Drought Conditions Lower Water Levels Of Oklawaha River

A notice from the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, Office of the District Engineer in Jacksonville, states that "drought conditions in the Central Florida area during the last year have lowered the water level of the Oklawaha River and its tributary lakes to the extent that restrictive navigation conditions now exist throughout the waterway."

In general, he notes, the water level is from one to three feet below normal. The most critical areas is the reach between Silver Springs Run and the Moss Bluff Lock and Dam which now has a controlling depth of about one foot.

The District Engineer, Co. E. E. Kirkpatrick, issued the notice that the Moss Bluff Lock will continue to be operated from 8 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. daily for such crafts as are able to navigate the river.

However, he says, in order to conserve as much water as possible the usual weekend discharge of water through the spillway into the lower river will be discontinued effective the weekend of Jan. 19-20.

Col. Kirkpatrick warned that all craft navigating the Oklawaha River and its tributary lakes and streams should exercise extreme caution until such time as the water level returns to normal elevation.

Molasses Glazes Barbecued 'Ribs'

With pork supplies now bountiful at meat counters, many styles of this meat can be economically prepared in the months ahead. Here barbecued spareribs, topped with spicy apple rings, make for a very special and popular menu. Unsulphured molasses in the barbecue sauce adds a fine glaze and color to the spareribs.

Have spareribs cut in serving pieces. Place in shallow baking pan. Combine unsulphured molasses and mustard; stir in remaining ingredients. Brush spareribs with part of sauce. Bake in a moderate oven, (350° F.) 1 1/2 hours, brushing frequently with remaining sauce. Serve with "Glazed Apple Rings." YIELD: 6 servings.

Tiny Barnaclelike Creature May Shed Light On Evolution COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Ten prehistoric "missing link" snails dredged up off Mexico brought with them a tiny barnacle-like creature that may shed even more light on evolution than their hosts, a famous zoologist has reported.

The snail-like mollusks themselves were found to be a species dating back 500 million years, and thus one of the most ancient "living fossils" known to science. Dr. Hennrik Lemche, who identified the mollusks, said the creatures he found stuck to them may be even more sensational. He hopes both discoveries will shed new light on man's development from the earliest forms of life.

Justice Department Investigating Crude Oil Price Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is investigating recent increases in crude oil prices that have led to increases in the retail price of oil and gasoline.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen has announced that the anti-trust division is trying to learn if any conspiracy exists among major oil companies to push through an industry-wide boost in petroleum prices.

The National Oil Marketers Assn. called on Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. earlier this week to determine whether collusion was involved in the recent price increases.

The Justice Department announced the investigation only a matter of hours after President Eisenhower urged business and labor to take a disciplined approach to wage and price increases to keep inflationary tendencies in check.

The President said in his State of the Union message that "business in its pricing policies should avoid unnecessary price increases."

Hansen said the department wants to learn if the oil producers entered into an under-the-table agreement to increase prices. He said such an agreement would be a violation of the anti-trust laws.

A spokesman for the Federal Trade Commission said that if an illegal conspiracy is uncovered, the FTC also will launch an investigation.

CHAPTER 22

PETE AND DICK seemed interested in the heavy old furniture, the gadgets, the pictures. Bill Duval didn't. He examined walls, opened closet doors, tapped on walls here and there. It was so noticeable that Priscilla said, "What are you looking for, Bill? Do you really think there may be hidden valuables here? If so, I'd like to know about it before the sale goes through."

"So would I," Bill said decisively, and repeated, "So would I."

When they were leaving, after having gone over the house thoroughly, Bill looked at Priscilla over the cigar he was lighting and asked, "Going to sell right away?"

"Probably. Mr. Todd thinks I won't get a better offer. I haven't any use for the place, that's for sure."

Then Pete asked Priscilla if she would go with him somewhere for lunch and Dick said, glancing at his watch, "Lucky guy. I'm due at the hospital now—while you take my girl for lunch." It was said lightly, but Priscilla's heart turned over. It was absurd to feel this way about a man she had known only a few days. Dick added, looking at her, "I'll have free time tonight, though. Can you have dinner with me?"

Before Priscilla could answer, Pete surprised her by saying, "You're out of luck again. I have a date with Priscilla for dinner, too."

