

TRADE BODY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

VERY INTERESTING MEETING OF BOARD OF TRADE TUESDAY EVENING

The first meeting of the Sanford Board of Trade was held in the court rooms at the court house in this city on Tuesday evening of this week.

Particularly interesting were the reports of the transportation committee by A. P. Connelly, chairman and the Inland Waterway committee by C. R. Walker, chairman.

The election of officers for the coming year followed the reports. Upon motion the officers for the past year were re-elected.

It was decided that the board of governors could best serve the Board of Trade by having its number increased to eighteen instead of nine.

Another very gratifying feature of this meeting was the fact that almost every man present paid dues for the coming six months.

The Gleaners Meet Socially

On Wednesday afternoon the Gleaners of the Presbyterian church met socially at the home of Mrs. O. L. Taylor.

Plans were discussed for the coming year for making this class for the study of God's word a power in the church.

This is but the beginning of a series of similar meetings for this enthusiastic class and it is expected that a large increase in their membership will be noted in the near future.

It invites to its membership any women who are not affiliated with one of the other churches.

Dr. O. J. Miller Appointed

Dr. Miller returned today from Philadelphia and New York, where he went for the purpose of accompanying Mr. S. E. Girard, a retired merchant of Philadelphia to his home.

On arrival home Dr. Miller found a letter from the Governor advising of his appointment as a representative of the state of Florida at the Pan-American Exposition to be held at the Grand Central Palace in New York Feb. 8th to the 16th.

The hundreds of visitors coming to Sanford every day are inclined to carry a few days and take trips over the great celery delta there to gaze upon the fields of celery and lettuce and other winter vegetable crops.

The first two cars of celery leave Sanford tomorrow morning and are from the farm of Shugdan Jewett on the west side and John Russell the well known grower and shipper of Sanford products.

LOADING CELERY AT SANFORD

John Russell is Johnny on the spot this season and has clinched the early crops and will probably move a number of cars of early celery during the next two weeks.

Shipping the first two cars on January 13th is one of the early records and is worthy of more than passing notice as this shipment starts the great celery crop of the Sanford section and as there is considerably more than one thousand acres in celery this year there will be some money made in this crop.

Raising celery at Sanford has long ceased to be an experiment or the great gamble that it was at one stage of the game.

or wait several months to learn just what his stuff brought in the northern markets. The cash buyer has taken the job and the growers are willing to take a reasonable price for the crop and allow the cash buyer to make a reasonable profit.

Of course any one who has visited the Sanford section knows that celery is only one of the crops now. While celery has always been king there are other crops equally as good and lettuce, eggplants, cauliflower, peppers, beans, tomatoes, potatoes, cabbage, etc., are grown here with profit.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Thursday afternoon, January 4 at the Baptist church with Mrs. A. E. Philips in the chair.

Thaw Cravy Again: New York, Jan. 10.—Detectives are searching for Harry K. Thaw, acquitted murderer of Sanford White on the ground of insanity.

Thaw was indicted this afternoon for kidnapping and assaulting Frederick Gump, Jr., 19, son of Frederick Gump, a Kansas City trunk manufacturer.

Thaw met the Gump boy in California in 1915 and told the parents that he wanted to educate him. Last December he induced him to come to New York.

He took the boy into a suite of secret rooms on the eighteenth floor of the McAlpin hotel.

After Gump had a bath Christmas night Thaw whipped him with a cowhide and then placed him in charge of George O'Byrne, for whom the police are also searching.

The boy escaped and returned to Kansas City and told the story to his parents who investigated and complained to the New York authorities.

A Guaranteed Attraction
"Stop! Look! Listen!" the attraction announced for Wednesday, January 10th at the Lyric is a show of girls, costumes, scenery and dancing with dialogue that is scintillating and it all moves nimbly to ragtime. The chorus and show girls are ravishly beautiful—all handsome and fresh young women—splendidly costumed. The costumes are as full of harmonies of line and color as they are of happy fantasy. They are delicate and decorative and could be worn indeed nowhere else and by no other than the Big Girls and Little Girls that carry them off so well. There are hoops and yards of illusive tulle; there is fur, there are summer things for Honolulu and settings that are new and good in idea. Flat in color—the ocean ultramarine—the beaches and the coral islands one tones sand color—the palms green, delicately filigreed as though their fronds were cut from plain paper—they are pleasant and restful to the eye. In fact, it is an attraction that appeals to everybody in some way or other. Spectacularly it should satisfy the most fastidious. There is about the entire spectacle that air of smartness that stamps the big New York successes, and as to the music—well, just imagine Irving Berlin at his best, and then some.

BILLY EVANS' BASEBALL PROBLEMS

Written Especially for This Paper by the Famous American League Umpire.

Freak plays are much more frequent in the minors than in the big show, but a play came up in the American league that is probably without a parallel in baseball. It has been put up to any number of umpires, players, and managers, and all contend they never heard of a similar happening on a ball field.

