logan said. "If you're not willing to compromise with us, you get about what you expected to get, which is nothing."

Chiles' rating down in face of tax pushes

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles said he doesn't plan to back off his push for more taxes, but lawmakers may be reluctant to join the governor in the face of a new poll showing two-thirds of the state's residents opposed to higher taxes.

Also, nearly three of four voters questioned by Mason-Dixon Opinion Research do not like the job Chiles has done as governor the past 14 months. And for the first time, more than half of the respondents reacted unfavorably to Chiles' name.

"Well, it looks like I'm coming close to bottoming out," Chiles said Thursday after taping a television show. "You can't go further than the bottom, right?"

Chiles is threatening to veto a $30 billion budget that does not include new taxes, and to bring lawmakers back to the Capitol until they approve his $1.4 billion tax package.

"I think what we are doing, (and) talking about is changing completely the way Florida does business," Chiles said. "We're talking about facing up to the fact we live off of the money we're willing to pay."

Chiles has sought new taxes to avoid further cuts in government services, but the poll indicated the public doesn't share his enthusiasm for higher state taxes.

In fact, it would appear support for new taxes has softened the more Chiles has talked about the state's woes.

Only 31 percent said they would support new taxes. Sixty-six percent were opposed. Just last October, 42 percent said they would be open to higher taxes while only 49 percent were opposed.

Tourists: Biggest decline since 1972 energy crisis

MIAMI — The recession chilled Florida's $28 billion tourism industry last year as sagging consumer confidence and airline bankruptcies contributed to the biggest decline since the 1972 energy crisis, the state says.

The number of visitors dropped 4.1 percent from 41 million in 1990 to 39.3 million in 1991, the state Division of Tourism said Thursday.

"We saw this would be an off-year for tourism several months ago as the recession continued and problems in the airline industry mounted," said Barry Kenney, state tourism director. "We expect to do better in 1992."

Bright spots in the state's largest industry were foreign visitors, the Florida Keys and the Miami-based cruise ship industry — the only travel sector to grow nationally last year.

But other areas suffered. Attendance at attractions, led by Walt Disney World and other big draws in the Orlando area, was down 4 percent statewide. Hotel occupancy dropped from 67.9 percent in 1990 to 63.7 percent in 1991. Campground use was flat, and high-end resorts languished.

State researchers determined total auto traffic was down 0.6 percent and air traffic down 7.4 percent.

Visitors shifted from jets to cars as the recession took hold and air fares rose after Pan Am, Eastern and Midway airlines virtually disappeared, state figures showed.

Despite the drop in visitors, Emily Porter of the American Society of Travel Agents said Florida fared relatively well.

"I would say that they probably did better than some other places, even though they had a decline," she said. "The reports that we've had from travel agents are that the ones in Florida were not as affected as some of the ones across the nation."

Foreign visitors, who represent 13 percent by number and 20 percent of the dollars, brightened an otherwise dark year as exchange rates and improved air service favored Florida.

Mark Harris, 27, of 915 Park Avenue, was arrested by Sanford Police in front of his residence Tuesday. The arrest was made as he drove up in his car. He was charged with driving with his license revoked on two separate occasions.

Cocaine sale leads to arrest

Albert Howard Harris, 34, 208 Orange Ave., Sanford, was charged with sale and delivery of crack cocaine by Sanford police Wednesday night.

Arrest reports state Harris sold cocaine to an undercover Special Investigations Unit agent at the corner of Eighth Street and Pine Avenue.

Also arrested was Edward Mitchell Duvall, 40, 1517 Mangoustine Ave., Sanford. Duvall was charged with resisting arrest when he fled from Seventh Street and Pine Avenue after agents approached to arrest Harris, reports state.

2 unions OK school contracts

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The school district has to come to an agreement with two more employee unions, leaving only the bus drivers without a contract for this year.

The biggest sticking points between the district and both the non-instructional personnel (NIPSCO) and the clerical workers (SECA), Helene Samango, director of UniServe, said had been the issues of the lack of salary increase for those employees who had reached the top of the pay scale and the issue of "just cause."

As was the case with the teachers, the school district agreed to pay a one-time, non-recurring salary supplement of $300 to those employees who did not receive an annual increment this year.

Those employees have been with the district for 20 years or more and are not eligible for the standard increases that other employees at the lower end of the pay scale receive.

The district has also agreed to return to the negotiating table in June to once again discuss the issue of "just cause" and articles in the contract related to that issue.

Just cause refers to the district's policies regarding discipline and termination of employees.

There is presently no policy to prevent employees from being terminated from their jobs or disciplined without explanation. The unions want there to be a formal procedure taken to ensure that employees can not be let go with no explanation.

While the district has argued in the past that they believed the matter needed to be discussed, the district had argued that it was not a problem. The district has agreed, however, to discuss the matter at the bargaining table this year.

Like all other district employees, the members of the two unions will receive a one-and-a-half percent salary increase for this school year.

