Highway Patrol sets up inspection checkpoints

January 7 through Feb. 10, the Florida Highway Patrol will be conducting driver license and vehicle inspection checkpoints at various locations throughout Seminole County.

Recognizing the danger presented to the public by defective vehicle equipment, troopers will concentrate their efforts on vehicles being operated with defects such as bad brakes, worn tires, and defective lighting equipment. In addition, attention will be directed to drivers who would violate the driver license laws of Florida.

During the various weeks and days, troopers will be conducting checkpoints on Bunnell Road, Celery Avenue, Beardall Avenue, Marquette Avenue, Orange Blvd., General Hutcheson, Lake Mary Blvd., SR-415, SR-427, Osceola Ave., Old Lake Mary Road, E.E. Williamson, Sylvania Road, and other locations.

The FHP says it has found checkpoints to be an effective means of enforcing the equipment and driver license laws of Florida while ensuring the protection of all motorists.

Longwood considers sewer policy

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The Longwood City Commission will consider a residential sewer policy during a work session next week.

The work session will be held 7 p.m. Monday at Longwood City Hall, and is likely to stir debate on an issue that has long been a caustic topic in the town.

Throughout the 1990's, Longwood installed commercial sewer hook-ups

City has never implemented a residential sewer policy while most residents remained on septic systems.

"We have no residential sewer policy," said Mayor Paul Lovstrand. "It just comes and goes. Our old policy was basically to go after the commercial sewer system, because that will help the tax base more than the residential."

Not everyone in the city agrees that a residential sewer policy is needed. Many city residents have stable septic systems and would object to paying fees to subsidize the hookup of residential sewer lines.

"There is nothing more explosive in this city than the sewer issue," Lovstrand said. "We have to be careful that we don't push things down peoples' throats they don't want."

The commission on Monday unanimously passed a resolution to develop a water and sewer hookup and expansion. See Sewer, Page 6A.

Lake Mary sets final hearing on Crystal Lake rezoning

By Michelle Jerla
Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — Residents will have one last chance Thursday to voice their concerns and comments about the rezoning of property beside Crystal Lake.

The Lake Mary City Commission is scheduled to have a second and final reading of a rezoning request for approximately 40 acres of property in the Timacuan Reserve. The area is located on the northwest side of Crystal Lake and contains about 21 acres of wetlands.

The issue of rezoning the lake area first came before the Commission in September after Realvest Partners Inc. submitted a request to rezone the area from A-1, agricultural, to R-1A residential. However, commissioners denied it because of concerns over the density in proximity to the lake.

According to the city's Code of Ordinance, Commission could not consider another rezoning for a the same property for at least six months unless it voted to waive the time limit, which it did during its Dec. 2 meeting.

During its Dec. 16 meeting, Commission approved with a 3-2 vote. See Rezoning, Page 6A.

Radio evangelist gets additional 14 months in prison

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Former radio evangelist George Crossley, convicted in 1997 of trying to hire a hit man, was sentenced to 14 additional months in prison on Tuesday at the Seminole County Courthouse in Sanford.

Crossley's total sentence is now five years, two months. He had been sentenced to 48 months, but the State of Florida appealed the sentence, arguing that it was too short.

In September 1998, the 5th District Court of Appeal upheld

Crossley's conviction, but ordered Circuit Judge Seymore Benson to resentance him.

Crossley, 58, of Deltona, was appealing his conviction, which the appeals court upheld 3-0.

The appeals court ruled that Crossley's original sentence of four years in prison, followed by three years of probation was too short. However, Benson was free to impose the same sentence or a sentence of shorter length if he listed valid reasons in writing.

Commission ponders changes in rules governing volunteer boards

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The Longwood City Commission continues to look into changing the rules governing volunteer city boards.

The City Commission is considering an ordinance that would remove restrictions placed on the number of individuals serving on a board from one district.

Commissioners are currently able to appoint board members from outside their district, but the ordinance would remove a restriction that limits the commission from appointing more than two members on a board from any one district.

It was passed on first reading Monday by a 3-2 vote, opposed by Mayor Paul Lovstrand and Commissioner Steve Miller. The ordinance will come before the commission for final approval on Jan. 17.

Lovstrand and Miller both object to a clause in the ordinance that states "Where possible, commissioners should nominate individuals to fill vacancies from applicants who live within their districts and who have expressed an interest in serving on a particular board of committee."

The majority of the commission said that nominations should be from the commissioner's district whenever possible.

"We ought to have the best representation," said City Commissioner John Maingot. "And, we ought to seek out the very best people."

The nomination should be based upon who is most qualified, not on which district the person resides, said Miller and Lovstrand.

