Jews Follow Rituals Dating To Middle Ages

By JONATHAN BRODER
The Herald Staff
JERUSALEM (AP) — It's five o'clock in the afternoon but the clock says midnight. Beard and men pray in the streets. Television and movies are forbidden. There are no trees, no flowers.

This is the Mea Shearim quarter of Jerusalem, a religious ghetto of Jews so orthodox they refuse to recognize the Israeli state — and often the 20th century — following instead a severe life of prayers and rituals dating back to the Middle Ages.

The ban on gardens comes from an ancient Jewish edict that tried to prevent falcons from dropping snakes into holy areas and contaminating religious sacrifices, explains Rabbi Moshe Hirsch, an American-born resident of Mea Shearim since 1955. The sacrifices stopped centuries ago, but the orthodox still keep the laws.

Mea Shearim, which means "100 Gates" in Hebrew, was built 100 years ago by the Ottoman Turks. Around the quarter they constructed a wall with six gates, which the orthodox believe to symbolize the points of the Star of David.

Inside the walls there is a cluster of stone houses, narrow, winding streets, granite archways and outdoor markets.

The orthodox shun modern-day trappings from radios to photographs to mod clothes. Bearded men, wearing the black-coated uniforms of the pious Hassidic sect, study Jewish teachings from dawn to dusk in musty synagogues, marking time by a clock that starts a new day the minute the sun goes down.

"We would study and pray for 25 hours a day if it were possible," Rabbi Hirsch says. "And we have devoted our lives to study simply because the Bible tells us to learn."

Some orthodox spend so much on the Torah, the Talmud and ancient religious teachings that there is no time left for faithful employment, and they must live off charity and eat at free kitchens set up by religious foundations.

As for women's lib in Mea Shearim, the mere mention of equal rights for the sexes is an anathema. The men begin morning prayers with a chant thanking God they weren't born as women, while religious girls attend segregated schools that prepare them for a life of cooking, sewing and keeping the home according to Jewish law.

Rabbi Hirsch says orthodox boys and girls don't date, and most marriages are arranged by professional matchmakers. Then, according to religious law, the wife tries to make herself as unattractive as possible to discourage the stares of other men. She shaves her head, uses no makeup and dresses in plain floor-length skirts and long sleeves.

Rabbi Hirsch says the orthodox penalty for marital infidelity is death, but the law isn't enforced. "Wayward spouses are forced to divorce and then they are usually banished from the community."

Many orthodox Jews in Mea Shearim do not recognize the state of Israel, its laws, its Hebrew language or its currency. Rabbi Hirsch's ultra-orthodox Neturei Karta sect communicates in Yiddish and preaches that the Israeli state can be declared only when the Messiah appears.

The sect has called on the Arab guerrillas of the Palestine Liberation Organization to recognize them in any future Palestine state the Arabs may establish.

The group also refuses to pray at Judaism's holiest shrine — the Western or Walling Wall — because it was captured by what they call "Zionist imposters" in the 1967 Mideast War. They have plastered the quarter's stone walls with posters calling for an end to adoption and military inductions of religious youth, and with slogans comparing the Jerusalem government with the Nazis.

The orthodox object to autopsies as a desecration of the human body, which is considered holy. The protests against the draft stem from a recent military drive to bolster manpower after the October Mideast War. Unlike in the past, religious students and orthodox girls are no longer automatically exempt from military service.

Rabbi Hirsch, who is secretary of the Neturei Karta, says the Mideast crisis was caused by the "Zionists' desire for power" and Arab land. "The Zionists threw the Arabs out of Palestine by force," he says. "This is against an oath the Jews made to God more than 2,000 years ago."

The religious fervor in Mea Shearim often spilled over into violence. Stone-throwing orthodox mobs have attacked cars and buses violating the sabbath ban on driving, vandalized the homes of pathologists and beaten up girls wearing mini-skirts.

Rabbi Hirsch says cosmetic beauty is only skin-deep. "We're here to keep the soul clean."

State Audit Shows 'Adverse Findings' In County Operations

By BILL BELLEVILLE
Herald Staff Writer

A report revealing "adverse audit findings" in the operation of the Seminole County government was received by county commissioners this week.

The "list of preliminary and tentative" findings may be included in an audit report which will be prepared on the county's account for the period from Oct. 1, 1972, to Sept. 30, 1973.

Commissioners were asked by State Auditor General Ernest Ellison to review the report within 20 days and to propose "corrective action" for the activities.

Included in the findings were:

- Funds totaling $187,048 in federal grants received by the Board were transferred directly to the Sheriff's office without appropriate budget amendments. By doing so, the Board gave the Sheriff complete control over the funds. The spending of this money will be reviewed by Ellison in his audit of the Sheriff's office.
- Errors were found in calculation of fees charged by the Building Department which resulted in incorrect fees being collected. "Contributions" in the total amount of $26,860 were also collected from developers at the rate of $300 for a single family dwelling and $200 for a multiple family unit.
- Although the contributions were for the stated purpose of assisting in school needs, they were not expended for that during the audit period. Instead, they were transferred from the Board account to the School Board before the end of the fiscal year.
- Ellison said there was no county rule that authorized the Board to collect such money.
- Travel expenses were often found to be not in line with actual trips. Several travel vouchers failed to show the place of departure, destination, date and time of the trip, and the purpose. In addition, mileage paid in several instances was in excess of mileage shown on the "current map of the State Department of Transportation."
- Although $31,477 was spent during the year for the operation of the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority, there "were no activity reports indicating accomplishments of the Authority." The Authority was established with the intent of attracting industry to the county.
- Actual balances of cash on deposit in banks exceeded reported estimates by significant amounts during each month of the year.
- The use of 39 county vehicles for purely public purposes could not be verified since there were no "vehicle utilization records." County employees are assigned to 31 vehicles on a 24-hour-a-day basis.
- There was an overstatement on the Board's records of $125,000 in fixed assets on the Board's records because project records for construction of the Mental Health facility, the Juvenile Detention Facility and the jail addition were not kept.
- Ellison made a physical inspection of selected items in the county's inventory. Several items could not be located and several others were not properly marked to show the Board's ownership.
- There was no discussion of findings of the report when it came before the Board late Tuesday night. Instead, commissioners agreed to assign County Attorney Tom Freeman to review the items recounted by Ellison and to report to them next Tuesday.
- The commission also asked Freeman to contact the Auditor's office and request an extension of their 30-day deadline for "explanation" of the items. The present deadline is Jan. 29.

Mayor Seeks To Oust Casselberry Fire Chief

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY — Mayor Bill Grier has recommended to at least two council members the ouster of volunteer Fire Chief Roger Rasooli, The Herald has learned.

Two city councilmen contacted Grier to oust Rasooli at last Monday's meeting and replace him with Gerald Baker, a Casselberry resident.

Rasooli, informed of a move to replace him, showed up at the meeting with an attorney to fight for his job. But the issue never surfaced.

"The mayor backed off. He thought he would bulldoze this thing through. If no one opposed him, he'd have accomplished his purpose. Then he found out I'd retained an attorney," Rasooli said.

"The mayor is not replacing me for not properly fulfilling the office of fire chief. He is doing it for political reasons and for political reasons only," he said today.

Councilman Charles Sizer said he rejected the mayor's proposal because all the council want is present (Council Chairman Edith Durr was absent at Monday's meeting.)

"I thought that kind of appointment shouldn't be dealt with without a full council," Sizer said. "He (Grier) talked with me... it was just a matter of not reappointing him (Rasooli)." (Rasooli did mention he was going to appoint Mr. Baker. "As far as I know, Mr. Baker never served on our fire (Rasooli)." (Continued On Page 2-A)

County Land Plan Money Search Given Little Hope

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

"Life is going to be tedious in the money game," State Sen. John Vogt told the CALNO Council of Local Governments last night as reports gave little hope federal or state funding will be available for the countywide comprehensive land planning for Seminole mandated by a special state law.

Vogt said the Seminole Legislative delegation might have successfully persuaded Tallahassee colleagues to provide state money to pay costs of the land use planning by showing the resulting work would be a model for the state if 1975 were not a tight budget year.

He added he is also pessimistic about the passage of a law to require land planning statewide because of the financial pinch at the state level.

Vogt's remarks came after Michael Szymog of the state department of community affairs made it clear there is little chance money will come from that agency to Seminole County for the effort.

A Seminole County application for planning funds through Szymog's department has been turned down.

Nevertheless, County Planner Roger Neivender said the application will be revised to narrow the request down to money only to implement the land use planning law. Vogt and State Sen. Lori Wilson said they would go with a Seminole County delegation to encourage the state to reconsider the application.

The special Seminole County law sponsored last year by the county commission requires that the county government and the seven cities complete studies and prepare a comprehensive land use plan by 1977. The plan would designate the type of development permitted in various areas of the county, limiting development only to the uses planned for in advance.

Vogt zeroed in on the definite change in the atmosphere among the various governing (Continued On Page 2-A)

Three Juveniles Indicted By County Grand Jury

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Grand Jury has indicted three juveniles in connection with armed robberies. The youths are in county jail at Sanford on $10,000 bond each.

A fourth sealed indictment was returned and will remain sealed until the person named is arrested.

Indicted on charges of robbery and use of a firearm in commission of a felony were: Samuel Williams, 18, of 1108 Pecan Avenue, Sanford, in connection with the pistol robbery Sept. 28, of a 7-11 store at 12th St. and Park Ave., Sanford. Jail records indicate McClair became 18 on Nov. 11 but was a juvenile at the time of the alleged robbery.

