

Sanford Pondering How To Switch City Election Dates

Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission and the city's charter revision committee will hear a staff report at a joint meeting at 4 p.m. today on how to solve the problem of changing city elections to September.

This will be the second joint meeting of the groups on proposed amendments to the city charter, recommended by the committee after a 13%-month study.

The meeting will be held at the city manager's conference room at City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

The committee's announced intent in urging that the city election times be changed from December to September was to prevent city elections from being overahadowed by state and national elections.

After the group made its report to the City Commission, however, it was found that considering the two September primaries for county, state and national elections and a regular and runoff election for city offices, Sanford voters would have to go to the polls four times in a five-week period.

Seminole Elections Supervisor Camilla Bruce brought the problem to the city's attention. She suggested that rather than the dates urged by the committee, the city's regular election be held at the same time as the first primary - the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September - and the runoff be held at the same time as the second primary, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in October.

The second revision recommended by the committee also

Not only was the commission concerned about the aspects of cutting the city up into residency districts for commissioners, but it also was concerned about language in the proposal indicating that each commissioner would be responsible mostly for those living within his or her individual generaphical areas.

The commissioners felt they should serve residents in all parts of the city.

And City Clerk Henry Tamm was worried about two questions left unanswered in the proposal - whether a candidate could qualify for a district seat and after the election move into that district, and what would happen if a commissioner living in a district moved after election.

"Would this disqualify him from holding office,?" Tamm asked about the latter situation.

Three other proposals are yet to be discussed, including: -Changing the City Commission's name to City Council.

-Extending Mayor Lee P. Moore's term in office from four to five years, during this term only. His term was to have expired in 1984. The committee's purpose in extending the term is to eliminate the possibility of three commission members — the majority — being elected in any one year.
—Placing the uniformed services — the police and fire departments - under the direction of the city manager. Currently, both departments are under the direct control of the City Commission.

No opposition to these proposals has been voiced by any of the city commissioners.

Ironically, while the charter committee is recommending that the City Commission change its name to City Council, other cities in Seminole County in recent years have been changing the names of their governing bodies to city com-

And Lake Mary's charter revision committee is favoring changing the City Council's name there to City Commission. Longwood several years ago, changed to a city commission, and, more recently, so did Winter Springs.

The only communities in the county with city councils now are Oviedo, Casselberry and Lake Mary.

Deanna Pitman Wins The Crown

By DORIS DIETRICH OURSELVES Editor

Systems were all "go" Saturday night at Lake Mary High School when Mark Hess announced that Deanna Katherine Pitman was the winner of the 1982 Miss Sanford Scholarship

Smiles were clouded with tears and rousing applause when Miss Pitman was crowned by Dean Herman of Jacksonville, the current Miss

Before announcing the winner, Hess, a veteran performer and spokesman for NASA at the Kennedy Space Center, uttered an unrehearsed tongue twister -- "one of these 'yucky' ladies will be the winner..."

As sparkling as the gold-sequined gown she was wearing, Mias Pitman accepted the crown with the grace of royalty. She appears to fit the requirements of what Miss America is all about - the charming girl-nextdoor image.

Miss Pitman, 22, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Pitman of Apopka. She is a graduate of Apopka High School and attended Rollins College. She has 17 years' dancing experience, including extensive New York with Ron Forella. She is a former dancer with the New York City Ballet and hopes to further her education at Rollins in business and theatre courses. She aspires to open her own studio in all aspects of the Arts.

Calling herself a third-generation Floridian, Miss Pitman performed with Ballet Royal, Winter Park, for 12 years. The talent that won her the crown of "Miss Sanford" was her own dynamic arrangement of "West Side Story" and "Rocky."

The new Miss Sanford is a greeneyed brunette, 5 feet, 5 inches tall, who tips the scale at 110 pounds. In an interview she said, "My ambition is to become a professional entertainer. 1 feel everyone was put on this earth to serve his or her purpose. Mine is entertaining

"When I am on stage performing, I can feel an excitement from the audience. With that thrill, I feel from my audiences I have been able to realize my purpose. It's a communication where no words are ever needed," she added.

Sharing the Miss Sanford court with Miss Pilman are Catherine Jean Stewart, 23, a classical pianist from Altamonte Springs, first runner-up; and Muffett Baker, 19, Winter Park, second numer-up. Clynell Denise Fort, 19, Sanford, won the non-finalist talent trophy for her vocal in-terpretation of "Home."

Sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford, this is the first Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant since 1951 that has been a preliminary to the Miss Florida and Miss America pageants. Sanford businesses sponsored the 10 contestants and donated Contestants were judged on talent, poise, evening-gown and bathing-suit competitions. The contest was open to all qualifying young women within a 75-mile radius of Sanford. Contestants were precluded from competing in another contest in the same year after having been selected the winner in any local pageant. They cannot succeed themselves in the same local pageant during the year.

Judges were: Pat Bond, Ortando, a member of the board of directors of the Miss Florida Pageant and official chaperone and business manager for Miss Florida for three years; E. Lee Phillips, Orlando, vice president of the Miss Florida Pageant; Doris E. Hamm, Orlando, a member of the hoard of directors for the Miss Florida Pageant for five years; Jerome Downing, Orlando, civic leader; and Billie McClean, Windermere, an associate of the Miss Fjorida Pageant

Herald Staff Writer The state Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering has been wanting to talk to Brevard County real-estate man John Fountain Jr. for nine months, Now the Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco would like to talk to him too -- if anyone can find him.

Fountain, former co-owner of the Miami-based M-F Kennels and former track consultant for Seminole Greyhound Park in Casselberry, has been the missing link in a nine-month investigation by the State Division of Pri-Mutuel Wagering. And on Friday the Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco joined in the hunt for Fountain, believed to be living in North Carolina or Virginia.

The Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco delivered an administrative complaint Friday to Bill Demetree, coowner of Seminole Greyhound Park along with his brother Jack and Paul Dervaes of Brooksville.

The complaint alleges that Seminole Greyhound Park's beverage-license application failed to list a $160,000 loan made to the track in 1980 from Fountain to Dervaes.

It also alleges that Dervaes permitted Fountain to have direct or indirect interest in the track.

Fountain is barred from state parimutuel facilities because of a 1972 federal gambling and conspiracy conviction. He served 150 days in a federal prison on the charges.

The complaint filed by the Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco is the first that links Fountain to a possible financial interest in the track.

Track officials have 21 days to respond to the complaint, which could result in a fine or revocation of the track's license to serve alcoholic beverages. According to-Harry Purcell, general counsel for the state Department of Business Regulation, the complaint will not hamper Seminole Greybound Park's scheduled May 3 opening date because a hearing on the matter can't be scheduled for at least 60 days.

The Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco's investigation is yet another legal headache for the greyhound track.

Last month the 5th District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach upheld a Seminole County Circuit Court decision that the track's racing license was invalid because it violated state laws governing the proximity of pari-mutuel

Currently, the track is appealing the appellate court's ruling to the state Supreme Court

Two weeks ago Circuit Court Judge Kenneth Leffler ordered the track to post a $300,000 surety bond in addition to an existing $471,000 personal bond to compensate the Daytona Beach Kennel Club, in Volusia County, against any losses during the upcoming racing season because the two tracks run identical race dates. The Daytona Beach club is 50 miles from Seminole Greyhound Park. Officials at the Volusia pari-mutuel facility say they lost $709,303 on pari-mutuel commissions and another $52,178 in concessions during 1981 when both tracks competed for summer bet-

Humane Society Board Meets Tonight

Will Animal Shelter Stay Open?

By JANE CASSELBERRY

DEANNA PITMAN

... she's Miss Sanford

Herald Staff Writer As the result of a recent surge of community support, Ursula West, treasurer of the Humane Society of Seminole County, said today she will move at tonight's board meeting that the society's animal shelter be kept open.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Longwood Community Center on Wilma Avenue.

At the Feb. 23 meeting of the Humane Society board, Mrs. West had recommended that the shelter be closed temporarily because operating expenses were exceeding income each month. The board decided to launch an emergency fund-raising drive to try to avoid a proposed April 30 shutdown. The society was losing $1,300 a month and fast run-

Undesignated donations coming in to

Mrs. West said the drive to get every county resident to contribute at least $1 has brought in $800 to the "Dollar Account" at an area bank.

"There were only a couple of gifts of $500 or more, and most of the donations were small amounts from people in our county, surrounding counties and about the nation saying, 'You're doing a worthwhile job and I want you to stay open." said Mrs. West.

"The people want the shelter to stay open, and I'll move to keep it open," she

The March receipts do not include $1,300 (not a final figure) raised from the VIP Preview Party at the Florida Real Estate Exhibition in Orlando.

In making her original suggestion for a temporary closing, Mrs. West had said, "I felt like we were in a financial bind the society's shelter during March and didn't owe anybody, but I didn't want to go into debt. I didn't want our em- bylaws committee on the revamped ployees to have to take a salary cut such as they did at the zoo. It was a precautionary measure."

The shelter is operated by two full-time employees, two part-time employees and volunteers. Mrs. West said the current shelter on 25th Street on Sanford Airport property originally was used by the city of Sanford and is a "crowded, makeshift operation."