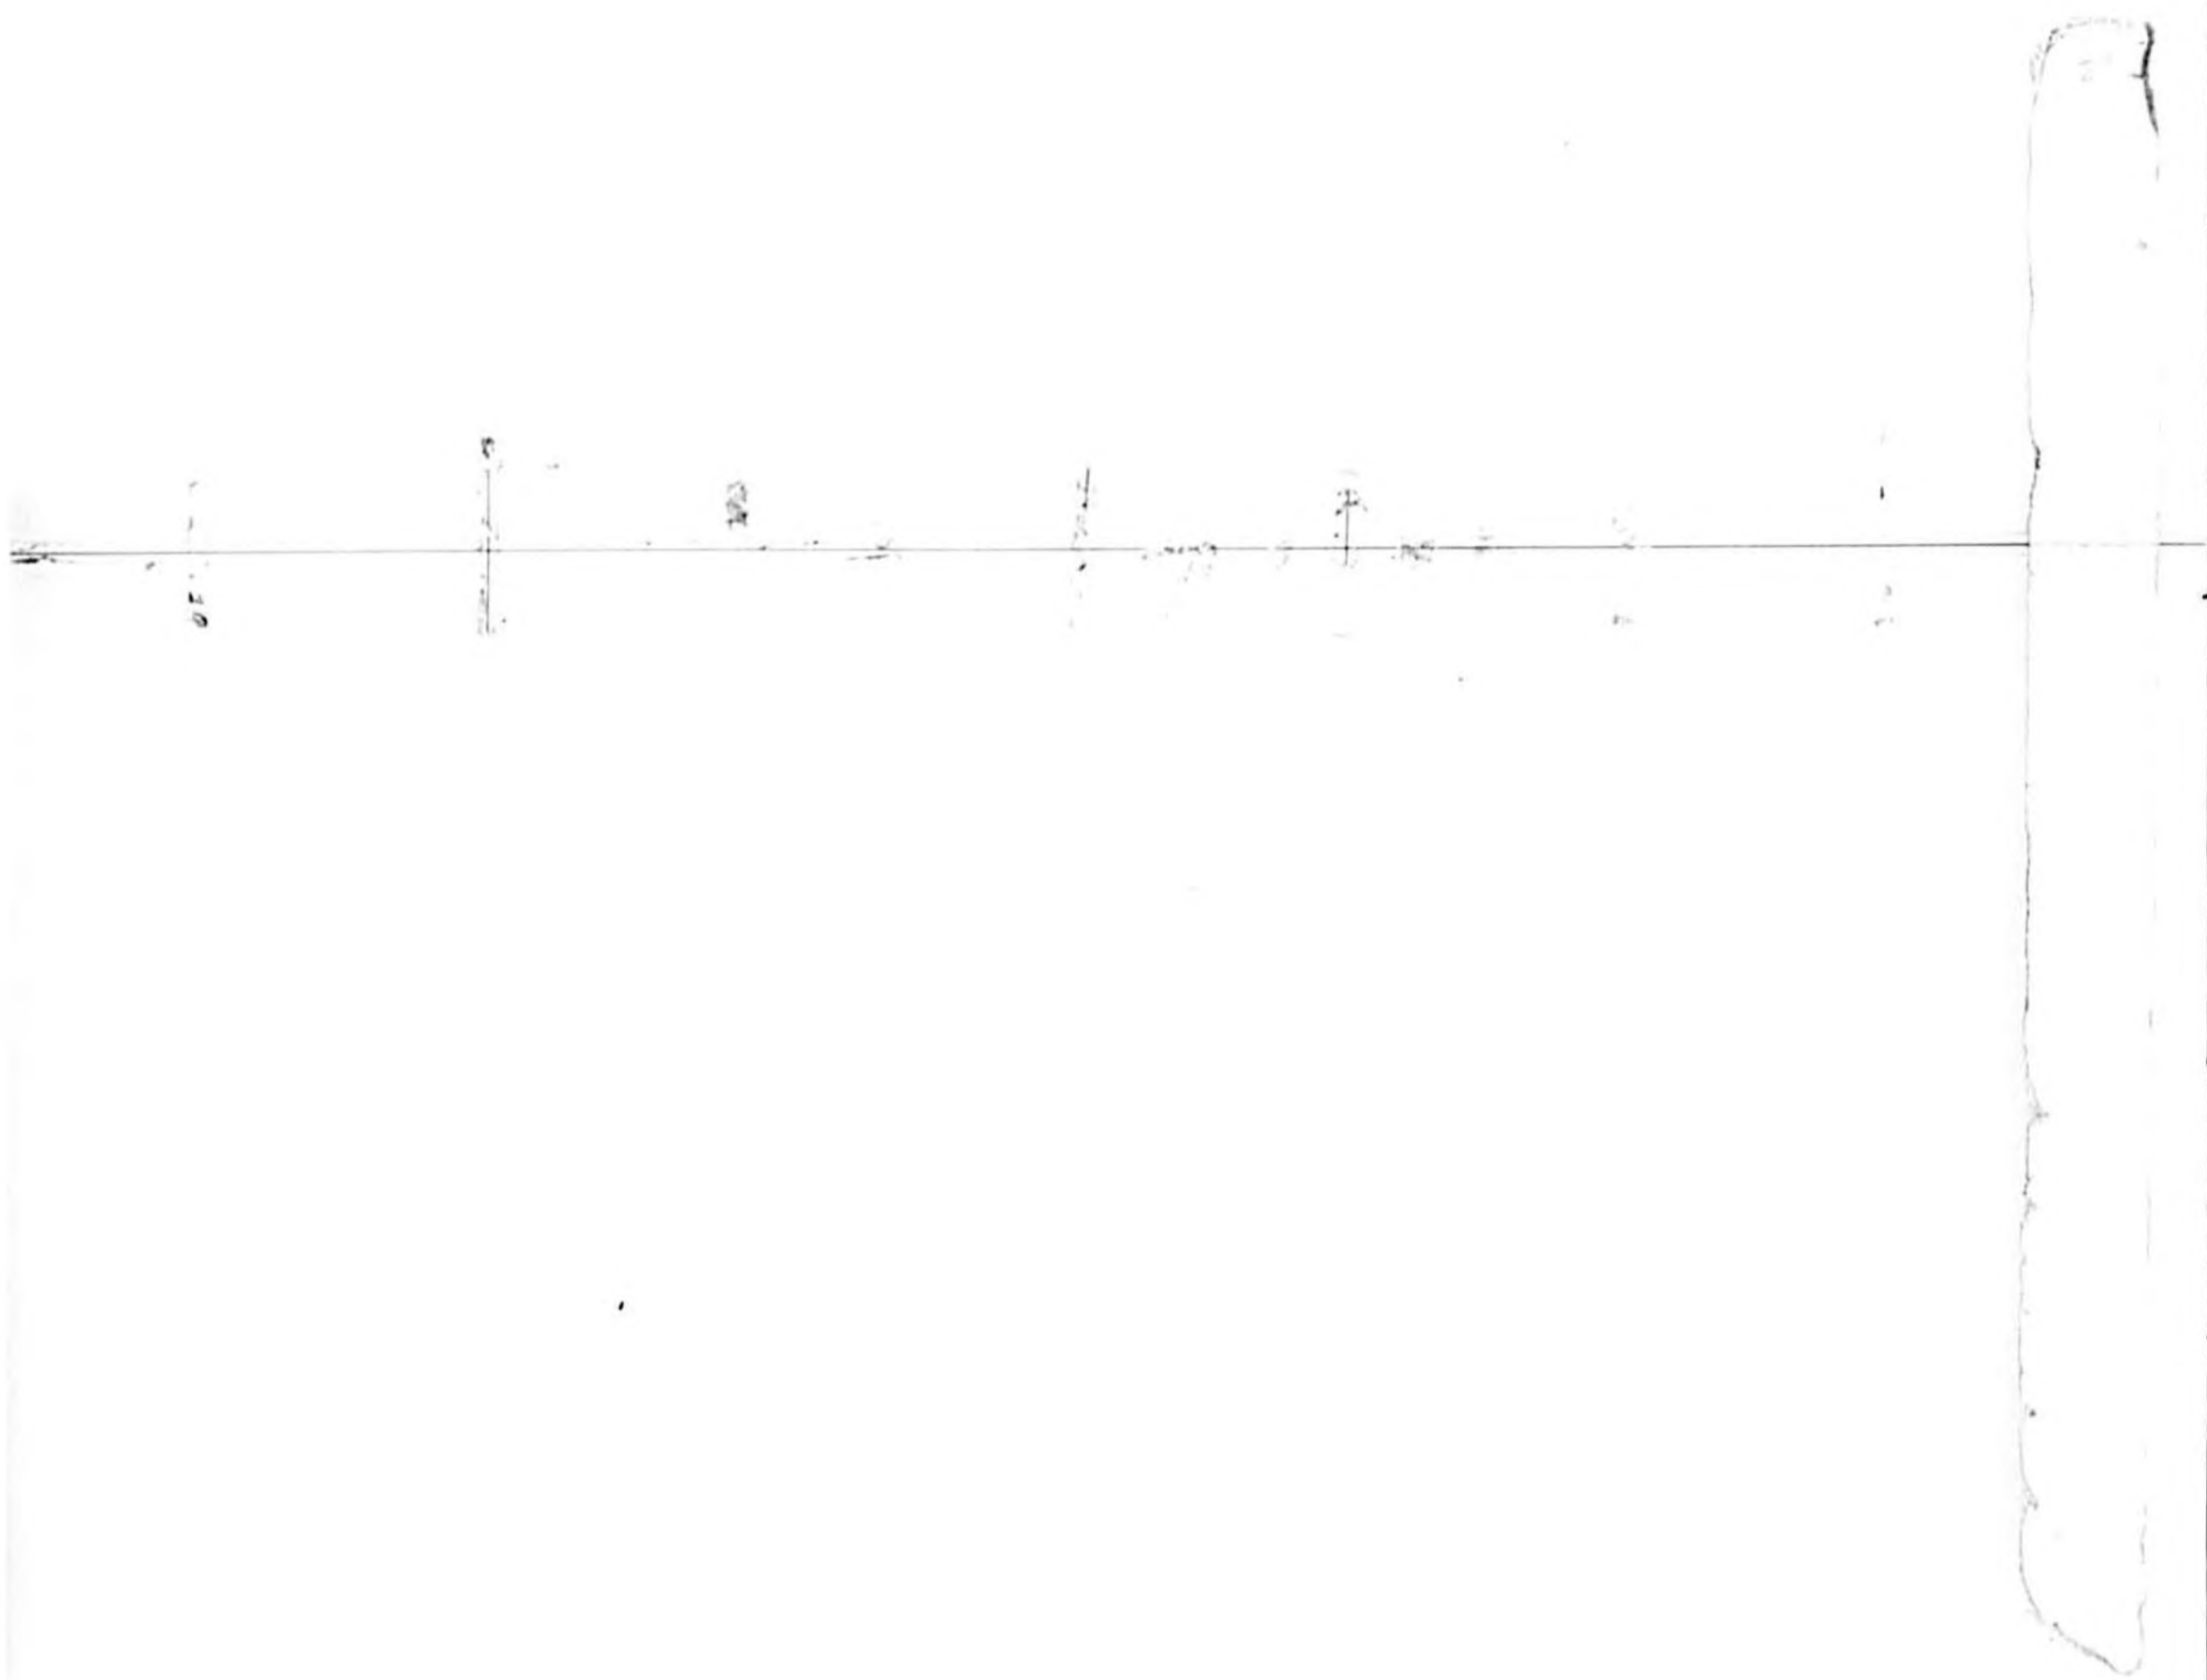

"To say that it should be from the district I don't think is necessary," Lovstrand said. "We See Rules, Page 6A

Our View

The worry has ended

Some officials have cautioned us to handle the Y2K, changeover to the year 2000, with the same preparations one would make for a hurricane. We were to store non-perishable food, drinking water, take money out of the bank, get our vehicles fully gassed, and take any other appropriate action.

Most of the Y2K problems were expected to occur in electronic devices such as computers, and the services they provide, such as intersection stop lights, electricity, aircraft flights, and many others. It's a fact that many computers may have broken down when the year changed, but advance preparations were accomplished in most cases, and problems were minimal (except for those few who DID have breakdowns).

Well, we've now reached the year 2000, and it's almost like some of the hurricanes we have worried about. They may have appeared to pose a threat, but they missed us. Very few problems occurred. We are still going about our daily routine. Most computers still work, we weren't without electricity, and there were no directly related plane crashes.

Of course the changeover from three 9's to three 0's gave us one good point. Anything that went wrong, we have something to blame.

Many people say we have reached the new millennium. Wrong. The new millennium does not actually begin until the year 2001. We doubt there will be many concerns over that change come Dec. 31, 2000.

But look at the change in dates. It first occurred at Greenwich England. Then, as each hour passed, the year change officially took place at other parts of the world. New York for example, reached the year 2000 three hours before California.

The point here is to look at the obvious. We have changed the calendars. We will now have to get used to writing 2000 on our correspondence, our checks, our official documents. Other than that, people will continue to go to work each day, we'll still drive our automobiles down the street, we'll still have heat in cold weather and air conditioning when it gets warm. Life will go on as usual.

While some people were truly concerned, even those who feared the end of the world, it's over now. We have lived through another of life's adventures, and gone through it successfully. The worry is over. Now, may we all get back to work on our lives.

Happy birthday 'Y'

We missed the exact day, Wednesday, Dec. 29, but here is a belated happy 148th birthday to the YMCA. The first Young Man's Christian Association, was organized in Boston, Mass. in 1851.

Eventually, through the past century, the YWCA was added, to indicate a companion organization for young women. Now however, the "Y" is considered to be for all ages, both sexes, and everyone in the family from toddler to grandfolds.

Locally, the YMCA of Central Florida is located at 665 Longwood-Lake Mary Road, just south of the city of Lake Mary. There is a facility in Winter Park at 1201 North Lakemont Avenue. There is also one, in the state of massive expansion, to the north, in the FourTowns area of Volusia County.

Depending on the size of the facility, a myriad of programs are offered, from leisure time enjoyment such as swimming, to exercise rooms, and training in such matters as swimming, life saving, gymnastics, dance, and many others.

For this new year, and resolutions people may have made, we suggest paying a visit to the nearest YMCA. Obtain a listing of the programs. For those who make a resolution to learn how to swim, lose weight, learn swimming or life saving techniques or other vows, let the YMCA give the help you may need.

Membership is relatively low priced in comparison to the benefits that can be obtained.

Expansion at most facilities is an ongoing project. The Central Florida Family YMCA has been in Seminole County since 1987. It underwent an 18,000 square foot expansion this past May. A new playground opens January 1, 2000, and a "Smoothie" bar is scheduled to open March 1.