Christopher Paul Vammen, 15, of 115 Mariland Ave., Altamonte Springs, in connection with a Nov. 24 pistol holdup of the Little Food Town store on SR-41 at the Seminole-Orange County line.

Authorities said the robbery victim was attending juvenile court at Sanford on another case when he spotted Vammen in the courtroom and notified the judge and deputies.

Edward Adamkiewicz during a robbery. Indicted for robbery, use of a firearm in commission of a felony and possession of a short-barreled shotgun charges was John Henry Mobley Jr., 19, of Oviedo, in connection with the Jan. 8, sawed-off shotgun holdup of Jet's Grocery at Oviedo. Mobley is being held in county jail on $10,000 bond.

Jail records listed Mawer as a student at Seminole Junior College.

McClair and Vammen were arrested on the indictments at the Juvenile Detention Center and Mawer in Forest City. The trio will be tried as adults on the felony charges in circuit court.

Three other men, already in custody, were also indicted by the grand jury Tuesday. Being held without bond in county jail are first degree murder charges on Edward Meinert, 24, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Donald Eugene Jones, 40, Largo, Fla. They are accused in the Jan. 9, slaying of tavern owner

City Eligible For Flood Insurance

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Richard Kelly, Republican of Florida's fifth congressional district, announced today that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has certified the City of Sanford for the federally subsidized flood insurance program.

Kelly said owners of Sanford structures — residential, business, religious, agricultural, government-owned and those of nonprofit organizations — are eligible for the special insurance coverage.

Sanford became qualified under the federal program when it agreed to adopt land use and control measures that will minimize flood damage to future construction, Kelly said.

Disney World Opens Florida's Only 'Mountain'

Disney World unveiled Florida's only mountain before a throng of dignitaries, astronauts, press and curious on-lookers yesterday in the Magic Kingdom.

Dedicating the 183-foot high RCA Space Mountain (pictured above) was Robert W. Sanoff, chairman and chief executive officer of the RCA Corporation.

The astronauts in attendance were Gordon Cooper, Scott Carpenter and Col. James Irwin, lunar module pilot for Apollo 15.

The entire dedication was filmed for television and will be shown on an NBC special March 23.

Included among a band that comprised of 2,000 high school students were representatives from Seminole and Lake Brantley High Schools.

Within the cone-shaped structure is a heart-stopping high speed trip into "outer space" as visitors board an eight-passenger shuttle that begins an upward course into "space" and then plunges toward "earth" — giving one a sensation similar to being on a roller coaster, except this ride is in the dark and the "space rider" can't see the many curves and angles that send the shuttle hurtling farther and faster.

Among other spectacular items included in Space Mountain are audio-animations figures in futuristic settings, such as a businessman conducting a conference through the use of a closed-circuit television set-up that is rigged in his attack case.

Two, there are audio-video hook-ups for education, shopping and monitoring and the visitor to Space Mountain even has the opportunity of seeing himself on color television.

Structurally, the mountain is composed of huge ribbed slabs — 72 massive pre-stressed concrete beams forming a gigantic sealed cone. From the apex, a thin tower-spire reaches more than 183 feet above ground level, creating a striking landmark on a skyline already punctuated by such unique structures as Cinderella Castle (at left with the Goodyear blimp soaring in the background) and the Contemporary Resort Hotel.

It's truly a magnificent addition to Walt Disney World and its Tomorrowland.

Chamber Backs City Police

By MICK LOCHRIDGE Herald Staff Writer

The Board of Directors of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce unanimously approved a resolution today expressing "support and complete confidence" in the Sanford Police Department.

Chief Ben Butler, follows the recent arrests of seven members of the force on burglary charges.

Jack Horner, executive manager of the chamber, said the presentation of the resolution would be made to Chief Butler as soon as arrangements could be made.

In other action at today's meeting, the board approved a motion made by Julian L. Stenstrom to form a Bicentennial Committee to organize and sponsor Bicentennial projects in the community.

Sprinklers Halt Mall Blaze

A mall-wide sprinkler system quickly extinguished a spontaneous combustion fire in the manager's office of the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs early this morning.

The fire itself, which started in a pile of mops and rags, created little damage but water from the sprinklers covered much of the merchandise in the Mall.

Altamonte Fire Chief Thomas Siegfried said there has been no estimate as to the extent of water damage at the Mall.

Three pumps, a rescue squad and 13 men from the Altamonte Department were on the scene at 6:40 a.m. after receiving a call from a maintenance man at the mall off SR 436, according to Chief Siegfried.

Siegfried remained on the scene until 11 a.m. to investigate the cause of the fire and to "salvage and overhaul" the Mall.

Rescue Unit Offered

OVIDEO — The Ovidio Volunteer rescue squad will be back in business soon, thanks to Herndon Ambulance Inc. of Seminole County.

Idus Willis, president, said his firm is willing to give the volunteers a fully equipped Suburban ambulance, if they will accept it, or loan it to them indefinitely.

He said the ambulance will be fully equipped with standard rescue and first aid equipment and is valued at approximately $4,500. It will be delivered to the squad soon as it can be equipped, he added.

The Ovidio Volunteer Fire Department's rescue van was stolen and burned Tuesday night. It contained not only rescue and first aid equipment but also valuable fire-fighting equipment. Its total worth was estimated at about $10,000.

Forest D. Fuller, 22, of P.O. Box 183, Ovidio, was arrested near the burning vehicle and jailed on charges of grand larceny of a vehicle and third degree arson. Bond was set at $13,000.

Wentworth, director of regulatory matters for AT&T, the parent company of Southern Bell and 21 other Bell System companies, said that under a new system of figuring the allocated cost, Florida operations would have been even more costly last year.

Anti-Trust Law
Ambitious One

Federal officials were quick to hail a "new era" in enforcement of anti-trust laws when President Ford signed a bill that changes federal policies toward monopolies.

The new measure makes violation of antitrust laws felonies instead of misdemeanors, increases fines that corporations found guilty of monopolistic practices must pay from $50,000 to $1 million, triples jail sentences and makes consent decrees more difficult to obtain in antitrust suits.

In reality, the upsurge of the antitrust movement in the United States of America began long before the new law was signed Dec. 24. For example, the budgets of the antitrust divisions of the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission were increased substantially this year. The policies of the federal agencies also made a dramatic change from anticonsumer protection to active pursuit of industrial concentrations earlier in 1974. Both the Justice Department and the FTC have been seeking narrower interpretations in courts to limit exemptions from the Sherman and Clayton antitrust acts. And even businesses regulated by other federal agencies, such as communications and transportation, have come into the sights of the FTC and Justice Department.

The result of the new emphasis has been a bewildering proliferation of antitrust suits. Most of the attention has been focused on the major confrontations, the suits against American Telephone & Telegraph, eight major oil companies, International Business Machines, two large tire manufacturers, three leading New York Department stores, the National Broiler Marketing Cooperative, four major breakfast food makers and nearly all of the major book publishers in the United States.

That, however, is only a fraction of the federal effort. Charges also have been filed against chemical firms, broadcast networks, wholesale food processors, major drug firms, and many others. Additionally, the federal government is "looking at" the automobile, zinc, copper, coal, tobacco, earth moving, heavy electrical, newspaper and paper, coffee, bread, lettuce and other industries.

Thomas E. Kauper, chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division is credited with being the chief figure behind the renewed emphasis on breaking up big business. The basic question that his actions have raised is whether subdividing the efficiency that size brings in most cases serves the national interest. A persuasive case supporting such action has not yet been made.

Quite apart from that issue, however, is whether or not Kauper has spread himself so thin that legitimate efforts against trusts will be diluted.

The value of the new antitrust law that President Ford has signed is that it can be used as a deterrent. If it is selectively and forcefully applied, those involved in illegal monopolistic practices will be put on notice. If it is not the Justice Department will be ineffective and the consumer will lose twice — once in the extra money he pays to those who fix prices and a second time when he pays his taxes.

FBI Closing On Klassen After Resignation

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Tol Klassen announced his resignation last week just as the FBI was closing in on him.

The FBI confirmed its charge, according to sources close to the investigation, that Klassen accepted a $2,817 fee from the Martin E. Segal Co. after helping the firm get postal business. This allegedly violates two conflict of interest statutes. The FBI, therefore, will present its findings to the Justice Department for prosecution.

For nearly a year, the craggy Klassen has held out in his postal penthouse, denying reports of wrongdoing and deploring his critics. His abrupt departure from the Postal Service, he said, had nothing to do with the criticism of his conduct.

On the contrary, postal sources say the sworn evidence finally caught up with him. The Board of Governors stuck by him, they say, as long as the charges were confined to our column. But when a congressional committee confirmed our charges, the board could no longer ignore them. Klassen resigned two days after meeting with the board.

Here are the facts that brought him down: We revealed that Klassen, not once but twice had helped the Martin E. Segal Co. with postal contracts. When our associate Jack Colbert questioned him, Klassen denied any knowledge of the second contract. Now sworn congressional testimony contradicts this. The FBI investigation has also confirmed our story completely.

Investment
The Answer
To Inflation

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The economists are happy. Despite their talk of fine tuning, they've never had a clear fix on how to handle inflation. Talk with four economists will set you free.

