SANFORD — The first meeting of the Lake Monroe Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee will be held tomorrow morning. The committee is comprised of approximately 15 persons representing the city, county, various boards and committees and commissions, and special events and tourist operations.

Jay Marder, director of planning and development for the city has been organizing the plan and serves as project manager.

Ed Preston has been hired to serve as project facilitator. It will be his job to lead the various meetings and gather input for the preparation of a master plan to deal with proposed development of the lakeshore area of Sanford.

Tomorrow morning's meeting will be held in the Holiday Inn conference room at the Monroe Harbour Marina from 9 a.m. until noon, with the steering committee as the participants.

The first public meeting will be held Saturday, March 27, from 9 a.m. until noon at the Sanford Civic Center, and feature an open forum for citizen input.

Paterson to be charged

SANFORD — Assistant State Attorney Stewart Stone said this morning that information charging suspended Lakeview Middle School band instructor Stephen Paterson with two counts of lewd and lascivious assault will be filed this afternoon in court.

Paterson is scheduled for arraignment at 1 p.m. at the courtroom at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

The charges will be filed against Paterson when he appears for arraignment. Although Paterson was arrested in February, formal charges against him were not filed by the state pending the outcome of an investigation.

Another formal charge against Paterson will be filed at his next court appearance March 16, according to Stone, who declined to reveal the charges in the second information.

The Seminole County School Board will fire Paterson this afternoon. He was suspended without pay after his arrest Feb. 9.

Garbage fee cut five cents

LONGWOOD — Longwood City Commission members put the finishing touches on bid requirements for a new garbage contract at a special Monday afternoon meeting by cutting a nickel from the city's fee for billing and collecting.

City administrator James McFellin said the commission voted to charge $1.25 per household rather than the $1.30 charged under the present contract for the billing and collection fee. The collection fee is a part of the $14.68 per month fee the 4,375 households currently served under the garbage collection contract pay.

A pre-bid conference required for all prospective bidders on the garbage contract is scheduled for Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the city commission chambers. McFellin said the bids are due March 24 at 2 p.m.

Eckstein denies stalking

City commissioner 'simply asked for an apology'

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — City commissioner Herbert "Whitey" Eckstein Monday staunchly denied "stalking" a local service station attendant to gain a name-calling apology.

"I never stalked anyone," said Eckstein. "I'm just devastated by all this. I never meant to hurt anyone. My political career is ruined."

Thursday, the attorney for attendant Ricky Shearer filed a complaint with the governor's office alleging Eckstein and commissioner A.A. "Mac" McClanahan sought to coerce an apology by threatening to take business away from his employer's station. McClanahan had no comment on the complaint. Shearer alleged the incident began had written the Sanford Herald which was published the day before.

Shearer stated in an affidavit Eckstein "jumped down my throat" during the telephone conversation about the letter. Shearer stated Eckstein charged Shearer's wife, a Sanford police officer, was behind the criticism.