Later, Priscilla asked Pete, "Why did you say you had a date with me for dinner?"

"I've got Peggy guessing, no doubt about that, and I think we both have the doctor guessing."

"And Bill has us all guessing."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Haven't you noticed? Don't you think it's obvious that he had an object in coming to Lookout House this morning? Didn't he seem too much interested for just a casual observer?"

"But Bill Duval is like that about everything. He was like that on the Silver Song last night. Probably one of those guys who wants to know what makes things and people tick—in other words, anything he doesn't understand presents a challenge."

When Pete and Priscilla had driven away and left Dick and Bill standing on the sidewalk, Bill said, "Why do you suppose they didn't tell when they first came here about owning this place?"

"Priscilla said it seemed pointless. They were in a hurry to get the motor settled and be on their way again."

"Sounds too pat. And I'm sure Alvarez isn't thinking of building a hotel here."

"What could he want with the property?"

"That's the angle I'm working on—and I believe I'm getting somewhere. Incidentally, I unlocked the back door when Priscilla wasn't looking. I may decide to go back and look around some more."

"Whatever you find out, I hope it doesn't involve those girls. Dick's voice was troubled."

"You like Priscilla, don't you?"

"Dr. Deveraux hesitated. Then he said, 'Yes. Yes, I like her. More than I should, I suppose, considering how I feel about Peggy. And of course Priscilla wouldn't give a linkster's dam about small town medico.'"

Bill laughed. "I'm not so sure about that. Unless I'm mistaken, that light in her eyes when she looks at you means that she likes you, too. I hope I'll soon be able to clear those two girls of any connection with this thing. It isn't a suspicion, really, but there are a few things that need clarifying."

Bill swished his drink around in the glass and said conversationally, "I understand Priscilla has definitely decided to let Alvarez have Lookout House."

He and Rita were sitting at the little bar in the hotel. It was mid-afternoon and these were no other customers.

"Yes, I think she has decided to sell. She's let him know definitely tomorrow. Of course it's absurd not to let him have it. He's offering more than the property is worth."

"Must be anxious to get hold of it." Bill flicked the ashes from his cigar. "I wonder why."

"Fernando because the town is experiencing a boom."

Bill said nothing for a moment, then deliberately, "I like you, Rita. You're an exasperating person, but I like you."

"Thanks, Mr. Duval. Rita said slyly. "But what brought that on?"

"You sound as though you doubt it."

Rita turned and faced him. "Listen, Bill. You've been acting as if you were suspicious of us ever since we first crossed your path. And I've purposely ignored some of your questions because I don't know what it's all about. I think you're in Apalachicola for a purpose, and for some reason I don't know."

"I don't suppose Alvarez anticipated that when he made the offer."

"Maybe not. But I've just told you that he was informed of it yesterday. It was today that he was in Todd's office, anxious to close the deal with Priscilla."

Boy Is Believed To Have Recovered From Leukemia

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Admittedly puzzled medical men meet here today to review the case history of 5-year-old Tommy Elburn who may have broken through one in 10 million odds by recovering from leukemia. Eighteen months ago physicians diagnosed Tommy as a victim of leukemia—cancer of the blood for which there is no known cure. Monday, his blood count was normal. Tommy's doctor, however, cautioned that "it would be cruel to parents of other children with leukemia to believe that we have cured the disease." The doctor, who asked that his name not be revealed, said today's meeting is merely to hear a review of the case and not necessarily to arrive at any conclusion. Undisclosed Treatment: He said ethical reasons prohibit him from making known the treatment used or the exact diagnosis except to other doctors. He said, however, that it is possible Tommy never had leukemia. The doctor said there were three possibilities as to Tommy's condition. One was that he could have had a disease that "looked like" leukemia but really wasn't and he recovered. Another was that he could now have leukemia but had had a "remission" so that the disease could flare up again. Finally, he said, Tommy could have had leukemia and recovered, despite his having only "one chance in 10 million."

It read in part: "This honorary invitation to the inaugural ceremonies comes to you in appreciation of your efforts in the campaign to re-elect President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon." Kefauver said of the invitation: "Golly, I don't think that's what we were doing, but maybe that's what it was."

