Longwood fails to oust Daly

By Joe DeSantis Staff Writer

LONGWOOD- They came to hang Jim Daly Monday night in Longwood.

Problem was, nobody brought a rope. Following a two-hour public hearing, a resolution seeking to oust Daly from all city boards and committees died on the floor for lack of a motion to bring it to a vote. The special session was the result of a verbal flap Daly had with two members of the city's Charter Review

After two hours of hearings, matter dies for lack of motion

Committee following the adjournment of a meeting April 28.

"I feel like I was able to tell my side of the story," Daly said following the hearing. "They couldn't even get a motion, This has been a terrible waste of the city's time and the taxpayer's money.

It's been expensive for me to defend myself for what amounts to a tempest in a tea pot."

The resolution to investigate Daly for possible malfeasance under Florida statutes governing the behavior of municipal officials was brought forward following letters of complaint filed with Longwood commissioners by fellow Charter Review committee members Lynette Dennis and Butch Bundy, Those letters accused Daly of insulting Dennis following adjournment of the April 28 meeting.

In a setting that more resembled a court room scene from Matlock than a public hearing, Daly's attorney

"Country" Joe Rosier pieced together a sequential defense that included the tes-See Daly, Page 4A

Sloan: 'I can't wait for Saturday'

By Russ White Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - Rudy Sloan of Lake Mary sometimes identifies himself with Doc Graham, the character Burt Lancaster played in "Field of Dreams' - a doctor who yearned to be a baseball player.

"Sure," Sloan said, "I'd have liked to pitch a big-league game."

When Sloan saw "Field of Dreams," he dreamed again for the chance to appear in a bigleague game - to face a hitter or two.

Sloan, 78, was one of St. Lucie County's best school-boy athletes - a standout football player and baseball pitcher. He pitched two no-hitters at Fort Pierce High School and won a scholarship to Wake Forest University.

For this, Sloan will be inducted Saturday into the St. Lucie County Sports Hall of Fame. Sloan, along with his wife, June and other family members will attend the HOF banquet at Indian River Community College.

Although his baseball career ended when he injured his arm and then spent three years as an Army paratrooper in World War II, Sloan will always be remembered for his pitching skills. "Playing ball wasn't what the Lord had planned for me," Sloan said. "The Cleveland Indians had a scout who liked me and helped me get the scholarship to Wake Forest."

Sloan said he injured his arm at school, however, and was asked to give back his scholarship. He came to Sanford to become a fireman and locomotive engineer for the CSX Railroad. He worked for the railroad for 41 years, retiring in 1983.

The railroad work was classified as an essential wartime job but Sloan said he enlisted in the Army and became a paratrooper. He made seven combat jumps with the 101st Airborne before mustering out of the See Sloan, Page 3A

Oviedo discusses traffic congestion, parking concerns

Staff Writer

OVIEDO - Vehicle issues dominated the Oviedo City Council meeting as citizens expressed concern about traffic along Division Street and counparking restirctions for large trucks.

As a result of the citizens concerns, the council agreed to form a citizens advisory committee to help revise plans to route traffic along Division Street.

Residents continue to call for revisions to city plans that would ease congestion on State Road 434 by routing traffic along Division Street, potentially disturbing quiet neighbor-

Seminole Ford, AutoNation merge

Staff Writer

SANFORD - AutoNation, Inc. announced Monday that it is relocating Seminole Ford from its current location on Orlando Drive to the site of the Company's Sanford AutoNation USA megastore on Wayside Drive, near Interstate-4.

The Company said that it will integrate the AutoNation USA megastore within the Seminole Ford dealership, adopting the name of Seminole Ford and AutoNation USA Company. Seminole Ford will open for integrated megastore in early July.

In the meantime, AutoNation

USA in Sanford remains open despite on-going construction to prepare for Seminole Ford. Seminole Ford will sell new Ford automobiles and light trucks and a variety of used vehicles, under a "one-price, no-haggle" sales approach. Seminole Ford will also offer other AutoNation USA brand attributes made available previously only on used vehicles through the AutoNation USA megastore.

