McCarty Says He's Ready To Go Home And Obey Doctors

Governor Holds First News Conference

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Gov. Dan McCarty, after nearly three weeks in the hospital recuperating from a heart attack, said today he is ready to go home, take it easy and do what the doctors tell him to do.

He is scheduled to leave the hospital Wednesday.

Talking to reporters for the first time since he was stricken Feb. 25, the 41-year-old governor said he gave up smoking even before his doctor advised him to do it and he has no complaints.

"I've made up my mind I'll never complain any more," he said.

Not even about the "no salt, no fat" diet that he finds unpalatable.

Although opening of the Legislature is only three weeks away, the governor said he thinks preparation for his program for presentation to the lawmakers has not been set back by his illness.

"I was pretty well complete when this thing happened," he commented.

What did he think was the big contributing cause of his heart attack?

The governor restated.

"I wasn't worried," he declared. "I think it was just the fact that I was on the go all the time. If you're not careful you just find yourself completely scheduled every day in the week and you never have a chance to relax."

McCarty had been on the go almost constantly for the first two and a half months of his administration—and much of the year of campaigning and pre-inaugural affairs before that.

But his attack has convinced him he won't be able to keep it up when he leaves the hospital and gets back to work.

"You have to take some time off, and I'm going to try to do as much as I can and still do the things that have to be done," he said.

The young governor, propped up by a hand on his forehead, said the doctors have told him he'll probably have to take it easy for two to three months.

Perkins Elected As President Of Sanford Rotary

H. L. Perkins Jr. was elected president of the Rotary Club today at a meeting of the board of directors held immediately after the regular weekly luncheon at the yacht club. Dr. R. W. Ruppel was re-elected secretary and Walter Hayes, treasurer.

Earlier the club had elected to the board of directors Dr. A. W. Epps Jr., Dr. C. L. Persons and Earle Turner.

Mr. Perkins is the junior member of the firm of H. L. Perkins & Son, well known Sanford men's wear store. He was in the Navy during the war and was born and raised in Sanford.

A Rotary Information Program was presented by Jack Rutigan who explained many of various kinds of classifications pertaining to Rotary. Qualifications for senior active membership were listed as a total of 16 years as a Rotarian, 65 years of age, five years membership in one Rotary Club, or present or past officer of Rotary International.

Senior active membership, Mr. Rutigan explained, does not require any business connection and the member enjoys all the benefits of Rotary while leaving his classification open to someone else.

Senior service memberships and additional active memberships were also explained.

Mr. Rutigan also pointed out that Rotary prohibits its clubs from taking part in controversial political questions and recognizes its avowed policy of non-partisanship.

The department also expressed its interest in the situation in the Far East and its hope for a peaceful resolution of the Korean conflict.

Zoning, Planning Personnel Lineup Is Scored By Simon

The current alignment of personnel comprising the Zoning and Planning Commission and the Board of Adjustment within the Sanford City government was a target of criticism by George Simon, a city planning engineer, when he visited this city Friday.

Simon said the current lineup was not ideal and that there should be more representation from various parts of the city.

He suggested that the commission should include more people who are directly involved in the planning process.

Proposals Made For Sanford Compensation For Industrial Board Officers Sought

When Charles Somerville, Jacksonville city planner, visited Sanford today, he made a number of proposals for the city's future development.

Somerville suggested that the city should consider providing compensation for the officers of the Industrial Board.

He argued that this would help attract and retain qualified individuals to the board, which is responsible for overseeing industrial development in the city.

Fatal Accident Is Ruled Unavoidable

A verdict of "unavoidable accident" was returned Friday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of a young man who was crushed under the wheels of a truck at the corner of French Avenue and Sixth Street.

The victim, identified as Charles H. Hines, was 23 years old at the time of the accident.

The jury found that the accident was the result of a sudden mechanical failure of the truck, which could not have been reasonably anticipated.

The 1952-53 school year began with good relationship existing among the entire personnel. It is planned that at some time during the school term a report of the activities at the school be published, in order that the citizens will be aware of what is being done for and by future citizens of our democracy.

Extra-curricular activities are planned to stimulate growth and development of the whole child. Thus, for this purpose the entire student body is organized into clubs and committees. The pupils are given an opportunity to choose membership in the organization of their choice. Only one club vote is made by a popular vote: the Student Council, which serves as a "center of leadership" for the school.

