

U.S. WILL PLAY RICH STAKES

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Jan. 20.—(AP)—On the historic ground where once Spanish conquistadors halted in their search for gold more than a hundred of the country's picked golf experts will compete today over the Agua Caliente course, urged to play by an unprecedented purse of $100,000.

The women's high ranking professional, intermingled with a contingent of prominent amateurs, yesterday swung around the new par 71 course for the first time in an effort to solve its intricacies and peculiarities.

Five kept scores, preferring to wander over the tried fairways, testing them from all angles. Dick Linares, Tucson, Ariz., took Harold Long, Denver, were the only ones to report par cards of 21 while a number, including Chet Beer, Bakersfield, Cal., and Fred Morrison Los Angeles, shot 77.

In the opinion of these and other leaders, the course is the most difficult on the Pacific Coast. Although the most difficult layout he had struck in many a moon he has a 74 to show for his efforts.

The mystery of just who will be able to best master the course during the four days of 72 hole play was left tight in the grips of the well-trapped fair ways. With only four par three holes it is certain that the four who will develop into a hard-fighting contest.

Morton Smith, Joplin, Mo., whose youthful strokes have struck terror in the hearts of the contingent of veteran professionals, has been more frequently mentioned as a possible winner, due to his consistent record during the winter campaign.

He is not without stern competition, however. Another young man, Denny Shute, of Columbus, Ohio, with his remarkable victory in the Los Angeles $10,000 open, as evidence of his prowess, also has been named as a possible repeater.

Among the veterans are Leonard Wood, local pro, and two-time winner of the P. G. A. title; "Wee Wee" Crookshank, former winner of the Los Angeles classic; Gene Sarazen, also a former champion from New York, and Walter Hagen, British open champion.

Only those who shoot cards of 82 or better will survive the first day's round of 18 holes, while the low 60 and less will come into the play during the final two days. Twenty prizes, ranging from $10,000 for first place $5,000 for second on down to the $200 mark, will be awarded Thursday.

GENERALS TAKE LEAD IN BATTLE FOR CAGE TITLE

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Hopes of North Carolina State and Duke, last year's champions and runners-up, for perfect 1930 cage records, were blasted last week by a squad of sharpshooters from Washington and Lee who registered three direct hits to take the lead in the southern conference basketball race.

The Lexington Generals made a clean sweep of their games with North Carolina opponents. They topped the top-leading Duke Blue Devils 33-29 in the opener; and in quick succession turned back the University of North Carolina 27-17 and North Carolina State 30-28.

Sewanee, Kentucky, Georgia and Alabama stand alongside Washington and Lee as undefeated in conference competition. Each have two victories.

The Sewanee Tigers brushed aside Clemson 26-24 and Vanderbilt 36-15, Kentucky noed out Tennessee 23 to 20 and Georgia beat Georgia Tech 26-23. Alabama was idle.

Although losing to Sewanee, Clemson evened up the week's copy by trimming Vanderbilt after two extra periods. North Carolina State, although beaten in its second start, overwhelmed Virginia Polytechnic Institute in its circle debut 31-17.

Mississippi gave promise of offering trouble to the leaders by defeating Louisiana State twice 17 to 24 and 32 to 29, while Maryland showed strength in swamping Virginia 54-29. Tulane and Mississippi A. & M. divided a double program.

Florida scored easy victories over its foes, Stetson, Rollins and Southern.

Virginia Military Institute and North Carolina State open this week's conference schedule of 24 games tonight at Lexington. It will mark V. M. I.'s entrance into circle competition.

Georgia Tech meets Tennessee at Knoxville Wednesday and Alabama and Vanderbilt clash at Nashville Thursday. Auburn plays Tennessee at Knoxville Friday and moves on Vanderbilt at Nashville Saturday.

Georgia Tech goes to Athens Saturday for a return game with Georgia and Maryland plays Virginia Polytechnic Institute at College Park, Md.

The conference tournament, at which the championship is decided, will be held in Atlanta Feb. 28, and Mar. 1, 3, 4.

Girl Heiress Shows Little Emotion On Receiving Fortune

DENVER, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Josephine Barth, who is heiress to one of Colorado's large pioneer fortunes, says "it's nice" to get that much money, but beyond that states: "The slender, blue-eyed youngster is too busy having a good time to bother much about a mere $1,000,000."