Survey Tells Likes, Dislikes Of Folks Coming To Florida

TALLAHASSEE — The most comprehensive survey ever made of Florida visitors—their reasons for coming to the state, their origins, how much they spend and what they like and dislike while here—has just been completed and made available to the public by the State Development Commission. The survey was conducted by Dr. J. Richard Stevens of Florida State University and a group of assistants. The study confirmed many facts that had long been surmised by Floridians concerned with the tourist industry. But it also contained some surprises. For example, it showed that while 92.7 per cent of the state's visitors came here with pleasure as their primary objective, nearly 11 per cent, or more than 600,000 in 1956, had as a purpose to purchase or look for a Florida home or property. When queried about their reasons for coming to Florida, the visitors questioned put beaches, sunshine and climate, natural scenery and general atmosphere of relaxation and fun at the top of their lists. These were followed closely by commercial attractions, fishing or hunting, state and national parks, spectator sports and participant sports besides fishing or hunting. To a question about why they became interested in Florida in the first place, 28.2 per cent—representing approximately 1,269,000 tourists—said they were influenced by the advertising program of the Development Commission. Recommendations of friends or relatives or enjoyment of prior visits were big factors in influencing them to come to Florida. The survey also revealed that a Florida vacation is no longer "a luxury item for the better income group only, but rather can be honestly sold to a mass market of millions upon millions of Americans."

Step into the wonderful world of AUTODYNAMICS
It breaks through the vibration barrier!

Right off the bat, you'll realize there's something entirely different about driving the new Swept-Wing Dodge. You know it's the slickest piece of live action you've ever driven. The most responsive and easiest handling, too.

But the thing that really hits you is the silence! Why, all the irritating noises, all the annoying road sounds common to automobiles have vanished!

For Autodynamics has introduced a revolutionary new suspension system—Dodge Torsion-Aire—that cushions you in a "Realm of Silence." Thick cushions of "live rubber" isolate engine vibration, noise and road shock at its source.

Actually, everything is new in the Swept-Wing Dodge—from new race car torsion bars to new Push-Button TorqueFlite, from new 310 hp. V-8 engine to new Total Contact Brakes.

This is Autodynamics in action... yours in the most exciting car that's ever come up the pike. See and drive the Swept-Wing Dodge today!

Housing Rehabilitation Program Would Benefit Homeowners, City

Of special interest to Sanford and Seminole County was the release today of the new program to remove slums and blighted areas which were underway or were about to be started in 522 American cities at the close of 1953.

Walter S. Dayton, chairman of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said board presidents that the figure includes cities which have adopted codes in compliance with Federal Housing Administration regulations in preparation to starting housing rehabilitation programs.

Such news should be of vital concern to local developers as well as to those who are planning the future growth of Sanford.

There are areas which would no doubt come under this same category. Areas so planned would provide modern housing for those who have repeatedly asked for better conditions.

It seems as if a plan to remove slums and blighted areas would be far better to undertake than an expansion program to leave the substandard housing in its place to remain an eyesore. The search for additional areas to develop, especially under a restricted zoning ordinance, is growing tighter and tighter with fewer lots available for developing.

Slums and blighted areas contribute little in the city in the way of tax dollars and they cost much more than other areas for health, safety, police and fire protection.

In the speedup of local programs during 1957 to wipe out substandard housing, Sanford should take advantage of the opportunity to improve its overall city structure.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has set a goal of "No Slums by '60." A program to parallel this aggressive program should be tackled, not only to benefit the homeowner, but to benefit the community's income which would no doubt be increased by the higher valuation of the newer and more modern homes.

French Ave. Traffic Problem

Have you tried to cross French Ave. from 10th Street lately?

An automobile with characteristics of a kangaroo or maybe a jack rabbit, with the ability to leap across the entire width of two ribbons of pavement, could possibly make it safely from one side to another.

There are times that traffic has had to wait five, ten, maybe even fifteen minutes (not long) to be able to find the north-south traffic light enough to dare a cross from one side to another.

French Avenue is a wonderful thoroughway—it is a boon to Sanford and Seminole County—and everyone is proud of Seminole County's first real highway in many years—but there must be some way to tread traffic across the busy street safely.

One person to another would undoubtedly say "my time is just as valuable as yours." Whether you're going north or south, east or west, both should have an equal opportunity without endangering a life or the loss of property.

