

A Skunk, An Ass and the "Price" Thereof

there in peace, work out our beautiful theory of "God given and Constitutional rights."

So in foolish loving oblivion of the CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM under which we are to mutually adore each other, we go forth in obedience to God's command: "In the sweat of thy faces shalt thou eat bread."

The Price Ideal

How ideally perfect is the plan presented to us by the novel-"T" man. He is to furnish all the cash or credit with which to do business. He thus becomes the Mr. (master). All we have to do is just work and when there isn't anything to do all we have to do is just look for work, i. e., we look for another Mr. (master), for an opportunity to RENT a job on the half and half plan, Capitalism's way of FORCING the WORKERS to DIVIDE up."

You know, fellow citizens, the Mr. (master) always OWNS the jobs and as a distinct class in society, own the class who must seek the jobs.

Owning the jobs has "Chattel Slavery" skinned forty city blocks. This is true because the "wage" Mr. (master) has no investment in the person of the "wage slave," the only investment he has is in the machinery and the cash or credit for keeping the jobs going. Under the present "wage slave system" the Mr. (master) "washes his hands" of all personal responsibility for the care of his wage slaves and all he has to do, through his privately owned press is to appeal to the PREJUDICE of his slaves and keep them thinking how wonderfully independent they are; how glorious it is to be able to make a private contract with a Mr. (master) to sell his labor for such compensation as may be agreed upon."

Workers God Given Rights

But pretty soon these "wage slaves" remove their industrial swaddling bands, they sew them together and band themselves into a union and they go thus forward, united as brothers and they tell the said Master Price something. They tell him that they too, have God given and Constitutional rights, they tell him, RIGHT TO HIS FACE that they have a right to ORGANIZE and, in the light of economic efficiency and class benefit of organized capital they are going to organize and stay organized.

They tell the said Master Price that their organization is NOT to be a "PINK TEA" affair with their said Master Price as the perpetual honor guest in the spare room of the castle of their economic protection.

They tell the said Master Price that "if he does not like it he may lump it," that the wage earners are the wealth producers and that as citizens under the constitution they have a right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and propose to effectively assert it.

Sovereignty in the People

They tell the said Master Price that SOVEREIGNTY, under our national letter of God, resides in the PEOPLE, and if their masters are not satisfied to give them a decent living wage and recognize their union, they will assert this right of sovereignty at the ballot box and take over the jobs just as the people have taken over the postal service, the public schools, libraries, highways, etc.

They will tell their masters that these jobs will be owned and managed in the spirit of true Fraternity which knows NO MASTERS but only BROTHERS.

Thus and thus only will the prayer of our Savior be realized and this cat and dog business (which never was a "lovy-dovy" affair) between capital and labor cease forever and the Prince of Peace reign evermore.

Not a Monopoly

With reference to the said Master Price's second charge that organized labor is a monopoly we refer to our article of the 14th ultimo, wherein our views on this point are fully set forth.

Suffice to say here that we deny the charge and state that what President Wilson said in his naval review speech concerning the American people may be said of the spirit of Organized Labor. It asks nothing for itself except what it has a right to ask and what it in fact demands, for HUMANITY; viz, ECONOMIC JUSTICE.

If this be monopoly let the said Master Price and his ilk make the most of it, remembering, fellow citizens, that the said Master Price and his ilk are no more divine viceregents of industry than the "me and God" tribe of kings ever were or are viceregents in civil affairs. Not a whit more!

Vox Populi, vox Deii! the voice of the people is the voice of God!—not alone in things political but in the very basis of all things political and social; viz: the solution of the bread and butter problem.

Price a Purring Kitten

Some place in this article we referred to the said Master Price as a "purring kitten and a roaring lion." Master Price thinks he knows WHEN to purr and WHEN to roar. He forgets how foolish it is to purr and roar in the same ears, in this age of dictagraphs and cold type.

A few weeks ago Master Price roared impudent and scandalous things about us. He would have you believe that Organized Labor is a hideous monster, and that the local union is the worst ever.

But do you know, friends in his article of the 25th ultimo this Master Price becomes a purring kitten? He affectionately rubs up against you and, looking benignly into your face, purrs a little ditty about his HONOR. He says that he really can find two men high in the councils of our union who are without question "corrupt and inefficient workmen." He says that he can do this but to "do so would do netier THEM nor myself (emphasis on the MYSELF) any good. If no further demand is made along this line I WILL DROP this MATTER, with the UNDERSTANDING that their SILENCE is an ADMISSION of the charges." CANDIDLY I do not want to take this step as it will only ENGENDER much unnecessary ill feeling!

Ye Gods! What a dual character is this Master Price! What a Dr. Jekyll and a Mr. Hyde! What a night-blooming mushroom Consist! This twaddling doctor of conscience, after calling us everything he could put in print NOW tells you that his conscience hurts him and he does not want to "start anything.")

An Apt Story

A prominent business man told me a few days ago that Master Price reminded him of an excited boy who ran into the house and told his mother that there were 5,000 skunks under the barn. "Oh hush, child, hush!" said the mother, "go back and count those skunks again." The boy stayed away until after dark and then came sheepishly in at the back door and started upstairs to bed, whereupon his mother, after chastising him for being late asked him about the skunks. The boy said "Mother, I am honorable. It certainly won't do me or the skunk family any good to LIE. What I actually saw was a black cat's tail, sticking out from between the planks in a pile of lumber under the barn."

A prosperous farmer told me that Price reminded him of a fellow who had the delirium tremens, after a two months' jag. He said that this poor unfortunate fellow thought that four little pigs had crawled up on his left hand and sat, one on each of his knuckles. Pretty soon the little pig sitting on the knuckle of his little finger, thinking that the hair on the man's hand was grass proceeded to eat thereof. The D. T. man thought he was poisoning himself, ing a natural aversion for pigs anyway said: "Now just for that you may ALL get right off."

Master Price's statement concerning the testimony of William D. Haywood, secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World bears no relation to the policy of the American Federation of Labor; the two organizations having nothing in common whatsoever.

The president of one of the largest and best known life insurance companies in the world said in a speech at the Hotel Ormond, Ormond, Fla., Jan. 15, 1913: "The American Federation of Labor stands for the right of private property. It disagrees frequently with capital as to what the proper share of labor is in any given instance, but it stands solidly for the right of private property, and does not believe that any situation can arise when the interests of the laboring men and of the capitalists cannot be reconciled."

Again Master Price says: "That we have admitted that we have no respect for the government under which we live."

Mr. Editor and fellow citizens, what do you think of this monster prevaricator? this doctor of conscience? Why, he could not recognize the truth if it were the morning sun in a cloudless horizon.

Now, in conclusion I am authorized by our union to ask this conscience stricken Price to name the two leading members of this union who are "corrupt and mechanically inefficient."

"Mrs. Black is Back" Four Reel Comedy at the Star Monday

We do not do this, friends, to test Master Price's honor. Price is without high speech of honor. We believe this to be true. We know what the kinks in his grey matter look like and we want you to know. We have learned of him elsewhere and we sincerely believe him to be a chronically disturbing factor in society.

Very truly,
CLARK C. PEARSON.

Protect the Swallows.
The swallows of Europe are about the only birds which are holding their own in numbers. The people love them and protect them as their ancestors protected them back into and probably through the days of savagery, for there is not much doubt that the swallow shared the home of the cave dweller.

For Pearl Ornaments.
Pearl ornaments may be elegantly polished by first rubbing with olive oil to remove the dirty appearance, then applying any red nail polish. This latter gives a burnished appearance, and with a little fast rubbing the pearl takes on a brilliant glow.

FLAG DAY WAS OBSERVED BY SANFORD ELKS

STARS AND STRIPES MADE THE THEME OF SONG AND STORY LAST EVENING

Flag Day was most fittingly observed by the Sanford Lodge of Elks last night and "Old Glory" was made the theme of song and story in the exercises given by the lodge.

The beautiful ritual written especially for Flag Day for the Elks lodge was carried out in full and E. F. Housholder gave a complete history of the flag of our country that was most interesting.

William S. Shelley was chosen to deliver an oration on "Our Flag" and after reading the ritualistic history of the flag gave the lodge members a beautiful tribute to "Old Glory" and her greatness on both land and sea.

It is to be regretted that these Flag Day celebrations of the Elks lodge cannot be made public, as the exercises are beautiful and serve to instill renewed confidence and love for the flag of our country.

Orlando as Host

The pretty city of Orlando is never prettier than when playing host, and especially to Floridians.