Washington and Philadelphia were the opposing teams. The Athletics got away to a good start, and when the ninth inning rolled around had piled up a big lead. With two down in the last half of the ninth, Eddie Ainsmith, the crack Washington catcher, hit for a single. With a lead of seven or eight runs, none of the Athletics paid any attention to Ainsmith, who stole second on the first ball pitched and third on the second ball delivered by Chief Bender. Then, some fun in the third base benches yelled: "Finish up the job, Eddie, by stealing home!" That is just what Ainsmith essayed to do, and incidentally stirred up one of the most peculiar arguments in baseball history.

As Bender started to wind up, Ainsmith started for home. Bender, with a smile, decided he would permit Ainsmith to go through with his intended theft. In order to make sure that the Washington catcher would reach the plate safely, Bender kept on winding up his right arm until Ainsmith had slid over the plate in safety. Just about the time Bender had finally delivered the ball to the batter, Ainsmith had regained his feet and was busy dusting off his uniform. As luck would have it, the batter hit the ball to left field, Oldring making the catch that retired the side and ended the game. The question naturally arose as to whether or not the run counted. What would you have done had you been the umpire?

Solution of Problem.
The run does not count. The play, of course, is based on rule 50, which relates to the scoring of runs. Part of this rule states that a run shall not be scored if, after touching the first three bases, the runner comes home from third on a play in which the third man is forced out, or is put out before reaching first.

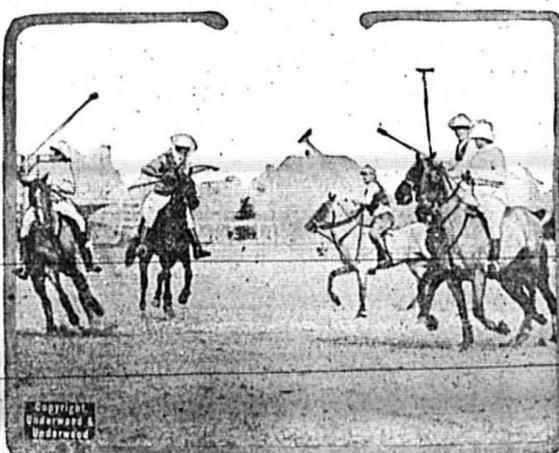

The umpires contend that the start of the play was when Bender began his wind-up, and that the completion of the play was the hitting of the fly ball to left field, the batter naturally being out before he reached first. Hence, the run should not count, even though Ainsmith had scored before the ball was really started on its way to the plate. That really has nothing to do with the situation, the start of the wind-up being the beginning of the play. It is a question that will cause many an argument.

Excessive Talking.
The excessive talking in which many girls indulge is a decided element of nervous strain. I have heard of a "silence club," the members of which try to refrain from all unnecessary talking. Gushing and useless chattering is against the principle of this club. It has been said that the Japanese girls preserve their youthfulness far longer than their American sisters. They live quiet lives and do not waste their words.

Nasty Motors.

POLO IS MOST POPULAR ALL-AROUND SPORT

FAST GAME AT AIKEN, SOUTH CAROLINA.

Polo is played in this country practically all the year round. During the winter months the climate and conditions of the grounds are suitable for the Pacific coast clubs, Hawaii and the Philippines; in spring the game is played in the Southern circuit, which includes Aiken, Camden, the several army posts and Washington; in the late spring the game is popular in Philadelphia and adjacent suburban clubs and Lakewood, N. J., and is next followed by the Western and mid-Western circuits. In May and June the game is in full swing at all the Eastern clubs and Narragansett Pier, R. I., annually witnesses the championship series extending over a period of several weeks. In the recent tourney decided there the mounts used represented a cost of from $50,000 to $100,000.

In the rotunda of the capitol at Washington there are eight great paintings, carefully designed and executed by the artists for the adornment of the nation's greatest building. Yet five of them are, either defective in technique, or in error as to natural or historical facts.

One of the best-known pictures is that in which Washington is shown resigning his commission to the continental congress, says the Philadelphia Record. There are two girls, almost life-size, standing in the foreground. They are very pretty girls; but one of them has three hands. One left hand rests on the shoulder of her companion, another left hand is round her companion's waist. Doubtless the artist, Trumbull, painted both hands to see which pose he preferred, and then forgot to paint out the superfluous hand.

Pawpaw's Many Uses.
The principal use of the pawpaw, says a writer in the Journal of Heredity, is to eat from the hand, but there are other uses that it can be put to. It makes splendid custard pie. There is no finer dessert than pawpaw eaten with cream and sugar. It is used to make beer the same as the persimmon by putting the fruit in a jar, washing it and putting water on it and letting it stand until fermented. It also answers to make pudding just the same as persimmon pudding is made. It is also said that brandy equal to peach brandy is made of pawpaws. Marmalade which is equal to that of peaches may be made of pawpaw. The custard may be spread on a board and dried like pumpkin leather.