Getting a better view at City Hall

Sanford City Hall, that mighty fortress overlooking Lake Monroe, remains the property of the city and not of Seminole County.

The county commission chose last week to build a new Criminal Justice Center at Five Points rather than buying Sanford

City Hall for $5.6 million in order to create additional court space. There once was a zoo where City Hall is now located.

Monkeys frequently used to chase after visitors where the city's elected officials presently hold sway — some say there isn't that much difference between the two land usages. Those who work for the city aren't upset that the county won't White be buying their workplace. A few didn't know it was for sale. When's the last time any city sold City Hall? They're not on the market every day.

Sanford City Hall is a nice place to work but a puzzling place to visit. "The building isn't user friendly," Mayor Larry Dale said Monday. "This is something we have to work at. Definitely make some changes." There is no first-floor reception desk or guard station. Those coming to Sanford City Hall to pay their utility bills or obtain licenses fend for themselves. Other than the park and recreation offices, the majority of business is conducted on the second floor.

There's an elevator at the east end of City Hall. It slowly climbs from the first floor to the second — perhaps the slowest elevator in a county where there aren't very many elevators. Most of the city's staff use the stairs rather than mess with the elevator.

Guida McGee, the city's customer services director, says more than 200 people visit City Hall on a daily basis - more than a 1,000 each week. Many say they would prefer to be able to pay their bills and obtain licenses on the first floor. One day this may happen.

Recently, the city spent $90,000 to install a more practical air-conditioning system at City Hall. Diane Crews, the mayor's aide, said that everyone is much more comfortable doing their jobs. "We don't bring blankets here anymore," she said. "It used to get really cold." It wasn't until Dale was elected mayor, that the mayor and the city commissioners had an office at City Hall. A storage area at the west end of the second floor was converted into a small work area. Dale is there

Being that the county isn't buying City Hall, Dale said there are going to be more improvements. That the roof needs fixing is certainly understandable. Florida's weather takes a toll. And the city politicians have raised the roof on occasion.

Commissioner Brady Lessard said he believes the city should find space for the parks and recreation staff at a city park. That would allow space for the city residents to pay bills and get their licenses on the first floor. "We can be much more efficient and now is the time to do it." Lessard Lessard also said he wasn't convinced the county commission's courthouse plan is final. Could be they would come back to talk once again about buying City Hall.

"We didn't ask the county to buy City Hall in the first place," Dale said. "The county came to us. We were willing to be a good neighbor, that's all. I told them we weren't going to give away City Hall. The county would have to pay what it was worth. They decided against it."

Dale also said that Sanford City Hall was the envy of all the other city's in the county. "The view here is the best view anywhere. This is one great location."

> Russ White's culumn appears in the Seminole Herald Monday through Saturday.

Sloan .

Sloan's football achievements matched those in baseball. He played offensive and defensive end at Fort Pierce High School.

"We had a fellow who could throw the football, and I could catch what he threw," Sloan said. "Of course, we played offense and defense in those days."

Sloan said he toyed with the idea of playing football at Wake Forest when his arm injury halted his pitching career. He said he went to a practice, and heard the football coach verbally assault a player.

'That was all I needed to forget football," said Sloan, not his field of dreams by any means.

His Hall of Fame honor, he said, "is a great thrill ... I can't wait for Saturday. I'm really pleased they remembered me."

timony of several witnesses. Rosier called fellow committee members Craig Van Hooven, Bundy, Jo Anne Rebello, and attempted to call Dennis to the stand. She was not present for the public hearing. The substance of their collective testimony indicated that Daly and Dennis, long-time political foes, indeed engaged in a heated exchange after their meeting was adjourned. Recollections of the witnesses bordered on a "he said-she said" scenario.

The essence of their rhetorical battle was that Dennis labeled Daly the meanest, ugliest, nastiest person she had ever met, and that Daly responded by thanking Dennis for a year-long opportunity to work with, as Rosier paraphrased it, the "obese posterior end of a female dog.

Bundy testified that he came to Dennis' defense by asking Daly to pick on someone his own size to which Daly responded, "would you be that person?"