Josephine became the ultimate heiress to the large estate of her grandmother when the district court recently upheld a contested will. Josephine "knew something was up" during the entire fight over the will, because she had a guard with her wherever she went and her teachers were instructed to keep a close watch over her.

Northern Hunters Find Deer Has Keen Smell For Sardines

UPTON, Mass., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Hunters and sporting goods dealers will do well to consider stocking up with canned sardines before another deer season rolls along in Massachusetts because of the hypnotic influence of sardines on late or the fact that the deer's already keen sense of smell has reached the x-ray stage.

Delegates Are Cheered On Eve Of Navy Parley

(Continued from page 1) LONDON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Heartened against manifest dangers by firm handclaps and face to face consultations, spokesmen of the five sea-powers today completed, in an atmosphere of tense expectancy, preparations for convening tomorrow of their history-making conference in limitation of ships of war.

(Continued from page 1) It became evident that the Americans were ready to give practical application to President Hoover's desire to reduce to the lowest possible level, and although the delegation disclosed no details, it was believed in conference circles the delegation might offer to extend the naval holiday no capital ships, reduce their size, and reduce battleship strength eventually below the level of the Washington treaty.

Delegates Are Cheered On Eve Of Navy Parley

Dynamite And Directors' Loans

The Herald would not be inclined to countenance violence or other forms of lawlessness at any time, but the dynamiting of the home of H. G. Smith, president of the closed Bank of Oviedo, seems to us to be particularly out of place at this time since the act must have been committed by some disgruntled depositor of the bank who was basing his animosity against the president wholly on rumors.

We too have heard the rumors, that H. G. Smith had himself conceived the idea of blowing up the bank so that he could collect the insurance, that he himself had made large loans from the bank, that other directors had also made large loans, that the deposits of officers and directors had dwindled materially during the last few days of the bank's operation, and recalling disclosures which have been made following the closing of other state banks in Florida, we too might have been inclined to believe that perhaps some truth existed in what was being said.

But W. H. Tunncliffe, a man who has a thoroughly established reputation for honesty and fearlessness, was today confirmed receiver of the closed Bank of Oviedo, and one of his first acts following a conference with Sherman Drawdy, the state bank examiner, was to issue a statement that the preliminary audit showed that the total amount of the loans to all the officers and directors of the bank was only $650. He says he believes this establishes a record for state banks in Florida, and we have no doubt of it.

He also declares that he can find no evidence of any unusual withdrawals by officers or directors preceding the closing of the bank. Were this all the information we could obtain regarding the bank's affairs, it would satisfy us that everything was strictly on the level. At a time when business depression, fruit flies, and a bad celery and citrus market are cramping everyone for funds, to find officers and directors of a state bank owing it only $650, should be sufficient to dispel any doubts, whatever as to the integrity of the officers.

But that ugly rumor about the insurance on the bank's building which was destroyed by an explosion! Mr. Tunncliffe says that the insurance has not yet been paid. He says that he will collect it just as soon as it is humanly possible and will apply it on depositor's claims. He also says he will finish the audit in the shortest possible time and then publish a complete statement of the bank's affairs.

So if there are any remaining who still believe that dynamiting is the best course, we ask them to wait until the audit is completed, until they know the facts in the case. And if it should then appear that there has been crooked work in connection with the management of the bank, that would be the time, if ever, to resort to dynamite. And if in the meantime it should develop through the audit that the officers and directors had been absolutely straight, it might not be amiss for the people of Oviedo to take it upon themselves to find out who this man is that sets off dynamite.

A Prayer For Newspapermen

At a recent meeting of the Sixty-fourth Annual Convention of the Mississippi Press Association in Columbus, Miss., Dr. T. D. Bateman, a Presbyterian pastor, opened the meeting with a divine supplication which surprised even the newspapermen present. As reported in Editor & Publisher, this prayer, which we fervently hope will be answered, was as follows:

"Eternal God, our Heavenly Father, we ask thy blessings upon these newspaper people, who are wont to communicate with the ends of the earth. They are people who can smell a revolution in China; people who have license to enter the gates of princes and potentates, but who will have a mighty hard time getting inside the gates of Paradise.

"Have mercy on these people who are tempted by every devil from printer's devils to the devils of newspaper headlines. And these same people who are so busy listening to the songs of the wires and the songs of the women, that oftentimes the voice of God finds no listener among them and no place in their hearts.

