Small Claims Hassle Where Do You Go To Get $ Back?

By DENNIS FEOLA
 Herald Staff Writer

Pre-trial hearings are held every Monday at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. at courtroom D in the Road Mall in Sanford. If all parties agree to go ahead with the suit, a trial date is set. One of three county court judges will hear your summary judgment in Seminole County. They are Judge Alan A. Dickay, Wallace H. Hall and Harold P. Johnson.

After the witnesses are heard and the evidence presented, the judge will make a decision. Once he rules in your favor, you're on your own.

If the defendant agrees to pay, of course, everything is fine. If he still refuses to pay, it's back to the court office for a certified copy of the final judgment.

With that, you can get a writ of execution from the clerk's office to have your judgment enforced.

The sheriff's office can seize, advertise and sell to the highest bidder enough of your judgment debtor's property to satisfy the amount of your judgment plus the cost of seizure, advertisement and sale.

It is necessary for you to provide the sheriff's office with a list of property which can legally be seized to pay the debt.

There are various ways of finding out what property your debtor owns including checking with the Department of Motor Vehicles and real estate records.

It takes four or five weeks before a pre-trial hearing is set.

DR. RAYMOND BARB WITH LUCKY

He Still Treats Animals, But Pasture Calls Are Out

By JANE CABELLERRY
 Herald Staff Writer

After a broken back, broken neck, blindness and paralysis, Sanford veterinarian Dr. Raymond L. Barb finally got the message.

Ten years ago he took his doctor's advice and stopped treating horses and cows.

Although after 34 years of veterinary practice in Sanford he is still busy treating his smaller patients of the canine and feline variety, Barb no longer makes pasture calls.

"My doctor, Dr. Raydon Miller, told me he would treat my horses back only on the condition I never touch another large animal," explained Barb. "This was back in 1968 when he was temporarily paralyzed after a hernia which he was giving warm medicine showed him down outside his Park Drive office building his back." "I was in the hospital for five weeks and laid up at home for another five weeks," said Barb.

July 14, 1967... a day Dr. Barb will never forget! He was rounding up a herd of cows in rough woods near the Wekiva River when his horse stepped in a burned-out stump hole and went down. "I stayed in the middle and my neck was broken in the fall," Barb recalls. "Although my horse had not shown affection before, while I was laying on the ground he put his head against my back bracing me so I could pull myself up by grabbing hold of some bushes. I walked on for as I could but crawled into the car. Another fellow came back and found me, then went for help. The ambulance never got there so he drove me 11 miles to the hospital sitting up in the car. I guess I did all the things wrong and I nearly died."

"The bones in my neck were crushed and there was a cramp in my spinal cord. They put tubes in my head and stretched me out. I was totally blind for 10 days to two weeks. They moved me from Sanford to Orange Memorial in Orlando and when they got me there they held me to the bed for 30 days and I couldn't even turn over. Every time I sneezed or coughed they took another X-ray," said Barb.

That time he was laid up for nine months. While he was in the hospital with his broken back his large animal equipment "disappeared." "My wife was intent on my following the doctor's orders that time," he said.

Barb has had his share of trouble from small animals as well and has scars on his arms from bites and scratches. "When I first came to Sanford, rabies was rampant and at one time every animal not tied up was killed. There were 70 people in Sanford being treated at one time. There were so many cases there was not enough vaccines in the country to supply all the visits needed so we had to divide up the doses," Barb remembers. "I have been treated eight times for rabies—more than any vet in the U.S. as far as I know," said Barb. "Along about 1963, a rabid animal we had in a cage became violent and chewed his way out. My wife called the sheriff patrol from the Navy base and he reached across the fence and tapped the dog on the head with a tilly club," he said.

It has been about 10 years since Barb saw his last case of rabies, a cat, and it was the dog of Beverly Carty. "We have been told 'don't snore' anymore around here."

65% Voter Turnout In Seminole?

By DONNA ESTER
 Herald Staff Writer

Supervisor of Elections Camille Bruce is predicting 65 percent — 35,000 — of the county's 54,471 registered voters will go to the polls in Seminole County Tuesday to elect two congressmen, a new governor and three members of the Cabinet as well as three legislators, two county commissioners and three school board members.

"We will see a turnout of 65 percent or better," said Mrs. Bruce, adding that 1,800 absentee ballots have been issued so far compared with 974 issued in a similar election four years ago.

Voters in seven Sanford area precincts — 1, 3, 14, 25, 27, 28 and 32 — will choose either incumbent Congressman Bill Chappell, Democrat or Tom Boney, Republican, for the District 4 seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Those voters in the remaining 49 precincts will select either Democrat David Best or incumbent Republican Richard Kelly for the 10th district representative to the nation's congress.

In the governor's race, the contest is between Democratic Sen. Bob Graham of Miami Lakes and his running mate, State Rep. Wayne Mixson, and Republican state of druggist magistrate Jack Eckard of Clearwater and Public Service Commissioner Paula Hawkins.

For the Florida Cabinet, the choices are George Firestone, D, and Andre Cromarty, R, for secretary of state; Bill Gunter, D-incumbent, and Jeffrey L. Latham, R, state treasurer; and Ralph D. Twilington, D-incumbent, and Herman B. Williams, R, for commissioner of education.

In the race for the District 10 seat in the Florida Senate held by Lott Wilcox, I-Chance, the county's county commissioner Bill Beck, D-III, Ched, and State Rep. Clark Maxwell Jr., R-Mooreville.

The merit system of electing judges will be introduced in column three of the ballot which lists: Judge Spencer C. Cross of the fourth district Court of Appeals and the question of whether the people want or do not want him retained in office.

Rep. Vince Fichtel, R-Lansburg, in the House are: Charles Joseph Kavlin, D-Lansburg and Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood.

Local candidates include: John Alexander, D-incumbent and Robert Sturm, R, both of Longwood, for county commissioner, district 2; L. John Purkins, D, and Altonette Springs City Commissioner Sandra Glenn, R, both of Altamonte Springs; E.C. Harper Jr., incumbent, of Sanford and William Kroll of Longwood, school board district 1; John C. Carlson of South Seminole and Roland Williams, incumbent, Altamonte Springs school board, district 2; Robert Connaehowicz of Ocklawaha and Pat Tolson, incumbent, of English Estates, school board, district 4. School board elections are non-partisan.

Also on the ballot a county commission-sponsored question of whether county commissioners should be limited in their ability to levy property taxes to $7.25 per $1,000 assessed valuation of real property.

The merit system of electing judges will be introduced in column three of the ballot which lists: Judge Spencer C. Cross of the fourth district Court of Appeals and the question of whether the people want or do not want him retained in office.

Registration, Hopes Up For Big Olympics

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
 Herald Staff Writer

About 1,000 participants, more than in any other year, are expected to take part in this year's Golden Age Olympics, opening Monday, according to Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Executive Manager Jack Harner.

Harner said he bases his prediction of 1,000 participants on the high number of medical registrations, increased premiums work this year and the fact the event has increased each year.

Last year 600 people took part in the program and about 100 medical registrations had been received before the Olympics began, he said.

Harner noted he spoke to the annual meeting of Florida Chamber of Commerce trying them to register from their communities this year.

"We've had a very heavy early registration," said Harner, "heavier than in any previous year."

All the clinics of the week more than 300 medical registrations had been received at the chamber.

"Most of the registrations are males and that's a very good sign," commented Harner, referring to the high number registered to date.

The medical registrations have come from as far away as Canada.

When the week-long event originated in 1970 a total of 600 persons took part.

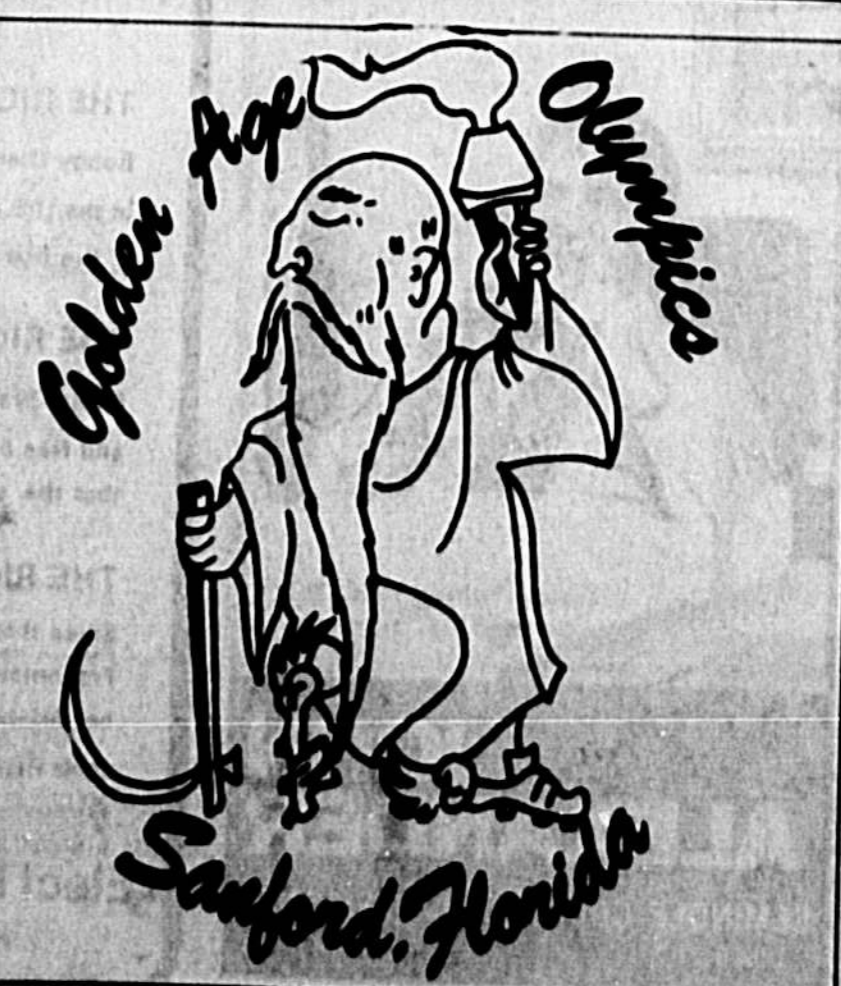

There is no deadline for registration, according to Harner. "People can come in to the time of any event and register for the sport on any day during the Olympics," he said.

Serving as honorary chairman of the Olympics is Dr. James O'Connell, chief, actor and author of the book, "The Olympic Games." O'Connell will get on the air in Sanford on Tuesday. He has a television commitment in Tallahassee, according to Harner.

Not only will O'Connell be on hand for all events during the Olympics, he will be participating in them for the first time.

"He took part in some of the events last year, but we did not let him compete for the medals," said Harner. This year he wants to

Arabs To Sadat: Change Your Mind

By United Press International

Arab radicals and moderates meeting in Baghdad today dispatched a four-man delegation to Cairo in a surprise conciliatory move aimed at talking Egypt's President Anwar Sadat out of the Camp David accords, the Israeli News Agency said. Meanwhile, officials in Jerusalem and Cairo were studying the draft treaties for peace between Israel and Egypt.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Spy Convictions Blasted; 'Provocation,' Say Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union charged today the conviction of two Soviet citizens for spying in the United States was a "premeditated provocation" and called on Washington to close the case and let the pair return home.

In a protest delivered in Washington by the Soviet Embassy and reported by the Tass news agency, the Soviet Union said the case had been fabricated and "cannot be assessed in any other way but as a deliberate step with the purpose of damaging relations between the Soviet Union and the United States."

Vladimir Zolotarev, 39, and Rudolf Chernyayev, 43, employees of the United Nations, were sentenced last month in New Jersey to 50 years in prison for their conviction on one espionage count and 10-year concurrent terms on two conspiracy counts.

Vietnam Drops $$ Demands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has publicly acknowledged Vietnam has dropped its war reparations demand, a move that could signal the early establishment of full diplomatic relations between the two countries.

plan was agreed on by both parties in the suit. However, after receiving only three payments, the debtor stopped paying, Hanks said.

So, it was back to court for a final judgment. Except when he went to file a writ of execution, Hanks said, he discovered his wife's name and tied up in a non-profit organization.

The only way to prove the debtor is hiding his assets is to hire an attorney and go back to court. Proceeding against a debtor is normally a complicated and costly procedure, Judge Hall said.

And for those trying to get their money, Hanks said, it can be frustrating.

"Most people aren't aware of these procedures," the judge said. "They get frustrated, frustrated as hell. We all do."

However, Hall conceded he has no suggestions for improving the system. Certainly, he said, he does not favor sending people to jail for their debts.

Hall said most of the people who come to summary court represent businesses. Hospitals and local companies are frequent visitors to summary court, he said.