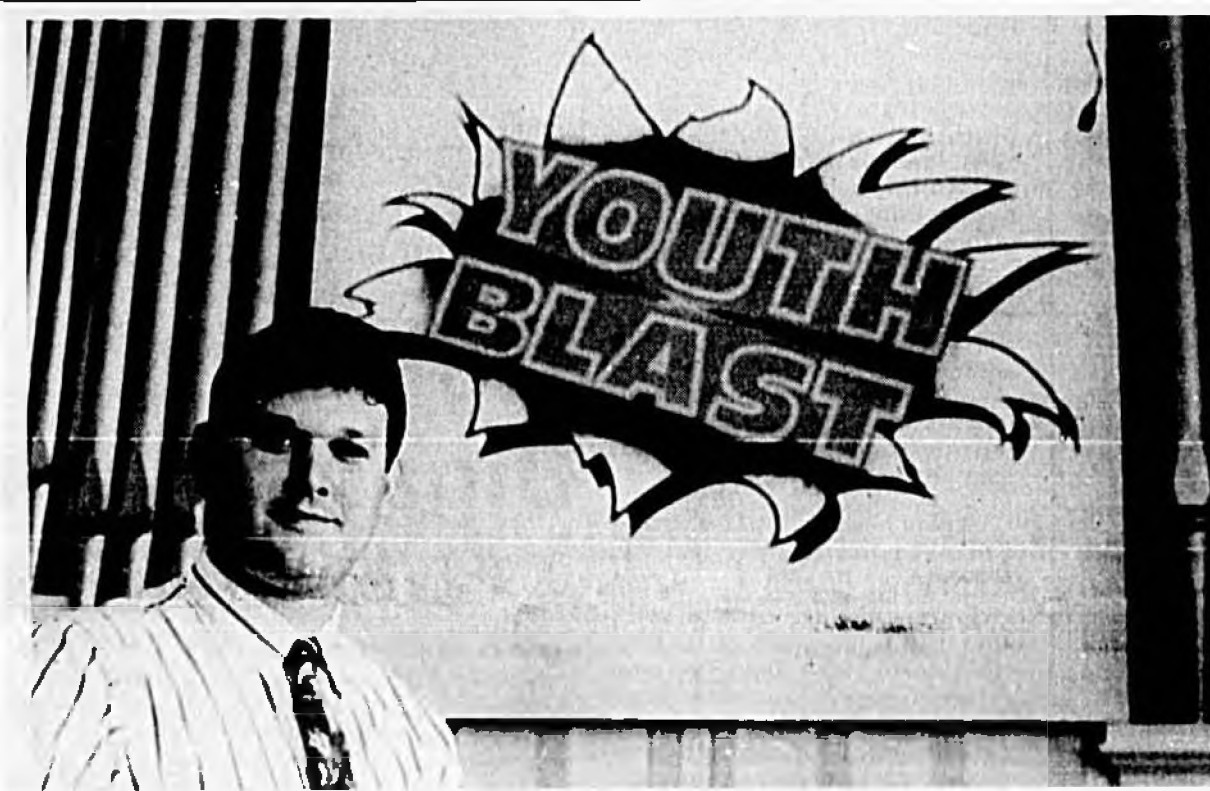

Shearer stated on hearing his wife's name, he called Eckstein a "son of a bitch" and hung up.

Shearer's employers, Michael and Patrick Leonard, stated Eckstein and McClanahan had both told them in separate conversations that if they did not speak with him about it, the station would lose business.

Michael Leonard said Eckstein called for Shearer, but on finding he wasn't there, told him if he didn't get Shearer to apologize, he and his family would stop visiting the busi-

Hundreds converge on Sanford Saturday

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Wholesome fun will be the emphasis at the fourth annual Youth Blast in Ft. Mellon Park on Saturday, March 13.

Several hundred young people representing church youth groups from across the Central Florida area are expected to converge on the Sanford waterfront for the event which will bring the Christian message to the young people while also bringing them community awareness.

Sidney Brock, minister of youth at the First Baptist Church of Sanford, sponsor of the event, said he hopes the young people of the community will join in the activities that are planned.

"We have activities planned for all the young people who want to come," Brock said. "This is an exciting event for all of us."

Brock said the Youth Blast is a prelude to a week-long revival celebration at the church that will include speakers, musicians, testimonies and fun.

Though the first Youth Blasts suffered through cold and rain, last year's event was sunny and cool. Attendance at 1992 Youth Blast skyrocketed.

Sanford airport vies for aircraft plant

By NICK PFEIFAUFF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission voted unanimously last night to authorize a resolution supporting a drive for potential airport industrial development. If the effort is successful, it would be a major economic benefit for the city.

As an incentive to attract the aircraft manufacturing plant, the city agreed to waive an estimated $79,500 in impact fees.

Today, a similar proposal is being made to the Seminole County Commission, with a request for the county to waive an estimated $265,000 in impact fees.

Steve Cooke, director of the Central Florida Regional Airport, explained the proposal at yesterday's Sanford City Commission workshop meeting. "Several aircraft companies are looking for a $7 billion government contract to build training aircraft during the next 15 years," he said. "The companies include Northrop and two others. Northrop has looked at several possible sites including Sanford, Fort Lauderdale and Lakeland."

Northrop is also examining sites in other states. "They said they liked Sanford very much when they were here," Cooke added.

He explained the complicated process. "First of all the government would have to award the contract to Northrop. Then, Northrop would have to select Sanford for its plant."

"If all of that happens," Cooke continued, "we already have their initial proposals. Northrop would operate from a 260,000 square foot manufacturing facility, which would be located

Night construction begins on I-4

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

DELTONA — Interstate 4 travelers could face delays at the construction site of the new $7.5 million Saxon Boulevard interchange during night-time hours this week.

