DON'T ADVERTISE UNLESS
You are absolutely on the level with your customers. Unless your goods are so excellent that everyone who buys them once will want them again—
Unless there is real need for what you make—
Unless you appreciate that it takes a long time and costs a lot of money to educate one million people to associate your trade mark with a definite standard of quality—
Unless your business is built on the firm foundation of economical production and sound finance.

VISION

The Empire builder is always the man of Vision!
He sees quicker, straighter, further, surer, than his fellowmen.
His vision is telescopic, overcomes refraction, annihilates curvatures, barriers, everything which stands between him and his goal. Before others have grouped essentials, he has marshalled facts. Columbus, Galileo, Washington, Edison, Flagler, were men of Vision.
Mr. Leonard Schultz, of New York City, who designed the Grand Central Station, Biltmore and Commodore Hotels of New York City and the Miami-Biltmore Hotel of Coral Gables, and who for many years has been working with big men, says that George E. Merrick possesses greater Vision and more courage to carry his ideals to completion, than any man he has ever known.
George E. Merrick's Vision of a great Miami—the powerful Metropolitan City of the American Tropics which today is just appearing over the horizon for most people—was realized more than two years ago. He saw—what every careful student of this section sees in the region south of Miami—the wonderful future Winter Fairyland of America. So his objective became Biscayne Bay with a distinctive Coral Gables glorified and enlarged and reaching all the way north from Chapman Field to West Flagler Street, and the development here with incomparable bay frontage at command of the finest of all American waterfront properties. His plans have been completed.
The purchase of the land has been consummated. The Vision will be made an accomplished reality.
Men of Vision always open the door of Opportunity for others. In the wonderful development of Coral Gables the wise and shrewd will find rare advantages for profitable investment.

With the breaking of ground last Thursday afternoon on east First Street for the new Forrest Lake Hotel, Sanford's career as a tourist resort formally began.

For many years—in fact, Sanford is much older than many larger cities in Florida—Sanford has been content with conditions as they existed, with conditions which pleased our fathers, and precious little effort there was toward growth and development.

And from this agricultural backing Sanford has shown remarkable development. It has many miles of beautiful paved streets, and it has many miles of well constructed, substantial buildings, but at that, it cannot be denied that Sanford has lagged behind other Florida cities in the rapidity of development.

This can be laid to but one cause. Until the present time Sanford has made no bid for tourists and it is the business of entertaining them which has proved so valuable to other Florida cities and which has built such great cities as Miami and St. Petersburg.

Now the die is cast. Sanford has awakened to the realization that if it is ever to become the leading city of central Florida, the place it so rightfully deserves, it must cast aside old fashioned methods, and nothing daunting, must, like leading tourist resorts, which we are now to imitate, ever go forward with but one goal in view, to provide accommodations and entertainment for tourist such as they cannot find in any other city in Florida.

One tourist hotel is now under construction, but that is not enough. A handful of tourists coming in on one train could fill that in five minutes after it is opened. Sanford needs at least one other hotel, and more than that, it needs several large apartment houses, and many residences which can be rented to tourists for the duration of the season.

This is what Sanford people have to look to. They must build for the future. They must see to it that no means is overlooked for securing outside capital for local development. They must put their own into accommodations and facilities for the entertainment of tourists and they must see that every inducement possible is offered toward getting others to construct hotels and apartment houses in Sanford.

"I'M THE GINK"

Several years ago there was a young man attending one of the eastern colleges who was well known in the vicinity of Broadway and Forty Second Street and who had gained the reputation of being something of a frequenter of roof gardens, cabarets and exclusive club parties.

If by chance he dropped into a restaurant where he was not so well known and where only casual service was given him, the same as anyone else might expect to receive, he would carelessly brush a plate, or a glass, off the table, the resultant crash immediately attracting waiters from all directions.

How often do we see men like that, men who simply cannot wait their turn in line as the rest must? None of us has ever stood in line waiting to buy tickets at a baseball game, that some boob didn't dash up and declaring he didn't have time to wait, beg us to get a ticket for him too.