For the entire family, or for people who live alone, we recommended the YMCA for this new year. Check it out. We believe you will find it worth your while.

Washington isn't speaking English

"Yuh as a rezedent ave di rights ahn di rispansibilities to elp mek yuh HUD-asisted owzing ah behta owme fi yuh ahn yuh family."

So reads the text of a pamphlet actually published by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and distributed to Haitian-Americans residing in federally subsidized housing.

It is supposed to be a Haitian Creole translation. But it's really a poorly rendered imitation of Jamaican patois (which was no doubt written by a non-Jamaican).

HUD was embarrassed by its translational blunder. But HUD officials, including "Sekretary Andrew M. Cuomo fella," maintain that the nation's growing diversity dictates that government agencies make certain forms and applications and pamphlets available in multiple languages.

(Indeed, several years back, HUD actually threatened to withhold millions of dollars in federal housing funds from cities that refused to print documents in languages other than English.)

But all the government does by conducting official business in multiple languages is to promote the balkanization of the American population into English-speakers and so-called "language minorities." In so doing, it undermines our national credo — "e pluribus unum," out of many, one.

That is not to say that Americans should speak but one language. Indeed, Americans who speak two or more languages are, arguably, a national asset.

But English is our national — if not "official" — language. And it is hardly unreasonable (or "nativist" or "xenophobic" or "racist") to expect the 12 million or so foreign-born non-English-speaking residents of this country to make a faithful effort to become proficient in the language of their adapted home.

Unfortunately, the government makes it easy for non-English speakers to get by without learning, as Teddy Roosevelt reminded, "the language of the Declaration of Independence, of Washington's Farewell address, of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and second inaugural."

Indeed, "language minorities" can go to school in many parts of the country and get most of their instruction in their foreign tongue. They can get a job without knowing English. And they cannot be required to speak English in the workplace (in fact, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission filed 146 complaints last year against companies with English-only policies).

They can get driver's licenses without knowing English (California offers driver's license exams in 30 different languages). They can get government welfare benefits without speaking English (like the federal housing subsidy). They can obtain citizenship without learning English (the INS has actually conducted a swearing-in ceremony for new citizens almost entirely in Spanish). And they can vote without knowing English (Los Angeles has printed ballots in six different languages for a local election).

The perverse aspect of this government bow to multilingualism is that it actually hurts the non-English-speaking population. Indeed, a Labor Department report, published earlier this decade, showed that immigrants learn English more quickly when there is less native-language support around them.

And immigrants who learn English fare considerably better economically than those who don't. In fact, an authoritative study by Richard Vedder and Lowell Galloway of Ohio State University found that, "Other things being equal, good knowledge of English increases the income of households by almost a third over what it would have been without that skill."

Given these findings, it seems logical that the government would wage an English proficiency campaign among the non-English-speaking population. But, in fact, the government is going in the opposite direction. It is publishing pamphlets in Creole and other languages.

And that is why the ranks of the immigrant poor are increasing. Indeed, a recent report by the Center for Immigration Studies revealed that the poverty rate among the nation's immigrants has markedly increased over the past two decades.

In 1979, only one in 10 of the nation's poor were immigrants, according to the Washington-based think tank. In 1997, one of every five poor persons in this country were immigrants. Meanwhile, the poverty rate among native-born Americans has remained flat over the same span.

So the government does so-called language minorities no favor by facilitating their continued use of their native tongues. All that does is consign these non-English-speakers to America's economic underclass.

Students will go into space through lab

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — When students at Sanford Middle and Goldsboro Elementary schools return to class during the spring semester, they will use new space lab simulation facilities currently under construction at the two Sanford magnet schools.

Classes in Seminole County resumed Tuesday.

Sanford Middle and Goldsboro Elementary schools will offer simulation facilities during the spring semester through a Magnet School Assistance Program grant awarded to the Seminole County school district that includes $613,000 to develop the projects.

Both schools will offer space lab facilities. Sanford Middle School will also offer a flight simulator.

The facilities will not be ready for full-time use until next year. However, students at both schools will participate in activities at the labs during the spring semester.

Next year, the Goldsboro facility will be used everyday by students in kindergarten through the fifth grade. The facility will include a simulation of mission control, space shuttle, sick bay, and planet surface where students can take simulated walks on the Moon and on Mars.

Students will also conduct experiments using a robotic arm and hydroponics lab for growing plants.

"We will have the sounds of the space shuttle and a fogging machine to give the effect of launching," said Joe LeBlanc, an assistant principal at Goldsboro Elementary.

The facility will be housed in a 3,000-square-foot building donated at cost by several business groups. Goldsboro is the only public elementary school in the nation with a space lab facility.

"Students will begin learning the basics in kindergarten, and it will keep building until they can plan a mission in the fifth grade," said Laurie Conner, a curriculum specialist at Goldsboro Elementary.

The space lab designs at both schools are based on the NASA Space Camp program at Kennedy Space Center. A consultant also researched facilities at Embry Riddle University in Daytona and the National Challenger Lab in Jacksonville in designing the programs.

Students will perform a variety of scientific and space travel related experiments in environments that resemble a space station and planet surface. The results will be communicated to a mission control center, also manned by students.

The activities in the simulators will be designed to complement what students learn in the classroom.

"During the Forces and Motion Unit, for example, students will also be learning about the history of flight," Conner said.

At Sanford Middle School, course work at the space lab will be primarily performed by eighth graders. Students will work together in teams to design experiments, collect data and write reports.

"Our goal is to be able to phone astronauts in the space shuttle," said Frank Saltzer, coordinator of the labs at Sanford Middle School. "We want to use the Internet to interact with astronauts and compare experiments that we are working on at the same time as they are."

The space lab at Sanford Middle School will have a simulated International Space Station, a medical bay, and six bay stalls to conduct experiments.

Students will conduct experiments in growing fish and plants.

They will also use a robotic arm, and use simulated lasers and satellites.

"During the last nine weeks we do want to make sure that all eighth graders come in and see this," Saltzer said.

Course work for the flight simulation facility at Sanford Middle School is primarily designed for seventh grade students. It is the only flight simulator in a United States public school. Starting next year, all students in the school will participate in activities in the facility.

Interactive controls operated through a computer program simulate flights from airports worldwide, including the Orlando Sanford Airport and the Orlando International Airport.

"This is very similar to what a pilot could be trained on," said Pam Mason, a curriculum coordinator at Sanford Middle School.

In the main simulator, teachers can program simulated failures in equipment and other emergencies to test the students.

Students will study concepts such as altitude, degrees and angles in order to operate an air traffic control computer. There is also a weather station within the facility.

"You have to know what degrees to use to turn a plane," Mason said. "You need to know what altitude and degree you should be at as you land the plane."

Pine Crest students win Winn-Dixie competition

SANFORD — Six fifth-grade art students from Pine Crest Elementary poured their hearts into the creation of their three-foot paper mache penguin, and this week they will be pouring on the chocolate syrup.

The students competed against classes that were double their size to earn a $750 donation from Winn-Dixie Orlando. They will celebrate their win with an ice cream sundae party courtesy of the company.

Pine Crest Elementary was among seven Seminole County elementary schools that participated in Winn-Dixie's paper mache penguin contest.

The contest required the fifth-grade art classes to use their imaginations to create a two to four foot paper mache penguin for Frozen Food Month. The winning penguins were announced in November.

Pine Crest Elementary received first place and a donation for $750, Woodlands Elementary received second place and a donation of $500 and Forest City Elementary came in third to receive a $250 donation.

Peer support program offered at Tuskawilla

OVIDO — The Peer Helping Program started last year at Tuskawilla Middle School, and 60 eighth grade students are currently participating.

The focus is on helping students with low academic ability or who are functioning below grade level.

Peer Helpers are graded on their dependability and responsibility while in the classroom.

In addition, 50 student mentors from Tuskawilla Middle School will be assigned to two elementary schools this year to assist with the academic program within each school.

The program is in its third year.

Rezoning

 1 vote the rezoning request following lengthy public discussion. The current request asks the commissioners to approve rezoning the property from A-1 to R-1AA, a lower density than R-1A.

According to Steve Neveleff, vice president of Realvest Partners, his company plans to develop about six of the 40 acres on the site. Between 25 and 28 acres will be used as a conservation belt.

None of the land will be considered lakefront property as a result of the buffer between the lake and the developed property, Neveleff said. All of the six acres will be above the wetland and 100-year floodplain boundaries.

In new business, Commission will also consider:

- An ordinance to vacate a 20-foot alley in block No. 48 in Crystal Lake Shores;
- A request for conditional use approval for a 42-foot tall office building in Lake Mary Summit Building No. 2;
- Site plan approval with variances to the Land Development Code for the construction of a 76,600 square foot office building located on Anderson Lane;

- A request for preliminary subdivision approval with a variance to the Land Development Code in the Timacuan Reserve;
- An ordinance for a rezoning request from A-1 to R-1AA for property located at 368 Pinetree Road.

Before Commission's regular meeting Thursday, which starts at 7 p.m. in City Commission Chambers located at 100 N. Country Club Road, a work session is scheduled for 5:15 p.m. to discuss Preservation 2000 Grant Applications for property acquisition.

 out by the appeals court, Crossley was tentatively set for release on May 16, 2001. He has served 2 1/2 years of his sentence.

Crossley was convicted in December 1997 of trying to hire a hit man to kill a former church associate. He has long insisted that he was entrapped by an undercover agent posing as a hit man.

The Baptist minister, who was once among the leading evangelists in Central Florida, was arrested July 3, 1996 for hiring a "hit man," who was actually a disguised undercover federal agent.