But they do know what to do about a recession: Spend. And keep on spending until you are out of the slump.

Here they are in agreement: But they're wrong. There's a major bug in that theory in the 1975 economic bogdown. Government deficit spending, more money in our pockets from tax breaks, added unemployment benefits and public service jobs will not solve our problem. Without increased production of basics, these actions will merely drive prices skyward. We'll consume more heavily for what's available. Which will increase inflation and put us back to where we are now.

For the new buying almost certainly will be severely centered in the day-to-day essentials — which are even now soaking up our funds. The unemployed, given extended payments or a public-service job, and the employed, given a tax break, will not rush out to buy an expensive new house or car. They'll want to see daylight first.

Our troubles have a deeper base. Basic production capacity over the years has not increased sufficiently to employ all U.S. workers, or to supply the increase in demand as more Americans moved into the middle class. This inefficiency would exist even if the economy were surging, which it certainly is not doing today.

There are many reasons for this failure to build production capacity and this slower-than-desirable increase in productivity. In part it has been because of a lack of confidence in our future economic growth, in part because of government regulation, in part because big business has created complacency and in part because the new breed of big managers are bureaucrats who are unwilling to take chances.

There has been a hefty shift of investment in new production overseas by American companies, stimulated by a variety of tax incentives. That is, for years we have exported jobs and have simultaneously failed to create them in sufficient numbers here at home. Without this continually expanded and upgraded capacity, an increase in demand cannot possibly be matched by the requisite increase in the output of essentials.

For curing a recession, or an inflation, there is no substitute for increasing investment in basic industry used for stimulating productivity and new products in order to put more men and women into production.

Ideas are not in short supply. Inventive scientists and engineers are coping up with new improvements and feasible new concepts that were before in history. But there's a shortage of risk capital. There's a reluctance to take chances.

A good deal more of our thinking, therefore, must go into eradicating barriers.

THOUGHT
Sing, O heavens, for the Lord has done it; shed, O depths of the earth; break forth into singing, O mountains, O fountains, and every tree in it! For the Lord has redeemed Jacob, and will be glorified in Israel. — Isaiah 44:23.

"Music is the only language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing." — John Erskine, American editor.

— We reported that Charles Burnard, a close friend of Klassen's, had picked up $821,000 in postal contracts without submitting a bid. The blustery postmaster general feigned amazement over this. He said he was "appalled." But sworn testimony now reveals that he gave Burnard's business card to a postal subordinate and suggested that Burnard could "do a good job."

— We charged Klassen with padding the payroll with his friends, wasting money on fancy offices and abusing the contracting system. Klassen pooh-poohed the allegations. But a House subcommittee, headed by Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., found that "circumvention of regulations, favoritism, inefficiency and waste have existed in recent years in postal contracting and procurement."

— We described how Klassen had lavished the taxpayers' money on his office complex. The General Accounting Office confirmed our report under the exact figure he laid out.

Under the contract the enterprising Klassen wangled from the board, he was able to buy aavenport that had cost the government $230.91. In all, she paid $370.21 for furniture that had an original price tag of $339.88.

For a paltry $40.19, outgoing Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., was able to buy aavenport that had cost the government $230.91. In all, she paid $370.21 for furniture that had an original price tag of $339.88.

The first time occurred immediately after the message of Mohammed captured pagan Arabia, recalls a thoughtful article in a recent Business Bulletin of the Cleveland Trust Co.

Either because of spiritual exaltation or some inexplicable change in their genes, the formerly placid Arabs embarked on a series of successful military adventures. In a comparatively short time, they subdued most of the Mediterranean littoral, overran the Iberian Peninsula and scaled the Pyrenees with the aim of making what is now France subject to Islam.

The decisive Battle of Tours in A.D. 732 turned the tide, aroused the West out of the sleep of the Dark Ages and ushered in the short-lived empire of Charlemagne.

TOM TIEDE
Radio's Last Hurrah

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When the notice of Jack Benny's death was bulletined to the nation, I was motoring on the New Jersey Turnpike. I had been driving for hours and as is my course during such periods, I was endlessly turning the radio dial for something besides drive, but to avail. The end of Benny, the radio giant, not surprisingly, was announced right after a "haze" by something called Elton John and before another by, yeech, The Dog Night.

The occasion served to remind, this time with irony, the depths to which the once fine medium of radio has sunk. Stations which formerly joyed America with the presence of a Jack Benny now broadcast nothing more than background music to pass the hours. Music, news and sports is what they call it. God, it's double awful. Windshield wipers offer more entertainment to the traveling listener.

This is not, understand, a complaint of nostalgia. The good old days of radio had Benny but they also had Captain Midnight, hokey quiz shows ("College of Musical Knowledge"), Spike Jones and His City Slickers, and dreary daytime drama "Backstage Wife" that polluted the living room. Even that was preferable to today's fiddledumpty, but only by a bit. The principal reasons many remember it fondly is that they no longer have to listen to it.

Nor do I forget here, grumping, that far from succumbing to the illness which its programming symptoms, modern commercial radio is in large part disgustingly healthy. In Benny's time (1940), there were 847 radio stations in America. Today, according to National Association of Broadcasters figures, there are 7,738. NAB adds there are 353 million receiving sets in use in the nation and that manufacturers regularly sell 55 million more annually. "We've never had it so good," says an NABER. "There probably isn't a family in the nation without a radio — most have four and five or even more."

Between you-and-me... this week has been still another "chapter-adder" to my career. Or, another way of putting it, I've been tapped for jury duty!

After the first two days all I can say is there'll be a juicy volume or two on it, as well as perhaps a complete roundup with first impressions and the whole works.

Let me share just one with you right now.

While trying to qualify from the venire (those who were called but not yet qualified to serve by the prosecutor or the defense as jurors) the question was asked whether we'd be identified as a witness, or were they (the prospective jurors) ever been mistaken for someone else?

"Yes, as a matter of fact," replied one well-known system man from Sanford, "some people mistook me for (Clark Kent) Superman!"

The attorney asked, "You mean because of your dark, rimmed glasses?"

"No, I used to have black hair before (it's now speckled with gray)."

Honestly, it was one of the few moments when everyone burst out laughing in that courtroom. (Come to think of it, Tom, you do look like Clark.)

Come on out and join in the dedication and enjoy a good basketball game, too.

I'm talking about Seminole Junior College's Health Building gymnasium is what they used to call 'em in my day on Saturday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

All of the folks at SJC have added tremendously to this area, especially so under the directorship of its President Dr. Earl Waddo.

And I'll tell you, Athletic Director and head basketball coach Joe Sterling has been a favorite of mine for many years.

They're all great and deserve our fullest cooperation and praise.

DON OAKLEY
Third Time Around For Arab Power

In administering a profound shock to the complacent West by virtue of its control of the lion's share of the world's store of oil, the Moslem world is repeating something it did twice before in history.

The first time occurred immediately after the message of Mohammed captured pagan Arabia, recalls a thoughtful article in a recent Business Bulletin of the Cleveland Trust Co.

Either because of spiritual exaltation or some inexplicable change in their genes, the formerly placid Arabs embarked on a series of successful military adventures. In a comparatively short time, they subdued most of the Mediterranean littoral, overran the Iberian Peninsula and scaled the Pyrenees with the aim of making what is now France subject to Islam.

The decisive Battle of Tours in A.D. 732 turned the tide, aroused the West out of the sleep of the Dark Ages and ushered in the short-lived empire of Charlemagne.

Some seven centuries later, while the Frislandians and others were absorbed in the cultural achievements of the Renaissance, the Turks captured Christian Constantinople. The blockade of the Bosphorus cut off the flow of spices from the Far East, an indispensable product in preserving meat and making it edible for aristocratic lazes.

Italy and France were virtually helpless, but Portugal and Spain, being maritime powers, moved to overcome the challenge. The former courageously developed a sea route through unknown waters around the Cape of Good Hope and across the Indian Ocean, unimpeded by the land-bound Moslems. The return cargoes yielded a handsome reward for the entrepreneurs who had taken the risks.

The Spaniards chose a more imaginative and much more hazardous "Project Independence." The result was the discovery of the rudimentary means of communication and transportation, untold riches began to flow from the New World to the Old.

The third "invasion" by the Moslems has been accomplished without their lifting a single sword, and it is to be hoped that the structures in the "space" lines will be overcome without the bloodbath that was the case in the two earlier conquests.

For a time it appeared that the major oil-producing nations would become victims of a divide-and-be-conquered strategy of self-defense. There is now some promise that a formal or informal OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Consuming Countries) will come into being to challenge the OPEC, the oil exporters.

Sadat Warns Israel
To Withdraw Troops

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Anwar Sadat said today that unless Israel withdraws its forces on all three Arab fronts within three months he will announce Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's attempt to bring peace to the Middle East. He also rejected any unilateral agreement for an Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory only, saying the Israelis must withdraw simultaneously from occupied Syrian and Jordanian territory also.

Border Clash Reported

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli raiders clashed with an Arab guerrilla force in southeast Lebanon early today, and the Israeli command reported four Arabs killed and two Israelis wounded. The Israelis said their troops destroyed a bridge near the village of El Habarieh "to hamper terrorist support" to former Lebanese president "terrorist suspect" to former Lebanese president in five nights.

Talk Signs Improve

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Vilny Alian is showing a readiness to move on to concrete negotiations in his talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Adding to this positive sign, Alian has extended his stay here through Friday, an indication that Kissinger may be making headway toward an interim Middle East agreement.

