CONTENDERS ARE BOLSTERING FOR PENNANT CHASES

Tom Zachary Is Acquired By Yankees From Nats While Giants Recall Jack Scott; Cardinals Regain Top Hold

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—With the National League pennant race developing into the hottest fight in years and the Athletics slowly but surely gaining on the Yankees in the American League, managers of both fronts today were rushing replacements to the front-line trenches.

Tom Zachary, Washington southpaw obtained from Washington by the Yanks for the waiver price of $7,500, will be used by Manager Huggins as a starting pitcher until Pennock recovers from neuritis.

Huggins is also dicker for a right-hander from the minors. The Cardinals will recall pitcher Herman Bell from Rochester late next week. Jack Scott, back again from Toledo, aided the Giants yesterday and Ken Ash, youthful hurler from Columbus, helped put the Cincinnati Reds in third place in his first start as a big leaguer. Orsatti, up from the American Association, is the big gun of the Cards.

The line-ups of all the contending clubs are sprinkled with the names of promising rookies. And the young bloods will do considerable damage to rival clubs before their batting weaknesses, if any, are discovered.

New York fans regard the acquisition of Zachary as a favorable omen because a couple of years ago Dutch Ruther, another veteran southpaw obtained from Washington, proved to be a life-saver for the Yanks.

The Giants relinquished the National League to St. Louis by a greats whisker yesterday by dividing a double bill with the Pirates while the Cardinals were idle. A five run rally in the eighth off Bill gave the Giants a 6 to 3 verdict in the opener. Benton and Scott twirled for New York, the former registering his 21st victory. Fred Russell tamed the Giants in the nightcap while the Bucs kayoed Carl Hubbell, Texas southpaw sensation, and swamped the New Yorkers by a 13 to 3 score.

The Reds clicked off six double plays, increasing their season's total to 154, in downing Brooklyn twice, 2 to 0 and 6 to 1.

By beating Cleveland, 3 to 1, while the Yanks were idle, the Athletics cut New York's lead to 4 1-2 games. Lefty Grove who has lost only one game this season outside of his defeats by the Hogmen, hung up his eleventh straight win and his 19th victory of the season. He fanned the side in the second inning on nine pitched balls and then struck out the next two batters, whiffing five men on 17 pitches.

Detroit moved into fourth place by defeating Boston, 2 to 1, as Owen Carroll turned in his 14 victory. The Tiger's took four straights from the Red Sox by a one-run margin.

Pirpo Marberry held the White Sox to five hits and negotiated Washington to a 4 to 3 triumph in ten innings.

Tunney Gets Cordial Welcome In Ireland

DUBLIN, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, left today for Moore Abbey, Kildare, to be the guest of John McCormack, the singer, for a day or two.

Tunney, who arrived here last night from Kingstown, received the welcome of a conquering hero. Only a salute of guns was missing to give his reception an official tinge.

Tunney plans to return to England on Sunday night or Monday. There he will meet Thornton Wilder, the American novelist, and later they will start upon a walking tour.

TENNIS BODY TO PUT BILL TILDEN ON TRIAL TONIGHT

American Star May Never Be Permitted to Play Again As Amateur; Player Criticized For "Running Away"

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Unless there is a sudden and complete reversal of opinion on the part of the powers that be in the United States Lawn Tennis Association, William T. Tilden 2nd, has played his last game of lawn tennis as a good and law-abiding amateur. Trial of the charges that Tilden violated the amateur code by writing about play in the recent English championships at Wimbledon is to be held before the executive committee of the U. S. L. T. A. here tonight, and it is a foregone conclusion among those in touch with the situation that there is only one chance in a thousand that "Big Bill" will be declared guiltless and permitted to continue in action.

While Tilden in a "defense" letter to Samuel A. Colton, president of the association, denied that he had violated the rule as charged, this is regarded as a purely technical defense. The evidence is looked upon as conclusive that the defendant is guilty as charged. What is hurting Tilden most in the preliminary discussion of his case before trial is that he is running away from a fight by refusing to attend the hearing and make his reply to the charges in person. Such action is not in keeping with "Big Bill's" usual method of doing things, for in the past there has never been any trouble in keeping him out of a fight. Now he has retreated to Boston to await the verdict.