The intended victim, Butch Waldo, 56, of Eustis, was the estranged husband of a woman whom Crossley had had an extramarital affair. Waldo was campaigning to remove Crossley from local radio and television broadcasts.

Crossley never hooked up with a hit man. Instead, he met with a federal agent posing as the would-be killer. Their meeting was video taped. Jurors watched as Crossley handed the "hit man" a gun and agreed the best place to shoot Waldo was behind the right ear.

Husband feels happy marriage should include occasional sex

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married 48 years, have raised three children and are in our early 70s. Eleven years ago, my wife stopped having sex with me, saying she didn't think it was necessary. She said all her lady friends our age have stopped doing it, and also they sleep in separate bedrooms. Am I wrong for feeling that sex is necessary for a happy marriage?

HURT HUSBAND, REDFORD, MICH.

DEAR HURT HUSBAND: No, you are not wrong. Obviously sex is necessary for YOU to have a happy marriage — and if your wife values your marriage, she'll consider working out a compromise. Otherwise, I fear I'll be hearing from HER asking what happened to YOU.

DEAR ABBY: The response from "Angie" addressing the teen-age curfew enforcement problem was ingenious, but not foolproof. She suggested that a parent who didn't want to lose sleep waiting for her teen-aged child to come home set an alarm for the time the child should be home. If the child arrives before the alarm goes off, he or she turns the alarm off and goes to bed — allowing the parent continuous sleep.

My mother used (and I thought invented) that technique when I was a teen-ager in the '70s, thinking that was the solution to my broken curfews and late hours. What Mother didn't know until 25 years later was that while she was sleeping, I would come home, turn the alarm off and sneak back out.

DEAR CURRENT PARENT: Bad girl! Your confession reminds me of the saying that if man invents a better mousetrap, nature invents a smarter mouse. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: The alarm clock method doesn't work! We used it on our oldest son back in 1970. (He's now the chief of staff of the Sixth Fleet in Italy) After just one night, he began paying his sister (15 months younger) to go in and shut it off. I never learned until a decade later that he had been roaming free until all hours.

ing our country instead of becoming a career criminal. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: My solution to knowing when our teen-age daughter came home: I, too, work and can hardly stay up to enforce curfews — so I simply went to bed. In HER bed! When she came home, she woke me up and we chatted, and I went off to my own bed. She loved it, because not only did we have late-night mother-daughter chats, but I warmed her bed for her!

She's away at college this year, and I miss our talks. COOKI IN CINCINNATI

DEAR COOKI: You are a diligent and caring parent, and your solution provided a wonderful opportunity for you and your daughter to share some private and memorable moments together.  policy, and to establish a residential sewer policy book. City Administrator John Drago will present the book to the commission for approval.

"Any policy would be better than what we have now," said City Commissioner Butch Bundy. "A lot of people are paying up to $8,000 to put in septic systems."

However, commissioner Steve Miller said that he is among the city residents who are satisfied with using a septic system.

"A lot of people in our city, myself included, do not need city sewer," Miller said. "We do not want city sewer."

In order to form the policy, Longwood will need to resolve the question of how to pay for a residential sewer system. Private consultants are currently performing a rate study and a hydraulic study for the city.

Complicating matters is a five-year, $3 million road paving program being performed city-wide.

Commissioners agreed that new sewer hookups cannot be placed in every road that receives new paving.

The city has a water-sewer enterprise fund which collects impact fees. However, residents not on city sewer cannot subsidize those who do have active sewer hookups.

 are to be the district's representation."

In addition, Lovestrand said that commissioners should admit that the nominations are politically motivated.

"Would Ronald Reagan have appointed a bunch of Democrats?" Lovestrand said. "You're going to nominate your friends, your political allies, the people who helped you win the election. That's the spoils of war. Let's stop trying to fool the public."

Longwood has eight active boards with five to seven volunteers serving on each board. Some residents claim that policies are crafted based upon the district where board members reside.

"I was a member of the Code Enforcement Board for six years," said City Commissioner Butch Bundy. "When I first got on, it definitely mattered where you lived."

Meanwhile, a controversial clause in the code governing the behavior of Longwood's city board members may soon be amended.

The Longwood City Commission passed a resolution on Dec. 6 governing the code of conduct for city volunteer board members. Proponents of the ordinance say it promotes civility, while opponents claim that it inhibits free speech.

On Monday, the City Commission unanimously rejected passing a similar resolution governing its own code of conduct because of a clause the commissioners said was too restrictive. The clause applies the ordinance to conversations that occur on or off of city property.

The commission also agreed to discuss amending a clause from the code of conduct for city board members on Jan. 17.

The clause states that the code of conduct applies "not only during meetings but also prior to and subsequent to meetings, while on City property and during any communication related to City business . . ."

In addition, the clause states that the code applies to "written or oral communications whether they take place on or off city property."

Commissioners objected to applying the ordinance to communication that occurs off of city property.

The commission also unanimously agreed to discuss amending a clause within the code for city boards on Jan. 17, so the code would only be in effect while board members are on city property.

The code of conduct for city board members states that the members shall not be confrontational with other members, the staff, or persons in attendance.

The code prohibits "abusive or disrespectful conduct toward fellow board members, staff, officers of the City and members of the public at all times."

It also prohibits board members from giving direction to city staff members without the consent of the City Administrator.

Board members found to be in violation of the code are subject to suspension or removal from the city board.

Stupendous Seminoles

Warrick shines as FSU wins second National Championship

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

NEW ORLEANS - Peter Warrick turned down millions of dollars and a guaranteed first round pick in the 1999 NFL Draft to return to Florida State in search of the Heisman Trophy and a National Championship.

After blowing the Heisman with a run-in with the law, only the goal of winning the National Championship remained for the fifth-year senior from Bradenton Southeast High School.

The wide receiver/return specialist put on a show for a national audience Tuesday night in the Louisiana Superdome, scoring a Sugar Bowl record 20 points to lead the Seminoles to a 46-29 National Championship clinching victory over Virginia Tech before 79,280 fans.

Warrick scored on touchdown catches of 64- and 43-yards, returned a punt 59 yards for a touchdown and also caught a two-point conversion as Florida State blew a 21-point lead in the second quarter before rallying to give the

'Noles and coach Bobby Bowden their second National Championship.

FSU finishes the season 12-0, the first undefeated season for FSU and Bowden and the Seminoles also became just the third team to be ranked No. 1 from the start of the season to the finish and win the national title.

Virginia Tech, which was looking for its first national crown in the 107-year history of the school, ends the season 11-1.

Wide Receiver Ron Dugans and 27-year-old quarterback Chris Weinke also had big games for FSU, with Dugans catching a pair of touchdown passes of 63- and 15-yards and finishing with five catches for 99 yards, while Weinke went 20-for-34 with one interception for 329 yards and four touchdowns.

The other Seminoles scores came on a 32-yard field goal by Sebastian Janikowski, who also kicked five extra points, and a six-yard run by Jeff Chaney off a punt blocked by Tommy Polley.

Chaney made the biggest play of the game for FSU, taking a pitch from back-up quarterback Marcus Outzen on a fourth-and-one foot and running 17 yards for a first down to set-up the go-ahead touchdown after the Seminoles had fallen behind 29-28 late in the third quarter.

Virginia Tech red-shirt freshman Michael Vick showed that his finishing third in the Heisman Trophy voting was no fluke as the left-hander passed for 225 yards (15-for-29, no interceptions) and ran for 97 yards on 23 carries as he directed the Hokies (11-1) to 503 yards of offense.

Vick fumbled at the FSU one-yard line after driving his team the length of the field on the opening series of the game and FSU went on to build a 28-7 lead with just under 12 minutes left in the first half.

But the Seminoles did not score again for over 20 minutes as Virginia Tech went on a 22-0 run to take a 29-28 lead.

But Chaney's run on fourth down was followed by Dugans' second touchdown catch to complete an 87-yard drive and the Seminoles defense, which had been on the field for much of the game, gained new life after getting some much-needed rest and shut down Vick the rest of the way.

A Janikowski field goal after a Vick fumble and an amazing 43-yard juggling touchdown catch with a Hokie defender draped all over Warrick capped the scoring.

UCF in Baseball America's Preseason Top 25

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - The University of Central Florida is ranked 23rd in Baseball America's Preseason Top 25, the magazine announced Tuesday.

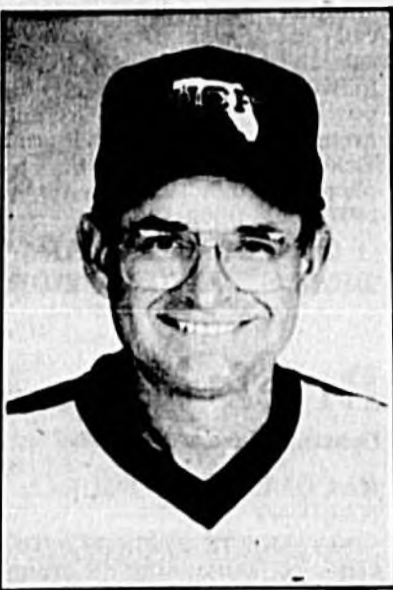

"It's nice to be recognized in the national media as a solid team before the season gets started," said head coach Jay Bergman, who also coached at Seminole Community College.

The ranking marks the first time UCF has been included in the Baseball America poll since the week of April 13, 1998 (#25). UCF was #28 in the pre-season poll that year. Collegiate Baseball had the Golden Knights at #25 on March 23, 1998.