The talks were conducted in a very friendly, very cordial atmosphere, without any pressures from anybody," Kissinger told reporters after an initial 15-hour session at the State Department late Wednesday.

Alian also expressed optimism: "It is high time to move from the preliminary stage to the practical phase, and I'm sure that all serious concerns will do their best to see to it that the political momentum in the Middle East will be revitalized as soon as possible."

Viet Cong Shell Largest Training Center In South

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Viet Cong gunners shelled South Vietnam's biggest military training center in suburban Saigon, killing four persons and wounding more than 40.

The attack came just before midnight Wednesday.

Angola Given Pledge Of Freedom From Portugal

ALVOR, Portugal (AP) — Angola, the last major colony in Portugal's once great empire, has been given a formal promise of freedom next Nov. 11 in an agreement that President Francisco da Costa Gomes called "a generation late in the currents of history."

Representatives of Portugal and three black Angolan liberation groups signed the independence agreement Wednesday night here on the Algarve coast after six days of negotiations.

It promises an end to 14 years of guerrilla war in the southwest African territory. With 14 million square miles and 6 million people, Angola represented 60 per cent of the area and 38 per cent of the population in Portugal's African possessions. One other of these, Guinea-Bissau, is already independent; Mozambique is self-governing and gets its freedom in June; the islands of Sao Tome and Principe will probably be released by July, and the Cape Verde Islands have been promised a referendum to decide their future.

Before independence, the Angolans are to elect a constituent assembly that will choose a president and write a constitution.

The transitional government will have a Portuguese governor-general as its head but will be run by a 12-member cabinet, with the three liberation groups and Portugal each having three ministers.

Cabinet Approves $5-Million For Investment In Pipeline.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Cabinet members, with major responsibilities for protecting Florida's environment, have approved a $5 million state investment in the controversial Alaskan oil pipeline. The long-term investment of state retirement funds was unanimously approved at last week's Cabinet meeting by the three Board of Administration members. Gov. Reubin Askew, Treasurer Thomas O'Malley and Comptroller Gerald Lewis. The pipeline was held together by conservation groups from all over the United States until Congress granted final approval of the project. Hal Scott, director of the Florida Audubon Society, took a pragmatic view of the $5 million investment in pipeline bonds. "They're charged with the responsibility of getting the maximum dollars from the monies they have to invest and I would suspect that the interest rate on that is rather high," he said. The bonds, a joint venture of Standard Oil of Ohio and British Petroleum Co., pay 8.75 percent interest. Over the 25-year maturation period, the state will earn nearly $7.2 million on its $5 million investment. "It's just a good investment," said J. A. Scanlon, a Board of Administration staffer. "I'm not applying by it," Scott said. "I can only say that I wish the pipeline would have been run through an area that was going to be less damaging to the environment of Alaska." The contribution of Florida employees to the pipeline, as important as it may be in terms of their future benefits, is negligible as a portion of the project's overall financing. The current issue of Petroleum Today, a trade journal says it will cost about $6 billion to build the 48-inch diameter pipeline 800 miles from Alaska's oil fields at Prudhoe Bay to the Port of Valdez. Scott accepted the pipeline investment as a good deal for the state, but he added "I know I would not take my money and invest because I think the thing is morally wrong."

The new seating arrangement of the state Cabinet apparently was sparked by Atty. Gen. Robert Sherrin. Gov. Reubin Askew said in a letter last week to Cabinet members that he had discussed initiated about two months ago by a female aide in Sherrin's office. He said the meeting with the governor came later. "I gave him the factual background," Morris said. "I didn't influence him one way or the other."

plans because we've already promised he could come here," Ferguson is due to be released Feb. 7. Ferguson says former prisoners "can get a job, then go to their empty apartment. But that doesn't do it. You've got to have people who care. I've got to make this work. I can't sit back and hope."

Mrs. Meyer, who says she and her husband "are near the age of Bobby's own parents," have a married daughter who lives in Illinois. "I feel Bobby has responded to this parental thing, where he didn't respond to others," Mrs. Meyer says.

Inmate Hopes For New Family Life

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Bobby Ferguson has spent all but 30 months of his 40 years in institutions. And he says he didn't care for the little bit of freedom he did have. Now he's about to be freed again from the Iowa State Penitentiary here. Warden Lou Brewer has his misgivings, but Ferguson says he's a changed man and intends to grow to the couple of an Iowa farm home.

Ferguson's mother was an inmate in the Iowa Women's Reformatory when he was born, and she says he's searched in vain for his parents. After birth, he was taken to Woodward State Hospital where he spent the next 14 years as a ward of the court. From then on, Ferguson says, he committed a succession of crimes to keep him in institutions where he feels secure and has friends.

18-year stretch for armed robbery and escape when he asked Gov. Robert Ray to give him a life sentence so he could remain "in the only home I've known."

Today Ferguson says he sees it differently and says he'll find new hope on the 200-acre farm of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Meyer near Ottumwa.

"They've adopted me," Ferguson says. "Not a legal adoption, but I hope to make it that way."

But Mrs. Meyer says: "We haven't talked with him, just touch and talk, but I don't suppose that will change our

What Does Tax Rebate Plan Do?

NEW YORK (AP) — The President's proposed 12 percent income tax rebate and his determination to "turn the country in a new direction," probably will relieve the pervasive feeling among Americans that they are economically adrift.

Nobody really knows for certain just what the characters and needs are of so varied a people as Americans, but polls show they are upset over what they feel is an inability of leaders to tug hard on the reins.

Now that President Ford has promised to take a firm hold, they have reason to wonder if the horse is to be tugged in the right direction by the tax on imported crude oil.

As does any industrial society, America runs on energy, and to a greater extent than may be evident. It dines on energy, communicates via energy, travels on it, heats its homes, and uses it in many other ways. Conceivably, the tax could lead to generally higher prices, not just for oil.

Farmers use it to bring crops to market. Retailers use it to light, heat and advertise their stores. Trace any other product to its source and you find the same pattern.

What the tax might do is provide a supportive argument for utilities and others already disposed to use more domestic coal at the expense of clean air and tidy landscapes. It could be a spur to and excuse for the changerover.

While the increased costs to industry would be ameliorated by raising the investment tax credit to 12 per cent from 7 per cent, a question remains about the possible impact on particular industries.

Utilities, for instance, already are suffering sharply higher costs and a reluctance on the part of consumers to approve more rate increases. It remains to be seen if and how they will be helped or hurt by the proposals.

The automotive industry is depressed, and it could become even more depressed by higher prices for gasoline. Americans awakened suddenly this past year to realization of the high cost of running a car. They might be further discouraged.

The total impact really cannot be measured yet. To the extent that higher energy prices discourage frivolous use of energy there'll probably be a gain. But most energy usage is considered essential and probably can't be cut much.

If the program spurs development of domestic supplies it will be a plus.

LEAVING HOME IS NO LAUGHING MATTER . . . . . But the Welcome Wagon hostess can make it easier to adjust to your new surroundings, and maybe put a smile on your face.

Typical Family Has Fun In Sunshine

Nadasky family registers for a typical Florida holiday

There they were, a typical American family, fighting the daily battles thousands of other families fight to keep their heads above water in these troubled times.

When suddenly into town breezes Barbara Walters, hostess of the Today Show. Ms. Walters took a quick shopping trip with the family (they spent only $20 because typical Americans are troubled by the state of the economy, she said).

They could not be more average if picked by the Today Show's computer. And like any other average American family, they love vacationing in Florida. They've been a little luckier than most average families, however. The large motel near Disney World is picking up the tab, just to show that even though most typical Americans are troubled by the state of the economy, nice surprises do still happen.

Ms. Walters checked off the things that make them the typical American family the way you hear ball scores read on the evening news: two children; two cars; a house (mortgaged) in the suburbs (Garwood, N.J.); and a dog (Whiskey) being babysat by a set of grandparents (his).

Representing "typical Americans" were John and Mary Nadasky and their daughters Lori and Cindy. Ms. Walters checked off the things that make them the typical American family the way you hear ball scores read on the evening news: two children; two cars; a house (mortgaged) in the suburbs (Garwood, N.J.); and a dog (Whiskey) being babysat by a set of grandparents (his).

When asked what they liked most about Florida, the Nadasky family's reply was, typically, "Everything."

4-H Clubs Have Spring Fashion Forecasts Which Match Clothes To Your Zodiac Sign

Look into your fashion future! Zodiac Fashions, a Spring 1975 4-H fashion show presented by the Seminole County Extension Service and the Simplicity Pattern Company will give you a glimpse, Jan. 24, of the Altamonte Mall in Altamonte Springs at 11 noon, and 2 and 4 p.m.

No matter what your zodiac sign, you will be sure to find a look that is "new" right for you. Four-color coordinated wardrobes are planned to suit you and your skills.

Try separates if you're a Sagittarian! Plan them in red, white and blue for an action right look with bicentennial flair.

Virgos like lots of variations, from a funky floral skirt to sheerly pretty separates. They're fashion's perfectionists and always in the pink.

Libras lean to fashion with put-togethers that are naturals in muslin fabrics and colorings accented with brights.

For a well planned wardrobe with lots of savvy switches. . . .

Geminis generally lean to green.