Rebello told commissioners at that point she scolded the two men for acting like school boys on the play ground and to "take it outside." Daly and Bundy then left the commission chambers. Once outside, Bundy testified Daly encouraged him to leave city property.

Daly testified that he apologized to Bundy, shook his hand, and said his remarks to Dennis were unfortunate. Bundy claimed no such apology or handshake took place.

During one period of cross examination by commissioner Rusty Miles, Daly testified that Dennis had been difficult to deal with during the year-long committee review, missed several meetings herself, had to be called to order by Daly on numerous occasions and stormed out of several other meetings when things didn't go

"So in essence under state statutes her behavior could also be grounds for malfeasance,?" asked Miles.

"Yes," responded Daly. At several points during the hearing, Longwood mayor Paul Lovestrand attempted to introduce other instances of Daly's behavior that he contended painted a pattern of verbal abuse by Daly. Each time he did, city attorney Richard Taylor agreed with Rosier that those attempts were. "irrelevant, inconsequential, and outside the realm of this hearing."

As part of Daly's defense, Rosier also cited Daly's long service to Longwood as chair or committee member of a number of boards, the fact that Longwood recently acknowledged Daly's contributions with certificates of merit, and cited 1934 Florida case law that basically supported the position that municipal officials or officers are afforded first amendment rights of free speech outside their official city duties. Rosier repeatedly clarified for the commissioners that whatever argument transpired occurred following the official adjournment of the meeting in question.

Rosier also challenged the voting rights of commissioner Steve Miller who arrived at the public hearing an hour into the proceedings, suggesting that since Miller did not hear the testimony in its entirety, he should not be allowed to cast a vote on Daly's fate. Miller countered that he wanted the opportunity for discussion and comment, but agreed with Rosier on his voting capacity. Commissioner Dan Anderson was absent during the public hearing which reduced the number of voting commissioners to three.

With two hours of testimony in place, mayor Lovestrand called for a 10 minute break.

When the public hearing reconvened, Lovestrand asked for a motion on the resolution twice and was met by silence from the remainder of the board.

"Resolution dies for lack of a motion," said Lovestrand as his gavel ended the latest chapter in decades of in-house squabbles between Longwood city offi-

"We set the record straight, they couldn't get a vote," commented Rosier after the vic-

"Mr. Daly will continue to serve Longwood admirably. Now we'll order official transcripts of the hearing, analyze them completely and determine if there is any possibility of further litigation."

"The fact that there was no motion seems like the issue is over with at this point," said Lovestrand afterward. "Mr. Daly's action were brought out during the hearing and I think they were deplorable."

essary cut-through traffic." The council directed staff to examine the possible scope and size of a citizens transportation committee. Although council members want to enable neighborhoods throughout the city to have representation, the number of representatives from each area of the city could be limited.

"We could have a lot of angry people if they sign up for the committee and find out they are inelligiable because of geographic limitations," councilman Bob Dallari said.

City and county officials are looking to establish a more effective road network in the northwest part of the city. The council has approved a priority list for areas to divert traffic, and will receive $4.9 in funding from the county in October, 2001.

The council is also discussing a code that would allow police to enforce restrictions on large vehicles that park in streets within residential neighborhoods. The ordinance is primarily aimed at commercial vehicles, but Council members are concerned about how the ordinance would be enforced.

A work session to discuss to large vehicle ordinance was held following the regular session.

"This would not be the first time an ordinance has been passed that is not enforceable," councilman Gary Gotwalt said during Monday's work sessio.

One concern is whether a 10day waiting period should be given before a citation is enforced to allow a resident to respond. The council may also allow commercial signs on smaller vehicles parked in neighborhood streets.

Commercial vehicles larger than a single unit truck parked in the street would be subject to the ordinance, as would some large non-commercial vehicles. Vehicles making deliveries are exempt. It is hoped that if the ordinance is passed, more residents will park large vehicles in the driveway or garage.

"I call this the clean-up your garage ordinance," councilman George Veile sald.