We won't attempt to preach a moral from these illustrations. We believe they speak for themselves. But our advice is don't do it. Don't be always expecting special considerations just because you are you—and really nothing else. If you do, you simply remind us of "The Gink" who says of himself:

"I'm the gink who simply can't endure waiting. If I can't get immediate service at a restaurant or barber shop I go out in a huff. I demand instant attention in a shop of any kind. If I don't get it I complain loudly and long. I bawl out every one and leave. Of course I only make an idiot of myself and no one cares whether I stay or not. I have an exaggerated idea of my own importance, so I demand instant service."

IN ALL BUSINESS doctrine is there anything simpler or more axiomatic than that, if the seller is to profit, the buyer must profit too? And yet, in how many concerns do you find among the chief executives even one who devotes a major part of his time and energies to considering what will profit the buyer most?

"Any man selling to others is in a position of trust," says Jackson Johnson. "It is his obligation to give full value. This is true of the man who sells his services, and of the man who sells the product of a highly complicated system of factories. Waste and extravagance are a breach of trust."

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

The late Paul Armstrong had two favorite stories. One of these he called by the title "Pansy and the Pillsener," and while it was funny, it would never do for publication in a newspaper having a family circulation. The other was what is known as a parlor story.

It dealt with a down-and-out, who made a precarious living as a sandwich man. Encased front and back, like a turtle in its shell, between broad boards which bore advertisements for a dairy lunch he marched the bowery all day long for wages barely sufficient to keep body and soul together.

One day, as he plodded his weary route, he saw a shining coin lying upon the sidewalk. Instantly he set his foot upon it, and then stooping with a difficulty because of his wooden waistcoat, he clutched it in his eager fingers and raised it to his eyes. Then his heart inside of him gave a great throb of joy. It was a twenty-dollar gold piece. He was wealthy beyond his wildest ambitions.

Across the street was an excavation for a new building. He hurried thither. Standing on the edge of the digging he unbuckled the straps which bound the squares of planking to him, and, kicking them to pieces with a glad exultant cry, he flung the shattered emblems of his servitude down into the hole below. Then straightaway he departed for the nearest saloon, and standing in, a triumphant figure even in his flaunting tatters, he snapped the precious gold piece down upon the bar and called for a drink of whiskey. It was to have been the first of a long and gorgeous succession of drinks of whiskey.

Someone jostled him in the side. He turned his head to see who might be interrupting his happy dreams, and when he looked back again his double eagle mysteriously had vanished, and the barkeeper was motioning him to depart.

He protested naturally. Whereupon the barkeeper reached for the big starter, swung it with a skill born of long practice, and struck him squarely between the eyes. A moment later the ex-sandwich man found himself sprawling on the sidewalk, his happy visions gone forever.

A prey to melancholy, filled with deep disappointment and yet deeper sense of injustice, he got upon his feet and started to limp away.

Next door to the saloon was a basement barber shop. From it at that instant there emerged a gentleman of a benevolent aspect, his pink jowls newly scraped and his face powdered. As he climbed up the steps to the level of the sidewalk this gentleman bent over to fasten a loosened shoelace.

Now, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the derelict never before had been seen the missionary, but as the latter stooped, presenting before him an expanse of black coat tails, the misanthrope hauled off and delt the gentleman stranger a terrific kick.

With a yell of astonishment and pain the clergyman landed ten feet away.

"What did you mean by that?" he demanded, rubbing the seat of his trousers with both hands. "Why did you kick me?"

"Oh," said the ex-sandwich man, in tones of an uncontrollable annoyance, "you're always tying your shoestrings!"

As Brisbane Sees It

His Name Writ on Clouds. 25 Ponies, 13 Grooms. One Man, 88 Operators. Paying the Piper Well BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

JOHN W. DAVIS'S campaign manager (you remember that he ran for President) are sued for $84,220, spent on advertising, much was spent on sky writing, which seems strangely appropriate.