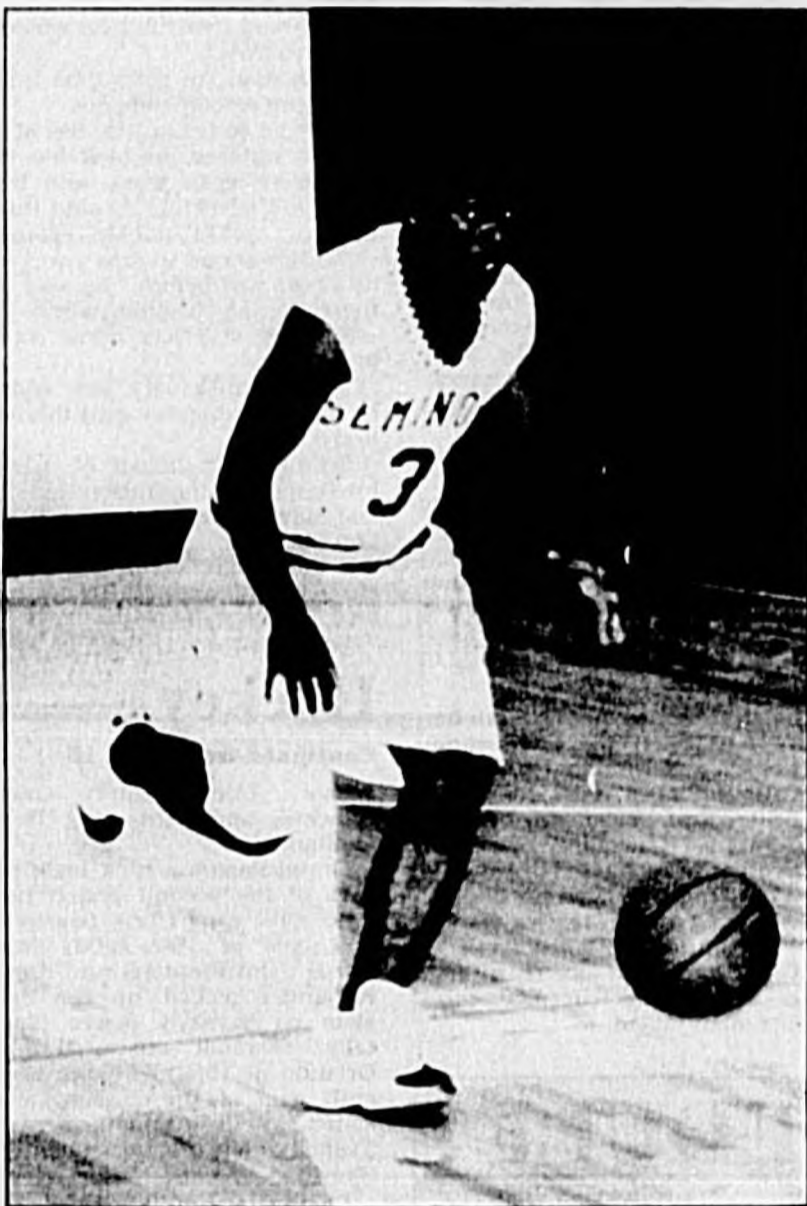

America Baseball Coaches Association All-Region picks Dustin Brisson and Mark Batta, both seniors this season, lead a cast that hit for a school-record .325 average in 1999 with 63 home runs. Brisson shattered the Golden Knights single season records in home runs (17) and runs batted in (78) last year.

Junior first baseman Matt Bowser was invited to USA national team tryouts the last two seasons and is the Golden Knights' career leader in slugging percentage at .846. Fellow junior Jason Arnold, one of the country's most effective closers with 20 lifetime saves, should break the UCF career mark for saves early in the season. All four are in the running for conference and national honors.

SCC men to host Manatee tonight

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - The Seminole Community College men's basketball team will be looking to open the year 2000 with a victory tonight when it hosts Manatee Community College from Bradenton at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center starting at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

The Raiders fell to 12-6 after dropping a decision to Brevard Community College in Cocoa last Friday night, but the local school is still riding a high, having already reached the win total it accumulated the entire 1998-99 season.

Tonight's game will carry a little extra incentive for SCC coach Stan Cromartie, who played point guard at Manatee back in the early '80's and helped lead the Lancers to back-to-back State Championships.

MCC will be looking for a little revenge of its own as the Raiders defeated the Lancers 71-70 in December in Bradenton.

SCC has been ranked in the Top 10 in the State Poll all season and has been led by the starting trio of sophomore point guard Lonnie Battle (6-foot from Jacksonville), freshman shooting guard Matt Story (6-foot-4 from Sarasota) and sophomore forward Daryl Dingle (6-foot-7 from Miami) with DeLand freshman Chris Jackson (6-foot-1 guard), Edgewater freshman Chris Thomas (6-foot-4 guard/forward), Orlando sophomore Mario Scott (6-foot-4 forward) and Apopka freshman Chris Calderon (6-foot-6 forward) contributing greatly off the bench.

The Raiders have also been buoyed recently by the return of 6-foot-8 sophomore center Joe Edwards from Pensacola who missed the early part of the season.

Sanford sophomore Mequial Bush (5-foot-8 guard) and Lake Mary sophomore Robbie Shapiro (6-foot-11 center) have also played well off the bench for SCC.

Following tonight's contest, the Raiders will head to Miami to take on Johnson & Wales College on Friday before opening Mid-Florida Conference play with a pair of road games next week at Daytona Beach Community College on Wednesday and in Palatka against St. Johns River Community College on Saturday.

SCC's first home conference game will be on Wednesday, January 19th against Florida Community College at Jacksonville beginning at 7:30 p.m. as part of a double-header with the women, which play at 6 p.m.

Solar Bears rolling into 2000

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - The Orlando Solar Bears claimed victory in two of their three outings during last week's International Hockey League (IHL) action and have a record of 5-1-2 in their last eight contests.

Entering this week's action, the Solar Bears are in fourth place in the IHL's Eastern Conference with a record of 19-10-4 (42 points).

