

New Financing By Businessmen Now Exceeds Record Year Of '29

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Businessmen have been raising new capital this year at a rate that exceeded only in 1929. They have had to change markedly the manner of financing.

But in spite of some critics or pain over lack of public interest in their securities, they have found the money to spend for new plants and machinery.

They spent three and a half times as much for this expansion last year as they did in 1929. In 1929, in January they estimated they would spend about 14 percent less for that purpose this year. But it now appears that the drop will be much less than first expected.

As a result of this expansion, some industries, because of the slump, have more plant and equipment than they are using for the time being. However, the companies with the latest machinery are in a position to cut production costs, making it easier for any competitor in the market who has an outside plant.

Businessmen now are about half as much in quantity for their building dollars as they would have got the same dollar spent in 1929. Figuring that a dollar spent in building brought a full dollar's worth in the 1929-30 period as an average, the National Industrial Conference Board says it still brought 64 1/2 cents worth in 1939, but in 1949 brought only 48 cents worth of building.

Industry tapped various sources to find the money to build. In spite of the risk about the lack of risk capital, business has been able to raise tidy sums since the war by selling securities. You have to go back to the booming twenties to find anything like it. But there is a radical change in the forms this financing is taking.

While the monthly average sale of bonds and notes so far in 1949 is more than twice as high as that in the stock market boom year of 1929, the monthly sale of new common stocks this year has been $88.4 million, compared with $371 1/2 million in 1929. New preferred stock sales are less than a fourth what they were then.

One reason for few stock issues may well be the lack of risk capi-

Dr. Cortez, Worlds Greatest Scientist, Baffled By Insects

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Once upon a time there was a great scientist named Dr. Alfonso Cortez.

No mind like his had ever entered the world before.

The day he was born he asked the nurse if he could borrow the hospital's microscope. He wouldn't take his afternoon nap unless his mother sang him a lullaby from an algebra book.

By the time he was five he could recite the Encyclopedia Britannica from memory, forward or backward, including the index. He graduated from college at 7, before he could play hopscotch well.

At 10 he competed in a radio giveaway quiz contest. They couldn't think up a question he couldn't answer. They network finally paid him $100,000 to quiz—it was the only way to keep from going bankrupt. With that nest egg the young scientist bought himself his first pair of long pants and dedicated the rest of his life to science.

In time every branch of human knowledge was illuminated by his brilliance. His inventions enabled men to live 40 years longer, drink all night without getting a hangover, get by on half-an-hour's sleep, and earn all they wanted by working one hour a day.

The fame of Dr. Cortez was worldwide. His name was a household word—in households where people could read. But in his old age the great scientist was unhappy.

"There is still evil in the world," he said, "and I must solve the problem of right and wrong."

So he went into his laboratory and stayed there for five years. Then he emerged. He summoned the world's leading statesmen, bankers, clergymen, industrial leaders, generals, admirals and educators to his laboratory. When they were all assembled, he walked into the room carrying a large box.

"Gentlemen," he said, "In this box I have 3,004,385 mosquitoes. I have bred, and cross-bred them for five years to breed out their vicious instincts. I have read them the Bible, the Koran, the Talmud and passages from the philosophers. They have been taught not to sting anyone who is wholly good. They are the only trained moral mosquitoes ever reared."

And with that he opened the box, and out swarmed the mosquitoes.

"Don't be alarmed," smiled Dr. Cortez. "They know right from wrong."

"The mosquitoes began settling on his uneasy guests. For a moment there was a sudden silence, a vast quivering, and then—

"Ouch!"

"Ouch!"

"Ouch!"

The famous people, slapping at their faces, ran en masse from the laboratory, all except a stubborn general. He walked out, brushing the mosquitoes from his cheek—and his nose.

Dr. Cortez looked sadly around his deserted laboratory.

"There must be some wholly good person in the world," he said. "All my mosquitoes can't be wrong."

Just then he felt something on his neck.

"Ouch!" Cried the scientist. "Moral: Never trust an educated insect."

Glassblowers take pride in being called "blow-hards" because it is their enormous breath pressure handmade American glassware, that shapes much of the fine chisel of some glassblowers' distend until their faces are as large as cantaloupes.