The Student Council is sponsoring this year a series of bulletin board displays. The following schedule of displays have been exhibited:

February 1-8 A Preview of February Events sponsored by the Student Council. The display consisted of the United States emblem centered on a white background upon which red and blue stars were scattered. The events were written on red cardboard strips lettered with white ink.

Feb. 8-14 Theme: Negro History Week sponsored by the third grade. The bulletin board pictured clippings and pictures of life as it was during the one hundred and forty years of slavery and the eighty-eight years of progress since abolition.

The display showed Negroes who have made excellent records in every profession, locally, nationally, and internationally.

Pictured were: Chaplain Major David L. Brewer, Dr. G. H. Starke, Rev. Benjamin H. Dodge, Mrs. Anna H. Hurston, Joe Louis, Jackie Robinson, Alton Gibson and Marian Anderson. The display created a deal of interest during the entire week.

1. Prayer: The last stanza of the Negro National Anthem.
2. Song - "Swing Low Sweet Chariot", School.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Jerusalem has been destroyed many times and a dozen times before history was recorded. Abraham sought a city that was eternal. He found none save in the realm of the spirit of faith. I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipes a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down.—1 Kings 21:13.

The next session of the Legislature will be asked to extend the 3 percent payroll tax now paid by all employers of eight or more persons to those who employ fewer than eight. Thus a little business which employed six workers at $35 a week would have another tax of $325 a year to pay. Those who are opposed to this sort of taxation had better start thinking about it, and doing something about it.

Adlai Stevenson may not be a Republican but he is no Communist either. Speaking at the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner the other night, he warned against being deceived by the size of the Communist conspiracy and the "sullen, sombre men, the morbid misanthrope of the Kremlin hardened by a monstrous philosophy and possessing staggering resources in people, land, and resources."

Florida is one of the fastest growing cattle states in the country. According to the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Florida, there are now 1,662,000 head of cattle in Florida as compared with 1,539,000 last year. The average value of Florida beef cattle is estimated at $92 as compared with a ten year average of $76. Thus the current value of Florida cattle is estimated at $152,904,000.

Joe Stalin was scarcely cold in his grave before Western observers were beginning to wonder which of the triumvirate to succeed him would be the first to follow in his wake. Molotov, Molotov or Beria. "Russia's voting system not only eliminates but liquidates. . . Perhaps voters will take all three of the triumvirate if they have any nerves." Certainly the history of triumvirates has been that one soon emerges and two pass away.

Interest rates are going up. Florida school leaders interested in borrowing money for new school construction under the new constitutional amendment are worried. They see 3 percent as the likely minimum instead of 2 percent as they had hoped, thus limiting to some extent the program needed. Even at that, the 3 percent rate is better than individual counties could expect if they were borrowing the money on their own. Polk county with one of the best credit ratings in the state has to pay 3.13 percent.

Florida industrial leaders met in Gainesville over the weekend to chart a program for making Florida more nearly self-supporting and providing for eventual industrial independence. The committee in charge is composed of men like S. Kendrick Guernsey, insurance executive of Jacksonville, formerly of Orlando, A. D. Davis of the W. D. Lovett Grocery Co., McGregor Smith of the Florida Power & Light Co., John Kincaid of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., the Division, prominent Kissimmee cattleman, and Harold Cole of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Those who thought the Republic would do away with public welfare and social services should have their fears relieved by the request of President Eisenhower that the Federal Reserve Agency be transformed into a full fledged Department of Health, Education, Welfare and Consumer Affairs.

The Deadline Comes

Years ago before Uncle Sam became so adept in extracting money from his nephews and nieces, the late William H. Borah said "the marvel of all history is the patience with which men and women submit to burdens unnecessarily laid upon them by their governments."

If Mr. Borah were alive today, we don't believe he would view the present last-minute frenzied preparation of income tax reports as "patience." And certainly, if he could observe some of the reluctant activity as the deadline approaches at mid-night tonight he would gain the impression that there is no disposition to submit to income taxes with equanimity.

Yesterday was the legal deadline for paying but because it was Sunday, we are given an extra day of grace. Yet, how many persons, we wonder, went ahead anyway and mailed their returns yesterday. We have a suspicion that few did, indeed, and it is most probable that the Post Office will experience its greatest volume of mail at the very last minute tonight.

But if the income tax season is not a happy occasion, just think of the broadening experience gained from close association with the various forms, charts, and instructions. Consider how skilled in the use of legal terminology and accountancy jargon men and women have become who formerly would have been stumped by such terms as computation, capital assets, or annuities.