The proposed ordinance has drawn both praise and fire from residents in past council meetings, although the residents did not address the ordinance on Monday. Most residents at the meeting had gone home before the work session was held.

Switching Credit Cards

Enticing low introductory rates are offered to us daily by credit card companies to get us to transfer our balance on a current card to them. Before you switch consider the following questions, because the offer may not be quite as good as it first appears:

How long does the introductory rate last? What is the card's annual percentage rate after the teaser rate expires? Does the teaser rate apply to transferred balances or new purchases or both? Does the card have an annual fee?

What about late fees and over the limit fees? Will you lose your low rate if you make one late payment? Is there a fee for transferring the balance?

If you decide the new credit card company has a better deal than your current card and decide to switch, be sure to cancel the old card after you pay off the balance and request that the credit company send you a statement with a $0 bal-

When Credit Card Companies Merge

More than 20 million Americans held credit cards that were taken over by new issuers as companies merged last year. The new issuers can change rates and fees as long as they give customers at least 15 days notice before the new rates take effect.

What can a consumer do? It's important to pay attention to any mailings form issuers for changes in terms and conditions, particularly the grace period and fee levels, and interest rates. By using the card, the customer accepts the terms whether he/she has read them or not. Late fees are increasing, grace periods are being shortened from 25 days to 20 and over the limit fees are going up to $29 on many credit cards. The best thing you can do is read your mail. Don't throw anything away from any credit card issuer that you currently have a relationship with.

Southern Pine Beetles pose serious problems

Southern pine beetles are becoming a serious problem for ornamental pines in urban landscapes in central Florida. They usually prefer sick or weak trees but they may also attack healthy pine on established lawns. Therefore, it is important that homeowners learn to recognize and control the symptoms of pine boring beetles, specially the southern pine beetle.

The insect: Adult southern pine beetles are about 1/8 inch long ,and reddish brown to solid black. All four life stages, egg, larva, pupa, and adult occur in the inner bark of the pine tree. Eggs look like small white dots. Larvae are white, legless, and crescent shaped, with glossy reddish-brown heads. Pupa are also white but resembling the adult beetle in shape. Beetles complete their life cycle in about a month and can produce three to eight generations per Killing trees: Southern pine beetles can kill a pine tree in a few days. Thousands of winged adults can attack a single tree, bore through the bark, and hollow out the wood to produce egg galleries. The females lay eggs in niches beside the galleries and in about a week, the larvae hatch and start chewing their way through the cambium around the tree. Inis behavior of feeding results in girdling the one by cutting off the normal flow of moisture and nutrients throughout the tree vascular system. The destruction of the cambium and interruption of the vascular system will eventually result in the death of the pine tree. A blue-satin fungus, associated with the attacking pine beetles also helps in the destruction of the pine wood. Symptoms: First signs of southern pine beetles attacks are characterized by popcorn-size lumps of pitch called "pitch tubes", which occurs at heights up to 60 feet. The pitch tubes of another type of boring beetle called the black turpentine beetle are larger, about the size of a fifty cent coin, located at the foot of the tree. During dry weather, pitch tubes do not appear; instead, a fine red sawdust will be formed in bark crevices and at the base of the pine tree. In later stages of beetle attacks, small s-shaped feeding cuts are formed on the inside of the bark. The final sign of attack is a fade in needle color form green to yellow, red and brown, At this stage, the tree is dead. Susceptible trees: Some species of pines are apparently more susceptible to beetle attacks than other species of pines. Loblolly, short leaf, and Virginia pine seem to be preferred by beetles. But, during a beetle population explosion, the insects will take any species of pine available. Old, diseased, or weakened pines, are specially targeted by the beetles. Such trees have limited supplies of pitch, which is the wood-boring insects. Trees can become susceptible by old age, drought prolonged floods, hard freezes, fire, and lightingn stirkes. Also, diseases such as little leaf and foot rot diseases, can increase the susceptibility of a tree to beetle's attacks. Landscaping practices like bulldozing and road grading may damage the tree roots and attacks. Landscaping practices like bulldozing and road grading may damage the tree roots and therefore make the trees more vulnerable to insect invasions. Remove promptly infested trees.