Tilden's friends who think he has been suspended under an unfair interpretation of an unfair rule, hope to have the rule amended at the next annual meeting of the association in February. It is also reported that instead of being barred absolutely from the amateur courts he will draw a suspension of six months which will prevent his playing in the national singles beginning on September 10, and that between now and the date for the annual meeting the association will itself seek to modify the rules to permit Tilden to play next summer.

This presupposes that some of the members of the executive committee have forgiven Big Bill's defiance of their acts, which is not at all in keeping with the attitude of the majority of the committee members who have been stalking Tilden for some little time in an effort to get his scalp.

Briefly, Tilden's present troubles date back to a series of articles which he wrote in England commenting as he called it, on the play of the American Davis Cup team in the Wimbledon championships. Dr. Sumner Hardy of the California Association, a member of the executive committee, after reading the articles in a San Francisco paper presented charges to the amateur rule committee of the association that the Tilden stories violated the code.

GIRL TELLS KIDNAPING TALE

As the result of the girl's story, every available police detective was ordered out to search for the girl's assailant, who she said abandoned her last night. She is hysterical.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 25.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

OUR GOD IS GREAT—Great is the Lord and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable.—Psalm 145:2. PRAYEB—The Lord reigneth, let the earth rejoice.

Disparagement of Love

In the New York Times Boston, Juliet, never desire, To rise from your tomb, disturbing the dove.

And the violet wreath, nor hope to inspire This cruel young man in vandal attire.

He wrote disparagingly of love.

Heloise, Abelard, fit very ill; If you hear firm footsteps walking above,

Try not to listen, lest he should speak ill.

He threatens to laugh and I'm sure that he will.

He wrote disparagingly of love.

Carefully bury La Pompadour's fan Hide every letter and dagger and glove.

All anxious tokens conceal, if you can.

Far from the gaze of this mocking young man.

He wrote disparagingly of love.

Love's requital and love's return, Living or dead, I warn you here of.

A certain young man who is filled with scorn

For something invented before he was born.

He wrote disparagingly of love.

By Helene Mullins

From the language in his declaration, Mr. DeCottis seems a little miffed.

As has been said before, "he whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

They say the comet is coming back—to stay, of course.—New York Evening Post.

The Prince of Wales is now sporting a canary colored wool jacket with his initials embroidered in white over the heart. Now watch the drug-store shelves, fellow suit.

Senators George and Robinson and Dr. Straton are among those who will speak in Florida during the campaign. Sounds as if politics in this state is causing some interest, if not a little concern.

In 1927 Josephus Daniels wrote a California woman, declaring that it would be a "fatal mistake for the Democratic party to nominate a man with the wet record of Governor Smith. Now that the former secretary of navy has endorsed Smith, we should think the letter, published extensively would be somewhat embarrassing to say the least.

We don't mind abbreviating with in reason in our headlines but we have a distinct aversion for calling Chicago "Chi", Democrats "Dems" or "Demos" and prohibition "probs"—Sanford Herald. Sensible boy. Such abbreviations are slovenly. Most of the silliness in headlines, however, is the fault of the printers rather than the writers. Up to about twenty years ago, the idea of a head way to express concisely the meaning of the article preceded. Now, it is to make a black blotch of a certain size on a certain spot on the page. The wording of the head must fit the size of the type, not the sense of the reading matter. When a printer sets the front page made up according to his idea, he draws a deep breath of ecstasy and almost faints with joy. He cares nothing about what the heads say. In fact, a great many printers, linotype operators particularly, can't read (F. S. The Independent linotypers threaten to strike unless we admit this doesn't mean them. It don't)—Palm Beach Independent.