An engineer, perhaps, could solve the problem and come up with a useful suggestion so that travelers to the Mayfair Inn's Country Club, residents of the popular Loch Arbor Section and Little Venice, and all over the area could leap the ribbon of automobiles and trucks.

It isn't as easy to answer as one might think. The State Road Department doesn't want a traffic light at the intersection—and there's been as many as 15 to 25 cars standing in line waiting to get across.

Possibly traffic could be routed to another street where a traffic light will allow orderly passage of vehicles from one side to another—there might be the answer.

Whatever it might be—the answer is

Prices Rise, Wages At Record Level

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's plan for business and labor to go easy on price and wage hikes today at a time when prices have been rising almost steadily for a year and wages are at a record level.

Government economists said there is a possibility that wage contract settlements this year may fall more or less within the President's formula for holding the line against inflation. They were more uncertain on the price outlook.

In his State of the Union Message Mr. Eisenhower called on business to avoid unnecessary price increases, particularly those induced solely by high demand and material shortages.

He called on labor to keep increases in wages and fringe benefits "reasonably related" to increases in productivity. Wage hikes that follow productivity—output per worker—do not cost management any money.

Wholesale Prices Rise
 In the past year wholesale prices have risen 4.4 per cent, and consumer prices 2.4 per cent, following several years of relative stability. That stability, however, was due largely to declining farm prices which offset price rise in other fields.

The initial and unofficial reaction of labor economists to Mr. Eisenhower's productivity formula for wage increases was a flat "no." They said he overlooked labor's fundamental point in bargaining: Where profit margins increase, wages should go up, regardless of productivity.

But the fact is that a number of major wage contracts, including those in the so-called "pattern-setting" steel and automobile industries, are long-term affairs that provide for automatic wage hikes this year.

Try and Stop Me
 By BENNETT CERF

ERNE KOVACS had a very near-sighted singer on his TV program, and took her across the street for a bite when the show was over. In the entrance they brushed against a stalwart gent who greeted her affectionately.

Her glasses she didn't have the faintest idea who he was, so decided to play it safe. She gave him a big fat kiss and pouted, "Why don't you ever call me any more?" When he had left, she asked Ernie, "Who on earth was that?" He answered, "That was your first husband—whom you have cut dead for the past ten years."

Kovacs himself had trouble identifying a man who evidently knew him well, and to cover his embarrassment asked, "Haven't I seen you in Sardi's recently?" "That's very likely," was the answer. "I've been headwaiter there since 1945."

There are two things about a wife's new evening gown that intrigues her husband, opines Adrian Anderson: how much he will have to put into it—and how much she will leave out.

HST Puts Leadership To Severe Test

By LYLE C. WILSON
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Truman has put his political leadership to a new severe test which may obtain another painful repudiation. Superlatively, Mr. Truman has turned away in this instance from his long-time ally and foreign policy adviser, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Mr. Truman's ups and downs have excited American politics for years. He has specialized in the unpredictable and the impossible. Mr. Truman's biggest UP was nomination and election to the vice presidency in 1944, which led shortly to the White House.

He established himself as Democratic Party boss in 1948 by coming from nowhere to win the presidential election from Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Mr. Truman hand-picked Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois in 1952 to be his successor. Stevenson promptly lost the presidential election to Dwight D. Eisenhower. Mr. Truman ceased at that point to be the Democratic Party boss.

Convention Rebuffs Truman
 If there was any doubt about that, last year's Democratic National Convention clarified the situation by nominating for president and vice president the two Democrats Mr. Truman most actively opposed.

Seldom has a past president so boldly risked his prestige nor has any in modern times been more coldly rebuffed by a national convention. Mr. Truman is a tough politician, however. He does not bridle nor embarrass easily.

So, today he is out in front of his party — way out in front — with a summons to Congress to give to President Eisenhower the blank check on Middle East policy which he requested the week Congress convened.

Moreover, Mr. Truman wrote in an article distributed in Sunday's newspapers that the United States should have acted forcefully long ago with the fleet to prevent delivery of Communist arms to

Atomic Age Army Blueprinted

By GLENN STACKHOUSE
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 FT. ORD, Calif. (AP) — America's atomic age army, a trim, fast-moving team with a minimum of firepower, is being blueprinted here by an expert group of military architects with their eyes on the future.