Berry Pudding.
Beat to a cream one cupful of butter with two cupfuls of sugar, add four well-beaten eggs, one cupful of sour cream in which one teaspoonful of soda is dissolved, and four cupfuls of flour. Stir all together and add one quart of berries, dredged lightly with flour. Wrap a pudding cloth out in boiling water, dredge it with flour and pour the batter in, tying it loosely enough to allow the pudding to swell. Plunge this into boiling water and boil for three hours. This pudding can be steamed, but an hour longer should be allowed for the steaming. Serve with wine or vinegar sauce.

Office in Herald Building Telephone No. 148

In consequence of the great increase in expenses in publishing the East Coast Advocate, and the large amount of money we pay out in this town every month, we have decided to deal only with those who patronize this office.

There has been no intimation that any "leak" of any sort regarding affairs of state came from the newspaper offices during the recent campaign. No case has there ever been an insinuation that the editors have divulged, even to the most minute extent, a hint of what the president was to say in any message.

W. C. Temple Dead
A telephone message from Orlando this morning conveys the sad intelligence that W. C. Temple died at his home in Winter Park at two o'clock this morning.

The traveling public will be glad to learn that the road between Orlando and Sanford is now in better shape than it ever has been since the laying of brick was started several weeks ago.

TREE OBJECT OF VENERATION

Hindus Believe the Birth of Vishnu Took Place Beneath the Branches of the Peepul.

Throughout the East the sacred fig tree or peepul tree is held in great veneration by the Buddhists and Hindus.

It is a very handsome tree, growing often to a great height; an evergreen that flowers in April, and yields, on the bark being cut, a sourish milk containing india rubber.

It is one of this kind which is not only the oldest tree, but the oldest still worshipped in the world. It was planted about the year 250 B. C. in the ancient city of Amurathapooora, in Ceylon, and became known as the Bo tree.

HARMONY IN NATURE FIRST

Without It the World Would Be Uninhabitable and Happiness an Impossibility.

Have you ever thought that harmony is the first law of the universe? That until the music of the spheres voiced the harmony of the planets, there was no habitable world?

In the scroll of life we find that an all-wise Providence has planned our joys and sorrows, our hopes and fears, in harmony with a destiny that transcends human wisdom.

Hatchery of Fakes.

New York city, in addition to all its other varied activities, good and bad, is charged with being the greatest hatchery of fakes. The latest dodge is separate suckers and their similes in an outcome of the great war abroad.

Success in the Man Business.

In business it is not the individual producer who gets the biggest or the surest rewards; it is the organization builder. And any man, no matter how small his business, ought to recognize that fact.

His Last Case.

A lawyer who for many years had shocked a large number of his friends by his rather liberal views on religion recently died.

WELL CALLED EARTH STARS

Poetic Designation of the Aster on Which No One Seems to Be Able to Improve.

No one, it seems, has ever called an aster anything but an aster. Speculated scientist and tumbled peasant for once use the same language.

Away back when botanists were not thought of someone admitted the purple and white delights of autumn and called them stars. Aster is the Greek word for star.

Of asters there is an abounding variety. Commonly they are classed as purple or white; but this is absurdly superficial. Purple is no proper classification of the many shades of tinged blue which the frost-nipped fields and woods display.

ENGINEERING NOT HIS FORTE

How Robert Louis Stevenson Succeeded in Convincing His Father of That Fact.

Rev. Archibald Bisset, minister of Batho for over forty years, was Robert Louis Stevenson's closest friend. Mr. Bisset's intimacy with Stevenson belonged to his early "Edinburgh days," when he was trying to become an author despite paternal opposition.

Curious Error.

In a noted picture exhibited not so long ago the artist, well-known for his ability to "hold up the mirror to nature," nevertheless made a curious error which he would not have committed had he taken the trouble to acquaint himself with certain habits of the beast he portrayed in that picture.

Antients Labeled Food Products.

Labels were found among specimens of ancient Hebrew writing in the city of Samaria. They were employed as seals on wine and oil jars. They set forth the year in which the wine was deposited in the cellars and they stated the vineyard whence the wine came.

Beware of Hasty Speech.

Hasty speech is often erroneous and regrettable. To say the very least, it is frequently ungrammatical, slangy, incoherent and unintelligible. People express themselves in bad English oftentimes not because they do not know the laws of language, but because they do not think before they speak.

Cleveland people get a lot of enjoyment out of boasting about being the "Sixth city" in population, but the fans are not so jubilant about that rank in baseball.

DISAPPEARING AUTO TOP

It May Be Concealed Between Inner and Outer Walls of the Tonneau.

An automobile top which, when folded, can be wholly concealed in the tonneau, has been patented, according to Popular Mechanics. Its framework consists of two main bows, one removably fastened either side of the front seat and the other slidably fastened either side of the back seat.

Orlando, Fla., Dec., 1916. Supt. J. F. McKinnon, Orlando, Fla. Dear Friend: We, the teachers of Orange county wish to express, by some token, our deep feeling of gratitude toward you for your friendship and kindness toward us and for the efficiency of your administration as county superintendent of public instruction.