Suppressing The News

Nine reporters of the Memphis Commercial Appeal and Evening Appeal were driven from the polls, beaten and had their cameras smashed three weeks ago during the Tennessee primary elections when they tried to take pictures of negroes being herded into the Democratic polling places. The police, supposedly placed to guard the polls and preserve order, did the job. Three reporters were dumped into patrol wagons and bundled off to jail. They were held for more than an hour on charges of threatened breach of the peace, before being released at habeas corpus hearings. The arrest slip of one reporter read: "This young man was taking pictures of voters at 13-1st, 871 So. 3rd. We smashed his camera. R. B. Willshire, Willis King and H. C. Clayton (the arresting officers)."

In spite of the police, the papers got the picture they wanted, and in addition printed a photostatic copy of the arrest slip, which was most unpleasant for the police department. To add to its difficulties, the three reporters swore out warrants charging assault and battery against two officers, who have since been bound over to the grand jury. A police sergeant was arrested on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the taking of a camera, and Will Gerber, assistant attorney general, is facing a charge of assault and battery when he returns from a hurried trip to New York. Gerber left on his vacation a few hours before the warrant against him was obtained. A politician, whom the newspapers charge is a bootlegger, was also arrested.

Police Commissioner Davis attempted to treat the antics of his officers as a joke in spite of the fact that more than $1,000 in cameras were smashed. He sententiously announced the election was "the quietest in years," and sagely observed that "politics is at the bottom of the whole thing." Some of his officers involved in the affair, however, cast a new light on the situation. They said they were ordered "not to allow any pictures to be taken of voting on election day." Davis, so far as we can learn, has not denied that the order was issued.

While Davis and his political machine, headed by Ed Crump and backing Hill McAlister as Democratic nominee for governor, won their fight in Memphis and Shelby County, they undoubtedly learned a lesson. For the pictures of negro voters "printed in the newspapers would have created a mild stir in comparison to the tempest raised by the actions of the Crump police cohorts in attempting to suppress the news. McAlister was beaten in the state and Governor Henry Horton, the Memphis papers' candidate, was victorious. Davis and Crump have undoubtedly come to the conclusion recognized by wise political leaders and statesmen the world over—that it is better to let the newspaper gather its news without interference or evasion than to attempt to prevent the publication of facts in its columns.

The Need For More Airports

Of all the great American industries, none has enjoyed such rapid growth and development as that of aviation. From a modest beginning only a few years ago aviation has experienced such rapid strides that today it is an enterprise backed by more than a hundred million dollars. Applications for licenses to operate airplanes now average more than two thousand a month. This country now boasts a hundred and thirty concrete manufacturing airplanes while just a year ago there were only eighty.

The St. Augustine Record quotes one of the foremost aviation experts of the United States on the great progress of the flying industry. "One of the most important developments of the coming of this new form of transportation arises from the need of landing places," the expert says. "Every live town must have its airport, and the rush to qualify as a place where those traveling by air may land, is proving an unprecedented stimulus to business."

The Record adds the statement that "one has only to visit some big center of population these days in order to find out the tremendous progress being made in the development of airways and airships. Take Atlanta, for instance. Its great flying field is as busy as any railway terminal station. Planes coming and going, people rushing here and there. Hundreds seeing their relatives and friends off on journeys of varying length, and no more nervousness exhibited than if they were going by rail, by motor, or following some other well-known and long-established method of transportation. "Forward-looking cities are planning for the future, and the part which aviation will play in the years to come."

MASS PRODUCTION OF BAD MANNERS KANSAS CITY STAR

The modern world has come under a great magnifying glass. Everything is now swelled to a gigantic scale. War is no longer a contest between two tribes. It is a struggle between groups of nations. Business no longer is an affair between a crossroad store and a few farm families. It involves sales to thousands, or even millions, of purchasers.

Men formerly traveled by stage or on horseback. Now they go in a series of hotels on wheels. A champion prize fighter used to agree to box with a local blacksmith for $10. Now a championship fight is an enormous business enterprise with a million-dollar gate. A leading political candidate once spoke to a small audience. Now he addresses millions over the radio.

Our personal conduct has emerged correspondingly into the spotlight. A century ago a dishonest man might cheat his neighbor in a horse trade. Now a dishonest man at the head of an important business may bring disaster on a multitude of persons. In a day of small things a grafter's spoils were not large. Now they may run into millions. So, too, with such minor matters as manners. There was a time when they were observed only in a small circle. If a man was a boor, his acquaintances knew it, but they were limited in number. If a woman was selfish, her family suffered, but her selfishness was not thrust on a whole community.