Candidate will host barbecue

Sheriff's candidate Larry Conniff will hold a fund-raiser barbecue this Saturday at Lake Heronwood Park on Red Bug Lake Road.

The event will feature entertainment and an opportunity to meet with Conniff. The fundraiser will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. at the park located east of Eagle Creek. Cost is $10 per person or $25 per family.

Democracy

South Africa's seemingly inexorable march toward multiracial democracy suddenly appears less certain. In a referendum set for March 17, the country's white minority will decide whether President F.W. de Klerk should continue negotiations to complete the dismantlement of apartheid.

De Klerk called for the referendum after his ruling National Party was thrashed in a parliamentary election by the predominantly Afrikaner Conservative Party. The Conservatives are inalterably opposed to the reforms the De Klerk government has introduced. The party demanded new elections on grounds that the president did not have a popular mandate to abolish the apartheid system.

South Africa's 7 million whites will be presented with a simple, straightforward question: "Do you support continuation of the reform process, which the state president began on Feb. 2, 1990, and which is aimed at a new constitution through negotiation?"

How the white minority decides this question could determine whether South Africa joins the family of democratic nations or returns to the pariah status it has endured for the last half-century.

Regardless of the outcome of the referendum, De Klerk will be remembered as the catalyst of historic change in South Africa. During only two years in office he has done more to bring about a peaceful transition to multiracial democracy than any figure in the nation's history.

Last year, South Africa's parliament repealed the four basic apartheid laws. The 37-year-old Separate Amenities Act had permitted the government to reserve public facilities for whites. The Lands Acts of 1913 and 1936 had restricted black ownership to less than 14 percent of South Africa's land. The Group Areas Act mandated residential segregation. And the Population Registration Act, the linchpin of apartheid, classified all South Africans by race.

In addition to toppling these legal pillars of apartheid, De Klerk removed the ban on the African National Congress and other black political organizations, welcomed exiled South Africans to return home, freed political prisoners, removed restrictions on the news media and lifted the state of emergency in the black provinces.

For these acts of political courage, De Klerk has earned a place among the world's great statesmen. It will be a tragedy if his campaign to bring about a peaceful transition to democracy is rejected by the white minority, because the alternative to reform is likely to be a disastrous civil war.

What Bush and de Klerk both face

Who would have thought that the presidencies of two once-upon-a-time conservatives, George Bush and F.W. de Klerk, would ever evolve into citadels of ideological moderation!

Both the American and the South African have changed from being guardians of the right wing's holy grail to advocates of reason — but not because they planned it. Both were forced by events.

The two presidencies are amazingly parallel. Bush, who inherited the presidency from a prehistorical conservative throwback, did his best to carry on Ronald Reagan's voodoo economics and revive "separate but equal" racism. The policies failed because the economy took a nose-dive and too many Americans of good will are still not ready to abandon Brown v. Board of Education (1954) for Plessy v. Ferguson (1896).

De Klerk, who succeeded belligerent apartheid apostle P.W. Botha, discovered that a worldwide economic boycott had put South Africa's economic future on hold. He also realized that to continue a war of attrition against the African National Congress would have plunged South Africa into economic impotence.

Both Bush and de Klerk began pursuing policies that evoked right-wing yelps that they were betraying the faith. Bush raised taxes, and de Klerk freed Nelson Mandela. The two actions have caused a flood of right-wing resentment.

In South Africa, the Conservatives' storm trooper, Andries Treurnicht, has rallied white South Africans into a political phalanx that could doom de Klerk's National Party negotiations for a South African democracy.

In America, the ideological counterpart to Treurnicht, Patrick J. Buchanan, is exploiting the same irrational fears of unaccountable despair. Middle-class America doesn't know what is wrong, and it needs a scape-goat.

Buchanan has given middle-class Americans three: George Bush's broken promises, affirmative action and imports from Japan.

Buchanan and Treurnicht have two things in common. Both despise Jews and want to keep blacks segregated. Buchanan's history of anti-Semitism is so flagrant that even his fellow conservative, Bill Buckley, wrist-tapped him in rambling, disjointed dissent. Buchanan's repeated derogations of blacks and tangential insults leave little difference between him and David Duke.

At the same time, Treurnicht and Buchanan do have their differences. Treurnicht dons a uniform and carries a pistol. Buchanan wears a blue suit and carries a computer. In the hands of a ranting racist, both instruments can touch off a political revolt. Ideas are frequently the artillery of change.

But this two-continent drama can still have a happy ending. Unless the American people succumb to a plague of idiocy, Buchanan will not win the Republican nomination. He knows it and does not care. Pat Buchanan's real purpose is to stake out 1996.

In South Africa, the fate of racial civility rests with a brilliant, but costly gamble by de Klerk. He has called for a "whites only" election. With typical Afrikaner bluntness, de Klerk is posing a simple parliamentary question to his white constituency: Do I still have your electoral mandate to negotiate for an interracial South African democracy?

The policies failed because the economy took a nose-dive

Line-item veto is sham issue

How to characterize the current commotion over the line-item veto?