Westbound traffic will narrow to a single lane tonight to allow crews to begin removing pieces of the old overpass. The bridge is being removed to allow construction crews to complete the northern half of the interchange. Work is expected to be completed by October.

Wednesday and Thursday night, crews will use an innovative traffic management technique called a "rolling barricade," where traffic will be periodically slowed from 65 to 20 m.p.h., said Steve Homan, Florida

Department of Transportation spokesman. The barricade will be used on westbound lanes Wednesday night and eastbound lanes Thursday night between the hours of 9 p.m. and 6 o'clock the following morning.

Homan said rolling blockades allow bridgework to occur over travel lanes without bringing traffic to a full stop.

The way it works is this: using radios, construction crews will alert state troopers to periodically slow traffic. Homan said the slow-downs create 10-minute gaps in traffic, long enough to allow a crane to safely remove 20-ton sections of the old overpass. Should a section fall, no traffic will be underneath and approaching cars can be stopped to allow stand-by crews to quickly remove the debris.

A similar technique was used during the construction See Work, Page 5A

Inmate death probed

FORT MYERS — Prosecutors are investigating the death of an inmate following a struggle with guards at the Lee County Jail. Authorities said an autopsy showed that the 46-year-old prisoner died of asphyxiation from chest compression. James Winslow Marshall was by himself in a holding cell when a trustee saw him with a plastic spoon fashioned into a knife and told a guard, Lee County Sheriff John McDougall said Sunday night. When Marshall refused to give the guard the knife, the guard summoned his sergeant, who decided to take the knife from the inmate by force, McDougall said. Marshall attacked, the guards tried to subdue him and during a scuffle, two guards were injured, McDougall said. One was bitten on the finger and the other suffered a shoulder injury.

"Love surgeon" files bankruptcy

TAMPA — A retired Ohio doctor, who once described the reconstructive techniques he did on women as "love surgery," has sought refuge in a Florida bankruptcy court. James C. Burt, 71, used a surgical procedure on women to solve various problems, including sexual responsiveness, bladder infections and pain, according to a file in U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

As an obstetrician and gynecologist in Dayton, Ohio, for 37 years, he treated hundreds of patients. Some former patients, however, say the surgery caused physical and emotional problems and was done without their consent or that consent was obtained fraudulently.

Burt filed for Chapter 7 protection in Fort Myers in southwest Florida on Oct. 7. According to court records, he estimated his assets at $550 and liabilities at $5.5 million owed to 100 or more creditors.

Under a Chapter 7 filing, a person's available assets are normally sold to pay creditors. But on Jan. 20, court trustee Diane L. Jensen found that Burt, after legal exemptions were taken into account, had no assets left to see. So creditors cannot be paid.

Butterfly trackers need help

PALM BEACH GARDENS — Scientists tracking monarch butterflies are asking for help in spotting the large orange-and-black insects as they migrate north through Florida this month.

"They are one of the larger and more showier butterflies," said Carmen Berrows-MacDougall, head of the Butterfly Project in Palm Beach Gardens.

Their size — and their lazy flying style — make them easy to spot. "They give you the opportunity to see them. They glide," she said.

Sightings of migrating monarchs have dropped in the eastern United States this year. Researchers are still seeking reasons for the decline.

During the past five years, University of Florida researchers trying to track migrating monarchs have tagged thousands that temporarily rest in the fall at the St. Mark's National Wildlife Refuge near Tallahassee.

The refuge is a stopover for northeastern monarchs traveling to Mexico and other tropical wintering grounds.

The white, weather-resistant tags are affixed to their right wing. The tags are imprinted with a five-digit number and an address where the tag can be mailed if the butterfly is dead.

Monarchs head south in August, then north again in March and April, mating and laying eggs on milkweed plants along the way.

Those that wintered in the Keys and Dade County are just now starting to pass through Broward and Palm Beach counties, said Berrows-MacDougall.

She wants to determine if monarchs that enter Florida's Panhandle each fall are heading into South Florida instead of traveling to Mexico.

In Florida, monarchs can be found in wooded areas and along coastal canals and river banks populated with milkweed, the only plant that the butterfly lays its eggs on. Monarchs feed on the milkweed's tiny flowers, "which pack a wallop of nectar," sucking it up with their hollow tongues, Berrows-MacDougall said.