Club Notes

Woman's Club
Annual Fine Arts Exhibit and Luncheon will be held Jan. 20, at the Deltona Woman's Club in their club house on Normandy Boulevard. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. Doors will not be open before 11:00 a.m. Following the luncheon all exhibits will be on display and awards will be given to winning entries in all classifications: dressmaking, needlework, ceramics, paintings, knitting, woven rugs, crafts made from kits, original literary work and any other creative items.

In charge of dressmaking and modeling (for there will be a style show of dressmaking attire), is Wynona French; handicrafts, Ruth Kent; needlework, Louise Hackett; paintings and pictures, Barbara Dunston; tickets, Bernice Rossow.

General chairman Bunny Hall urges persons with items of historic interest to bring them for display on a "heritage table."

Tickets may be secured from Mrs. Hall, Ruth Kent or Eunice Davis, and all members of the committee.

A special feature will be the Mariette Troupe of the Deltona Theatre Arts Guild, who will demonstrate and explain how this art can be a fine medium for artistic and dramatic experience for all ages. Mrs. Ruth Robert Paetz, literature chairman of the club, having had extensive experience as a teacher of mariette art in the east, before coming to Deltona.

No tickets will be available at the door the day of the luncheon.

Ikebana
Ikebana International will meet for luncheon and meeting Jan. 24, at 12 noon, in the DeBarry Community Center, with Mrs. Arthur Peterson, president, presiding.

Mrs. Sarah Jernigan, director of playground education at the Stetson University, who has made many trips to Japan and who is an authority on Japanese flower arranging, will entertain by doing the traditional Japanese dance.

Welcome Wagon
Deltona-DeBarry Welcome Wagon Club will meet Jan. 21, at 10 a.m., in the Deltona Community Center. Mrs. Reba Austin, first vice-president and program chairman, will present the speaker of the day, Miss JoAnna Higgins of House of Decorating in DeBarry. She will speak on "Beautifying the Interior of Your House."

President Mary Vining invites newcomers to Deltona, to attend. A luncheon will follow the meeting at 12 noon.

Junior Auxiliary
The Junior Group of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 255 of Deltona will meet for its regular monthly meeting on Jan. 20, at 7:30 p.m., in the Sunday School Room No. 2, of the Deltona United Methodist Church on Normandy Boulevard. The Juniors are now making scrapbooks for the hospitalized veterans. All persons are asked to save your Christmas cards and bring them to this meeting to help fill many such books. You need not be an Auxiliary member to do this.

Legion Auxiliary
The American Legion Post No. 255, and the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 255 of Deltona will hold a joint initiation of members and awards of merit night, on Jan. 23, at 7:30 p.m., in the Deltona Community Center. The Auxiliary ceremonies will take place first, followed by the Post ceremonies.

The initiation ceremonies are for all those Post and Unit members who have never been initiated before. Mostly, it will be those who have joined this past year. A large attendance is expected.

The Auxiliary this year has been holding monthly dances each second Friday of the month in the Deltona Woman's Clubhouse which have been proving very fruitful for the Auxiliary treasury. President Joan Lourensen invites residents of the Deltona area to

New Dog Pound Shelters Canine Waifs And Strays

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's Editor

It's almost worth being a stray dog in Sanford these days, even if it's just to experience the brand new dog pound which opened Jan. 2, and to get to know, however briefly, the kind and sympathetic men who run the pound.

Sanford's old pound was as much a disgrace as all the tattered, battered, stray and truant dogs roaming the city's streets. Animal control officer Ralph Willis really had his work cut out trying to make his charges comfortable in the overcrowded facility, and keeping the old building clean.

But, with the new year, the city opened its new dog pound on East SR 46 at Brisson Avenue. Willis has two assistants, Freddie Padgett and Carlos Monti, which enables him to keep the kennels open daily from 7 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., with claiming hours between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

The brand new facility, securely fenced, has 20 concrete-floored runs, each with its own wood kennel. Doubling up on the number of dogs in each kennel, as many as 40 dogs can be accommodated at a time. At present, no space is available for holding stray cats.

Along side the kennels, is the pound office and workroom. When a dog is brought to the pound, information about the type and sex of the animal, whether it has tags and the owner could be contacted, and the time and place of pickup is recorded on a form. Whether the animal is claimed, adopted out or put to sleep, is later recorded, and the form filed.

"We administer ultrasonix to give the animal a sleep painlessly in just a minute or two," he explained.

A Flood Of Facts From Fish Fanciers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: "Sorry for fish" asked if fish felt pain. She said she goes fishing with a friend who fillets the fish right after it's caught, and she can't bear to watch because it's still alive and wiggling.

You told her that since fish have nervous systems, they must have feelings, and suggested that she tell her impatient friend to wait until the fish dies before he fillets it. Abby, you certainly don't know much about fish. What's so humane about letting a fish die gasping for breath out of water? An expert fisherman first cracks the fish on its head to stun it, then quickly cuts off the head with a sharp knife.

Dead fish decompose very quickly (About 200 times faster than pork or beef.) The sooner after a fish is caught it is prepared for eating, the better it will taste.

FISHWIFE: Since my piscatorial expertise is limited to mackerels, that one fish letter prompted a flood of letters. Here's another:

DEAR ABBY: If fish feel pain, there must be a lot of suffering fish in Japan where we have made our home for the last four years.

The Japanese take great pride in serving whole fish with their bellies sliced in strips while the fish is still breathing! (This is called "sashimi.") The diners exclaim with Congrats!

ALSO SORRY FOR FISH
DEAR ABBY: The proper procedure for preparing freshly caught fish is as follows: First, rap the fish smartly on the head. This will kill it humanely and immediately. Then clean the fish at once, and either eat it or freeze it as soon as possible.

Some of my friends think I know what I am talking about because I am not only the president of the Rainbow chapter of Trout Unlimited in Anchorage, Alaska, but I was recently elected to the House of Representatives.

DEAR MIKE: Your presidency of "Trout Unlimited" suggests that you know how to fish. Your election to the House suggests that you know the right bait, too. Congrats!

Silicone Is Harmful

By DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would appreciate your explaining to me how a silicone injection is done for breast enlargement and if it is dangerous as some people say. Would it cause problems later years? What kind of doctor would I go to for this kind of procedure?

DEAR READER - Silicone injections are not recommended for breast enlargement. There have been a number of complications reported from the procedure. Some black market efforts have also been made with impure silicone which makes this even more dangerous.

I am sympathetic with a woman's desire to be attractive, although I think too many women place too much emphasis on this aspect of their figure when they could do better in life to spend more time developing their personality. Those who really need or feel they must have an operation for breast enlargement should see a plastic surgeon who can implant silicone, not inject it. The implants are of several different varieties, but the end result is a surgically-placed prosthesis behind the normal breast tissue.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is it possible to alternate insulin and Orinase? I've been on both and have both on hand. I'm on Orinase now.

DEAR READER - While many doctors prescribe oral pills for diabetes, must tell you that the American Medical Assn., the Diabetic Assn. and the Food and Drug Administration have all advised against their use.

AP Names Ali

Top Male Athlete

NEW YORK (AP)—Muhammad Ali

evened two scores last year — beating Joe Frazier and regaining the heavyweight championship

he had lost out of the ring.

His success, he was named The Associated Press

Man of the Year for 1974.

Ali, who regained the title by knocking out George

Foreman in Africa, received 152 votes in a national poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Hank Aaron, who broke Babe Ruth's career home run record by hitting No. 714 in April, finished second with 101 points and Lou Brock, who set a major league base-stealing record of 118, was third with 87.

Killebrew came to terms with the Royals after day-long negotiations, he was headed for the Texas Rangers. But he did not disclose terms of the one-year agreement but the Rangers said they would not meet Killebrew's reported request for $800,000.

Royals Stadium may have been a factor in Killebrew's desire to join Kansas City rather than Texas.

Killebrew will be used by the Royals as a designated hitter and pinch hitter. He had 74 hits in 323 at bats, 13 home runs and drove in 54 runs in 1974.

Killebrew's move to the Royals closes out a 14-year reign in Minnesota with whom he became one of baseball's most feared hitters.

After complaining about being out of shape entering the 1974 season, King emerged triumphant with a 6-2 victory over Sue Stupp that prompted talk of a confrontation with Chris Evert in the

Gettysburg: 3,000 Acres Of American History

By JOHN PINKERMAN
The Herald Services

GETTYSBURG, Pa.—Except for an ugly 30-foot sightseer's tower that is an insult to the hallowed ground, Gettysburg National Military Park is a moving experience in American history, sacrifice and natural beauty.

The tower is one of the rare commercial aspects of the park that once was one of the world's bloodiest battlefields—51,000 casualties in the three days of July 1-3, 1863, as the Civil War Confederates under Gen. Robert E. Lee almost cracked the Union line. It was the high-water mark for the southerners and they went downhill in stubborn retreat from that battle on.

Sticking out like an oil well overlooking the graves and dignity of the national cemetery here, the tower is next to a building claimed to have historic value as Sutter's Store. It is intended to bear some resemblance to the wartime Featured at the Gettysburg National Military Park is the giant oil painting by Paul Dominique Philpoteaux. The 24-foot high oil is located in the Cyclorama Center.

Building when the structure gives a visitor a realistic view of the battle as skilled lighting techniques and an historically correct narration tell the story, tiny spotlight shifting from incident to incident. Gen.

Armistead, falling from his horse mortally wounded as he tries to lead the Confederates over a stone wall.