"Anyone who does large volume business on credit is bound occasionally," Hall said. The judgment against your debtor is good for 20 years, he said.

67 Church Sandwiches, Chips Taken

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

In the past three months, a total of 67 sandwiches and numerous bags of potato chips have been stolen from the St. Luke's Christian Church near Orlando.

Vera Jakubcin, 46, told sheriff's deputies the burglaries began Sept. 19, when 23 sandwiches and an unknown quantity of potato chips were stolen from the cafeteria section of the church's school.

On Oct. 26, nine more sandwiches and potato chips were stolen from the school.

In the latest burglary, discovered Friday morning, the back door of the cafeteria was pried open and 23 sandwiches were stolen, according to records.

Also reported stolen was a large case of potato chips and numerous bags of the chips. Total value of the food taken in the latest burglary was set at $215.

GARIBOLDI REPLIED
Fred Good, president of the Prior Construction Co., at the Sanford Airport, told police someone pried open the door to his business and ransacked two file cabinets. About $170 cash was taken from one of the cabinets, according to records.

TRUCK BATTERIES TAKEN
Three 15-volt batteries were stolen from three company trucks at Adams Transfer and Storage, 220 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

The burglary was discovered at 8 a.m. Friday, according to July Ann Boshomagh, who valued the batteries at $65, records indicate.

He said when he tried to stop the light one of the men hit him in the face and snuck with the pool stick. Hart was treated at Florida Hospital North.

BOX BLADE STOLEN
Thieves drove a tractor into a wooded area before stealing a box blade from it valued at $700. Joe Waterman, 44, reported the incident which began at the Macanphalt parking lot on Orlando Road.

Someone drove the tractor across the street from the parking lot to a wooded area where they loaded the box blade into a four-wheel drive vehicle, according to records.

The tractor was being loaned by the Winco Construction Co., records indicate.

heads" by the health department because they haven't had a record of a spinal meningitis in the past 40 years," he said.

A native of Klamath, Mass moved to Sanford and set up practice after he graduated from the School of Veterinary Medicine at Auburn University.

What influenced him to become a veterinarian? "I had an old hound dog and ran over him," he says. "I saw a vet and I took four months, I think that's when I first wanted to be a vet."

"I had no intention of going to college when I graduated from high school as I worked a year for my dad before applying to Auburn," said Hanks. "I worked all the last six to nine months to put myself through. I had a job at an army installation, worked in the anatomy department and helped take care of 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. Working tables and washing dishes — that's how I had to live."

"I need to make eight or nine cents a day, but with traffic the way it is now you would be lucky to make three a day. I would go from Jacksonville city limits to Orlando city limits to visit my parents," Hanks continued.

Dr. R.M. Irwin of the Webster Animal Clinic on Lake Mary Boulevard is the only vet in the Sanford area who still cares for large animals. "My son, John Raymond Hanks, a veterinarian in Daytona, does, and there are several others in Volusia County," said Hanks.

"I have treated everything but man, the only good make's a dead 'un," he said.

"The biggest trouble with pets now is allergy. Animals are getting as bad as people," he said. "Flies are getting worse because they are getting immune to everything we've got. Fleas collect on a better job with cats than dogs. People pay more attention to their animals now than in the past and are taking much better care of them."

Different vaccines have been improved and perfected in recent years. They are now perfecting a heartworm preventative that will not have to be given every day.

Hanks and his wife, LaVerna, who works with the animal clinic ("She's my right hand, I couldn't do without her") have several dogs and cats of their own, some of which are strays adopted over the years.

"LaVerna goes out every morning and yells 'Kitty, Kitty,' comes home, they make the seven or eight we show up for breakfast," he said. "One night my wife was at the office and heard a bumping at the door and when she opened it this Labrador retriever walked in and made himself at home. He's been her body guard ever since."

"I've got five grand dogs at the moment. Three brindle in twice and cleaned me out, but now I'm rock. Brian has another son, Raymond L., Jr., studying Law in California; and two daughters, Carolyn Frances Arnold of Chicago and Terri Lucille of Norfolk.

"I hope I never have to retire, I never want to quit," said Hanks. "I love my work too much, I want to die with my hands on."

"Sometimes I'm tempted to write a book," he admitted.

Alamonte Springs has 6,370 qualified voters. Winter Springs voters will cast their ballots in precincts 13, 24 and 36 while Altamonte Springs voters will vote in precincts 4, 9, 11, 12, 23, 25, 34, 35, 36, 41, 50 and 64.

Column 8 of the ballot has eight state constitutional revisions.

Meanwhile, voters in Winter Springs will also cast votes on races for the city council and 1, choosing among Maurice Tom Brown, William A. Jacobs and Jack L. Schreff; Scott J. John H. Dummit and John Van Esopad.

A city referendum on whether a city manager should be appointed is listed for all the voters of Winter Springs.

In the Tuscawilla area, only the residents will choose whether that planned unit development should or should not be dissolved.

Winter Springs has 2,343 eligible voters.

In the city of Altamonte Springs, the voters will choose a mayor from candidates Norman C. Floyd, incumbent, and City Commissioner George Perkins; a city commissioner from candidates Leo Constantine and Jay Hebert, District 2, and a city commissioner from physical fitness.

"We have the participants and the local clubs and business are doing their part," commented Horner. "Now what we need are spectators at these events. It's very enjoyable to come and watch and it doesn't cost anything."

Horner would like to see 600 to 800 spectators for the track and field events.

The Olympics is gaining national interest, noted Horner. He pointed out several national publications and a CBS news reporter are expected to be in Sanford some time during the week to cover the Olympics.

The Golden Age Olympics is sponsored by the chamber under the chairmanship of Jim Jerrigan, city director of parks and recreation.

The Olympics ran from Nov. 6 thru Nov. 11 with entry blanks available at McDonald's, Zayre stores, Combanks or at the chamber.

The competition is open to all persons over 16 years-of-age with gold, silver and bronze medals going to the first, second and third place finishers in each event.

ELECTION 78 Revisions: What Happened To 'Grand Debate?'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The first systematic revision of Florida's 1968 Constitution has been overshadowed by casino gambling and the hoped for "grand debate" on public policy.

Floridians consider nearly 100 amendments Tuesday, but Constitution Revision Commission leaders concede many people are confused and probably will vote on the casino gambling proposal and ignore the others.

The grand debate wanted to see on matters of public policy really hasn't occurred. Says Talbot "Sandy" D'Alemberte, CRC chairman and director of Unadilla '78, the committee formed by Gov. Reubin Askew to sell constitutional revision to the people.

The gambling amendment, put on the ballot through a citizens initiative drive bankrolled by south Florida hotels, has overhauled CRC work even to the extent that Askew dropped his major revision goal, abolition of the Cabinet, to concentrate on Nine amendments or packages of amendments are on the ballot. Revision 9 legalizes casino gambling along a 21-mile Gold Coast strip from Miami Beach to Hollywood.

Revisions 1 through 8, — products of the CRC, created in the 1968 Constitution to conduct a 10-year revision and subsequent revisions every 20 years — establish a state right to privacy, abolish the Cabinet, order single-member legislative districts, extend merit retention to county and circuit court judges and prohibit sex discrimination.

The proposal also create a citizens panel to replace the Cabinet Commission in the constitution so legislators can't return it to elected status by general law, provide tax breaks to big business and allow the legislature to increase homestead exemption.

Revision 1, containing some 89 changes, is the bulk of the CRC work. In addition to the privacy provision, it limits Cabinet members to two straight terms, puts the "government in the sunshine" and public meetings laws into the constitution, creates

Is Eckerd Heading For His 3rd State Election Loss In A Row?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Floridians will pick a new governor Tuesday, choosing between Democrat Bob Graham, who has never lost an election, and Republican Jack Eckerd, who has never won one.

If the polls are right, these records won't change — making it three losses in a row for the Clearwater drugstore chain owner who ran for governor in 1970 and the U.S. Senate in 1974.

The campaign has been pretty dull, focusing on promises of both candidates to reduce property taxes and the state bureaucracy and increase state support for education — provided they can get the legislature to go along.

But a heated battle over a constitutional amendment to legalize casino gambling is expected to bring out the voters in larger numbers than usual for a non-presidential year.

Elections Director David Cardwell predicts 60 percent of the state's 4,136,207 eligible voters will go to the polls. In Dade County, where the ballot also contains a gay rights amendment, the turnout is projected as high as 70 percent.

These forecasts compare with a turnout of 74 percent for the 1974 presidential election and 62 percent in 1970, the last hotly-contested gubernatorial election. Gov. Reubin Askew's 10-month reelection battle against Republican Jerry Thomas in 1974 — a new poll, financed by the Gannett newspaper chain and released Sunday, showed Graham leading Eckerd by six percentage points. The telephone survey of 1,000 voters — taken Oct. 25-30 by The National Center for Telephone Research, a Lou Harris subsidiary — showed 44 percent for Graham, 38 percent for Eckerd and 18 percent undecided.

If you want to keep Casinos out of Florida,

You've got to vote NO on 9!

Don't let anyone tell you your vote doesn't count. On Tuesday, your vote will be as important to the future of Florida as it has ever been before. Or may ever be again.

In just two days we will choose between a Florida we know will prosper and continue to attract new jobs, or a Florida I believe will damage our current way of life.

Wherever you live in our state, Casinos will cost you money. Government costs for welfare, law enforcement and general services will go up. Opportunities to bring new job producing industries will go down. The odds are stacked in favor of the small group of gambling promoters, not the taxpayers. It comes down to this: if you're convinced casinos have no place in Florida's future you must vote NO on 9. Tuesday, it's so important it should be the first vote you cast.

The kind of state we want for ourselves, our children and our children's children depends on your NO Vote.

Kulbe Named Grants Coordinator

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

Phil Kulbe, Lake Mary building administrator, was named grants coordinator for the city and directed to seek and all grants from federal and state governments.

The move will not terminate the city's relationship with Hunter Grant Development Service, Gainesville, according to members of the council.

The Hunter firm had agreed to seek grants for the city and be paid a percentage of the grant funds they brought to Lake Mary.

So far that firm has not secured a grant for the city Councilman Pat Southard, who suggested Kulbe be named grant coordinator, typified the Hunter firm as "a step at the switch."

The Hunter firm will be sent a letter advising them of the council's action and asking them to list what grants they may be working on obtaining for the city. City Attorney Gary Massey will draft the letter. He explained the letter will clarify what the Hunters are working on to avoid claims they contributed to securing a grant.

Kulbe may work on the duties of Kulbe's added title. However, they implied much of it would involve personal contact with government officials.

"I truly believe the only way we're going to get any money is to get someone on our staff to go after these grants, travel around, make friends, and hold hands and whatever, eyeball to eyeball," declared Mrs. Southard.

Individual council members will suggest areas for Kulbe to examine in hopes of gaining grants for the city in the future.

In other action, the council lowered the speed limit on Country Club Road from 40 to 35 miles per hour from the railroad tracks to Broadmoor Road.

The speed limit will be 40 miles per hour from Broadmoor south to the city limits on both sides of the road as a result of council action. The speed limit had been 40 miles per hour for northbound traffic and 45 miles per hour for southbound traffic.

The action made the speed limit uniform for both sides of the road south of Broadmoor.

The commission approved the use of appraiser Ted Hastings at a fee of from $800 to $1,200 to appraise 10 acres of land on Rinehart Road near Stromberg-Carlson. The site, owned by developer Jeno Paulucci, is being considered for a city hall site.

Paulucci has offered to pay the price of the appraisal, a spokesman for the industrialist told council in a letter.

The council also voted to pay $3,750 for a year option to buy a two block piece of land on Crystal Lake between Alma and Grandview. The site is being considered for a city park.

Karen Berk of "Hole in the Woods Stable," denied approval for riding stable, still can give free rides to children like De De Chance, shown learning balance in the saddle.

Lake Mary Adjustment Board Says 'No' To Riding Stable

"Hole in the Woods Stable," was proposed for operation on 2 1/2 acres of land instead of the 10 acres required by city zoning regulations.

The action means the stable will not be able to advertise or charge for rides. However, owner Karen Berk, 100 Lake Road, will still be able to keep her eight horses on the land, according to City Planner Reg Alford.

Four letters from owners of adjoining property were presented opposing the variance for the riding stable. One letter from an adjoining property owner supported the variance.

GSA Scandal Indictments: 31 And Still Counting

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Eight more General Services Administration employees have been indicted on charges of defrauding the federal government, and another employee has been re-indicted on revised charges, bringing to 31 the number of people charged in the investigation of the scandal-ridden agency.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel Clements said more indictments are expected within four to six weeks in Baltimore and Washington, D.C., in the investigation of the agency that delivers supplies to federal departments.