Put it this way: If all the gab were a rainbow and you followed it to the end, what you would find would not be a pot of gold, but it might help you grow some prize vegetables.

The Republicans claim the line-item veto would be a painless cure for the deficit problem and a shackle on a spendthrift Congress. That's some pure stuff, and it would probably produce three-pound tomatoes.

The Democrats say it would be an unacceptable and perhaps unconstitutional encroachment on congressional power. That stuff would generate some tall corn.

The simple truth is the line-item veto is a sham issue. It is an easy subject to demagogue — which is why tub-thumping politicians love it, especially in an election year. But depicting it as a budget-balancing tool is a trespass on the good sense of the average citizen and it should be outlawed.

For the uninitiated, a line-item veto would allow a president to strike individual items from the huge, take-it-or-leave-it appropriations bills the Congress sends him for signing. Its primary target would be "pork-barrel" expenditures — the extraneous grants and projects that powerful members of Congress wangle for their home districts.

But here's the dreary secret that presidents never tell you and Congress never seems able to impart: In the context of trillion-dollar budgets, pork-barrel spending is peanuts. To argue that you can remedy the deficit problem by purging pork is to argue that you can drain the ocean by scooping with a cup.

Examples are endless, but take just one that was offered by two Republican senators who recently failed in yet another attempt to pass a line-item veto measure. If our virtuous president had line-item authority, said Dan Coats of Indiana and John McCain of Arizona, he would have been able to cut from one recent budget such heinous waste as $100,000 for prickly pear and mesquite research in Texas.

Think about it. George Bush's most recent budget proposal projects a deficit of $399 billion. To balance it, he would have to slice off one prickly pear project every 10 seconds of every day around the clock for one year, three months and 10 days.

With a line-item veto, said Coats and McCain, the president could have saved the public $70 billion over a five-year period from 1984-1989.

Think about it. That's 700,000 prickly pear projects. During that same five-year period, the accumulated deficit came to $1,059 billion. That's 10,590,000 prickly pear projects. Even with the line-item veto, we would've gone in the hole 9,890,000 prickly pear projects. Some solution, the old line-item.

Here's something else to think about: During that same five-year period, the cumulative interest on the national debt came to $1,019 billion. That's interest alone, money down the tubes. Does it never occur to the dunderheads who lead us that real reduction in the national debt might be a better road to solvency than whining about prickly pear research?

The line-item veto makes sense for only one reason, and it has little to do with honest deficit reduction. It would constrain the most powerful members of Congress from dispatching unfair shares of pork to their districts. People like Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., say, a career politician who vowed in 1990 to ship $1 billion worth of bacon back to his home state by 1995 and surpassed his goal four years ahead of schedule.

It surprised no one when Sen. Byrd recently took the floor to voice clamorous opposition to the Coats-McCain line-item veto measure. It would save little money, thundered Byrd, and it was "quack medicine which would be better denominated as snake oil."

Indeed it was, and he might have recognized it because it was oozing from his pores and puddling at his feet as he spoke. Or was that the stuff that makes the garden grow?

Depicting it as a budget balancing tool is a trespass on good sense.

Campaign ads do voters disservice

WASHINGTON — Picture this: A television ad for a presidential candidate that shows the candidate, facing the camera, talking for a full minute about how he stands on the issues. No American flags in the background, no music swelling, no adoring-crowd scenes. Just straight talk.

It wouldn't win any awards from Madison Avenue, but it would win the gratitude of voters who are smart enough to differentiate between the way they choose a beer and the way they choose a president.

In January, the Federal Communications Commission took a giant leap in campaign advertising by requiring that every ad include an audio and visual announcement identifying the candidate who sponsored the ad — a clear and sustained announcement that cannot be missed. It was too much for media consultants who badgered the FCC until, last month, the requirement for an oral announcement was dropped.

The FCC rule did not come close to giving voters what they want out of a candidate's ad, and that is information. The FCC should not dictate in too great a detail how political advertising should be structured. That is a decision that should be left to the marketplace. The marketplace has been screaming for substance for a long time, but the image makers haven't heard the message.

They think if they show footage of Paul Teongas swimming laps, you will believe that Teongas has beat cancer, and you will vote for him. They think if they show footage from a TV documentary of gay black men writhing in chains and leather — a documentary with a thin money trail back to the embattled National Endowment for the Arts — you will vote for Pat Buchanan because he won't spend your taxes on stupid things (or perhaps because he has tapped into a latent racist homophobia among the electorate).

The campaign got off to an encouraging start in New Hampshire, but New Hampshire was a luxury. Every candidate was focused on one state, with the time to sit down and have tea and crumb cake in Nashua or debate one another in town halls. New Hampshire, a state in crisis, had no patience for muted messages and the voters there demanded substance from the candidates.

But now the candidates are scurrying from state to state, and resorting to the media to sell them. Next week's Super Tuesday primaries are bearing down on the candidates, and their panic is reflected in their advertising. The best way to grab attention this weekend will be with 30-second worth of window dressing at the expense of a careful inspection of the issues. Voters who thought they had seen an end to the Willie Horton-type ads are in for a rude awakening.