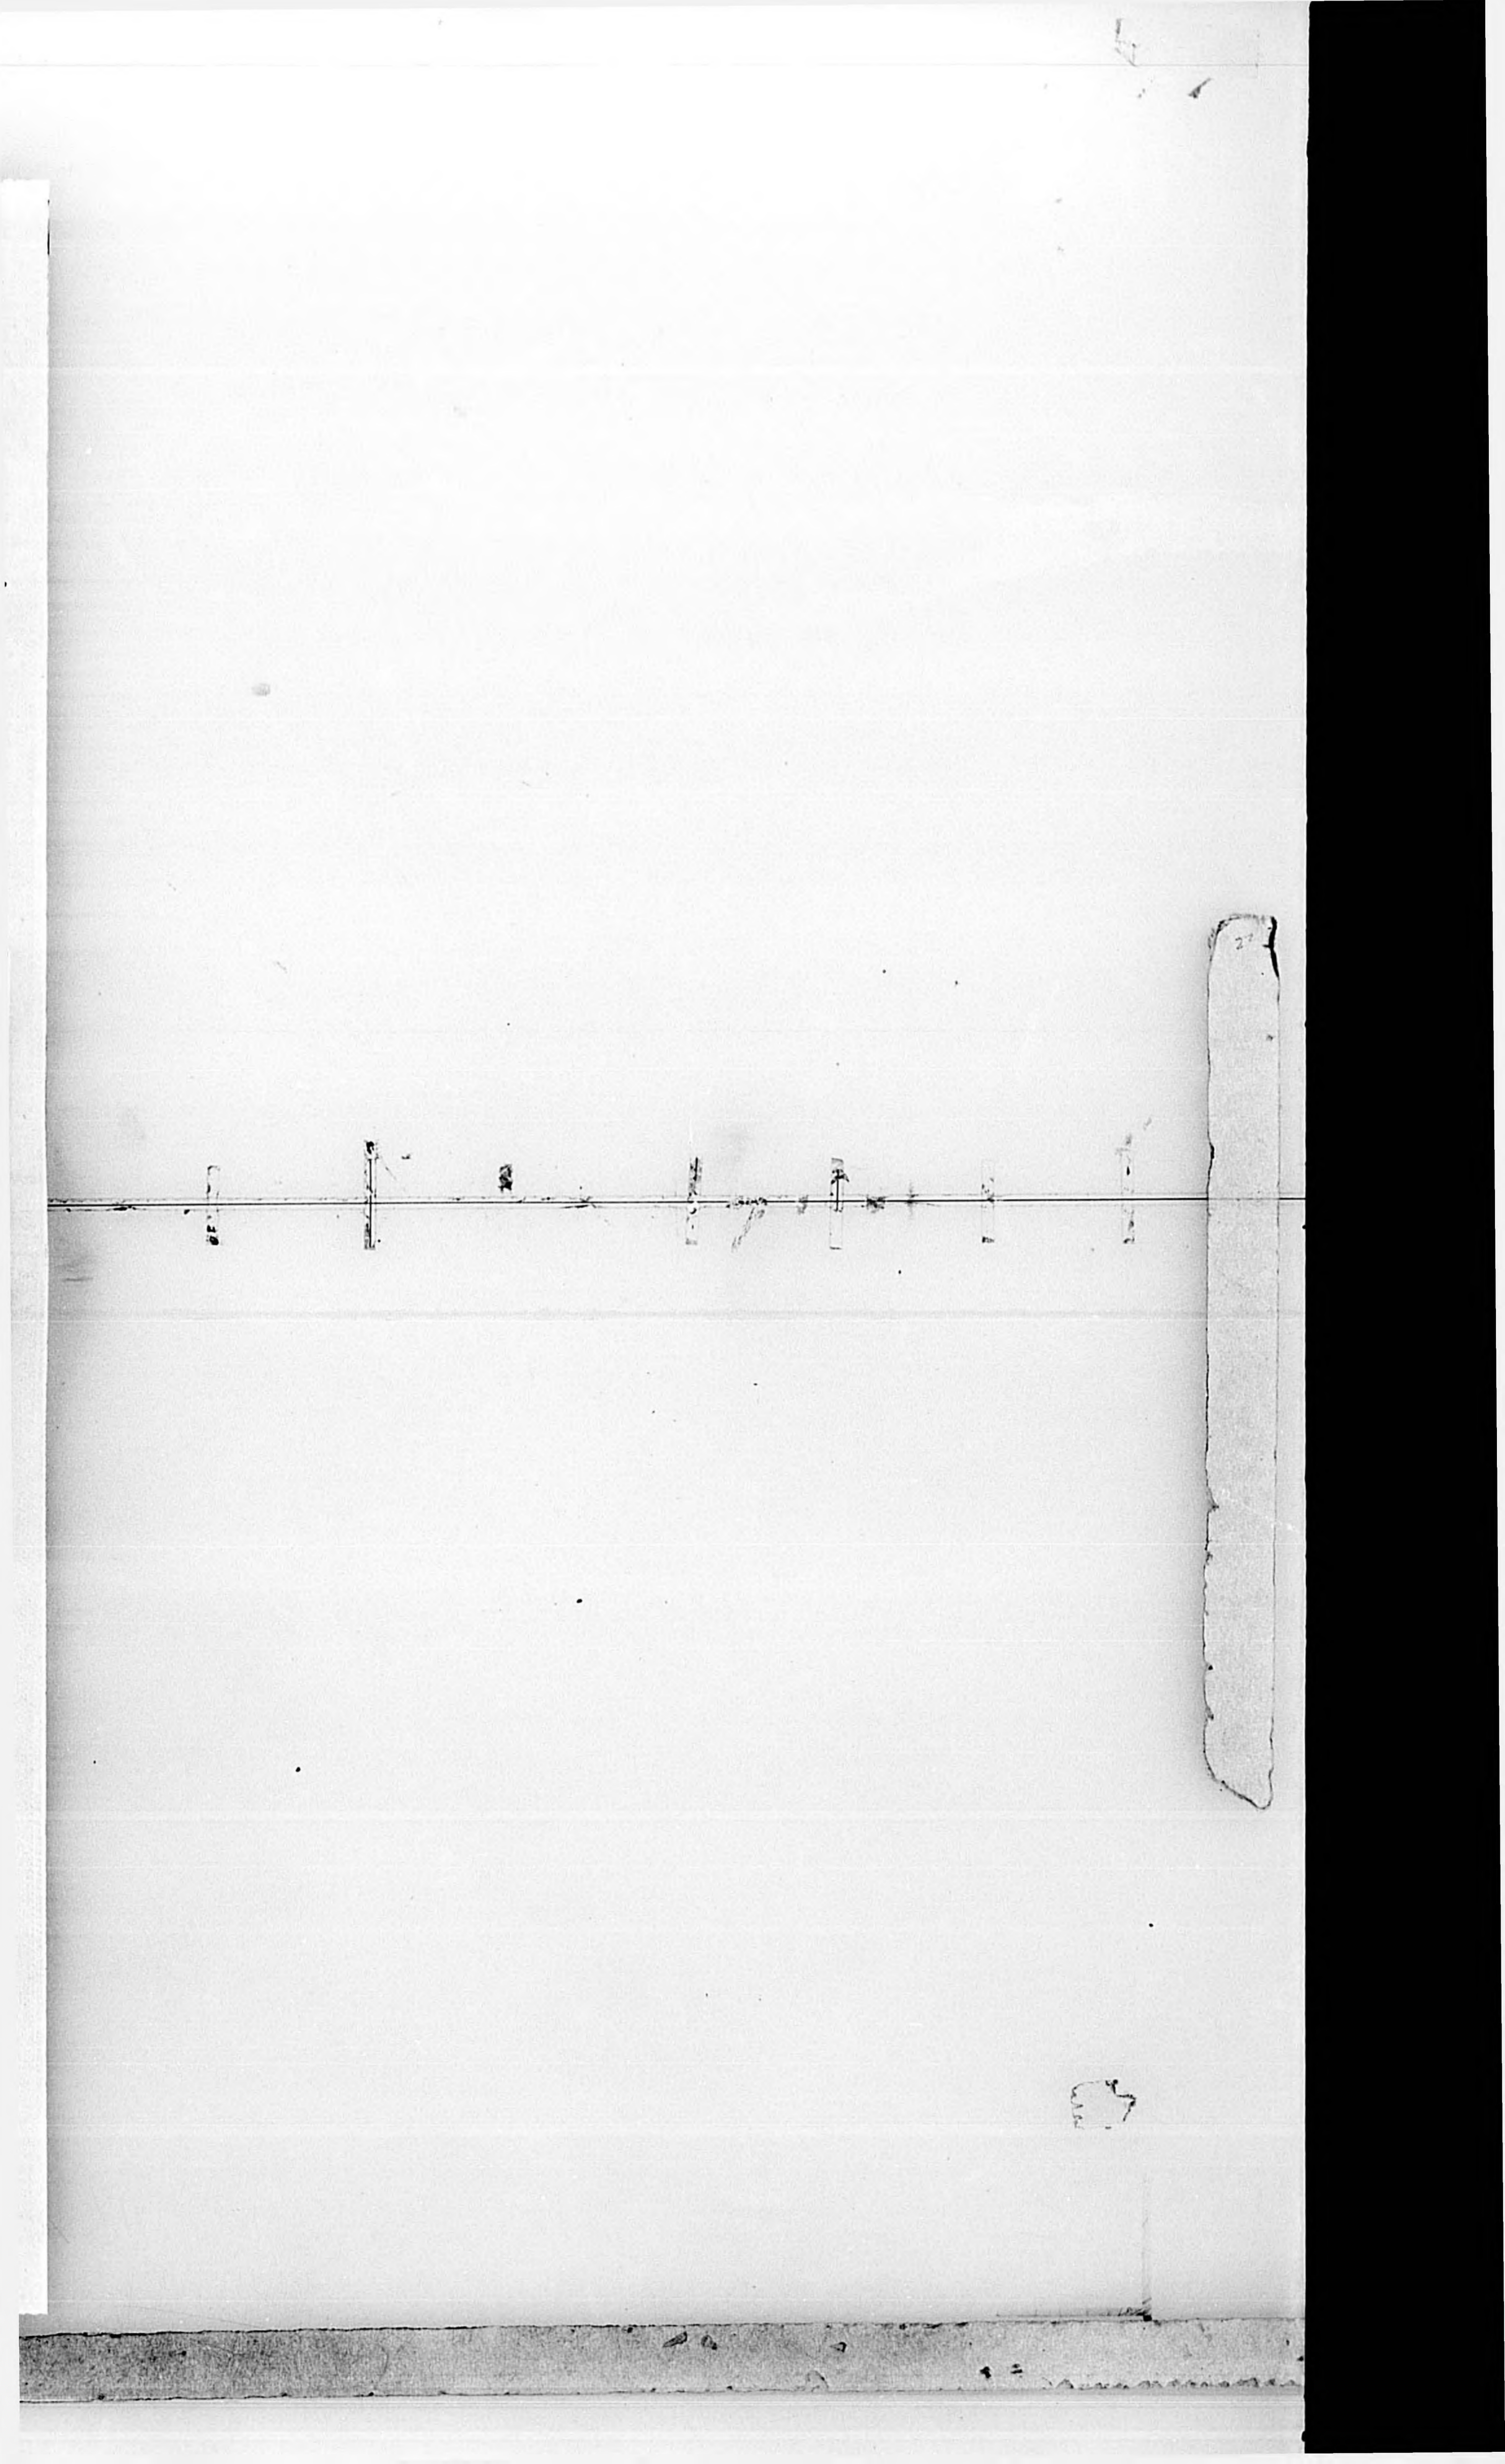

Orlando played last night, visiting the rival Detroit Vipers at The Palace of Auburn Hills.

In the rest of this week's action, the Solar Bears will host the Kansas City Blades for the first time this season with matchups on Thursday, January 6, at 7 p.m. and Saturday, January 8, at 7:30 p.m. at Orlando Arena.

The O-Bears ran their unbeaten streak to six straight games (4-0-2) with a 4-3 shootout victory over the Grand Rapids Griffins on Tuesday before an Orlando Arena crowd of 5,354.

Orlando jumped out to a quick 1-0 lead behind right wing Herbert Vaalijeva's eighth goal of the season at 1:47 of the first period from center Mark Beaufort and left wing Per Svartvadet. The Solar Bears made it 2-0 at the 10:14 mark as rookie left wing Bryan Adams tallied his eighth of the Please see Hockey, Page 2B

Teams will try to expand comfort zone at second Open Test

Special to the Herald

LAKE BUENA VISTA - Scott Sharp won the pole in January 1999 for the Indy 200 at Walt Disney World Speedway with a track-record time of 21.007 seconds and speed of 171.371 mph on the 1-mile oval.

At least 20 Indy Racing League drivers will try to approach those marks Jan. 5-6 at the same racetrack. They will participate in the second Open Test leading up to the new century's first major open-wheel race -- the Delphi Indy 200 at Walt Disney World Speedway on Jan. 29.

The pre-race testing is particularly necessary this time because the Oldsmobile Aurora and Nissan Infiniti engines have been reduced in size from 4.0 to 3.5 liters. Additionally, the teams are working with new Dallara, G Force and Riley & Scott chassis and some teams with Firestone tires for the first time.

All teams are working with new sequential gearboxes from Xtrac.

The first Open Test in early December at Walt Disney World Speedway provided a starting point for the speeds the new engines will produce. Defending league champion Greg Ray quickly showed that the potential exists to approach Sharp's record.