Control: The best way to control the damage caused by pine boring beetles by preventing them from beckoning attracted to you pine trees. This can be done by keeping the trees healthy. Pine trees in the landscape should be watered and fertilized to keep them healthy. As a general rule, two pounds of fertilizer such as 10-10-10 for each inch of tree diameter per year should be used to fertilize your trees. For young trees of less than 6 inches in diameter, use only one pound of fertilizer per inch of the tree trunk diameter. The use of insecticides is sometimes suggested but they are not necessarily a solution to the problem. The insecticide "lindane" has proven to be effective to preing beetles but needs to be used with caution. Read and follow the instructions on the tree's natural defense against Visiting grandparents should leave their pets at home

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Confused in Richmond." I disagree with your reply. There should be no question as \(\nu\) which is more important, your fam. y or your pets.

My wife and I retired from the Northwest to Nevada several years ago. We have children and grandkids still in the Northwest. We visit them at least once a year, and yes, we have a dog. We think the world of our dog, and she's our constant companion, but there is no way we would even consider taking her with us when we go to visit the kids. There is also no way we would ever allow anyone to share with us the cost of a motel just because we feel we should have our pet with us. When we visit the kids, we hire a house sitter to watch the house as well as our dog. Perhaps the reason the dog in question is having "accidents" is because it is stressed from being away from familiar surroundings. It's possible that "Confused in Richmond's" parents don't realize they are doing more harm than good to their pets.

"Confused" should talk to her parents and tell them she loves to have them visit, but the pets are last to much of a problem. If her just too much of a problem. If her parents are like a lot of us grand-parents, she'll find out that those visits with the kids and grandkids are far more important than our pets. If her parents continue to insist that the pets are more important. I feel sorry for them, and they are the losers.

HAPPY IN NEVADA

DEAR HAPPY: If "Confused's" parents were as considerate and reasonable as you, she wouldn't have needed to write to me. I suggested a motel that caters to pets as a possible solution because I was unsure whether her parents would con-sent to be spart from their pets. However, your comment that the animals might be having "accidents" because they were in unfamiliar surroundings is worth considering — and your suggestion of a pet sitter is a good one. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: "Confused in Richmond" wrote that her parents insist on bringing their cat and dog when they come to visit because they don't want to put their "babies" in a kennel. I am a 78-year-old senior citizen and I supplement my income by pet sitting. I stay in the pet owners' home while they are gone. The demand is so great I often have to refer jobs to other senior citizens who also do this kind of work. It's a great job. The pets are happy to be in their own home. The owners are happy, the people they visit are happy and I am happy.

Those parents should check with their church, senior center and/or other pet owners to find a reliable

DEAR LOVES DOGS AND CATS: If you are happy, the owners are happy and the peta are happy — then I am happy for all of you, and I won't pick a bone with you.

However, some people are uneasy at the thought of a "stranger" staying in their house. For pet owners who suf-fer from separation anxiety, a motel that caters to pets is the ideal situation.

Among the new features that will be incorporated into the dealership are interactive kiosks to study possible purchases, expanded service and parts area, and child play areas.

A second phase of construction will feature an additional showroom to house pre-owned vehicles, said Debbie Ball, manager of communications for AutoNation USA.

"It's an on-going process," Ball said. "You'll see it progress over the next couple of months."

This is the third integration of an AutoNation USA megastore and a franchised automotive dealership. A Nissan franchise was integrated in April with the AutoNation USA megastore in Perrine, becoming AutoNation Nissan.

The second integration took place when AutoNation USA in Douglasville, Ga. integrated with a Chrysler franchise to become AutoNation Chrysler Plymouth Jeep of Douglasville. The Company said the integration of new vehicle dealerships will occur at additional AutoNation USA megastore locations nationwide in the future.

"We're pleased with this opportunity to market and sell the entire line up of cars and trucks at the Sanford megastore location, said Michael F. Maroone, President of the AutoNation Retail Group. "Now, consumers in the Orlando area will be able to choose from new Ford vehicles and a wide selection of used vehicles while enjoying the same AutoNation USA brand attributes that have made our Sanford store such a success with buyers of used vehicles."