She said volunteers could better be utilized when the new shelter is built on a 3.7-acre parcel near Five Points to be leased from the county at $1 a year. There is now $47,720 in the building fund. The new shelter must be in operation by October 1963 or face the loss of its lease. Also on tonight's agenda will the introduction of four new board members to fill remaining vacancies left by the resignation of officials as a result of a blow-up in the agency in late February.

bylaws for the organization, and a report on the Bartholf case, which sparked the resignations. The conflict arose over a policy requiring people adopting large dogs (over 20 pounds) to have a fenced yard. John Bartholf of Apopka had adopted a two-year-old Irish setter, "Bo," Jan. 15, saying he had a fenced yard although he did not. After an investigation, the directors voted to make an exception and allow the dog to remain with his new family.

But in the meantime two of the society's major contributors and fund raisers, Mr. and Mrs. Art Grindle, had resigned and withdrawn a $25,000 building fund pledge. Others resigning included Eunice Shome, fund-raising chairman; Joanne Terry, education director; Pauline McDonald, publicrelations director, and Dr. Peler There will also be a report by the Haberly, a veterinarian.

High Court Agrees To Take School Bias Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court today agreed to settle - once and for all - whether private schools that practice racial discrimination should enjoy tax exemptions. The justices announced they will go forward with a test case on the issue involving Bob Jones University, of Greenville, S.C., and the Goldsboro

However, the court did not set a special date this spring to hear debate in the case and could put off a decision on the politically sensitive dispute until next fall at the earliest. The controversy shapes up as one of the lop cases confronting the justices this year because of its far-reaching im-institutions that have been strong supporters of President Reagan. The high court action comes after the administration - reversing its position for a second time - urged the court last month to proceed with the case.

Reagan ignited a political firestorm to January when he decided to overturn a 12-year-old policy, adopted during the Nixon administration, of denying tax exemptions to private institutions that practice racial bias.

At that time, the administration urged the high court to drop the case, which it originally accepted last October.

But in February government lawyers said the administration changed its position because of a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington.

"There are people who have one-of-a-kind automobiles that cost hundreds of thousands of dollars, rare automobiles like Bugattis and they don't think anything of spending $8,000 for a painting of their car," said Cleworth, 42. "They are the Pebble Beach crowd, I'd say.

"My main commissions are not generally from celebrities, those recognizable by the public, but from corporate executive-types."

Cleworth has done 30 car portraits thus far, including a justcompleted one of the Lamborghini Countach owned by John Schneider of television's "Dukes of Hazzard,"

But the painting was commissioned by Lamborghini of North America, not Schneider, although Cleworth hopes he will eventually buy the portrait, Posters made of the Cleworth originals are quickly sold in automotive circles, where the artist is well-known for his precise renditions of classic cars. "The most popular one would be the 1966 Mercedes Gull

Wing," he says. "It has established me as an automobile artist. Most of my commissions have come from the owners of Bugattis, Dusenbergs and Cords, in that grouping' then the Ferrari crowd comes in, and on down the list of prestige cars. "Right now I'm doing a commemorative poster of the winner (Niki Lauda) of this month's Long Beach Grand Prix. It will be marketed as a $25 poster,"

Some of Cleworth's clients could safely be labeled eccentrics. Take the one who paid several thousands dollars extra to have the reflection of his home in the hood of his Ferrari, "To give it that extra personal touch," Cleworth says, "I painted the reflection of his old San Francisco Victoria home in the hood. "There was one fellow from England who asked me to design a car that he wanted manufactured. He sent me photographs of existing cars and he liked certain parts and wanted a custom car built.

Southern Air Of Sanford For Cooling And Heating

Call Southern Air of Sanford, Inc., at 322-8321, for a 13-point preseason checkup of your air-conditioning system for only $28.50. While at your home or business their qualified servicemen will also check for any damage to your airconditioning or heating system by the lightning, wind, hail or water during the recent storms.

If they find any damage they will be glad to write up a damage estimate for your insurance company. A lot of damage may not be readily apparent until the next time it is necessary to use your heating or air-conditioning systems and by then it may be too late to file an insurance, claim, Chris Lillie, president and partner in Southern Air of Sanford, Inc., advises. A damage check now may prevent problems later

Located at 100 N. Maple Ave., Sanford, Southern Air is ever expanding and improving its service and construction departments to better serve this area. The number of service personnel has been increased. All with a minimum of 10 years experience in the field, they are qualified to install and service heat pumps as well as commercial refrigeration systems and air-conditioning.

Southern Air is still offering its popular senior citizen labor discount.

Jacoby Writes 10,000th Column

Oswald Jacoby, one of the world's top bridge experts, has written his 10,000th newspaper column. That column is scheduled for publication Thursday in the Evening Herald and other newspapers...

Since 1949, Jacoby has written on bridge for Newspaper Enterprise Association, which is distributed to more than 700 newspapers across North America. His co-author since 1978 has been Alan Sontag. Although others are closs behind him, Jacoby is the first to have written 10,000 bridge columns. Jacoby began playing bridge when he was 10 years old - more than 70 years ago. On the contract-bridge tournament circuit, he has been hailed as "the undisputed dean of the bridge

Beginning with his first national championship in 1919, Jacoby has won a record 42 national titles. He was the first player to accrue 1,000 master points in a single year (1963) and the first to gain a total of 10,000 master points

Jacoby is the author of n number of important bridge and game books, including "Jacoby Modern."

April marks more than one anniversary for Jacoby. Three days after celebrating this 10,000th column, he and his wife will celebrate 50 Four Aces, he won virtually years of marriage, Vaccines Cause Brain Damage?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Hundreds of American children may be left brain damaged and retarded each year by a common vaccination many states require, a year-long investigation concluded.

The "DPT shot" - which protects children against diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus - may be dangerous because the whooping cough component is of poor quality, according to the report aired by NBC-owned WRC-TV in Washington.

The Department of Health and Human Services had no immediate comment.

John Robbins of the Food and Drug Administration's Bureau of Biologics, was quoted in the report as saying the risk of whooping cough still outweighs any side effects the vaccine

Most states require DPT shots be administered, beginning as early as two months of age, as a prerequisite for admitting children to school. However 20 states now offer parents the option of skipping the vaccination.

The report said a little noticed 1978 government-funded study by the UCLA Medical Center found one in every 700 children suffer a convulsion or go into shock following the vaccination - an indication of probably brain damage.

As many as one in every 13 children may suffer lesser reactions, it added.

Soy Drink Controls High Cholesterol

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - A soy protein drink can lower high cholesterol levels and provide an easy, low-risk treatment for cholesterol buildup - a major factor in heart disease, a new study shows.

In research at the University of Western Ontario, the any drink - substituted for milk - significantly lowered high blood cholesterol levels in five people, Dr. Nina Mercer said

Dr. Mercer presented the test results at a meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. Although she stressed the need for further study, Dr. Mercer said the drink may provide a convenient treatment for high cholesterol levels, which have been identified as a major showed a 15 to 18 percent reduction.

"It's relatively risk-free and it's simple," she said. "If it isn't simple, the individual usually will not stick with it.

"It wasn't a hard change for most people to make." During the study, the soy protein drink was substituted for cow's milk. Half the study group was given the protein drink and half was given milk. After two weeks, the groups switched

There was no significant difference in the cholesterol levels of the study group taken as a whole, Mercer said. But people who began the study with "very high" cholesterol counts

He's Happy As A Clam At His South Carolina Farm

FOLLY BEACH, S.C. (UPI) - Dr. John J. Manzi plunged his arm up to his elbow into one of several small silos that are continually being flushed with seawater at the homemade ciam nursery and pulled out hundreds of seeds.

"Our general premise is that we can grow hard clams at a very high density under controlled conditions at a profit," the marine scientist said standing in the midst of Trident Sea Farms' fledgling outdoor nursery.

"It looks like we will generate a cash flow shortly with our first crop harvest in June."

Manzi, who works in the Marine Resources Research Institute of the state Department of Wildlife and Marine Resources, is lending his scientific expertise in a joint venture involving Trident and state and federal agencies to determine the economic feasibility of commercializing clam farming in South Carolina.

Private investors who formed Trident are financing the operation, and the state is participating by providing Manzi on loan. The National Office of Sea Grants has provided some funds for experimental work.

The production of hard clams in the state has increased substantially from less than 1,000 bushels annually in the early 1950s to nearly 34,000 bushels in 1980, which represents 3 percent of the national yield. The value of the landings have increased proportionally with the 1980 harvest worth more than $750,000.

The record harvests and their increased value have stimulated commercial interest in the crop, particularly since production at hard clam fisheries in the North has leveled off or declined in recent years.

In the Northeast, it can take up to four years for clams to reach a minimum market size of one-inch thick, but the warmer constal waters of South Carolina can produce them in as little as 18 months, Manzi said.

The Trident operation is significant because it is the first and production control," Manzi said. clam nursery system on a commercial scale that is proving to be economically feasible while increasing the utilization of the state's marshland without adverse effects to the environment, he said.