Skylab Maneuvered For Life

HOUSTON (UPI) — The abandoned Skylab space station, which has troubled NASA engineers with its unpredictable tilt, was sent end over end Friday in a maneuver that prolonged the craft's orbital life.

Automen Show Sales Increase

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp.'s record-breaking momentum carried the Big Four U.S. automakers to a 3.6 percent sales increase in late October and pushed the month's total 1.1 percent ahead of last year's pace.

Panther Newton Sentenced

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Black Panther party cofounder Huey P. Newton, 36, awaiting trial on charges of killing a 17-year-old prostitute, has been sentenced to state prison on weapons charges but freed on $40,000 bail.

Newspapers Still Stalled

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lingering labor problems forced The New York Times and Daily News to abandon plans to publish their fall Sunday editions, but the two morning dailies expect to hit the newsstands Monday.

VOTE FOR THE MAN

JOE KNOWLES will serve you responsibly in the Legislature

Joe Knowles has succeeded because he knows how to get things done. His broad experience in business, agriculture, finance, water management, public office and dealing harmoniously with people are his excellent credentials.

His judgement and seasoned experience are what is needed in government today. Joe Knowles asks for your vote on election day, Tuesday, November 7, 1978.

JOE KNOWLES IS

- ...A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESSMAN, CITRUS GROWER AND CATTLEMAN, HE HAS BROAD EXPERIENCE IN BUSINESS AND FINANCE WHICH IS MUCH NEEDED IN TALLAHASSEE.
- ...sought for his seasoned judgement. He serves as a director on the boards of Leesburg General Hospital, Citizens National Bank, Golden Gem Growers and Foremost Fertilizer Company.
- ...actively interested in education. He maintains an involved interest in achieving quality in education which helped to develop Lake Sumter Community College in Leesburg.
- ...a member of the First Christian Church, the Masons, Shriners and B.P.O.E. 1703.

JOE KNOWLES will effectively REPRESENT YOU

We, in Lake, Seminole and Marion Counties (District 34) will have a fresh-man representative in the 1979 Legislature. We must have one who is experienced and successful — tried and proven.

Joe Knowles, such a man, is a citrus and cattleman seasoned in business management and Florida agriculture. A former mayor of Leesburg, Knowles served as a city commissioner for six years. He is active in water management, serving as a charter member on the Board of Governors of the South West Florida Water Management District. He is chairman of the Lake County Water Management. Knowles is a graduate of Rollins College.

A Look At Some Of The Election Races...

FLOYD HASKELL WILLIAM ARMSTRONG

Illinois Governor Given Edge On Victory

Republican Sen. Charles Percy finds himself in the unusual role of underdog in his campaign for a third Senate term. His Democratic opponent, Alex Seth, is leading in at least one major poll. Seth has taken Percy to task on several issues, including accusing him of lying about his voting record and saying Percy favors the return of Earl Butz as agriculture secretary.

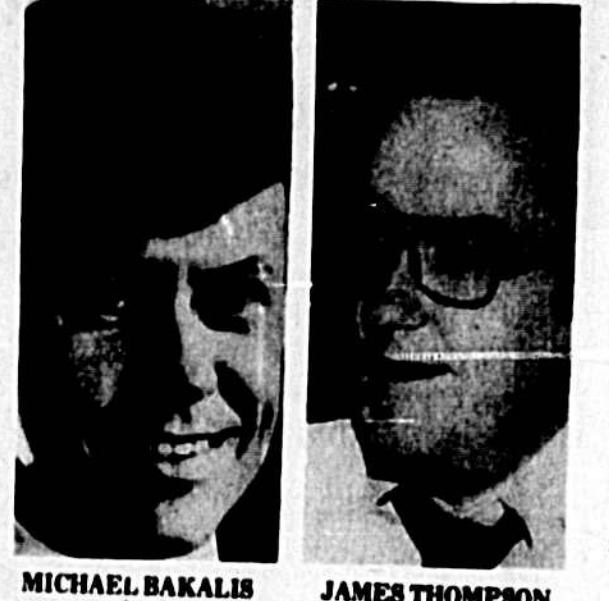

WILLIAM HATHAWAY WILLIAM COHEN

New York Carey Overtakes GOP Challenger

First-term Gov. Hugh Carey, D-L, appears to have overtaken Democrat Carter Burden in the race for governor. Carey passed Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea, R-C, in the race for governor. Carey has campaigned heavily on lowering taxes and saving New York City. Duryea has hit the loss of jobs in the state and Carey's vetoes of death penalties bills.

Colorado Governor Behind GOP Conservative

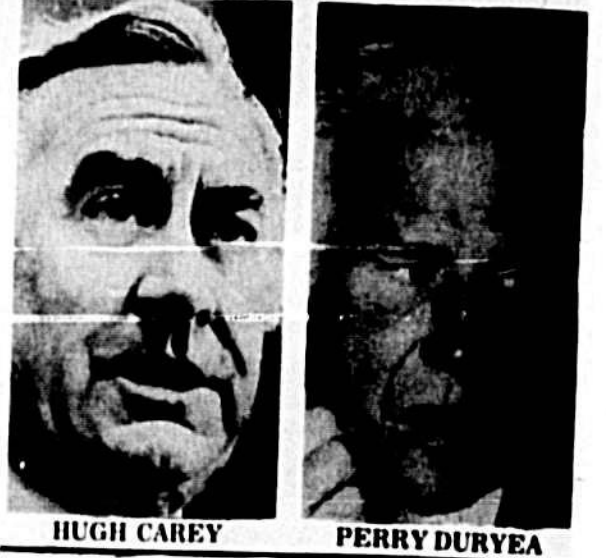

Republican Rep. William Armstrong, 61, an outspoken conservative who served three terms in Congress, appears to be leading incumbent Democrat Floyd Haskell a week before the election. In the gubernatorial race, incumbent Democratic Gov. Richard Lamm is favored to win a second term in a come-from-behind effort against Republican challenger Ted Strickland, a conservative state senator.

MICHAEL BAKALIS JAMES THOMPSON

Maine Senator Gaining On Challenger

Republicans, Democrats and three independents have spent $1 for every man, woman and child in Maine in an attempt to win the Senate seat now held by Democrat William D. Hathaway.

HUGH CAREY PERRY DURYEA

Oklahoma: Democratic Governor Seems Headed For U.S. Senate

Democratic Gov. David Boren, running for the Senate, heads a state that is expected to sweep most statewide races and retain his party's present 5-1 margin in the House. Boren, 51, is opposed by Republican Robert Kamm, 59, a former Oklahoma State University president, for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Republican Dewey Bartlett. Lt. Gov. George Nigh, 51, who has spent 16 of the past 20 years in his present office, is heavily favored over Republican Ron Shotts, 32, a former University of Oklahoma football player, to move into the governor's office.

Democrat Attorney General Joseph E. Brennan is seen leading Republican House Minority Leader Linwood E. Palmer Jr., and independent Rev. Herman C. "Buddy" Frankland.

New Jersey: Bradley By 'Safe' Margin

The latest professional poll, released Thursday, has Democrat Bill Bradley leading Republican Jeffrey Bell by what pollsters call a "safe" margin unlikely to be upset — 50 percent to 32 percent. Federal tax cuts have developed into a basic theme in the campaign, even though voters polled are more concerned with inflation and prices.

...Around The Rest Of The Nation

Pennsylvania 'Prosecution' Works For Governor Rival

When Richard Thornburgh's own poll showed him trailing in Pennsylvania's gubernatorial race by 32 points last summer, he chose a strategy for which he was uniquely suited. The former U.S. attorney and head of the U.S. Justice Department's criminal division decided to "prosecute" his opponent in speeches, at news conferences and in television and radio ads. The strategy worked. A Gallup poll released Oct. 25 showed Thornburgh, a Republican, trails Democrat Pete Flaherty by only 4 percent. Experts now rate the contest a tossup.

RICHARD CELESTE JAMES RHODES

Ohio Rhodes Hanging On To Political Career

Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio, the only Republican to defeat an incumbent Democratic governor in 1974, is defending his lengthy political career Tuesday against a similar reversal. So far the 69-year-old Rhodes seems to be holding his own. The challenger, Democratic Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste, 40, is about 4 percent ahead in recent surveys but Rhodes generally (this is his fourth race for governor) finishes strong with last-minute saturation television advertising.

Michigan: Pair Facing Tough Fights

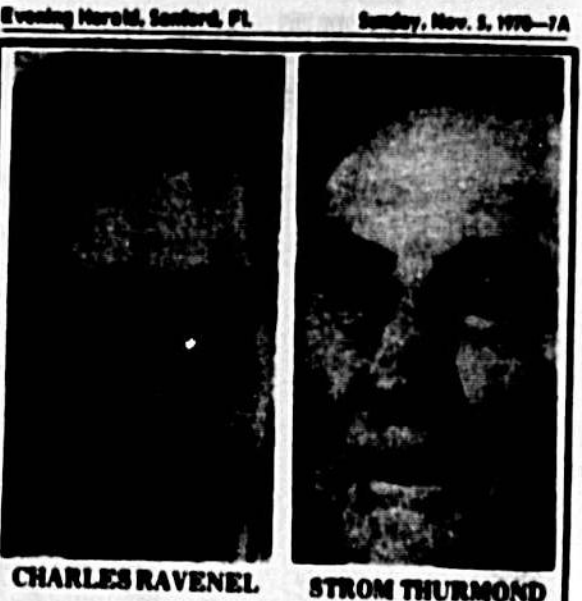

Gov. William Milliken, 54, and Sen. Robert Griffin, 54, both two-term Republicans, are engaged in the toughest battles of their careers against two Democrats who have never before sought statewide office.

PETER FLAHERTY RICHARD THORNBURGH

Texas: Sen. Tower In Danger Of Losing

Sen. John Tower, the state's only Republican statewide office holder who was first elected in a 1961 special election to succeed Lyndon B. Johnson, appears in jeopardy in his re-election campaign against Rep. Bob Krueger, a freshman congressman making his first bid for statewide office. Accusations of dirty tricks and mudslinging have overshadowed issues in the campaign. Democrat John Hill, state attorney general who upset Gov. Dolph Bruce in the

CHARLES RAVENEL STROM THURMOND

In South Carolina, Democratic challenger Charles D. (Fig) Ravenel, has stepped up his attacks on Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond, charging that the 78-year-old four-term senator "hasn't brought home the bacon for South Carolina," but Thurmond is still considered the frontrunner.

The Winning Team

Jack Eckerd and Paula Hawkins have pledged no new taxes for Florida.

That's important. Because Jack's opponent Bob Graham has voted for higher taxes time after time while he was in the State Legislature. Graham voted for more taxes on farm equipment, recreational vehicles, feed, seed and fertilizer. He voted for a hunting and fishing license tax, an increase in the sales tax, even a cemetery fee tax.

Floridians don't need Bob Graham's tax and spend philosophy.

Vote Eckerd-Hawkins, they'll put the lid on taxes.

Seth has taken Percy to task on several issues, including accusing him of lying about his voting record and saying Percy favors the return of Earl Butz as agriculture secretary.

In the governor's race, incumbent Republican James R. Thompson has what appears to be a comfortable lead over his Democratic opponent, state Comptroller Michael Bakalis—who is known for his two previous upset victories.

Colorado Governor Behind GOP Conservative

Republican Rep. William Armstrong, 41, an outspoken conservative who served three terms in Congress, opposes to be leading incumbent Democrat Floyd Haskell a week before the election.

In the gubernatorial race, incumbent Democratic Gov. Richard Laun is favored to win a second term in a come-from-behind effort against

New York Carey Overtakes GOP Challenger

First-term Gov. Hugh Carey, D-L, appears to have overtaken Democrat Carter Burden is favored over GOP Rep. William Leader Perry B. Duryea, R-C, in the race for governor. Carey has campaigned heavily on lowering taxes and saving New York City. Duryea has hit the loss of jobs in the state and Carey's vetoes of death penalties bills.

In congressional races, Democrat Carter Burden is favored over GOP Rep. William Green in Manhattan's "Silk Stocking" district. However, in the upstate 29th District GOP Assemblyman Gerald Solomon is favored to unseat two-term Democratic Rep. Edward Pattison.