University of North Carolina political science professor Thad Beyle, who has written extensively about the attack ads of Jesse Helms' re-election campaign of 1990, saw shades of Willie Horton in Buchanan's recent ads. "There are two things that Buchanan is attacking, gays and blacks," said Beyle. "He didn't use white gay men. People down South are very upset about non-traditional lifestyles and if you can tie it into the race question, it's a double whammy."

Attack ads are especially effective right before Super Tuesday because the damage is done, and the votes are counted in 12 states, before a battered candidate can recover. Candidates end up spending what little time they do have fending off attacks or concocting a lack of their own.

The marketplace has been screaming for substance for a long time.

share with others." Some new offerings will be featured.
"We'll also be doing an Herb Garden, a Foliage and Flower Garden and we will feature gardening gifts," she said.
Selections from Grandmother's Garden are passed along for very little money because Wimblish said, through sharing cuttings and bulbs the club has little money invested. Proceeds from this, the club's biggest fund-raiser of the year, benefit civic beautification. Over the past two years, the club has spruced the entrance to the marina, the Cultural Arts Center grounds and a portion of Park on Park.

"Our biggest project has been Seminole High School. All told, we have done $4,400 in landscaping at the high school," Wimblish explained.

Wimblish said students become involved in the project, which most recently has included planting crape myrtle saplings in the commons area and landscaping the area near the gym.

"Young people always take more pride if they take part," Wimblish said.
Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Luncheon tickets are $5.50. Take out is available with advance notice.

For luncheon tickets, contact any Ixora member or Joyce Malone, who can be reached at 322-5600.

design consideration." He added, "I would recommend we decide on this tonight."

Although it is not an official artery, Hospital Road is indicated on some maps as traveling in a perfectly straight line, heading north along the eastern side of the college property. The Blue Ribbon Committee's latest suggestion was for a route that would head north from the same starting point at the college, but curve slightly to the right before continuing northward. The curve, at the subdivision, would allow for the roadway to miss an old cemetery located south of Lake Mary Boulevard.

The Lake Mary City Staff, however, added a right then left turn to the roadway as a suggested alternate route. "This would have a much less impact on the Cardinal Oaks Cove area," Lauderdale explained.

The basic difference would be approximately $300,000 which would be required to move power lines located on the new route.

Meador commented, "I think the college will be very pleased with what we have come up with here, and I would recommend we draft a letter to send to the college expressing our support on this new routing."

The new suggested route was approved by a unanimous vote of the Commission.

Weather

data center said the warm weather doesn't validate theories about global warming.

A major reason temperatures were higher than usual was that the polar jet stream stayed far north along the Canadian border, meteorologist William Brown said. A second, subtropical jet pulled in warm, moist air from the Pacific.

Heim cautioned that the figures are preliminary and that final totals available in a few months may drop the winter of 1991-92 out of first place.

Meteorologists consider winter to be the months of December, January and February.

discussed taxation, special assessments, and service fees. He commented, "At the bottom line, I find each of these methods has its share of advantages and disadvantages, strengths and weaknesses."
He suggested the City consider a combination of all three of the fund sources. "What I would like to have tonight," he said, "is policy direction from the Commission so we can proceed with further planning."

The Commission was split. A.R. "Doc" Jore suggested the project is too large to tackle at one time. "I am ready to support work with the stormwater utility tax," he said, "but I think we are going to have to get at this on a piecemeal basis."

Commissioner Paul Tremel said he would be willing to support the stormwater utility tax, "but it needs to be part of the total package. We can't simply approve this by itself."

Tremel, along with Mayor Randy Morris voted against bringing the stormwater utility ordinance back for further discussion. "I completely disagree with doing these projects in phases," Morris commented.

Citizens also made their voices heard. Some objected to the $3 charge, while others approved of it. Sheila Sawyer commented, "I see this $3 charge as treating everyone equally. This is fair. With the difference in home valuation, through taxes, this would not be fair."

In addition to voting to bring the ordinance back for consideration, the Commissioners also chose to hold a special called meeting to deal with the ordinance on March 26.

Conflicting unemployment rates may signal end of the recession

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate leapt to 7.3 percent in February, the highest point since the recession began and the worst in 6½ years, the government said today.

The new rate, up from 7.1 percent in January and the highest since July 1985, came despite separate data showing employers expanded their payrolls by a more-than-expected 164,000 jobs.

The two statistics are derived from separate Labor Department surveys and can sometimes conflict. The unemployment rate comes from a survey of American households, while the payroll data is culled from a survey of businesses.

Taken together, the two surveys "mean the recession is probably over," said economist Bruce Steinberg of Merrill Lynch.

"The key thing here is not that the employment rate went up, it's that employment is finally growing again," he said. "That's not to say we're in a strong recovery. ... There's a high level of unemployment and a low level of consumer confidence. There's every reason to believe this will be one of the weakest recoveries from a recession we've ever had."