My Dear Friends and Co-Workers: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt through your committee Messrs. J. S. Kirtan, J. A. Osteen, and C. A. Nixon, of the beautiful gold watch which you are good enough to present to me as a token of your confidence and esteem.

These presents were given each independently of the other and the kindly thought is an honor to the teachers as well as to the county superintendent.

In addition to the gift of the watch Mr. McKinnon was entertained at a delightful course dinner at the Colonial Inn and at the picture show afterwards Friday evening by the members of the committee.

school officials the continuance of your loyalty, I am, with high regard, Most sincerely yours, J. F. McKinnon.

The other gift a beautiful silver mounted toilet set with initials, came from the teachers of Johnson Academy, the large and well managed and successful negro school located in Orlando.

We, the teachers of Johnson Academy present to you this little present as a token of the high esteem in which we hold you for the valuable service that you have impartially rendered to all the people under your administration, and we hope and pray that you may live a long, happy and useful life and that success will crown your every effort.

I am honored in the beautiful gift tendered me as a token of your esteem and in the valued note with which it was accompanied. To be appreciated by those we serve is a rich reward for service, and no higher compliment can be paid an official than to speak of his services as "valuable and impartially rendered."

Yours sincerely, J. F. McKinnon.

HOW TO MAKE REAL FRIEND

Be One—Friendship Cannot Be Half-Sided and Is Not Won by Standing Aloof.

Often you come across people who complain that they have but few friends. They will point to other persons who have many and wonder why such a distinction is made.

The matter is easy enough to explain, for, as some one has well said, the only way to have a friend is to be one.

For friendship cannot possibly be a one-sided matter. Just as it takes two to make a bargain or a quarrel, so does it take the same number to make a friendship.

No one can stand aloof from others, waiting to be sought, without experiencing keen disappointment. This because friendships are not made that way.

People do not look you over, as you stand off by yourself and say: "Now, there's some one I'd like to know. I'll make a point to draw him or her out and take all the pains possible to establish a friendship."

That's not the way it happens in real life, although some still imagine that it is. What really happens is this: Two persons meet, and gradually they find points of congeniality, gradually each does little favors for the other, gradually a feeling of affection takes root in each heart.

Neither one is thinking of what can be gained from the acquaintance; rather, each is thinking and planning to give instead of take. In other words, each is trying to be a friend unselfishly.

And, lo! it is the very thing which makes their friendship.

Bear that in mind if you happen to be among those who lament their scarcity of friends.

Services at the Baptist Temple Sunday were well attended which in the words of the pastor shows that the new year was begun with the proper spirit.

The Sunday school especially has a great cause to be proud for the attendance totaled 218, with 114 personally owned Bibles in attendance, which fact alone shows that the school is truly a Bible school.

The training school of last week, with Dr. William, Dr. Flake and Dr. Hyman as the faculty, did some great work, having seventy-eight pupils enrolled and delivered a great number of diplomas, seals and certificates.

This work was completed Friday night, and the roster of trained teachers for the school grew to great proportions as of over-night.

The pastor spoke Sunday night to an audience that well filled the auditorium. His subject was "Why You Are Broken."

The way in which this was handled was truly amazing, and the Doctor after citing the story of the prodigal showed that he knew how to handle the subject, and delivered a sermon that was received and will be remembered by the audience for days to come.

years had been a member of the Sanford Fire Department and was a most faithful and courageous member of the department. Taken sick several weeks ago with liver troubles he stuck to his post against the advice of his physicians and Chief Paxton and his death was probably due to his getting back to his duties before he was entirely well.

The funeral occurred last Saturday from the Baptist Temple, Dr. Hyman officiating. The following city officials acted as pall bearers, C. H. Dinger, John Adams, J. D. Davison, W. W. Abernathy, J. C. Woberts, G. P. Paxton.

The remains were taken to his old home in Lanark, Illinois for burial.

When you note a fine bank in the south and inquire about the builder invariably you will find that the Geo. Muller Bank Fixture Co. of Atlanta were the men behind the gun and if you happen to find genial George himself you will not be surprised that he received the contract for he talks as fast as his workmen work and that is going some.

The Muller Co. have been building banks and installing bank fixtures for many years and each year sees the list of satisfied customers getting larger and while it is impossible to predict that the bank roll of Mr. Muller is growing in proportion it is certain that he has the confidence and esteem of all those who have given him a contract and it is his special pleasure and privilege to satisfy his customers above everything.

Mr. Muller is no stranger to Sanford, having at various times been engaged in putting in new fixtures and remodeling banks, but his previous work was surpassed in the new Seminole County Bank recently finished here and taken over by the bank last Tuesday.

The work of taking an old building and making it over is the best test of the contractor's ability and the Seminole County Bank will be a lasting credit to the Geo. Muller Bank Fixture Co. It is undoubtedly one of the finest buildings in the state for the size and there is no larger bank that has any better appearance.

Not only does the army of workmen of the Muller Co. build the exterior of banks but they also place every fixture needed for the interior and when you contract with the Muller Co. for a new bank they give it to you entire and you are never worried about the details. They plan it and execute it and when finished it is certain to be the best that can be obtained for the money.