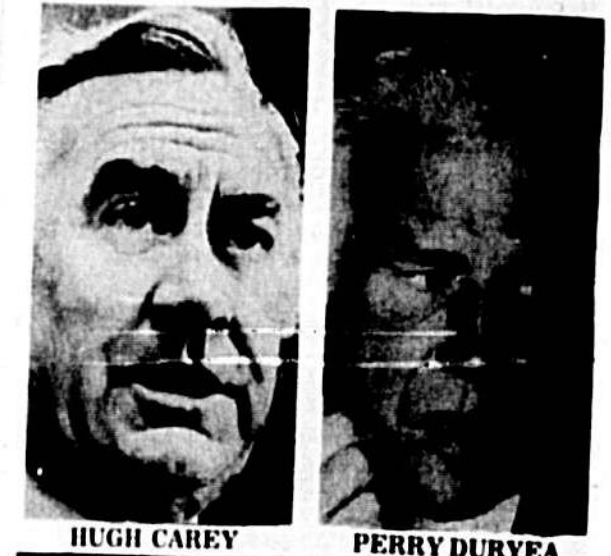

Maine Senator Gaining On Challenger

Republicans, Democrats and three independents have spent $1 for every man, woman and child in Maine in an attempt to win the Senate seat now held by Democrat William D. Hathaway.

Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, who gained national attention by voting for Richard Nixon's impeachment, has raked his political future on the race and spent $59,000 on his campaign—a figure previously unheard of in rural Maine.

Cohen was thought to have a big early lead, but Hathaway, who engineered a proposed settlement of two Indian tribes' claims to 12.5 million acres of Maine two weeks ago, has been gaining in polls as the election approaches, and the race is too close to call.

Both major parties have also put a great deal of effort into winning Maine's governorship, now held by the nation's only independent governor, James B. Longley.

New Jersey: Bradley By 'Safe' Margin

The latest professional poll, released Thursday, has Democrat Bill Bradley leading Republican Jeffrey Bell by what pollsters call a "safe" margin unlikely to be upset—50 percent to 32 percent.

Federal tax cuts have developed into a basic theme in the campaign, even though voters polled are more concerned with inflation and prices.

Bell maintains the tax issue is the central one, while Bradley instead talks about a range of issues such as environment, energy and housing.

Democrats expect to retain their 11-4 ratio in House seats, although they could lose one and have a shot at picking up two others.

Oklahoma: Democratic Governor Seems Headed For U.S. Senate

Democratic Gov. David Boren, running for the Senate, heads a state that is expected to sweep most statewide races and retain his party's present 5-1 margin in the House.

Boren, 37, is opposed by Republican Robert Kamm, 59, a former Oklahoma State University president, for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Republican Dewey Bartlett.

U.S. Gov. George H.W. Bush, 51, who has spent 14 of the past 20 years in his present office, is heavily favored over Republican Ron Stotts, 22, a former University of Oklahoma football player, to move into the governor's office.

In House races, Republicans have campaigned intensively against favored Democratic incumbents in two districts. Former state GOP Chairman Paula Ulrich opposes Rep. James R. Jones, and Scotty Robb is challenging 30-year veteran Tom Steed. Incumbents Glenn English, Democrat, and Mickey Edwards, Republican, are expected to retain their seats, and Mike Synar, who defeated Rep. Ted Rianchover in the Democratic primary, is favored. Rep. Wes Watkins, Democrat, is unopposed.

The Winning Team

Jack Eckerd and Paula Hawkins have pledged no new taxes for Florida.

That's important. Because Jack's opponent Bob Graham has voted for higher taxes time after time while he was in the State Legislature. When Richard Thornburgh's own poll showed him trailing in Pennsylvania's gubernatorial race by 22 points last summer, he chose a strategy for which he was uniquely suited. The former U.S. attorney and head of the U.S. Justice Department's criminal division decided to "prosecute" his opponent in speeches, at news conferences and in television and radio ads.

The strategy worked. A Gallup poll released Oct. 29 showed Thornburgh, a Republican, trails Democrat Pete Flaherty by only 4 percent. Experts now rate the contest a tossup.

The outcome may hinge on the turnout in Philadelphia, where voters will decide whether Mayor Frank Rizzo, considered the nation's most powerful mayor, can run for a third term. Polls predict Rizzo's effort to change the charter will fail.

Democrats hold a 3-1-1 registration lead in Philadelphia, and a heavy turnout could help Flaherty.

Two indicted Democratic congressmen are asking their Pennsylvania districts to return them to Washington. Rep. Joshua Ellberg, indicted on a conflict of interest charge, has a tough race against GOP state Sen. Charles Dougherty, but Rep. Daniel Flood, indicted on a series of corruption charges, is expected to win easily over attorney Robert Westbrook.

Ohio Rhodes Hanging On To Political Career

Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio, the only Republican to defeat an incumbent Democratic governor in 1974, is defending his lengthy political career Tuesday against a similar reversal. So far the 69-year-old Rhodes seems to be holding his own.

The challenger, Democratic Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste, 40, is about 4 percent ahead in recent surveys but Rhodes generally (this is his fourth race for governor) finishes strong with last-minute saturation television advertising.

Each side is predicting a narrow victory, but the outcome is still in doubt.

Neither Celeste nor Rhodes is expected to have long enough coalitions to dislodge other incumbent state officeholders, one Republican and three Democrats. Ohio Republicans are expected to maintain their 15-16 advantage in the congressional delegation, and no Senate seats are at stake.

Michigan: Pair Facing Tough Fights

Gov. William Milliken, 56, and Sen. Robert Griffin, 54, both two-term Republicans, are engaged in the toughest battles of their careers against two Democrats who have never before sought statewide office.

Former Detroit City Council President Carl Levin, 44, is favored to beat Griffin largely on the basis of the incumbent's poor attendance record last year.

Texas: Sen. Tower In Danger Of Losing

Sen. John Tower, the state's only Republican statewide office holder who was first elected in a 1981 special election to succeed Lyndon B. Johnson, appears in jeopardy in his re-election campaign against Rep. Bob Krueger, a freshman congressman making his first bid for statewide office.

Accusations of dirty tricks and multi-siding have overshadowed issues in the campaign.

Democrat John Hill, state attorney general who upset Gov. Dolph Briscoe in the Democratic primary, remains the favorite in the Texas governor's race despite the GOP's strongest challenge ever for that office.

Bill Clements, former deputy secretary of defense in the Ford administration, is spending more than $5 million in his campaign to become Texas' first Republican governor in more than a century.

None of Texas' incumbent congressmen appears in trouble, although five veteran House members are retiring voluntarily.

Florida GOP Congress Hope: To Pick Up Extra Seat

MIAMI (UPI) — State GOP leaders are hoping to pick up an extra seat Tuesday in Florida's 18 congressional races, marked so far by at least two potential shocks. The Democrats have held a 10-3 edge on the state's congressional delegation for four years, but the GOP now is hoping to chop that to 8-4. But the GOP's initial dream of picking up three seats for an 8-7 advantage are long gone. The biggest surprise so far is the momentum veteran Republican Rep. J. Herbert Burke of Hollywood is gathering in the 12th District despite his guilty plea to two misdemeanor charges stemming from a May 27 incident at a night club featuring nude dancers. Burke was believed to be in deep trouble in his race with Broward County Sheriff Ed Stack, but some polls now show him with a lead. Stack's problems are blamed on intra-party squabbling in the aftermath of his bitterly contested Democratic runoff victory over former state Rep. John Adams. The other surprise is the struggle former U.S. Sen. Edward Gurney is having to put up in the 8th District to fend off a challenge by Melbourne attorney Bill Nelson. "The best I can say about the race is that it is very close," says state GOP Chairman Bill Taylor from his Jacksonville office. "It will depend on how well that so-called silent vote down there turns out. If it does, Gurney can pull it out." Gurney is making his first election bid since 1966, when he rolled up the most votes ever in winning his Senate seat. He decided not to seek re-election in 1974 in the wake of an ill-fated wedding scandal. Two of his aides went to prison, but Gurney was acquitted twice. Taylor's hopes for a gain of one seat hinge on Republican victories by Burke and former Pensacola Mayor Bill Briggs in the Panhandle's 1st District. Briggs is running against state Rep. Earl Hutto for the seat vacated by Robeson L.F. Sikes, the Democratic dean of Florida's delegation who is retiring after 19 terms. But there are some other race that could produce surprises. In the 5th District Republican Richard Kelly is seeking his third term and political experts there, along with Taylor, think he is probably unbeatable. The Democrats, however, are holding out hope for their candidate, Orlando attorney David Best. Best has been hammering at Kelly's campaign spending and the high turnover of personnel in his office. In Palm Beach County's 11th District, Dan Mica and Republican foe Bill James are battling hard for the seat left open by the retiring Democrat Paul Rogers. Mica is a former

Holman Pressing Suit Over Voting Machines

A hearing has been set for 10 a.m. Nov. 22 in Circuit Judge Clarence Johnson's court at the Seminole County courthouse on the lawsuit filed by a defeated candidate in the Sept. 12 Republican primary over voting machine failures in that election. The defeated county commission candidate, Ron Holman, in the lawsuit against the Seminole County canvassing board is challenging the primary election and requesting the court to void that election and call a new primary election. Members of the canvassing board for that election were: Mrs. Bruce, County Judge

Harold Johnson and County Commissioner Robert French. The hearing in Judge Clarence Johnson's court is on a motion to dismiss the suit filed by former-State Sen. Mack N. Cleveland Jr., special county attorney for the canvassing board. The Seminole County grand jury after an investigation issued a report showing no fraud or illegal tampering occurred with the voting machines in the Sept. 12 primary. Holman said he has no intention of dropping his lawsuit challenging the Sept. 12 primary election because of the voting machine failures. He said he doesn't believe the results of the grand jury investigation showing that the rubber bumpers in the locks of 28 of the voting machines melted at 123 degrees. Holman said a 123-degree flame wouldn't even burn a person's hand. Holman also said the grand jury and the county commission erred in not getting information about the locks directly from the lock company rather than from the voting machine manufacturer. Admitting it is improbable, Holman said it is possible someone sabotaged in some fashion the locks on 28 of the voting machines that failed.

Brantley - The Candidate From Seminole

BOBBY BRANTLEY OF LONGWOOD is running against an opponent from Lake County for House Seat 34. There is no incumbent in this race. This seat has never been held by anyone from Seminole County, but this year Bobby Brantley can bring home the bacon.

Statistics favor Brantley. Sixty percent of the voters in the district live in Seminole County, Brantley's home. The majority of the voters throughout the district are clearly conservative in philosophy as is Brantley. The trend is going toward young, energetic, concerned public men like Brantley particularly in this case where the office will be that of a Freshman Legislator.

Brantley's family owns and operates the Seminole Golf Course located between Longwood and Lake Mary. Bobby and his wife, Patti, have two sons, Lenny, age 11, and Bobby Jr., age 6, who attend the public schools in Seminole County. Bobby has become well known in the community through work in his home owners association, as a former officer in the J.C.'s, as a Shriner, and through his service as Vice Chairman of the Seminole County Board of Adjustment. The Bobby Brantley Campaign has been conducted on a person-to-person basis, with Bobby and his volunteers walking door to door in most of the County's precincts. If Seminole County voters turn out Tuesday and vote for the candidate from Seminole, Bobby Brantley will be the first Representative from Seminole County to occupy House Seat 34.

Our Choice: Bob Graham

Senator Robert (Bob) Graham, speaking in Seminole County Thursday evening, decried the "sectionalism" that has evolved in our state.

The government, he suggested, "must share responsibility for sharing this prejudice. We have," he observed, "all the pieces and can put them together to have one Florida. And we can have a period of good, responsive government."

"One Florida. Only two little words. But an ambitious goal. It is a goal that is essential at this crossroads in Florida when the entire state (especially central Florida) is on the verge of momentous growth.

We agree with Senator Graham's assessment. And we want to give him the chance as governor of Florida to "put those pieces together" and achieve that ambitious goal.

It is a goal that is essential at this crossroads in Florida when the entire state (especially central Florida) is on the verge of momentous growth.

Throughout the campaign, candidate Graham has demonstrated a sincere interest in the problems and needs of the people of Florida.

During an early campaign visit to Sanford, as an example, Mr. Graham abandoned the tendency of most politicians to spout promises after promise about what he would do if elected.

Instead, he sat in hand poised, above notepaper, awaiting answers to his questions on the problems, wants and needs of the people of Seminole County.

We were impressed. It was like a breath of fresh air, in an otherwise predictable campaign. And we are convinced this is the thoughtful approach Bob Graham would take as governor.

Add to this sincere interest Bob Graham's documented legislative experience and know-how and you have all the credentials and qualities anyone would want in a governor.

These assets have been acknowledged by many of Bob Graham's colleagues, including U. S. Sen. Richard Stone who has worked with the candidate in Tallahassee.

"He has a broad business background and 12 years of legislative experience," Sen. Stone said. "He knows state government and has wrestled with hard issues."

His business background is varied: from cattleman to urban developer. And millionaire Graham has been successful in both.

We are swayed by Bob Graham, too, because of his wise selection of Wayne Mixson, another accomplished legislator, as his lieutenant governor.