AutoNation, Inc. has more than 380 automotive franchises in 20 states and 45 AutoNation USA used vehicle megastores in 13 states. The Company owns Alamo Rent-A-Car, Inc., National Car Rental Systems, Inc., and CarTemps USA.

"When we changed the name of our company to 'AutoNation, Inc.' in April, we did so because the name fits better with our long-term goal of building a national automotive retail brand," Maroone said. "We are selling new and used vehicles and underscoring the brand attributes of trust, innovation, value and service."

GOTT

Is leaky valve cause for concern?

By Peter H. Gett, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Because of DEAR DR. GOTT: Because of hypertension, I recently had a cardiac ultrasound. Much to my surprise (and my dector's astonishment), the test showed that I have very slight leakage through one of my valves. He told me not to worry about this — I don't even have symptoms or a murmur — but I am petrified! Will the condition worsen and lead to surgery? The doctor suggested that I check with him in a year.

DEAR READER: As we get older, our various body parts begin to func-tion less efficiently. I won't bore you with the litany of what can start to go wrong; you're undoubtedly familiar with many examples. The cardiac valves are no exception: They can start to leak or get too rigid and not open completely. Ordinarily, this is no cause for alarm, providing the valvu-lar problem doesn't hinder circulation or interfere with normal heart func-

But another factor may be relevant in your case: High blood pressure, if inadequately treated, will eventually over-burden the cardiac muscle, leading to stretching of the muscle fibers and enlargement of the heart. As the heart dilates, one or more of the cardiac valves may begin to leak, putting an additional stress on the heart, which leads to further stretching—and leakage. A vicious cycle is then apparent and can cause heart failure.

White were leaky value may, in fact.

While your leaky valve may, in fact, be a trivial abnormality, I'd want to know for sure that your blood pressure is controlled (160/80 or less) and that your heart is not dilated. In such a situation, aggressive therapy must be considered. Ask your doctor about this. If the answer is vague or unsubstantial, request a referral to a cardiologist. ologist.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my new and completely updated Health Report "Understanding Heart Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son is in his late 3te and was recently hospitalized for intestinal hospitalized for intestinal hospitalized from a peptic ulcer. After using endoscopy to document the ulcer, the doctor prescribed antacids and Tagamet, and suggested surgery. Are there any non-invasive procedures that we should consider?

DEAR READER: In my opinion,

As you have probably read, many peptic ulcers — maybe even all — are caused by an infection called H. pylori. The diagnosis can be made by blood tests or direct analysis of the ulcer itself. Treatment consists of a course of antibiotics.

In my opinion, your son should be checked for this infection, His dector can order (or perform) the tests and offer therapy if your son is positive for H. pylori.

Kids: do not limit yourself

SANFORD - I know we have written several editorials concerning athletes specializing in high school.

But now I am hearing that it is not only happening in Middle School, but maybe even grade school.

Absolutely amazing...and not very smart.

Having been around sports as a player, coach, fan and sports reporter for the better part of 30 years I can tell you first hand that it is wrong to limit your op-tions, especially at an early age.

Now I know that Sanford and Seminole County has been a strong football area for some time. But baseball and basketball has also done pretty well lately. Not to mention soccer. tennis, swimming, track and lacrosse.

But to not play a sport be-cause you think you are going to be more of a star in another, especially as a 10-11-or-12 year old? Come on.

This is the time of life when you should be experiencing as many different sports as you can so you cane find out what you like and what you may want to concentrate on in the future.
You will not have the freedom and time to do that in the future. Right now, you don't have most of you anyway, and you can just have fun.

And you never know for sure what you are going to be like five or six years from now. Maybe you won't get much bigger, maybe you will.

I helped coach a player back in the late '60's and early '70's that was 5-foot-11 to 6-foot tall as a 10 year old and everyone just knew he was going to be a great athlete.

That same person is still 6foot tall today and never played any higher than junior varsity baseball and basketball at Seminole High School.