They are the men of the U. S. Army's combat developments and experimentation center, commanded by Brig. Gen. Frederick W. Gibb, one of the nation's top military planners.

Their job: To tear up the outdated texts of military tactics and write a new book on how the infantry must operate against the enemy in an atomic battle.

Gibb, a soft-spoken, 48-year-old West Pointer, said today he will start next month with the first actual field test of new tactics on the sprawling, 100,000-acre Hunter League military reservation south of here.

Tests in Field
 Using the men of Ft. Ord's 10th Regimental Combat Team as guinea pigs, Gibb and his staff of about 100 military experts and civilian scientists will take them into the field for a series of mock-war exercises.

"We proposed to start the experiments with platoon and company units and gradually work up to battalion, regiment and full division operations," Gibb said.

In the hills and canyons they will skirmish over and over with different types of unit organization, weapons and techniques until they can decide which combination can fight, survive and win the war of atomic cannon and nuclear missiles.

The new tactics, the general explained, are being built around the so-called "Pentagon concept" which was recently announced by the Pentagon. It calls for whittled-down divisions of five regiments each, with the maximum killing power per man and the nimble mobility of a guerrilla band.

This eliminates the old concept of masses of men backed by masses of material with as short as possible supply lines.

Travel by Air
 The new Army will be made up of small, self-sufficient groups which will rely chiefly on planes or helicopters for mobility. It will operate in a greatly expanded combat zone to achieve the dispersal necessary to cut atomic casualties.

Each unit, be it a platoon or a division, must be able to jump quickly to the attack from relatively far behind the front line in order to follow up an atomic blow at the enemy with an infantry surprise. Then it must as quickly disperse again to keep from offering the enemy a concentrated target.

One thing is certain to be held over, Gibb said. That is the foot-soldier's standby—the foxhole.

"The foxhole is here to stay," he said. "It will be the most important protection the soldier has in nuclear battle."

The Army is even coming up with an improvement. It is experimenting with various types of foxhole covers with a special-treated cloth designed to protect the soldier from radiation and fall-out.

Garden Bouquet

The Minnie Circle met at the home of Mrs. Herbert Behrens at Lake Monroe. Mrs. John Fox, guest speaker, talked of conservation with respect to birds. She emphasized the importance of protecting water sheds and told of the rangers who watch out for Ocala, Pensacola and Osceola parks. Mrs. C. L. Wallis reported on the African violets given by the circle to the Seminole wing of the T. B. Sanitarium. Mrs. Ray Peck also discussed timely plantings. A social hour followed the business session.

The Palm Circle met at the home of Mrs. Arne Erickson in DeBary, with Mrs. Arthur G. Watt as co-hostess. Gen. H. P. Newton, guest speaker, talked of camellias and showed illustrations of the most interesting and rare varieties. Gen. Newton described the proper time for planting, the correct procedure and methods of feeding and watering camellias. Seeds and bulbs were collected for the Bermyia Nursing Home to be taken by the vice chairman, Mrs. Wallace Gabler. A buffet to welcome new members was held after the business hour.

The Garden Center was the scene of the Jacaranda Circle meeting last week with Mrs. A. J. Walker, Mrs. J. F. Lewis, Mrs. R. E. Pourifoy and Mrs. E. C. Campbell acting as hostesses.

The resignation of Mrs. Elton Bush, who is leaving Sanford, was accepted. New officers were elected and they are Mrs. J. C. Andrews, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Terlap, vice-chairman; Mrs. Nick Kants, secretary; and Mrs. H. E. McSwain, treasurer.

Mrs. George McCall gave a "very interesting" talk on the origin, varieties and care of camellias.

Mrs. Roy Tullis and Mrs. T. C. Pichford were guests at the session.

The Rose Circle of the Sanford Garden Club held a covered dish luncheon at the lovely new home of Mrs. Charles Cole in Geneva last Friday.

Mrs. Charles Brumley, vice chairman, presided at the business meeting in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. W. B. Shippy.

Announcement was made of the coming flower show to be held April 13-14.

Mrs. Al Wilson was introduced as a new member.