"We're extremely excited about the project because it looks encouraging from the economic viewpoint early in the game, which usually is not the case in mich ventures," Manzi said. 'We're already building a new nursery that will increase the seed holding capacity from 12 million to 100 million."

The commercial-scale demonstration project has been operating since August 1980 and includes a nursery with several silos and spillways and several portable planting units made with a 8-foot-square steel frame and vinyl wire mesh. "The nursery allows the purchase of smaller-than-required seeds for field planting, an economic consideration, and provides holding facilities for limited quarantine, acclimation

The experiment originally called for large seeds, two-fifths of an inch, to be planted directly in intertidal creeks leased by Trident. But the relative unavailability and high cost of the seed prompted officials to adopt the nursery approach.

The mortality rate in the nursery units has been low, never exceeding 8 percent in any quarter, but initial stocking size. and density as well as the population distribution throughout? the facility often masks actual production, which makes accurate efficiency estimates difficult, Manzi said.

"Our present goal is to harvest about half of what we put out there," he said.

The most rapid growth period in the nursery is three to six months when the seeds are introduced in April. It takes six to 10 months for the seeds to grow to planting size when placed in the nursery in November.

I would not go to see male or female strippers for the same reason I would not go to a porno movie. Not so much because comparisons might be made, but for reasons that go much deeper.

Norman Cousins stated this viewpoint quite well in an article that appeared in Saturday Review in September 1975:

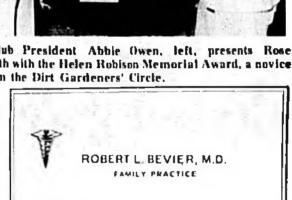

"The trouble with this wideopen pornography ... is not that it corrupts but that it desensitizes; not that it unleashes the passions but that it cripples the emotions; not that it encourages a mature attitude but that it is a reversion to infantile obsessions; not that it removes the blinders but that it distorts the view. Prowess is proclaimed but love is denled. What we have is not liberation but dehumanization."

Knights Pound Rotary

The race for first place in the Sanford Junior League is a tad tighter today.

Rotary, the last unbeaten team in the league, was pourded 16-6 by defending champ Knights of Columbus Monday night, while Kiwania bounced

Rotary is still in first place with a 4-1 record, but Knights of Columbus and Kiwanis are only a half game back with 3-1 records.

Knights of Columbus scored two runs in the bottom of the first. Brian Ashcraft singled with one out, moved to second on a balk and went to third on a passed ball before Horace Knight slapped a single to score him. Knight stole second and third and scored on an error.

A bases-loaded walk gave Rotary its first run in the top of the second. Rotary then took the lead with five runs in the top of the third. Korgan opened the inning with a double and scored on a single by Craig Dixon. Joey Evans singled to score Dixon, chasing Knight, the K of C starter.

Reliever Brian Ashcraft fanned the first batter he faced, but then walked three in a row. The final three runs of the inning all scored on errors. The Rotary lead was short-lived as Knights of Columbus scored six runs on four hits in the bottom of the third. Knight had a two-run single in the tidrd, while Theron Liggons and Albert Armstrong each slapped RBI singles. Alonzo Gainey had the other hit, also a single.

Knights of Columbus bunched together four runs in both the fourth and fifth frames, doing it both times with just one hit, and won the game under the 10-run slaughter rule.

Ashcraft, who didn't allow a hit in his threeinning stint, bettered his record to 3-0.

Knight, Liggons and Gainey each had a pair of singles for Knights of Columbus. Eddie Korgan had a double and single for Rotary, while teammate Mike Edwards added a double.

Kiwanis had three runs in the first inning, but managed only one run as they got off to a slow start. Scott Carter led off with a single and Bryan Debose followed with a double. Carter was thrown out at the plate, while Debose moved to third. Debose scored when Chris Farrish was safe on an error, Kiwanis loaded the bases, but stranded three runners.

Elks tied the score in the bottom of the first when Jasper Collins stroked a two-out single and scored when Jack Jackson was safe on an error. Riwanis picked up single runs in the second and third innings, but Elks scored two runs in the bottom of the third to again tie the score. Then the bottom fell out for Elks. Kiwanis sent 22 betters to the plate in the fourth inning and scored 18 runs off three Elks pitchers. Kiwanis had eight hits in the fourth Bryan Debose had a triple, double and single for Kiwanis, while Dexter Franklin and Carter had two singles apiece. Collins, the league's leading hitter, was three for three with a double as he collected all of the Elks hits. Knights of Columbus 204 44-16 9 4 WP-Brian Ashcraft (3.6). LP-Craig Dixon (1-1). Hitters — Rotary: Eddle Korgan 2.3 double, Mike

Adcock Roofing Rips Atlantic Bank For Sixth Win

Showing no mercy for the defending Sanford Little American League champs, Adcock Roofing ripped 10 hits and pounded Atlantic Bank 17-2 Monday for its sixth win without a loss. S&H Fabricating and Engineering beat Jack Prosser Ford 14-2, while Butch's Chevron won by a forfeit over Seminole Petroleum. Butch's Chevron was leading 13-7 in the third Inning when Seminole Petroleum forfeited after two players were ejected.

In the Sanford Little National League, first place Poppa Jay's has the day off, but oncebeaten Sunniland Corporation will be looking to keep the race tight when it plays Rinker at 7 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park. D.A.V., on a two-game

Lyman JVs' Double-Steal Seals Lake Mary Doom, 2-1

It's tough enough to lose a one-run ballgame in the bottom of the ninth inning as the Lake Mary junior varsity did Monday to Lyman, but when you have five runners picked off first base and the last out nailed dead at second, well, it's enough to make you aga and hide.

Which is what Ram baseball coach Don Smith felt like doing after Lyman scored on a double steal in the bottom of the ninth inning to post a 2-1 victory over the Rams at Lyman.

The Greyhounds, starting seven freshmen most of the season, finished the year 13-2, including an unbeaten ledger in Seminole County. Smith was at a loss for words in describing his 11-8-1 Rams regular season finale, "Uh. . . Uh. . tough, tough," was how the lake Mary mento described the Rams horrendous base running. "Their heads were just not in the ballgame." Lyman manager Ron Baker, however, was quick to point out that his pitchers - son Clint

"Clint (a lefthander) has an exceptional move to first base," said Baker. "And for a righthander, Livernois' is pretty good too." The Rams, who were blown away by Lyman in the first meeting at the tiny Westmonte Rec Field, scored their only run in the sixth and in the process broke un Baker's no-hitter.

Barry Hysell ripped a one-out single to right field, but was promptly picked off first. Keith Wallace reached on a walk and he, too, was Prop Baseball picked off, but first sacker Chris Andrews misplayed the ball as Wallace went to second. Paul Allegre then stroked a hit to left field to make it 1-0 Lake Mary. Rod Metz reached on an error by Livernois and Kevin Hill singled to load the bases.

Baker then pulled Baker and inserted Livernois. Smith also made a move and pinch-hit David Drazen. The free-swinging lefty pulled a liner, but Baker helped himself out of the inning by hauling it down at first.

Lyman tied the game in the bottom of the seventh. Pinch-hitter Greg Lorenz doubled to left center, John Drinkwater sacrificed him to third and Scott Morrissey ripped a clutch double to left to tie the game.

The Greyhounds pushed across the game winner in the bottom of the ninth against reliever Alegre. Terry Boatright had gone the first eight innings and allowed just six hits.

With one out, John Cupit walked. Drinkwater struck out, but Morrissey came through again, this time with a base hit to push Cupit to third. "We called time out to tell everybody what to do," said Smith. "We knew he was going to run and he didn't have any speed." Morrissey ran all right, and catcher Metz gunned a strike to second baseman Greg Wells who had the ball in plenty of time to nail Morrissey for the third out.

"Without a doubt we had him out. I couldn't ask any more of Metz. He's thrown great the last five games," said Smith.

On the hesitation, Cupit broke for the plate and scored the winning run to cap an outstanding year by Baker's young 'Hounds. The Rams will play Mt. Dors at 7:30 p.m.

Thursday night at Umatila in the first round of the District 2A Tournament. A victory puts them into the title game on Friday.

A startling thing happened at the Five Points Pony Complex this past week. Jim Palmer made an appearance.

Contrary to the spectators' belief, however, this Jim Palmer wasn't the Baltimore Orioles' ace right-hander, but rather a member of the Casselberry Pony League team. The hard-throwing Palmer did pitch like his namesake, striking out nine hitters, and issuing only three runs as Casselberry clubbed Forest, Palmer was aided by a tremendous hitting effort from Rob Dinkelacker (three hits), Eddie Taubensee (two hits) and Jeff Poindexter (two

In Bronco Baseball action, Dale Stevens pitched a no-hitter to lead Longwood past Casselberry, 3-0. Stevens fanned eight and aided his effort with two base raps. Longwood's two runs were earned in the first inning, as Eric Swannie and Jason Miller each ripped runproducing base hits.