The Central Florida Highway Association meeting brought definite results in the adoption of a route for the proposed highway which is to make up for the omission of a large section of this state by the officially adopted Dixie Highway route.

Tampa also naturally cut a large figure in the annual meeting of the Florida Citrus Exchange, this city being the headquarters of that organization.

Those who attended these meetings testify to the generous hospitality of Orlando and to the increasing attractiveness and charm of the progressive city.

Among the visitors to Daytona Beach Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Gaster, J. D. Roberts and Ellnor Roberts.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS PUBLISH THE ROAD LAWS

ARE IN FAVOR OF HAVING SUCH LAWS ENFORCED TO THE LETTER

At the regular meeting of the board of county commissioners for Seminole county, the following resolutions were passed:

Whereas the people of Seminole county have expended large sums of money to provide good roads for the county, and

Whereas such uncalled for rate of speed is detrimental to the maintenance of said good roads, and

Whereas some motor vehicle drivers have seen fit to drive their machines at night without providing lights for such machine as is required by law, thereby endangering the lives and property of citizens of this county, therefore, be it

Resolved by the board of county commissioners in and for Seminole county, in regular meeting assembled that

The Florida statutes governing the operation of motor vehicles on public highways of Florida be printed for the benefit of the general public, and be it further resolved that

The county commissioners hereby determine that the words "proper or reasonable speed" as are used in said statutes, to mean a speed not exceeding twenty miles an hour, provided, however, that such machine being operated at such "reasonable speed" shall be operated at a speed not exceeding ten miles per hour, when such machine is in passing with any other machine, vehicle or mode of conveyance on any good road within the county, and be it further resolved that:

All citizens are urged to report any violations of the state statutes or any of these resolutions, and that all officers be instructed to exercise their duty in restraining such violations, and be it further resolved that: A copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this meeting and a copy, together with the aforementioned state statutes be printed in the Sanford Herald.

Judge Mabry's Successor

A rumor, which was soon confirmed, stirred Tallahassee last Saturday from one end to the other. It was to the effect that Hon. Milton H. Mabry had tendered his resignation as Clerk of the Supreme Court of the State of Florida, and that his resignation had been accepted.

Next came a rumor, which was by no means a surprise, in view of the first rumor being authenticated, to the effect that Hon. G. Talbot Whitfield, secretary to the Governor, and secretary to various administrative boards, had been selected by the Justices of the Supreme Court to succeed Judge Mabry as clerk of that court. This rumor was also soon confirmed.

The resignation of Judge Mabry and the appointment of Mr. Whitfield as his successor, are to take effect July 1st. Until that time each will continue to fill the office he now holds.—Tallahassee Record.

Judge Mabry is well known in this city where he and Mrs. Mabry have visited. Mrs. Mabry is the sister of Mrs. G. F. Smith of Sanford.

BERLIN PAPERS COMMENT ON THE LAST ULTIMATUM

OPINION IS DIVIDED IN MANY ON PROBABLE OUTCOME OF RELATIONS

Berlin, June 14.—The Berlin morning papers generally comment more or less extensively on the American note along the following lines followed by the Saturday evening papers.

While there is a general disposition to recognize the friendly tone of the note and the fact that it makes further negotiations possible, the press is divided, roughly, into two parts, one disposed to enter into negotiations looking to a compromise on a new basis, while the other, by implication or expressly, rejects any departure from the course heretofore followed. Among the representatives of the latter idea is the Tagliere Rundschau, which declares that while the note seeks a compromise, it seeks it along the lines "which may result to the disadvantage of Germany."

The note, therefore, is calculated only to postpone a settlement of German American relations and not bring it about. The friendly tone we acknowledge, but the declaration that the sinking of the Lusitania was unparalleled in modern warfare seems opposed to the character of upright friendship.

The Rundschau defends the sinking of the Lusitania and in concluding declares: "And the worst is the torpeding will go on."

The Kreuz Zeitung emphasizes Germany's right to prevent the shipment of ammunition to an enemy by every means. It also is able to see what England can offer in return for the abandonment of the submarine campaign.

"Their plan to starve Germany has finally failed," Count von Reventlow, in the Tages Zeitung, says: "If President Wilson persists in his refusal to recognize the German declaration of war zone we are not able to conceive of any agreement, or even a real understanding."

Count von Reventlow adds: "President Wilson discusses aside with a light lecture the chief part of the German note as unimportant. When President Wilson appealed for morality and human rights, let him extend those motives first to American munitions. Germany cannot abandon the use of her best implement of war merely in order that Americans may sell the war zone on American ships."

The Morgen Post says: "The note is filled with tones of heartiness and friendliness and seeks to open and smooth the way for other negotiations. The offer to mediate between Germany and Great Britain will unquestionably be kindly accepted by the German government and if mediation fails it will be Great Britain's fault."

ANOTHER BIG RANCH FOR SEMINOLE CO.

LOCKHATCHIE COMPANY OWN FOURTEEN THOUSAND ACRES OF FINE GRAZING LAND

Seminole county can boast of another large cattle ranch. The new ranch is owned by the Lockhatchie Cattle Co., articles of incorporation appearing in this issue of The Herald. The land is adjacent and embraces some of the famous Econlockhatchie Creek and from this creek the company derives the name.

The Lockhatchie Company is composed of Sanford citizens as follows: W. S. Hand, president; T. I. Hawkins, vice president; J. N. Whitner, secretary and treasurer, and W. S. Hand, C. M. Hand, T. I. Hawkins, J. N. Whitner, L. A. Brumley and S. Puleston, board of directors.

The ranch comprises some 14,000 acres of the finest portion of the St. Johns valley and will be fenced and improved. The best grade of cattle will be purchased for the ranch and mules and horses will also be raised on the ranch.

Lockhatchie Ranch is about twenty miles from Sanford and is near Chuluota in this county.

Cattle raising is fast becoming one of the best investments in Florida and the Sanford men who have invested their money in Lockhatchie Ranch are assured of good returns on their investment.

Arthur Doyle Retires

At the meeting Tuesday of the Jacksonville Rotary Club, Arthur J. Doyle will announce his resignation as manager for Florida and South Georgia, of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, which position he has held for the past nine years. Mr. Doyle is going to retire from active business. His resignation will come as a great surprise, as well as cause genuine regret to the twenty or more salesmen and mechanics, who have worked for years under him in this territory.

In connection with his resignation Mr. Doyle yesterday received the following telegram from the company:

Kalkhurst advises you have resigned and wish to be relieved at once. This is a great disappointment to your factory friends. Would like interview with you before appointing anyone to take your place. Please come to the factory at our expense. Please advise when you will arrive. F. H. Hodge.

Mr. Doyle sent the following answer to the telegram:

Am checking out today. If factory trip purpose is for me to reconsider, under present arrangements, trip will be useless. However, will comply with your request and have interview. Leaving here Tuesday.

After he has said goodbye to his numerous friends at the factory in Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle will spend a short while on the great lakes, returning later in the summer via Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Albany, New York city, and thence on the Clyde line to Jacksonville.

Having recently sold the controlling stock in the Bank of South Jacksonville and severed his connection with the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, Mr. Doyle states that this is the first time in twenty years that he has a chance of taking a rest. As a member of the Rotary Club, the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce and other organizations he has always been a live wire.

The earnest character of the note may not be overlooked, but it contains nothing which even indirectly can be looked upon as an ultimatum.

THE SANFORD HERALD

and the road will soon be completed from the Seminole county line through Orlando to within a few miles of Kissimmee. Other cross county roads are also being built. The News is informed that the roads are being splendidly built, with substantial concrete curbs. The report has been circulated in Volusia county to the effect that the Seminole county brick roads were not holding up. The brick for these roads were laid flat on sand foundation, without curbs. Some of the foundation or fills, were made just before the brick were laid, and never had time to settle. That they have held up is wonderful, and unexpected. The News has made a special effort to find out the condition of these roads, and is reliably informed that they are in splendid condition. As the people of DeLand district have before them a large bond issue for roads, why would it not be a good idea to organize a "hike" to Seminole county and see for ourselves. The roads between Orlando and Sanford are now all torn up, where good work is progressing, and many people would not like to negotiate this road while it is torn up.—DeLand News.

VOLUSIA BONDS FOR BRICK

The biggest majority ever given a similar proposition in the state of Florida was that received in an election held in Daytona June 8th to determine whether or not a bond issue of $400,000 should be authorized for purpose of constructing fifty odd miles of brick or concrete and other hard surfaced roads in the eastern section of Volusia county. The bond issue was endorsed by property owners in the affected district by vote of ten to one. The road to be built begins at the St. Johns county line, continues through Ormond, Daytona, Daytona Beach, Sea Breeze and Port Orange to a point a few miles north of New Smyrna. Work on the road is to be started as soon as bonds can be issued and sold.

