Accident on Hwy. 17-92

LAKE MARY — One person was transported to South Seminole Community Hospital, Longwood, Wednesday afternoon following a two-car accident on U.S. Highway 17-92 near County Road 419.

Seminole County Emergency Medical Services director Frank Kirk said the two vehicles were "heavily damaged" as a result of the accident that occurred at about 5:15 p.m. Kirk said one unidentified person that was temporarily trapped first refused treatment when released but was then taken to the Longwood hospital with minor injuries.

Details of the accident or names of the individuals involved were unavailable this morning from the Florida Highway Patrol.

Water cut-off 'terrible'

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

MIDWAY — Residents here were angry Wednesday after water to their homes and Midway Elementary was shut off without warning for hours by crews working on State Road 46.

"How are we supposed to bathe?" asked Amy Lawrence. "I've been without water all day. I had to take water out of the refrigerator to cook. I haven't been able to do the laundry. I want my money back."

"This is a terrible situation," said Jimmie Blake, standing across from Midway Elementary School. "All these kids. That's just not right."

Homan said late this morning that a decision was made by DOT and APAC officials to suspend further road construction until the status of the main water line issue can be resolved.

Homan said water association officials originally told them the line was made of steel, but APAC found it was made of asbestos concrete, which cannot withstand the construction process.

The turned-off water left officials with the Midway-Canaan Water Users Association angry and confused. The association buys water from Sanford and sells it to the approximately 750 homes and businesses in the community.

"They didn't notify us at all," vice president James Byrd told Blake and Lawrence.

"The phone has been ringing off the hook," said

City to consider Romance expansion

By NICK PFEIFAUF

SANFORD — Land purchased last year by the owners of the rivership Grand Romance, may become the ship's new headquarters. The city's Planning and Zoning Commission will consider approving the site plan at tonight's meeting.

Nancy Yvrouis, president of the cruise ship operation, and her brother, who is also an officer in the cruise company, purchased slightly over 2 acres of land just west of the Sanford City Hall, at 399 W. Seminole Boulevard. The property extends from the lakefront, southward, almost to Fulton Street.

At the time, Yvrouis said the land had been obtained for possible expansion, but revealed no plans to use the property in the immediate future. Now, a site plan, developed by Blount Sikes & Associates, will be presented for consideration.

The plan is in two phases. The first involves development of the land to handle parking for persons taking the boat cruise. Also included will be small office areas, which will be used temporarily until a permanent building can be constructed. At that time, the area will be transformed to double garages.

The second phase involves the construction of a two story office building with a large porch facing the lake. Other additions would be two covered employee parking areas. A retention pond would be built between the front of the building and Seminole Boulevard.

Parks closer to refurbishing

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A project called "Neighbors for Neighborhood" will start to move forward tonight. The combined city-citizen project was proposed by Mayor Randy Morris.

During an October City Commission meeting, Morris commented, "Now that we have dedicated our excellent Liberty Park, people have begun asking when the city plans to do something with the various stair-step parks in the residential areas."

To resolve the problem, Morris suggested a refurbishing project for the small parks, calling it, "Neighbors for Neighborhoods." He suggested, "We can take one weekend a month, or even one every few months, and get a group of citizens to converge on one particular park and not only clean it up, but repair the equipment that's there, and maybe add some new items."

He said, "We can do this to our smaller parks, just like the citizens of Sanford did when they took it upon themselves to rebuild Park on Park."

themselves to rebuild Park on Park. We can get people to volunteer work, and maybe equipment and supplies, and really get something accomplished."

The first park to be singled out by the mayor is one known as Donald Duck Park, or Kiddy Park. It is located on the corner of Country Club Road and Lake Mary Avenue, just three blocks north of the Lake Mary City Hall.

Lake Mary chamber picks board

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce selected its new board of directors Wednesday morning. From now on, the board will be selected on a rotational basis.

In past years, the Lake Mary chamber has nominated a new board of directors each year. Although many were re-elected from the previous year's board, the entire body was brought up for approval on an annual basis.

Now, according to a change in the chamber's by-laws, the chamber will only name five new members to its 15 member board each year.

Named to one year terms, which will be up for reconsideration in November 1992, were Ginny Coombs of Mary Kay Cosmetics; Joe Dietz of First Seminole Bank; Phil Featherstone of Chiropractic Neurology Associates; Dave Eiger of Publix Supermarkets; and Jim Miotke of WOFL Channel 35.

Named to two year terms Wednesday were Pat Callaway of Hardy & Callaway Group; John Litton, Lake Mary City Manager; Francie Lundquist of Central Florida Blood Bank; Al Scuito of Special Editions; and Craig Spearman, Independent Consultant.

Ultimate Frisbee

National championships begin today in Sanford

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford will play host this weekend to the national championships of one of the fastest growing sports in the country.

Beginning Thursday afternoon, teams from across the country will begin vying for the Ultimate Frisbee national championships.

Ultimate Frisbee is not just throwing a pie plate along the seashore any more.

"It's much more than that," Der Rambour, one of the coordinators of the event said. "This is a team sport that requires athletes to be in superior shape and to have finetuned coordination skills as well."

The sport, which incorporates many of the elements of basketball and soccer, is played on a field the size of a soccer pitch with teams comprised of seven players each. The object of the game is to pass the frisbee from player to player and score a goal.

"It's a very physically demanding sport," Rambour said.

The Ultimate Players Association, the governing body of the sport, is staffed by volunteers like Rambour who coordinate tournaments and oversee play.

"The teams are all self-funded," he said. "They practice three or four times a week and pay for all their own travel. They are dedicated to this sport."

Rambour said he and fellow coordinator Tim Finan chose Sanford for the national tournament for two reasons.

"We liked the small town charm of Sanford. It's close to the big attractions in Orlando, but it is nice and small and friendly," he explained. "And Joe Baker had those big polo grounds out there that we couldn't resist."

The Baker polo fields, where the preliminary rounds of competition will take place, are located on Pineyway Boulevard, about a mile south of the Lake Mary Boulevard

Rams true to school at parade

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A cool breeze blew through the pine trees along Greenway Boulevard in Lake Mary Wednesday afternoon as several hundred students, teachers and administrators cheered on the school's second annual homecoming parade.

"This is great," said Sandi Fernandez, a junior at Lake Mary. "Everyone's out here to support the school."

In keeping with the theme of Blast to the Past, students dressed in everything from cavegear to fancy Aztec headgear and robes to 1980s tie dyed fashions, and danced down the street past Greenwood Lakes Middle School.

Football coach Doug Peters celebrating his team's tie for first place in the district, put on sequined bell bottoms and swivelled his hips as Elvis on the 1950s float.

"This was a great parade...a great turn out," said principal Don Smith. "Everyone on the freshmen to the football coach was involved and working hard."

While the school has been celebrating homecoming for a decade, yesterday's parade was only the second parade the school has presented.

"Last year we had rain as soon as the first float pulled out," Smith said. "The weather was perfect today."

Eighteen floats and decorated vehicles made their way along the parade route with members of the homecoming court and the football team.

The Lake Mary marching band, along with cheerleaders, flag corps, dancers and other musicians from both Lake Mary High School and Greenwood Lakes Middle School also participated in the parade.

Several awards were given in a variety of categories. They were for the best overall float: Spanish Club; most spirited float: the sophomore class; the closest to the theme: VICA/HOSA.

Students will vote for their choices for the Homecoming king and queen on Friday.

"They will vote all day and then the winner will be announced at Friday night's game," Smith said.

The Rams will face the DeLand Bulldogs in the Homecoming game at 7:30 tomorrow evening at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Football coach Doug Peters as Elvis helps students on the school's Homecoming Parade on Wednesday. The float was given the sophomore class float get in the spirit of homecoming during the award as the most spirited in the parade.