It will probably be years before Sanford has another bank and this is not written with the idea of giving the Muller Co. advertising locally but with the hope that the Seminole Bank can be used as an example of the Muller art, the Muller finish and the Muller complete plan and anyone in the south planning a new or rebuilt bank can be convinced of the effectiveness of Muller plans by investigating the Seminole County Bank in Sanford. It is a beauty in every respect and the officials are perfectly satisfied with it in every detail which is all that George Muller and his faithful assistants require.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Holly entertained Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield of Charlotte, North Carolina and Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Powers of this city at a dinner party last Friday night at Comfort Cottage.

For the Schoolgirl

Fashion has approved, year in and year out, the one-piece frock for the young girl, and this piece of good judgment is more than exonerated. It has resulted in cleverly designed dresses that conceal the angles of the miss who has arrived at the awkward age.

And now her elders are about to take advantage of the gracefulness of the one-piece frock, for the mode demands this style for everybody—young or old—whose figure will allow it.

The dress for a miss of twelve, or more years shown in the picture, is of serge and might be made of any other cloth and of about the same weight and texture. A dress of this kind is supported by a plain underbodice of muslin or silk which extends below the waistline and often supports an underpetticoat. This dress is laid in two single box plaits of the front and back that extend to the waistline.

ing is used, instead of shirring, in other models.

Small buttons, covered with the material of the frock, define the shirrings. Cloth-covered buttons, in a larger size, fasten the girde, which is slashed into three tabs at the end. A button-hole is worked in each tab. The girde is wide and does not confine the dress at the waistline, but breaks the length of the figure. It is a feature of many one-piece frocks, where its real use appears to be to make a place for silk embroidery or bead work and to provide a chic finish for the frock.

Slippers and Hose Match Frocks.

"Slippers and stockings should match the evening dresses," said a Parisian dressmaker to me the other day. Where the dresses are so short in places, or so transparent, a different colored stocking is worn the silhouette is wrong. No matter how lovely the dress may be, the effect is spoiled if this point is not covered.—New York Herald.

A TOAST

To The Seminole County Bank

To accomplish in the short span of three years what would deserve more than ordinary interest to have done in twenty-five years marks an occasion where it becomes an honor to be allowed to add one's personal testimonial to the importance of the event. Being a Home Institution, owned by Home Folks—its every stockholder, director and officer being a resident of Sanford—has made it possible to render a service and assistance to the farmers and people of the community that has done more to develop the prosperity of the territory where it is located than would be possible under any other circumstances.

That the sincere efforts displayed by all connected with the Institution are appreciated by the people of Seminole County is clearly evident in the astounding growth of deposits which have reached a point of $400,000.00 in the few years of its existence. No stronger mark of public approval could be given than this.

And so it has become necessary to move into larger quarters.

With the improved facilities thus made possible, the Seminole County Bank is in a position to further advance its helpfulness and service to its depositors. Just as in the past it has stood for the betterment of the community and the peoples' welfare, so in the future it will stand for the better things in Banking, for better service to its Customers, and for the better prosperity of the county, which are indeed the sure foundations of its own success.

A person can well feel proud to be a depositor in a Bank like this.

CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH; "HELL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

How the Boycott Works
When eggs are a dollar a dozen,
And meat is a quarter a bite,
And even the price of such fodder as rice
Is soaring away out of sight,
You'll find, if you just do without 'em,
There will be an over supply,
And there's never a doubt, if you only hold out,
That the price will come down by and by.

You can cut out the milk and the coffee,
The cake and the bread and the pie;
The pickles and jam and the ham and the lamb,
—You can swear that you simply won't buy,
And the men who are "boosting the prices"
Will not have a thing they can sell,
And inside of a year there'll be nothing to fear
From the terrible H. C. of L.

Of course, you will starve in the meantime;
Inside of a fortnight or two
The willow will wave over your neat little grave,
And prices won't interest you,
No doubt there is also a boycott
By which you could safeguard your pelf
By saving a lot on your burial plot—
But—figure that out for yourself!
—James J. Montgomery.

I am too old to make New Year's resolutions if I made any they would be something like this:

I will try to be a lifter, not a leaver; an encourager, never a discourager; lighten and share other people's sorrows; start songs and rejoicings, not complainings; make the world a little sweeter place to live in; keep in mind the will of God; make sunshine in life's shady places; see the bright side of everything; be clean in mind and body; working patiently, industriously, honestly for a living; earning a spotless character; so that I can look up, not down, and meet death's coming with a fearless smile; endeavor not to run from my weaknesses; but bravely fight them out; be glad of life; have hope and faith in everybody; try to live without hate, jealousy, temper and envy; avoid speaking critically and bitterly; repeating only the good I hear; love because I must, give because I cannot help; doing for the joy of it; cheerful in disappointments and charitable toward the erring and fallen; protect helpless animals, do as I would be done by; smile more and frown less.