Nicaraguans in US say no to Chamorro

SWEETWATER — Nicaraguan exiles in South Florida gave an overwhelming thumbs down to President Violeta Chamorro and the Sandinistas in a weekend straw vote.

About 2,500 Nicaraguans turned out for the plebiscite, which asked questions about their country's direction.

More than 90 percent of those who voted said that Vice President Virgilio Godoy should replace Chamorro as head of the country.

The election was conducted by the Nicaraguan Accounts Association.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Sinkhole continues to grow

Two homes hang in balance

ORANGE CITY — Two homes remained perched on the edge of a giant sinkhole after it devoured a road and a stand of trees, police said.

Police said late Monday afternoon there had been no changes since about 2 a.m. Monday, when a tree fell into the hole, estimated at 165 feet in diameter and 125 feet deep.

The hole, which grew silently and swiftly late Saturday and early Sunday, appeared relatively stable Monday, said Tom Scott of the Florida Geological Survey.

"With most of this having happened within the first few hours, and not much since, I think that's a good sign," Scott said. "My gut feeling after looking at sinkholes in this state for 20 years is this has stabilized."

The sinkhole has eaten away part of the driveway to Will and Sharon Ellis' home. Yellow police tape cordoned off the area around the Ellises' home and that of their neighbors, Bob and Judy Garrett. The two families had been evacuated and had moved into a hotel.

"This is one of the three or four biggest we've had in the past 20 years," said Scott, who climbed down into the hole Monday.

A depression that appeared related to the hole grew larger Sunday night under the back corner of Doris and Jerome Chernay's home, a half-block from the original hole. It was estimated to be 25 feet across.

"The little one is a sinkhole that might happen," said Richard Meyer, Volusia County's natural resource manager and a geologist. "The big one is done."

Walt Schmidt, the state's chief geologist, said Monday that the geological structure in the Orange City area is similar to that of Winter Park, where a 350-foot chasm — now known as The Great Winter Park Sinkhole — swallowed a house, five sports cars, a municipal swimming pool and parts of two businesses in May 1981.

Sinkholes form when the earth collapses into underground cavities within limestone. They usually are triggered by changes in the water table. The size of the hole depends on how large the cavity is and how close it is to the surface, he said.

After a while, Schmidt said, they tend to stabilize.

Evangelists say country in crisis

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — The United States is undergoing a "profound social crisis" and is trying to pretend it isn't happening, the president of the National Association of Evangelicals says.

"Socially, the conditions are much worse than the conditions providing the riots" and social transformations of the 1960s, said Don Argue, whose organization represents 50,000 local churches and 75 Christian denominations.

Speaking at NAE's 51st annual convention Monday, Argue said that evangelism has neglected this country while it has successfully converted millions of foreigners to Christianity.

"Evangelism in the United States has become anemic" in the past 25 years, Argue told some 1,000 delegates. "We are not witnessing the mass movements (to Christianity) we are witnessing in Asia, Africa, Europe and Latin America."