And just think what a wonderful excuse the income tax offers to those who wish to avoid some social obligation or an unpleasant chore around the house. No excuse for not doing anything is so valid and convincing as the one that goes like this: "I'm sorry, Gloria, I can't go with you to the tea this afternoon, I have to make out my income tax return. You know the deadline is tonight," or "I can't sweep the porch now, honey, I've got to advise with the auditor on whether to use the long form or short form."

St. Patrick's Day

Tomorrow is St. Patrick's Day and throughout the world and particularly in this country to whose shores so many Irishmen have been driven by hard luck on the Emerald Isle there will be a great wearing of the green.

St. Patrick was the first and greatest of the missionaries to Ireland, and though he probably did not drive out all the snakes, or leave Ireland "without a single heathen where he found not a single Christian when he came", he effected a profound transformation in the religious life of the country.

Born in the latter part of the fourth century A. D. in Bannaventa, probably in southwestern Britain near the Irish Channel, when only 16 years of age he was captured in an Irish raid upon the British coast and taken to Ireland where he was held for six years in slavery before he escaped to the continent of Europe.

There he suffered many privations and mistreatment from the Vandals who had lately overrun the country until at last he found refuge in an island monastery at Lerins where he remained for several years. For more than 11 years he longed to return to the scenes of his captivity and Christianize the pagans, but it was not until 432 that he was consecrated Bishop of Ireland and sent on his long desired mission.

Though he never succeeded in Christianizing the wild, heathen Ireland, he did convert many of his household. He built many churches throughout the country and with the approval of the Pope founded Armagh and he became the subject of bitter controversy, but history accords him a position in the development of Ireland that no one else has been able to rival.

Aberdeen Angus Sale Scheduled In Ocala

OCALA (Special)—The largest sale of Aberdeen-Angus in Florida history—100 head—will bring 85 females and 15 bulls representing some of the nation's top breeding into Florida Tuesday, Mar. 24, when Craigland Farms and other Virginia Angus breeders hold their "Get-Acquainted Sale" at the Southeastern Pavilion two miles north of Ocala on U. S. Highway 201.

The word comes from Dave Canning of Charlottesville, Va., the man who recently judged the Southeastern Fat Stock Show here and is executive secretary of the Virginia Aberdeen-Angus Association.

Sale bears the approval of the Florida Aberdeen-Angus Association, according to W. S. Ingham of Bradenton, president of that group.

"Cattle will be sold under the very strict terms and conditions as set forth by the American Aberdeen-Angus Association," Canning points out. "They are fully guaranteed in every way. They come from clean healthy herds, and they will meet the most rigid health requirements."

Sale is scheduled to start at 1:00 p.m. with Col. Stan Haworth of Warrington, Va., auctioneer. Included in the female offerings will be bred and open heifers and cows with calves at side. Canning reports, and all bulls will be of service age. Preferred bloodlines, such as Sunbeam, Elleanmere and Handlour, are represented, and such families as Elina Brien, Enchantress Erica, Queen Mother, Blackcap and Pride of Aberdeen. Consignors besides Craigland, which is located at Maggie, Virginia, will be R. E. R. Blanton.

Every Second Counts
By W. V. Blittner
Touchton Drug Co.

When an accident occurs, every second counts to the injured person. . . a matter of life or death very often. If you must stand by helpless that is a great tragedy and one you would not soon forget. On the other hand if you had first aid training and knew what to do and what not to do you might save a life. To be able to help any injured person is payment enough for the time spent mastering a first aid course.

It is indeed good to know that so many people are willing to inconvenience themselves for a fellow man.

We will try to personally thank the donors but, as we may not have all the names and addresses, will you please publish a general "thank you" for us?

WHAT'S YOURS?

THE WORLD TODAY

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON UP — Malenkov may think this is a good time to make peace in Korea, or at least to talk about it. That might have been his purpose at his rubber-stamp election in Moscow yesterday in saying: "There is no question which cannot be settled by peaceful means."

He could not lose much by gestures about a Korean settlement, whether or not he was in earnest. Even if he was against peace but talked peace he could, if the war continued, use it for propaganda, blaming the West.

A few dramatic moves that focused attention on him, would be so much gravy for the comparatively unknown Malenkov who is suddenly trying to fill Stalin's big shoes as Soviet premier.

Malenkov will need years to capture the place Stalin held in the minds of the Russian people and the Communist leadership in the Red satellite countries.