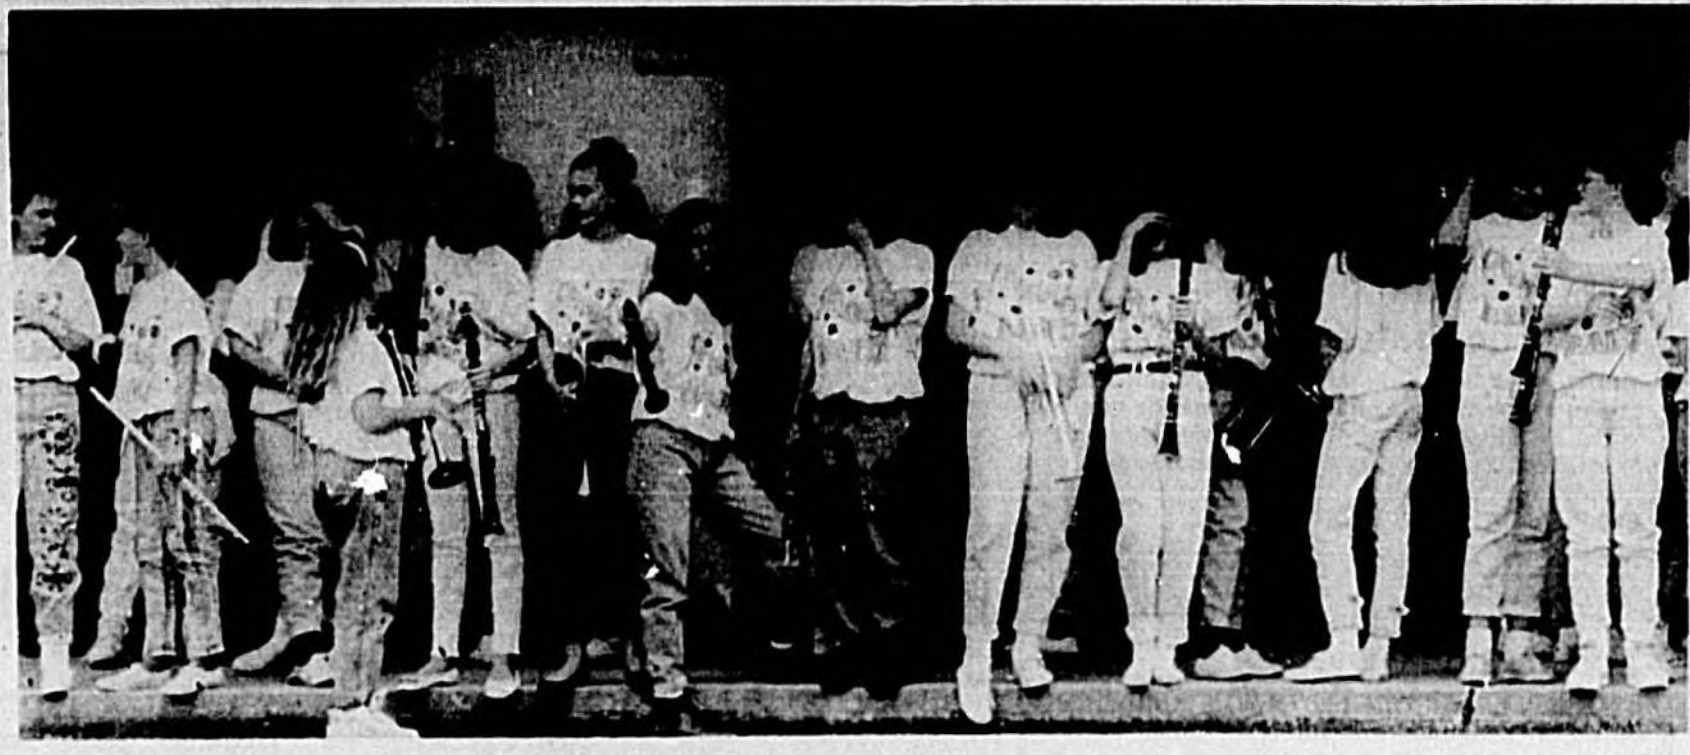

The Lake Mary Flag Corps marched in the Homecoming Parade to the delight of the crowd along Greenway Boulevard.

Students on one float celebrated the Homecoming theme of Blast to the Past by commemorating their favorite celebrated figures from the past, including John Lennon, Judy Garland, Zorro, Queen Elizabeth and Marilyn Monroe.

One Lake Mary student rode her horse in along the parade route to show her school spirit.

Members of the Greenwood Lakes Middle School band waited their turn to step onto the parade route as the middle school helped the high school celebrate homecoming in yesterday's parade, the second parade ever held to mark the event.

Worthless check charges

Chris Acton Sutton, 36, of 187 Paint Post Pointe in Sanford was arrested on Tuesday.

Already in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility serving a sentence on other crimes, he was charged in connection with five warrants.

He was charged with three counts of obtaining property with a worthless check, one count of grand theft burglary and one count of violating his probation in charges of driving under the influence of alcohol.

He is being held without bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Orange County warrant served

Walter Russell Oliver, 37, of 869 Heather Glen Circle in Lake Mary was arrested on Tuesday.

He was charged with obtaining property with a worthless check.

The Orange County warrant was served at his home and he was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $500 bond.

Probation violation charged

Carolyn Whitehead Smith, 35, of 1210 W. 15th St. in Sanford was arrested on Tuesday.

She was charged with violating her probation on charges of forgery.

She was serving time on other charges and was served with the warrant at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Bond in this case was set at $1,000 after the first appearance on this charge.

Traffic stop brings warrants

Mark Alan Clinton, 30, of 147-C Springwood Circle in Longwood was arrested Tuesday.

He was charged with driving with a suspended drivers license and with an unrelated warrant.

Clinton was stopped for a routine traffic check when a driver's license check showed that it had been suspended.

After he was booked at the Winter Springs Police Department, the other warrant was found.

He was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility without bond.

Tax collector reimburses county

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County officials got good news in the form of a $2,096,216 check this week from Seminole County Tax Collector Ray Valdez.

Actually, the check was expected. But what made them happy was the fact the check was very close to what they had expected so no program cuts will have to be made nor will they have to dip into their rainy day fund.

"I'm real happy with the way the tax collector responded this year," said county budget analyst Dick Hudson. "This is the closest it's been in years and years."

Each year, Seminole County commis-ioners "up-front" the operations of the tax collector's office from their general revenue fund, which is largely supplied with property taxes. As the tax collector bills property owners and takes in their payments, he deducts a state-determined commission for his services.

At the end of the year, the tax collector deducts any difference between the budgeted amount and the fees and returns the difference to the county. The county school board and regional water management district also receive repayments for their appropriations to the tax collector from the commissioners. In all, Valdez returned $2.2 million in unneeded commissions.

"We are proud that in Seminole County the office of the tax collector has developed a history of operating this office so efficiently and economically that there are unused revenues left over at the end of each year which are not required for operating purposes," Valdez said. "We are proud to be a part of the cure and not a part of the problem of the increasing demand for more tax dollars."

Hudson said Valdez had estimated earlier this year that he would repay them $2,123,977 based on his operations estimates. The difference in the actual repayment was only $27,761 — a tiny drop in the county's $283 million overall annual operating budget. Hudson said the 1.3 percent discrepancy was small compared to prior years' 100 or 200 percent differences.

Board still wrestling with method of choosing school superintendent

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Several hours prior to the meeting Tuesday night in Alachua County in which Supt. Bob Hughes was offered the superintendency in that county, the Seminole County school board continued to wrestle with the method they will use to search for the a candidate to replace him.

While still maintaining that Hughes will be a candidate to retain his job until he officially resigns his post, which is expected within days, the board tried to iron out some details of how they will conduct the search.

Board member Sandy Robinson brought information to the board about two professional executive search companies, but the board did not have the opportunity to study the material last evening. Because it was a work session rather than a meeting no decisions could have been made in any event.

Information from Staviv, Nevins and Associates of Atlanta and Winter International of Daytona Beach will be reviewed over the next two weeks and discussed at the Nov. 19 meeting.

A vote is expected on the subject at the Dec. 10 meeting. The board is divided over the issue of whether to use a professional search company or to use the services of the Florida School Board Association (FSBA).

Vice chairman Nancy Warren and board member Jeanne Morris support having Wayne Blanton, president of the FSBA, lead the search with the assistance of the school district staff.

Board members Sandy Robinson and Dr. Barbara Kuhn believe it would be more prudent to look at other options before making a final decision.

"I want to make sure the search is objective," said Robinson. "I want to make sure we have a choice in the matter. And I want to be cost conscious."

Her highest priority, she added, was to get the best person for the job.

In addition to looking at the private companies, Robinson said she will also contact the National School Board Association in an effort to find additional sources for search assistance. "We've got to look at all our options," Robinson said.

At the December meeting the board is also expected to begin the process of naming members to the committee that will help with the selection.

Low cost housing seminar scheduled

By NICK PEFFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole Housing Advocacy Coalition, SHAC, will hold an all-day seminar Friday on low cost housing needs in the area. Problems as well as possible solutions will be discussed.

SHAC President, Angie Romagosa said, "We are very happy to have Pat Pepper as our keynote speaker." Pepper is the Housing Coordinator for the Department of Human Affairs.

"In addition to Pat," Romagosa said, "we will have representatives of the county and various city governments, bankers, social service agency leaders and builders on hand to help answer questions and make some suggestions."

The seminar will focus on what SHAC has determined to be: "the lack of suitable affordable housing for low and moderately low income families in Seminole County."

The seminar will be held from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., at the Parish Annex of St. Mary Magdalen Church, 861 Maitland Avenue, Altamonte Springs.

Romagosa said, "The seminar is open to everyone in Seminole County and the various cities who are interested in low and middle income housing."

Cost for the event is $10, payable at the door. The charge includes a bag lunch for persons who have previously registered, but additional persons are urged to take a bag lunch to the day-long session.

For further information, contact SHAC at 260-9155.

Boy Scouts to raise funds for activities

SANFORD — Boy Scout Troop 34 is launching a fund raising drive this Saturday. Money raised will go to finance scout activities for the coming year.

The event is a hotdog and Pepsi sale, to be held at the three area Ace Hardware Stores, Saturday, in conjunction with Ace's 13th Anniversary Storewide Sale.

Boy Scout Troop 34 has been sponsored by the First United Methodist Church of Sanford for the past 50 years.

Jim Kraemer, one of the assistant scout masters said the troop's mission is, "to serve others by helping to instill values in young people and prepare them to make ethical choices over their lifetime in achieving their full potential."

Among upcoming scouting events to be financed through Saturday's drive are campouts and other outings, as well as replacement of some old scouting equipment.

The hotdog and Pepsi sale will be held at Ace Hardware Stores at 207 E. 25th Street in Sanford, 170 W. S.R. 434 in Longwood, and 641 W. Lake Mary Boulevard in Lake Mary.

The basics

At a recent second-grade back-to-school night, a parent surveyed bulletin boards covered with neatly drawn letters meant to guide the students in penmanship and wondered aloud about the use of so much energy in the mastery of an obsolete skill.

In his own life, computer keyboards and other electronic devices have become so pervasive that the occasion for touching pencil to paper is rare.

At the office, he writes using the computer, jots notes and outlines on the screen, keeps appointments on an electronic date-minder and uses voice mail for phone messages.

At home there is another computer for writing letters, doing the bills and keeping budgets. His pen comes into action mostly to sign checks, a task that will disappear when he gets around to signing up for electronic banking.