But modern inventions have changed all this. Just as science has put weapons of enormous destructiveness at the command of armies, so it has furnished instruments that fetch our manners out into the open. "What bad manners the automobile has developed," people say. "Look at that gang almost side-swipe the car ahead in getting by. See him butt in there. He wouldn't think of showing such manners if he were walking." But the chances are these are his natural manners. He doesn't know how to behave. Before he had a car few persons noticed his boorishness. His car displays it to the world.

In the same way there are exhibitions of bad manners in summer hotels that were unknown a generation ago. The trouble is that many more persons travel by motor than ever travelled before, and naturally among them the persons who do not know how to behave. Modern devices put many more loud noises at the command of inconsiderate people than they had in the old days. Consider the man who makes a deafening roar with the cut-out of his motor car. Consider the people who annoy whole neighborhoods by running a loud speaker full blast with the windows open, or who set phonographs grinding out jazz on the porch at night, or who allow the children to punish a mechanical piano player for all the neighbors. When the world was young people lived much more to themselves than they live today. Everything was on a small circle. But in this modern age of selfishness, our bad manners, are subject to mass production, to the infinite detriment of our fellows.

CONSTITUTION NEEDS PALM BEACH POST

The Constitutional Educational Association points out that September 17, next, will mark the 141st anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. In connection with this glad event it urges "a real, genuine 'Study the Constitution Week.'"

There is a proposition which we're glad to endorse. The Constitution of the United States is praised more and read less than any similar document in the world, probably. No stump speaker, no perspiring political spellbinder, no rotund convention headliner, would dream of finishing a speech without some reference to it. But this is mostly lip service. Among those who would be pained, shocked and horrified if every provision of the grand old document were actually enforced to the hilt are many of those who are loudest in its praise.

Some of the men who made the Constitution and framed its subsequent amendments may not have had a very deep and abiding trust in the ability of the average man to govern himself. The views of Alexander Hamilton, for instance, are fairly well known. But these even had an even deeper distrust of governing classes. No one can read the Constitution and its amendments without concluding that the framers were haunted by a fear that the country's rulers might, now and again, try to make democracy a shadow. Read, if you doubt it, a few excerpts from the Constitution: "Congress shall make no law... abridging the freedom of speech of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble." "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause." "No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

Those declarations are fairly definite and clear. Yet, during the last decade, every one of them has been infringed upon, repeatedly, to the tune of hurrahs from certain defenders of law and order. There has been a tendency to regard the Constitution solely as an instrument set up to protect the status quo from sudden and unwise changes. It is, in reality, an instrument to protect the people from an excess of government.

Let's have a "study the Constitution week," by all means. And while we're about it, let's really study it—and see if there aren't places, here and there, where we have forgotten its letter or spirit, or both. We have given it lip service long enough.

HEALTH SERVICE ISSUED WARNING AGAINST TYPHOID

No Serious Danger, Declares Bulletin, But Vaccination Is Advised Every 3 Years; Late Summer Worst Period

WASHINGTON, August 25.—(INS)—A warning to the country to take precautions against typhoid fever comes from the United States public health service.

It was not an alarmist statement, but advised that while typhoid fever may occur at any time during the year, it is most prevalent in the United States during the late summer and in the autumn months. Typhoid fever germs are taken into the body through the mouth with the food or drink, or by means of direct infection with flies.

"This history of the remarkable control of typhoid fever which has taken place in the United States, within the past 20 years is one of the striking examples of the value of public health work," it was said.

"Typhoid fever which only a few years ago took a toll of more than 50,000 lives annually is now responsible for the death of something less than 10,000 each year.

"Preventive medicine has developed to such an extent that we are sometimes prone to have a false sense of security and to neglect important fundamentals of sanitation. Eternal vigilance is the price of sanitation."