Mintrial Asked On Account Of Peekskill Riot

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Defense attorneys sought today a mintrial in the Communist conspiracy trial because of "force and violence manifest" after a Paul Robeson concert at Peekskill, N. Y. last Sunday which was attended by three defendants.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina denied the motion—most recent of dozens in the 34-week-old trial of 11 top Communist leaders.

In an exchange with defense attorney George W. Cline, Jr., Medina said, however, in referring to the violence at Peekskill: "I definitely think it was an outbreak of force and violence."

The judge also denied a motion that he order the U. S. Attorney to proceed with an investigation of the Peekskill incident.

Affidavits in support of this second motion were sworn to by these defendants: Irving Fagan, international vice president of the CIO Fur and Leather Workers Union City Councilman Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., a negro, and Robert G. Thompson, New York state chairman of the party.

Fagan said he was injured when windshield glass from the car in which he was riding pierced one eye. Davis and Thompson said the autos in which they were riding were damaged by thrown missiles. More than 100 persons were injured and at least eight autos were overturned after the Robeson concert Sunday as those attending drove away under a hail of rocks.

Defense attorney Harry Sacher made the motions, asserting the Peekskill disorder was "a manifestation of bias and prejudice engendered by government agencies, federal, state and local, against these defendants."

He also charged that the "circumstances surrounding the incident were a manifestation of a most lawless conspiracy on the part of government agents and agencies."

Judge Medina denied the motion for an investigation without prejudice and with the right to renew it before another judge.

The Communist leaders are charged with conspiracy to organize the party for violent overthrow of the government.

ANOTHER PERSON was injured, Lee Graves, 29, formerly with J. Walter Thompson Co. and other firms, was shot and killed by police Lt. William A. Crouse, police said.

Crouse was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital with a fractured skull after Graves had hit him with a metal chair, police said.

Two other persons, not immediately identified, were treated for injuries suffered in the fracas.

The spiritual universe, including God, is the only real substance. The spiritual man is a compound of Spirit, reflecting the divine substance of Spirit" (468:18).

Take Your Family To Sunday School

By Roland I. Leavelle

The family and the Sunday school should be bound in holy union, a holy wedlock. If so, both will live happily ever after. The Sunday school helps take the Bible, the family altar and every Christian virtue into the family relations. The family takes loyalty, cooperation and numbers into the Sunday school. The whole family will be blessed by going to Sunday school.

A heavenly union of family and Sunday school will produce heavenly offspring. This union will bring unity of spirit, godliness of life and spiritual service into the family. Such a union will go far to cure the divorce evil and will virtually wipe out juvenile delinquency. The family and the Sunday school working together make soul-winning easy. It will build a Christian social order. Why not take your family to Sunday school?

There is something refreshing and wholesome in the sight of this fine boy and girl, chatting in friendly fashion as they plod their way to school.

They are typical of many thousands of boys and girls who are preparing themselves, through study and training, for the duties and responsibilities of life.

Parents are often concerned about the academic progress of their children. But to be mentally alert is not enough; to be able to judge between right and wrong is essential. Progress in the knowledge of God and the principles of right living should be a matter of deeper concern.

True education encompasses the training of the soul along with that of the mind and body. When this training is neglected, life is incomplete, because it lacks the foundation of a vital faith.

Boys and girls should turn to the teachings of the Church and to the precepts of the Holy Scriptures as the most important part of their life training.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his community and nation. (2) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and support your Bible daily.

Unbending Conservative

The late Charles D. Hilles of New York was perhaps the last surviving chief actor of the great 1912 fight between William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt. After the noisy Republican convention which renominated Taft and caused Roosevelt to bolt, the Democrats seemed sure to win the election. Some one, however, had to conduct the Taft campaign. Hilles, who had been the President's secretary, took over the futile job.

As campaign chairman Hilles had plenty of money, mostly supplied by the President's rich brother, Charles P. Taft, but he had no other advantage. Not only were Progressive Republicans bolting to Roosevelt, but conservatives, alarmed at the Rough Rider's strength and determined to keep him out of the White House, were turning to Woodrow Wilson. Hilles was probably not greatly surprised when Taft carried but two states, thick-and-thin Vermont and, oddly enough, Utah, which had gone for Bryan and was to vote Democratic repeatedly in later years.