He counts that as progress. In grade school, his penmanship was Miss Ten Eyck's despair. After surveying the crabbed scrawl that he passed off as script, his father had once assured him that, if all else failed, there was always employment for someone who could write the Lord's prayer on the head of a pin. Had the computer revolution come 15 years sooner, a whole platoon of college graders might have been spared eyestraining hours with his blue books.

But now comes the news from the annual Comdex show, the big electronics exhibit in Las Vegas. The wave of the future, the stories report, is the pen-based computer, a device that get its instructions and data not from a keyboard, but from an electronic pen used on a screen.

His first reaction is disbelief. No software, however cleverly written, could be expected to work out his handwriting and make sense of it for a machine.

Then suddenly there is dread: the prospect that the very electronic devices that have freed him to perform such unnatural acts as penning "a's" that can be distinguished from "o's," and "g's" that can be sorted out from "s's."

Somewhere, he thinks, Miss Ten Eyck must be enjoying her sweet vindication.

At a recent second-grade back-to-school night, a parent surveyed bulletin boards covered with neatly drawn letters meant to guide the students in penmanship and wondered aloud about the use of so much energy in the mastery of an obsolete skill.

Asteroid defense

Most people have no trouble accepting the possibility that the dinosaurs may have been killed off by an asteroid strike 65 million years ago. But, aside from a few astronomers, no one is especially worried that asteroids could pose a threat to human life today.

In recent years, though, scientists using telescopes have discovered about 10,000 asteroids, some up to 3 miles wide, that fly in orbits that bring them close to Earth. Scientists also have been detecting near misses and discovering more asteroid craters on the Earth.

When an asteroid more than a mile wide came uncomfortably close to Earth in 1989, Congress was concerned enough to ask the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for a study. Now the results are in and NASA believes it would be worthwhile to plot the paths of the 10,000 asteroids in order to provide a warning time of a potential collision with Earth.

The odds of "a big one" striking Earth are remote. In fact, scientists estimate a big strike occurs only once every 300,000 to 1 million years.

So, NASA's study group has been careful to stress that the chances of a mile-wide asteroid strike in the next year are not much greater than that of any given individual being struck by lightning — about one in a million. But the scientists also point out that because a large asteroid could create much destruction, the risks should be explored more fully.

The study team concludes that the orbits of most of the dangerous asteroids could be precisely plotted within 25 years by training only six special telescopes on the problem. This would give warning of any impending strike decades ahead of time. That would be time enough perhaps to do something to avert it, such as mounting a mission to intercept the asteroid and nudge it into a safe orbit with a powerful blast. The $72 million price tag for NASA's project seems a bargain that Congress should consider.

CHUCK STONE

David Duke has unusual bedfellows

The collegiality-shattering message out of Louisiana is not David Duke's "Ku Klux Klan member to elected official" respectability, but the depth of support among right-wing Republicans and black conservatives for his legislative agenda.

When the Republican gubernatorial candidate denounces quotas, affirmative action, welfare abuses, escalating street crime, widespread school failures and a massive job-losing recession, who can disagree with him?

When Duke calls for more self-initiative to replace spirit-debilitating welfare, isn't that what Clarence Thomas said his sister needed?

But, insist Duke's opponents, he is a KKK wolf in three-piece-suit sheep's clothing. The accusation falls on many deaf ears. This is the age of videocracy where the medium is the only message.

And David Duke comes across on television like Jack Armstrong, the all-American boy. "He's so cute," gushed retired nurse and life-long Democrat Ann Jernigan at a Baton Rouge rally. "How can anyone who looks like that be bad?"

Easily. That's why an ex-actor was elected president.

Handsome David Duke is the logical evolution of the past three presidential elections, in which cinematic Reagan was elected twice, and his water boy was elected the third time. And now shocked Americans are shedding crocodile tears over the gall of Louisiana voters for the same racial evil that has been lurking "in the heart of man" since 1880.

"There is no bigger problem we have ... in the country than the rising welfare class," Republican Duke declared recently. "I believe in equal rights for all, special privileges for none."

That is a catechism that most Republicans repeat, that George Bush advocates and that black conservatives preach. The only two differences between the 1991 political messages of David Duke and black conservatives are the tawdriness of his past and the color of their skin.

I have yet to hear any cries of distress from black conservatives.

The rise of Duke should come as no surprise to informed observers of politics. For the past 11 years, the subliminal racial appeals of Reagan's "Chicago welfare queen" and Bush's Willie Horton have nurtured Republican supporters ranging from Northern conservative George Will to Southern conservative David Duke.

But subliminal messages don't remain subliminal forever. Eventually, somebody acts them out. Louisiana voters did this year.

Southern-reared columnist Edwin M. Yoder Jr. touched on the etiology of Republican strategies and Duke actions when he recently wrote: "Not until the Republicans chuck the whole nasty kit-bag of appeals to race, the sly and subtle with the rude and blatant, will their suit for divorce from David Duke be granted."

Curiously, I have yet to hear any cries of distress from black conservatives about David Duke. But if you dig a little deeper, their silence makes sense. In the game of power politics, a David Duke will help attract more Democrats to the conservative camp. Black conservatives mistakenly believe that this will enhance their power base.

Black conservatives provide a similar imprimatur for white conservatives who are ecstatic at the prospect of breaking up the ethnic unity that ushered other ethnic groups into political power.

"How appropriate. Some kids were supposed to come for Halloween dressed as an economic recovery ... but they never showed up."

FLORIDA COMMENTARY

For Florida: Vote Kids in '92

By JACK LEVINE

The Florida Budget War of 1991 rages on. Each day brings news from the front — strategic maneuvers, new alliances, and the inevitable casualty lists.

The first skirmish erupted when Governor Chiles and the Cabinet, faced with a $600 million deficit, proposed a set of devastating cuts. After sniping over details, they were poised to take action when suddenly, from a southern flank, the budget-cutting process was ambushed.

Miami attorney Karen Gievers, on behalf of six foster children, challenged the Governor and Cabinet's authority to cut the Guardian ad Litem Program. While the Gievers' action targeted that one program, Dade Circuit Judge Henry Ferro's ruling was more far-reaching. His order voided all executive authority to perform a singularly legislative function — namely appropriations.

Entering into the fray, the Florida Supreme Court ruled that the Governor and Cabinet have no authority to cut the budget. Citing the constitutional separation of powers, the court's decision mandates the Legislature to act.

Legalesse aside, the budget remains unbalanced. No matter who wields the sword, cuts are pending to an array of quality services including maternal and infant health care, emergency help for homeless families, special care for disabled children, and the range of education programs. It's my fear that these cuts will never heal.

While politicians parry over constitutional principles, attention should not be diverted from the real issue: Why can't politicians muster the will to provide the family-building services our children need to grow up as healthy, educated, and productive citizens.

Let's face facts. Florida isn't a poor state, we just treat our children poorly. Our state ranks 45th nationally on eight key indicators of child health and well-being. As the 19th wealthiest state per capita, Floridians can afford to provide a better down payment for our children. Bridging the 26-state gap between our collective wealth and the dismal state of our children's health is Florida's single greatest challenge for the decade ahead.

Because children can't vote, don't form political action committees, and have no direct voice in the politics that affect them, they're the casualties of every political battle. But parents and grandparents are beginning to fight back. In towns and cities throughout Florida, advocates are creating a movement which will, if properly fueled, ignite powerful activism on behalf of their children.

To achieve maximum political impact, the Florida Center for Children & Youth is launching a year-long nonpartisan project entitled: FLORIDA CHILDREN'S CAMPAIGN: VOTE KIDS '92.

The Campaign will recruit an army of advocates to fight for families and bring children to the forefront of the 1992 election cycle. Through a massive voter registration, candidate education and public awareness effort, the Campaign will place children at the center of public and political attention.

It's time for the hand-wringing and head-shaking to end. Our families can no longer afford to be the victims of political warfare. It's time to wage an all-out campaign to capture the hearts and minds of Floridians. The politics of children is too important to surrender to the politicians.

For FLORIDA CHILDREN'S CAMPAIGN information contact: VOTE KIDS '92 P.O. Box 66-16, Tallahassee, FL 32314.

Jack Levine has served as executive director of the Florida Center for Children & Youth since 1979. The Center is a citizen's organization, supported by membership dues and foundation grants. It receives no financial support from the State of Florida.

Israel's Shamir has no love for Bush

WASHINGTON — Dan Quayle has a fan club and the president of it is Yitzhak Shamir.

The Israeli prime minister is down on George Bush and now believes that Quayle is Israel's best friend in the U.S. government. The vice president has been an ardent supporter of Israel since he served on the Senate Armed Services Committee where he came to believe that Israel was an irreplaceable strategic ally in the Middle East. Quayle believed then, and still believes today, that what is good for Israel is good for the United States.

In the last few years, Quayle has spoken sympathetically to several Jewish groups, but has always been careful not to cross Bush. Instead, he has been used by Bush as the sugarcoating to explain the president's policies to Jewish groups.

The strategy has worked too well. Quayle is a hero of the conservative Shamir government. Meanwhile, Shamir's disgust over Bush has spilled over onto the front pages of Israeli newspapers where Bush is ridiculed as "President Am-Bush," a reference to the threat Shamir feels Bush has become to Israeli security.

Israeli sources and U.S. intelligence sources in Washington have told us that Shamir's bile is at an all time high when it comes to Bush because of the peace conference in Madrid.

In Shamir's view, Israel has little to gain by talking to the Arabs. They will only say what Shamir doesn't want to hear — that they want their land back. He wants peace with his neighbors, but thinks he can get it by force, not by conceding any land. He is even more convinced of that since the Persian Gulf War, when Arab military might was shown to be impotent.