A great, and disappointed poet chose for his tombstone. "Here lies one whose name was writ in water." Mr. Davis, who enjoyed his campaign and took defeat good-naturedly, can substitute "clouds" for water in his epitaph.

SPEAKING OF economy, Mr. President, what is gained by sending the American army polo players to compete with Great Britain's army players across the ocean?

Six army players, with twenty-five ponies and thirteen grooms, sail on the Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka to-day.

Are those grooms American soldiers? Did they enlist to be used as private servants for gentlemen playing polo?

Does it make the army more efficient, in these days of tanks and flying machines, to have officers knocking little white balls along the grass?

WHO AUTHORIZES the expedition? How do you think it will strike the average farmer? Thirteen grooms for twenty-five ponies will seem a good many to him. He and his hired man takes care of tea horses and cows, besides plowing. They don't manure their horses' hoofs.

IN THE World War, John Lennoroth had his back broken, both legs mangled, and is not discouraged, in spite of the fact that he has just undergone his eighty-eighth surgical operation. With both legs cut off at the stumps, he managed an automobile, especially constructed, and drove alone from California to Walla Walla, Washington, on the way to operation No. 88.

THAT IS a tribute to a brave man's courage, and the fact that he still lives is a tribute to surgical skill and science. In old days, before surgeons understood germs and infection, the chances against living through eighty-eight operations would have been millions to one.

PETRILLO, PRESIDENT of the Musicians' Union, announces a new wage scale for the eighty-two members of Chicago's Civic Opera orchestra that will give them an average of $155 per week each. That would interest Beethoven, Mozart and other old-fashioned musicians. They worked for less. The Chicago players receive the highest salaries paid anywhere in the world for regular orchestra work.

ALL AMERICANS, especially good Americans living in Hawaii, will be interested in the trial flight of the new giant seaplane made in Seattle, soon to be launched.

This big flying boat, equipped with two engines of 800 horse power each will fly 2,400 miles, without coming down.

She will make a non-stop flight to Honolulu, and, built with a metal hull, the big air boat will be able to land on a rough sea.

The building of such a ship is a good sign. A few thousand more of various sizes, especially swift pursuit planes, would make this country safe, and make other nations very polite, and less inclined to manage our government for us.

Ask any well informed Briton or Italian how European countries feel toward France.

For each of her 4,000 fighting airplanes, France is respected profoundly.

IF YOU bought German war bonds, national or municipal, issued before the war began, Germany plans to pay you 5 per cent of the bonds' value in good money. But don't be too joyful about it.

You will be paid with new bonds, bearing no interest, and with none of the principal payable as long as Germany is paying reparations.

Thus Germany's national and municipal debts are cut down to three and a half billion marks, or about $70,000,000, one-fifth of our war loan to Britain or France.

What with this sealing down and her intelligently humorous selling of worthless paper marks for real money, Germany would have won the war, financially speaking, had it not been for the French reparation demands.

WE THINK we invented trusts over here, as we did the flying machine. If we did, Europe has improved on our trusts as much as on our airplanes. France and Germany have formed an international trust to raise and keep up the price of fertilizers. American farmers may pay more to that international trust than they ever paid to any home-made trust.

AND GERMANY has formed her entire dye industry into one gigantic trust eclipsing anything ever tried.

The day of little business has gone by. Only big units can survive in modern competition.

Americans must realize it, encourage American concerns as big as any in the world, and learn to control them.

YEA, BO, THE DUCK IS A BEAUTIFUL SWIMMER

DAN DOBBS SAYS

Gone are the days when we get three summers out of a suit. The man who feels sorry for himself should. The man who gets by on his looks doesn't go very far. Money doesn't mean everything but everything seems to mean money. It is estimated that not enough people are saving for vacation time. People, with or without teeth, may enjoy learning a Chicago dentist is in jail. The holes burned in shirts by cigarettes would feed a few mouths for quite a while. Congress reminds us of an alarm clock. It always gets roused for doing the best it can. This tree of knowledge you hear about has limbs which break off if you go out too far. We are sorry for the man without a country, especially when it is spring in the country. Lightning struck a movie house in Kansas City, perhaps because it read the posters out front. The height of ignorance is sitting up all night because the washwoman has your pajamas. There are a great many lies told simply because the truth of ten sounds like a poor excuse. A fool seeks the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow while his wise brothers seek the rainbow.