After this thankless job Hilles was for many years vice-chairman of the party national committee. Always a right-winger he was at personal odds with President Hoover, though he stuck by the ticket. His successor in Republican inner circle is not likely to be as unbendingly conservative.

Kinn Azain ?

In view of apparent world tendency toward the leveling of all ranks of society, the serious consideration of the return of royalty to any of the vacant thrones of Europe may seem to verge on the ridiculous.

However, reports from Rome say that there is a definite campaign being launched in Italy to bring the Italian royal family back to its old position. The move is said to have the backing of the Republican party, the religious leaders, and Premier de Gasperi himself. British diplomats in Italy favor the move as possible unifying influence. Such unity of Italy's various political elements would form the best bulwark against Communism, say its advocates.

A royal family, which can be a symbol of stability and permanence as parties come and go, is undoubtedly a unifying force, as is shown by the situation in England. In the midst of the clamor and confusion which characterize the present administration in the British Isles, Prince Charles's first haircut made all the public prints, and Princess georgias and comping are watched with fond indulgence by her people.

The case of England stands by itself, however, Italy, with her mercurial people and her temperamental royalty, might need some different stabilizer.

Snake Stories

There is something about a snake that lends credibility to the wildest tales about it. Scientists try in vain to puncture ancient legends about reptiles, and some of the oldest still have strong support.

Snakes milk cows, says one tale, and so have earned the name of milk snakes. Others, tail in mouth, can roll like a hoop, releasing the tail, they use it to sting a tree, which withers immediately, according to another legend. Another reptile is said to allow its young when danger approaches, and a brittle crawler carries a glass-anake is credited with the ability to fit broken parts of its body together.

Scientists absolutely deny the truth of these ideas. They make snakes so much more interesting, however, than the prosaic, predictable characters described in the zoology textbooks that the legends are likely to live on, despite scientific contradiction.

Rep. Patton's report contained charges that Gray attempted seduction, frequented a place where liquor was sold to students, attempted bribery of a department head to mislead funds, and "framed and fired" a dean of agriculture.

The Franklin county legislator earlier said he had found no evidence of Communism at the negro college here, and no such charges were included in his report to the Legislature.

The report said Gray "had upset the fiscal controls of the school to such an extent that an accurate accounting or fixing of responsibility for the handling of many of the school funds, expenditures and collections was found to be impossible by the auditors."

The House Finance and Taxation Committee yesterday asked State Auditor Bryan Willis to give an audit of the college affairs. He said the audit was being prepared, but might not be completed for another 30 days. However, he indicated he will make a preliminary report to the Legislature before then.

Patton said auditors found "among other things a shortage of approximately $10,000 in the extension account, that the cafeteria which previously had operated at a small profit had accumulated an operating deficit of about $20,000 at the expense of other incidental funds."

That large quantities of metal and materials had been sold by some employees and no money had been turned into the business office for it. That five new tires, property of the school had been mounted on his privately owned automobile," Patton reported.

The safe in the cafeteria was robbed, and following the police investigation, the business manager recommended that the entire cafeteria staff be dismissed, he stated, however, they were retained.

A member of the instructional staff was caught in bed with a female student and the matter referred to Gray, but he took no action. He said he gave the man a substantial increase in salary. The instructor is still on campus.

Camden Shooting

Leonard, would arrive here from Tokyo in time. The Army private is being flown here in a B-17.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 8—(AP)—Howard B. Urush lifted a wrench over his head in a gesture threatening his mother a few minutes before the 20-minute loss in which he killed 13 persons, it was reported today.

Mrs. Freda Urush, heart-broken mother of the 28-year-old Bible-reading slayer, related the incident to her brother, fire Capt. Robert Wonseller.

A Philadelphia Evening Bulletin reporter standing in the doorway of a bedroom watched Mrs. Urush talk to Wonseller, who relayed her answers.

This is the story he received: Tuesday morning, not long before the worst mass killing in U. S. police annals, Howard had been in the basement of his home on River Road. He had a target range there. When he returned to the second floor apartment he was carrying a .38 Smith & Wesson.

Howard was in the living room when Mrs. Urush entered. He said he saw her closely and raised the wrench. His face was blank. He did not appear to recognize his mother. And she drew back, frightened.

"Howard, the man... you can't do this to me."

He did not attempt to answer her, and she ran quickly to the nearby home of her friend Mrs. Carolyn Pliner. She was there when the first shot was fired.