The Union rear lines are an interesting study, too. Artillery is firing in perfect unison. Companies of blue-clad soldiers are lined up waiting for the call to duty. Soldiers kneel, giving first aid to wounded mates. A surgeon in "butcher" apron attire, works in an open-air shed, amputating a leg as three soldiers hold the wounded man still.

Under a tree a few hundred yards from the heat of the battle's depicted a uniformed Union soldier. He seems to be an observant and, in a sense, Philpoteaux painted himself into the battle scene at this point as a "signature" for his work, rather than signing the painting in the traditional manner.

A SOLITARY SKIER LOOKS UPWARD AT PEAK OF SNOW-CAPPED MT. Rainier during winter day. Mt. Rainier is the fourth highest peak in the continental United States.

Mt. Rainier Towers Like Majestic God

By RONALD H. WALKER
The Herald Services

If I could choose a season to visit Mt. Rainier National Park, I'd be tempted to visit the great peak during the winter months. After a short summer season, "The Mountain" settles into a long, snowy winter. It can seem incredibly remote and peaceful even though it is less than 100 miles from major urban areas. If you are equipped for the weather, winter is a time to see and enjoy Mt. Rainier when you can't practically have the park to yourself.

The mountain not only dominates the landscape (it is the fourth highest peak in the continental United States), but also the weather. On a clear day it towers like a majestic god. But when you visit the Pacific Northwest, you are taking your chances on whether or not you'll see the mountain. It is a pretty elusive creature, perhaps magically appearing for just minutes and then disappearing again under a blanket of clouds. Mt. Rainier is often shrouded in clouds in winter, which isn't surprising when you consider that world-record snowfalls have been recorded inside the park. Just imagine snow over 20 feet deep. Sometimes the snow falls in flakes as big as dimes. If you look quickly, you can see six perfect points before they melt on your sleeve.

Heavy snowfall does mean that many of the roads in the park are closed. On most days, if you have chains you can drive 15 miles into the park to the Paradise area. All that snow means a lot of different ways to enjoy the natural beauty of Mt. Rainier.

San Francisco: Bighearted City

By HAROLD MCCONNELL

SAN FRANCISCO—There's no end to the things this famous old city has to offer the visitor. Excellent food, fine hotels, breathtaking sights, exciting activity—but perhaps the greatest of it has to share its something of the mind and spirit you can't quite define.

Spirit, enthusiasm, joie de vivre. These things it has in abundance, and even in a short visit one feels caught up in San Francisco's love affair with life. The tone of their greetings and conversation always has an upbeat quality. It's an infectious attitude—and makes it fun to be among them.

A note from the manager of the Stanford Court Hotel to this guest said simply, "Hope you have a joyous visit." And that about sums up what San Franciscoans wish for their visitors: joy.

You wouldn't think this feeling would carry over in a visit to Alcatraz prison, which has been open to the public since October, 1973, as part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area. But it does. And it is done by at least one of the National Park Service guides, Meredith Alpert, a young woman from Los Angeles. She puts such enthusiasm into telling you the story of the old prison system that you have little time to become depressed.

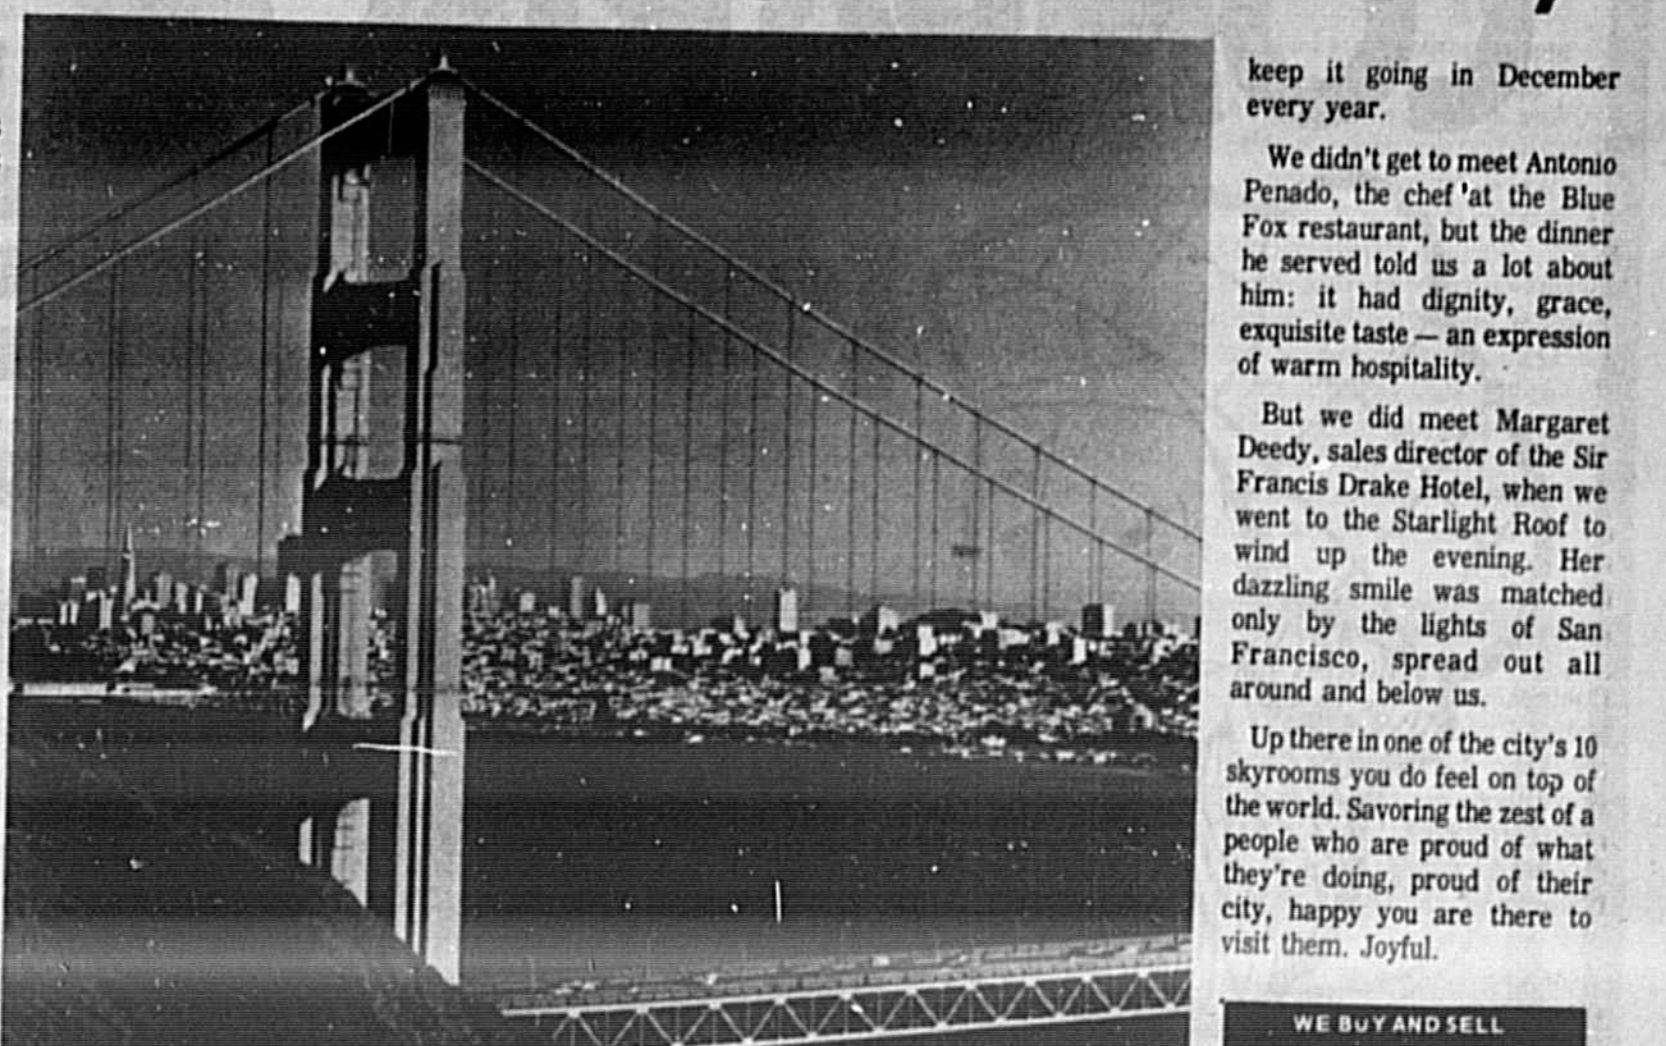

There is a similar vibrancy in the tone of the woman guide's description of Rodin bronzes at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

She knows what she is talking about and conveys this feeling of vital interest to her rapt audience.

And when you get to the Empress of China restaurant, you can't help but be enthralled by H. K. Wong, a tennis-playing family man and irrepressible storyteller with considerable wit and charm. He's president of the restaurant and loves to talk about the planning that went into acquiring artistic works for his guests' enjoyment.

If you have the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Phyllis Patterson at the Great Dickens Christmas Fair, be prepared for some walking as well as talking.

She delights in showing you all around the huge Pezziwig's Warehouse near the San Francisco Produce Market and telling you the story of how she and her husband, Ron, put the fair together, with its scores of Victorian-style booths, and

This is a view of San Francisco, seen through the Golden Gate Bridge's trolley-like cables. This cosmopolitan, joyful city knows how to entertain visitors.