Forest City II ran by Sanford, 8-2, as Greg Ebbert pitched flawless baseball until the final inning, when he gave up two runs. Forest City's offensive punch was provided by J.W. Waring and Johnny Luce, each with two hits. Casselberry I pulled their game out of the fire, 5-4, as they scored two runs in the final inning Cassalberry accumulated nine hits and was led by Tony Howe and Alan Fortenberry, both with three singles. In Mustang action, both Forest City and Longwood I won to remain undefeated at 8-0.

Longwood I rolled over forest City IV, 124. The win was attributed to an outstanding hitting exhibition by Matt Tickle and Jeff Livernois, both with three hits. Forest City IV accumulated 14 hits as they massacred Casselberry I, 21-1. Humphrey Bauer, Mesojedec, Frank, Mauro, and Nestoreach had two hits.

In Pinto action, Forest City I defeated Winter Springs II 12-6, to stay undefeated at 9-0. Larry Proemming's Pinto Team steamrolled Winter Springs on the strength of outstanding hitting. Chris Barfield, Kevin Steinke, Brian Lubinskas, and Chris Lubinskas each had two hits.

Fundamentals Pay Off For Padres

United Press International

It's becoming a familiar refrain: a new manager takes over, stresses fundamentals, instills a winning philosophy and, presto, the team can't lose.

This is a time the story is about the San Diego Padres.

Yup, those same Padres who have never finished higher than fourth in the National League West in their 13-year history and who finished dead last in both halves of the 1961 campaign.

Under the leadership of new Manager Dick Williams, the Padrea are establishing themselves as a team not to be taken lightly in the NL West Division pennant race.

Behind a club-record, 24-hit attack, the Padres stretched their wirning streak to six games Monday night by thrashing the San Francisco Giants, 13-6.

Terry Kennedy led the assault with four hits, including three doubles, and four RBI.

"I have to do the job knowing how Dick is," said Kennedy, who did not get his first RBI last season until his 78th at-bat, but already has nine in just 32 at-bats. "He's got us going. He makes us do the lineup, except winning pitcher Juan Eichelberger, 2-2, got at least one hit, with Juan Bonilla, Ruppert Jones, Broderick Perkins and Sixto Lezcano hammering out three each. One of Jones' hits was his second home run of the year.

The heavy hitting enabled Eichelberger to go the distance, even though he was tagged for solo home runs by Darrell Evans, Jeff Leonard, Chili Elsewhere in the NL, Philadelphia blanked Montreal, 2-0, and Houston defeated Los Angeles, 6-4.

At Los Angeles, Art Howe singled in two runs to cap a four-run, sixth-inning rally as the Astros handed the Dodgers their sixth straight loss. Don Sutton, 2-1, posted his second triumph over his former teammates while reliever Terry Forster, 1-2, took the loss.

Quisenberry wasn't surprised Gibson put the pitch into orbit.

"It should have been a home run," Quisenberry said, after suffering his first loss of the season. "I don't think it was a very good pitch - but I had to throw him

Who's Going To Go Nuclear First?

A new question has been introduced in the debate over nuclear weapons. A full-scale discussion of a nuclear weapons freeze is already under way. Now the debate has turned to the question whether the United States should continue to make it a matter of defense strategy that we are willing to initiate the use of nuclear weapons in order to deter an attack by conventional arms.

The freeze issue involves the number of nuclear weapons in U.S. and Soviet stockpiles. The use issue involves the policy we are to follow on the employment of our nuclear weapons. A freeze requires an agreement with the Soviets. A change of our first-use policy requires only our own decision.

Secretary of State Alexander Haig spoke out first on the use question by declaring in a speech in Washington recently that the first-strike policy, which has been official U.S. policy for more than 25 years, must not be abandoned.

To do so, he said, would be an open invitation to the Soviet Union and its allies to invade western Europe. Only the nuclear shield, he said, deters an attack by the Warsaw Pact nations, with their conventional weapons, considered to be superior to the conventional weapons of the NATO countries.

Then came the initiative which Secretary Haig anticipated. On the next day, four former top U.S. officials held a press conference in Washington and issued a statement and copies of an article they wrote for the next issue of Foreign Affairs quarterly.

The four were Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations; McGeorge Bundy, national security adviser in the Kennedy administration; George F. Kennan, former ambassador to the Soviet Union, and Gerard C. Smith, chairman of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency during the Nixon administration.

They urged that the advisability of adopting a new no-nuclear-first-strike policy be studied at the highest levels of our government. They argue that it is no longer credible, to our European allies or to the Kremlin, that an American president would risk total nuclear war by initiating the use of tactical nuclear weapons in Europe.

Therefore, in order to deter a Soviet conventional attack on Europe, if NATO is in fact inferior in conventional arms, it will be necessary, they argue, to build up NATO's conventional forces. The nuclear option can no longer be used, in their view, as a substitute for troops equipped with conventional weapons.

The risk of nuclear escalation is such and the risk of a nuclear holocaust is so great that the first-strike policy is properly a subject of official study and public discussion. The fact that the first-strike policy has been established for a long time does not mean it should not be reviewed in the light of present circumstances.

McNamara, Bundy, Kennan and Smith have performed a public service by raising the issue.

Promise The Moon

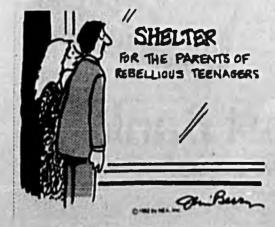

It's not illegal for politicians to make promises they can't keep. So says the U.S. Supreme Court, and candidates from one end of the country to the other should be breathing easier.

The case that reached the high court involved a candidate for county commissioner in Kentucky who campaigned with a promise to cut the salary of his position if he were elected. He was elected, but was kept out of office by a state court ruling that he had violated Kentucky's Corrupt Practices Act. The commissioners have no power to reduce their own salaries.

As Justice William J. Brennan Jr. observed in overrruling the Kentucky courts, the candidate's vow was on a par with promises to lower taxes or run the government more efficiently. They fall under the First Amendment's protection of free speech — even if candidates don't know what they're talking about.

Free elections are free elections. Candidates are free to promise the moon. Voters are free to ask them how they expect to deliver, and if the answers don't add up, to vote accordingly.

BERRY'S WORLD

Can Cinderella still fit into her golden alip-

That's the question that is on the minds of Seminole manager Bobby Landquist and his baseball team today as they prepare for tonight's 7 o'clock District 4A-8 Tournament match with Lake Brantley.

Just a year ago, the Tribe surprised the hell out of everybody by sweeping three games and the district championship. Just about everybody returned from that aggressive outfit, but the regular season results were mediocre at best.

Seminole limped along with a 5-9 district record this season which earned the Tribe the seventh seed in the tournament.

To make matters worse, Sanford faces probably the best pitcher in the conference tonight at Sanford Memorial Stadium in Tommy Novak. The hard-throwing righthander was 6-3 for the year and fanned 71 hitters in 57 innings.;

The 'Noies problems, however, started before Tommy Novak.

They began one slippery night when Alton Davis rounded first base after a single and went down in a heap. Sanford's season may have gone down with him.

The alim center fielder was hitting over .400 at the time while patrolling center field with his usual excellence. What was first thought to be a sprained ankle turned out to be a broken leg.

The likeable zenior has the cast off, now but still walks with a limp.

If the Seminoles didn't have enough problems, losing Davis, Brett Von Herbulis, the Tribe's leader and best hitter, was next to be hit by the injury line.

on March 17 Von Herbulis attempted to throw out Lyman's Kenny Brown who was stealing third base. "Von" rammed his thumb into the hitter's but and hasn't caught since,

He's back in the lineup, though, and continues to swing the best bat of the 'Noles.

Whether the Seminoles can regain that Cinderella magic of last year, however, will be answered tonight.

Viewing A Guest Analysis

"The making of El Salvador into a test of wills between the United States and the Soviet Union is but the most dramatic, and saddest, example of mind-set that denies local complexities for the sake of struggles eisewhere but at local costs in lives and resources."

That statement might have appeared in this space in the course of any number of previous discussions of the disastrous course of events in Central America. It did not, however. It is lifted from a current study, "U.S. Interests and Policies in the Caribbean and Central America," by Jorge I. Dominques.

Dominquez, professor of government at Harvard University's Center for International Affairs, sees both regions as "of marginal importance to U.S.-Soviet relations." Washington insists upon seeing it otherwise because now, as historically, it is shaping American policies according to "subjective interests that depend more on the perceptions of the U.S. government than on actual circumstances. A need to defend U.S. political and economic hegemony has towered above the rest of these subjective interests, and still does so imiay."

In the process of developing his argument, Dominquez akewers some of the most passionately held premises of Washington's policymakers. Such as the Communist origin and direction of the Salvadoran insurgency:

"... El Salvador's revolutionary left perceived the Communist Party as opportunist, non-revolutionary and willing to make a deal with anybody — even with the military fighting the guerrillas . . The Salvadoran insurgent left had grown in the 1970s, opposed by the local Communist Party, scorning that party's patron in Moscow and largely ignored by Cuba until 1979 . . .

"The Reagan administration chose to make the Salvadoran civil war the central test of its foreign policy toward the Soviet Union during its initial weeks in power because if wanted a test, not because such a test was justified by El Salvador's history."