Mr. Mixson like Mr. Graham has gained the admiration and respect of his colleagues — particularly in his rapport with and knowledge of the agricultural industry — one so important to the continued growth of our state.

The Graham-Mixson team is the one we need in Tallahassee.

Over The Goal

Dozens of United Way volunteers in Seminole County are banking in their glory. And rightly so.

The word came Thursday evening at what was aptly titled the "Victory Dinner" for the 1978 fund-raising drive.

Because "victory" it was. At of this past Tuesday, the 1978 campaign had reached a high score of $130,000 or 41 percent of its goal. That left only $190,000 and but two days to go.

Could the ambitious goal be reached? The answer Thursday at the Holiday Inn was a resounding YES.

A total of $21,486 was recorded with more coming. So to Bob Dushin, chairman of the drive, and all his volunteers and workers — and to all those who gave from their pockets and hearts, congratulations.

Thank you to you, it's still working. For all of us.

$122 Million In Gold And Can't Get Any?

WASHINGTON — An Albuquerque, N.M. octogenarian has his eye on a pot of gold, but it's proving as elusive as the one at the end of the rainbow, thanks to the State Department's fear of offending the communist rulers of Czechoslovakia.

Paul Benice is a retiree import-export businessman, and the gold he has his eye on is 18 1/2 metric tons of gold — $122 million worth — that was stolen from Czechoslovakia in 1952. It was captured by the American Army in World War II and is still under the control of the U.S. French and British governments.

Benice doesn't want the entire $122 million, of course, just a tiny portion of it. He is one of an estimated 2,500 U.S. citizens who have awarded a total of approximately $106 million by the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission for property seized by the Communist Czech regime after World War II. For his losses, Benice was allotted $75,000.

That was 32 years ago. So far Benice has received only $6,000, or less than 6 cents on the dollar.

When he learned of the gold he proposed a compromise solution to the problem he shares with others whose property was confiscated without compensation. Why not use the gold he had, he suggested, to pay off the Czech government's duty adjudicated creditors? He cited as a precedent a steel mill that had been bought and paid for in this country by the Czech government, and which was seized by the U.S. government to make partial restitution to American claimants like himself.

Benice's solution was too sensible for the striped-pants set in Foggy Bottom. The Tripartite Gold Commission (United States, France and Britain) had awarded the gold to Czechoslovakia. It cannot be given to anyone else, Benice was informed by State Department adviser Fabian A. Kwiatk.

"To seize the gold in order to pay outstanding claims of nationals of the United States," Kwiatk wrote, "would not be consistent with the international obligations of the government of the United States under the agreement." In other words, it might make waves.

Kwiatk closed his letter with a vague promise that something may come of exploratory talks that are going on with the Czechs and expressed the hope that a settlement "may prove possible... before long."

Benice is a survivor. Conscripted into the Austro-Hungarian Army as a teen-ager, he was captured by the Russians and managed to live through three years as a prisoner-of-war and a trip across Siberia in the worst days of the Russian civil war. He reached the United States in 1920 and has been here ever since.

The property the communists confiscated consisted of a farm and a bank account left to him by his mother in 1926.

Benice hasn't given up yet, but as he wrote the State Department: "By now, it is painfully patent that the words 'possible,' 'just' and 'especially before long' have, in the present context, entirely different meanings in the vocabularies of the Department of State and an 81-year-old claimant such as myself."

MARINE SCANDAL: With the spar of the draft no longer leading America's young men, the all-volunteer armed services are having a tough time recruiting troops. Even the Marine Corps, which prides itself on being "a good green man," is apparently signing up anyone who can read and write.

On Revision 8

By voting for Revision No. 8 on Nov. 7 the people of Florida for the first time in modern history have the opportunity to say to their political leaders in a loud and clear voice "We are not happy with the status quo in public education. We want a change." Present Governor Askew and both candidates for governor, Messrs. Eckerd and Graham, agreed that a change be made and all support Revision No. 8.

Floridians deserve a better system of governance of public education than is currently provided. We do not have an adequate state board of education, as some members of our present state board of education serve only as a result of having been elected to some other statewide office such as our banking, insurance and agriculture commissioners.

They have multiple and diverse responsibilities, yet education, which is the prime responsibility of state government, the largest single enterprise in Florida, is at best a second or third priority in the minds of these persons presently serving. Each is an hourly engaged in the work of his own office that he does not have the interest, time or commitment to the education of Florida's young people.

Since 1929, the only four citizens commissions studying the structure of education in Florida, appointed by four successive governors, have all made a recommendation to create a state board of education, whose sole public responsibility would be setting educational policy. This is similar to what 32 other states have already done.

In 1977 the average time spent in public consideration of each individual education issue affecting kindergarten through 12th grade was only slightly more than two minutes each including the adoption of a $2.4 billion budget.

Should the education of Florida's children be of such secondary concern to our government? That to me is the basic question that is before the voters. The adoption of Revision No. 8 will be an important step in re-establishing public education as a primary concern of government. I would urge every citizen to vote for this proposal as this may be our last opportunity for another 20 years to make these important changes to improve the education of Florida's young citizens and make our system second to none in the nation.

Jack Anderson is being allowed to do your readers a disservice again. In his most recent column about Nicaragua he claims that military subcontractors are "talking openly" about a coup.

One would have to be pretty naive to believe that military leaders "talk openly" about a coup. Those who secretly planned to overthrow the president because he was "too soft on the Sandinistas" were all arrested and are tucked away in jail.

The old Anderson charge that President Somoza personally benefitted from the earthquake also appeared in that column. I believe that Mr. Anderson's office is in Washington and if he had a little more respect for the truth he could easily have learned that this charge was the subject of a Congressional investigation. The investigation found absolutely no foundation for the accusation.

The unfortunate people depending upon Medicaid have been made to be considered undesirable by the medical profession because of this.

Everyone with Medicaid problems must take their complaints to the proper sources. A letter from such of to our congressmen would help to prevent the problem. Address your letters to "Congress of the United States — House of Representatives," Washington, D.C. 20515.

The State submits an inaccurately amended bill and when State Officials realize their error, then an estimated bill is submitted.

Let us be reminded that computers are programmed by man. Where are the facts and figures?

The existing situation has become

Unqualified volunteers are herded through Marine recruiting offices like cattle. Those who meet the stiff requirements are often passed anyway. Their records are changed and their tests are cribbed.

An unfolding scandal in the Marines' recruiting office in Cleveland best illustrates the Corps' enlistment woes. Already 16,000 recruits have been subjected to threatening phone calls from the middle of the night, according to information given to investigators for Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

In desperation, some recruiters resorted to altering records and awarding results to qualify volunteers who plainly couldn't cut the mustard.

Against Casinos

The undersigned churches of the city of Miami Beach through their duly elected boards and commissions would like to express to you our opposition to casino gambling here on Miami Beach.

Speaking in terms of people, the city of Miami Beach and Dade County itself can ill afford the destruction of individuals, families, and even the community that we feel casino will bring about. We are this community's greatest asset.

We are concerned with the quality of individual and family life here on "The Beach." We care about the impending collision between the moral (i. e. immoral) lesson that gambling teaches and our commitment to the basic unit of our town, the family. We feel that the very moral fiber of this community will be ripped apart by those who will come to the beach to gamble.

Miami Beach, with its sun, sand, and surf has been the ideal vacation spot for many years for people all over our country. Now it is becoming a vacation spot for both North and South America. Miami Beach is already on its way to becoming the active, growing, moving community we want it to be without the aid that casino gambling would supposedly give. Help us! Help Florida! When it comes time to vote on casino gambling, vote NO!

Medicaid Problem

Counties, and States continue to play a game with Medicaid for whole multitudes of the elderly and disabled suffer the consequences.

The unfortunate people depending upon Medicaid have been made to be considered undesirable by the medical profession because of this.

Everyone with Medicaid problems must take their complaints to the proper sources. A letter from such of to our congressmen would help to prevent the problem. Address your letters to "Congress of the United States — House of Representatives," Washington, D.C. 20515.

The State submits an inaccurately amended bill and when State Officials realize their error, then an estimated bill is submitted.

Let us be reminded that computers are programmed by man. Where are the facts and figures?

The existing situation has become

Unqualified volunteers are herded through Marine recruiting offices like cattle. Those who meet the stiff requirements are often passed anyway. Their records are changed and their tests are cribbed.

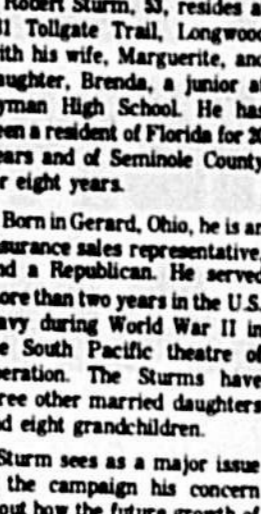

An unfolding scandal in the Marines' recruiting office in Cleveland best illustrates the Corps' enlistment woes. Already 16,000 recruits have been subjected to threatening phone calls from the middle of the night, according to information given to investigators for Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

In desperation, some recruiters resorted to altering records and awarding results to qualify volunteers who plainly couldn't cut the mustard.

JOHN ALEXANDER

ROBERT STURM

JOHN PERKINS

SANDRA GLENN

John Alexander, 46, of 1280 Springwood Circle, Longwood, is a native of Seminole County, received his education in the Seminole County school system and attended Stetson University.

Robert Sturm, 53, resides at 231 Tollgate Trail, Longwood, with his wife, Marguerite, and daughter, Brenda, a junior at Lyman High School. He has been a resident of Florida for 20 years and of Seminole County for eight years.

John Perkins, 41, of Valley Forge Apartments, Altamonte Springs, is a retired U.S. Navy commander who was formerly in business in Sanford for a number of years. Remaining in office for the first time, Perkins and his wife have one daughter, Patricia Smith, who is married and lives in Albany, Ga.

Sandra Glenn, 46, of 888 Woodling Drive, Altamonte Springs, and her husband, Doug, have one son, Benny, 10 years old, a student at Lake Orienta Elementary School. A native of Georgia, they have resided in Florida for the past 11 years.

He is a Marine Corps veteran, in the real estate business and previously served two terms — a total of eight years — as county commissioner from 1967-1971. He was chairman of the board, selected for that post by his colleagues, for six of the eight years.

Born in Gerard, Ohio, he is an insurance sales representative, and a Republican. He served more than two years in the U.S. Navy during World War II in the South Pacific theatre of operation. The Sturms have three other married daughters and eight grandchildren.

On Tuesday's general election, John Alexander, D-Longwood, appointed by Gov. Reubin Askew to fill the unexpired term of John Kimbrough, will be challenged by Robert Sturm, insurance executive and the GOP nominee, of Longwood, for the district 3 seat on the board of county commissioners.

At the same time, John Perkins, a retired Navy commander, Altamonte Springs, will vie with Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Sandra Glenn, Republican for the District 2 seat on the county commission currently held by Harry Kwiatkowski, who is not seeking re-election.

Mrs. Glenn: I think some reorganization is still needed. The county has too much administrative staff, too much paper shuffling and too many bottlenecks. The county commissioners should be more involved with the public directly rather than through administrators.

The four candidates were interviewed. The questions and their responses are:

1. What is your position on the referendum question on the general election ballot of whether or not the county commission should be limited in its ability to levy property taxes to $7.25 per $100 assessed valuation of real property?

Alexander: I have proposed twice that the county commission eliminate this fee because the county provides neither regulation nor service to justify it. I believe it is just another tax revenue raising device.

Sturm: I felt it was illegal when it was put on and still do. The state Public Service Commission authority has ruled it is illegal and has no justification nor is any service provided.

2. What is your position on the county fee levied by the county on privately-owned utilities and passed on to the utility customers?

Greyhounds Shock Apopka

Of the explanations about Friday night's 38-13 victory by Lyman High over Apopka, coach Bill Scott put it best: "I knew what we could do...if we'd only really do it."

The Lyman coach hasn't suffered any speech deformities, although he feared even worse earlier in the season when his Greyhounds played Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde football from week to week.

"This was the night we played very close to our potential," said Scott about the victory over a tough Apopka team.

Quarterback Jeff Meyer had three two-yard touchdown runs and Kenny Young added another from one-yard out. Audie Cleveland had his best game ever, rushing for 246 yards, pushing him over the 1,000-yard mark for the season. Scott was quick to give credit to the offensive line for making some good holes for Cleveland to slip through.

Defensively, Scott said it was a real team effort. Offensive guards Darin Stevens and Steve Sefton got a yoman's share of praise for their inside blocking.

Lyman expected Apopka to throw the ball more often, and the Darters may have waited too late to go to the air, because Lyman had already built up a 26-7 advantage.