Ray recorded a best lap of 21.281 for a speed of 169.165 mph in his Gildden-Menards Dallara/Aurora. That's only .274 of a second behind Sharp's time with many more laps of test time available to shave a few more fractions from that time before the race.

"We are pretty comfortable with where the speeds are," said Brian Barnhart, Indy Racing League director of race operations. "The cars in general are from 3/10ths to 7/10ths (of a second) slower than what we were running last year.

"The first test was absolutely the most successful debut of equipment I've ever seen. There were zero engine failures, and the gearbox performed flawlessly. The team's were able to accomplish a lot more because there was no down time."

Barnhart, league technical director Phil Casey and league technical consultant Les MacTaggart all thought it was necessary to slow the cars. Speeds have increased dramatically since the 4.0-engine was introduced at the Disney race in January 1997. For instance, Tony Stewart captured the pole for that race with a speed of 166.013 mph.

Of particular concern was the projected jump in speed at the Indianapolis 500 if no changes were initiated. Cars would have jumped back into the 230-mph bracket, Barnhart said. The pole speed at Indianapolis has jumped from 218.263 mph in 1997, to 223.503 in 1998 to 225.179 last May.

"The engines were getting up to 725 horsepower," Casey said. "We wanted to slow them down."

The new engine has a shorter stroke that enhances reliability, Casey said. Additionally, teams switched to a 180-degree crank that provides a higher-pitched, more pleasing sound.

Teams can update their 4-liter engines with a kit costing approximately $15,000.

"Most of the changes we've made are safety related," Barnhart said.

Trimming the speed is a primary change made for safety. Another change came to the chassis.

"They come from analyzing the car over the last three years," MacTaggart said. "The changes are to improve the environment for the drivers."

The cockpit area has been widened from 16 to 19 inches to allow for more protective padding around the driver. The side pods have been made stronger to make them more able to absorb the energy of a crash, and the nose has undergone some mauling.

The entire chassis has been put through several rigorous FIA stress tests. And all three league chassis have sleek aerodynamic enhancements for the 2000 season.

Firestone, meanwhile, last fall suddenly was put in a position where it had to provide all of the tires after Goodyear decided to withdraw from the Indy Racing League and CART.

"Firestone has a very competitive, ample package for the teams at a good price," Barnhart said.

Teams making their first Open Test appearance of the off-season will learn what the 10 teams at the December session picked up, although several of the teams that missed the December tests ran laps at other tracks.

Two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Al Unser Jr., making his Indy Racing League debut in 2000, falls into that category. He and Galles ECR Racing skipped the early December Open Test, but Unser turned testing laps at Phoenix the week before Christmas along with Buzz Calkins and the Bradley Motorsports team. Unser and Galles ECR will participate in the second Open Test.

Teams that already tested at Walt Disney World Speedway in December will return for further refinement of their chassis.

And maybe edge closer to Sharp's record.

HEALED SCHMIDT EAGER TO RETURN TO DRIVER'S SEAT AT OPEN TEST

LAKE BUENA VISTA - Indy Racing League driver Sam Schmidt is Y2K compliant.

He made sure of that by driving a go-kart during the final week of 1999. And now it'll be a happy New Year for Schmidt, a Henderson, Nev. resident, on Jan. 5 when he finally climbs back behind the wheel of his Treadway Racing car during the Indy Racing League's second Open Test at Walt Disney World Speedway.

The two-day test is the final warm-up for the Delphi Indy 200 season opener at the same 1-mile tri-oval Jan. 29.

For Schmidt, it's been a tough 2-1/2 months recovering from serious foot injuries suffered in a crash during the 1999 season finale at Texas Motor Speedway.

He vowed then that he would be back for the season opener.

"Basically, I'm getting back in a car," he said. "I've been a long time out."

In order to regain the feel of speed and check out his reflexes, he took his 125cc shifter kart to a Las Vegas track and began putting the pedal to the metal. He said there was no pain in the foot, and he quickly regained his reactions.

"Within about 10 laps I was running as quick as I ever had before," he said. "I was happy that there was no residual pain."

Schmidt still has some swelling in the left foot.

"I don't anticipate any additional pressure," he said. "My biggest goal this year is to win the (Indy) 500."

Schmidt, the holder of a master's degree in business administration led four laps at Indy last May before hitting the Turn 1 wall entering Lap 63.

Schmidt has sat in his car at the Treadway shop in Indianapolis to get his seat fitted. He said the crew members have been working extremely hard in the off-season to update his 1999 car, and they are as excited as he is about actually doing some high-speed laps.

The plans are for him to drive the '99 machine all of Wednesday and then climb into the 2000 car on Thursday. New teammate Robby McGehee has been testing the 2000 car and will drive it in the Delphi Indy 200.

Schmidt doesn't have a primary sponsor at the moment, but hopes one will be acquired in time for him to switch to a 2000 car by the Las Vegas race on April 22.

"I think I'll be feeling things out the first five laps, then I'll get down to business," he said.

In the first Open Test in December at Orlando, defending league champion Greg Ray, Schmidt's close friend and serious pole challenger (they actually ran the exact same pole speed at the first Pikes Peak race last June), turned a top speed of 169.165 mph with the new 3.5-liter engine. That's about two mph slower than last year's pole speed with the 4.0-liter engine.

Ray will return with Team Menard. Two-time Indy 500 champion Al Unser Jr. will make his Disney debut with Galles ECR Racing, and Jeff Ward will be unveiled as the new lead driver for A.J. Foyt. Rookies Sam Hornish Jr. and Doug Didero are among others who will participate.

Schmidt will be joined by McGehee. Schmidt was selected in late 1998 to be the replacement driver for the departing Arie Luyendyk, a two-time 500 winner who drove only at Indy in '98 before retiring.

Now McGehee, who finished fifth at Indy in his debut and was named Bank One Rookie of the Year last May, has stepped up to the second Treadway car. Schmidt, 35, expects to work well with his new garage mate, who is 28.

"I think it's good," Schmidt said about having McGehee as part of the team. "I've been fortunate in that every teammate I've had has been a positive. We can build from this and make it a positive for both of us."

Schmidt's emotions ranged from the highest to the lowest in the final two races of 1999. He won both the pole and the race (each a first) at Las Vegas in front of friends and family, then wound up in the hospital following his crash at Texas.

"He's using the win as something to hang his helmet on entering the new season and not allowing the accident to diminish his enthusiasm for high-speed competition."

"You just go along - most of us do - no matter how bad your results are," he said. "I'm ecstatic. It kind of got the monkey off my back. Both Mark Donohue (who won for the first time at the Texas season finale) and I will have more confidence this season."

Schmidt calls the accident "just a bad deal." No one, he said, applied pressure to him to retire.

"A few family members said, 'Do you really want to do this?'" he said.

"Six or eight weeks went by fairly quickly. Seeing I wouldn't have any side effects, the biggest drag was waiting to get back in the car."

Schmidt even found a bright spot evolving from the accident.

"On the positive side," he said, "I got to spend a lot of time with the kids."

BOWSER TABBED AS PRESEASON TAAC PLAYER-OF-THE-YEAR

Collegiate Baseball Newspaper named UCF's Matt Bowser its choice for Trans America

Athletic Conference Player-of-the-Year.

According to the newspaper, other Golden Knights players that bear watching include Britson, Arnold and Casey Kennedy. Kennedy transferred to UCF from Virginia for his senior season.

Bowser, who made the '99 Preseason All-TAAC team as chosen by the conference head coaches and earned first team status for his regular season performance, moved up to fourth in school history with 24 career home runs after only two years. His .346 career batting average is seventh among the Golden Knights all-time leaders.

"For two years, Matt has demonstrated that he's a strong force on this team and in the conference. I look forward to him continuing that way," Bergman said.

UCF was chosen to finish second in the TAAC by Collegiate Baseball behind Florida Atlantic, last year's regular season champion. The Golden Knights tied for third at 19-11 in the TAAC regular season and wound up fourth at the TAAC Tournament.

RECRUITS MAKE HEADLINES AS CB BLUE CHIP HIGH SCHOOL STARS

Golden Knights prospect Dane Artman was selected a 2000 Louisville Slugger TXX Preseason High School All-American. The left-handed pitcher, who transferred from Key West High School to Westminster Academy in Miami, highlights the group of six committed to UCF on national letters of intent.

Collegiate Baseball publisher Lou Pavlovich writes, "[Artman is] another super-talented southpaw from Florida who has played for national teams. The 6-foot-3 hurler has been clocked in the low 90's."

"That's a great honor," Bergman said. "I certainly hope that he'll wear the Black and Gold next year."

The other five players that UCF inked in the early signing period received honors as CB blue chip high school stars in the state of Florida.

"It shows the hard work of Greg Frady and his recruiting, a real feather in his cap," Bergman added.