Shamir would not have gone to the peace talks if Bush and Secretary of State James Baker had not dragged him there. They did it primarily by holding up $10 billion in housing loans to guarantee Shamir would be a good boy.

Behind Bush's back, but not so quietly that Bush doesn't hear about it, Shamir has been engaging in vicious name-calling. And when the name-calling reaches the level that it has in Israel, you can expect renegades in the Israeli government to get out of hand. Bush may have been targeted for some dirty tricks by elements within the Israeli spy service. Mossad — people who aim to please Shamir just as cowboys in the Central Intelligence Agency aim to please their bosses, even if it means violence.

Before Bush left for Madrid, the Secret Service received a report that extremists in Mossad might be plotting Bush's assassination. The report came indirectly from Victor Ostrovsky, a Canadian-born Israeli who was a Mossad agent for four years. Ostrovsky portrayed Mossad as an amoral, out-of-control spy service in his book "By Way of Deception." Israel tried to stop publication of the book by saying it would damage national security.

Ostrovsky, who maintains contacts in Mossad, believes the agency may have been stoking the "October Surprise" theory to embarrass Bush by suggesting that he knew about an alleged deal between Iran and Ronald Reagan to hold American hostages until after Reagan was elected in 1980. Ostrovsky knows how the extremists in Mossad think, and he believes they are capable of killing Bush: "If they can't get him dirty, and can't get him to change his mind, they might get him, period."

By Oct. 17, Ostrovsky had pieced together enough information to believe that the idea of an assassination plot against Bush was more than just speculation.

Bush may have been targeted for some dirty tricks.

Mrs. King decries 'New Separation'

TULSA, Okla. — Coretta Scott King says the trend toward black-only dormitories and graduation ceremonies is just as destructive as white-imposed segregation.

"This new separatism is a bad idea," she said Wednesday. "It was wrong when it was forced by white people and I believe it is still wrong when it is requested by black people."

The widow of slain civil rights leader the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. spoke to about 400 people in a conference, "Challenging Racism, Affirming Diversity."

"I am not disparaging the existence of historically black colleges, nor am I denying there should be times when Americans of all nationalities celebrate ethnic heritage."

"But we have to find a way to live together. Now is not the time to shrink from multicultural living."

Next move to spur economy up to Bush

WASHINGTON — Now that the Federal Reserve has pushed a key interest rate to its lowest level in nearly two decades, President Bush is left facing the question of what to do next to jolt a slumbering economy back to life.

Despite the strong opposition of some of Bush's top advisers, many private economists are betting the president will end up endorsing a major tax cut bill they expect will win quick congressional approval early next year.

Their reasoning is that with growing voter uneasiness about economic weakness, Bush and other political candidates next year will have to be seen as doing everything possible to spur economic growth.

So far, the administration's main answer to the 1990-91 recession has been to jawbone the Fed to reduce interest rates.

The central bank came through with another round of cuts on Wednesday, slashing the discount rate to 4.5 percent, its lowest level since January 1975, and reducing the Fed's target for the federal funds rate to 4.75 percent.

Bush's own Cabinet has been deeply divided on the issue. Until recently the president appeared to be siding with those who have argued that a broad-based tax cut isn't needed because the economy would recover without it.

However, the president gave a hint that he may at least be reconsidering that position following Tuesday's election results in which Democrat Harris Wofford scored an upset Senate election victory in Pennsylvania by hammering away at Republican failures to deal with the recession.

Asked about the Pennsylvania vote, Bush said, "when the economy is slow, people are concerned. They're hurting out there."

Bush said he was prepared to work with Congress "to come up with something new" to encourage economic growth.

Abortion foes buoyed by vote

WASHINGTON — Supporters of a ban on federally funded abortion counseling are citing a House vote as proof that President Bush will be able to stop any attempt to overturn the ban.

"We were able to show convincingly" the strength of anti-abortion forces in the House, Rep. Christopher Smith, R-N.J., said Wednesday after the House voted 272-156 in favor of a spending bill that includes a prohibition on enforcement of the Bush administration's ban on abortion counseling at federally funded family planning clinics.

The bill provides $204 billion for health, education and labor programs.

Despite winning the vote, abortion-rights advocates fell short of a two-thirds majority needed to overcome an expected Bush veto.

"I find it a very sad day," said Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., and an opponent of the ban. "I hope American women remember how their representatives voted. They voted to treat them like children, not like adults."

The Senate planned to vote on the measure today.

Both the House and the Senate previously approved the bill. The latest vote was on accepting a House-Senate conference report reconciling differences.

Attempt made to revive banking bill

WASHINGTON — House lawmakers are making another attempt to pass banking legislation that will at least replenish the government's dwindling deposit insurance fund.

The House Banking Committee on Wednesday adopted, 37-15, a stripped-down bill that would funnel more money to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and make some relatively non-controversial regulatory reforms.

The new measure had been part of a larger bill rejected by the full House on Monday. The defeated legislation also would have dramatically revamped the financial system by allowing banks to expand freely across state lines and enter the securities business.

Johnell Jackson, an association board member. "Why are they doing this to this community. This is not right."

Shortly before noon, contractors working on the resurfacing and widening of State Road 48 in the vicinity of Midway turned off the community's main water supply to replace several lines leading into the community, said Steve Homan, spokesman for the Florida Department of Transportation.

Homan said the lines leading into the community, called "lateral" lines, usually have valves at the main line but the Midway lines either did not have valves or the valves did not function. So the water to the entire community had to be turned off to do the work, he said.

Homan said the contractors, APAC-Florida Inc., the parent company of Macasphalt Inc., tried to contact officials of the water association but could not reach anyone because the office was closed. Homan said APAC officials then notified Sanford of the cut-off and proceeded with their work.

"One mistake they made," Homan said, "is they didn't notify Midway Elementary."

Midway principal Leroy Hampton said no one contacted him until Wednesday afternoon, when an official with the water association told him the water had been cut off, but not by the association. Hampton said students left school at 2 p.m. because of a regularly-scheduled teacher workday during the afternoon, so the lack of water didn't cause a major problem.

"It doesn't make you feel too good," Hampton said. "But it didn't cause any problems. You just try to make the best of it."

Homan said the main water line was opened again at about 3 p.m., although Lawrence, Blake and many other residents and the school still didn't receive water again until after 4 p.m. Homan said APAC officials said the water took some time to fully circulate throughout the community.

presented at tonight's City Commission meeting. Holland calls for a restructuring of the ground, installation of an irrigation system, a five-foot wide sidewalk with wheelchair access, and repainting and repairing of existing playground equipment.

Holland has suggested, "The city crews would provide the site work; irrigation installation, sod installation and the sidewalk. The additional items could be installed by the 'Neighbors for Neighborhoods' work force on a weekend workday."

Holland's rough estimate of the funds needed for the complete refurbishing are $5,150. He has suggested the money could, if the commission desires, be taken from a surplus in the debt service requirements from the Public Improvement Revenue Bonds of 1991.

It is also hoped, by both Holland and Morris, that the cost may be even lower, if citizens make donations. "We're ready to accept almost any kind of building materials or other items we need for this particular park," Holland said.

Morris indicated that the Donald Duck park was only the start. "We have many small neighborhood parks around our city," he said, "and they should be in good condition to serve the public in the manner for which they were intended."

The proposal will come up for discussion during the City Manager's report at tonight's Lake Mary City Commission meeting, beginning at 7 p.m., in the Lake Mary City Hall.

Incinerator developer says majority favors his project

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MONROE — Developer Sid Vihlen said the people of Seminole County want him to build an incinerator to burn medical wastes in this tiny community west of Sanford.

"The residents of Seminole County are for this project by a majority," Vihlen said Wednesday. "Sanford desperately needs more skilled labor instead of the low-paid labor it is known for. I think the business community of Seminole County will come out for this project."

But a Lake Monroe woman who is organizing a second petition drive against the incinerator said the people of her community don't want it.

"We still don't want it in our neighborhood because of the noise and the pollution," said Betty Giles of Riverview Avenue.

On Oct. 8, Vihlen submitted a second proposal to build an incinerator adjacent to the CSX lines in the community of Lake Monroe, west of Sanford. In March, Seminole County commissioners voted 4-1 to deny Vihlen's request for a 50-ton-per-day medical waste incinerator, saying they didn't know enough about the safety of the facility and the potential pollution it could put off.

Between 75 and 100 people attended the hearing, including representatives of several environmental protection organizations. Vihlen said of the people in the audience, "11 to 15" were from Seminole County. The rest were not from Seminole County, Vihlen said, but they attended because of a flyer mailed by the Greenpeace organization.

Greenpeace sent out 2,000 or 3,000 leaflets to people in Sanford and Orange County and Volusia County trying to stir up opposition," Vihlen said.

"That's not true," Giles said.

"There were at least 30 people there from Lake Monroe," she said. "I don't care what he says. We don't want it. That will turn Sanford and Seminole County into a nasty, nasty place."

Commissioners did grant Vihlen permission to resubmit the proposal if he gave them more details about it. Only commissioner Bob Sturm supported the proposal, saying Vihlen's Rands Yard Industrial Center was an appropriate location for the facility.

Vihlen now proposes to initially build a 24-ton-per-day facility in a 15,000-square-foot building on the five-acre site. Although located next to the railroad lines, Vihlen said he would agree not to allow accept rail delivery of medical waste, which could limit the geographic area that will supply the facility. Vihlen said the incinerator's waste supply will "come" from throughout Florida and not out of state.

Bill gives more control of proceeds

TALLAHASSEE — The state would gain control over proceeds from Challenger license plate sales under a House bill proposed after questions arose over a $160,000 loan guarantee for a private company.