Or such as alien Communist manipulation of the Nicaraguan revolution:

"Cuban support for the opponents of Somoza... was almost as old as the Cuban revolution itself, but... was only one of the many ingredients" of the anti-Somoza movement. "Soviet support for the new Nicaraguan government was slow in coming and only began to acquire greater aignificance in 1961 as the United States drastically cut back its assistance...

"The Soviet Union, in short, has not conquered Nicaragua. The extent of its now rising influence will be shaped considerably by events yet to occur."

Events, Dominquez believes, that Washington may have thrown away its most effective means of shaping by so abruptly cutting off aid.

"... some authors have argued that events in Central America and the Caribbean will also condition the future of Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia . . . There is no scholarly or policy basis for this position . . . Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia art indeed very important to the United States, but their politics, economics, society and security are quite independent of the vagaries of civil war in El Salvador . . ."

New Way To Sell Gasoline

WASHINGTON (NEA) — All of this country's major petroleum companies have insisted for decades that special additives, secret compounds or exclusive formulas made their gasoline superior to competitors' fuels.

Industry insiders, technical experts and even knowledgeable laymen always knew these assertions were utter nonsense, but the oil companies persisted in advancing the specious claims to build and retain brand loyalty among their customers. Now, in a major shift of marketing strategy, the industry is moving toward deemphasizing the purported superior quality of gasoline and stressing instead its price.

That phenomenon should not be confused with the sporadic "price wars" of the past, which usually were of relatively short duration and confined to a limited geographical area.

The recent trend toward low-margin, highvolume performance at retail sales outlets holds the potential for dramatically restructuring the marketing of gasoline almost everywhere in the nation.

In a candid statement that only a few years ago would have been considered heresy within the industry, one oil company recently acknowledged that it made no sense to promote "the high quality of your product when, in essence, it really is the same quality.

as others."

That admission came from George H.
Babikian, senikor vice president or the Arco Petroleum Products Co., the domestic marketing division of the Atlantic Richfield

Babikian has staked his career at Arco on the success of an exceptionally drastic costcutting move — elimination of the company's entire credit-card operation, which costs the firm an estimated $73 million every year.

Abandonment of credit-card sales is only the most visible element of a profoundly altered marketing structure that Babikian says will enable Arco dealers to sell gasoline at a price only about 1 cent a gallon higher than that charged by independents or "private brand" dealers.

Although Arco's approach is by far the most radical, companies throughout the industry have started to encourage low-cost cash sales. Some examples:

-Exxon early this year initiated a pilot program in Phoenix, Ariz., that offered customers a 4-cents-per-gallon discount for cash purchases. That program now has been extended to Norfolk, Va.; Worcester, Mass., and Jackson, Miss.

—Standard Oil of Indiana, which markets

—Standard Oil of Indiana, which markets under the Amoco brand name, is testing a 3-cents-per-gallon cash discount in Philadelphia, Denver, Omaha, Neb., and Peoria, Ill.

—Standard Oil of Ohio is experimenting with discounts of 2 to 3 cents per gallon in a trio of Ohio communities — Lima, Springfield and Middletown,

—Texaco last year imposed a 3 percent processing fee on all credit-card sales, which, in effect, makes gasoline purchased for cash 3 to 4 cents per gallon cheaper.

Although Arco's program has engendered considerable controversy, it has a precedent dating back almost 10 years, when Sohio adopted a similar marketing strategy for the BP stations it operates in the Northeast.

De-emphasis on credit-card sales is in great measure, a response to a situation in which the oil companies were granting customers four to six weeks' worth of free credit at a time of exceptionally high interest rates.

"It's too substantial a cost and we had to find a new way of handling it," says a Texaco spokesman.

"All of the companies have been trying to find a way out of the credit morass," adds an Exxon official.

But two other elements — a persistent recession and the development of increasingly fuel-efficient autos — have significantly reduced gasoline sales, forcing all of the companies to scramble to preserve their share of the market.

In comparison with the peak year of 1978, when the industry sold a daily average of 7.5 million barrels, gasoline sales today have declined approximately 20 percent.

The result is fierce competition for a shrinking market. "Price," says Babikian, "is the single most important element in the marketing of gasoline today."

Cement Aids In Gluing Joints

By AL ROSSITER JR. UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The fact that hundreds of thousands of Americans are walking today with artificial joints in their hips was made possible by the development of a special kind of acrylic cement two decades

The glue is known as polymethyl methacrylate cement and it is the material that anchors the metal ball and plastic socket joints to the thigh bone and pelvis. The cement is compatible with the living bone tissue it must hold on to, and it is easy to use and relatively strong.

Doctors say 20 years of use of the material in humans has produced no evidence of cancer causing effects — always a concern when a new material is introduced to the body — or of significant toxic effects.

The first hip joint replacements were performed in the United States 12 years ago and the cement is holding soundly after a decade in large numbers of people whose diseased or damaged hips were replaced with the man-made implants.

But the bond can break. And according to a hip replacement procedure, most of the late failures of the artificial joints are due to loosening of the components.

The panel said this loosening is the primary federal advisory committee that reviewed the

The panel said this loosening is the primary cause of those 10 percent of implants that fail after 10 years.

"There is strong evidence, however, that improved cementing techniques and prosthetic implantation developed during the past decade have reduced the incidence of complications related to failure of the acrylic material," the committee said in its report to the National Institutes of Health recently.

The 15-member panel, headed by Dr. Philip D. Wilson of the Cornell University Medical College, said that some concern remains about possible degradation of the cement after an even longer period of implantation.

Dr. Jo E. Miller of McGill University and the Montreal General Hospital, said a number of researchers have been working on ways to improve the strength of the cement by reinforcing it with fibers of carbon, metal or glass.

Miller said acrylic cement with carbon fibers has been used in small, short-duration human tests and appears to work satisfactorily without ill effects. But the testing has not progressed to the point where any conclusions can be reached about its strength in holding artificial joints in place in humans.

Another approach was to convert the acrylic cement into a porous material to encourage bone tissue to grow into the bond. Miller said sucrose granules were mixed with the cement and when these granules came in contact with the bone, they dissolved, leaving a space into which the bone proliferated.

Although animal studies showed bone ingrowth, Miller said the extent and distribution of the bone interlock was thought to be of little practical value.

Plane Undermines Defense Cuts Efforts

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, known fearfully in Washington as "Cap the Knife" because of his ruthlessness as a cost-cutter, was expected to carve the fat out of the defense budget.

This was supposed to justify the extra billions that President Reagan is now throwing at the Pentagon. At least he could argue that he's getting maximum value for the money he is spending — a big bang, so to speak, for the big bucks.

But unhappily, "Cap the Knife" has had his blade dulled by the generals, He has become a staunch defender, in fact, of every last paperclip the generals want.

Worse the defense accretary has even been Worse, the defense secretary has even been adding to the waste by pushing equipment they don't want upon the services. The latest shocking extravagance is a cargo plane the Air Force would rather not have.

There's good reason for the Air Force's attitude. The plane in question is simply a new version of that flying white elephant, the C-5A, which has given the Pentagon nearly two decades of grief. The C-5A was the grandfaddy of all cost overruns, and the Air Force was understandably worried about whether the new version would meet its

The need for more cargo capability is urgent A secret Defense Department report to Deputy Secretary Frank Carlucci, dated Jan. 8, 1962, describes the airlift deficiencies: "Current forces cannot meet early reinforcement objectives in NATO or Southwest Asia. . . "

But the C-5N, as the Lockheed lemon is now called, was at the very bottom of the Air Force's list of choices for a new cargo plane. In January, when Air Force Secretary Verne Orr briefed Carlucci on the need for additional cargo planes, he barely mentioned the C-5N.

Of the four possibilities, the C-SN was rated worst in terms of required maintenance and manpower, and next to worst in "program risk." Its only advantage over the three competing planes was its size, but that is a deceptive edge: Though the C-SN can carry some larger pieces of equipment, the total weight it can handle is far less than the other planes under consideration.

In addition, the Air Force objected to the C-SN on grounds of higher cost overruns ($118 million apiece, barring overruns if purchased in large volume), longer runway required and maintenance demands twice as great as the competition.

All this was spelled out for Carlucci in January. Yet the decision was made to order 50 C-5Ns, at a cost of nearly $7 billion.

Orr is an obedient soldier. Within days of Weinberger's selection of the C-SN, the Air Force generals were told to make it look as if the turkey had been their choice all along. Orr set up an "Ad Hoc Airlift Enhancement Committee" to justify the decision.

On Feb. 15, the Air Force secretary was able to send a memo to Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, recommending the very plane he had ignored the month before. My associate Donald Goldberg has seen a copy of the memo.

"I solicit your earmest and wholehearted endorsement of this airlift enhancement program," wrote good soldier Orr, "as the best and most meaningful near-term solution to a chronic and longstanding readiness problem — inadequate mobility to project our force effectively by air." There was no mention of the misgivings he had apparently harbored earlier.

The Air Force professionals aren't the only ones who don't want the NC-5N. The Army doesn't want it, either, and it is the Air Force's biggest transport customer,

My sources tell me the Army brass was furious at the C-SN decision. Undersecretary of the Army James R. Ambrose was reportedly so upset that he conveyed his wrath to Richard DeLauer, undersecretary of defense for research and engineering. The Army simply doesn't want the C-SN, Ambrose told DeLauer.