THE SHOALS COMMISSION

MACON TELEGRAPH

The President's appointment of a commission to study the Muscel Shoals problem, with which we have fiddled around for six years, was about the most sensible thing that could have been done in the premises—the circumstances being that we have a Congress where any sort of action on any sort of question can be blocked by one or two men who have the lung power. Brain power is not necessary.

It appears now that a commission would have been better from the first, although a commission probably would have gotten into the same difficulties that the Congress has and would possibly have not accomplished any more toward settling the future of Muscel Shoals. The present commission has the advantage of all the tons of argument and literature, pro and con, and may be able to arrive at some conclusion that preserves the integrity of the government's investment in Muscel Shoals, and at the same time render a service to the farmers and manufacturers.

The weakness of the commission is that it already has a political aspect. Three of its five members are politicians and all three of them favor leasing the Shoals to private enterprises. That may be found to be the best way—and the Telegraph believes it is—but three men are under the suspicion of having already formed their conclusion. Those who have different mind will regard their work with suspicion that they are not trying to find an impartial solution but are trying to justify their own conclusions. Senator Dill is a lame duck from South Carolina who made a speech on the floor of the Senate praising the President and cursing the Democrats. Any man has a right—and some measure of justification—to do that if he wants to, but it should not constitute the reason for this selection on a commission of this sort. Representative McKinzie is the leader of the House and Russell F. Bower, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is of the same mind. They approach the question as jurors who have heard the evidence, read the papers and formed their own conclusion.

Whether they succeed or not depends upon whether they can convince the opponents of their attitude that they have evidence much beyond a reasonable doubt in favor of their plan.

There is no reason for further delay in doing something one way or another with the Shoals. We of Georgia will not benefit by it, except in the most remotely indirect way, but as a unit of the national government we want to see an end to the muddling.

THE SOUTH MARCHES ON

ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

That the South is soon to dominate the textile industries of the country is shown by the following figures quoted in The Manufacturers' Record from the 1925 textile directory of the Southern Railway system, which is just off the press:

This directory lists 1015 plants operating 13,006,246 spindles, 257,445 looms and 43,473 knitting machines located at points served by Southern Railway lines at the end of 1924.

In all the Southern States there are now 17,359,420 spindles, or 45.82 per cent of the total machinery, engaged in the spinning of cotton in the United States. There was a net increase of 612,374 spindles in the South in 1924 and a net decrease of 392,545 spindles in the states out side of the South.

The remarkable growth of the textile industry in the South is shown in a graphic way by diagrams, one of which shows that while the South had only a very small proportion (6.27 per cent.) of the total spindles in the United States in 1880, there has been a steady increase from that year until on January 1, 1925, the South had 45.82 per cent of the total. In states outside of the South the number of spindles increased slowly until the maximum of 820,981,175 was reached in 1922. Since that year there has been a decrease of 435,058 in those states, as compared with an increase in the South in the same period of 1,393,039.

These figures are of particular interest to Western North Carolina. Our mountain counties are ideally suited to work of this kind. With our waters powers, mild climate, economical living conditions and an unrivaled supply of white labor quick to learn and remarkably apt in the textile arts, we can look forward to a gigantic development of this industry here. As the search for plant locations becomes more and more intensive, western North Carolina will more and more attract the capital necessary to make this development a fact. In the mean time, we can do nothing better than to continue to make known to the East and North the excellent facilities that are here for all branches of textile manufactures.