"Have mercy, O Lord, upon the people who have to carry all kinds of things in the cause of their newspapers. Have mercy, O Lord, on those people who are invited to so many luncheons and banquets that they must sacrifice their digestion on the altar of free advertising.

"Have mercy, O Lord, on those people who are chased by the Colonial Dames, W. C. T. U., Kiwanis, Rotary and Chamber of Commerce. Have mercy on those people who have to hobnob alike with Jew and Gentile, white and black, Democrat and Republican, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and Episcopalian, those who came over on the Mayflower and those who came over in the cauliflower.

"Have mercy, O Lord, on those people and help them in their dash from ballroom to church social and back to run runners and who have to associate with anybody from Andy Mellon to Andy Gump. Any of them would walk two miles for a good story.

"Make this a good convention in Columbus. It is an easy matter to break into print but how will some of them break into the Pearly Gates?"

"And when they have done with newspapers and stories and their careers are finished here, may they have a time story from St. Peter that they ever had in newspapers here. And though it is hard for newspaper men to get into the Kingdom may they receive a warmer welcome in the new Jerusalem than they do in Columbus today. Amen."

SOME OF OUR readers may be wondering what the difference is between a "non suit" and a "order of dismissal." As we understand it from our limited knowledge of legal technicalities and terminology, if the DeLoettes suit had been dismissed, he would have been blocked from filing a new suit against The Herald until the former suit had been tried in a lower court and had been disposed of. As it stood yesterday, with DeLoettes having taken a "non suit," he was at liberty to file a new suit against The Herald, a privilege of which, he immediately took advantage. The Herald case is back, then, right where it started a year and a half ago with the plaintiff required to file a new declaration, to which we can demur, and probably will this time, and with the defendant enabled to file a new set of pleas, of truth and privilege, for instance, which should avoid any possibility of a directed verdict.

TELLING THE WORLD

BY NEAL O'HARA

The Next War
 Warren Delano Robbins has been called to the colors by the Commander in Chief of the army and navy, Mr. Hoover, and given the post as master of ceremonies at Washington. Mr. Robbins' uniform will consist of full dress evening clothes with a question mark on each shoulder. His duty will be to determine who sits where at all state functions.

With the Mrs. Gaun Alice Longworth campaign in his hands, Robbins should move into a suite in the War Department. And with the map of the White House being furnished to him and red and blue pushpins representing the guests, he will set to work. He hopes to have the Gamagandis worth was settled before Hoover finishes his first term. If it is settled by then it is doubtful if Herbert will want another.

The Commander in Chief of the army and navy sends over a memo to the War Department that he will give a state dinner the middle of next month. Mr. Robbins immediately writes a memo to Mr. Simmons the War Chief, the Chief of Staff and the Bureau of Naval Operations.

"Boss," says Mr. Robbins, with blanched face. "The Chief is giving a state dinner the middle of next month."

"That means war?" says Gov. Whomask, "Of course, Dolly and Alice will be there."

"I'm afraid they will," says Mr. Robbins. "And we ought to well take it, men. What number is for seating them if you think best?"

"If it's war," says Admiral Glink, "let it come. We'll be prepared."

"How?" asks Mr. Robbins. "Remember, the dinner is scheduled for next month."

"The first thing I'd do," says Admiral Glink, "is to call out the Marine Band. Have you consented with your own and commandant to be invited in their own right? I'd throw up an umbrella of polite palms behind the head table at the first sign of trouble between Mrs. Gaun and Alice DeLoette."

"I don't want any cloud here," says Mr. Robbins.

"Humph!" says Mr. Whomask. "Here you've got the biggest war of the year on your hands, and you don't want blood shed. What else do you think will do?"

"I was having strategy would end this war."

"Aiming the Marine Band strategy," argues Admiral Glink. "But if you want to be hanged about it, I think I've got a plan. Now suppose Alice and Ned don't show up. That would give Mr. Gaun and Mrs. DeLoette a good excuse. It would until the next war, wouldn't it?"

"All right," says Admiral Glink. "We'll take their war as they come along. But to keep Ned and Alice out of the first fifth floor dinner, I'll send some navy jacks up to the Longest the back yard to feed Pauline some green apples. About 7 o'clock that night, they'll have the color and Ned and Alice can't come."

"That's strategy," admits Mr. Robbins, "but we mustn't make uncertain children. Isn't there some other way?"