Horticulture chairman Mrs. J. D. Woodruff reminded members that this is the month to cut back and prune shrubs, also to keep azaleas and camellias well watered during blooming season. Time to move or plant trees, also time to get all kinds of bulbs planted, she suggested that we fertilize lightly every two weeks rather than heavy often.

Announcement was made of a Horticulture School to start Feb. 28 and continue every Tuesday night for eight weeks.

A delightful covered dish luncheon was served at noon to the following: Mrs. Don Atwood, Mrs. G. W. Bailey, Mrs. O. L. Barks, Mrs. B. R. Becka, Mrs. Charles Brumley, Mrs. Charles Cole, Mrs. B. B. Crumley, Mrs. A. W. Epps, Mrs. Claude Herndon, Mrs. D. M. Ladd, Mrs. Ed Lane.

Mrs. Charles Lawson, Mrs. D. H. Mathers, Mrs. Charles Meriwether, Mrs. W. A. Morrison, Mrs. Henry Simpson, Mrs. James Trullit, Mrs. Charles Wilke, Mrs. J. D. Woodruff, Mrs. J. J. Lefler, Mrs. W. E. Gray, Mrs. John Thomas, and Mrs. A. L. Wilson.

Mrs. William J. Toll entertained the Hibiscus Garden Circle Friday afternoon at her home at 201 E. Tenth St. Assisting Mrs. Toll was Mrs. A. B. Stevens. Arrangements of calendulas and snapdragons decorated the living rooms.

The business meeting was presided over by the chairman Mrs. W. H. Stewart. New officers elected for the coming year were Mrs. Stewart re-elected for chairman; Mrs. Zerrenner vice-chairman; Mrs. Joe Meisch, secretary; and Mrs. R. G. Brisson, treasurer. Mrs. H. A. Moreland was chairman of the nominating committee.

During the program session Miss Myrtle Wilson gave an interesting talk on dooryard citrus trees and preserving citrus fruits, especially calamondins and kumquats. She had an attractive display of the fruits and of the canned products. She also urged attendance to the landscape school to begin in February.

A trip to Sanlando Springs was planned for the February meeting with members meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Morrison on Hiawatha Ave.

The hostesses served coffee, cake, cookies and candies to the

Conring The News

Notes from the Horrell, Funch and Murphy party Friday night, because I have been too busy today to call about news—Pat Todd wore a beautiful green print silk dress with a deep V fore and aft. Spook Hook looked fetching in a beige tweed cocktail dress, with a jeweled bottle opener at the waist, and a pearl necklace embellished with one small butterfly (her trademark). All of the girls looked gorgeous as usual, and the men were dressed the same.

Saw Olivia Simmons this morning, and she looks and feels fine. The baby is very cute. Ran into Vi Milahn at the grocery store. She is back from a trip to Rochester, New York, and St. Louis. The girls in VAH-II are busy cleaning house, and preparing the way for their spouses who will be returning soon from deployment. Polly Brubaker has been so busy working on posters for the High Fever Folies, that her house (she says) has not received the proper attention, but I'm sure you won't mind anyway. By the way, have you seen the Talent—pardon me Talent night posters that Polly made? They are real attention getters, and will soon be blossoming all over town. Some much needed aid was rendered by Jackie Fenwick and Spook Hook. We are indeed lucky to have such talented artists in our midst.

Isn't it wonderful about Jay Herbert winning the Bing Crosby tournament? If any thing will put Sanford on the California map, it will be a Florida representative winning such a contest. The Mayfair folks must be proud of their boy.

If you have not had your chest x-rayed, there is only one more day in which to do it. The mobile unit has become a familiar sight in the past week, and so have the little lapel tickets many are wearing to announce that they have had their x-rays. Understand that the volunteer canvassers covered a lot of territory, as many, many showed up at the unit with their registration cards filled out.

Sorry to hear of the death of Forrest Norrell's mother. Ruth and Forrest left immediately. This tragedy follows on the heels of the death of his father. We are all very sorry.

Jo Symes reports that on Saturday a green car slowed before the Symes Loch Arbor home, and a white, brown and black terror was pushed out. The dog immediately adopted the Symes who have three already. Too bad pets cannot be considered more, and a home found for them, rather than trusting to good hearted people like Jo. Have seen the dog, and he is friendly and cute. And Jo may be willing to part with him, if you call her.