MUSSOLINI'S REAPPEARANCE

NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE

Mussolini's reappearance on the sixth anniversary of the founding of the Fascist organization was aggressive and spectacular enough to shatter recent rumors of his complete physical break-down. He wore a black shirt and talked old-fashioned Fascist doctrine in his Roman followers. Since then he has been seen frequently in public, and Rome dispatches say that he will soon resume his work as Premier.

It is a mistake to assume that the Fascist party would disappear if Mussolini's meteoric career were suddenly cut short. Fascism stands for something very definite—a political program which appeals to Italian imagination as no rival program can. The party has demonstrated its capacity to rule Italy, to restore domestic order and to revive prosperity. Fedoroni is a statesman of high aims and great ability. The conservative and progressive elements in the nation are behind Fascism because it has done a great work of reconstruction and has rekindled the spirit of nationalism and patriotism. No other party has an equal claim on popular respect or equal strength with the classes which dominate Italian politics. Fascism is the gospel of the agricultural group in middle Italy—the most powerful group in the kingdom.

Mussolini's personality contributed immensely to the success of the Fascist revolution. He is a born leader—a more conspicuous popular idol than D'Annunzio. He has the gift of dramatizing himself and his cause. But there is more than that to Fascism, which for the first time in years has applied economic sanity to Italy's problems of post-war readjustment. The Fascist government, through the public service, made the state-operated railroads pay, balanced the budget, increased revenues and reduced debt.

There is much that Mussolini may still do for Italy. But since the war no other Italian statesman has done anything like as much for her as he has.

Jack Delaney May Fight Gene Tunney

CHICAGO, Mar. 31.—Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, received an offer tonight for a match with Jimmy Delaney, of St. Paul, in San Francisco Apr. 22, but withheld acceptance pending the outcome of negotiations for a match with Tom Gibbons. Tunney left for Hot Springs, Ark., to resume training to be in condition if either match develops. Gibson said he may close for the Delaney match too. Young Stirling who defeated Tommy Loughran in San Francisco last Saturday, was offered a match with Tunney, but declined, according to Gibson.

First steps in the establishment of an aviation field in New Haven have been announced and the New Haven Air Terminal Company has been formed to operate the field, which will be on the East Shore, adjoining the harbor.

A NEW FIND GOLD STARTS NEW STAMPEDE

Business Created Are Reminiscent of Camps of Manhattan and Rawhide, 20 Years Ago in Desert of Nevada

Give Away $5,000 In Specimen Rock

Mining Camp, Complete in All Details, Including Newspaper, Comes Almost Overnight

GILBERT, Nev., Mar. 31. — Days of the old Western frontier are recalled vividly by this new mining camp, a gold boom town that has sprung up at a place where only rocks and sand and distant mountains were visible a few weeks ago.

Scenes here are reminiscent to old-timers of such camps as Goldfield, Manhattan and Rawhide 20 odd years ago.

Gilbert now has a Main street, lined with wooden structures of all sizes and sorts. There is even a weekly paper, the Gilbert Record. The hillside are dotted with 100 or more tents. Almost hourly big trucks arrive from Topiash and Mina, the nearest railroad points, loaded with lumber, coal, machinery and supplies. New houses are going up, and almost every line of business incident to a mining camp is represented. There are stores, restaurants, an assay office, law offices, a garage and service station, a dance hall.

The real story of Gilbert starts in 1896, when Charles Lampton, a desert prospector, picked up a piece of rich gold quartz near an Indian camp in the Monte Cristo range. Lampton spent many months searching the hill for the outcropping from which the gold had come. Finally he gave up and wandered away to other fields.

J. B. Gilbert took up the search. He met with no more success than Lampton. His sons, however, persisted in the hunt. The older Gilbert died many years ago. Nearly 23 years later his three sons, Fred, Herman and Logan, located the Last Hope. They had called it that because they had planned to make it their last effort to wring gold from those hills.