Lyman entertains Seminole next Friday night.

GOOD REASON FOR LYMAN CHEERLEADERS TO BE SMILING

Colonial Prevails, 21-20

Pats Go For Two, Lose

By JIM HAYNES
Herald Sports Editor

Salem is long, refreshing and may be hazardous to your health.

Salem was hazardous to Colonial High School's health Friday night in a high school football game that went down to the wire before Lake Brantley failed on a two-point conversion and lost a 21-20 cliffhanger before 3,500 Colonial homecoming fans.

It was Richard Salem who caused the late stir in the game, making a spectacular, diving catch in the end zone of a 31-yard touchdown pass from Baird Lyons. The play gave Lake Brantley a chance to win it with 34 seconds remaining, but Colonial's defense smothered Scott Jackson on a sweep play to preserve its sixth win of the year.

"I should have kicked it," lamented losing coach Jim Raley after the game. "But they had been ahead 14-0, and it was their homecoming, and our kids did well to bounce back like they did."

Colonial coach Harry Nelson was faced with a similar situation the previous week and chose to go for the tie and kicked. "We wound up losing anyway, and if I had it to do over, I would have gone for two," he said.

The contest was a battle of the passers, Lyons hitting 7-of-18 for 156 passes and having five dropped.

His Colonial counterpart, Carlos Sanchez, was 10-of-15 for 171 yards.

It was the pass play which led to a pair of early Colonial touchdowns.

On its first two possessions, Lyons was intercepted and Colonial moved the ball in quickly for touchdowns and a 14-0 lead.

It took a little time, but Lake Brantley's defense became almost unshakable, and the Patriot offense also got itself in gear.

Larry Ball latched onto a 20-yard TD pass to get the Patriots on the scoreboard with 1:08 left in the first quarter. A 46-yard pass play from Lyons to Salem helped set up the score. The kick was wide.

On Colonial's second play on the next possession Edward Upson intercepted one of Sanchez' passes and Brantley mounded a 44-yard drive which ended with Lyons lunging over from the one. Again, a 20-yarder to Salem was the big play of the drive.

Colonial went ahead on a 44-yard bomb to Mike Hammar with 2:32 left in the game.

Brantley knew it had time for only one drive, and wanted to make it a good one. Lyons hit Salem and Dean Frits with key gainers, and on fourth and 12 from the Colonial 31, he drifted back and lofted a soft spiral well over Salem's head in the direction of the end zone.

Salem kept running, and

Seminole Takes It On The Chin

LAKELAND — Seminole High's football team simply left its mental frame of mind in Sanford Friday night.

And its bodies were soundly whipped by Lakeland, 24-4, in a contest called by Jerry Posey "easily the worst football game we have played in my four years as head coach."

Somewhat, Seminole managed to still be in the game as late as the third quarter, down by a 13-6 score. But three fourth-quarter TDs by Duke Pearson turned it into a runaway victory for the Dreadnoughts.

Lawrence Rudolph saved Seminole from a shutout by running four yards for a third quarter TD.

"The only game I could compare this one to was our 35-12 loss to Spruce Creek last week," said Posey. "But we just made dumb mistakes in that game. This one was a case of our heart not being in it. We had no life at all."

Posey indicated he didn't want to sound of sour grapes, but that he was a little miffed that Lakeland had 10 offensive starters still in the game trying to score after it was out of reach and the Seminole reserves had been flushed into the game.

"They ran it up, no doubt," he said.

What baffled Seminole coaches was that the team had a superb week of practice.

"Actually, it was a real good week, but there was nothing good about Friday night, unless it was our offensive blocking, which wasn't too bad," said Posey. "Our problem offensively is that our backs would run 10 yards or so and drop the ball."

Tex Cromwell hits the ball on the ground and is about to be thrown out easily at first base in Friday's Zina Beck Baseball Tournament action at Sanford Stadium. Cromwell's Jacksonville teammates came up with a 4-2 win over FTU in this game while Milligan downed Stetson, 11-9, in the other game. Saints Facing Tough Steelers

By United Press International

The New Orleans Saints, off to the best start in their 11-year history, may find themselves up against a steel wall Sunday.

"We don't want to lose under any circumstances the rest of the way," said Pittsburgh Steeler defensive tackle "Mean" Joe Greene. "Losing leaves a bad taste in your mouth. It takes longer to get it out of your system. It stays with you longer."

After going through the first seven games of the season with a clean 7-0 record, the Steelers lost to Houston before surviving a scare against the hapless Kansas City Chiefs last week. Pittsburgh is 8-1 and coasting to the AFC's Central Division title with a three-game lead — a luxury they haven't had in the past.

On paper, the Saints would appear to be an "easy" opponent. But Dick Nolan's club has won three in a row and five on the year — as many as a New Orleans team has ever won in an season. And one of the wins during the winning streak — which has seen the defense yield just 27 points — came over the Los Angeles Rams.

Nolan has enjoyed the new-found success but cautions New Orleans fans about ordering playoff tickets just yet.

"We're a long, long way from being a solid team," Nolan warns. "We've just been making some big plays. We've been playing beautiful football. We don't have the depth to be a contender...yet."

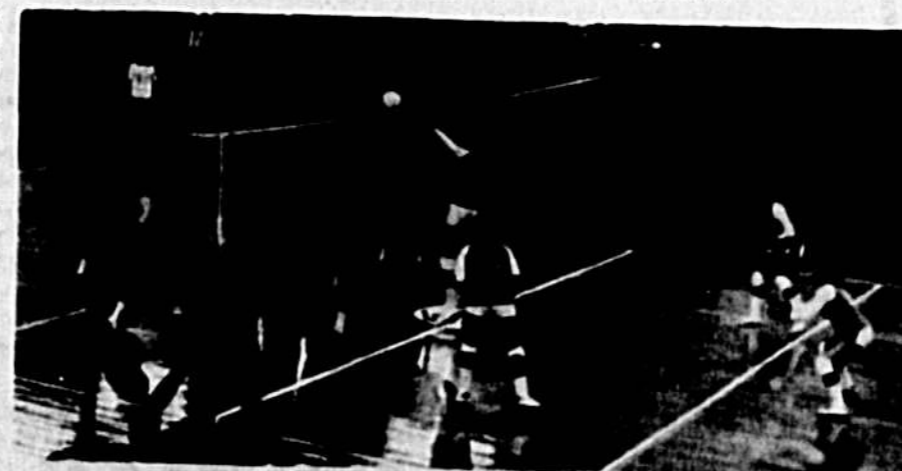

The Steelers haven't lost to an NFL team since Los Angeles beat them in 1971. They trail New Orleans 4-3 in the all-time series after winning 20-7 in their last meeting in 1974.

In other games Sunday, Dallas is at Miami. Cleveland

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Officials of the Independence Bowl said movie star John Wayne would be presented the Gen. Omar Bradley Spirit of Independence Award during halftime of next month's football game.

The award first was presented last year during the postseason game that features the champion of the Southern Conference against a team selected at large. This year's game will be played Dec. 18 and both Wayne and Bradley were scheduled to attend.

Carter Aides: Did What Was Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is getting advice from all sides for changes in its economic strategy, but President Carter's top advisers say the program is well balanced.

They warn disarray would do more harm than good. They say they do not think it too little.

In an appearance before the Senate Banking Committee Friday, Carter's three top economic advisers conceded recent moves to curb inflation at home and protect the dollar overseas risk bringing on a recession. But they said doing nothing courts even greater danger.

A continuation of the inflation spiral "will create an even greater certainty eventually of finding us in a recession," said

Alfred Kahn, Carter's newly appointed chief inflation fighter.

Barry Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said the recent moves to shore up the dollar on foreign money markets would not have been needed if Carter's anti-inflation program had received greater support when it was announced last month.

AFL-CIO President George Meany criticized the program for relying on guidelines instead of mandatory wage and price controls.

Bosworth, Kahn and Charles Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, all insisted mandatory wage and price controls would not work and Congress should not even consider such an approach. "It's just ludicrous to hear George Meany talk about the ineffectuality of this painstakingly designed program when he himself was railing against the ineffectuality of mandatory wage and price controls just a few years ago," Kahn said.

The Banking Committee also heard from representatives of business who generally supported Carter's efforts.

"Despite our misgivings about wage and price standards, we will do whatever is required to make them work as effectively as possible," said Del de Windt, of the Business Roundtable.

Jack Carlson, of the Chamber of Commerce, said his organization supports Carter's plan, but suggested the president defer scheduled increases in the minimum wage and Social Security taxes.

The president's advisers opposed the suggestion of Banking Committee Chairman William French Paul, D-Wis., that Carter draw up a balanced budget for the next year in order to put the brakes on inflation. A $30 billion deficit is now projected for the next budget.

Promisore said the program should be "much tougher if interest rates are to be controlled and wage and price restraint is to have any real chance of success."

Own House, Increase Estate

My home investment? You bet. From January 1960 to January 1970 the Dow Jones average jumped 16 percent. During this same period the average selling price of homes in Seminole County jumped 47 percent.

The national average was 32 percent. By owning residential real estate your estate increases in value while your average income stays the same (except for rising taxes and insurance costs).

You repay the debt with dollars that are easier to come by due to inflation. Over the long haul you create a large estate by buying instead of renting, which can only be an expense.

The interest and taxes you pay on your home reduce the income taxes you must pay due to favorable tax laws. Even a working lifetime, own a substantial piece of real estate free and clear.

Dealers Warn On $ Jumps

By United Press International. The dollar ended a week of dramatic gains on world money markets but dealers cautioned that its continued rise depends on how quickly President Carter implements his new save-the-dollar measures.

The U.S. currency continued to rise on world exchanges Friday after President Carter's speech Wednesday announcing the creation of a $20 billion foreign exchange fund to buy up dollars and keep their value high.

Arthur H. Beckwith Jr., Clerk of County Commissioners, said the dollar's rise is a good thing for the county. He said the county's income is up and the county's expenses are down.

Hattie Crippen Found Sanford 'Roots' in 1916 She Came, She Played, She Stayed

BY ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent

One can hear her playing the piano day and night, and if she isn't playing, she's composing. "Most of my inspirations come at night," confided Hattie M. Crippen, who is 88-years-old. Her fingers run nimbly over the piano keys as she flows from Chopin to a hymn and on to one of her own compositions, whose haunting melody is as yet unnamed. Composing isn't anything new to Hattie. When she was only 15, she wrote a hymn, "Beyond the Stars," published under her maiden name, Hattie M. Weaver.

Born in Aldridge, Ala. of musical parents, Hattie first came to Sanford in 1916. "I came to visit my Auntie, who just passed away last year, at age 97," she said. "I was supposed to go back home, but while I was visiting, the great motion picture, 'Birth of a Nation,' was going to play here. The musician who was supposed to play the background music wasn't available. Now, a few days earlier, I had been invited to play at the Woman's Club here, and Mrs. Ed Lane, whose husband ran the old Princess Theatre, on West First Street, heard me. She told Ed of my playing, and he invited me to share the score and play for the picture, which I did. Then I started playing for silent pictures regularly."

Smiling, she added, "I went home for a visit, but soon returned. That prompted me to stay here. I played at the Princess Theatre until Ed Lane gave it up. Then I played at the old Star Theatre (later the Rita) on Omond Herndon."

Smiling, she added, "I went home for a visit, but soon returned. That prompted me to stay here. I played at the Princess Theatre until Ed Lane gave it up. Then I played at the old Star Theatre (later the Rita) on Omond Herndon."

Hattie met and married M.M. Abercrombie. They had a daughter, Madge, who now lives in Chicago. Recalling their meeting, she said, "We didn't have a formal introduction. One night, while I was playing at the Star Theatre, I stepped outside to get a breath of fresh air. This gentleman came out and introduced himself and told me how much he enjoyed my music."

Laughing, she added, "He loved music, but couldn't carry a tune in a paper bag!" Later, after he passed away, Hattie married the late H.O. Crippen, in 1931.

Her musical training began early in her own home. "My mother was given a grand organ on her third wedding anniversary by my father. A few years later, he gave her the first piano in our community. My mother taught piano lessons and my father played tuba in the town band. I played my first piece on the piano when I was four," she said, adding, "I was taught to read out of a Blue Book Speller at home, and could read and write my name before I started to school."

Hattie's first teacher, other than her mother, was a blind woman. Later, she studied composition, harmony and counterpoint with Kelly Robson. She studied piano with Professor Grant of Birmingham and attended the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the Juillard School of Music in New York.

In the 1940s, Hattie and her daughter lived in Chicago, where she had a very successful music studio, teaching both piano and voice. She also demonstrated new Kimball pianos at Kimball factory on Sunday afternoons.