Howard fired three shots and killed Mrs. Pliner, Mrs. Pliner's daughter, Mrs. Pliner's son, Mrs. Pliner's daughter, Mrs. Pliner's son, Mrs. Pliner's daughter, Mrs. Pliner's son.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—(AP)—Howard Urush, the 27-year-old veteran who slaughtered 13 people with his pistol in Camden, N. J., has been sent to the state hospital for two weeks, at least.

Psychiatrists who have been examining him haven't reported yet whether they think he's sane or how long he's doing when he killed the 13 people. But if he's found sane, Jersey officials say, he'll be tried for murder.

But two top Washington psychiatrists with nothing more to go on than the newspaper account, they've read, flatly say Urush is insane. They have their opinion on two main points in the newspaper story.

I. His excessive interest in the Bible. He was reported to have walked along the streets, reading it.

II. His statement that he was sane at some of the people he killed because he felt they were against him.

The psychiatrists give this explanation for Urush's behavior. He has a serious mental illness. He had delusions of being persecuted. Example: He thought his neighbors were against him. But how do such delusions arise? The Washington psychiatrists don't say what started them in Urush, since they hadn't been able to question him and dig back into the mind of his victim.

Such delusions, though, may arise from several causes. For example:

1. A deep sense of guilt. Instead of facing a reality and accepting in his own mind blame for some wrongdoing, he may be so sure he felt was wrong—a man in times tries to shift the blame to someone else.

2. A deep sense of inferiority. In this case he begins to suspect that everything that happens to him or because of him, if it rains, the rain is meant specially to spoil his day. If the sun is hot, it's specially hot just to make him uncomfortable.

3. So in other things—as perhaps a delusion of persecution, or a delusion of persecution begins to build up and the paranoid magnifies it out of all reality in his own mind as something specially meant to hurt him.

Not always, but sometimes, a paranoid like that winds up trying to kill people although usually they're the people he's persecuting, only one person or a small group. It seldom takes on the mass scale of Urush's 13 killings.

One point that puzzled the psychiatrists here, though, was the fact the Urush not only shot down the neighbors he deluded but also shot strangers on the street, children and people who didn't know him.

New Jersey officials said they didn't ask Urush about that. But both psychiatrists say one of the tragedies in Urush's case is that he never has been able to give an account of what he was doing. He says, because they say, the evidence is clear. His insanity, they say, didn't suddenly come on him in a day or a week but had been building up.

In New Jersey Urush was quoted as saying he had been building up a grudge against his neighbors for two years since he returned from the Army.

It's hard to see how such insanity had been recognized? This was the explanation for that:

When a person goes to excess in anything—whether it's eating, drinking, or even something like reading the Bible—his open to question about his mental condition.

But, when in Urush this excess was coupled with statements to his family that he had a grudge against his neighbors and that he was going to shoot them, the signs of his illness were pretty clear.

If someone had been able to recognize the signs and gotten Urush to a doctor, the shooting probably never would have happened. But the two psychiatrists, in agreement on everything said here, disagree on the treatment. Can Urush be cured? One says flatly no.

The other says "maybe," if Urush is given proper treatment. But this psychiatrist added:

"Even if he were completely cured, how could anyone ever be sure?"

So if Urush is found officially insane and thus escapes trial, he probably faces a lifetime in a mental hospital.

High Price Of Eggs Laid To Poor Marketing System Of Sellers

By OVID A. MARTIN, Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—(AP)—The government has come up with a reply to this question: "Why is it that the city housewife must pay 75 and 80 cents a dozen for eggs when farmers in some sections of the country are getting only 35 cents?"

A recent survey of egg marketing in 13 midwestern states—states which produce about one-half the nation's eggs—disclosed that about one egg out of three has dropped below the grade A quality desired by the housewife by the time the farmer takes them to market.

Furthermore, two out of five eggs have deteriorated below the breakfast table quality only two days later, when they reach the retail assemblers, the second step in the marketing journey.

Further losses are encountered through the eggs reach the retailer. Agriculture Department experts estimate that only about one egg out of two reaches the consumer market in top quality.

It comes down to this: There is a shortage of top-quality eggs in the midst of an egg surplus.

Why? Officials say too few farmers follow the government's advice to "keep them moving to market and keep them cool."