Maybe you won't be as fast or as strong, compared to your peers, as you are now.

Several years ago Ned Raines thought for sure he wanted to be a college football player and he was the best fullback in the county, and one of the best in the state, at that time.

But after seeing Florida State work out, and FSU was not anywhere near as good as it is now, and seeing how big those players were, Ned, who was 5foot-8 and about 180 pounds. decided right there and then to concentrate on his baseball ca-

And it was in his best interest as it got him a college education and a few years in the minor

And what about your team-mates? You should think of them too.

Sanford had an opportunity to have one of its best All-Star teams in years this summer, but a player, who shall remain nameless, decided not to play. The team had several other very good players and may still be alive (I have not received information from all of the tournaments), but regardless of the outcome, the team is still not as good as it could have been.

But I guess in this day and age, sports has become a lot more I, I, I, and a lot less TEAM and that is a shame.

I can give you two more ex-amples of athletes who decided to concentrate on one sport as seniors in high school after being multi-sport athletes the year before.

One was a star football player who was being courted to go to FSU, after they got good by the way, and was talked out of playing basketball by a recruiter who told him he should be in the weight room and on

Seventh inning comeback gives Altamonte Springs 14-15 Babe Ruth District Tournament championship

By Dean Smith SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Now that is how a Championship Game supposed to be played.

The rain-delayed final of the Babe Ruth Baseball 14-15 Year Old District 8 Tournament was played Monday evening at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium on Rinker-Stenstrom Field and it featured excellent pitching and defense and a pair of comebacks before the unbeaten Altamonte Springs All-Stars prevailed 4-3 over Merritt Island.

There was no scoring for the first five innings with Altamonte Springs only having two hits and Merritt Island had four safeties.

Altamonte Springs finally broke through in the top of the sixth inning as Colton reached on a dropped third strike and scored an out later on a single by Horal.

Merritt Island came right back with three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning. Duncan singled and Stanton followed with a walk before Duncan scored on a single by Hedleston.

After a strike out, Weintraub and Nolan both singled in runs.
But Altamonte Springs, which edged Merritt Island 6-5 on Saturday to advance to the final, was not ready to have to play a winner-take-all game.

With one out in the top of the seventh inning Harney walked and moved to second on a single by Steinhorn. Harrelson followed with a double to score Harney and Colton ripped a two-strike single to drive in Steinhorn and Harrelson with the tying and go-ahead run. Malta led off the bottom of the seventh inning for Merritt Island with a single, but the next batter bounced into a 6-3 double play and the final batter flew out to left to end the game.

Leading the Altamonte
Springs offense in the finale were Horal (one double, one single), Harrelson (one double, one run scored) and Colton, Harney and Steinhorn (one single and one run scored each).

Doing the hitting for Merritt Island were Weintraub and Nolan (two singles each), Atwell (one double), Duncan, Stanton and Hedleston (one single and one run scored each) and Malta (one single).

The tournament had opened on Friday after being rained out on Thursday with Sanford beating Holly Hill 10-5 and Altamonte Springs blanking Longwood 8-0.

On Saturday, Merritt Island knocked Sanford into the loser's bracket, 6-0; Longwood eliminated Holly Hill, 17-11; and Altamonte Springs withstood a five-run seventh inning to edge Merritt Island, 6-

On Sunday, Longwood ousted Sanford, 10-0; and Merritt Island scored 12 runs in the top of the ninth inning to advance to the finals with a 17-5 victory over Longwood.

Providing the offense in those games were Merritt Island over Sanford: two hits _ Malta (double, run), Hankins (run); one hit _ Duncan (two runs), Lopez (run), Weintraub, Hynes; one run scored _ Stanton.

Sanford: one hit _ John Reaga, Kieth Wright.

Longwood over Holly Hill: two hits _ Good (two runs), Dill (run); one hit _ Jennings and Please see Babe Ruth, Page 2B

Daytona International Speedway names Grand Marshal, Honorary Starter for July 3 Pepsi 400

Special to the Herald

DAYTONA BEACH - One of America's most successful entrepreneurs will give the command to start engines at the Pepst 400 at Daytona International Speedway. Speedway President John Graham announced Monday that Frederick A. DeLuca, president and founder of Subway restaurants, will serve as the NASCAR Winston Cup race's grand marshal and John Harris. vice president and Florida division manager of 7-Eleven, will serve as honorary starter.