The House Transportation Committee voted unanimously

Wednesday for a bill that would establish a new trust fund within the Department of Education for 50 percent of the money raised through Challenger tag sales.

The idea is to give the state better oversight of the money, said Rep. Vernon Peoples, D-Punta Gorda, who is sponsoring the bill.

Currently, half the money raised through Challenger tags — about $2.8 million so far — is given to the non-profit Astronauts Memorial Foundation Inc. That organization has built an astronaut memorial and plans to build a Center for Space Education at Cape Canaveral to foster space-related education and activities.

The rest of the tag money goes for scholarships and the state Technological Research and Development Authority.

Pee-wee pleads; maintains innocence

By JAMES MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

SARASOTA — Pee-wee Herman actor Paul Reubens pleaded no-contest today to indecent exposure charges in a plea bargain that requires him to make an anti-drug public service commercial.

Reubens, in a dark suit, clean-shaven with his hair cropped short, had nothing to say as he entered and left the Sarasota County Courthouse for the brief hearing before Judge Judy Goldman.

He nodded and told the judge he understood terms of the agreement with prosecutors that will leave him with no criminal record if he successfully meets the conditions.

"Mr. Reubens continues to insist upon his innocence — it was a plea of convenience," said the actor's lead attorney Richard Gerstein. "It was a fair resolution for everyone concerned."

The judge, noting Reubens' "creative genius and ability," told the actor: "It is my hope that by giving something back to the community that some restoration of a positive manner will occur."

The 39-year-old star of television's "Pee-wee's Playhouse" and such movies as "Pee-wee's Big Adventure" was arrested at an adult theater July 26 after detectives claimed they saw him masturbate twice in 10 minutes.

He was charged with exposure of sexual organs, a misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of 60 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Under the plea, Reubens must pay only the $50 fine plus $85 court costs. And producing and paying for the nationally distributed anti-drug spot would fulfill a 75-hour community service requirement.

Reubens will co-write and co-produce the commercial-length spot but won't star in it, said defense lawyer Ronald Dresnick. "There may be a character or two from 'Pee-wee's Playhouse' in it."

As part of the agreement, the court retains supervision for six months, but that can end if Reubens finishes the video and pays the fees earlier.

Despite the plea, Reubens' attorneys maintained testimony of the undercover detectives was questionable and a theater security camera videotape showed Reubens in the lobby at the time he allegedly was inside exposing himself.

"Paul is very pleased by today's outcome," spokesman

Larry Goldman said speaking from a prepared statement. He called the plea agreement "generous and lenient," and said: "Having established his innocence to his fans and his public, Paul has nothing more to win going to trial."

Gerstein said he was confident Reubens' career will not only continue, but flourish. "His career has certainly been resurrected and he has had dozens of offers of all kinds."

Reubens, who lives in Studio City, Calif., grew up in Sarasota and was on a visit when arrested.

Early plea talks broke down when authorities released his dour booking photos showing him with long hair, goatee and glasses.

Romance

Present plans do not call for a new dock. According to Jay Jackson, an engineer with Blount Sikes & Associates, "As I understand the plan, it calls for renovation of the existing docks already on Lake Monroe across from the new facility."

The docks will handle not only the Grand Romance, but be capable of eventually handling other smaller cruise ships should the operation be expanded.

No exterior design has been revealed for the 2-story building. The property is located in what is considered as a "Special Commercial District", and not within the area designated as the downtown historical area.

According to City Planner Jay Marder, "If the site plan is approved by P&Z with no unusual stipulations during tonight's meeting, it does not have to come before the City Commission. They can go ahead and apply for their building permits and get started."

"If P&Z turns it down for any reason," Marder said, "it could be appealed to the Commission."

According to the plan, "No construction or fabrication of any item shall begin until the contractor has received all of the permitting and any other documentation from all of the permitting and any other regulatory authorities."

The Planning and Zoning Commission meets tonight, beginning at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers at the Sanford City Hall.

extension and Sanford Avenue in Sanford.

The final games, one for the women's championship and one for the men's, will be played at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium at Seminole High School, 2701 Ridgewood Ave. in Sanford, on Sunday. The women's championship begins at 10:30 a.m. and the final mens game starts at 2 p.m.

There is no admission charge for the preliminary rounds of competition. The admission price for the final game is $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12-years-old.

There is not an Ultimate Frisbee team based in Seminole County. An Orlando team did not make the cut to play in the national championships.

The New York team, which has won two national championships and is the current world champion, will be in Sanford this weekend.

"We are very happy to be here in Sanford," Rambeau said. "The city has been very open to us and everyone is so friendly."

Rambeau noted that while he has been favorably impressed with Sanford, they will not return here for the 1992 championships.

"We want to go some place different every year," he said.

SANFORD — Let's dance. The Sanford Civic Center became a ballroom yesterday, as the Golden Age Games held its dance competition.

With music supplied by the 12-piece Deltonians dance band, seniors packed the floor dancing the old favorites of the 40's, 50's and 60's. Between each of the eight types of dance competition that were part of the games, everyone was allowed to dance. The Deltonians offer familiar sounds to Sanford people, as they perform regularly at the Civic Center for senior citizens dances.

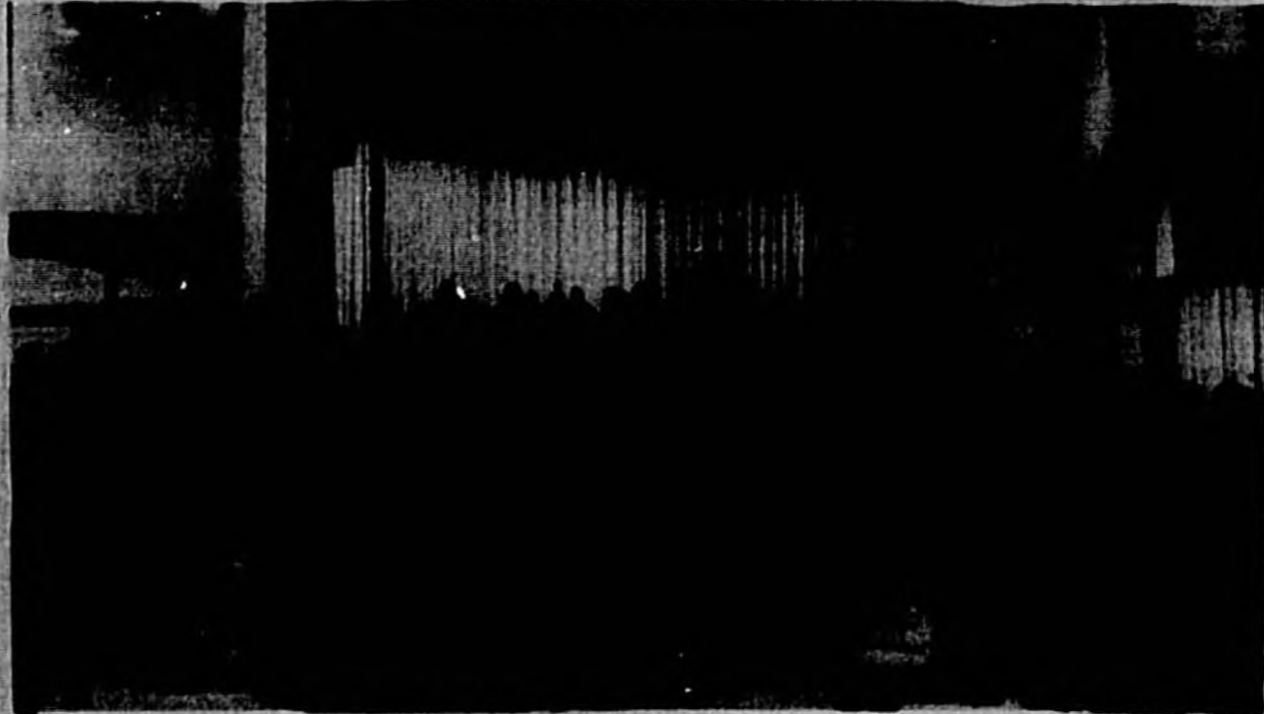

Dance competition was held for rhythms that included the Alley Cat, Cha Cha, Foxtrot, Jitterbug, Polka, Rhumba, Tango, and Waltz.

According to games chairman, Jim Jernigan, only 20 to 25 couples actually signed up for the competition. The others were there mostly to enjoy listening and dancing to the music between the events. Most of the events featured only four to eight couples at a time.

Ray and Margaret Hawkins, of Frostproof, attended the games purely for the dance competition. They have been coming to the annual Golden Age Games in Sanford for the past three years.

"Whenever we hear of any dance competition, we go wherever we can around the state," Margaret commented. The couple had not entered any of the other Golden Age Games events.

The Hawkins style of ballroom dancing earned them several medals in the competition, including first place in the polka, second in rhumba and foxtrot.

Everyone was invited to shake a leg between events.

and third in the cha cha. Additionally, Margaret took third place in the alley cat. All in all, they were entered in six of the eight events. "We don't usually do the jitterbug," Margaret said, "but that doesn't mean we don't dance it, we just don't usually compete."

One man, who would not reveal his name, commented, "They want 83 a person to enter this competition. Heck, I can come here and dance for nothing and have just as good a time." Between each contest, he took the floor, and exhibited a dance style that could have won some of the events.

The dance competition for the Golden Age Games was sponsored by the Over 50 Club of Sanford.

Charles, Evelyn Whisner, of Ocala, waltzed their way to first.

Margo Butler (left) of Sanford, Grace McGonigle, of Sanford; Lovetta Feland, of Altamonte Springs; and Iris O'Connell, of DeLand, performed at the mid-week social at the Sanford Civic Center Wednesday evening.