Ladies Fete Mrs. J. Mills With Coffee

Mrs. James Mills, the former Mrs. Louise Smith, was entertained last week at a coffee given by Mrs. Ed LaCour and Mrs. Bob Landreth at the LaCour home.

Gladioli were used throughout the home as decorations for the lovely party attended by relatives and close friends.

Those invited to be with honored were her mother, Mrs. Carrie Smith, Jim Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Vail Lovell and daughter Winifred; Mr. and Mrs. Mason Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Landreth, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Fakes, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Conway, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tharpe, Miss Janice Reel, Miss Dot Carter, Mr. and Mrs. E. LaCour and Mrs. G. Arnold.

Dateline DeBary

The DeBary GOP met to install its new officers at the January meeting: Albert Williams, president; Morris Shawkey, vice president; Mrs. Ellen Livingston, second vice president; Edward Patterson, treasurer and Mrs. Wallace Gabler, secretary. Arthur G. Watt and Frederick Cleverings were elected directors for three year terms in district one; Harry Sellen and Paul Goldner for district two. A social hour followed and refreshments were served.

On Thursday at 8 p.m. under the auspices of the DeBary Democratic party, residents will meet at the firehouse to listen to state representative James H. Sweeney Jr. discuss bill 499 which was lately passed by the state legislature. This bill refers directly and indirectly to road building and improvements and offices of their own civic asis of vital importance to every landowner in the district. Since the recent interpretation of the Homestead Act which led to a tax of $7 per thousand of hitherto exempted property, this bill also can be "interpreted" to refer to all home owners and so will be of interest to all DeBary residents. "It is an open meeting" stated Edward Healey, president of the Democratic club.

The Civic Association met in the civic building to install and welcome new officers this last week. President H. Hudson Myers outlined the duties and prerogatives of the civic group as being of importance to all residents in that they have a large investment in DeBary's future. They have spent money wisely he said in building fine homes and now can invest their time and talents in solving problems that arise in a new community, by utilizing the offices of their own civic as-

USWV Auxiliary Drapes Charter For Past President

The Col. Theodore Roosevelt auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Mae Sheaffer, 113 Elm Ave. with Mrs. Frank Evans, president, presiding.

After the routine business and sickness report, the chaplain Mrs. Mary Pfafflin, draped the charter for the past department president, Mary George of St. Cloud, who also was a former member of the local auxiliary.

The auxiliary will give a donation to the Clara Barton fund to assist girls training to be nurses.

Mrs. Mae Sheaffer, past department president, installed the new officers for 1937 as follows: president, Mrs. Lavinia Himes Vance; senior vice president, Mrs. Lew Brademeyer; junior vice president, Mrs. W. E. Jameson; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Pfafflin; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Frank Evans; conductor, Mrs. C. P. Hrasington; assistant conductor, Mrs. Jimmie Emerson; guard, Mrs. L. Q. Pickering; assistant guard, Mrs. Fanny Lloyd; secretary treasurer, Mrs. Mae Sheaffer; and retiring president, Mrs. Frank Evans.

County Gets Check For Money Used In '53 Disaster

Seminole County yesterday received a check from the federal government for $4,690 which represents 6.53 per cent of the balance due from the emergency fund made available during the 1953 disaster when high water crumbled and melted away roads.

Right-Of-Way Map Here; Acquisition Now In Progress

Acquisition of right-of-ways for the Five Points-to-Sanford section of Highway 17-82 is in progress, according to County Right-of-Way Agent John Fox.

"I could not hope to cover the accomplishments you have made during the past year," said Weir. "As a tribute to your work, I think you would be interested in hearing what Dr. Peter Ward said last week during his visit to Sanford to survey the hospital's facilities."

"And these are his words: 'I have visited hospitals all over the country and this is the finest I have ever seen. If your community could only realize what you have done the citizens would not want to go any other place!'"

Weir told the members of the Women's Auxiliary, "You ladies have served over 12,000 hours during the past year and if a money value were placed on those hours it would mean an expenditure of over $10,000 — and that in only 11 months of the past year. No other hospital can come near that."

The Hospital Administration was introduced by Mrs. A. B. Peterson Sr., chairman of the Women's Auxiliary.