How often do I hear people say that newspaper is not worth the price asked for it. Of course there are good papers and poor ones but all of them are as good as the patronage warrants and a newspaper can be a good barometer of the community in which it is published. But who in the other walks of life can say what a newspaper is worth. Who, unless he is in the newspaper business knows how much it costs to make any kind of newspaper. The country merchant knows that he is constantly assailed by the mail order houses with cheaper prices and he is on the defensive because some big house puts out glittering advertisements and takes the cash money out of a community because the country merchant does not carry everything that a mail order carries. In the same ratio the country newspaper does not carry as many pages as the city daily but every page is full of local news that the city daily does not have and the local paper is strictly a local paper and of untold value to the community in which it is published. My old friend, Thornydyke of the Palm Beach Post sums it up about right in the following:

Woman called me up by phone yesterday and told me that the Post wasn't worth fifteen cents a week. Bless you, Annie, I know it. I know a necktie isn't worth a dollar; I know a pound of butter isn't worth 53c; I know a dozen eggs are not worth 75c; I know gasoline isn't worth 25c the gallon; I know that cleaning and pressing a pair of trousers isn't worth four bits; I know a pound of bacon isn't worth 40c; but, Annie, that's what we have to pay. Assum, 'Taint my fault; I didn't start your darned old war. And, listen, the only three things that haven't had a hoist in price, so far as I am informed are beer, postage stamps and cigars!

I see by the papers that Gov. Catts has appointed a young man from Jacksonville to be his naval attache. Now what is the summer breeze is a "naval attache" and what does Gov. want one for? Does this young man look after the naval oranges or the Florida navy?

"The Slouch" in the Orlando Sentinel has the following to say about our picture of Forrest Lake: "We can't say much for the picture of Forrest Lake which Boy Holly printed on the front page of this week's Sanford Herald. Forrest is a fine looking chap but the picture doesn't do him justice. We thought it was the picture of somebody else with Forrest's name underneath."

You do not appreciate real art, brother. That is a pen and ink drawing by Ben Guthrie, a student of Whistler and Sargent and Cohen and Furchgott. I would like to see a picture of Forrest Lake drawn by an Orlando man.

I wish to commend the banks of Seminole county for their remarkable showing in their last statements. The figures show that our financial institutions are growing every month and enjoy the confidence of the county. With the four splendid banks, the Bank of Oviedo, The First National Bank of Sanford, the People's Bank of Sanford and the Seminole County Bank of Sanford, the people of Seminole county do not need to go out of the county to do any business with other banks. Our own banks will rank with the banks of any county and Seminole county people should have pride enough to confine their financial transactions with Seminole county banks.

If you see a young man of pleasing appearance rustling around the city very much like a maggot on a hot skillet you can mark it down that it is one, Howard Lyman, manager of the Seminole County Fair Association. That he is going to pull off one of the best fairs that we have ever had is already a foregone conclusion. He is just bound to make it a success because he is so full of enthusiasm that he radiates just like a battery gives off a spark. Mr. Lyman is a live wire all right and I am glad to have him here for a few months in our midst. He is so full of life and energy that he wakes up the community and imparts life and vigor to the entire community. I understand that the Lyman Twins are among the most successful growers and farmers in the county and when they talk about crops they talk about what they have accomplished in the hills of Seminole county. Go to it, Lyman, we are with you.

Did you see Forrest Lake's new bonnet? It is one of the finest Steenson's that is made, in fact was made to order for him and has his name on the sweat band in gold letters. Some of his admiring friends gave it to him, so Mr. Lake says, but honestly I believe he won it on Wilson.

Arthur Yewell has a good idea that he and Postmaster Elder were unfolding the other day and that is to purchase enough Bermuda grass seed to seed the entire lake front now before the weeds get a start. The city council should certainly take hold of this idea and when spring comes, gentle Annie, we would have the prettiest lake front in Florida and Sam Crane could have his ball park for the "big show" winter quarters. O, for some ginger to inject a shot in the arm of some of these dead ones.

This hotel subject is a most tiresome one but really, Pauline, what do you think of a city with the advantages of Sanford that cannot get a move on themselves and build that new hotel. With that new Yacht Club and the St. Johns river the Inland Waterway through Florida a tourist hotel here would not only be the best paying proposition in Florida but it would make Sanford the largest city in this part of Florida. When will we wake up to our opportunities?

I would like to call to the attention of M. F. Robinson, B. O. Chase, F. P. Forster, Forrest Lake, T. J. Miller, Alex Vaughn, E. A. Douglas, F. L. Woodruff, L. P. McCuller, Arthur Yowell, L. R. Phillips, J. K. Mettlinger, J. N. Whitner, Thos. Emmett Wilson, G. W. Spencer and many others, that a golf links would add twenty years to their lives and with just a small amount of money the links could be started in Sanford and it would not only furnish great amusement to the home people and be of untold benefit but it would attract the millionaires here every winter season and many of them would actually come down in the summer to play. Now, it is nothing to me if the golf links are never made here. I can live without them but the people here in Sanford who really need the exercise and have the money to build the links are standing in their own light when they overlook this good bet. Look around you and see the different towns that have golf links and see the many really worth while people that the golf links attract and then figure if Sanford can afford to be without them. I am talking right at you, gentlemen.