From the fact, officials have found, that many buyers do not offer prices for top quality eggs. Hence there is little incentive for the producer to go to the extra trouble and expense of marketing eggs of better and of keeping them in coolers.

Frequently local buyers handle eggs merely as a sideline. The eggs do not receive the attention that they should.

This failure to prevent deterioration is a major factor in the government's egg price support problem. There are more low grade eggs than are needed by users of such eggs—bakers, confectioners, food processors and the like.

Hence the government must buy up the extra supply of the lower grade eggs in order to carry out a congressional mandate that it assure producers a certain minimum price.

Some officials figure that if a larger portion of the total egg supply were of top quality there would be less need for government buying.

They reason that consumers would save more top quality eggs if they were available at lower prices, but at prices still above the average now being received by farmers.

Four New Men Are Taken Into Unit Of National Guard

Four new members were sworn in as members of Co. 1, 124th Infantry, Florida National Guard at the Army Post night by Lieut. Raymond Kader, commanding officer. They are: Archie C. Harlett, sergeant and Alfred Helms, William Flowers and John Lundquist, recruits.

Company 1 now numbers 46 men and three officers. Lieut. John Kester, publicity officer, announced today.

During the first period last night first inspection was made by Lieut. Ed. Smith who commended the group for their fine appearance. The Company was then divided into four men squads and given thorough instruction by Sgt. C. O. Jones in the use and handling of arms of the M-1 rifle. A motion picture, "How To Live In The Jungle" was shown.

The Company is readily taking in men to replace those who have joined the armed forces, said Lieut. Smith.

All men of National Guard age who are interested in joining the group are requested to contact either Sgt. T. V. Brown at the Post, Pilling Station or Lieut. Kader at Kader's Jewelry Store, or attend one of the weekly Thursday night meetings at 8:00 o'clock at the Armory.

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 8—(AP)—Baltimore county police said a 12-foot cross was burned early today in a negro community near here.

It was placed on a hill at Sandy Bottom, just north of Towson.

Police said they extinguished the flaming cross, which was visible for miles. It was made of gasoline-soaked fiber rugs and hurled through with baling wire.

Officers said there were a number of footprints and tire tracks around the cross.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—(AP)—White neighbors doused a blazing wooden cross planted in the yard of a negro family here early today.

This was reported by fireman called to the home of Ralph Sneed, a Navy Department mail clerk.

A few moments later the home was pelted with stones. Several windows were broken. A police patrol was set up in the area.

Police and firemen blamed "juvenile" for setting up the cross and stoning the house. They said the Sneeds, who recently moved into the neighborhood, were the only negro residents in the block.

Wage-Hour Rule

The present wage-hour law requires payment of a 40-hour weekly, minimum wage and of time and a half for hours worked beyond a 40-hour week in business or interstate commerce, Congress is nearing final action on raising the minimum wage to 75 cents an hour.

Under the law executive, administrative and professional workers are exempt according to definition for such employees in interstate commerce, labor law. Today's proposed revisions of the definitions are the first since 1940. They are the result of extended hearings in which witnesses for management generally sought to have the exemptions broadened as much as possible and labor witnesses to have them narrowed.

McComb said there are now about 2,600,000 workers in 600,000 businesses exempt under the executive, administrative and professional regulations. He said the proposed revisions "would not materially change the number of 'white collar' employees affected."

A new provision would exempt salaried employees receiving at least $100 a week if their primary duty is recognized to be executive, professional or administrative in character.

Officials said, however, that this does not mean any worker receiving $100 a week or more would be automatically exempt from overtime or an outside salesman.

Steel Strike Is Debated By Union Leaders

Industry Leaders Accept Truman Plea For Extension Of Truce On Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The steel strike ends with an 11-day extension of the truce expiring tomorrow midnight. Steel industry's big five have accepted the extension.

Also in the union's hands is the working men's demands for a sharp round pay increase—specifically whether to accept the presidential board's formula for settling the steel wage dispute.

The board suggested a 10-cent hourly package covering pensions and insurance but not wages. Decisions on the board recommendations also are expected from more than 60 steel companies as soon as officers and boards of directors finish studying the fact and figures report.

The steelworkers executive board went into session at 9 A. M. at the Hotel Sheraton. U. O. and steelworkers President Philip Murray, presiding, led the drive for a fourth round pay boost, got behind closed doors with other union heads to plot their course.