The Russian Communist party for 29 years had built up Stalin as a kind of super genius and guardian of the flock.

Yet, in spite of such obvious Stalin successes as turning back Hitler's invading armies, keeping control of Russia and grabbing the satellites, he had some failures: Germany and Western Europe.

Further, by starting the Korean War he drove the U. S. and Western Europe into alliance and rearmament. And the Chinese and North Korean Communists, who did the dying in Korea for Stalin, may have had some misgivings about that.

If Malenkov could bring peace in Korea he might feel it would make him look cleverer than Stalin, at least among some of those who wanted peace in Korea.

At the same time a Korean settlement might soften up the West, slow down its rearmament and keep Western Germany from going into complete alliance with the Western Allies.

In addition Malenkov would have time to consolidate his control in Russia and the satellites. And time to do both is something he probably needs.

It is questionable, too, that with peace in Korea there would be as much enthusiasm for signing on the first born under the U. S. Constitution.

Congressman Herlong Reports

By SID HERLONG

The biggest item up for consideration this week was the Hawaii Statehood Bill. There were two days of debate and amendments to the bill. The biggest argument put up for statehood was that the United States made an implied promise to take them in as a state "when they were ready". The arguments against were by the Southern bloc. A number of reasons were advanced as to why they should not be admitted. Some said they agreed that Hawaii should some day become a state, but that she was not yet "ready". The tremendous Communist influence on the island, the fact that about 80% of the population is Oriental, the large number of aliens on the islands; the 2100 miles distance from the United States, etc. were all given as reasons.

There was a great deal more to this bill than simply statehood for Hawaii. Not mentioned in the debate, but in the forefront of almost every Southerner's mind, was the fact that two more so-called "civil rights" Senators might have a disastrous effect on our efforts to block F.E.C. legislation in the Senate. It's that close.

The great preponderance of the people from our district who have answered our questionnaire were in favor of statehood for Hawaii. I voted against it. I am sorry I didn't carry out your wishes in this regard, but after hearing the debate and knowing that the implications in the bill involved so many things that were not written into it, my judgment dictated that these indications overrode the simple promise of just making Hawaii a state. I felt that had you been advised of the entire meaning of the bill, you would agree with my position. We lost by 45 votes on a motion to recommit.

Yesterday morning I talked with several zone whips of the Republican Party, virtually all of whom voted for statehood. Almost without exception they said that our position was right, but that it had been made a party issue and that controlled their votes. They were hopeful that it would be killed in the Senate, but the prospects there are slight.

When you are serving fresh orange juice for breakfast, save the empty halves and notch the sides with a small sharp knife.

They make a tasty container for whole cranberry sauce at dinner. Serve the cranberry-filled orange halves with poultry or pork.

If you have an ice-cream scoop in your kitchen, you'll find it's wonderfully efficient for putting muffled butter into pans so all muffins will be the same size. Use it, too, for serving mashed potatoes and hot cooked rice.

The third annual Kiwanis Club King and Queen Contest was off to a running start today with Patty Witte, representing the Javees, and Mack Cleveland Jr., representing the American Legion, pacing the field after the first tabulations.

In the runner-up spots for king and queen were Dot Powell, American Legion representative, and Orville Touchton, Pilot Club candidate.

However, Joel Field, chairman of the Kiwanis contest committee, said that competition is so great that with a sudden influx of 100 votes, those currently at the bottom in the balloting could climb right to the top.

The winners of the popularity contest will be crowned in an elaborate ceremony at the Little Theater on Saturday night, Mar. 21.

Altogether, 14 candidates are being considered for the royal couple.

Sanford Industries

The Commission again granted Sanford Industries, Inc. a lease on Lake Creek and the Atlantic Coast Line right-of-way on which location of business structure will be built.

The lease for $1 will have a reverter clause reverting the property to the City if construction is not commenced within six months.

During the week, Albert Pitts, chairman of the Port Terminal and Bonded Warehouse Committee which now has a lease on that property, contacted members of his committee concerning their views on releasing a portion of the property.

According to Mr. Cowan, the release has been approved as soon as the necessary papers are drawn up, the land will be turned over to Sanford Industries.

Mr. Cowan said that tests have been made on the land and no more staked out. Piling will have to be driven to a 20 to 30 foot level to serve as foundation for a building.

Actually, only a portion of the land needed for the warehouse group is being requested. A plot of 150 feet by 450 feet will be sufficient on which to start construction.