Three cardinal rules for prevention of the disease were outlined:

1. Swat the flies.
2. Boil all milk or water which is of doubtful purity.
3. Vaccinate or inoculate against the disease.

"Among the foods other than milk that are most likely to be exposed to infection and liable to convey typhoid fever are those eaten raw or uncooked," it was stated. "Well-cooked food or properly pasteurized or boiled milk or milk products are safe from the danger of conveying typhoid or other milk-borne or water-borne diseases."

"The necessity of inoculation against the fever should be emphasized at this period of the year. It is especially important that the inoculation be done before the vacation period begins."

"It is an established fact that a person may be rendered comparatively safe from typhoid fever by inoculation. The duration of this immunity is not exactly known, but it is certainly safest to be vaccinated at least once in three years. The slight inconvenience attending the inoculation is a small price to pay for protection against so prolonged and so dangerous an illness as typhoid fever."

"There is no cause for alarm in regard to the reactions, either local or general, as they are of no importance except for the discomfort. Severe reactions are met with in less than one percent of those injected. An advantageous time for the injection is about four p. m., so that if a reaction occurs it will be while the patient is in bed. For those employed in business, successive Saturdays are convenient."

HOLLY-WALKER NUPTIALS IN FALL TO UNITE PROMINENT FAMILIES

Wide social interest centers in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Holly of Sanford to Horace Edward Walker of Akron, Ohio.

Miss Holly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Holly of Sanford, who are prominent in the social and business circles of the state. Mr. Holly is Director of the Florida public Utilities information Bureau. Miss Holly's mother was formerly Miss Mae Tyner, daughter of Mrs. E. S. Tyner and the late Dr. E. S. Tyner, who was a surgeon in the Spanish American war and stationed in Santiago, Cuba, where he died. On her maternal side she is a direct descendant of Nathaniel Greene. Her great-grand parents were Mr. and Mrs. James William Green of Madison, Ga.

Miss Holly's paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. William James Holly of Hamilton, Ohio. Mrs. Holly was formerly Miss Minerva Clough of Oxford, Ohio. The Cloughs were Ohio pioneers and identified with the growth and best interests of that state. Miss Holly was a great, great niece of Rev. Horace Holly, who was resident of Transylvania University in the year 1818. He was graduated from Yale in 1803.

The lovely bride-elect is a most charming and cultured young lady, possessing exquisite blond beauty. She has endeavored herself to a wide circle of friends throughout Florida by her sweet and gracious personality.

Miss Holly received her education in the Sanford schools, graduating in 1923, later attending the State College for Women at Tallahassee, where she was a popular member of the Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Walker is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross P. Walker of Akron, Ohio. His father is one of Akron's leading citizens and is a retired publisher and newspaper leader of Akron. Mr. Walker attended Kinkaidville Springs School in Ohio, Rollins College and Winter Park, and Stetson University at Deland, where he was a member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity. He is now advertising representative of the Goodyear Rubber Company in Pittsburgh, Penn.

THE PLEATED MODE

Youthful as well as adult modes reflect the widespread popularity of pleats as a means of varying the straight-line silhouette. The illustration shows above is made in its simplest simplicity, and is therefore an easy model for mother to make at home for her little girl. It has a square yoke, front and back, below which wide pleats, stitched down part way, are laid. The yoke is cut down at the center-front, underlined and filled with the deep collar which resembles that of a middy blouse. Linen, iron-finished cotton, pongee or flannel may be used in contrasting shades.

Tea On Time

EVERY housewife knows how difficult it is to have food on hand that will be just the thing to serve when an unexpected guest drops in during the afternoon. How much more difficult must it be for a morning picture actress with her rush of work to accomplish that feat. Yet Esther Ralston does, says Betty Standish writing in Motion Picture Magazine. So when she offers advice on preparing tea in double quick time her words are of value.

Simple and Delicious

Her menu is this:
Special Mixture of Tea
Raisin Filling Cookies
Lemon Pie Salad
Cream Cheese and Bar-le-Dou Sandwiches

The cookies are kept on hand at all times. And of course the "makin'g" of the tea and sandwiches are always ready.