Bob Holly seceded from Orlando to Sanford, from Orange county to Seminole county, threatened to secede from South Florida, but has finally unpacked his carpet satcher and decides he won't secede from Florida. Oh, you Bob!—Orlando Citizen.

Senator Donegan Reviews Work

Senator A. E. Donegan and Representative N. C. Bryan have returned to Kissimmee from Tallahassee, where they ably represented Osceola county in the legislature. Senator Donegan's labors of course were divided in the interests of Osceola, Orange and Seminole counties. Senator Donegan upon his return declared that he was well pleased with the session of the legislature. He declares that he and Mr. Bryan had worked in perfect harmony as was the case also with Representative S. S. Griffin of Orange who, said Mr. Donegan, made a fine representative. A. B. Newton of Winter Garden, also representative of Orange county did good work, according to Senator Donegan. Representative Forrest Lake of Seminole was a hard worker and always worked in harmony with the senator on measures of importance to the district.

Senator Donegan had a part in all of the local measures passed for Osceola county and secured the passage of a law similar to the one asked for Orange county in regard to assessing damage to hard surface roads against users of heavy vehicles in Osceola county.

In reviewing the general work of the legislature Senator Donegan said: "Amongst the most important bills passed by the Florida legislature, which will affect the public generally, was the constitutional amendment to be submitted to the people, for the re-apportionment of the state. This apportionment plan provides for a senator for each county, and one representative for every 10,000 inhabitants in a county, but not more than three representatives from each county. While this is not considered to be quite a fair way of apportioning the state, yet it is believed it will be better than the present plan. It seems it is the only method which could be agreed upon."

"An act to increase the salaries for circuit court and supreme judges; a bill making an appropriation of $125,000 to fight the citrus canker; a bill providing for a girls' industrial school and an appropriation therefor; a bill allowing municipalities to change their charters; an act repealing the coupon law of 1913; an act providing for compulsory school attendance by local option; an act regulating the size and construction of field boxes, to be used by packers in packing oranges and other citrus crops; an act providing for a state...

several acts strengthening the banking laws, and railroad commission; three counties were created, subject to ratification by the people, Broward, Bloxham and Oskaloosee; a bill providing for a bureau of statistics; quite a number of acts suggested by the state board of health for the betterment of health conditions in Florida.

"No radical legislation appears to have been enacted, with the possible exception of the Davis package bill, which was opposed in several sessions by the temperance people, but endorsed by them in this session. The advocates of this bill believe it will bring about a solution of the liquor question, while those who oppose the bill believe conditions will be worse than now exist with the open saloons. Three new judicial circuits were created, and several laws strengthening the insurance laws of the state."—Kissimmee Gazette.

Locomotive Engineers

His eleven o'clock services being especially directed to the attention of locomotive engineers Rev. Hyman drew many apt comparisons between the function of the WILL of man and the function of the THROTTLE VALVE on a locomotive engine.

Man's will or the element of intellect which says "yes" or "no" to the thoughts rushing over the perceptive faculties for expression is like a throttle valve which is used to either hold back or allow the escape of steam into the propelling mechanism of a locomotive.

The speed and propelling power of the locomotive is in proportion to the units of steam which is allowed to pass through the throttle valve into the cylinder chest and thence against the piston valves within the cylinders which have direct connection with the drive wheels by means of connecting rods.

Great skill is required in handling the throttle valve not only in starting the engine but making precise stops. The whole mechanical construction may be unnecessarily wrecked, the tires on the drive wheels injured, rails burred and roadbed unnecessarily thrown out of line.

In order that the throttle may be adjusted to a delicate nicety as well as keep a uniform amount of steam escaping into the cylinders it is provided with a movable racket, attached to a handle, which works on a reciprocal or cog like teeth on a quarter round, stationary piece of polished metal.

Occasionally a throttle is pulled too far and catches, thus causing not only damage to the engine and roadbed but endangers the life of many.

an engine it is necessary to have an abundance of "true blue" steam which is taken from the dome of the boiler through the throttle valve.

The analogy: The call for the exercise of the will is in proportion to the number and character of thoughts rushing into our mind for expression. These thoughts are the things which we convert into distinct powers, the sum total of which we call human character. In other words, they are our life builders or our life destroyers. They are the things which when transformed into action cause us to achieve great and noble deeds or the reverse thereof.

Our repeatedly expressed thoughts become our outwardly known habits and they thus form the stationary reciprocal upon which the racket handle of our throttle valve of life, or will expresses itself. Nothing, therefore, is of so much importance as the kind of habits which we form. We should see to it that they are formed of "true blue" thoughts, that they are drawn from the top-most part of our spiritual dome, having therein at all times a full head of the saving graces of our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ.

By the use of man's will, or the throttle valve of life he should encourage the best thoughts, gathering them from the inspired ethical teaching of Jesus from out God's word. If our source is otherwise we go backward and away from God's kingdom down, down to eternal sorrow and oblivion.

Great skill is necessary in handling the Throttle Valve of Life if we would get not only the most but give the Most of life as we pass over its great highway. For there are sharp curves, steep grades, dangerous Cullabras cuts, dark tunnels, open switches, danger signals and unforeseen obstacles to be carefully heeded, but we not only go headlong into destruction ourselves but take hundreds of souls with us.

We not only have train orders to obey and track conditions, but we have other things to watch. Our thought flues must be kept clean so that the heat units of God's love may produce and maintain our sources of inward power.

Our grates of HOPE must be kept clear of the clinkers of TEMPTATION so that our fuel of FAITH may have the fullest advantages of the constant draft of God's Spirit.

Lastly our crown sheets must be always covered with the pure water of Brotherhood, that peace, goodwill and loving memory may be a perpetual and unexploded reality. In the same way, too, and in the same way only may our throttle valve of life become an efficient and useful instrument, making for our heavenly destiny over the golden tracks leading direct to God's throne.

Don't Keep It Up. Although it be a fact that to err is human that should not serve as an excuse for a continuous performance of mistakes.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Griger died at the home of his parents on Palmetto avenue Sunday evening. The cannon recently allotted to Sanford by the government have arrived and are safely stored at the city hall where they can be under the watchful eye of Chief Tillis and his force. The cannon are of the ancient bronze type and look as though they were used about the time of the war of '61. The shells that go with them are hollow and seem to be of the shrapnel type to be filled with a miscellaneous collection and fired at the enemy. Sanford will be well protected now and the cannon will be mounted in due form and placed either in the city parks or on the bulkhead after it is finished.

More Bridal Showers

Miss Carrie Ensminger, whose marriage to Mr. Henry Nickel will take place this evening was the guest of honor Friday afternoon at a miscellaneous "shower" that was given by Miss Clara Millen, who will be one of Miss Ensminger's attendants. Upon the arrival of each guest they were requested to write their name and a wish for the bride in the bride's register, which was afterwards read by the bride-elect to the accompaniment of much laughter for some of them were quite humorous, albeit all of them embodied happiness and prosperity for the gracious young lady so soon to join the ranks of the married.

The house was prettily adorned with tall vases of red gladioli and potted ferns. Pots of rare calladiums in their myriad colors adding an unusual touch of beauty. Graceful sprays of asparagus fern were used in profusion over doors and windows and entwining the chandeliers. Refreshments in tones of pink and white, the wedding colors were arranged on each plate with suggestive little favors, pansies and fern, from which was suspended by ribbons, two tiny hearts upon which was written "Carrie" and "Henry."

Before refreshments were served, Miss Edith Stewart played the wedding march that ushered in two pretty, dainty little girls, dressed in white and wearing long, white veils. These little ladies were Eloise Wright and Theodore Vickery. "They came, bearing a white covered basket, laden with gifts for the bride elect, so many of them of every variety and so lovely, many of the packages containing apt and original lines that were read aloud for the amusement of the guests. The bride's register was presented to Miss Ensminger as a souvenir of the happy occasion. Those present were Mesdames J. C. Ensminger, Harry Kent, Henry Witte, W. H. Peters, Harry Pilkington, A. D. Smith, Ed Randall, R. A. Terburn; Misses Edith, Marie and Minnie Stewart, Maud Jenkins, Martha Fox, Ethel Moughton, Clara Walker, Albine Frank, Elizabeth Musson, and Misses Mary Aulin and Elizabeth Stone of Oviedo.