Meanwhile, stockholders of Sanford Industries, Inc. are looking forward to Wednesday night's public meeting at the Court House.

Son Of Sanford Navy Man Killed By Car

MIAMI (AP) — Five-year-old Craig Griffin dashed across the Tamiami Trail eight miles west of Miami yesterday and was killed by a passing automobile.

County Sheriff Stanley Hartles said the child was on a fishing trip that included his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Griffin; his sister, Sandra, eight, and a marine friend, Lynn W. Clark, 24.

Hartles said the child left his mother's side to join Clark, dragging for worms on the other side of the road.

The driver of the automobile stopped and offered aid, Hartles said, but in the excitement no one nearby heard his name. The child died about three hours later in a hospital. Hartles said witnesses at the scene could not identify the driver.

Hartles said Mrs. Griffin told him she was estranged from her husband, Harold Griffin, a navy man stationed at Norfolk.

Juvenile Author

The success is even more remarkable in view of the fact that "Five Little Pigs" was Gerald's first school theme. He'd just "skipped" the second grade, entering Mrs. H. Metzger's third grade class at Kirby South School, when he wrote it. Mrs. Metzger was impressed, showed it to his mother, and the Haskins manuscript was mailed but was around the great to the Shunkar contest.

Young Gerald was unavailable for comment at press time (out playing, or something) but later visits with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Haskins, and Mrs. Metzger revealed something of the young author.

"Four feet, two inches tall... freckles... sandy, crew cut hair, blue eyes... very easy to get along with... his parents agreed, and 'smart in everything,' Mrs. Metzger added. 'It's fun to ask him a question and hear his brain click.'"

Main interest? Well, books, of course, followed closely by baseball and football. Further, Gerald had ambitions to be a baseball player when he grows up. Now, with the increased maturity of his recent birthday, he believes he may be a full-time scientist or a doctor and part-time poet.

"He's always writing poetry and stories now," Mrs. Haskins said. And not at all to waste time, Gerald is already deep in the writing of his first novel, fitting it in somehow in his baseball schedule. His title is "Poney and Poney" and the author has confided, it is "supposed to be about two raccoons."

Posterily might take note of Gerald's words when he thumbed through the newly arrived edition of Shunkar's and found his story there. His mother passed them on verbatim.

"Well, I'll be darned!" No other author could have been more succinctly put.

A list of prize donors on the Shunkar masthead gives some idea of the magazine's excellence and the international quality. Dr. Hansera Prasad, India's president, is listed there, along with Jawaharlal Nehru and the United States ambassador.

One requirement of all literary entries was that they must be in English. This probably accounts partially for the fact that, while entries were invited from the Iron Curtain countries, only art contributions seemed to have come from children in those countries. However, from Norway and France, from Italy and India itself, the manuscripts in faultless, imaginative English found their way into the magazine, along with stories from Liverpool, England and Louisville, Ky.

And among those stories was the following by Gerald M. Haskins, age seven:

"Once upon a time there lived five little pigs. They went on a picnic in the woods. They took with them ham, corn meal, apples, and oranges. They just sat down and started to eat when there came a wolf. He ate four of the pigs, but the other one ran home. And the wolf started to eat all the food up. But just then an egg broke over his head and he said 'Stop that, stop that at once.' But the pig threw an orange at him, and wolf at the little pig up and the food too. Then there were no pigs at all but there was a wolf."

Move over, Mr. Hemingway.

Proposals Made

Present plans for annexation are reasonable in extent if the city goes much beyond current plans, there will be too much land. Mr. Simon proposed one annexation, the Atlantic Coast Line property between First Street on the north and Twentieth Street on the south as far as the Lake Mary Road on the west should be included in order to straighten out the boundary line. This is potentially good industrial property.

All other areas seem conservative and well within reason, Mr. Simon said.

There is one other recommendation in connection with annexation. In describing boundaries, the city should include all of a road on the way, not down the line down the middle of a street. Deviating down the center of a highway, he said, will lead to confusion in upkeeping of the road since one lane might be maintained by the city and the other side by the County.

Nothing very drastic here is suggested for a minor annexation. Efforts should be made to get cooperation of County officials in all respects. Applications for annexation should be submitted to and approved by the Planning Commission in both preliminary and final forms in order to prevent a low type of development.