Perhaps worst of all is the fact that there's a cheap, workable alternative to the $7 billion C-5N boondoggle. It was suggested to the Pentagon by the Boeing Curp., which lost out on the cargo plane contract. U.S. airlines currently have 145 used wide-bodied 747a they're trying to get rid of. The Air Force could buy the 50 transports it needs from the airlines and convert them for military use.

This plan would be a boon for the hardpressed airlines, which could use the cash. It would save the taxpayers about $6.8 billion. And it would give the Air Porce and Army the airlift capability they want three years earlier.

Bumpy' Tribe Head Defends District Crown

Herald Sports Editor

Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown of the defending District 4A-9 baseball champion. Especially if that head already has a couple of bumps on it.

Manager Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles defend their 1981 district baseball title tonight when they take on Lake Brantley at Memorial Stadium.

The Patriot-Tribe clash gets underway at 7 p.m. Lake Howell and the Lyman belile at 4:30 p.m. Top-seeded Apopka played Spruce Creek this morning at 11:30 and Mainland went after DeLand today at 2.

Lundquist's Tribe bears a lot of similarity to last year's squad. Although it didn't lose nine or 10 games in a row like last year's team, it did have a poor regular season.

Much can be traced to the loss of Alton Davis in early March. The splendid center fielder broke his leg while rounding first base on a wet field.

That took a .400 hitter from the lineup along with a solid outfielder who covered a lot of green in center. Davis was also a fine base stealer and the 'Noles top RBI man.

While recovering from the loss of Davis, Seminole received another bad break when catcher Brett Von Herbulis broke his thumb trying to throw a runner out at third. He slammed it into the batter's bat.

Von Herbulis was leading the county in stolen bases at the time of his injury along with hitting around the .340 mark.

While losing his bat was definitely a handicap, his departure from behind the plate proved disastrous. Seminole simply did not have anyone to replace its all-conference performer.

Greg Register, who caught last year, tried, but was not sufficient. Greg Hill tried, but that left a hole at third and it's pretty tough to catch yourself when you're pitching.

Junior John Polk finally settled into the job. He has been adequate, but he is no Von Herbulis, " "Von," meanwhile, is handling the designated hitter job with a .327 average. Lundquist hopes he can return to his catching chores for the tournament. Pitching, of course, will decide this year's distrrict tournament. Even more so this year, since most of the teams can't hit very well outside of Lyman and three guys at Lake Howell.

Righthander Tracy Walker takes the hill for the 'Noles. Walker started the season 2-0 without giving up an earned run the first two weeks. He finished 2-3 with a respectable 3.29 earned run

Prep Baseball

His mound nemests tonight is Patriot Tommy Novak, who was the hottest thing going this year in the county. The hard-throwing righty struck out 71 hitters in 57 innings and had a 1.35 ERA. He won 6 of 9 decisions.

Novak will probably be pretty close to his earned run average, so Walker will have to be at the top of his game, Brantley's John Simas (.308) has finally shaken a year-long slump. He joins second baseman Brian Wright and first sacker Scott Killam to form the Brantley batting punch.

In the third game today, Lyman, the earlyseason pacesetter in the Five Star, takes on erratic fake Howell, a conference champion a year ago, but now the second worst team in the

Howell's hopes were further hampered last week when righthander Billy Stripp (4-2) and third baseman John Hawkins didn't make Offensively, the Hawks have three super sticks. Doug Chiodini (.377), sophomore Bill Lang (.375) and David Martinez (.365) can all smack the ball.

Chiodini, a fine all-around player, was Howell's best pitcher (3-2, 2.20), but manager Birto Benjamin will go with senior Randy Ramroth against the Greyhounds. Ramroth, 3-5, gave Lyman fits before losing in extra innings

Bob McCullough's 'Hounds are an opportunistic team. Leadoff man Kenny Brown is the top base stealer in the county and a solid fielder with good range.

First baseman John Reich (.333) has a golden glove at first, while fellow infielders Jorge Sierra and Lee Jenkins can all make contact. They hit over ,300 until the final two weeks of the season. Center fielder Todd Marriott is a devastating hitter with his .390 average, tops in the county, and possesses an excellent throwing arm to go with his fine range. Leftfielder Tom Perkins is a steady .329 hitter as is take-charge catcher Brent Smartt (.317), who jumped his average over 50 points during the last three weeks.

Greyhound pitching has been off and on. When Kevin Brubaker's on, lefty Pat Burkhart is off. And vice-versa. Reliever Willie Pashe (3-1, three saves) possesses an excellent curve ball.

Burkhart tossed a no-hitter this year among his five victories. His ERA has been super all year and now it is a fine 1.42.

Brubaker, the county's winningest pitcher, was 8-2. He doesn't strike out many people, but he throws strikes and gets hitters to hit it on the ground where Lyman's infield gobbles it up.

The Apopka-Spruce Creek survivor and the Mainland-DeLand winner meet Thursday at 4:30 p.m. The Lyman-Howell victory and the Tribe-Brantley winner meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The championship game is Friday at 8 p.m.

Lyman's Marriott put on a surge in the final three games to win the county batting title for Five Star performers.

He hit .390, while Howell's Chiodini (.377) and Lang (.375) and Martinez (.365) were next in

Chiedini, a senior, led in runs batted in with 23. Marriott was second with 20. Martinez led in runs scored with 25, while Chiodini and Lyman's Brown were second with 23. Lyman's Reich along with Howell's Jim Reyal, Martinez and Tony Dimeuro all slammed three home runs. Brown stole 24-of-25 bases and Seminole's Von Herbulis stole 21-of-23, Marriott had a perfect 19-of-19.

Brantley's Novak led in earned run average (1.35) and strikeouts (71). Lyman's Brubaker posted the most victories with eight. Greyhound Pashe had the most saves - three.

Raiders, 31-0

By SAM COOK

Herald Sports Editor Seminole Community College's talented tennis team blew away its 31st opponent in a row Monday, This time the Raiders drubbed visiting Daytona Beach Community College, 9-0, to complete a perfect season.

Thirty-one and zero is impressive enough in itself, but when 26 of those victories were by 9-0 scores and the other five, 8-1 routs, coach Larry Castle knows he's got something besides his usual powerhouse.

"I'd have to say we were in the top three in the nation," said Castle about his JC standing. "Tyler and Midland, Texas have pretty good teams and so does Gainesville, Georgia."

And you can add SCC too. The unblemished mark gave the Ralders their ninth straight Mid-Florida Conference title. The Raiders leave Wednesday for Cocoa

Seminole Netters Vie For District Finals

Seminole High's Candi Crocker, Patti Edgemon, Susanna Huaman and the doubles team of Angie Barley and Edgemon think that eight is great, but they want more.

After one day of district tennis competition at Winter Park Crocker, Edgemon and Huaman along with the doubles tandem of Barley-Edgemon have advanced to the elite eight.

Tuesday morning, they hope to continue their quest for a district championship. Crocker, the Tribe's No. 1 player, turned in the guttiest performance. She nipped Osceola's Debbie Siering 7-6, 7-6. Crocker outlasted Siering twice in tiebreakers, 5-3. She played Lake Howell's Kathryn Enriquez today.

Barley, the No. 2 singles player, lost to Debbie Rollason 6-1, 6-1.

Edgemon drew Apopka's Nancy Davis and won by default 6-0,6-0. Today, she played Arny Seminole's No. 5 player Tracy McNeill lost to Trinity Prep's Laura Porterfield 6-1, 6-1.

Edgemon-Barley won by easy 6-1 scores in doubles play, but Crocker-Huaman dropped a tough 6-4, 4-6, 5-7 decision to Tiffin-Moran.

Edgemon-Barley takes on Lake Howell's Patty Dost and Lori Gergick today.

Beardsley Gets Glance Of Respect From Salazar

BOSTON (UPI) - After 26 miles, it all came down to a glance over the shoulder

It was a gesture of praise from Alberto Salazar, one that told Dick Beardaley he appreciated the noble effort.

Also, it was a signal from Salazar that told Beardsley, while he ran well for 26-plus miles the final 200 yards would not belong to him. Grimacing with every step down the stretch and although he later would need three intravenous feedings due to heat loss, Salazar had the kick down the stretch when it counted.

What is most remarkable about Monday's 86th running of the Boston Marathon is that these two runners, on a day decidedly unfavorable for such achievement, ran the fourth and fifth fastest marathons of all time and shattered (by 35 and 33 seconds) the previous best mark in the race's

What also is startling is, third-place finisher, John Lodwick, was never in contention the whole race and finished a shade more than three minutes (or about 1/4 mile) behind the top two,

Salazar, 23, who rapidly is becoming the most versatile and gifted road runner in the world, finished in 2 hours, 8 minutes and 51 seconds. Beardsley, who lives in a 100-year-old log cabin in Rush City, Minn., but had trained for Boston in Georgia, finished in 2:08.53.