"Well," says the Bureau Chief of Naval Operations, "you can put a tack on the seat at the right of the President and then nothing of you will want a very long."

"But I don't want any uncertain children," insists Mr. Robbins. "Then, 'gentlemen, I have it,'" he exclaims, coming out of a reverie. "I'll rule that age takes precedence over beauty at state dinners to the President. Then both of them will hang back."

"Announce that to Alice and Dolly," advises the War College, "and they won't even show up."

The World's Window

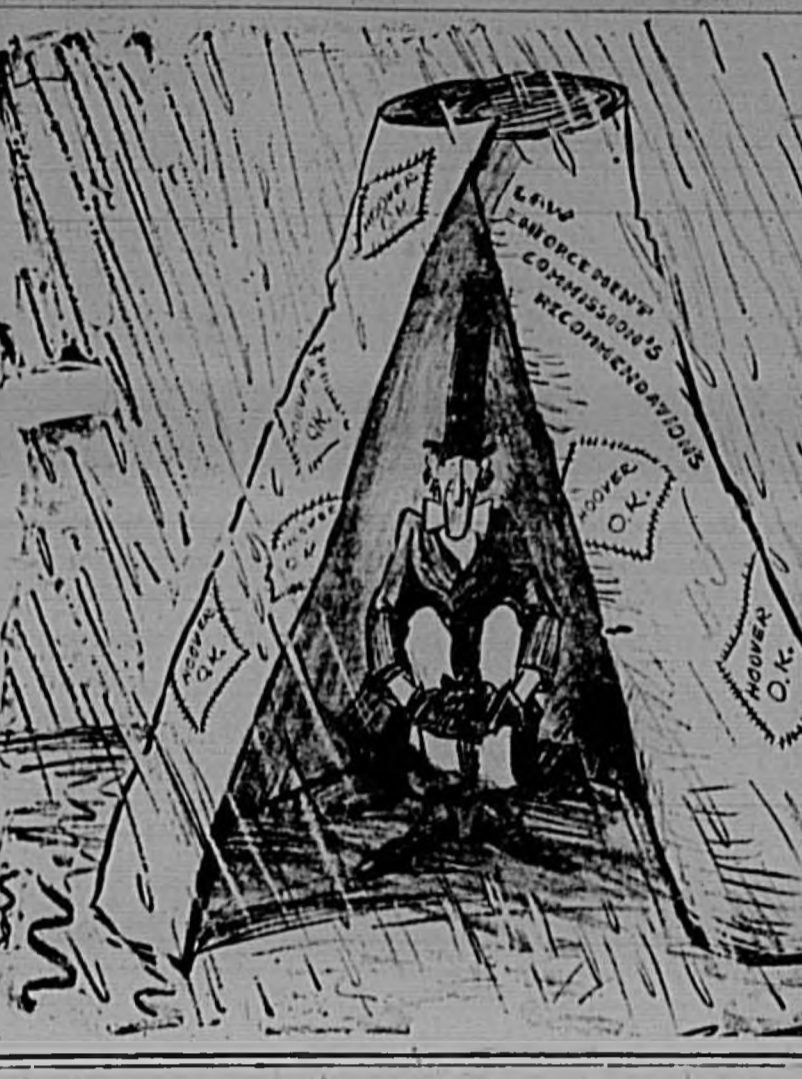

By Pierre Van Paasem

A distinguished American architect is reported to have said recently that the skyscraper, and many of them, will in the end lead to the exodus of human beings from New York. The atmosphere of the metropolis, he says, will become unbearable and naturally people will have to leave. Where will they go? Back to the land is the answer. If and when they do return to the land they will find out, no doubt, as we did recently, that they never should have left the land in the first place. For, leaving aside for the moment the unbearable atmosphere of large cities—and Paris is perhaps even worse in this respect than New York—there is also the infernal din and clutter that beats upon our ears twenty-four hours in the day. One must spend a day or so in the country, in a village not yet contaminated by automobiles and jazz bands, and experience the healing balm of silence and tranquility to realize the really murderous tempo of our great cities.