Cribbage rivals shuffle through match

Sanford resident enjoys challenge

By VICKI BOGNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Shirley Simas said playing in the Golden Age Games is her civic duty. Plus it's a whole lot of fun.

The Sanford resident was entered in Wednesday's cribbage tournament at the Sanford Senior Center and will play in the bridge competition later in the week.

"I think that everyone in Sanford who is eligible should enter the Golden Age Games," she said.

Simas enjoys the individual challenge of playing cribbage. "It makes you think," she said. "I like that."

Simas noted that while she has played the game for more than four decades, she has never thought about joining a cribbage club like the American Cribbage Congress, a national organization that oversees the sport.

"I just play for fun," she said. "I get my outside competition here at the (Golden Age) games."

George Henderson, of Winter Springs, who faced Simas in the middle rounds of play on Wednesday afternoon, is a member of the national cribbage association.

"There is some great competition to be had just within the greater Orlando chapter, but we are able to enter tournaments all over the country and even up into Canada," he said.

He noted that some players plan their vacations around tournaments and will travel all over the United States to play in as many tournaments as they can.

Hamilton said that the game appeals to young and old alike. "This is fun for everyone," he said. "We have kids as young as 12 in some of our tournaments."

Simas said she believed the turn out at the cribbage competition in the Golden Age Games was good. "There's a couple of dozen people here," she said. "But I try to encourage more people to get involved in the fun."

Hamilton said that the greater Orlando branch of the American Cribbage Congress was planning greater involvement in the Golden Age Games in the future. "I'll bet we can double the attendance next year," he predicted.

Edwards Aluminum is one of eight softball teams participating in the Golden Age Games this week. The finals will be held today.

The team players said they play for fun, for the team spirit. They like to win, sure, but the game is main thing.

"Our team is strictly a team effort," said Edwards manager John Strakis, 65, of Eustis. "Everybody gets a chance to play."

Even Fred Parks, 72, of Eustis plays. He walked up to Strakis wearing what looked like a bullet bra and said "Now tomorrow morning, I'll play the first two innings, then I need to go to the doctor."

Parks said he has pins holding his chest together after several lumps were removed recently.

Seniors accept softball defeat with humor

SANFORD — It was a resounding defeat, alright. 25 to 6.

But the players on the losing softball team, Edwards Aluminum of Deltona, weren't too upset about their loss to Blount Honda of Ocala.

"I like to win, but this is for fun," said the team's oldest player, Stan Eskins, 78, of Eustis.

The team players said they play for fun, for the team spirit. They like to win, sure, but the game is main thing.

"Our team is strictly a team effort," said Edwards manager John Strakis, 65, of Eustis. "Everybody gets a chance to play."

Even Fred Parks, 72, of Eustis plays. He walked up to Strakis wearing what looked like a bullet bra and said "Now tomorrow morning, I'll play the first two innings, then I need to go to the doctor."

Parks said he has pins holding his chest together after several lumps were removed recently.

Hamilton said that the game appeals to young and old alike. "This is fun for everyone," he said. "We have kids as young as 12 in some of our tournaments."

Simas said she believed the turn out at the cribbage competition in the Golden Age Games was good. "There's a couple of dozen people here," she said. "But I try to encourage more people to get involved in the fun."

Hamilton said that the greater Orlando branch of the American Cribbage Congress was planning greater involvement in the Golden Age Games in the future. "I'll bet we can double the attendance next year," he predicted.

Hearing slated for new taxes, lottery

By BILL BRIDGES
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Some Tax and Budget Reform Commission members predicted a public uproar as the group voted to add an income tax and a homestead exemption cut to the constitutional amendments it may propose.

The panel also voted Wednesday to look at proposed amendments to send lottery funds directly to schools and direct the Legislature to adopt a taxpayer "bill of rights."

Motions to give voters a chance to end the lottery and to put lottery funds into environmental programs instead of education failed.

The panel said the Legislature should look at replacing myriad business taxes with a single value-added tax, but left details to the legislators.

The group added three income-tax versions to the amendments it will look at, including proposals to:

—Impose a tax of 3 percent of federal adjusted gross income, exempting incomes under $15,000 for single filers, $25,000 for heads of households or $30,000 for married people filing jointly.

—Remove the constitutional ban on an income tax without specifying what the tax would be, leaving that to the Legislature.

—Impose an income tax and exempt people paying it from ad valorem property taxes. Income tax money would reimburse local governments for lost property tax revenue.

Airing the income tax in public hearings before putting together a package of proposed constitutional amendments in February or March will convince the panel to drop the idea, Palm Beach lawyer Peter Mettler predicted.

"I wanted these people to hear what I have heard," Mettler said. "You're going to go in ... and there are going to be 10,000 people in the auditorium and they're going to be against an income tax."

Other panel members said income tax proposals would get people involved.

"Our job is in part to determine the method by which the people choose to pay their taxes," Jacksonville businessman Tom Slade said. "It is an ideal vehicle to stir the debate."

Some said people may favor an income tax if coupled with spending restraints or cuts in other taxes.

"It's a myopic view when you don't give it a chance to be linked with anything else," Palm Harbor financial consultant David Dunbar said.

The Legislature may put forth its own version. State Sen. Jack Gordon proposed a "Robin Hood" income tax Tuesday.

Women's panel discusses sex harassment, fair pay

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Despite losing its $25,000 appropriation, the Florida Commission on the Status of Women met and talked about the issues it might focus on: sexual harassment, domestic violence, fair pay.

State Sen. Carrie Meek, one of the legislative sponsors, told the commission members not to get discouraged by the loss of money in the wake of the state's latest tax shortfall.

"You're going to have to fight because power is only gotten through struggle and fighting," Meek, D-Miami, said.

Rep. Elaine Gordon was the House sponsor of the legislation.

"It has taken many, many years for us to be at this juncture," the North Miami Democrat said.

The 22-member commission, which includes state Rep. Edward Healey, D-West Palm Beach, as the sole man, picked Susan Glickman of Palm Beach as chair of the group at its first meeting Wednesday.

Glickman said that the group would try to get grants and corporate sponsors to keep going.

"It is imperative that we have women in leadership roles at all levels," Glickman said, adding that for too long the issues women care about have not been included at the center of the public debate.

"To impact the public debate in the political process ... is a primary goal of this commission," she said.

Lynda Quillen, assistant attorney general, described for the commission the current laws and rulings on sexual harassment.

"We've all encountered sexual harassment," Quillen said, adding that one survey found that 90 percent of the women questioned had firsthand experience of the problem.

First Union, Face To Face.

Where does the fastest-growing bank in Florida make its lending decisions?

Just about anywhere you want us to. ♦ Yes, we have the money to lend. And, yes, we have the people right here who are willing to lend it. And now that Southeast branches are part of First Union, we'll have nearly 500 branches in Florida to make it even more convenient for you. ♦ However, there's a bigger question here, one that our competition has raised. And that has to do with who has banking roots in Florida and who doesn't. Just for the record, we have twenty-five billion dollars in assets — here in Florida alone. And we have roots dating back to 1908. ♦ But what really makes us a Florida bank are the Florida people who have been serving First Union and Southeast customers for years. These fine bankers have a let's-roll-up-our-sleeves-and-get-down-to-work attitude. They have the authority to make decisions. They're determined to make this a smooth transition with uninterrupted service. We have roots in Florida. Deep ones. ♦ We are committed to growth. But we have the good sense to know that the best way to grow is one customer at a time. ♦ Come talk. We like to listen. And we're ready to help.

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Magie off to 3-0 start

ORLANDO — Terry Catledge had 24 points and 14 rebounds Tuesday night as the Orlando Magic remained unbeaten with a 105-88 victory over the Washington Bullets.

The Magic, who never trailed while improving their record to 3-0, once again used a big third quarter to take control. Orlando outscored the Bullets 33-13 in the period to extend a seven-point halftime advantage into a 27-point rout heading into the fourth quarter.

In its three victories, Orlando has outscored its opponents 108-63 in the third period.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Gators win exhibition

GAINESVILLE — Freshman center Andrew DeClercq led three Florida players with 18 points each and the Gators used a 18-9 run to start the second half to defeat the Czechoslovakian Select Team, 94-71, in an exhibition game here Wednesday.

DeClercq, playing in his first collegiate game, hit on 7-of-13 shots and pulled down seven rebounds to lead the Gators, who also got 18 points from junior forward Hosie Grimsley and sophomore guard Craig Brown.

Soviets beat Florida Atlantic

BOCA RATON — Sergel Makshev of the Soviet team Uzstroyemkhanizatsiya scored 27 points Wednesday to defeat Florida Atlantic 75-70 in an exhibition game.

Florida Atlantic was led by Kevin Wills and Cesar Yeardon, who both had 12 points. Wayne Baxley added 11 points for the Owls.

BASEBALL

White Sox heading west?

PHOENIX — The Chicago White Sox may be only weeks away from deciding whether to move their spring-training headquarters from Sarasota to a Phoenix suburb.

White Sox board Chairman Jerry Reinsdorf, who has homes in Paradise Valley and Tucson, was unavailable for comment, but Doug Abel, the team's director of media relations, confirmed the White Sox had "had preliminary discussions with officials in Arizona."

The White Sox have 18 years left on a 20-year lease in Sarasota and would have to find a replacement team or pay a $630,000 annual bond payment. But observers believe the Boston Red Sox would move from Winter Haven to Sarasota if the White Sox left.

BASEBALL AWARDS

Bagwell wins Rookie honors

Houston first baseman Jeff Bagwell, a non-roster invitee to spring training, was voted the National League Rookie of the Year Wednesday.