Kitchen Shower for Miss Walker

At the home of her aunt, Mrs. Chas. R. Walker, a "kitchen shower" was given for Miss Eva Walker Saturday afternoon, that was fun-provoking and one of the most enjoyable of the pre-nuptial entertainments being given for the June brides. The decorations were in pink and white and green, the wedding colors, and effectively carried out with quantities of cut flowers and ferns. The table upon which stood the punch bowl was most attractively arranged. Each guest was requested to write a "word of advice" for the bride on slips of paper that would later be made into a booklet and presented to the bride-elect. The consensus of opinion was in effect that the best advice possible was "to feed one's other half" and thereby gain happiness and peace.

In the dining room a large tree was played from which hung the variety of kitchen articles which included every useful article that a kitchen needs. Most certainly, and almost entirely in aluminum. As the bride elect stopped to cut a package from a lower limb of the tree a string was clipped that let down a shower of rice upon her, provoking a gale of laughter from the delighted guests. Enjoying the charming hospitality of Mrs. Walker and her daughter, Miss Clara Walker were Mesdames Anna Walker, Harry Pilkington, P. D. Hayes, W. H. Peters, A. D. Smith, Drane Turner, Archie Betts and Mrs. Aspinwall; Misses Flora Walker, Carrie Ensminger, Clara Millen, Martha Fox, Agnes Berner, Evelyn Berner, Francis Aspinwall, Junie Stumor, Josie Stumor, Charlotte Hand, Sيدة Williams, Katherine Wilson, Mildred Dickson, Katherine Steinyer, Edith Stewart, Ethel Moughton and Laura Chittenden.

Regarding the Poinsettias

Editor Herald: Some weeks ago the City Beautiful committee received from Reasoner Bros. of Oreo, Fla., a shipment of poinsettias. The plants were unsatisfactory so a claim was made. The following letter is self explanatory:

Mrs. Henry Wight, Sanford, Fla.: Dear Madam—Your letter of the 21st inst. received and we regret to learn of any dissatisfaction over the poinsettias recently sent you. As we wrote you at the time we sent them, now is the best time to handle them as they will grow off without any set back. That is, it is the best time unless you waited until they had made a larger growth which would have taken many weeks for them to do.

Of course we know we sent these rooted cuttings at our own discretion, and therefore we feel responsible for them, and in the event of any of them failing to grow, we will replace them, free of cost. However, we think there will be very little if any loss.

Reasoner Bros.

If those who have lost plants will write directly to Reasoner Brothers the matter will be adjusted.

Very truly yours, Susan B. Wight.

The Exploits of Elaine

A Detective Novel and a Motion Picture Drama

SYNOPSIS.

The New York police are mystified by a series of murders of prominent men. The principal clue to the murderer is the warning letter which is sent the victims, signed with a "clutching hand." The latest victim of the mysterious assassin is Taylor Dodge, the insurance president. His daughter, Elaine, employs Craig Kennedy, the famous scientific detective, to try to unravel the mystery. What Kennedy accomplishes is told by his friend, Jameson, a newspaper man.

THIRD EPISODE

The Vanishing Jewels.

Banging away at my typewriter the next day, in Kennedy's laboratory, I was startled by the sudden, insistent ringing of the telephone near me.

"Hello," I answered, for Craig was at work at his table, trying still to extract some clue from the slender evidence thus far elicited in the Dodge mystery.

"Oh, Mr. Kennedy," I heard an excited voice over the wire reply, "my friend, Susie Martin, is here. Her father has just received a message from that Clutching Hand and—"

"Just a moment, Miss Dodge," I interrupted. "This is Mr. Jameson."

"Oh!" came back the voice, breathless and disappointed. "Let me have Mr. Kennedy—quick!"

I had already passed the telephone to Craig and was watching him keenly as he listened over it.

He motioned to me for a pad and pencil that lay near me.

"Please read the letter again, slower, Miss Dodge," he asked, adding, "there isn't time for me to see it—just yet. But I want it exactly. You say it is made up of separate words and type cut from newspapers and pasted on note paper?"

I handed him paper and pencil.

"All right, now, Miss Dodge, go ahead."

As he wrote he indicated to me by his eyes that he wanted me to read. I did so:

Sturtevant Martin, Jeweler,
No. 734 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Sir—As you have failed to deliver the $10,000, I shall rob your main diamond case at exactly noon today.

"Thank you, Miss Dodge," continued Kennedy, laying down the pencil. "Yes, I understand perfectly—signed by that same Clutching Hand. Let me see," he pondered, looking at his watch. "It is now half-past eleven. Very well. I shall meet you and Miss

Martin himself was evidently very nervous and very much alarmed. Indeed, no one could blame him for that. Merely to have been singled out by this amazing master criminal was enough to cause panic. Already he had engaged detectives, prepared for whatever might happen, and they had advised him to leave the diamonds in the counter, clear the store and let the crooks try anything, if they dared.

Just back of us, and around the corner, as we came in, we had noticed a limousine which had driven up. Three faultlessly attired dandies had entered a doorway down the street, as we learned afterward, apparently going to a fashionable tailor's which occupied the second floor of the old-fashioned building, the first floor having been renovated and made ready for renting. Had we been there a moment sooner we might have seen, I suppose, that one of them nodded to a taxicab driver, who was standing at a public hack stand a few feet up the block. The driver nodded unostentatiously back at the man.

In spite of the excitement, Kennedy quietly examined the showcase, which was, indeed, a veritable treasure store of brilliants.

Slowly the hands of the clock came nearer together at noon.

We all gathered about the showcase, with its glittering hoard of wealth, forming a circle at a respectable distance.

In deep-lunged tones the clock played the chords written, I believe, by Handel. Then it began striking.

Nothing had happened.

We all breathed a sigh of relief.

"Well, it is still there!" exclaimed Martin, pointing at the showcase with a forced laugh.

Suddenly came a rending and crashing sound. It seemed as if the very floor on which we stood was giving way.

The showcase, with all its priceless contents, went smashing into the cellar below.

The flooring beneath the case had been cut through!

All crowded forward, gazing at the black, yawning cavern.

Down below, three men, covered with smocks and their faces hidden by masks, had knocked the props away from the ceiling of the cellar, which they had sawed almost through at their leisure, and the showcase had landed eight or ten feet below, shivering into a thousand bits.

A volley of shots whizzed past us, and another. While one crook was hastily stuffing the untold wealth of jewels into a burlap bag the others had drawn revolvers and were firing up through the hole in the floor desperately.

"Look out!" cried someone behind us before we could recover from our first surprise and return the fire.

One of the desperados had taken a bomb from under his smock, lighted it and thrown it up through the hole in the floor.

It sailed up over our heads and landed near our little group, on the floor, the fuse sputtering ominously.

I heard an exclamation of fear from Elaine.

Kennedy had pushed his way past us and picked up the deadly infernal machine in his bare hands.

I watched him fascinated. As near as he dared, he approached the hole in the floor, still holding the thing off at arm's length. Would he never throw it?

He was coolly holding it, allowing the fuse to burn down closer to the explosion point.

It was now within less than an inch of sure death.

Suddenly he raised it and hurled the deadly thing down through the hole.

We could hear the imprecations of the crooks as it struck the cellar floor, near them.

"Leave the store—quick!" rang out Kennedy's voice.

Down below the crooks were beating a hasty retreat through the secret entrance which they had effected.

"The bag! The bag!" we could hear one of them bellow.

"The bomb—run!" cried another voice gruffly.

The explosion that followed lifted us fairly off our feet.

As the smoke from the explosion cleared away, Kennedy could be seen, the first to run forward.

Meanwhile Martin's detectives had rushed down a flight of back stairs that led into a coal cellar. With coal shovels and bars, anything they could lay hands on, they attacked the door that opened forward from the coal cellar into the front basement where the robbers had been.

A moment Kennedy and Bennett paused on the brink of the abyss which the bomb had made, waiting for the smoke to decrease. Then they began to climb down cautiously over the piled-up wreckage.

The explosion had set the basement afire, but the fire had not gained much headway by the time they reached the basement. Quickly Kennedy ran to the door into the coal cellar and opened it.

From the other side Martin, followed by the police and the detectives, burst in.

"Fire!" cried one of the policemen, leaping back to turn in an alarm from the special apparatus upstairs.

All except Martin began beating out the flames, using such weapons as they already held in their hands to batter down the door.

To Martin there was one thing paramount—the jewels.