We spent a day or so in a rural community in France—the only phenomenon of modern times is a horse-drawn carriage which brings in the occasional traveler from the station, ten miles away. True, the postman had a bicycle. But that was all of modernity. Without dwelling upon the calm and charm of the homes, we found a serenity in the outside world that no words can describe. In the evenings, after Angelus, under the stars when silence reigned over fields and stables, it was like a fairy tale of enchantment. In the summer the wind stirs the leafy branches at night. Now that winter had come everything was in repose. We walked for several miles in that "golden silence," meeting only a few peasants carrying baskets on their way to the farm. The sight of an automobile a few days afterward made us positively ill.

An astonishing account of the little-known head-hunting tribes inhabiting the Dutch island of New, off the coast of Sumatra, is furnished by Dr. A. Pined, a returned explorer. The decoration Robbins immediately writes a memo to Mr. Simmons the War Chief, the Chief of Staff and the Bureau of Naval Operations.

ALL DRY ALONG THE POTOMAC

The Potomac, it seems, will remain a prisoner after all in the V. D. Pius XI, will be seventy-two years old in March. Although his health leaves nothing to be desired, age is making itself felt. He is aware of it himself. When addressing groups of pilgrims he always makes a new start after saying, "Your Father," and says: "We, Your old Father!" The operation of the Lateran treaty has almost doubled the Pope's work. To such an extent that he now seldom takes his afternoon walk and busies himself with affairs of state. The daily tasks of the Pontiff begin at 6 in the morning and do not terminate till 8 in the evening, when Pius withdraws to his private apartments, taking with him documents which he deigns to study more carefully. Among the Pope's duties is the receipt of 1,000 or 1,500 pilgrims almost every day. And, of course, private audiences with bishops and prelates in Rome for a visit ad limina. It's the same every day. Nothing will come of any of the visits to Milan, Mont Cassin, Lourdes, Jerusalem or Ireland, which were projected from time to time as being bound to follow the ending of the Vatican solution. That fine railway train of which the papera have published photos, will probably be used by the Pope's legate, and no doubt, by his successors, but not by himself.

Mrs. Hoskins Honors Husband With Party

In honor of her husband, E. S. Hoskins, and her brother-in-law, W. F. Hoskins, Mrs. Hoskins entertained with a surprise dinner party Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock at her home, 212 West Fourth Street. W. F. Hoskins was given a "fratman's charm" and E. S. Hoskins a "conductor's charm" as gifts from the hostess.

The guests were seated at the dinner table which was overlaid with a lace dinner cloth and centered with a vase of pink and white roses and sweet peas. The color scheme of pink and white was accentuated in several courses of the dinner and by the place cards and individual nut cups filled with colored mints.

Dinner was served in five courses by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. S. M. Abernethie and Miss Marjorie Hoskins. Guests included: E. S. Hoskins and W. F. Hoskins, honor guests, W. F. Shelley, L. M. Telford, Jimmie Stevens, J. C. Weaver, John R. Weaver, and J. C. Fullford of Orlando.

Suspected Couple Is Arrested In Palatka

PALATKA, Fla., Jan. 21. (AP)—A man and a woman, believed by authorities here to have been implicated in a series of robberies throughout the state, were arrested today when the man drew a gun on an officer who was attempting to search their automobile.

The man said he was W. T. Williams of Miami and that the woman was his wife. Two revolvers, a sawed-off shotgun, electric drill equipment and a large collection of articles believed to have been stolen, were found in the car. Authorities immediately notified police in other cities of the state, inquiring if the couple was wanted.

In every sense of the word a Virginia belle, the present Mrs. Kermit Rosenthal, the former Belle Willard, daughter of the Joseph E. Willards, was born at Palatka Court House, Va.

The pretty daughter of the former Ambassador to Spain, then Lieutenant Governor of Virginia made her debut in Richmond.

Miss Willard was one of the most attractive girls in the younger set of the Virginia capital. Her petite and with amiable features she was always the belle of the ball.

It was at Fort Springs, Va. that Miss Willard became acquainted with Mrs. B. Ward Deby, then Miss Etha Roosevelt. Through the sister Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late Theodore Roosevelt, met Belle Willard.

A romance developed between the Virginia girl and the son of the President which culminated in the gorgeous wedding at Madrid when Joseph Willard was representing the United States at the Court of Spain.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt make their home in the East Station during the winter, spending the greater part of their summers on the North Shore of Long Island.