New RFC Would Hold Economic Credit

Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles detailing the history and accomplishments of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which for 21 years and eight months presided over the largest continuing disbursement of money by a single government agency in U.S. history.

By JAMES CARY
The Herald Services

WASHINGTON—The name of a ghost from the depression years has been evoked by the Democratic Party as a model for leading America out of its energy, recession and inflation problems.

Different: Working When You Want

By EDWARD NEILAN
The Herald Services

WASHINGTON—Something called "flexible scheduling" could drastically change our traditional patterns of work and play.

The concept's inventor, Prof. Brenda Eddy of Georgetown University, believes the changes will be so sweeping as to warrant being called "revolutionary."

At a time when layoffs, furloughing, severances, early retirements, and professions of "I'm happy to have a job, any job," are heard more often than references to employ satisfaction, Eddy's theory might seem at first glance to be out of step with the times.

Not so, she says. Flexible scheduling, according to the onetime University of Southern California homcoming princess turned business consultant and business administration professor, does not mean working less but working at more convenient and productive hours.

"The current way we live revolves around the 9-to-5 workday; we have the sense of that being work time and other times being playtime," she said.

Her plan, as presented in her classes and in lectures to business groups, is to have people working more flexibly. Perhaps some could work from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., some could work on weekends and have years and eight months over the largest continuing disbursement of money by a single government agency in U.S. history.

That sum, spanning the chaotic epoch of the great depression and two wars, exceeded more than $50 billion before the RFC's lending authority was terminated in September, 1953.

Now the Democrats, at their Dec. 6-8 mid-term convention in Kansas City, have recommended that legislation creating a new RFC be passed to help most the credit needs of the presently troubled American economy.

The proposal was one point in an eight-point program proposed to fight recession. But precisely what the delegates had in mind as to how the new depression was edging into its blackest months, he said the act would bring into being "a powerful organization with adequate resources able to strengthen weaknesses that may develop in our credit, banking and railway structures."

He thought the corporation should be liquidated in about two years.

Instead the RFC became the foundation of a massive and historic outflow of capital. It provided:

—$16.5 billion, mainly in loans, to fight the depression, all of it reportedly recovered with more than $500 million profit.

—$2,785,867,000, not recovered and written off, in federal relief funds given to the parents can share a great deal more of the loving and a great deal more of the work of the family," she said.

Under Eddy's concept, when you felt frustrated or uneasy on the job, you would simply tell the boss you were going home and walk out the door.

Bosses appreciate the system, Eddy maintains, once they realize that work does not necessarily fit into eight-hour-a-day, five-day-a-week segments.

Control Data Corp., the computer giant, was cited as one company that makes extensive use of flexible, part-time and staggered schedules.

Jewel Tea Corp. in Chicago is another firm mentioned by Eddy as utilizing both full- and part-time managers and employees working on staggered or flexible schedules.

Eddy admits there are some possible negative effects on unemployment. Some companies, for example, might try to get part-time workers to fill jobs held by full-time workers.

In some states, bills have been introduced that would require state governmental offices to make at least 10 percent of its jobs part-time positions.

The world is faced with a growing work force and fewer jobs, said Eddy. "It is only logical that we begin thinking about flexible scheduling as an alternate system."

Certainly the RFC did run into bad days in 1949-51, after Jones had left.

A series of hearings by the Senate Banking and Currency subcommittee, under the chairmanship of Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., turned up evidence of undue influence on the RFC board of directors in granting loans.

The board was abolished and a single administrator put in charge. Only a short time later the incoming Republican administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower found the agency superfluous and it was abolished.

Such a recitation of historical highlights, however, does little to demonstrate the scope of what the RFC tackled.

(Next: "Big Spender" agency has diverse claims to fame.)

School Adopts 'No Bell' Idea

By JANE MARTIN LEEK
The Herald Services

LOS ANGELES—"Bells are like punching a time clock," says Angela Heath, 12.

For Angela, an eighth-grade student at suburban Inglewood's Monroe Junior High School, bells amount to what she calls "robotic programming."

"So, school bells have stopped ringing in the 1,150-student school in an experimental no-bells policy."

Monroe is believed to be the only junior high school in California to have ended the tinkling of classroom bells.

The policy will give the teenagers more responsibility and provide a less regimented, more relaxed campus atmosphere, says Principal Dennis Flynn.

"Once students are out of the school, they have to take the responsibility of getting to work on time," he says.

Film Guide Lines Stay In The Park

By GILBERT HILL,
FPA
The Herald Services

Film exposure "guide numbers" for most electronic flash units suggested by manufacturers these days — including the automatics — seem to be at least "in the ballpark."

But there are just too many variables in photography to trust a newly acquired or unfamiliar unit completely for pictures the photographer really wants.

So, the first rule for use of electronic flash, like any other piece of photographic equipment or supplies, is to make your own tests.

Remember that if the manufacturer is in error it is most likely to be an over-estimate of the power of the unit. So, check that particularly to avoid under-exposure. And, if you haven't had time to make tests — and often when you have — it is a good idea to "bracket" exposures. Make one the way it is suggested, one picture open one stop of the lens, and one closed down a stop.

The manufacturer must make tests under uniform, and hopefully "normal" conditions. But what is normal? Is it flash out of doors at night without walls or ceilings — or flash in the sunlight to fill a shadow? Is it an extreme close-up of a flower or a room full of people?

Then, cameras differ, even brand new ones made by the same manufacturer. They work with a "slow" or "fast," still within rigid limitations, but enough to make a difference to a photographer who is conscious of his needs for a perfect slide or a good negative.

There are slight differences in the speed and color balance of film from batch to batch — so that for the same amount of money you could send 1,376 letters.

Today, you can make the same telephone call for $2.50. Instructions on automatics set definite limits on the distance for which various "modes" of the unit should be used — and most of them warn that automation cannot be depended upon for more than 25 feet. So, back to the mathematical table you must go and to manual, or normal operation of the unit, for these longer shots.

All guide numbers are based upon distance from the light to the subject. If the guide number is 110 for a particular film and light, and the distance is 10 feet, then 110 divided by 10, gives a lens opening of f/11.

Indoor Plumbing Is Here To Stay

The Herald Services

could make a long-distance call on our privately owned telephone system from San Francisco to New York for $28. For that same amount of money you could send 1,376 letters. Today, you can make the same telephone call for $2.50.

Here to stay, but it brings unfamiliar problems: which parts of the economy to keep growing, which to be curbed; where the capital must come from for all the tasks to be tackled. We've lived like there was no tomorrow, and tomorrow is here. Nineteen hundred and seventy-four will go down in the historical record as the nasty Year One."

In its business bulletin, Cleveland Trust philosophizes, "The overriding question now is: How will the public react to a further modest decline in living standards during the new year?"

"In the event of another crop failure or a new oil embargo, printing more money will certainly not put more food on the table nor more gas in the tank. If our conglomerate national government can maintain its cool in coping with the conflicting interests of our highly pluralistic society, the outlook a year hence will be more favorable than it is today."

According to the Thursday Letter of Dean Witter, California's outgoing Gov. Ronald Reagan told a group in London: "You know, in my country, some 25 years ago you

Social Security Gets Pat On Back

NEW YORK (AP) — "Social Security is basically sound, the administration of it is efficient," said J. Henry Smith, a member of the government's Advisory Council on Social Security. "I think they do a fine job."

Smith also is chairman of Equitable Life Assurance Society, one of the largest companies in the life-health insurance industry, which in decades past sometimes was highly critical of the Social Security concept.

Disputing critics who insist the disability and retirement insurance program is financially unstable, Smith maintained in an interview that the possibility of bankruptcy was so slim as to barely exist.

"Social Security is just as secure as Congress wants to make it," he said. "If Congress doesn't provide the funds it isn't secure. But Congress will provide the money, so the public has little to be concerned about."

Recognizing that if benefits are to be increased so must revenues, the advisory council is expected late this month or early in February to recommend a sharp increase in the maximum taxable wage base to $24,400 from $14,100.

West opened with the king and ace of spades and then made the brilliant (?) lead of a low spade. East ruffed with the jack and Mathe simply discarded a diamond.