In the midst of the confusion, Elaine, closely followed by her friend, Susie, made her way fearlessly into the stifling of smoke down the stairs.

"There are your jewels, Mr. Martin," cried Kennedy, kicking the precious burlap bag with his foot as if it had been so much ordinary merchandise, and turning toward what was in his mind the most important thing at stake—the direction taken by the agents of the Clutching Hand.

"Thank heaven!" ejaculated Martin, fairly pouncing on the bag and tearing it open. "They didn't get away with them—after all!" he exclaimed, examining the contents with satisfaction.

Events were moving rapidly.

The limousine had been standing innocently enough at the curb near the corner, with the taxicab close behind it.

Less than ten minutes after they had entered, three well-dressed men came out of the vacant shop, apparently from the tailor's above, and climbed leisurely into their car.

As the last one entered, he half turned to the taxicab driver, hiding from passers-by the sign of the Clutching Hand, which the taxicab driver returned in the same manner. Then the big car whirled up the avenue.

All this we learned later from a street sweeper who was at work near by.

Down below, while the police and detectives were putting out the fire, Kennedy was examining the wall of the cellar, looking for the spot where the crooks had escaped.

"A secret door!" he exclaimed, as he phased after tapping along the wall to determine its character. "You can see how the force of the explosion has loosened it."

Sure enough, when he pointed it out to us, it was plainly visible. One of the detectives picked up a crowbar and others, still with the hastily selected implements they had seized to fight the fire, started in to pry it open.

As it yielded Kennedy rushed his way through; Elaine, always utterly fearless, followed. Then the rest of us went through.

There seemed to be nothing, however, that would help us in the cellar next door, and Kennedy mounted the steps of a stairway in the rear.

The stairway led to a sort of store-room, full of barrels and boxes, but otherwise characterless. When I arrived Kennedy was gingerly holding up the smocks which the crooks had worn.

"We're on the right trail," commented Elaine as he showed them to her, "but where do you suppose the owners are?"

Craig shrugged his shoulders and gave a quick look about. Evidently they came in from and went away by the street," he observed, hurrying to the door, followed by Elaine.

On the sidewalk he gazed up the avenue, then catching sight of the street cleaner, called to him.

"Yes, sir," replied the man, stolidly, looking up from his work. "Lace three gentlemen come out and get into an automobile."

"Which way did they go?" asked Kennedy.

For answer the man jerked his thumb over his shoulder in the general direction uptown.

With keen glance Kennedy strained his eyes. Far up the avenue he could discern the car threading its way in and out, among the others, just about disappearing.

A moment later Craig caught sight of the vacant taxicab and raked his finger at the driver, who answered promptly by cranking his engine.

"You saw that limousine standing here?" asked Craig.

"Yes," nodded the chauffeur, with a show of alertness.

"Well, follow it," ordered Kennedy, jumping into the cab.

"Yes, sir."

Craig was just about to close the door when a slight figure flashed past us and a dainty foot was placed on the step.

"Please, Mr. Kennedy," pleaded Elaine, "let me go. They may lead to my father's slayer."

She said it so earnestly that Craig could scarcely have resisted if he had wanted to do so.

Just as Elaine and Kennedy were moving off I came out of the vacant store, with Bennett and the detectives.

"Craig!" I cried. "Where are you going?"

Kennedy stuck his head out of the window, and I am quite sure that he was not altogether displeased that I was not altogether displeased that I was not with him.

"Chasing that limousine," he shouted back. "Follow us in another car."

A moment later he and Elaine were gone.

Bennett and I looked about.

"There are a couple of cabs—down there," I pointed out at the other end of the block. "I'll take one, you take the other."

Who, besides Bennett, went in the other car I don't know, but it made no difference, for we soon lost them. Our driver, however, was a really clever fellow. Far ahead now we could see the limousine drive around a corner, making a dangerous swerve. Kennedy's cab followed, skidding dangerously near a pole.

But the taxicab was no match for the powerful limousine. On uptown they went, the only thing preventing the limousine from escaping being the fear of pursuit by traffic police if the driver let out speed. They were content to manage to keep just far enough ahead to be out of danger of having Kennedy overhaul them. As for us, we followed as best we could, on uptown, past the city line, and out into the country.

There Kennedy lost sight altogether of the car he was trailing. Worse than that, we lost sight of Kennedy. Still we kept on blindly, trusting to luck and common sense in picking the road.

I was peering ahead over the driver's shoulder, the window down, trying to direct him, when we approached a fork in the road. Here was a dilemma which must be decided at once, rightly or wrongly.

As we neared the crossroad I gave an involuntary exclamation. Beside the road, almost on it, lay the figure of a man. Our driver pulled up with a jerk and I was out of the car in an instant.

There lay Kennedy! Someone had blackjacked him. He was groaning and just beginning to show signs of consciousness as I bent over.

"What's the matter, old man?" I asked, helping him to his feet.

He looked about dazed a moment, then seeing me and comprehending, he pointed excitedly, but vaguely.

"Elaine!" he cried. "They've kidnapped Elaine!"

What had really happened, as we learned later from Elaine and others, was that when the crossroads was reached the three crooks in the limousine had stopped long enough to speak to an accomplice stationed there, according to their plan for a getaway. He was a tough-looking individual who might have been hobnobbing it to the city.

When, a few minutes later, Kennedy and Elaine had approached the fork, their driver had slowed up, as if in doubt which way to go. Craig had stuck his head out of the window, as I had done, and, seeing the crossroads, had told the chauffeur to stop. There stood the hobo.

"Did a car pass here, just now—a big car?" called Craig.

The man put his hand to his ear, as if only half comprehending.

"Which way did the big car go?" repeated Kennedy.

The hobo approached the taxicab sullenly, as if he had a grudge against cars in general.

One question after another elicited little that could be construed as intelligence. If Craig had only been able to see, he would have found out that, with his back toward the taxicab driver, the hobo held one hand behind him and made the sign of the Clutching Hand, glancing surreptitiously at the driver to catch the answering sign, while Craig gazed earnestly up the two roads.

At last Craig gave him up as hopeless. "Well—go ahead—that way," he indicated, picking the most likely road.

As the chauffeur was about to start he stalled his engine.

"Hurry!" urged Craig, exasperated at the delays.

The driver got out and tried to crank the engine. Again and again he turned it over, but somehow it refused to start. Then he lifted the hood and began to tinker.

"What's the matter?" asked Craig, impatiently jumping out and bending over the engine, too.

The driver shrugged his shoulders. "Must be something wrong with the ignition, I guess," he replied.

Kennedy looked the car over hastily. "I can't see anything wrong," he frowned.

"Well, there is," growled the driver. Precious minutes were speeding away as they argued. Finally with his characteristic energy, Kennedy put the taxicab driver aside.

"Let me try it," he said. "Miss Dodge, will you arrange that spark and throttle?"

Elaine, equal to anything, did so, and Craig bent down and cranked the engine. It started on the first spin.

"See," he exclaimed. "There wasn't anything, after all."

He took a step toward the taxicab.

"Mr. Kennedy—look out!" cried Elaine.

Craig turned. But it was too late. The rough-looking fellow had awakened to life. Suddenly he stepped up behind Kennedy with a blackjack.

As the heavy weight descended Craig crumpled up on the ground unconscious.

With a scream, Elaine turned and started to run. But the chauffeur seized her arm.

"Say, bo," he asked of the rough fellow, "what does Clutching Hand want with her? Quick! There's another cab likely to be along in a moment with that fellow Jameson in it."

The rough fellow, with an oath, seized her and dragged her into the

Only Fruit of Good Quality Sold at Profitable Prices

Florida growers this season were taught the lesson of the value of quality in oranges and grapefruit. Only those who sent to market clean, bright fruit, properly packed, received profitable prices. There was little or no demand for poorly packed, inferior fruit.

Growers are in the business for profit. They should realize now as never before that quality in fruit pack alone insures prices that give this. To safeguard the future those who have not already done so must plan to install the best packing house machinery obtainable.

Buy Skinner's "Satisfaction Guaranteed" Packing House Machinery and Equipment

Profit-producing fruit, that which goes through a modern packing house, makes a market for itself. Careful buyers pick out the best equipment.

We have recently added to our already large plant at Dunedin, and are making up a big stock of the "Satisfaction Guaranteed line" of packing machinery.

Begin now on your "quality first" campaign by writing for our new illustrated catalog. We will be glad to submit packing house plans and estimates, free.

A Remarkable Scene Greeted Us.

Martin at Mr. Martin's store directly. It lacked five minutes of noon when Kennedy and I dashed up before Martin's and dismissed our taxicab.