President Bush's campaign spokeswoman,

Torie Clarke, said the new data on unemployment "makes things very tough" for the campaign.

"Most importantly, it makes things tough for the unemployed. Congress should get off its duff" and pass Bush's economic package, Clarke said in Oklahoma City, where Bush was campaigning.

The increase in non-farm payroll jobs was the strongest since May 1990. In advance, economists were looking for only a modest rise of around 10,000. But the good news there was somewhat blunted by a downward revision of the January payroll number.

The department said employers recorded 149,000 layoffs, instead of the previously reported 91,000.

In a positive sign, the department said the average workweek for non-farm, non-supervisory workers increased slightly, by 0.4 hours to 34.7 hours following a decline of 0.2 hours in January.

As the economy revives, businesses usually ask existing employees to work longer hours. They wait until they are sure of stronger sales before they start hiring again.

The strongest increase, 133,000 jobs, came among retailers. William G. Barron Jr., the deputy commissioner of labor statistics, said retail trade probably is improving.

Merged banks loaning less

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The out-of-state banks that have taken over Florida's deposit-rich financial institutions were more generous in lending to their home states of Georgia, Virginia and North Carolina, a study has found.

While gobbling up billions of dollars in deposits in Florida, the banks have been relatively stingy when it comes to lending money, according to a study released this week by the U.S. House Banking Committee.

"These members support the argument that Florida has become a banking colony," bank analyst Kenneth Thomas told The Miami Herald, in a story for Thursday editions. "Florida has lost its big banks, and we've become a state of branches."

The study was ordered by House Banking chairman Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas. Nationally, the study found that the loan rates of satellite banks is one-third lower than home-state banks.

The takeover of Miami's Southeast Bank by North Carolina's First Union last year left only one large bank headquartered in Florida — Jacksonville's Barnett Banks Inc.

David Reddick, spokesman for Sun Bank in Miami, said the loan figures are skewed because applications from large corporate borrowers tend to be recorded at the banks' headquarters, where lending limits are higher.

Also, Florida's economy wasn't as strong as Georgia's and North Carolina's last year, Reddick said.

But Thomas said the explanations don't account for the loan gaps, the biggest of which was at Charlotte, N.C.-based NCNB, which acquired C&S/Sovran and became NationsBank. NCNB's loan-to-deposit ratio in Florida was 47.9 percent, compared to 66 percent in North Carolina.

"If a bank is based in Charlotte and the directors come from Charlotte, it's bound to treat North Carolina differently," Thomas said.

Florida's average ratio of loans as a percentage of deposits last year was 65.8 percent. C&S/Sovran loaned 57.7 percent to Florida and First Union loaned 65.1 percent.

year than last. A tornado warning during last year's event caused the closing of the festival for part of one day.

"I hope things are better this year," Elias said.

Organizers are expecting more than 5,000 visitors to converge on the park over the course of the two-day event.

"We think that a lot of people will want to come out and see the beautiful artwork at this lovely location," Elias said.

She noted that workers today would be setting up close to 90 booths under the stately oaks in the park and that the artists would begin arriving late this afternoon or very early tomorrow morning to bring in their work.

Elias said that she believed the festival had "a little something for everyone." In addition to fine arts, there will also be crafts for sale at the festival.

She said that organizers will be keeping a close eye on the weather reports the next few days. She said the event will continue rain or shine, but if the weather becomes a danger to the public they will close down again.

"I can just hope that we don't have any problems with the weather," she said.

The festival will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday.

services.

"Based on the information contained in the report, it appears that the county has carried out local CDBG activities in a timely manner in accordance with implementing regulations," wrote Jim Nichol, director of community planning and development for the Florida regional HUD office in Jacksonville.

The comment was in marked contrast to prior years' HUD audits of the county CDBG program. Previously, HUD criticized the county for failing to supervise spending by Sanford and other cities awarded subgrants.

The HUD report this week however urged the county to take more actions to assure the 1988 Civil Rights Act provisions prohibiting discrimination in housing sales and rentals is enforced. A 1974 federal law gives HUD the authority to discontinue a CDBG unless fair housing laws are upheld.

Buddy Balagia, county community development planner, said the county commission passed a resolution last year declaring April 1991 as "Fair Housing Month" and published an advertisement containing an "800" number for housing discrimination complaints. Balagia said he is also the county's fair housing officer, but has had little work to do in that role.

"I got a call from a lady once who said her rent was too high," said Balagia. "The Fair Housing Act doesn't address high rents so there wasn't anything I could do about it."

Balagia said he will conduct a work session with county commissioners in May to discuss options for enforcing fair housing. Among the suggestions offered by HUD are fair housing ordinances that include penalties for violators, creation of a human rights commission, education and counseling services, and housing grants for minorities.

Unemployment rate jumped to 7.3 percent in February

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate leapt to 7.3 percent in February, the highest point since the recession began and the worst in 6 1/2 years, the government said today.