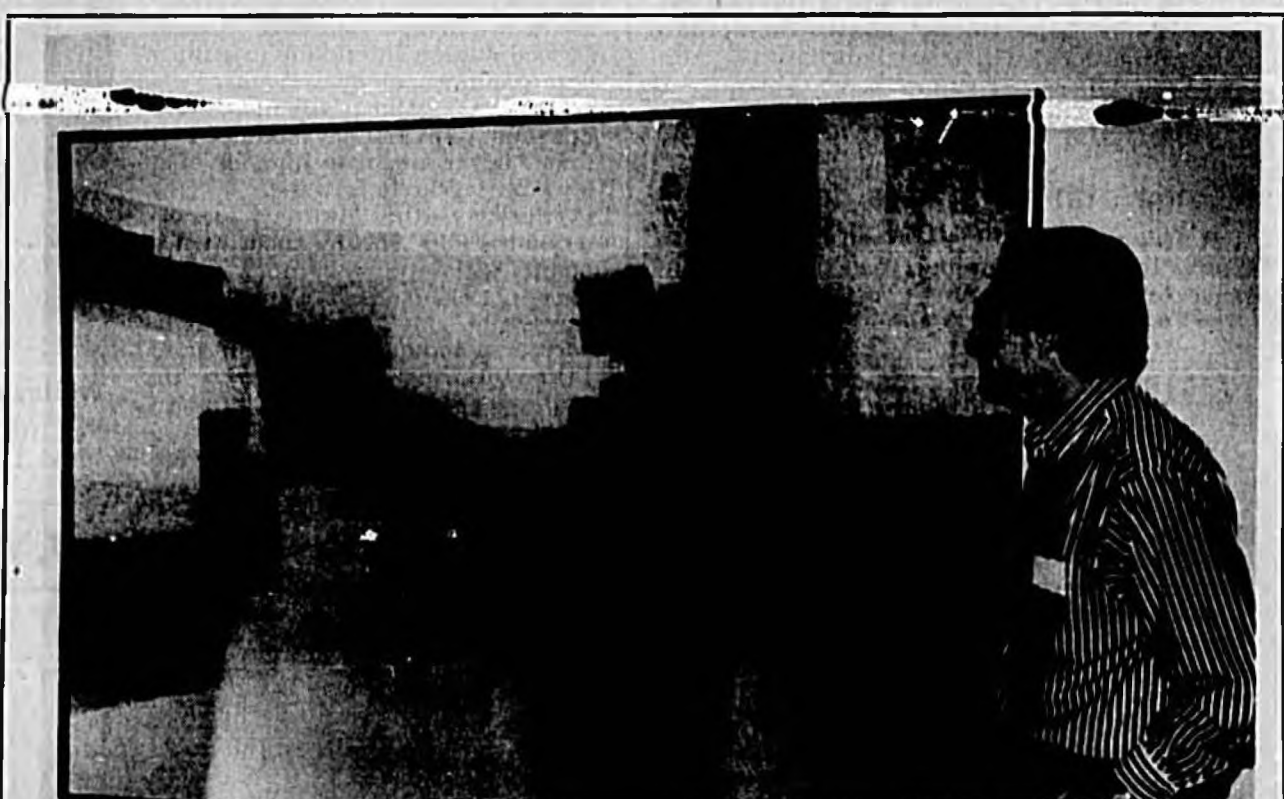

"There is a need for an urgent call for prayer, for revival" in this country, he said.

Contrasting the 1960s with the 1990s, Argue contended there were more homeless and greater urban decay today, along with record inner-city unemployment. Teen-age pregnancy is out of control, and AIDS, Herpes and Hepatitis B pose greater threats to the nation than any other health problems anytime, he added.

Argue also warned evangelicals to steer away from partisan politics because "we are walking a very difficult tightrope so we are not branded... as the radical religious right."

Some already identify the evangelical movement with the Republican Party, Argue indicated without naming the party. "and that's a very dangerous position to be in."

"For NAE to become the religious wing of any political party is not our way," he added, particularly, he said, since governmental leaders have done little to improve morality, ethics and social order.

Bigamist marries six times

Five wives just in Pasco county

NEW PORT RICHEY — It played out just like a soap opera. A woman asks her husband who he's talking to on the phone, and he answers "That is my wife."

However, in the real-life case of Jim William Perry, he not only had his wife Theresa, and his wife Kim, to whom he was speaking on the phone. Authorities say he also had four other wives.

James William Perry, 31, was charged by Pasco sheriff's deputies on Sunday with bigamy, as well as forgery of marriage and divorce documents.

Perry is accused of marrying five women between November 1982 and November 1991, all the while remaining married to his first wife, Kathryn Elizabeth Ferrer. He married her in June 1981. Five of the marriages occurred in Pasco County.

Theresa Perry brought the case to the authorities three months ago after her husband told her frankly about Kimberly Marie Coleman, his fourth wife. "I wanted to kill him,"

Theresa Perry said. "I was hurt. I felt deceived. I felt betrayed and humiliated that he would ever even think of doing something like that."

Authorities said for the most part, Perry was not living with more than one wife at any given time, and he had no children with them. He said he thought some of the women had divorced him, sheriff's Sgt. Oonagh Guenkel said.

The only one of his six wives who did not hail from Pasco County was his fifth, Ms. Coleman. The two were married Oct. 21, 1987 in South Carolina.

Perry remained in the Central Pasco Detention Center on Monday, his bail set at $14,000. The forgery charges mostly stem from falsifying marriage licenses by stating he was not married.

St. John's River boaters see red

JACKSONVILLE — Painting work on Jacksonville Hart Bridge has boaters and residents along the St. Johns River seeing red.

Paint apparently spilled during the yearlong renovation has stained their boats, docks, shoreline and fishing lines, according to complaints filed with state, federal and local officials.