Her own piano, a Musicians' Grand, was especially made for her. "It is made of Caucasian walnut. After the 'I came to visit my Auntie who just passed away last year, at age 97, ... I was supposed to go back home...'

BEER CANS: World's Fastest Growing Hobby

BY JOAN MADISON Herald Correspondent

Derid Hall and his 14-year-old son, Mike, are among the enthusiasts of a hobby that seems to have generated an excitement unparalleled in collecting history.

Along with hundreds of thousands of collectors, they enjoy the world's fastest growing hobby — beer can collecting.

Beer cans invented the bottle dominated packaged beer market in 1935. It took a few years for cans to be accepted, however! Now more than 10 billion are produced annually, with the brewer's responding to the collectors with a seemingly endless variety of cans.

"Honestly, really knows how many different cans there are," says Hall, but there appears to be at least 10,000 beer cans and "that doesn't include the different combinations found in the multimillion cans."

And just as there's an endless variety of cans, there's an endless variety of items related to beverages that are collected — trays, tap knobs, mugs, openers, coasters, advertising signs, labels, caps...just anything associated with the malted beverage. The Hall's don't collect all of these items!

If a collector collects indiscriminately, he soon finds that space to hold the collection is a problem. Therefore, "some people collect just 12 oz. cans or foreign, or just those from Florida," explains Mike. "Or they may decide on just back or ale, or a certain can construction."

"We collect all American cans," explains Mike. "Any size, but mostly 12 oz."

It was Mike who started collecting the cans, and as frequently happens his father became fascinated. Now Hall says, "I have taken it up more than Mike. It's a lot of work — cleaning cans, building shelves..."

He has built quite a few shelves to hold a portion of their 1,200 can collection — all different. Another 3,000 cans are designated "trader" cans.

Trading is an aspect of the diversified hobby that excites many collectors, and the Halls are no exception. They belong to the Sunshine Chapter of the Gator Traders of the Beer Can Collectors of America (BCC) which meets four times a year for trading purposes.

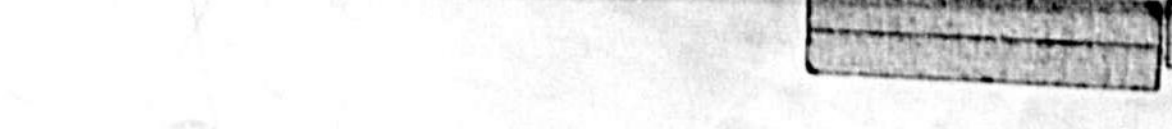

The next BCC trading session will be held next month, and the Halls will carefully pack certain cans from their assortment of "trader" cans in a specially made tote case, and head for St. Petersburg.

"It's the greatest thing in the world. If you don't know the people, it doesn't stay that long. It's like there is an 'stranger' there," says Hall.

His face lights up as he describes a trading session — the large tables set up with the colorful cans — the variety is endless. And the traders are as varied. Men, women and children collect and enjoy the trading sessions, looking for just the can needed to complete a collection.

"People used to be ashamed that they collected beer cans," says

The Hall Collection features about 1,200 beer cans with about 3,000 more cans designated as 'Trader' items

A REAL CUT-UP MAYOR

Mayor Lee P. Moore tried — but it just didn't work and he wound up trading in this hot cutter for a plain old scissors as he did the honors opening the new Ace Hardware store at 2585 Park Drive in Sanford. That's owner Larry Echols (right) checking out the mayor's technique.

In And Around Longwood Tourist Club Trip Termed 'Marvelous'

The Longwood Tourist Club will be holding its annual Thanksgiving dinner on Nov. 9. The covered dish luncheon will begin at noon in the Sunway-Shade Park pavilion in Longwood. All members are invited to attend.

"We had a marvelous trip to Sanibel Island," says Ruth Lajo of the Longwood Tourist Club. Enroute, the 30 tourists stopped at the Gamble mansion in Ellenton, where they enjoyed a picnic lunch on the grounds. After spending the night at Sanibel Island and enjoying the shopping malls, they began their return journey. "If you've not been there, it is an absolute must to visit Thomas Edison's home and museum in Ft. Myers," Ruth added. The tourist club will be taking a trip to the Christmas House in Brooksville in joining on Nov. 14. Any area senior citizen interested in joining in, should contact either Ruth Lajo at 327-0822 or Jane Christopher at 811-3512.

Sanlando United Methodist Church is holding its tenth bi-annual sea market on Nov. 4. Beginning at 9 a.m., it will run until 4 p.m. For those browsers with an appetite, there will be barbeque from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The church is located on the southeast corner of SR44 and Raymond, across from the Longwood Village Shopping Center.

Oct. 28 at VFW Post 8207 and Ladies Auxiliary was a busy day. From 1 p.m. until 3 p.m., there was a Halloween costume party for area children. Children ranging in age from 3 to 12 came dressed as clowns, police officers, football players and harem girls. After a rousing game of "bobbing for apples", and inhaling cupcakes and punch, the same time as the dance and dinner, was another dinner. The Miss Veterans Day Pageant was being held at Kahler Plaza. Miss Sharon Blades, the current Miss Roadrunner, represented VFW Post 8207 and Ladies Auxiliary at the pageant.

Miss Leighty, J.L. Hodges Jr. Exchange Vows

Kimberly Kay Leighty became the bride of Joseph Lamar Hodges, Jr. at the Casselberry Baptist Church Friday. The 7:30 p.m. double ring ceremony was performed in candlelight by the Rev. Samuel Elliott. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Leighty, Casselberry. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Hodges, Sr., Fern Park.

MRS. JOSEPH LAMAR HODGES JR.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows her mother's wedding gown of 23 years ago. The floor length gown of Chantilly lace over satin and nylon tulle featured a fitted bodice featuring a Peter Pan style collar. Slim lace sleeves tapered to points over her wrists. The full skirt extended into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of illusion cascaded from a lace and seed pearl tiara designed by her mother. She carried a bouquet of white silk roses intertwined with apricot colored ribbon, which surrounded a small candle. Bridesmaids were Joanne Beaulieu and Kris Leighty, sister of the bride. Their gowns were of apricot polyester organza with ruffled fronts and back v-necklines, caplet sleeves and flared skirts, offset by matching hats. They carried a lighted candle in a large globe adorned with petals of the gown fabric to form a flower, complemented by a small arrangement of Lily-of-the-valley.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Joe Cavalluzzi. Harold Amonte served as groomsmen, and ushers were George Stricker and Bryan Elyse. The tiny flower girl, Carrie Chambers was attired in an apricot gown and carried a basket of rose petals, both designed by the bride's mother. Bobby Amos, nephew of the bridegroom, served as the ring bearer attired in a children paraded before the judges who selected the best costumes. First place winners were Gayle Ann Duncan, gypsy; and Brian Grimes, "Chevy" of Star Wars fame. Second place winners were Bethany Wait wick; and Sean Grimes, Darth Vader, also of Star Wars fame. All the children were winners as each of them received prizes before going home. As part of the post-party safety program, the children attending the party had reflective tape applied to their costumes, thus enabling them to be more visible to drivers.

Saturday night found the adults at a Halloween costume party. Prior to the dance, there was a dinner of Hungarian stuffed peppers, prepared by ladies auxiliary treasurer Julie Badger.

The same time as the dance and dinner, was another dinner. The Miss Veterans Day Pageant was being held at Kahler Plaza. Miss Sharon Blades, the current Miss Roadrunner, represented VFW Post 8207 and Ladies Auxiliary at the pageant.

Abby, I am the same person I was when I had brown hair, but people (women as well as men) react totally differently to me since I became a blonde a year ago. I never realized how much blondes were discriminated against. Especially good looking blondes. If a woman happens to be blonde and goodlooking, she is immediately labeled as dumb. And if she is blonde, good-looking and has a good figure, she is automatically written off as stupid.

DEAR ABBY: About 15 years ago you ran a most inspirational poem titled "Slow Me Down Lord." I read it often as a constant reminder to slow down to more fully enjoy life's simple pleasures. Today, when people seem to be rushing around more frantically than ever, that poem is even more timely. Will you please run it again?

ANNA IN MONTANA DEAR ANNA: With pleasure. I agree, it deserves a rerun. "Slow me down, Lord. Ease the pounding of my heart. By the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace. With a vision of the eternal reach of time. Give me, Amidst the confusion of my day, The calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tensions of my nerves. With the soothing music of the singing streams. That live in my memory. Help me to know The magical restoring power of sleep. Teach me the art Of taking minute vacations of slowing down to look at a flower; to chat with an old friend or make a new one; to put a stray dog; to watch a spider build a web; to smile at a child; or to read a few lines from a good book."

Remind me each day That the race is not always to the swift; That there is more to life than increasing its speed. Let me look upward into the branches of the towering oak And know it grew great and strong

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, college educated, single by choice and considered a very attractive woman. My problem? I am a victim of discrimination. Until I became a blonde a year ago, I never realized how much blondes were discriminated against. Especially good looking blondes. In And Around Casselberry Club Proud Of Donation, An Antique Grand Piano

Fred and Frances Johnson, of 150 Northmoor Drive, just couldn't resist a trip to Ashland, (Ky.) to see those Astoria leaves again and while there they visited with relatives and friends.

Casselberry Attorney John Jones and wife, Carolyn, beam with pride as they tell of their new son, Andrew John Jones, born Oct. 17. He weighed 8 pounds, 4 ounces.

Casselberry Woman's Club is very proud of the antique Baby Grand piano donated to them by one of their honorary members, Lib Evans, and her husband, Ben, of 111 Sunset Drive. The piano belonged to the late Millie Evans, Ben's brother.

The Woman's Club members are selling tickets for the luncheon they are giving on Nov. 14. The proceeds will go to charity.

Former Casselberry resident Marilyn Gordon and her husband, Jim Whalen, passed through here this week in their travel trailer after a tour of New England and Virginia. They were on their way to Mexico, where they will be spending the winter.

Marilyn is a former Herald correspondent and Youth Programs, Inc. coordinator. They visited their friend Shelly Cox of Longwood, while here.

Congratulations to Catherine Lee Casselberry and Patrick Maguire of Longwood, who were cast in "The Shadow Box" by Michael Crawford, which is to be presented at the Annie Russell Theatre, Rollins College on Nov. 30.

Reba and Marvin McClain of 151 N. Triplett Drive, returned last week from a visit in Cap Hatien, Haiti, where they formerly served as missionaries.

My father-in-law, Jim Edmiston of 1181 Quaintlet Drive returned from a two-week vacation at Camp Ahrens on Lake-of-the-Woods in Ontario, Canada this week.

Fishing and hunting duck and grouse supplied their food while they were at the family camp. As for bringing home the bagged deer or bear, better luck next year.

Jim's brother, Bob, and nephews, Eddie and David, all of Orlando also went on the trip.

...Beer Cans

Continued From Page 1C the breweries air-sealed. Books, bibles and magazines have been printed to aid the avid collector (the local book stores sell out almost as fast as they restock their shelves.) Monthly magazines give the collector tips on buying, restoration, and storing. A classified section is devoted to trading and selling every imaginable brew item.

While a lot of trading is done through the mail, Hall says face-to-face trading is his favorite, and the family has friendships throughout the state as a result. "One minute you're trading with a neurosurgeon, the next minute with a garbage collector. Nobody cares," says the Winter Park Telephone employee. "Some are tough and hard to trade with, but with the majority of the traders, if you're fair, they're fair."

"Once you establish trust with people and develop a reputation, you are received with open arms," he adds. It's been a good opportunity for Mike to learn negotiating and fair trade. "He has opportunities to take advantage of people as we've developed a reputation as being up-to-date collectors," says Hall. "However, I recently heard him speak to a trader. 'I want you to get a little better deal than I do,'" says Hall, obviously pleased with the fair and honest manner in which his son trades.

In the hobby room of his contemporary home on Lake Florida, Hall talks of their collection in a room brightly decorated with shelves holding the colorful cans. The room used to be a garage, says Hall but is now "overhanging" as new cans are added, one more colorful and more unusual than the last. "The Schmidt's collection is one of the first sets collectors want to get," he says. The 21-can set is popular as they're colorful cans with outdoor scenes.

The oldest can in Hall's collection is a Pabst can marketed in 1921. "The year I was born," he says, smiling.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

It's very nice to have something like it in the newspaper.

DEAR HELOISE: Why do people mix apples and oranges when it comes to life? People ought not to do that.

H.R. Ford

DEAR HELOISE: My daughter came to visit me and had a game that she wanted to teach me to play, but we needed dice, and I didn't have any in the house. I did, however, come up with a pretty good substitute. I went to the kitchen and got two beef bouillon cubes, covered them with plastic tape and marked them exactly the way dice are marked.