The two-second difference tied the closest finish in the race's history. Bill Rodgers had edged Texas seminarian Jeff Wells by two seconds in 1978, but those two had not battled head-to-head over the last 8 miles as had Salazar and Beardisey.

"I would have thought a 2:06 would have won, especially on a day like today," said Beardsley.

"We both went at it head to head from the time the gun went off. My feelings were trying to give everything I had to catch Alberto, I just fell short by a couple of steps."

Salazar, who said he had not felt well all day, did not make the post-race news conference and first met reporters at the awards ceremony three hours later. Visible were bandages on each arm from the Intravenous feedings. Also visible was an ashen face, a reminder of the grueling, brilliant effort. 'The worst thing was the cramping sensation in my legs. But at the end, I was sure I could have sprinted another quarter mile at the speed I did the last 10 yards."

The finish was reminiscent of the Falmouth Road Race in 1979, when Salazar valiantly, but unsuccessfully, chased Bill Rodgers to the finish.

About Who Shot Him Or Why

Shooting Victim Refuses To Talk

concerning a Monday night shooting at a Sanford bar which left one man with a bullet wound in his leg about the size of a gilver dollar.

Phillip O'Neal Ford, 18, of 1206 Lincoln Ct., Sanford, is listed in fair condition today at Seminole Memorial Hospital after he was shot in the left thigh, near his knee, with a shotgun at the Silver Tip Tavern, 1509 W. 13th St.

"He's what we call an uncooperative victim," said police 8gt. Herb Shea, assistant to Chief Ben Butler. "He has implied that he knows who shot him and why but that he plans to take care of it himself and refuses to tell us anything."

Police said Ford was shot at about 8:50 p.m. with a shotgun at close range. He was transported to the hospital by Herndon Ambulance personnel, police said.

Ambulance worders said they also treated Ford for a slight head injury, possibly caused by a ricocheting bullet fragment.

POLICE ARREST GUARD

Police arrested a 19-year-old security guard over the weekend on charges of stealing money from a petty cash fund at Acme Conveyors, 540 Pecan Ave., Sanford.

Bryan Lynn Lickert, of 2600 Orange Court, Longwood, was being held today in the county jail on $100 bond following his arrest Sunday, jail officials said.

Because of prior thefts of the cash at the business, officers of Mohawk Security placed marked bills in the fund Sunday morning and confronted a guard Sunday afternoon about the thefts, police said.

THIEVES STEAL PIT BULL A Sanford man's 4-month-old pit bulldog was stolen sometime between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. Thursday. Jeff Ratliff, 21, of 414 Myrtle Ave., told police that someone stole his puppy from his backyard. The missing dog is valued at about $100, police said.

HUNGRY BURGLARS STRIKE Thieves broke into a Sanford woman's home sometime between 10:30 a.m., and 11:30 p.m. Saturday, stole a clock radio and ate some drief beef, a pound of candy and several cookies. Upon investigation, deputies followed footprints from the home of Agnes Short, 54, into a nearby wooded area and discovered candy wrappers and the stolen radio which had been discarded by the thieves.

MONEY STOLEN FROM LODGE

Police are looking for a man suspected of stealing $724 cash from the Lodge On The Green motel in Casselberry at about 6 p.m. Monday.

Lucille M. Merrick, lodge owner, told deputies that a hitchhiker had rented a room from her Monday night and a short time later she discovered her money missing. When she went to the new renter's room, she found he was gone and had left the door key on a table, deputies said.

Deputies added that patrons of a nearby restaurant said a man, matching the description of the suspected thief, had been seen in the restaurant flashing a large amount of money.

SUSPECTED SMUGGLERS HELD

Bond for an Altamonte Springs man arrested Tuesday and being held in Jackson ville in connection with a drug smuggling ring operating out of central Florida has been reduced from $100,000 to $75,000.

with Winter Park millionaire and Ohio businessman Robert Govern following a Jacksonville grand jury's indictment of 13 men suspected of operating what narcotics agents are calling, "the largest drug smuggling operation in central Florida

Also arrested were Govern, who is suspected of heading the illegal drug ring; Steven T. Liberatore, 33, president of Paradise Island Productions, Inc., with offices in Columbus and Cincinatti; Thomas Wilkerson, 28, of Lady Lake; Gabriel Quintero, 27, of Ocala; and Chan Zielie, 39, of Edgewater. Bonds for the men are set at $10 million; $200,000; $20,000; $40,000; and $25,000, respectively.

The defendants in the case have all entered pleas of innocent before U.S. Magistrate Harvey E. Schlesinger in Jacksonville in connection with charges against them for racketeering, drug possession, conspiracy, tax violation and distributing 700,000 pounds of marijuana through a network of farms in Florida, Georgia, Texas and Mississippi. In addition, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) says Govern owes the government about $13.3 million in back taxes. Tax liens in that amount have been filed against Govern and six corporations, which are controlled by him or suspected of being trustees in his business operations.

The IRS also claims the smuggling suspects netted more than $150 million profit from the illegal operations and that the money was "laundered" through various businesses.

The IRS has seized Govern's homes in Winter Park, Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach, Dovetall Villas, a $3.3 million Orlando apartment complex built by Govern's G.M. Builders, Inc., and four farms.

If convicted, Govern could face up to 120 years in prison and

At Long Last, Matheny Ditch Will Be Filled

Herald Staff Writer

While they didn't expect the battle to last eight months, James and Eloise Matheny found that you can fight City Hall

"I feel we won because they (city officials) are going to pipe and fill the ditch but we are out about $2,000 fighting it," said James Matheny, of 1315 Quintuplet Drive, Casselberry.

The City Council voted Monday night to pipe and fill a 312foot-long and 5-foot-deep ditch which was dug by city work crews near the Matheny home on Casselberry Gardens Inc., property in August. The ditch was intended to carry storm water runoff.

The Matheny's along with their lawyer, Gerald Kornian, have attended almost every Monday night council meeting since the ditch was dug to argue that the ditch is dangerous, unsightly, eroding the Matheny's land and lowering their property value.

City officials, including Mayor Owen Sheppard, maintain that the ditch is not dug on Matheny property and therefore, the city is not obligated to the couple to pipe and fill the ditch.

However, in an effort to bury the ditch issue, the City Council voted 4-1 to install used pipe in the ditch and fill it at a cost to the city of $3,065. Casselberry Gardens, Inc. will pay an additional $500 toward the project. Councilman Jim Lavigne said he could not go along with his colleagues because of the cost. He said he did not feel it was fair to pass the cost along to other Casselberry residents to pipe and fill the Matheny ditch. The ditch is situated in an easement on Casselberry Gardens, Inc. property adjacent to the Matheny's lot. The Mathenys indicated Monday night that they agree with the council's decision to pipe and fill the ditch but that they,

"had hoped for compensation of the near $2,000 we spent in fighting this thing," Matheny said. "It's dragged on all this time because I couldn't get any cooperation from the man (Sheppard)," Matheny added. Korman said he considered the council's decision, "a moral victory but I would have considered it a complete victory if they'd gotten back some of the money they put into this thing

"However, I think the council acted wisely in the long run," he added.

"of a significant degree."

Aside from the cost of piping and filling the ditch, City Engineer Kenneth Ehlers told the council the piping could have an adverse effect on the water quality of Lake Marie. However, he said he did not feel that the adverse effect will be

Beginning May 1, State Sales Tax Up To A Nickel

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - State officials are rushing to implement the penny sales tax increase approved by the Legislature a couple of weeks ago, the first boost in the tax in 14 years.

Gov. Bob Graham signed the tax increase bill into law Monday and praised the Legislature for finding state dollars for better law enforcement and local property tax relief. Graham and the Cabinet will adopt emergency rules today giving the Department of Revenue authority to enforce and collect the higher tax, which goes into effect May 1. The tax is going to a nickel on the dollar. Food, medical care, homes and other "necessities" will remain exempted. The penny increase will generate around $770 million in the 1962-83 fiscal year. Half will go to the state for law enforcement, pay raises and education. Half will go to cities and counties, who must use much of their share to roll back or at least freeze property

"This is a tax for the people and a tax against crime," Graham said Monday, "This is a major step for Florida." "The new revenues will allow the state to consolidate the most ambitious law enforcement program in its history," the governor said. The property tax relief is critical because cities and counties will be able to "improve the quality of life in their communities without putting an undue burden on property

Much of the local government share also will go for law enforcement, although governments can use it for a variety of

"I am pleased that the Legislature concurred with me on this matter," Graham said of the sales tax hike.

Jay Breeze, counselor with the Florida State seekers and not enough professional openings in Employment Service office in Sanford, discusses job prospects with a recent college graduate. Breeze says there are too many degreed job the area. "They often have to take what they can get rather than what they'd like," he says.

A Good Job Not Guaranteed

College Degree No Longer A Ticket To The Good Life

Special to the Herald

Each year, more and more people attend college, most of them with the idea that a degree translates into a well-paying job. But as the economy sputters and the number of degreeholders increases, today's graduates are finding that a college diploma isn't necessarily a ticket to the good life.