The Coast Guard has sent a letter to the bridge painting contractor, E. Smalls Painting

Co. of Pittsburgh, notifying it that the paint samples taken from the river and bridge were being analyzed.

Lt. Ed Krejci, a Coast Guard spokesman, said the results of the tests are expected in about a week.

Senate panel approves bill Cars used in prostitution may be seized

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Prostitutes, pimps and their customers could have their cars seized under a bill approved Monday by a Senate panel.

The legislation (SB 1250) is facing an uphill battle in the House, but Sen. Mark Foley, R-West Palm Beach, said he still has hope of getting his bill through the lower chamber. Foley said the cars would not be seized for a first offense and that joint ownership and necessity would be considered.

Before the Senate Criminal Justice Committee unanimously approved the measure, it heard from West Palm Beach Mayor Nancy Graham, who has been active in the fight against prostitution.

Last December, Graham paid $1,017 in city funds to buy a newspaper ad listing the names of men arrested for allegedly soliciting prostitutes. The quarter-page ad in The Palm Beach Post listed the names, ages and hometowns of 57 men arrested Nov. 20.

Graham told the lawmakers the dynamics of prostitution have changed substantially in the last decade.

"We're not here talking about a moral problem at all," she said. Ninety-five percent of street prostitutes are addicted to drugs and possibly as many as half carry the virus for acquired immune deficiency syndrome. That not only means AIDS is spread to customers but also means the disease is passed on to babies, Graham said.

"In talking to the prostitutes myself — both former and current — they will tell you they will do anything, anywhere, anytime no matter what for drugs," she told the committee.

And people in their homes, businesses and cars can attest to that, she added.

"They come out to find prostitutes and their customers engaging in acts on their lawns, in their alleys," Graham said. "In fact, one school bus stopped at a red light full of students — only to be able to observe the acts of a prostitute and her customer in a car at the red light."

Prostitution is the number one complaint to local government and yet prostitutes and their customers revolve endlessly through the system, Graham said, citing one woman who had over 500 prostitution arrests and the traffic-like citations given to customers.

"We need for you to help us create some kind of a substantial deterrent effect," Graham said.

In other action Monday, the panel approved a bill (SB 884) that would increase the fee for instant background checks in gun purchases to $8 from $5 and another measure (SB 190) that would make it a third-degree felony to seriously hurt someone because of a drunken boat-operator.

The panel also approved a bill (SB 1872) that would allow attorneys to request that trials be moved to different places because of concerns about public safety or potential unrest.

Another pleads in massive employee insurance fraud

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — The former consultant to a defunct Florida health insurance fund pleaded guilty Monday to charges that he cheated more than 40,000 Florida residents of millions of dollars in medical claims.

John Gazitua, 49-year-old former consultant to Orlando-based International Forum of Florida Health Benefit Trust, was the latest official with the company to plead. Three others pleaded in December.

The International Forum collapse was one of the state's biggest medical insurance collapses in recent years. The Nov. 19 indictments handed down in Orlando allege the five defendants left their policyholders owing their doctors and hospitals $29 million.

Gazitua, of Miami, admitted he and others schemed to cheat health fund participants by creating fictitious corporations that posed as legitimate service providers, but were used instead to channel millions of dollars to himself and others. Gazitua also admitted mailing fraudulent documents to solicit health insurance business.

Gazitua agreed to make full restitution to the victims. He is accused of fraudulent collecting $34 million.

Rape suspect arrested in Virginia

PORT ST. LUCIE (AP) — A man accused of kidnapping and raping the 17-year-old daughter of his ex-girlfriend was arrested in Virginia and was to be returned to St. Lucie County, police said.

Fran Elderbroom, 58, of Riviera Beach, was arraigned Monday morning in Norfolk, Va., after a weeklong investigation led St. Lucie authorities to his hotel room there.

Police said they were given a tip he was headed to update New York and would stop overnight in a hotel in Norfolk. Elderbroom will be charged with one count of aggravated kidnapping with a firearm and three counts of aggravated sexual battery with a firearm, said Mark Weinberg, spokesman for the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Office.

He pleaded guilty to conspiracy, mail fraud, embezzlement, taking kickbacks from an employee benefit plan, money laundering and racketeering.

In December, three of the five people accused of defrauding the small business employees pleaded guilty.