A remarkable scene greeted us as we entered the famous jewelry shop. Involuntarily I drew back. Squarely in front of us a man had suddenly raised a revolver and leveled it at us.

"Don't!" cried a familiar voice. "That is Mr. Kennedy!"

Just then, from a little knot of people, Elaine Dodge sprang forward with a cry and seized the gun.

Kennedy turned to her, apparently not half so much concerned about the automatic that yawned at him as about the anxiety of the pretty girl who had intervened. The too eager plain-clothes man lowered the gun sheepishly.

Sturtevant Martin was a typical society business man, quietly but richly dressed.

In the excitement I glanced about hurriedly.

Directly in front of me was a sign tacked up on a pillar, which read: "This store will be closed at noon today. Martin & Co."

All the customers were gone.

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

I very seldom go out of my ball-wick to talk politics but just now on the eve of the resignation of Secretary Bryan I will make a few predictions. I have been a life long friend and admirer of W. J. Bryan but I hate a quitter and so does every other red blooded American and that Bryan has quit right in the middle of a period of intensity in public affairs does not help him in the eyes of the people. If he really resigned because he was afraid of the time of President Wilson's letter then he should not be criticised, but now that the letter has been made public there seems to be no real reason for Mr. Bryan to be alarmed.

If he quit to engage in a campaign for the presidency then he has already lost because he will never again get the ear of the American people in the future as he has in the past. He has been great on theory but when the crucial moment then he quit and all his theories did not prevail in the crisis. President Wilson has demonstrated that he was even greater than Bryan and those who have been saying that Bryan was the man behind the administration will now have to acknowledge that Bryan has only been Secretary of State and nothing more and he could not hold this position when the country engaged in big affairs. Wilson has gained more prestige by his firm decision and he will be the logical candidate for all the Democrats and many of the progressive Republicans in the next campaign. He has proved to be the man while Bryan, our former idol only has the feet of clay and cold clay at that. I hate to lose my respect for W. J. Bryan but his actions do not suit me at all and that is all there is to it. This is my private opinion publicly expressed and others can believe as they wish.

Say,
Do you remember when you were a kid,

How they used to tell you
About throwing a pebble into a pond,
And how it made a ripple,
That went on and on, and on, and on,
Until it reached the distant shore,
Or something like that?
When you got big enough
You went to the minstrel show
And saw the end man
And the middle man
Show how a quarter of a dollar
Paid off ten dollars worth of debts
In about five minutes,
By passing from Tambo to Bones,
And from Bones to Rastus,
And from Rastus to Ephram,
And from Ephram to Lijah,
And so on around the half circle?
And then, when you were sent up
To college,
The high-brow Professor
Tried to explain the same thing?
You remember?
Well,
This is no talk on Political Economy
Or anything like that;
It's just a gentle hint
To the right effect. Now
Is a good time for you
To start a little of your own.
A good time
To start your dollars
Moving around the circle.
Pay off your debts.
Buy what you need,
And buy it now.
Get things started.
Put your money in circulation,
That's good sense,
And patriotism.
And good business.
Every ripple in the pond,
No matter how small
Helps break the stagnation,
Get busy
And make a splash.
"Buy it now,"
And get your money back,

HEALTH CAMPAIGN
Once more Florida is making a new advance in the fight for tuberculosis. It is putting into operation a plan which it is expected will secure a careful survey of the entire state to enumerate and locate the consumptives in Florida and spread a knowledge of the treatment of the disease that is within the reach of those of most limited means.

Florida's Board of Health does not oppose the sanitarium treatment of this disease. It advocates it for those whose financial circumstances permit them to take advantage of the splendid discipline and attention that it insures. The Board has realized that the erection of such sanitarium in Florida, for both races and sexes is beyond the practical financial reach of the state, when it is remembered that the state of Ohio has expended nearly three-quarters of a million dollars for such an institution, which has a capacity for 142 patients only, while the census of the state shows more than sixty thousand patients entitled to its benefits. But the Board appreciates and favors the practical value of the open air treatment which is within the reach of even the poorest. Within the past few weeks plans have been completed to put into operation, July 1, the district nursing idea and to cover Florida with this practical work.

Resolved, That an effort be made by this board to get authority of law to issue interest bearing time warrants, extending over a period of fifteen (15) years, to bear interest at six per cent (6 per cent), said issue to be for the sum of $100,000.00, $65,000.00 to be used in connecting up the Sanford and Orlando road; $15,000.00 to be used on the Geneva road, and $20,000.00 to be used on Oviedo road.

COUNTY HAPPENINGS

LAKE MARY ITEMS
W. V. Dunn made a trip to Sanford Monday.

R. N. Poston and Mrs. Evans made a business trip to Sanford Tuesday.

Miss Helen Iserman left Saturday for her home at Monroe, after closing a very successful term of school here.

A. K. Nelson left Saturday for his home in Iola, Kansas, after a two months visit with friends in the vicinity of Lake Mary and Sanford. During his stay here Mr. Nelson has made a great many friends who regretted seeing him leave.

The picnic here last Friday was fine and was attended by a large number of patrons and friends of the school. One of the most important features of the morning was the track meet. This consisted of nine events, with prize winners as follows:

100 yd dash (first), Donald Dunn.
50 yd dash (first), Adolph Sjoblom.

Three legged race (first), John Henry Lundquist, Elmer Thompson.
Sack race (first), Teddy Dunn.
Relay race (first team), Donald Dunn, Fred Lee, William Dunn, Elmer Thompson.

Potato race (first), Donald Dunn.
High Jump (first), Fred Lee.
Broad Jump (first), Fred Lee.

Then followed a bounteous dinner which displayed the hospitality and ability of the ladies.

The ladies' mail driving contest early in the afternoon was as exciting as it was interesting. Mrs. H. D. Durant won first prize, driving ten ten-penny nails into a solid two by ten board in less time than it takes to tell it. The program of the children in the afternoon was in two parts, the first being a cantata, for which the stage was decorated to represent Flowerland and the various flowers were impersonated by children dressed in appropriate costumes. The flowers were introduced by Donald Dunn and Fred Lee as heralds, and each sang a song in answer to the call of the heralds. The snow drop was represented by six first grade boys. The violet by Mattie Bell Poston. Forgetmenot by Caniela Durant. Daisy by Ruth Iserman. Poppy by Julia Nyland. Rose by Mary Sans Farino.

In the second part the idea of patriotism was carried out in decorations as well as in songs and recitations and drills of the children.

During the entire day ice cream cones were sold on the picnic grounds by the ladies of the C. E. Society for the benefit of the fund going towards painting the church. There was $9.60 cleared.

Some of the out of town visitors were Capt. R. B. Smith, W. F. Wickham, Mr. Norman Swanson, George Smith, Misses Winnie Smith and Flora Pearson, Mrs. Thompson and children and Mrs. Ballinger Row and Mrs. G. V. Albertson, H. Iserman and family. A good sermon was delivered by Bro. Albertson at 7:30 o'clock and everybody departed happy but tired.

Miss Iserman is an excellent teacher and all one could wish for. Many thanks to her for the past term. Much credit is due her for the praise Lake Mary gets for having such a good school, and it is the request of the patrons to have her here another term and it is believed that she left with that expectation.

at his mother's at Lake Mary, returning home Sunday evening.

Miss Ruth Bergquist made a short visit last week in Sanford to Mrs. Elmer Lundquist. A party was recently given in her honor at Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lundquist's on her birthday, but we did not get the names of those who attended.

Glad to see Miss Laura Parker out from town to attend Sunday school.

Mrs. J. A. Vaughn and Mrs. Thompson were callers on Mrs. Geo. Clark and also on Mrs. W. Evans on Thursday afternoon.

Anjelo Sansoverino attended the Lake Mary picnic. His sister Mary took a nice part there in the exercises.

J. A. Thompson was recently called to Kissimmee by the death of his half brother, Tommy.

Those who attended the picnic and closing day exercises of the Lake Mary school were well repaid, for a warm welcome and a splendid program awaited all who came. Those from our Sunday school were Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Robert and Andrew, Miss Olga Vihlen and Eric, Mrs. W. Evans and baby, Mrs. Ballinger, John Henry and Elmer Lundquist and in the auto Mr. Norman Swanson, Miss Ebba Stedt and Miss Edna Thompson. John Henry and Andrew wore the prize for the three-legged race. The day was perfect and everything else went off to match. All taking part did well and especially those in the boys' march, showing much practice on their part and the excellent training and patience of the teacher. We also very much enjoyed the talk of our Sunday school missionary and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Albertson of DeLand, the latter giving us a fine recitation.