The Labor Department said 9.2 million Americans were without jobs, 2.8 million more than when the recession began in July 1990. It was the highest number of jobless since December 1983.

The new rate, up from 7.1 percent in January, came despite separate data showing employers expanded their payrolls by a more-than-expected 164,000 jobs.

The two statistics are derived from separate Labor Department surveys and can sometimes conflict. The unemployment rate comes from a survey of American households, while the payroll data is culled from a survey of businesses.

The increase in non-farm payroll jobs is the strongest since May 1990. In advance, economists were looking for only a modest increase of around 10,000. But the good news there was somewhat blunted by a downward revision of the January payroll number.

House weighs new credit protections

By DIANE DUBSTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Your credit records would become more accessible to you and less so to others if a bill moving through the House becomes law.

Consumer outrage about inaccurate information in credit agency files is driving the legislation, approved Thursday by the Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs and coinage.

But the credit agencies and banks and businesses who extend credit are lobbying against it. They won two key provisions during the subcommittee's vote on the bill:

- Pre-emption of all state regulations so no state could pass a law stronger than the federal statute.
- A required fee for any information provided consumers about their records.

However, the bill would give consumers much more power over their credit records:

- Prospective employers could get your credit records only if you authorize it, and your current employer would have to notify you in writing if he or she is obtaining your credit records.
- Credit card companies that send out unsolicited credit card applications would have to give you the card if you want it.
- You could withhold your name from the lists used by banks and others to solicit credit cards.
- Credit agencies could charge no more than $4 to consumers who request their records, and would have to settle any dispute about your records within 30 days.

United Way files destroyed

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The embattled United Way of America is calling in outside accountants to fight a new dose of bad news over the destruction of documents by its international affiliate.

Five drawers of financial records and other documents were ordered destroyed in January by former United Way of America President William Aramony, who resigned under fire last week.

The papers were destroyed after The Washington Post started asking questions about his spending and management practices. Aramony remains the unpaid president of the international affiliate.

A spokeswoman for the affiliate, United Way International, maintained Thursday that the orders to destroy the documents were routine and began with a bookkeeper's efforts to dispose of outdated material.

Yet charity officials took extra efforts to calm the fears of its already jittery local organizations and donors.

"They have asked their accounting firm, Arthur Anderson & Co., to come in today to review the records and make sure that all the documents are there that need to be there to backstop any tax law requirements," said Patricia Barbs, the group's public affairs counsel.

Third baseman Ty Lynch, shortstop Gregg Castaldo and catcher Glen Richardi had the other Knight hits.

Rams take advantage of Lyman errors

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Considering that there are no soft touches among the Seminole Athletic Conference softball teams, there's no margin for error when the teams go head-to-head.

The up-and-coming Lyman Greyhounds learned that the hard way Thursday afternoon, committing 11 errors while collecting eight hits in a 6-2 loss to the visiting Lake Mary Rams.

"You can't make 11 errors and expect to win, not in this conference," said Lyman coach Christy Tibbitts. "And we didn't hit the ball as well as we have been lately."

Lake Mary exploited Lyman's miscues, scoring five unearned runs, two coming in the top of the fifth inning to break a 2-2 tie and two more coming in the seventh.

By comparison, the Rams committed just one fielding error.

"We were a little tired after playing an extra inning game at Spruce Creek last night," said Lake Mary coach Jeannie Fisher. "But that win last night gave us some confidence going into today's game. The girls learned they could hang in there and pull out a win."

Fisher also said that despite the fact that the season is now in its fourth week, the Rams are just now starting to come together.

"Once we got our basketball players out, we had about a week and a half where we didn't have any games because of rain," Fisher said. "Some coaches probably thought that was an inconvenience, but it wasn't an disadvantage for us. We're just now beginning to put things together."

Lake Mary took a 1-0 lead in the top of the second when Angela Snow reached on an error and

Patriots grab early conference lead

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Just two games into the Seminole Athletic Conference softball schedule and the Lake Brantley Patriots are already the front-runners.

With their 8-2 win over the Lake Howell Silver Hawks Thursday night, the Patriots advance to 8-2 overall, 2-0 in the SAC. Lake Howell (6-2 overall), Lake Mary, Lyman and either Oviedo or Seminole (depending on who won their game Thursday) are in a four-way tie for second at 1-1.

"There are only 10 conference games and you can't really afford to lose too many of them if you want to win the conference championship," said Lake Brantley coach Reny Betris. "For us to beat Lake Howell right now is huge. Player for player at this stage of the season, Lake Howell is tight."

Early on, it looked like the Silver Hawks would be the ones to take control of the game, loading the bases in both the first and third innings. But Lake Howell got just one run out of the two rallies, leaving the bases filled both times.

"Lake Brantley hit the ball in the gaps and we hit the ball right at them," said Lake Howell coach Jo

Tribe to defend titles at 8th Seminole Relays

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Team depth will be the quality tested tonight when Seminole High School hosts the eighth annual Seminole Relays at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium and Buddy Lawson Memorial Track.