Bagwell led NL rookies with a .295 average, 163 hits, 15 home runs, 26 doubles and 86 RBIs. He beat out Pittsburgh first baseman Orlando Merced in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America, receiving 23 of 24 first-place votes and collecting 118 points.

Merced received 53 points followed by outfielder Ray Lankford of St. Louis (28) and Atlanta first baseman Brian Hunter (seven).

FOOTBALL

Cardinals claim Chandler

TEMPE, Ariz. — The Phoenix Cardinals on Wednesday claimed quarterback Chris Chandler on waivers from Tampa Bay, which released the fourth-year pro one day earlier.

To make room, the Cardinals waived Craig Kupp, another quarterback.

Chandler, 26, a third-round draft pick of the Indianapolis Colts in 1988, will back up Tom Tupa and Stan Gelbaugh.

Tampa Bay acquired Chandler on Aug. 6, 1990, by giving the Colts its 1992 first-round draft choice.

Stiff comp pays off for Seminoles

From Staff Reports

BUNNELL — Losing to overpowering opponents throughout the season may be frustrating, but playing against such stiff competition does hone a team's skills.

That's what Seminole High School varsity girls volleyball team demonstrated Wednesday night in rebounding from a 2-14 regular season to win its opening match of the 3A-District 5 tournament over tournament host Flagler Palm Coast 15-13, 6-15, 15-12.

While Seminole is a Class 3A school, 10 of its 14 losses came at the hands of Class 4A opponents in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

"This win was exactly what we needed," said Seminole head coach Beth Corso. "This is our only chance to redeem ourselves from the 2-14 season. If we don't let up, we can still salvage the year. With the fact that we've been playing better teams, hopefully we're a better team."

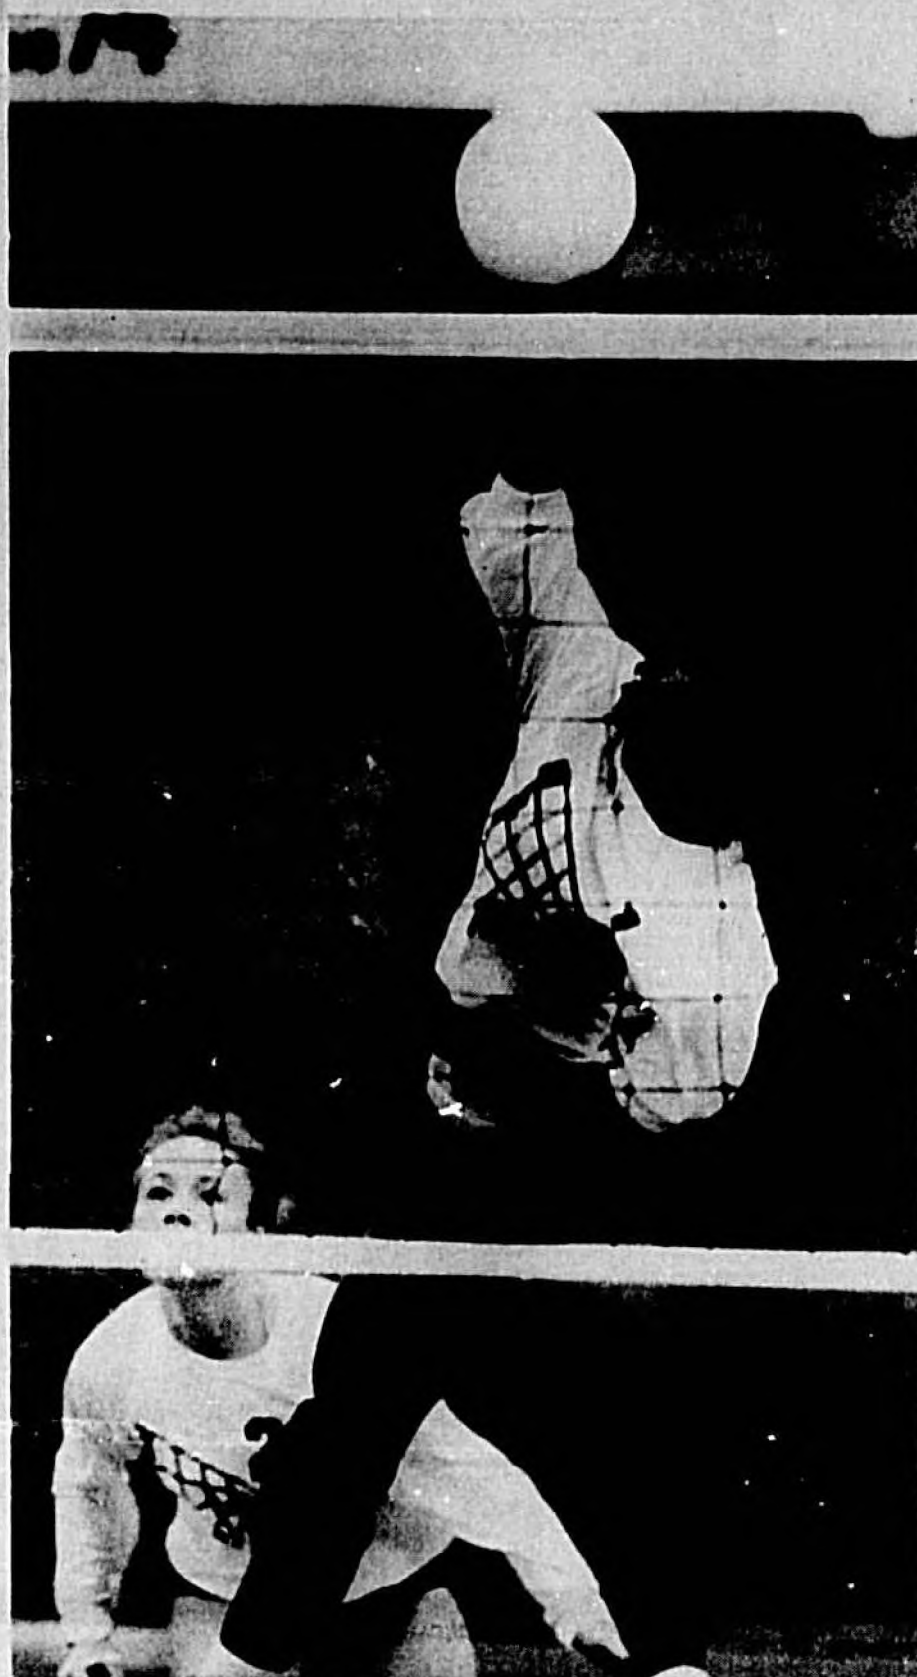

The Tribe's next task is to upset the second-seeded New Smyrna Beach Barracudas in this evening's semifinal round. Seminole split a pair of matches with New Smyrna during the season. In the other semifinal, top-seeded Edgewater plays Daytona Beach-Seabreeze at 4:30.

Throughout the year, Seminole searched for team-leading individual performances. On Wednesday, the players came through.

Leading the Seminoles past Flagler Palm Coast were Charlene Guy (four aces, seven kills, five spikes), Christy Oliver (42 assists), Amy Williams (19 spikes, three kills, one ace), Yucyma Otero (15 service points), Megan Hay (five spikes), Dawn Burks (one ace), and Laurie Faulkner with a fine passing game.

"I'm happy with their individual performances," said Corso. "There are still improvements to be made, but I'm happy. When we needed them, everybody got in there and lifted each other up. That's what it is."

Senior Charlene Guy contributed four service aces, seven kills and five spikes Wednesday night to help Seminole eliminate Bunnell-Flagler Palm Coast in the opening round of the 3A-District 5 volleyball tournament.

Showdowns shape up in 4A-District 9

From Staff Reports

OVIEDO — For this year's 4A-District 9 girls' volleyball tournament to fulfill its potential as one of the more competitive and emotional in recent memory, the top three teams had to advance to this evening's semifinals.

On Wednesday night at Oviedo High School, they did just that. Top-seeded Lake Mary eliminated Lake Brantley 15-1, 15-4. No. 4-seed Deltona swept Mainland 15-9, 15-10, third-seed Lake Howell beat Lyman 15-6, 15-0 and No. 2-seed Oviedo knocked off Spruce Creek 15-4, 15-5.

Today at 4:30 p.m., Lake Mary plays Deltona while Lake Howell plays Oviedo at 6 p.m. The championship match will follow 20 minutes after the completion of the second semifinal.

While winning a district championship is special in its own right, each of the four remaining schools will be following their own unique story line.

For example, Lake Mary (30-1) will be attempting to end a three-year run as the district runner-up. The last two seasons, the Rams lost to Oviedo in the district finals. The year before that, it was Lake Brantley that bested Lake Mary.

Not only will Oviedo be going for its third consecutive 4A-District 9 title, the Lions will be chasing their 11th straight district title, a run that includes eight district championships on the Class 3A level.

Lake Howell doesn't have any streaks to extend or end. Rather, the Silver Hawks will be attempting to give Coach Jo Luciano her 200th career victory when they play Oviedo.

And playing the role as the young upstarts are the Deltona Wolves. Champions of the Five Star Conference this year, Deltona is in its first year as a Class 4A school.

After watching her team eliminate the Spruce Creek Hawks, who showed up just seven minutes before the match was scheduled to the second game," said Corso. "We made some mental errors and got down on ourselves. We shouldn't have. We weren't in any trouble, but then we got in trouble." Oliver scored five straight service points in the third game to give Seminole a 9-5 lead and later served the game's final point to lead the Tribe to a 15-12 win.

start, forcing a 15-minute delay in the start of the contest. Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said the Lions would have to be sharper if they going to extend the district title run. "I don't think we played as well as we're capable against Spruce Creek," said Carlson. "I guess we were tired from waiting for them to show up. We need to

Embroiders to meet

The members of the Central Florida Chapter of the Embroiderer's Guild of America, Inc., will gather on Friday, Nov. 8, to continue work on the Ethnic Sampler. The attendees that will be studied will include the Yugoslav Stitch pattern, Reticella and Assisi.