Last Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church Rev. Steingmeyer and Dr. Phillips of Sanford favored with a sermon and heart to heart talk, which was very much appreciated by those present, and we hope to have them with us again when we get the organ fixed.

Dr. Denton comes out daily to see Mr. Geo. Clark, though his foot is progressing as well as could be expected. He hopes in a week perhaps to be able to step on it.

Mr. Elmer Lundquist and wife are moving out from town today, for the present into Mr. Axel Nyland's house.

Children's Day Sunday at the Presbyterian church.

MAKING LAKE FRONT A DIFFICULT TASK

BUT THE NEW DREDGE IS OBTAINING SOME GOOD RESULTS

The bulkheading will now proceed at a rapid gait if present indications mean anything. For the past few months the outlook for the early completion of the filling in has not been rosy, although the people had faith in the men who were in charge. Finally it has been decided to make some changes and last Saturday Messrs. Mahoney and Walker bought out the interest of Mr. Ogrum and a new man was placed in charge of the dredge work. He is Martin Nicholson of Jacksonville and having had twenty-two years of experience in this line of work ought to know the business thoroughly. Mr. Ogrum is an experienced contractor and concrete man but had only a slight knowledge of dredging and striking the hard pan and clay soil of the lake bed here the work was too difficult for his dredge machinery and finally gave it up, after a perfect understanding with his partners here and a satisfactory arrangement.

The seawall constructed by Mr. Ogrum is one of the best in the state and will be a monument to his name for many years to come. The filling in of the bulkhead is an arduous task and one that cannot be too lightly estimated but Mr. Nicholson thinks he has solved the difficulty and his dredge is now working full time and accomplishing results.

St. Augustine Has Fire

St. Augustine, June 18.—St. Augustine again suffered a serious conflagration Tuesday afternoon. A blaze which originated in the negro section of the town destroyed seventeen buildings, entailing a loss of not less than $29,000.

For a time it was impossible for the local department to get the fire under control. It was spreading rapidly and it was believed that it would be necessary to call for assistance from Jacksonville. After stubborn resistance for nearly two hours and after dynamiting several structures in the path of the blaze, it was finally gotten under control at 5 o'clock. The fire started about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The conflagration was centered in the best of the negro section of the city and the First Baptist church, colored, was among the structures reduced to ashes.

Because of the fact that the motor apparatus of the fire department was undergoing repairs, it was impossible for the firemen to reach the scene as early as otherwise.

Land Case Settled

The case of F. X. Miller vs. J. E. Pace in ejectment suit that has occupied the attention of the court here for the past ten days has been settled, the jury bringing in a verdict for the defendant, J. E. Pace. The case has attracted some attention on account of the bearing it would have on similar cases and the prominence of the parties to the suit. The land in question was owned by Mrs. Miller of Gainesville or her heirs and went to the state for taxes many years ago, afterward being purchased by Chas. H. Lefler and others of this city. The Miller heirs afterward claimed the land and brought suit for ejectment against the owners, one of whom happened to be J. E. Pace and his suit was the first one tried. The attorneys for the plaintiff were Jones & Jones of Orlando and T. B. Ellis, Jr., of Gainesville. The defendants were represented by Dickinson & Dickinson of Orlando and Sanford. The case was contested hotly by both sides and finally went to the jury with a verdict for the defendants as cited above.

George Nienpopoulos is in Jacksonville this week arranging for his fixtures for the new restaurant in the Woodruff block and also engaging a good chef. The new restaurant promises to be one of the best in south Florida.

Congregational Church

Next Tuesday the pastor leaves for a short vacation in South Florida; the remainder of the vacation, about two weeks, will be spent in Sanford; so there will be no church service for about one month, after next Sunday, the Sunday school and C. E. Society keeping up as usual. Next Sunday morning the theme for consideration will be "How to Read the Bible," the last on the series on the Bible.

In the evening the memorial service before the Modern Woodmen will be observed.

Our church will unite during July and August in the union services hereafter to be announced.

State News

A Gainesville dispatch says "With an enrollment of about 300, the largest in its history, the summer school for teachers opened at the University of Florida today. The exercises incident to the auspicious opening included welcoming addresses by President Murphee of the university, Dr. J. L. Kelley, superintendent of Alachua county schools, and Captain George M. Lynch, state supervisor of rural schools.

One of the first things taken up by the Chamber of Commerce for St. Augustine, when this active trade body was formed some two years ago, was the question of securing an eighteen-hole golf course for St. Augustine. It was realized that the popularity of no resort city could be maintained without this popular game, and that the two nine-hole courses which St. Augustine has were by no means sufficient for the city's needs.

The third district in Brevard county, the Melbourne district, Tuesday voted a bond issue of $150,000 for good roads. The vote for the bonds was two to one. This assures the paving of another link in the great highway rapidly being built down the East Coast through the various counties as the East Coast highway will be paved from Melbourne south to the St. Lucie county line. It also assures the completion of the west branch of the Dixie highway from here to Kissimmee.

A Lady Lake dispatch says: "Lyle Robbins, aged 17 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Robbins was drowned in Lake Hermosa Saturday afternoon while bathing in the lake just in front of his home. He was a good swimmer and diver but it is supposed he became unconscious while swimming and sank to rise no more.

By a vote averaging 70 to 40, New Smyrna Tuesday decided to issue $42,000 in bonds for school purposes. The contest over the issue of bonds has been very spirited, and on the last days grew very bitter, both sides working with vim, vigor and vituperation. The proposition was submitted in three sections: For new school site, $5,000—vote, 60 for to 52 against. For new building, $35,000—vote, 64 for to 54 against. For refunding indebtedness—vote, 90 for to 26 against.

An election was held Tuesday at Seabreeze and Daytona Beach to vote on the question of bonding for $50,000 for building and improving school facilities. The election carried by a vote of 48 for to 3 against.

The jitney bus is working wonders in DeLand and Volusia county. With a fare of only 40 cents to DeLeon Springs and return (22 miles); $1.00 to Daytona Beach and return (50 miles); 10 cents to Blue Lake and return, 4 miles, the fare by auto is cheaper than by rail. For years some of our people have been hoping that a trolley system would be built connecting the St. Johns with the Halifax and the coast. No trolley system could be operated at this rate. With good roads and a more hickly settled country between DeLand and the coast, these rates can be maintained. However, it costs about 4 cents a mile to run the average automobile, without counting the expense of the driver; at 2 cents per mile per passenger, at least 4 passengers must be carried to pay expenses. The jitney is a great convenience for those who do not own cars.

Prof. Harvey is in the city this week looking after the piano business for the Cable Co. He is now residing in Jacksonville but his many Sanford friends are always glad to see him here.

NEW FACTORIES START SANFORD FACTORY CITY

BRASS FOUNDRY AND MACHINE WORKS AND A NEW BOTTLING ESTABLISHMENT LATEST ADDITIONS

Sanford is rapidly coming into the class of Florida cities that foster manufacturing of all kinds and while the city as a city offers very little in bonuses the location of the city appeals so strongly to the man who contemplates the site for a factory that he is usually willing to come without the customary grant of lands and free taxes. This city has no large factories but many smaller plants are springing up in various parts of the city and there are others contemplated.

Among the new ones opened up this week are the Sanford Brass Foundry & Machine Works and the Bludwine Bottling Co.

The former is under the master hand of C. B. Rhoades, better known as "Dad" Rhoades and he is recognized as one of the best machinists in the business. Mr. Rhoades has recently built a freeproof machine shop and foundry on Second street and the A. C. L. tracks, just south of the shop of S. O. Shinholser and the plant is well equipped to take care of all the business of this part of Florida. The Sanford Brass Foundry & Machine Works is just what the name implies and Mr. Rhoades will make all kinds of brass castings for all kinds of purposes. Everything in the machinery line will be repaired in this shop and this will be a great convenience to the people of this section who can now get all their work done here at home. Another specialty of the new machine shop will be the oxyacetylene welding which is an innovation in the world of mechanics and demonstrates that Dad Rhoades has an up to the minute shop in every particular.

The Bludwine Bottling Co. has opened up a factory in the Pico building and have a well equipped place for the bottling of the famous drink called Bludwine. Harris & Robinson are the proprietors of the new plant and they have the counties of Seminole, Lake, Volusia and Orange for the sole right to bottle and sell Bludwine. This new drink is a vegetable compound and is not a dope of any kind and has proven to be most popular in every section where it has been introduced.