While the field events will still be scored individually, all eight running events will be relays of four legs each. All the events will be scored to seven places.

The same seven teams that competed in last year's meet are expected to participate in tonight's competition: Seminole, Lake Mary, Lyman, Lake Howell, Oviedo, Lake Brantley and Oak Ridge. Lake Howell and Oak Ridge will be represented only by their boys teams.

Last year, Seminole outscored Oak Ridge 150-121 for the boys' team title while beating Lake Mary 140-132 for the girls' team crown.

The meet, sponsored by the Sunrise Kiwanis Club of Sanford, will begin with the field events at 4 p.m. Like most high school meets, the boys will compete in the long jump, triple jump, high jump, discus, shot put and pole vault while the girls will take part in the three jumping events, shot and discus.

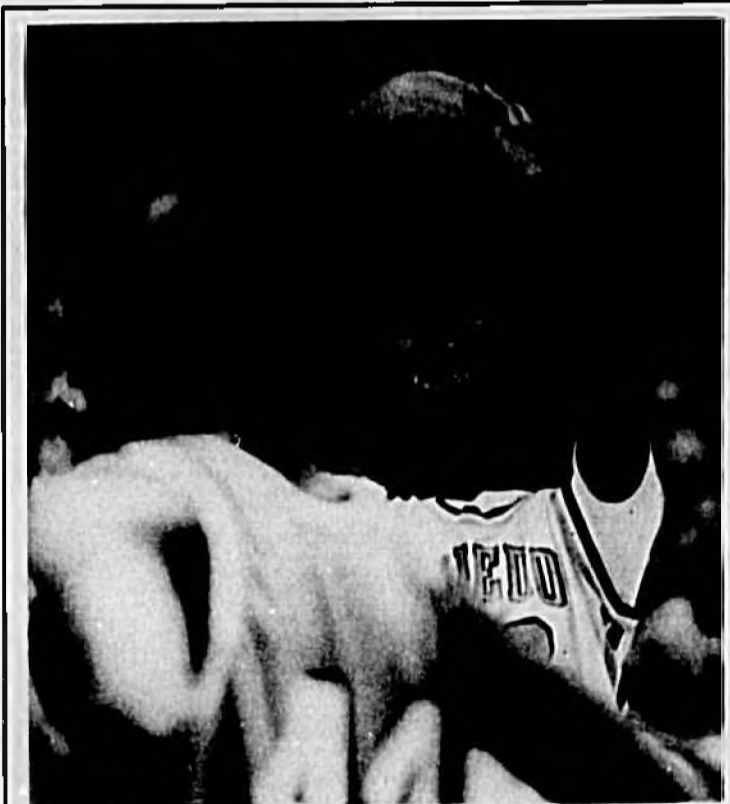

Spectators will get their first glimpse of the uniqueness of the meet when the teams line up for the distance medley at 5:30 p.m. The event consists of legs of 880 yards, 440 yards and 1,320 yards before finishing with a one-mile run.

The rest of the running events are scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. with the shuttle hurdle relay. That will be followed by the two-mile relay (4 x 880), 440-yard relay (4 x 110), sprint medley (110-110-220-440), 880-yard relay (4 x 220), mile medley (220-220-440-880) and mile relay (4 x 440).

Of the relay events, only the 440 and mile relays are run at every other high school track meet. Several local meets also include the two-mile relay as well.

Five meet records were set at last year's event. In the boys' competition, Seminole registered a new standard of 1:04.1 in the shuttle hurdle relay while Henry Williams and Carlo White, both from Seminole, set new marks in the triple jump (47 feet, 10 inches) and shot put (56 feet, 4 inches), respectively.

Lyman's girls broke the meet record in the distance medley relay with a clocking of 13:00.9 last year while the Lake Mary girls lowered the shuttle hurdle relay mark to 1:12.1.

All eyes on state

Randy Wright and his Oviedo teammates will attempt to become the first Seminole County boys basketball team to advance to the state tournament in 12 years when they travel to Kissimmee-Osceola tomorrow night for the Section III championship starting at 7:30 p.m.

Baptists rally in seventh for victory, share of first

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Mike Henley singled in Bill Gracey with the winning run as Sanford First Baptist Church knocked off Lee's Cabinets 10-9 to gain a share of the league lead in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Thursday Night Polar Bear Softball League at Chase Park.

Henley's hit capped a two-run seventh that erased an 9-8 deficit and gave First Baptist its third straight victory and ended Lee's winning streak at six games.

In the other games, Grace Apostolic Temple split a doubleheader, topping Gator's 11-5 before dropping a 12-11 decision to Holy Cross Lutheran Church of Lake Mary.

The Steps Of Lent

Between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday there are forty days? No, that's not quite right. Between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday there are forty weekdays--and six Sundays. Traditionally, the weekdays were the Lenten fast. The Sundays were festivals of Christian worship.