The guild meets at the Junior Achievement Center, Loch Haven Park, Orlando, 9:30 a.m. Members come from Seminole, Orange, Lake, Volusia and Osceola counties.

Play to be presented

The non-profit community theatrical troupe, Geneva Players, will present "I Never Saw Another Butterfly" on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7, 8, and 9 and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14, 15 and 16.

This is a heartwarming story based on the experiences of Jewish children and their families in the Czech concentration camp, Terezin. It depicts their fears as well as the pleasures of painting pictures and writing poetry; their only outlet to the world. All performances will be at 7:30 p.m. and will be held at the Lawton Elementary Auditorium, 151 Graham Ave., Oviedo; $5 adults, $3 children under 12. For reservations (optional) or information, call 349-5112.

For those interested in membership or in information about the theatrical troupe, the Geneva Players will have a booth at Oviedo's Great Day in the Country, Nov. 9, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

University women meet

American Association of University Women, Seminole County Branch, will host Ann Oalsek, who will present an introduction to genealogy tonight, Nov. 7, at the Ramada Inn, 151 Douglas Ave., Altamonte Springs.

Board meeting is at 8:30 p.m. Business and speaker commence at 7:30 p.m. For further information, call Harriet Myton, 333-4781.

Veterans festivities planned

The Winter Springs Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5405 and its Ladies Auxiliary are planning a full holiday weekend for Nov. 8, 9, 10 and 11th to celebrate Veteran's Day.

The post and auxiliary will be holding their annual Poppy Day Sale from Friday, Nov. 8 through the 11th. All sections of Winter Springs will be covered by the members and the money from this is used in the relief fund. The poppies are made by hospitalized veterans to help them.

On Sunday, Nov. 10, the post and auxiliary in conjunction with Longwood VFW Post 8207 and its auxiliary will be holding a blood drive from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Longwood Post home. Everyone is urged to come out and donate blood as each of the blood banks is getting low in supply.

Monday, Nov. 11, the VFW will participate in the Veterans Day Parade in Sanford at 11 a.m. The parade is sponsored by Seminole County veterans organization.

Monday evening at 7:30 p.m., prior to the City Commission meeting at the Winter Springs City Hall, Post 5405 and its auxiliary will be presenting and dedicating a new American flag and a POW/MIA flag.

Call 327-3151 for more details.

Motorists: Don't interrupt cops at work

DEAR ABBY: Will you please ask your readers never to interrupt a police officer in the middle of a traffic stop unless it is a dire emergency? (Directions to the nearest restaurant don't count!)

Abby, we police officers never know who we are pulling over during a routine stop. It could be a murderer, an escaped felon or a minister. More law enforcement personnel are injured or killed during routine traffic stops than almost any other type of police activity. (It's twice as dangerous at night.)

Please don't pull up right next to me as I'm approaching the car I just stopped and ask me for directions! We could both be in danger and I might not be able to guarantee your safety.

We also make stops where the element of danger is known beforehand — such as an armed robber fleeing the scene. This is usually a planned stop where suspects are taken out of a car at gunpoint. If you should see one or more police officers with their guns drawn and pointed at someone, don't walk up and ask, "What's going on?" We're not filming "T.J. Hooker."

ADVICE

If a police officer is all red in the face and yelling at you and waving an arm in a sideways motion while holding a gun in the other, don't wave back. It isn't a greeting. Move! You are in the line of fire!

Thanks, Abby, for letting me get this off my chest.

CALIFORNIA COP, LOMPOC, CALIF.
DEAR READERS: He's right. When officers are on duty, they are not playing cops and robbers; it's the real thing. So, please, don't interrupt an officer who is obviously busy doing his job.

DEAR ABBY: Well, it happened again tonight! Don't people realize that in this day and age, it is not safe to assume anything?

I am a 21-year-old man — stable and successful — and I am presently seeing a woman who is 19 years my senior. For some reason (probably because I look younger than I am), people tend to assume that we are mother and son.

Abby, you would not believe the pain and frustration it causes my girlfriend when people tell her what a handsome "son" she has! She doesn't look anywhere near old enough to be my mother.

Tonight when we came out of a restaurant and the valet retrieved my car, the young fellow who brought us our car said, "Gee, if my mom had a car like this, she'd never let me drive it!"

Please let your readers know that assumptions can be made. I doubt there would be a problem if I was 40 and she was 19 or 20.

HATES ASSUMPTIONS

DEAR HATES: Unfortunately, some assumptions — when verbalized — can be cruel as well as rude. However, when a 40-year-old man is in the company of a 19- or 20-year-old woman, the assumption is more likely to be that they are boyfriend and girlfriend.

Today, when people are living longer and taking better care of themselves (physically, nutritionally and sometimes with a little help from a plastic surgeon), age is merely a number.

But on the chance that it could be embarrassing, it's wise to make no assumptions concerning the relationship between a male and female.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Dyslexia impairs reading abilities

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes dyslexia? Could it be hereditary?

DEAR READER: The cause of dyslexia, a primary reading disability, is unknown. Children with the disorder usually have normal intellectual capabilities but remain at least two grades behind in reading ability. Dyslexic children appear to have difficulty matching perceptions from the printed page to seeing, feeling and understanding. They reverse letters and words, cannot work out the pronunciation of new words, and have impaired handwriting and spelling.

Predictably, youngsters with reading problems become frustrated and angry. They may exhibit behavioral problems in school, as well as withdrawal and alienation.

Treatment consists of a multi-discipline approach: special teaching programs that take into account each child's strengths and weaknesses. To the extent that dyslexic children can, with assistance, overcome their handicap, they will achieve their full intellectual potential. However, this requires hard work on the part of parents and teachers, not to mention the children themselves.

DEAR DR. GOTT: After years of migraine headaches and various unsuccessful treatments, my doctor put me on a daily dose of verapamil. He ran routine lab studies before I started the therapy, but he doesn't seem concerned with the possibility of liver or kidney problems from the drug. What is the incidence of damage, and are there other organs that could be affected?

DEAR READER: Because the treatment and prevention of migraine is so difficult, doctors often experiment with new drugs in hopes their patients can be helped. Verapamil (Calan or Isoptin) is currently getting a lot of attention as a migraine-inhibitor. The medicine, a calcium channel blocker usually prescribed for angina or hypertension, is quite safe. It commonly causes constipation. Fatigue, dizziness, headache and nausea can occur.

The manufacturer lists increased urination as a consequence of therapy; however, liver damage is rare. In the few patients who developed liver inflammation from verapamil, all had associated symptoms of malaise, fever and abdominal pain.

PETER GOTT, M.D.

I think your doctor's approach is exemplary. Follow his or her instructions. You are taking a safe drug; I hope it helps your migraines.

To provide additional information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Headaches."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

There are two magazines published down under. The bigger is Australian Bridge, a bimonthly which costs $34 annually (212-866-5860). Each issue is at least 88 pages long, and there is something for everyone.

While you are drinking your breakfast coffee (or pre-randial cocktail), cover the South and East cards. You, as West, lead the heart jack against three no-trump; four, two, king. Declarer then leads the spade seven. How do you defend?

Opposite the wide-range no-trump opening, which enjoys considerable popularity among club players in Australia, North used a transfer bid to show five spades and then made an invitational two-no-trump rebid. South, with a near-maximum and only a doubleton spade, had an automatic raise to three no-trump.

Most club players will shoot in with the spade king at trick two, afraid that if they duck, declarer will next lead a spade to the ace, and they will never collect a spade trick. But is that likely here? No. South's raise to three no-trump usually would deny his having three spades. And if South had ace doubleton in spades, he would have played the ace and another spade; he would not have led a low one immediately, blocking the suit.

If West ducks this trick, and East does likewise, the defenders kill the spade suit and defeat the contract. If either defender wins the first spade trick, the suit lives and declarer collects an overtrick.

If an opponent is trying to establish a suit, hold up your winner(s) as long as possible.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Nov. 8, 1991

Important hopes and expectations have an excellent chance of being fulfilled in the year ahead. However, this might happen in ways that won't follow your blueprint.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Disappointment is likely today — if you expect more from an arrangement than conditions warrant. View matters with a critical eye; don't let your expectations run rampant. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Scorpio's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your personality, good looks and charm are admirable assets, but they're not apt to be enough to get you by today. You'll have to work for what you want.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a very thin line between thinking positively and wishfully thinking. If you're not careful, you might dwell in the latter today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful in your commercial involvements today; you might be more impressed by the sizzle than by the steak. Base your judgments on realistic evaluations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A well-intentioned friend you may go to for advice today is likely to tell you what you'd like to hear instead of rendering a frank opinion.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be mindful of sensible health habits today, because you might have to resist strong temptations to overindulge in some manner. Also, be disciplined where work is concerned.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Taking the word of someone you know only casually regarding a risky financial expenditure could cost you today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your family will expect you to honor any promises you make today. If you inwardly feel you can't comply, don't make commitments in the first place.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to be forthright in your conversations with others today. If those you associate with think you are exaggerating or fibbing, your image will be impaired.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Owing to your indifference, there is a possibility today that you won't make the most of your opportunities, especially those that are of a tangible or financial nature.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Important endeavors must be guided by your own hand today. If they're delegated to others, the results won't be what you expect or desire.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be cooperative and reasonable in your relationships with others today, but, if something is to be shared, don't leave it up to someone else to determine the size of your piece of the action.