To make the salad drain one and one-half cups of zipp from cranberry sauce. Heat to the boiling point and add four tablespoons of gelatin which have been soaked in four tablespoons of cold water; add four tablespoons sugar and a few grains of salt. When cool, add one-half cup of lemon juice and one pint of ginger ale. When it is beginning to set, stir in two cups of canned pears, four tablespoons of ginger, and one third cup of Maraschino cherries and the juice. Dice both cherries and pears in small pieces. Turn into individual molds which have been greased with salad oil. Serve with equal portions of mayonnaise and whipped cream in lettuce.

Momenteers & Visioneers

CONFIDENCE is the empire builder. It is the dynamic force which penetrates mountains, breathes life into desert places and sends the human voice riding winds of the universe toward the stars. It is the pulse of achievement and the glory of ambition. Confidence knows no moment. It measures its strength by long reaches of time. A single realization does not satisfy it; a single disappointment does not destroy it. When Flagler had his dream of shining rails through the wildernesses of Florida he was justified in it only through confidence, through a faith more penetrating than the headlights which have followed it; and in the face of discouragement and advice inspired by the moment he set his stakes ---and carried on! Plant was of the same caliber, a man of vision, and in more recent years and in the same pioneering spirit Warfield created new arteries of transportation which have opened great areas to commercial contact with the world. In other endeavors thousands of believers have proved themselves, proved their confidence by challenging the future, are still proving the courage of the faith. The momenteer thinks everything should measure up to his expectations all the time and complains if it doesn't. The visioneer realizes that progress is a gradual upward movement filled with valleys and peaks and that confidence and work are its motive power. Florida must ignore the momenteer and enshrine the visioneer. The future is so great, so promising and so challenging that only confidence and work are justified, and practicing these virtues our rewards will exceed our fondest hopes.

The consensus of opinion of the more intellectual of the debaters of the situation dwindles down to the logical belief that mechanical procedure can never compete with art in flesh and blood. Even as a glorious painting of a glorious woman may be admired, just as much more admiration will the original reflect.

The moving picture did "kill" the old time melodrama of the stage by substituting a more spectacular melodrama on the screen. The talking picture undeniably will mean the death knell of the type of poor movies now in abundance, but to see it will be any way affect the art of Eugene O'Neill, whose plays demand more than a silent or "noisy" film could give them, is to say that a representation of a blazing sunset is more wonderful than the sunset.

OLD ROAD SHOWS HIT BY ADVENT OF TALKING PICTURE

Many Film Stars See Failure Ahead If Silence Is Broken By New Sound Reproducers; Managers Will Reap Harvest

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(INS)—The "lan" of make believe, where the brilliancy of a new star outshines the birth of a new nation, is undergoing another innovation, the talking picture. Producers of plays and producers of films, stage actors and film actors, playwrights and scenario writers and practically all concerned, even remotely, with the stage and its allied arts are at odds, either for or against, over the "talkie."

Road Shows Hit
In it members of Actors' Equity Association see the possibility of the resultant decline in demand for players. Many a star in the silent movie sees dismal failure ahead if the talking film glory spreads. While, to the contrary, managers and producers in general are already counting the millions to be reaped from the new "novelty."

Apparently there is no doubt but that hardship will be worked upon many, but, on the other hand, many others will benefit. The fittest in all branches of theatricals will away survive just as easily as the weakest pass from the billboard.

Yet, undue alarm has been broad casted—many thinking persons of the stage and screen contend. The probable usurping of road companies by the talking film is a distant—if ever probable, according to certain members of the Authors' League of America.

Daily Fashion Hint

COOL TENNIS FRÖCK
Smart and comfortable in this sleeveless two-piece frock, which is ideal for active sports wear on hot summer days. Wide horizontal bands trim the blouse, which has extended shoulders and is neatly belted. Pleats in front add width to the two-piece skirt, which is attached to a long-waisted bodice lining. Pinned crepe de Chine, combined with plain contrasting crepe de Chine, in an uncontracting fabric choice, while printed linen with plain linen is also suitable. If all plain material is used, it is chic to have the bands, belt and binding in a contrasting color.