"We are pleased to honor two businessmen who have been recognized for their vision and success," said Graham. "We look forward to seeing the Pepsi 400 off to an exciting start under the leadership of these two NASCAR fans."

Seventeen-year-old Fred Deluca celebrated the grand opening of his first sub-marine sandwich shop in August of 1965. Harris joined 7-Eleven in 1979 as an ex-Deluca opened the restaurant with the help of family friend Dr. Peter Buck, who loaned the young entrepreneur $1,000 for his first submarine restaurant. Today, Pete's Subs is better known as Subway Sandwiches and Salads, and is the world's largest submarine sandwich chain. Still working with his partner, Dr. Buck, DeLuca's chain has grown to 13,600 Subway restaurants in 70 countries.

In addition to his success as a business owner, DeLuca holds a BS degree in psy-chology from the University of Bridgeport. He and his wife of 25 years, Elisabeth, have one son, Jonathon. Local businessman John Harris will wave the green flag on the Pepsi 400 as honorary starter. Harris, vice president and Florida division manager of 7-Eleven, lives with his wife Marilyn in DeLand. They have three ecutive trainee. Since than, he has served as district manager, sales and promotion manager, and division marketing and division operations manager. He was named manager of the Florida division in 1987.

Born in Austin, Texas, Harris graduated from the University of Virginia and received his MBA from the Darden Graduate School of Business Administration. He recently retired from the U.S. Navy after 12 years of active duty and eight years of reserve duty.
With approximately 18,500 convenience stores worldwide, 7-Eleven is the premier

working on his speed. So that's what he did.

But when it came time to try out for the college scouts, the player had lost a lot of his agility and almost a second off his time in the 40-yard dash and instead of going to FSU he ended up at Tennessee-Chattanooga, not exactly the clite of football.

And to this day, that player still regrets not playing basketball because he says he got out of shape, too muscle bound and lost a lot of his quickness, which basketball improves.

The other was Tim Raines. Tim was a pretty good basketball player and, as most people know, a very, very good football player, maybe the best I've ever seen.

he was just going to play baseball, which we all knew when he was 13-14 years old was going to be his future.

But after seeing his class-mates on the football team lose its opening game of the 1976-77 season and not play very well, he decided to don the pads and led the Tribe to a 9-2 season, in the process leading the state in rushing and earning First Team All-State honors.

So young people, don't limit your opportunities, have fun and win as many trophics as you can now, because it gets much tougher later in life and you don't want to look back when you are older and say, "I wish I would have done...'

P.S. _ this is for the parents.

Don't push your children into one aport and don't get on them at a young age because they are not doing as well as you would like. Be supportive and help them learn to enjoy the games they are playing.

I am afraid that some kids get turned off on a sport because a parent or coach keeps getting on them about a mistake and takes all of the fun out of playing.

Former Seminole Community College Athletics Coordinator and tennis coach Larry Castle must have been a wreck watching the final of the senior tennis match between Mikael Pernfors and Mel Purcell.

As most people who have been around Sanford for a few years know, Pernfors was a two-time National Champion and All-America while playing for Castle at SCC.

But what most people don't know is that Castle helped teach and played against Purcell when he was an assistant basketball coach at Western Kentucky. Purcell's father was the tennis coach at WKU and was a good friend of Castle's, so Castle got to work with and play the young man.

So you can imagine the emotions that must have been going through Castle.

Last second shot: Attention Lake Mary, Oviedo and Sanford Little League, Altamonte Springs and Longwood Babe Ruth and Seminole and West Seminole PONY baseball and softball coaches, we need pecially schedules for the upcoming All-Star tournaments. We can't cover your games (f we don't know when and where they are. Call 322-2611 and leave a message so we can get back in touch or FAX us with information at 324-9408,