We had a ball and couldn't "boof" about the dice... good as the real McCoy!

Mrs. H.R.

DEAR HELOISE: I love to read your column.

Grandma

DEAR HELOISE: Why are maternity clothes so expensive? I don't sew and therefore must just make-do somehow. Give me some advice.

Happy "Mother's Day" soon, Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Children love to play cards but their little hands are too small to hold many cards.

Take an empty shoe box and turn it upside down and let your child put his cards in the space between the cover and box. Works just fine.

Grandma

DEAR HELOISE: My mother doesn't like to boil eggs in her good pans. She takes the labels off the cans that peaches, fruit, cocktail, etc. come in and saves these cans to boil the eggs in. This keeps the eggs from staining good pans.

Cheri

DEAR HELOISE: I have learned that one of the best dishcloths that can be had is to cut up old nylon nightgowns and underwear to the size that happens to fit your fancy.

They don't sour and I found that they are so much cleaner than the proverbial old rag we get from the ragging or the cotton ones you buy at the store. Also, they are marvelous when cleaning the bathroom as the scouring powder doesn't wear them out.

It's A Florida Voting Barometer

TV Network News Has Its Eyes On Osteen

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

It is a quiet place with a couple of stores and gas stations, but its sleepy exterior belies the fact that as Osteen goes, so goes Florida. Or at least that is what ABC television news thinks.

The national network has been using the southwest Volusia County community of Osteen as a barometer to gauge the outcome of state elections for many years than anyone connected with their election coverage can remember.

Osteen has 600 registered voters, 200 of which are Democrats, 91 Republicans and 13 independents, according to the Volusia County Supervisor of Elections office.

"They've been doing this since I came here six years ago," said Mrs. James Perkins, state League of Women Voters representative. The league helps gather election results from key precincts in Florida, according to Mrs. Perkins.

"The network has six key precincts in Florida and Osteen is one of them," she said. "I never have found out why they chose Osteen," said Marjorie Lammason, election official.

"The reporters just come in as we're closest and they get the count as we're tabulating it and they call directly in to New York from here," said Mrs. Lammason.

ABC pays the telephone bill, she was quick to add.

Mrs. Lammason has been working elections for eight years and ABC has been using Oosten as a key precinct since before her time, she said.

"I guess the reason they use Oosten is that they have so many rural areas and so many urban areas," said Mrs. Perkins. "And Oosten is a rural area."

The Evening Herald wanted to know more, so a check with John Lynch, director of the political division for ABC News, in New York

City was made.

Lynch actually laughed when asked why Oosten had been selected as a key precinct.

"It's simply one precinct that by itself simply does not make sense, but with the other precincts in the state forms a picture of the state as a whole," said Lynch.

The fact that Oosten is a rural area is one factor in its selection as a key precinct, he said.

"We need a number of precincts and some of them must be rural to get a picture of the whole state," explained Lynch.

ABC updates the precincts used in its election coverage every two years, according to Lynch.

"We do all of our own survey work and the fact that Oosten has been used so long shows that it has proven out to be accurate over the years," said Lynch.

The survey looks at the income of the residents in the precincts, their religious influences and the demographic area it represents, he noted.

ABC takes the results from the polls in Oosten and the other key precincts in the state and blends them to come up with a projection for the election outcome, according to Lynch.

"It's all done very scientifically," said Lynch. "I just hope Oosten performs the way it's supposed to, whatever that is."

'Olympics': The Torch Is Lit

There was an air of expectancy at 9 a.m. today at opening ceremonies for the Fourth Annual Golden Age Olympics, as the crowd watched last year's champions Dr. John Morgan and Florence Korgan light the Olympic torch signalling the start of this year's event.

The ceremonies were held at an outdoor stadium and officials and well-wishers gathered in the sunshine and crisp morning air at the Sanford Civic Center patio.

Prospective participants in the week's events were inspired by a poem, "All in the State of Mind," recited by Miss Florida, Wendy Chatham of Bunnell Springs, and the announcement of medals and prizes to be awarded.

Glenn Greaves of Ocala World announced that in addition to mini-receptions to be provided for overall winners and their spouses, winners in each category of the Golden Age Olympics would receive complimentary admission.

Joe Warner of Sea World presented last year's overall winners, Korgan and Morgan, with one-year gold passes to Sea World and Jack Horner, master of ceremonies at the opening ceremonies and executive manager of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, with a certificate of appreciation.

Warner announced that each year the entire month of November will be designated "Golden Age Olympics" month at Sea World and simultaneously with the lighting of the Olympic torch in Sanford one will be ignited at the Orlando Sea World.

Following the Golden Age Olympics each year, the male and female champions will be honored at a special luncheon at the attraction. All participants in the GAO will receive lifetime membership cards, Warner added.

John Squares, president of Combank of Sanford, announced his firm would present trophies to the overall winners and GAO T-shirts to each medalist.

Don Hughes announced that McDonald's, in addition to providing medals for each event, would be supplying the firm's "Big Mac" lun.

Bob Crumley, local insurance man, introduced Bob Joyce, southern manager for Hartford Insurance Co., and Cathy Fox of the accident-health department. He said they would be providing accident coverage for all participants during the Golden Age Olympics events.

Don Moon, manager of the Sanford Zayre Store said Zayre Corp. was happy to be contributing $1,000 to sponsor this year.

Crabbe will be promoting the Golden Age Olympics at the Sanford Zayre Store 3:30-4:30 p.m. Wednesday and at the Fern Park store from 10:30 to 1:30 p.m. Crabbe will be signing copies of his new book on physical fitness on Wednesday, Senior Citizen discount day.

Among the guests present for the opening were State Rep. Fran Carlton, chairman of the Governor's Council on OLYMPICS, Page 2A

Polk Topless Ban Bid: Commission Unsure On Ordinance Fate

By DORNA EYER
Herald Staff Writer

'Nobody forces anyone to go in there'

Seminole Sheriff John Polk has turned over to the county commission a model ordinance, that has been upheld in the Florida Supreme Court, to prohibit topless and bottomless establishments in Seminole where alcoholic beverages are served for on-premises consumption.

"The commission is the legislative body of the county and now it's up to them," said Polk today.

But a full panel of the commissioners shows no clear cut yes or no on whether such an ordinance would be adopted. The only thing that is clear is the ordinance will not be considered until after election day Tuesday.

"I think we need something that will help regulate that kind of thing," said Commissioner Dick Williams. "I think the ordinance the sheriff is proposing is one tested in the courts and in the Florida Supreme Court. Perhaps it will work and someone has found a way to control these places. So many times ordinances of this type won't hold up in the courts," said Williams. "It is not strictly a moral issue, but an issue involving the character of the area," said Williams.

Sanford Optometrist Charles Persons Dies

Dr. Charles L. Persons, 64, of Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary, died Sunday in Orange Memorial Hospital, Orlando. He came to Sanford in 1959 where he began his practice as an optometrist.

He was a member, a donor and an elder of First Presbyterian Church of Sanford. He was past president of the Sanford Rotary Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mildred Persons, Lake Mary; daughter, Mrs. Julie Mary, Orlando; and Miss Thea Persons, Lake Mary; mother, Mrs. Charles L. Persons, Ft. Myers; brother, Dr. Lois Persons, Ft. Myers. Burial will be in the Briston Funeral Home-PA in charge of arrangements.

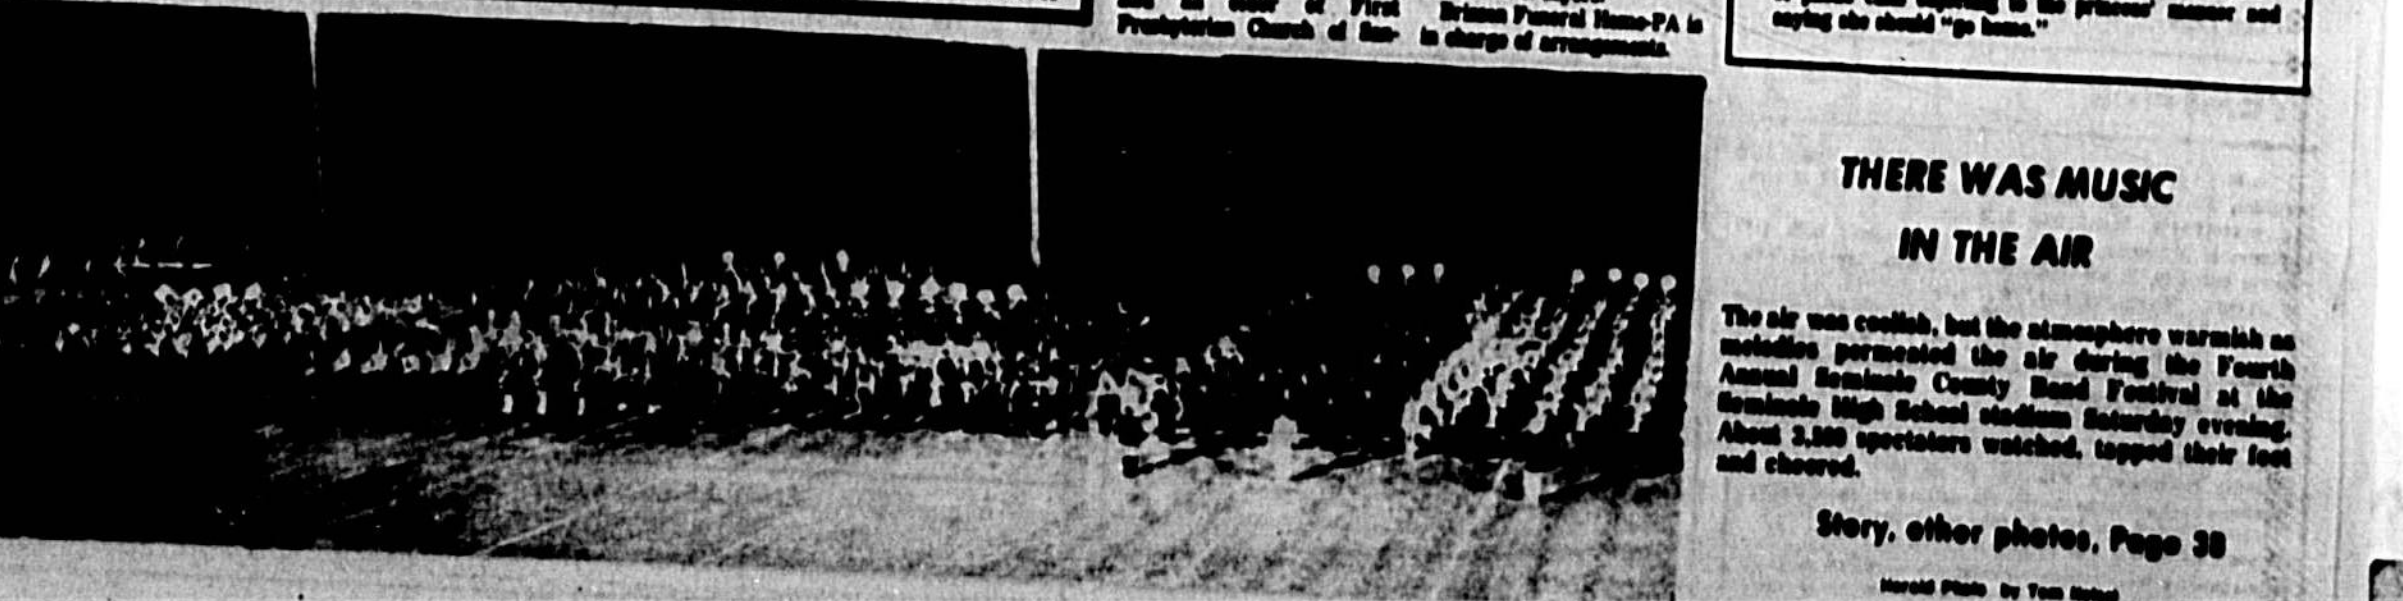

'No Cuddle, Not Even A Smile'

ORLO, Norway (UPI) — Princess Anne of Britain is in trouble with the Norwegian public because she refused to accept a greeting from a 5-year-old boy at a hospital.

The princess appeared on television Monday night where a national audience watched her in a hospital nursery. Oyvind Sivertsen, 5, tried to shake hands or get a cuddle from the princess but he was ignored.

"No cuddle, not even a smile," the Dagbladet newspaper commented on its front page.

Norwegian newspapers said they received "thousands" of phone calls objecting to the princess' manner and saying she should "go home."

THERE WAS MUSIC IN THE AIR

The air was coolish, but the atmosphere warmish as melodies permeated the air during the Fourth Annual Seminole County Band Festival at the Seminole High School stadium Saturday evening. About 2,500 spectators watched, tapped their feet and cheered.