Some people persist in believing that "chance is the important factor in success or failure. That it is a factor that must be reckoned with is hard to deny. But that it's very far from being the main factor, everybody who has ever succeeded, whether in attaining health or happiness, wealth or power agrees. In Chicago the life story of the general manager of a great industrial concern has recently come to light. He began as a poor boy with a very humble job low down in the scale of the business which he now heads. It took him thirty years to reach the top but he did it. When asked whether there are any "chances" today for the poor and friendless boy this man gave the following very complete and comprehensive reply: "Rise early, work late, play hard, be merry, don't worry, and be good." It's a recipe that leaves little to chance, but spells hope and success for anyone with ambition and determination."

Farmers and Fruit Growers

Items of Interest for the Man Behind the Plow

Farm Tractors May Prove Economical in Florida

If you have a large farm under intensive cultivation a farm tractor may prove an economical investment says F. M. Rast, assistant professor of agricultural engineering to the University of Florida college of agriculture. Farm land is constantly increasing in value and it can be farmed profitably only by handling it efficiently. Between the years of 1900 and 1910, the average value of farm land nearly doubled, due to an increase in population which increased the demand for food at increasing prices. There was also a general cry of back to the land, which helped raise the price of farm land.

The farmer who is tending many acres has felt the increasing cost of labor. The development of new industries has had much to do with the increase through its demand for labor at higher prices than that paid on the farms. The automobile industry is a good example. This has been developed in the last fifteen years and employs more than a half million men. Figures from the state of Illinois shows an increase in the amount paid to labor in 1909 of 64 per cent over that paid as an average for the preceding ten years. Michigan shows an increase of 31 per cent and Ohio shows an increase of 77 per cent.

These two factors are causing many of the larger farmers to investigate the possibility of using a tractor in more efficient farming without having to increase the amount of human labor employed.

Plant Spring Vegetables in January

Every household in Florida should have a home garden. If properly planned and planted, fruits and vegetables may be grown almost the year round. Spring, in central and northern Florida begins in February or early March, while in southern Florida it is springtime all of the winter. In north and central Florida it is now time to start seedbeds of tomatoes, eggplant and peppers to be transplanted later into the open. Irish potatoes, English peas, radishes and turnips may also be planted at this time. In from four to six weeks plant beans, cucumbers, squashes, cantalopes and water melons.

Gardens should be made long and narrow, if possible," says W. L. Floyd, assistant dean of the college of agriculture, University of Florida, "so that horse drawn implements may be used for cultivating. The rows should be planted from 2 1/2 to 3 feet apart. In getting the soil ready to receive the plantings, an abundance of baryard manure should be used, not for its fertilizing value alone, but because it adds humus, making the light sand soil more able to hold moisture and also stimulating the bacterial collection of the soil. Some commercial fertilizer should also be used, generally at the rate of one to two thousand pounds per acre."

Should Farmers Try to Mix Fertilizers?

"Is it more profitable for a farmer to mix fertilizers than to buy them ready mixed?" That is the question which was discussed at a recent meeting of the agricultural conference at the University of Florida.

F. M. Rast, instructor in soils and fertilizers, summarized arguments both for and against the practice. While the average farmer is not a chemist with expert knowledge of fertilizers, Mr. Rast said many farmers had mixed fertilizers satisfactorily at a much lower cost than the ready mixed kinds. The trouble in some states is that the companies charge an exorbitant price for the unmixed materials to discourage home mixing.

E. S. Pace, district demonstration agent told of the methods used in home mixing and the tools required. He said the actual mixing was a simple operation.

S. S. Walker, associate chemist to the Experiment Station discussed the various materials to be used in preparing fertilizers, naming both the good and the bad ones.

The general opinion of the conference was that home mixing is feasible and economical, although the difficulties of the process were recognized.

Community Breeding Methods Save Expense

One of the great problems in livestock work is to secure the best sires at moderate expense. Farmers who only had a few head of live stock do not feel justified in purchasing a high priced bull or boar for their own use. Cooperative or community ownership of high class breeding animals will solve this problem in every neighborhood where farmers live close together, says C. L. Willoughby, professor of animal husbandry in the university of Florida college of agriculture.

By forming a local association or club for the purchase of good sires, the cost will be very small to each farmer participating in the work. One good sire can be used by all members within a radius of three to five miles. The sire may be kept at the farm of one member during certain months, and at another location during other months of the year. In the case of valuable bulls, the sire could be used two years in one part of the county and then exchanged for another good bull of different blood lines in another part of the county or in a different section of the state. This method would utilize the entire life time of a good animal for productive breeding purposes. The average breeder is inclined to dispose of a good sire after two or three years of use under the impression that he is too old, when as a matter of fact such animals are very frequently in their prime and in the very best condition for breeding purposes. The method of change as suggested would avoid too much inbreeding.