HOSPITAL SITE

Mr. Simon said he had examined the proposed hospital site on East First Street and suggested that the area be made R-1A instead of R-1A-1. This is to insure that the site be used for actual construction. The city government should not wait until the hospital is finished before changing the zoning. The City Commission should be notified of the R-1A zoning as soon as the first street might be extended to Mayfair Inn property.

NEW ATLANTIC COAST LINE

The possibility of using Ninth Street as a street leading to the new station should be considered in the neighborhood of Holly Avenue and East First Street. The road could swing around the current A.C. station. Mr. Simon said that route would be more pleasing and more practical than Thirteenth Street.

TRAFFIC AND PARKING

Opposing diagonal parking on downtown streets, even though the ladies like it, Mr. Simon said he had great deal of vital traffic was lost by parking diagonally. The City may have to change diagonal to parallel to gain more use of roadway.

Declaring that in the next 10 years there may be two to three times as many cars using downtown streets, Mr. Simon said he believed that within the next eight to 10 years there will be 900,000 to a million people settling in Florida with a great number of them in this area.

Sanford will be come even more popular in the years ahead he said because Orlando has so many more problems connected with congestion than does Sanford, the trend will be away from crowded sections of that type.

Sanford County with Lake Wales and Volusia counties will be the recipients of a considerable because so many more cars will be pouring in, it may be necessary

Volunteer Firemen Study Fire-fighting

CANSELBERRY (Special) Putting into practice some of the principles of fire fighting learned during the weeks course of instruction concluded here Friday night, members of the local volunteer company, along with new volunteers from Longwood, Altamonte Springs and Winter Park, attacked a blazing structure with effective results.

The course was directed by A. E. Erwin, instructor, Florida State Fire College, Ocala. Climaxing the training course, Chief Paul Bates erected a slab structure which was set ablaze as the finale Friday night.

Chief Bates said 14 completed the course, sessions of which were attended by as many as 24 firemen, some of whom took refreshment work. Bates said 10 of the 14 candidates were from the local fire company.

Last year, a similar school was conducted by James A. Fleming, instructor from the college at Altamonte. Thus 11 volunteers were certified.

St. Pat Parade In New York Is Big Attraction

Thousands View Traditional Ceremony
NEW YORK (AP)—Irish and non-Irish alike turned out by the thousands today for Fifth Avenue's traditional St. Patrick's day parade. A bright sun favored the marchers in the colorful "wearing of the green" spectacle, but the day was chilly with a 47-degree temperature and a 15-m.p.h. westerly wind. Crowds seven to eight deep lined the sidewalks. Some estimates placed the number of watchers at 100,000. Patrolman Henry Quinn, 42, born in County Tyrone and on traffic duty at Fifth Avenue and 44th Street for many years, sent the parade on its way as he has done for the past 27 years with a blast of his whistle at 12:04 p. m. Francis Cardinal Spellman and other church dignitaries reviewed the parade from the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral. While the day was being observed in New York, the Associated Press gave out the following story from Washington: Now, it seems there were two Irishmen and they were sitting around the White House press room and the gloom between them was as thick as pea soup. "Ah," moaned one of them and him no Democrat neither, "time was when St. Patrick's Day meant something around here. Do you remember the fine Irishman that fell from Truman had around him?" "I do," sighed the other. "Ah, there was Matt Connelly, the President's secretary himself. And there was Will Hasselt and he was another."

More than two dozen guests were at the luncheon party including the queen's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, the queen mother, Elizabeth, Princess Margaret and other members of the royal family. Security measures to safeguard the queen remained in effect. Reporters and photographers traveling with the party were ordered to approach no nearer than eight yards to the closely guarded couple.

Women Mount Guard Again To Save Tree

WINTER PARK (AP)—The women will back up guard on the East Winter Park road today but the road widening project they have been fighting continued and at least three trees were bulldozed down. Orange County Commissioners stood fast by their original decision following a meeting with the Winter Park and Orlando city officials and declined to halt the work until the issue could be studied by a new integrated advisory planning council for the Winter Park-Orlando metropolitan area. Several women were on hand this morning in front of the home of Mrs. W. W. Baker to prevent further destruction of trees. But it was not indicated what they intended to do when the removal crews, still some blocks away, actually went into action. When the widening project was started three weeks ago, women started to picket action to save the trees. When this move failed, they threw up a human blockade. Work was then temporarily halted. County Commissioner Jack McDowell said Monday the original plan to widen the road connecting Orlando and Winter Park will be carried out—despite the ladies.