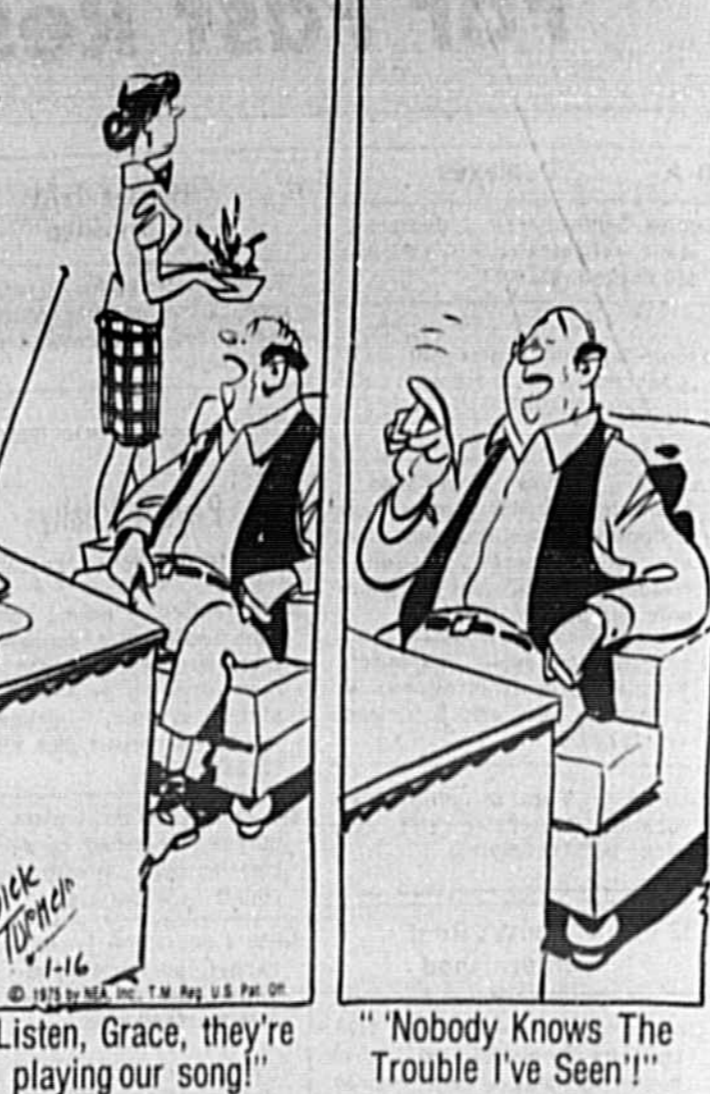

Since East had started with four hearts there was no way to keep Lou from taking the rest of the tricks and chalking up a thoroughly undeserved game. Strangely enough, there was no way to beat him once West had cashed two spades, provided Lou figured out where all the cards lay.

Some experts are more expert than others. If you don't think so, just look at this hand played by Lou Mathe of Los Angeles in an important team match.

North's double of two spades was one of those popular but rather confusing negative doubles that experts like to use. It asked Mathe to bid a new suit if he could do so.

North's three spades was sheer idiosyncrasy. Normally the bid would be a slam try and Mathe's four-heart call was his start to a slam in one of the minor suits. North realized he

Fourth Juvenile Indicted

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A fourth juvenile has been indicted by the Seminole County Grand Jury in connection with an armed robbery.

Ervin Edwards Jr., 17, of Seminole Gardens Apartments, Sanford, is in county jail today on $10,000 bond on charges of robbery and use of a firearm in commission of a felony.

Indictments returned by the grand jury this week also named three other juveniles on robbery and use of firearm in commission of a felony charges.

All four will be scheduled for trial as adults in circuit court at Sanford. Conviction of the charges could bring maximum sentences of life imprisonment.

Jailed Thursday were Samuel Williams McClain, 14, of 1106 Pecan Ave., Sanford, who police say was 17 years old when a Sept. 28 convenience store robbery occurred; residential area west of Sanford.

Sheriff John Polk said the Springs, and Douglas James Edwards were made by his Mawr, 17, of Ohio Drive, burglary squad detectives following a round-the-clock two day probe.

Edwards was indicted in connection with a Jan. 12 armed $5,000 bond each were John robbery at Jack's Mini Market, U.S. 17-92 and SR-419 south of Sanford.

Two sheriff's deputies were passing the grocery store in a car when a man ran out. Deputies arrested Major Wheeler, 19, of 1811 W. 13th St., Sanford, and a 17-year-old juvenile in the case but said a third suspect, believed armed with a sawed-off shotgun, escaped.

Court sources said the juvenile robbery suspect walked away from the custody of a state Division of Youth Services employee the day after the robbery.

Edwards was arrested early today on the grand jury indictment by Sheriff's Capt. J. Q. Galloway, according to county jail records.

The Thursday arrests were in connection with a Jan. 12 burglary at the home of Melva Brown, 1808 Lincoln Ave., Polk said.

Investigators said a gun and jewelry valued at $600 have been recovered in connection with Thursday's arrests.

Polk said he expects more arrests in connection with the burglary ring.

Longwood Bites Bullet; Facing $44,000 In Red

LONGWOOD — There are financially rocky times ahead for the city's government, accountant Harold Hartscock indicated during a workshop last night and said belts must be tightened to get out of the money morass.

City businessman, Georges St. Laurent, asked to assist the city with financial advice, urged the council to "bite the bullet now," rather than putting off the inevitable; the laying off of some city personnel.

Income and spending was examined for the first three months of the fiscal year, line-by-line, and numerous equipment items were cut. Hartscock said the city would still end the fiscal year $44,000 in the red.

City Atty. Ned Julian indicated that state law does not permit a municipality to deficit spend.

The $44,000 figure was reached after all reserves in the general operating budget were depleted in the review. Consideration was not given to allocating money for carry-over operation of the first three months of the new fiscal year to begin Oct. 1, 1975.

The city had difficulty getting through the first two months—October and November—of the current fiscal year when it had $50,000 left from the prior year to operate on.

Revenues from property taxes generally do not begin to come into the city coffers until mid-December.

Hartscock said the former city council had expected $600,979 in general revenues. However, the city will receive about $48,979, Councilman Jerry Connell added the figure did not take into account the $19,900 borrowed by the general operating fund from water plus expenses committed to former consulting engineers Mack Glass and Radcliffe. Hartscock said that the in the $109,000 suit filed by (Continued On Page 2A)

ECONOMY CRASHES!

Whether by accident or design is not certain, but George Earl Grider of Orlando certainly succeeded in getting his revenge on soaring food costs yesterday when he accidentally crashed his car into a convenience store on SR 434 at Sand Lake Road, sending high priced grocery items crashing and temporarily halting business in the store. Several Campbell's soup cans suffered debris; the driver escaped unharmed.

Applied from Congress and other quarters to implement rationing as the method to cut down on soaring consumption of the precious petrol.

Also a boost to tourism was an announcement yesterday by Eastern Air Lines that it will add 600 seats a day to and from Orlando Jetport at McCoy sometime this summer.

State officials are hopeful that a surge in tourism can help to offset the increasingly bleak financial picture in state government.

Faced with less-than-hoped for revenues from tax collections during the first five months of this fiscal year, the Cabinet on Jan. 9 ordered state agencies to cut spending by $119 million.

Deputies Crack Burglaries With Arrest Of Six Persons

Wesley Jr., 18, of 1808 Coolidge Ave., on a charge of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony and John Willie Anderson, 55, of 702 Hickory Ave., both Sanford, on charges of buying, receiving and concealing stolen property.

Investigators said four juveniles, ages 14 to 17 — including a 15-year-old girl — were also charged in the case and turned over to juvenile court authorities.

Polk said he expects more arrests in connection with the burglary ring.

Zoo Eyes Heavy Tourist Traffic

Sanford officials are hopeful the new Central Florida Zoo will be completed in time to attract part of a record 25.3 million tourists expected to stream into the Sunshine State this year.

State commerce officials predicted Thursday in Tallahassee that tourism this year will surpass even the banner year experienced in Florida in 1973.

State tourism officials estimated 25 million tourists spent $5.5 billion in Florida in 1973, while 24.5 million sightseers spent $6.1 billion last year.

Zoo officials have set April 1, as the day animals will move from present facilities into the new compounds and a Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce official said today he's hopeful the attraction will be "full blown" sometime this fall.

"I'm hopeful they can have it really nice for us to go all out," Executive Manager Jack Horner said, adding, "We're (Sanford officials) not really geared up until we have something to sell."

Utility Violations Found In Southern Gulf Program

The Seminole County Utility Control Board — also known as the County Commission — has found Southern Gulf Utilities to be in violation of county utility regulations and can assess the firm almost $40,000 in fines.

The action, which came yesterday, was expected after the Board Tuesday denied steep rate increases requested by the firm because of "non-compliance" with utility regulations.

On Tuesday, commissioners denied a rate increase that would have doubled water bills and tripled sewer bills for the firm's customers in the county.

In a series of rate hearings that concluded on Nov. 12, Southern Gulf representatives told the Board that their firm would lose money on both water and sewer operations in the county if they did not receive the requested increases.

But during compliance hearings, which ended in December, the Board heard evidence from inspectors in their Utility Control Department that cited interruptions in service and poor housekeeping throughout the firm's system.

During the non-compliance rendering, newly-elected Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski abstained from voting since he wasn't present for the hearings.

Judge Richard Muldrew, who issued a temporary injunction halting the firm's system. During the non-compliance rendering, newly-elected Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski abstained from voting since he wasn't present for the hearings.

Residents Face Exemption Loss

Many residents of Seminole County are facing the loss of their eligibility to homestead exemption for 1975, according to Terry Goemmel, Seminole County Property Appraiser.

Goemmel said the renewal applications are being returned to his office marked "undeliverable" probably due to those residents being created with some of the cities renaming and renumbering their streets causing the forms to be returned and marked as undeliverable.

Residents are reminded by Goemmel if they haven't received their homestead renewal application, and if they still reside on the same property, they should contact the appraiser's office.

New residents of Seminole County in 1974 or old residents who moved to a different home during 1974 are reminded they must apply in person prior to March 1. Homestead exemption applications are being taken at either of the three locations: Seminole County Courthouse in Sanford; Seminole Plaza in Casselberry; and the Altamonte Mall in Altamonte Springs.

Goemmel cautioned residents not to take the word of others if there is a question and instead requested they contact the personnel in his office for the correct information.