George V. Doherty, the former chief trustee of the now-defunct International Forum, and company service providers April Marie McGlawn and Robert L.

Searle pleaded guilty.

The remaining defendant, Kenneth Rutter, a 49-year-old service provider of Miami, went on trial Monday in federal court in Orlando.

Arvida helping build the future

Businesses should invest in their futures by supporting the schools from which future customers and employees will come.

Arvida, the developer of the Heathrow community, has been investing in the schools of Seminole County, especially Seminole High School and Heathrow Elementary School, for at least three years. And for that, they have been singled out by Betty Castor, the state's commissioner of education.

The state Department of Education recently applauded the company's efforts in helping those schools improve the quality of education to its students.

On Friday, March 12, Arvida and other companies from around the state who have made a commitment to schools in their communities, will be honored by the state in a ceremony at Universal Studios.

The Sanford Herald joins the state Department of Education in thanking these companies, especially Arvida, which has taken a special interest in the education and the future of students in this community.

They are making an investment in the future that will reap benefits far beyond the monetary. The students whose lives and opportunities are improved will be forever touched by the commitment made by Arvida.

Whether providing landscaping materials or volunteers to help give young, at-risk students strong role models, the company is very involved in local school improvement.

Over the past year, they have provided their partner schools with more than $150,000 in contributions, materials and pledges for services.

Arvida is setting an example with the work they are doing to help the students become better employees and consumers.

What price species extinction?

Edward O. Wilson has never surrendered the child's inestimable gift of wonder at the magnificence of life and nature. That gift has led him into rain forests and jungles, to the scholarly documentation of the complex world of ants that won him his second Pulitzer Prize, to the lecture halls of Harvard and to the curatorship of the university's Museum of Comparative Zoology. The journey has been rewarding.

That same gift now compels him as he warns and awakens the world to a human-caused spasm of species extinction unparalleled since the abrupt end of the Age of Dinosaurs 65 million years ago.

"At the rate at which we are sacrificing biodiversity, 20 percent of all species will be lost during the next 30 years," he says. He is in his university office where colonies of Puerto Rican leaf-cutting ants in special containers on the countertops, the books and articles he has written over decades of work line the shelves, and walking sticks and machetes are reminders of field trips to such places as Panama's Barro Colorado Island.

Just as understanding the forces governing the particles of matter illuminates the Big Bang, Wilson's concentration on minute detail revealed to him the broader universe of biological diversity, the sum of all life's hereditary variety. In his pursuit of how and why living things work as they do, he saw mounting evidence of an extinction catastrophe under way, what he has termed a force that may "break the crucible of evolution."

This insight has driven Ed Wilson to the forefront of those calling for protection of the world's biological diversity before worse damage becomes irreversible. His latest book, "The Diversity of Life," is an impassioned plea to draw back from the precipice of further extinctions. It is in rank with Rachael Carson's "Silent Spring." "There is nothing natural about the kind of extinction that humanity is causing," he says. The destruction of wild habitat on a timescale of decades is exponentially accelerating the natural attrition of species that occurs on the timescale of millions of years. Wilson estimates that the current rate of species extinction attributable to human action is 1,000 to 10,000 times faster than anything that has diminished species diversity since the dinosaurs were wiped out, possibly by a meteor impact, cons ago.

This shriveling of life is the most colossal experiment humankind is currently imposing upon the planet. Unlike other experiments we've stumbled into, such as the depletion of the ozone layer and global climate change, the consequences of mass species extinction are permanent on any scale of time relevant to human experience. Recovery from each of the past five extinction episodes in the chronicle of life on this planet has taken an average of 10 million years.

Wilson argues for the intrinsic value of every life form, no matter how small or obscure. "Each species is a miracle," he says, "the product of enormous amounts of genetic evolution over tens of thousands or even millions of years."

When did I turn into my mother?

We've heard a lot about men and "midlife crisis" over the last decade, and, frankly, I think they're getting a bad rap. A man can't do ANYTHING he wants to without someone saying, "Oh, he must be having a midlife crisis."

He buys a Corvette after spending 20 years supporting a family and driving a K-Car that's still at a stoplight somewhere trying to get up enough rpms to move out, and the first thing you hear is "midlife crisis."

Or he leaves a marriage where he and the missus got along like Pat Buchanan and Jerry Brown, and she's just discovered the deep spirituality of selling Amway, and it's "Lloyd left Martha after ALL THESE YEARS? Midlife crisis!"