HOROSCOPES

Your Birthday
Thursday, Jan. 6, 2000
In the year ahead, many of the strongest traits and aspects of your personality could begin to take precedence over your more moderate ones. This is fine, so long as you don't make unreasonable demands on others.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's quite possible today that you might take it upon yourself to champion an unpopular view and try to impose these ideas on others. Forget it, you're not likely to be very successful. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it.
The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1738, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.
AGUIARUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You have an ability to appreciate unusual things, but today when shopping you could carry this a wee bit too far and purchase items you'll consider white elephants tomorrow.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Faulty judgment or irrational decisions could cause you to be forced to retrace your steps. Remember, what you don't have in your head, you'll have to have in your feet.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) As an Aries, there aren't too many things you couldn't do once you set your mind to it today. However, if something beyond your scope needs fixing, call in an expert.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unless you put a lid on it, a big dent in your bank book is likely at this time because you may have accumulated some extra cash lately. Don't squander what you saved.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Before you rearrange today's events or schedule, it's best to check with your spouse first. Even though your intentions might be good, your priorities could be poles apart.
CANCER (June 21-July 23) There's a strong chance you could have a tendency to focus on insignificant details to a point where it obliterates the big picture and find yourself at odds with companions. Slow down.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Delusions of grandeur could cause you to try to match the extravagance of some big spenders with whom you'll be spending your day. That would be just plain foolish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Seek counsel and advice today from intelligent friends should you have an important decision to make. However, reserve the right to make the final judgment yourself.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you view indifferently the ample opportunities that exist around you today, chances are their true worth will be wasted. Take the time to evaluate what's going on.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You must take care not to blow things out of proportion should you have a difference of opinion with a friend or a serious rift could occur. Be tolerant, and live and let live.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) How you conduct yourself in situations that bring you before the public today will make all the difference between a good impression and a poor one. It will be difficult to eradicate.

Win at Bridge

Another underrated expert

By Phillip Alder
Today, we cross the Atlantic to feature another player who, I feel, never got the credit she deserved: Jane Pridley. I was often her partner or teammate, and she played almost flawlessly. Sadly, she died in 1984 at the young age of 58. She was a woman who lived life to the fullest and was never reluctant to express an opinion about something or someone — whether good or bad. She was very intelligent, in particular having an enormous vocabulary (she knew the meaning of hanuspicious) and being only an angstrom or two below the best at solving cryptic crossword words.
Jane — who was Mrs. Joan at the time — won the World Women's Team Olympiad in 1984 and the World Women's Pairs in 1986 with Joan Durran. Here is a great defense Jane found.

Bridge

Phillip Alder

You may look either at just the West and North hands, or at all 52 cards. Against four spades, what should Jane have led?
At the other table in a team match, West selected a top trump, killing the defense. Jane picked the heart king: ace, three, two. When declarer played a trump, how did Jane continue?
After he won with the spade king, there was only one winning play, and Jane found it: the heart 10. South won with dummy's jack and played another trump, but Jane won with the ace, led her heart six over to partner's nine, and received a club ruff to defeat the contract. (Yes, declarer should have ducked at trick one.)
What does hanuspicious mean? Well, apparently a hanuspex was a person who, in Roman times, predicted the future by studying the entrails of, usually, dead chickens.

Doctor Gott

What's erythromelalgia?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have been diagnosed with erythromelalgia. What is this? Will a special diet help my symptoms?
DEAR READER: This unusual ailment is marked by flushing, burning pain and increased skin temperature of the feet and (sometimes) the hands. The cause is unknown; however, some forms are associated with other diseases, such as blood disorders, diabetes and hypertension.
Although symptoms are usually mild, in rare and severe cases they can be disabling. Attacks of erythromelalgia are often triggered by changes in environmental temperature. Unfortunately, therapy is not consistently successful. Some patients' symptoms can be relieved if their underlying diseases are brought under control; for example, by reducing elevated blood sugar levels and lowering high blood pressure. Other patients find relief by simply using daily aspirin, avoiding temperature extremes and taking prescription medicine, such as ephedrine or propranolol, that prevents flushing. I am not aware of any diet that is beneficial. Perhaps you should review your concerns with your doctor, who may recommend aspirin therapy as an economical and effective first step.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am 61. About six months ago, my erect penis started curving to the side. As you might expect, this caused some disruption in my sex life. I'm not too worried now, but if this affliction progresses, my sex life will become history. My doctor mentioned vitamin therapy but wasn't too encouraging. Any suggestions?
DEAR READER: The most common cause of penile list (to starboard or port) is Peyronie's disease, a condition of unknown cause, marked by the formation of constricting scar tissue in one or both of the erectile cylinders on either side of the penile shaft. The disorder is very common.

In its initial form, Peyronie's disease is more a curiosity than a concern, because the erect penis deviates to one side or the other, without affecting sexual function. However, as the affliction progresses, all hell breaks loose: the penis may become so crooked that normal relations are painful, if not impossible.
Treatment, unhappily, is of unpredictable value. Some authorities urge patients to take 1000 units of vitamin E a day, which may or may not postpone progression. Because Peyronie's disease may follow the type of nerve injury that often affects men who bicycle, such patients may have to modify their biking styles or purchase special seats. Cortisone injections into the scar tissue may help, as may ultrasound therapy. Finally, surgery may be required.

Life Style

Resolution busters can be tasty and sweet

Look, someone's going to do it, so it might as well be me. Someone's going to tempt you to break that New Year's diet, that resolution to eat only foods high in fiber and low in fat... or high in protein and low in carbohydrates... or whatever. I'm not being mean here, it's good to pay attention to what you eat, and to aim for a healthy, balanced diet. But the word "balance" is the key. It's important to incorporate some incorporate some yummy, not-strictly-healthy foods in even the most stringent of eating regimens. (I am, of course, not addressing people with heart conditions, diabetes, food allergies or other health imperatives for eating on the straight and narrow.)

For most of us, if we are going to fall off the wagon, it makes a lot more sense to take the time to indulge in a high-quality, truly delicious treat, rather than, say, scarfing a bag of pork rinds in the car.

In this spirit, I've collected a short list of dishes for those occasions when you plan on splurging. Since these are recipes, I haven't included treats you can buy; for example, imported French cheeses (for high fat content, along with sublime flavor, try an Epoisses or Langres), Italian prosciutto, Belgian chocolate, Devonshire cream or Starbuck's Coffee Almond Fudge ice cream. I've included sweet things (bread pudding, chocolate butter cookies) and savory (pasta with walnuts, oil and anchovies) to appeal both to those who like sugar with their fat and those who go for salt.

Look, you can't be perfect forever. In fact, perfect is boring. In life, as in diet, variety is key.

Note: For everyday snacking, I can heartily recommend "Almondina," a cross between a cookie and a biscotti now available in grocery stores. The manufacturers tout Almondina's healthy profile (low in calories, fat and salt), but I can vouch for the taste. There are a bunch of flavors, including ginger-spice, chocolate and sesame (my favorite), and they can also be purchased through www.almondina.com.

1 quart half-and-half
3 eggs
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup seedless raisins
2 tablespoons vanilla extract

For the sauce:
8 tablespoons unsalted butter, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup bourbon

Place oven rack in middle of oven. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. With a pastry brush, spread the softened butter evenly over the bottom and sides of a 13-by-9-inch baking dish. Set aside. To prepare the pudding: Break bread into chunks, dropping them into a bowl. Add milk. When soft, crumble bread into small bits and continue soaking until all milk is absorbed. In a separate bowl, beat eggs and sugar with a wire whisk or egg beater until smooth and thick. Stir in raisins and vanilla. Pour egg mixture over bread mixture and stir until well-combined.

Pour into prepared dish, spreading evenly with rubber spatula. Place dish in larger roasting pan set on middle oven rack and pour boiling water into the larger pan to a depth of about 1 inch. Bake for 1 hour, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Meanwhile, prepare the sauce: Melt butter in top bowl of a double boiler set over hot, not boiling, water. In a separate bowl, combine sugar and egg. Add to melted butter. Stir 2 to 3 minutes, until sugar dissolves completely and egg is cooked and the mixture coats the back of a spoon. (DO NOT BOIL or the egg will curdle). Remove pan from heat and let sauce cool to room temperature. Stir in bourbon.

Serve pudding directly from oven, with whiskey sauce on side. Yield: 8 to 10 servings. — Recipe from Karen Ziner, Providence, R.I.

CHOCOLATE BUTTER COOKIES
2 ounces unsweetened chocolate, chopped
1 cup butter, at room temperature
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup cornstarch

Melt the chocolate in a small, heavy saucepan over low heat. Set aside to cool. Beat the butter with sugar until mixture is light and fluffy. Beat in melted chocolate. In a separate bowl, sift together the flour, salt and cornstarch. Beat into the butter mixture. Gather the dough into a ball. Divide in half and roll each into a log about 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in plastic and chill for at least 30 minutes.

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Cut log into slices about 1/4-inch thick and place on an ungreased cookie sheet or a sheet lined with baking parchment. Mark the top of the cookies with the tines of a fork, or leave them plain. Bake for 15 minutes, or until set. Yield: about 4 dozen.

SPAGHETTINI WITH ANCHOVIES, WALNUTS AND GARLIC

1/2 cup walnut pieces or halves
Two 2-ounce cans anchovy filets packed in olive oil
1/2 cup virgin olive oil
2 tablespoons minced fresh garlic
1 cup water
1 pound imported spaghetti

Bring 5 quarts of salted water to a boil in a large pot. In a food processor, grind the walnuts to a fine powder, being careful to stop before turning them into nut butter.

Drain the anchovies. Rinse them under cold running water to wash away any excess salt. Pat them dry with paper towels and chop them up.

Heat the oil in a large skillet. Add the garlic and anchovies and gently saute, stirring often, until the garlic turns a rich golden color. The anchovies will dissolve and become almost a paste.

Immediately add 1 cup of water to the skillet, being careful not to burn yourself, as the oil may splatter. Raise the heat and boil vigorously until the liquid has reduced by half. Keep the sauce over very low heat while the spaghetti cooks.

Cook the pasta in the boiling water for 4 to 5 minutes (the pasta should still be quite firm). Drain, reserving a few tablespoons of the cooking water, and add the pasta to the sauce in the skillet. Toss for about 2 minutes over low heat until the pasta is al dente (still firm, but done). Sprinkle the walnuts over the pasta, tossing to distribute the nuts evenly. If the pasta becomes dry, add 1 to 2 tablespoons of the pasta cooking water. Yield: serves 8 as an appetizer, 4 as a main course.