College graduates often flud themselves in the position of having to take what's available, rather than what they'd like. In central Florida experts say the number of graduates seeking professional employment tends to exceed the amount of available positions. "Most of our students are home-grown, local people who don't want to leave the area," according to director of Cooperative Education and Placement at the University of Central Florida. "It's my opinion that there aren't enough degree positions available for all these graduates." The nature of the central Florida labor market is also a factor. "This whole area is peculiar," said Jay Breeze, a counselor at the Florida State Employment Service office in Sanford. "There are a lot of representative occupations, but only four types of major industry - tourism, service, agriculture and government. By and large, these four determine the economy here," Breeze said.

"Florida is a desirable place for factories to relocate. They can increase or decrease production at will. There is an unlimited supply of cheap labor, so their coming doesn't mean a lot of opportunity for professional people.

"Unless they go into government or relocate, entry-level professional opportunity is limited," Breeze said. "Liberal arts degrees present the greatest placement problem."

Degreed job seekers can find themselves in a double bind between lack of suitable opportunities and the reluctance of some employers to hire workers who might desert them when something better comes along.

"There's a great deal of employer prejudice against the over-qualified worker, unless of course the over-qualification is in that specific occupational area," Breeze said. "It's hard to convince the employer to take a chance on him."

Of course, being "overqualified" for the job can be an asset if the job relates to the applicant's area of expertise. "Employers love an education," said Gwen Hatton of the Sanford office of AAA Employment. "Employers get hardworking people who are getting their first opportunity to prove themselves in their career. A college student hired in his field seems most happy for the opportunity.

"Students are being more realistic, and realize the need for

"It's to the employer's advantage to hire a college graduate." Ms. Hatton emphasized the need for job seekers to be realistic. Applicants may need to be "willing to start low, rather than expecting to start at the top. They need to consider the future opportunity, not just the immediate situation," she

"You should consider what you can do for the employer. An example of this is the business school graduate who accepts a position as a bank teller, with the expectation that he'll move up to a higher-level position later on."

The graduate trying to put his degree to work needs to set priorities; what's most important to him and what he's willing to give up. Is he willing to start low to get into a certain field?

You should consider what you can do for the employer. An example of this is the business school graduate who accepts a position as a bank teller, with the expectation that he'll move up to a higher-level position later on.'— Gwen Hatton

Workers unable to find just the right job frequently use veterans benefits to go back to school for retraining or start a second career, Breeze said.

"Someone who has been trained as a computer programmer, for example, may find that he or she just can't get a position as a programmer in Sanford. That's part of the counseling process, setting values and priorities, then making decisions.

One of those decisions may be accepting the realization that one is a member of what economists have called the "downwardly mobile" generation, "Many (college) graduates are finding themselves having to settle for a lower standard of living than their parents attained," Breeze said.

While the overall economic picture hopefully will improve, the experts say the employment outlook for college graduates isn't likely to soon be as rosy as it was a generation ago.

Hope For Redistricting

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) - Gov. Bob Graham expects the Legislature to finally agree on a congressional reapportionment plan, and he may call a special session on the matter next month.

Talks on congressional redistricting are going on among a few legislators informally, and Graham is hopeful they will produce a plan and keep the job from being done by the federal courts.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Haig Arrives Home With Little Prospect For Peace

By United Press International Secretary of State Alexander Haig arrived in Washington today from five days of what he called "arduous" bargaining with Argentina, but Britain said his proposals for averting war over the Falkland Islands appeared unacceptable.

Haig told newsmen at Andrews Air Force Base he would report to President Reagan on the latest peace proposals, which he described as "a compilation of Argentina's attitudes on the crisis."

Sinai Withdrawal Slowed

YAMIT, Israeli-occupied Sinai (UPI) - Diehard squatters who were ordered evicted from the Sinai won a day's reprieve today because of nationwide memorials for the 6 million Jews killed during the Nazi occupation of Europe.

The somber observances also slowed the pace of hectic contacts between Egypt, Israel and the United States over the differences between Cairo and Jerusalem that remained, only days before next Sunday's transfer of the Sinai to Egypt.

Seminole Law Week Activities Planned

"Florida Lawyers: Reaching Out To Serve" will be the theme of Seminole County Law Week which begins Monday and runs through May 2.

The goal of Law Week is to "help even more people become aware of the wide variety of legal services Seminole County has to offer, many of which are either free or available at a low cost," according to law Week media coordinator and Assistant State Attorney Randy Kramer.

As part of the observance, local attorneys with various legal specialties will hold an open house from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Tuesday at the Altamonte-Eastmonte Civic Center to talk with individuals free of charge about their particular legal problems:

As part of the Law Week speakers bureau, a Seminole County attorney will provide a general or specialized speech to any group, club or civic organization. To line up a speaker, contact Ralph Eriksson at 323-4330.

Throughout Law Week, area attorneys will man a booth in the Altamonte Mall to provide free legal assistance to the public. Hours will be 6-9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

The week will climax at 10 a.m. Saturday with a softball game between members of the county bar association and Seminole law enforcement agencies. The game will be played at the Altamonte Springs recreation center and is free to the

Seminole Hospital Wins National Accreditation

A three-year Certificate of Accreditation, one of the first in the nation, has been awarded to Sanford's Seminole Memorial Hospital by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH). James D. Tesar, administrator of SMH and its replacement, Central Florida Regional Hospital, said, "This means our efforts to provide high quality patient care have earned our hospital preofessional recognition. We are proud of this accomplishment and have congratulated our medical staff and employees who have through their hard work and dedication earned this benchmark of excellence."

The decision to seek accreditation is voluntary and reflects a sincere commitment by the hospital and its staff to the principle of voluntary quality assurance activities, Tesar said. Previously, an institution could earn a one-or a two-year accreditation certificate depending on level of compliance as measured against JCAH criteria. As of January 1982, an institution is awarded a three-year certificate or must wait for another survey to prove the stringent JCAH standards have been met, he said.

The survey team which evaluated SMH in late January consisted of a physician, registered nurse, hospital administrator and laboratory technologist. All thoroughly studied quality assurance plans and records with each evaluating assigned areas, Tesar said.

The physician not only examined medical staff credentials, but also by-laws, charting, as well as medical records, respiratory and physical therapy and central services. The administrator studied policies-procedures, governing board's role and activities, budget, physical plant and safety measures.

Rains Up Area Lake Levels, But Not By Much

tral Florida lakes to rise slightly, but the amount is not nearly enough to bring lakes back to long-lost normal levels, officials

"Lakes have been so low it would take a substantial amount of rain to see any great difference in levels," said Lloyd

Reynolds, chief lakes surveyor for the Orlando engineering bureau.

"On average, lakes are 70 inches below their normal water levels."

Surveyors determine a normal level based on weather cycles

Reynolds said the normal level is used to determine where builders can build without high risk of flooding.

At the end of last week, 4.91 inches of rain had been recorded in the Orlando area for April, exceeding the month's average

Longwood May Have Violated Its Own Law In Wrecker Case

A week ago, the Longwood City Commission granted Fred Peterson an exception to a city ordinance prohibiting the parking of wrecker vehicles in residential areas.

And Menday night the commission wondered whether it violated its own ordinance by granting the temperary exception.

Peterson, who operates one of the city's two commission that it granted him the temporary exception to park his wrecker at 1187 Second Pl. between 11 p.n; and 7:30 a.m.

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI) - Blacks marched through the rain in Alabama and into the sanctuary of a south Georgia church on the first day of a march to Washington aimed at focusing attention on a move to erode the 1965 Voting Hights Act.

The singing and chanting parades Monday evoked images of the 1960s civil rights movement in the two-city stop that aitracted crowds of about 2,500 people.

Organizers say the march will make stops later in the Georgia cities of Cordele, Dublin, Milledgeville, Sandersville and Augusta, then move into South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia.

blasted Congress for trying to weaken the Voting Rights bill and President Reagan for his economic policies and the buildup of the military.

The march, organized by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, will culminate in late June or July with a mass rally in Washington that could include a re-enactment of "Resurrection City" - where blacks camped out in the Capital "America needs a black movement today," the Rev. Joseph

Lowery told about 600 gathered in the Mount Zion Baptist Church, "God's calling black people in the 1980s just as he did in the 1960s to save America - not just black people but all "The Voting Rights Act is the single most important piece of legislation in our time and if we sit back and let them take it away then we don't deserve any better," said Lowery, president of the SCLC.

Lowery chastized black people for their apathy in not registering to vote and said that apathy was opening the way for whites to deny blacks their right.

"They're diluting your vote. That's why we have got to rise up and fight back. Many of the gains of the 1960s have been eroded right before your eyes," Lowery said to the crowd, some of which were clothed in church robes. "It is time for us to help ourselves to political justice." The march was given a boisterous sendoff in Tuskegee with the Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of the Chicago-based Operation PUSH, firing up a crowd of about 2,000 gathering in a high school gymnasium.

The group, which drove the 125 miles from Tuskegee to Albany, then marched into the city at dusk, plans to stay two days in Dougherty County to register voters, then move upstate to Cordele for a similar march and voter canvassing.

Lowery said the pilgrimage to Washington was being carried out "on faith alone." He said it had started with very little money and would be relying on contributions to meet the $600 per day expenses.