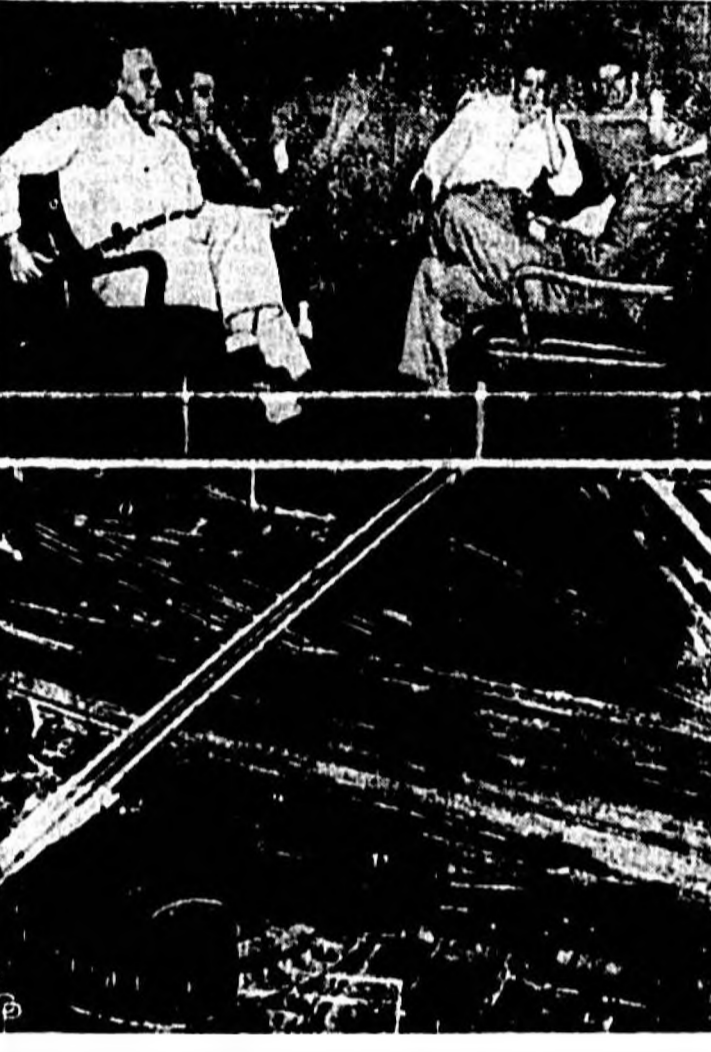

The executive board is made up of international officers and 25 district directors. It's recommendations must be ratified by the union's wage policy committee which was called together at 1 P. M. The wage policy group includes the executive board plus representatives of local unions.

Decisions of the executive group usually are made public by press conference and action by the wage policy body.

Murray withheld comment on the truce and the fact that the strike will be extended. President Truman's steel fact-finding board said that any extension of the truce will help the nation's economy just when it's getting on an even keel.

The board, in its report to President Truman Saturday, gave what amounts to a declaration that the spiraling contest between wages and prices is over and that labor and industry should recognize it. The board said:

Senate Groups Vote 20-3 For Arms Aid Bill

Bitter Fight Faces Measure On Floor Of Senate Where Cuts Are Feared

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Canadian Finance Minister Douglas Abbott said today the United States, Britain and Canada have agreed on a program of immediate steps to combat Britain's dollar crisis.

The final vote—20 to 3—cleared the way for the arms bill to go to the Senate. There it faces another fight by a group determined to make a deep cut in the total spending.

The Senate Foreign Relations and armed services committees voted for this arms program: $1,000,000,000 for the North Atlantic Pact nations, divided 50-50 between cash and contract authorization and with some restriction on use of the cash.

$27,500,000 for Iran, Korea and the Philippines. $25,000,000 to aid anti-Communists in China with President Truman to spend the money where he sees fit without making any report to Congress.

The bill is in the form of an authorization. Funds must be provided later by appropriation. Votes against the legislation were given by Democratic Senators George and Russell of Georgia and Byrd of Virginia.

Meanwhile, the two committees apparently avoided another prospective fight by agreeing to legislation by accepting a slight compromise concerning the aid for China.