If your faith has taught you to observe Lent by foregoing pleasures or adding new religious experiences or both... those six Sundays are occasions for taking inventory of your spiritual progress.

If yours is a religious background that does not emphasize Lent, those six Sundays are still milestones on the way to the great celebration of Christ's Resurrection--Easter! And if, perchance, you have never given much attention to spiritual matters, those six Sundays (and the thoughtful days between) are an invitation from your Lord... to walk with Him the path He walked for you.

Five part sermon series to begin

SANFORD — Dr. Steven Graham, pastor of Grace Christian Church, 985 Orange Blvd., announces a new five part sermon series on "Building A Marriage That Will Last."

"Often we ask ourselves why the world is the way it is and what can be done about it," according to Dr. Graham. "Almost everyone who examines our nation's woes eventually points the finger at our families. It is true that strong families make a strong nation; weak families make a weak nation. The home is the place to begin to change our world for the better."

The series begins Sunday with "Understanding Your Spouse's Greatest Needs," and will continue as follows: March 15, "How To Survive The Storms In Marriage"; March 22, "How To Rekindle The Romance"; March 29, "How Can We Affair-Proof Our Marriage" and April 5, Special Wedding Vow Renewal Ceremony.

Grace Christian Church services begin at 10 a.m. for both children and adults. Services are held at Wilson Elementary School.

For information, call 321-7660 for directions and information.

What's the answer for incontinence?

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 78-year-old female with urinary incontinence. Is there anything that can be done about it? My doctor gave me medication, but it makes me too sleepy.

reflect anxiety and stress. This behavior is not due to a nutritional deficiency. Often, once the source of the psychological discomfort is recognized and addressed, the compulsion to engage in these repetitive acts disappears. Hence, counseling is frequently successful.

DEAR READER: The treatment of urinary incontinence depends on the cause. For example, this unpleasant symptom is often associated with chronic bladder infection for which antibiotics are curative. Also, anatomical changes that affect aging women (such as cystocele or bladder weakness) can cause incontinence and may require surgical repair. Finally, women over the age of 60 may experience age-related problems in bladder control that result from simple muscular weakness; special exercises may alleviate this condition.

I suggest you make an appointment with a gynecologist who will examine you, advise you and - if necessary - refer you to a urologist for further therapy.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please explain what causes fatty tumors to appear on the arms and legs. Is there anything a person can do to avoid getting them?

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Today's hand caused a debate between North and South. If you would like to arbitrate, cover the East-West cards and decide on your line of play in four spades. West leads the club king.

South had an uncomfortable bid on the second round because his spade spots were so bad. But three spades worked well here, the right contract being reached.

At the time, South won the first trick with dummy's club ace (correct because clubs could be 6-1), cashed the spade king, crossed to hand with a diamond to the ace and drew two more rounds of trump, learning he had a loser there. Next he finessed the diamond jack. But East produced the queen and a second club so that West could cash two club tricks to defeat the game.

"I was very unlucky," South protested. "The spades were 4-2.

West didn't have the diamond queen despite his two-level overcall, and East had a second club."

North felt that it wasn't bad luck but poor play. He suggested that, at trick six, South should have played a diamond not to the jack but to the king. Then he should have led the diamond jack for a ruffing finesse, discarding a club loser if East didn't play the queen.

Who is going to become your best friend, North or South?

North was correct. This latter play guarantees the contract. Here the finesse wins, but suppose West has the diamond queen. He may cash one club trick, but South's heart loser will disappear on the diamond 10.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY

Your probabilities for success are much stronger in the year ahead than they were last year. This is because you've learned some priceless lessons.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a possibility you might be attracted to someone today who represents forbidden fruit. Think things through so that you don't get involved in a situation with ready-made problems. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your reputation is one of your most precious assets. Today, an acquaintance might try to use something - where you were blameless - against you in an attempt to belittle you to a friend. Defend yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

An alliance of convenience might have its durability tested today, and the results could be rather disappointing. The substance that binds this union is not firm enough.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your handiwork will be closely scrutinized by superiors and associates today. Don't send anything out to which you wouldn't proudly affix your signature.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Social involvements will have a significant effect on your image today, so be on your best behavior. If you're a guest, leave before you wear out your welcome.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't do things for others today out of a sense of obligation. If you do not do them from your heart, the recipient could feel uncomfortable, wishing you hadn't done anything.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of being appreciative of the efforts others expend on your behalf today, you might criticize them for the way they do things. This won't encourage them to help again.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your resources must be managed prudently today with an eye toward future needs. Failing to budget wisely now could cause problems down the road.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you know that what a youngster wants is not for the child's good, don't give in today. You may have to face a situation where tough love is necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) Guard against the inclination today to take full credit for something in which you played only a small part. You could be embarrassed later, when the truth comes to light.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you haven't been getting as much mileage as you think you should be getting from your budget, it's time to make some revisions. Begin today by curbing non-essential expenditures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Significant achievements are possible today, but the world isn't going to strew rose petals on your path just because you're a nice person. Motivation and effort are also required.