Messrs. Harris & Robinson expect to carry an advertisement in The Herald telling the people all about Bludwine and they will also advertise with posters and other matter. For the present they will confine their attention exclusively to the bottling of Bludwine and make this drink their specialty.

They extend a cordial invitation to the public to call on them at their factory in the Pico block and see how the Bludwine is made and bottled and also try a sample bottle.

ADDRESS OF REV. STEINMEYER TO ODD FELLOWS

ELMER E. ROGERS

Last Sunday afternoon, June 13th local Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 27, held memorial services in the Star Theatre. The services were impressively conducted by Acting Noble Grand, Mr. Geo. E. Taratus. As they were being given one was made to feel something of the depth of brotherhood in the human soul when, if only for a few hours it is free from action in the vicious hand to mouth struggle for existence in modern life.

When attending such a meeting, sad though it be, one rejoices for the flame of divine LOVE, TRUTH and FRIENDSHIP, kept burning by such fraternities as the I. O. O. F. In fact there comes out of one's heart the conviction that such fraternities are the divinely anointed tenders of the sacred fire unto the glad day when all men may be joined and held in one universal brotherhood HERE ON EARTH by a more practical knowledge of the inspired plan of Jesus Christ.

I. O. O. F., like Free Masonry had its rise out of the human soul to promote and preserve unity, and to practice genuine fellowship among members of their craft.

Both had their beginning with the artisans of their respective crafts for their mutual protection and recognition as well as for the advancement of their noble arts.

Both orders having had their birth from out the womb of the working class struggled to maintain their universality.

The history of Free Masonry being much older, as an organization, holds thousands of hallowed memories, gathered amidst the rise and crash of empires and tense conflicting opinions.

The history of both orders is sacred, not alone to their immediate members but to all mankind because their principles and practices have become a world force, a practical demonstration of LOVE, TRUTH, JUSTICE, FRIENDSHIP.

When contemplating the history of these noble orders, rising out of the working class and others, of a kindred character; when reviewing the life and mission of Jesus Christ; when studying the great steps taken by the race in successive advanced stages, it is too much to hope that the solidarity of mankind may be yet achieved wherein economic justice for each individual in society, from the lowest to the highest may be realized?

If we have faith in Jesus as the only begotten Son of God, we must likewise have faith in the realization of the prayers of Jesus who taught his disciples to pray for God's kingdom on "earth as it is in heaven."

The following program was rendered:

- 1. Opening Ode, sung by Brother Odd Fellows.
- 2. Invocation by Rev. Steinmeyer.
- 3. Song, "We Will Never Say Good Bye," sung by Messrs. C. L. Cook, E. T. Woodruff, P. S. Fortson and W. H. Wright.
- 4. Memorial Words to Bro. W. H. Underwood, deceased, July 15th, 1914, by Acting Noble Grand.
- 5. Song, by quartet and audience, "Nearer My God to Thee."
- 6. Brief address by Rev. Steinmeyer who said in part:

"The life and character of Jesus Christ brought to the world a message which takes from DEATH its venom and sting. Under the inspiration, illumination and instruction of Jesus Christ, we look at death and the loss of a comrade with hope, with a sadness void of utter despair because we feel and know that only a mist exists between us and our dear ones in heaven, where "We Will Never Say Good Bye."

To the heart filled with the Savior's truths, DEATH, is merely going down to the depot with our loved-ones to bid them Godspeed to the throne of mercy, to the throne where we shall soon join. Therefore, when we consider the purposes of these services it is only to recall those men who have preceded us, to keep them in sacred memory as our brothers.

When a comrade says "good bye" he takes on immortality and passes up the golden paths of Heaven, and thus, with this confidence one can look DEATH the grim monster in the face without the icy shudder born of pagan fear and hopelessness.

There is but one death mentioned in the "Good Book" which we should fear and that is the Second Death—that Death is one of horror; it is the Death that closes the light of Heaven!

It is not expected of me on this occasion to eulogize Mr. Underwood or any other brother. It is no man's province to do so, for the best we can reign here for ALL is my prayer. In the broader sense we can do justice to no man's life, for it is the book of each man's life, written on each page of his daily discourse among us that is vital. And being his autobiography it lies open to you

Mrs. Barnes in Recital

The following from the Whitville (N. C.) News will be of interest to the many Sanford friends of Mrs. J. W. Barnes:

Whiteville people who failed to attend the recital at the auditorium last Monday evening missed an entertainment such as is rarely to be obtained outside city concert halls. Mrs. Olga White Barnes proved her ability as a reader and impersonator to the tune of repeated encores.

Mrs. Barnes is perhaps at her best in dialect work, her impersonations of the humorous negro characters being perfect in every detail. Her dramatic work, however is excellent, for she possesses a wonderful control of the voice by which she can hold and touch her hearers without having recourse to the exaggerated gestures and expressions so common among readers. Worthy of special mention is her interpretation of that beautiful work by Henry Van Dyke: "The Story of the Other Wise Man."

Pictures at Parish House

Tomorrow evening, June 19, there will be shown as usual a feature film of three reels and in addition a reel of comic pictures. The three reel feature will be "The Tip-Off," an American drama. These pictures come from the Balboa-Pathé Company and should be the very finest. The first show will start at seven fifteen.

Clam Chowder at Smyrna

New Smyrna will celebrate the glorious Fourth on the fifth of July and they want every one to help them celebrate and hereby extend a hearty invitation to Sanford people to come over to the beach on that day and eat clam chowder with them. There will be other events and of course the ocean is still free to all who desire to go in bathing and the fishing is good also.

to be cherished in memory according to the deeds of its writer, or to be forgotten according to the deeds of its writer "for as a tree falleth so it shall lie."

Our lives need MORE FLOWERS NOW. If we do not in times of trials and stress pluck roses and place them close to the lives of comrades then we have lost our opportunity to demonstrate brotherhood.

Under the burdens of life we need the looks of approval of our brethren to fight life's battles and to fight temptations, remembering that it is not the deed we HAVE DONE but the deed we have LEFT UNDONE that hurts at the setting of life's sun.

How many of us did the son's part or the brother's part in life, as looking back to our parental homes, we see in memory' vision some shrouded form being taken to a sainted sepulchre?

How many of us plucked the rose of applied LOVE, TRUTH and FRIENDSHIP, and placed it near the nostrils of the dear-ones?

Yes! Yes! let us not wait until the loved one or until our brother lay in cold, clammy death to give flowers. Let us do it NOW in WORDS, LOOKS and ACTS, and thus help to bring God's Kingdom near into this life, that TRUTH, LOVE and FRIENDSHIP may reign here for ALL is my prayer.

7. Song, "That Beautiful Land," sung by quartet, consisting of Messrs. C. L. Polk, E. T. Woodruff, P. S. Fortson and K. R. Murrell.

8. Benediction by Rev. Steinmeyer.

BUSINESS BETTER AND NEW BUILDING ARE BEING BUILT

Columbus, Ga., June 18.—The Industrial Index says in its issue for this week:

"Two Alabama counties have arranged for the construction of a highway through a rich agricultural and mineral district. Another Alabama county has awarded a contract for the building of a first class road. A district of a Florida county has voted $400,000 of road construction bonds and a district of another Florida county has awarded a contract for the construction of 22 miles of roads; still other Florida counties and districts will vote upon the issuance of road construction bonds in the following sums: $600,000, $350,000, $110,400 and $90,000. A district of a Mississippi county has voted $50,000 of road construction bonds.

"These items are from the construction news of this week. In some instances the figures involved are somewhat larger than usual, but as a whole these items reflect very accurately the road building activity in the southeast.

"There cannot be a full degree of progress without the providing of first class highways, and there cannot be construction of first class highways without progress; so that the road building in the south demonstrates in unmistakable manner the general development of this section.

"Eastern owners of an 80,000 acre tract in Florida will improve it and subdivide it into small farms, the improvements to include the construction of an electric railway and building of highways.

Contracts have been awarded for the construction in Rome, Ga., of three river bridges to cost a total of $210,000.

"Among the items of construction work to be done as reported this week, are:

Counterfeit Dollars in State

St. Petersburg, June 18.—Deputy United States Marshal Reynolds, of Tampa was in St. Petersburg for several days on private business, but while here made an investigation of a complaint that counterfeit money is in circulation here. He said that somebody sent him a silver dollar, undoubtedly a counterfeit, and asked that investigation be made of its origin. It is understood that a very small amount of the bad money has appeared in this city and it is thought that it found its way here accidentally.