Another great advantage of community breeding is found in the fact that buyers appreciate fine animals of uniform color and size so that they can easily make up a carload of one kind. Packers will pay a better price for a car load of beef cattle or hogs that are uniform in size and color markings than for a load of mixed animals. Purchases of this kind can be easily made in localities where cooperative breeding has been practiced.

Seed Corn is Hard to Get

Farmers who have experienced difficulty in getting good seed corn in the past five years will have more trouble this year if they have not already bought their seed. The high price paid for corn is encouraging a larger planting this year and the high prices paid for feed stuffs has induced many corn growers to sell off their corn to a point where they will have none to spare for seed.

The very best seed is not too good for the Florida farmer, says the University of Florida extension division, but this kind can be had only by those who buy it early. It has been demonstrated that the farmer who waits until the last minute and buys any seed available and plants it without giving it a previous germination test, is gambling on his season's labor. A half stand of corn will not pay under the best growing conditions.

In Honor of Mrs. Hayes
A very lovely afternoon party was given on Saturday in honor of Mrs. T. DeWitt Hayes with Mrs. M. Miharik and Miss Laura Chittenden joint hostesses at the home of the former. In the reception hall where guests were received by the hostesses and the guest of honor the decorations in green and red were very attractive, poinsettias giving a brilliant touch of color to the pretty arrangements. White star jessamine vines entwined the stairway and were massed on the mantel. A big bowl of poinsettias was placed at the foot of the stairs and vases of the same flower adorned mantel and tables. In all of the rooms the overhead decorations were vines and the lights were shaded. The color note was changed to pink and white roses in the parlor, while scarlet geraniums in baskets filled with asparagus fern were used in the dining room. At the refreshment hour a chicken salad course was served. Mrs. Frank Adams, Miss Claire Walker and Miss Agnes Burner assisting. Two charming vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Claude Herndon, who sang "Because," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Adams; and "It was the Time of Lillies," to the accompaniment of Miss Claire Walker was sung by Mrs. T. A. Newton. A most amusing drawing contest concluded the afternoon's pleasures. Mrs. F. E. Steim Meyer, the best guesser for the animals drawn and to be guessed and it was really an art only who could guess reliably, was presented the prize. Mrs. Hayes was given a set of cut glass salts. Others present were Mrs. A. D. Zachary, Mrs. Wm. McKinnon, Mrs. J. D. Roberts, Mrs. F. Rines, Mrs. A. B. Duncanson, Mrs. Warren Tyler, Mrs. C. R. Walter, Mrs. Walker, Sr., Mrs. E. D. Chittenden, Mrs. Sam Bradford, Mrs. R. A. Terheun, Misses Bessie Zachary, Nellie Elder, Laura Lee, Margaret Roberts.

kets are requested to write plainly their names on the backs of their tickets and exchange them at Phillips for reserved seats. The tickets will be returned to the owners after the concert has been given. This attraction is said to be one of the best that has been brought to Sanford and includes six splendid soloists. A rare treat is in store for music lovers.

Tolar-McIntyre
A cordial interest surrounds the marriage of Dr. Julian Nolley Tolar to Miss Lillie May McIntyre which took place at Lakeland Saturday afternoon, January 6, the ceremony being performed by the Presbyterian minister. The bride wore a stylish traveling suit of mouse colored broadcloth finished with moleskin collar and cuffs. With this was worn a chic little hat of black velvet.

Dr. and Mrs. Tolar passed through Sanford on the afternoon train en route to Dowling Park where they will reside.
Dr. Tolar is a son of Mrs. Mamie C. Tolar of this city and is a Sanford boy, having lived here all his life.

Priscillas Entertained
Mrs. Tom Davis delightfully entertained the Priscillas on Thursday afternoon with the first meeting of the New Year, which included a number of guests. The Priscillas are famous for their needlework and as hostesses and on this occasion a charming simplicity prevailed that made it one of the most delightful of meetings. Leaving Sanford
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. DeWitt Hayes are regretting their departure on Friday for Braidentown where they will make their future home. The change is a promotion for Mr. Hayes who has been appointed manager for the Southern Utilities Co., for Braidentown, Manatee and Palmetto, and he is receiving the congratulations of his friends both here and elsewhere, but both he and his charming wife will be missed in Sanford where they have been closely identified with business and religious life of the town. Mrs. Hayes, whose charming and compelling personality have won for her a wide circle of friends has been an active member of the Daughters of Wesley for some time, in fact, the class president. She has been actively engaged as one of the librarians of the Sanford public library and is also a member of the Music Department of the Woman's Club. In these efficient, earnest and capable young people Sanford loses a valuable asset while Braidentown is fortunate to gain them.

In honor of her sister, Mrs. H. B. Clark of New Haven, Conn., who is spending the winter in Sanford, a series of charming card parties are being given by Mrs. G. I. Loucks, the first of which took place Saturday afternoon. The attractive home was lovely with red gladioli and roses against a pretty background of ferns. Mrs. Loucks was assisted by Mrs. A. H.