The Gilbert boys began to get values from the surface. They took out a shipment, and the excitement started. A few days later Dick Roycraft, a veteran prospector, working for the Gilberts, discovered the "jewelry shop" in a badger hole on top of a hill now known as the Black Mammoth. Some of the rock assayed $1 or more a pound. This started a stampede.

The exposed rock on the surface of the Gilbert holdings is so rich that an armed guard patrols the place night and day. Thousands have visited the strike. It is estimated that not less than $5,000 has been given away in specimens. Hundreds of prospectors are in the surrounding hills. Many new strikes have been reported. Every day the interest grows more intense. Oil time gold-seekers are coming back from Mexico, from Canada, and elsewhere.

While the Gilberts' Last Hope first drew attention to the new gold field, it is the Black Mammoth and the Homestake that bid fair to make the camp world famous. The Homestake is just beyond Black Mammoth, and recently it gave up a ledge 1,000 feet long which pans gold the entire distance. There are eight different locations where gold specimens may be taken from the surface at random. Much development work is in progress.

BUSINESS GAIN IS REPORTED BY RESERVE BANK

the review, "are less than at the beginning of the year, and on Mar. 11 were about 10 million dollars less than on the corresponding report date last year. On Mar. 11 other stocks and bonds were approximately $500,000 more than a month earlier and $2,500,000 more than on Mar. 12, 1924. Deposits for the reporting banks reached a level on Mar. 11 higher than on any other report date in over two years.

Building Permits: Indicative of a large volume of building in prospect, the review shows that permits issued at 20 reporting cities during February amounted to $13,155,489, the second largest figure during the six years these figures have been gathered by the Federal Reserve Bank. The review also shows that permits issued in February at Miami, Lakeland, Tampa, and Nashville were "more than double those issued in February last year, and increases are also shown at seven other cities.

"The decline in production of bituminous coal in the United States which began in January continued through February," says the review, figures for each week being smaller than those for the preceding week.

Receipts of turpentine and resin during the last two or three months of the Naval Stores year, which ends Mar. 31, are usually at a low level.

Drastic Statutes Framed For Liquor Traffic In Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Mar. 31.—The purchaser of intoxicating liquors is equally as guilty of having violated the prohibition laws in Indiana as the bootlegger, under provisions of the Wright bone dry bill just passed by the state legislature and which becomes effective in June.

Under the new law, considered among the most drastic, possession of liquor also is a crime. A defect in the previous state prohibition act caused several courts to rule that possession of itself, was not a crime. The definition of liquor" also has been simplified, and included in the list are Jamaica ginger and lemon extract "reasonably likely or intended to be used as a beverage." Wine, however, is exempted for sacramental purposes.

Provision also was made for more severe penalties for first, second and subsequent violations of the law. It denies the court the power to suspend sentence in third and subsequent convictions under the general prohibition section, and in second and subsequent convictions in the clause prohibiting transportation. Violations of both sections is made a felony, and prison sentence on any conviction is made mandatory.

The penalty for public intoxication has been increased, making it a fine of from $10 to $100, to which may be added six months' imprisonment in jail. Second conviction of driving an automobile while intoxicated is a felony, and the law provides that the court shall prohibit the person from driving the vehicle for not more than a year.

The law also removes all property right in liquor kept contrary to the act, or to any receptacle or vehicle in which liquor is kept, and provides that they are at once forfeit to the state.

Where fluid is poured out, destroyed or carried away by the tenant or other person when premises are being searched, the fluid shall be prima facie intoxicating liquor and intended for unlawful possession and sale, other outstanding points of the act are:

would have been the case. The extent to which the same publication disturbed official circles was indicated when Secretary Kellogg called early at the White House to talk matters over with President Coolidge. Later the secretary issued a formal denial that either the president or the state department had received any such communication as described.

It was learned also that the department lacked any advance intimation of Peru's intention to transmit a communication of any character, the only direct official word received as to the attitude of the Peruvian government having indicated the purpose of abiding by the terms of the award.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Menthol-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You get a little jar of Menthol-Sulphur at any drug store.