Water Pipes Stolen From Hialeah Ground

HIALEAH, Fla., Jan. 21. (AP)—A. P. Walter, city superintendent of water works, was puzzled at the numerous complaints coming to his office about water being shut off yesterday. He was certain that his repairs were under way to, nevertheless cutting off the supply of aqueduct residents. He investigated. He found that approximately 1,000 feet of water main in the industrial section had been disconnected and dug from the ground. No reason could be found for the theft.

Wrights Entertain In Home Last Evening

Green and gold were the attractive colors used for decorations and party appointments at the Wright party given last evening by Judge and Mrs. Walter Wright at their home on Mellonville Avenue honoring a number of their friends. Vases and tapers of golden, calendula and red were arranged in profusion about the rooms where the guests were entertained. Tallies and other festive necessities were designed in colors similar to those of the festive color motif.

Throughout the evening several programs of songs were enjoyed and at a late hour scores were added and prizes awarded. Mrs. R. A. Newman, who had high score among the ladies, received from her hostess a holiday pillow, while Mrs. D. L. Thibault was given as a prize a necktie of playing card. Judge J. G. Shafer was the recipient of a tie for holding high score among the men.

At the supper hour a salad course was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. C. Fort, Mrs. J. G. Shafer, Mrs. L. F. Boyle and Mrs. W. W. Porter.

"Hot For Paris" With Victor McLaglen And El Brendel Is Here

Put on your adobe-rimmed eye glasses when you take a peek at some of the more searching scenes in Royal Walsh's successful farce, "Hot for Paris," which, as you probably know, is the first of the adventures of the erstwhile cast. Victor McLaglen, and is now at the Milane Theatre.

Assisted ably by the talented comedienne, El Brendel, and Bob Moran, with El Brendel of the Swedish agent, McLaglen makes "Hot for Paris" as thoroughly enjoyable as its predecessor. What was trench humor in the past is now flavored with salt spray, but marines and sailors talk the same language and have the same amorous pursuits. But whether the fun be salty or sultry the result is solid entertainment.

Consider the primary situation: McLaglen and Brendel, are sailing the bounding billows, headed for Havre, a port with many pretensions, if somewhat flamboyant, manners to the pair. Indeed, they attract the gentlemanly would very much like to join them at the city's expense. Meanwhile McLaglen on several occasions is about to lose or destroy a ticket. He has based something on the Calcutta Swedish stables, Brendel's Swedish thrift phone saves it from destruction. And, strangely enough, it's the winning ticket.

At Havre the boys are to be pitied of their good luck, but have made manage to "get the boat" as they suspect the fate.

Edison's Home Life And Leading Traits Are Told By Mate

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Thomas A. Edison wears a silk night shirt, Mrs. Edison reveals in the American Magazine. He likes to feel silk next to his skin. Usually Mrs. Edison makes him a box of handkerchiefs from the finest India silk. They are a yard square.

"I am always finding something of the boy in him," says Mrs. Edison. "He simply could not leave the house without giving me an affectionate hug and kiss. It is the custom of years for us to go to the door with him for a few parting words."

He regrets the talkies and would like to see Mary Pickford as Clara Bow in old silent film. He doesn't like bridge, dancing or golf. He considers golf was invented for men who eat too much. He writes practically no letters. Harvey Firestone writes to him but he does not write to Firestone.

Be moderate
AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Fashion revels in the soft, enchanting curves of the modern figure. Don't sacrifice that graceful contour by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When tempted to treat yourself too well, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the modern, alluringly-rounded figure.

UNIVERSITY HEAD OUTLINES FUTURE OF U. S. BUSINESS

Dr. Glenn Frank Says America Must Tolerate Other Views

ATLANTA, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Speaking on "Business and Politics in American Future," Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin and former editor of the Century Magazine, told an Atlanta audience today that "the most difficult lesson American democracy has to learn is to tolerate leaders who are great enough to differ from their constituents when necessary."

"Until democracy learns this lesson," he said, "it cannot hope for really great leadership in public affairs. For no man of scientific greatness is found and character with the purchase of political office at the price of a compromise of his own intelligence and conscience."

Dr. Frank was the guest of the Atlanta Journal, which gave the luncheon to 300 representatives of business and industry at the Atlanta Athletic Club. He was introduced by John S. Gathorn, president and editor of the Atlanta Journal.

The university president said that the cry "fair deal" will put the party in a political mood, and that state must be a "fair deal" to all permanent political parties.

He cited what he described as "the third home" as one of the developments of "the future of the new technical civilization."