I will admit, there are some men who fall victim to a malady that would probably defy any description other than an actual midlife crisis. Suddenly, a guy who looks like Don Rickles receives a direct message from God that 20-year-old models will be interested in him. The last Don Rickles look-a-like I observed set me wondering: Why don't we see this phenomenon in women, or do we? If so, how does it manifest itself?

I know just one woman who married a man much younger than she is, and then only after he chased her a good long while. I've never seen a woman start driving a hot sports car one day after having been a station-wagon kind of gal all her life, or come to work one day with a whole new wardrobe and radically different hairdo. So I can't say for sure if women experience what we call midlife crises or not.

But I have begun to think if there is such a thing it may have something to do with coming to the realization that we have become our mothers. This awful truth has come to me in increments over the last year, and each time I get a glimpse, I am overcome with the urge to do something desperate in the other direction.

For example, it wasn't too long ago that I found myself in a music store looking for some contemporary music that I could enjoy enough to justify paying 10 bucks a tape for, and still not feel ashamed playing when I have younger guests. The episode started innocently enough. A nice 22-year-old man I work with asked me what kind of rock music I like to listen to. "Well, I guess the Rolling Stones," I said. "I haven't been able to make out many of the words to the songs from any of the new groups."

Even as I was uttering the words, I realized those were almost exactly the same ones I'd heard from my own parents 25 years ago, only they were talking about Lawrence Welk. Yipes! Then to make matters worse, the best way I can describe the look on that young man's face is the way Jennifer Jones looked in "The Song of Bernadette" when she saw the Virgin Mary at Lourdes. He knew he was seeing a genuine miracle, a woman who still thinks a 49-year-old man who struts around the stage like a chicken and looks like 80 pounds of bad leather is a contemporary rock musician worth listening to.

Perhaps the most definitive evidence of my complete metamorphosis into my mother was when my 19-year-old secretary came into work recently, purple in the face from being at the Department of Revenue trying to license her new car. I listened patiently while she recounted the hour she spent standing in various lines only to find out she didn't have all the documents she needed, when I heard my mother's voice spring from my head like the Devil's from Linda Blair's:

"I find it's most expedient to read the back of your title application and find out everything you need."

Look right here for police chief

I remember some years ago when I was in high school, we had to learn the Booker T. Washington address. I have since then forgotten most of it. But there are a couple of lines that read "Water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink." And a voice came back saying, "Cast down your buckets where you are." Let me first apologize to my readers if I have misquoted those lines. But my point is, while the officials of this city are searching for a new police chief, I am saying to them "cast down your buckets where you are."

The city officials have the power and authority to adjust and change any requirement that has previously been written. If a man/woman has worked himself/herself from the bottom to almost the top, if he/she had what it took to get where they are now, what then prevents him/her from advancing?

It seems to me that experience would surely take priority over any degree. I would rather have an experienced surgeon operating on me than one who is fresh out of medical school. There is an old saying "A new broom may sweep the cleanest, but the old broom knows where the dirt is." This may be the problem for some.

I recall some years ago when I was in the armed service, they sent one of those "90 day wonders" to take charge of us. We had to take time to teach him everything while our work slowed down. If you must have a chief with a college degree, you will pay the price for time to teach and familiarize him/her with Sanford and its problems. And the ones who will do that are the ones who are already on the force, is it worth letting the problems of this city get worse just to train and indoctrinate a new chief? Some of us are worried about the so-called "good old boys" attitude. How can any of us be assured that the "new boy" would not become one of the "old boys." There is an advantage we have and that is we know the acting chief. And not only that he knows the city. Why not take him and place before him your demands and desires and see that he responds to the needs of this city. I am well aware that there are those who are in opposition to my suggestion, but that is what democracy is all about.

Permit me to make a plea to the citizens of this city. We must become involved, we must care, and we must act. There is nothing more effective than cooperation.

Choice for chief

The issue before us today is who will be our next chief of police? It's a valid question that's been on many people's minds of late.

The Civil Service Board has made its decision, and it was a good one. The minimum requirements call for a 4-year college degree, and will not be changed. That settled, it is time to move ahead in the search for a new chief.

So far only one applicant with the educational requirements has applied. Unfortunately, this individual is too young, inexperienced and lacking the established leadership qualities in this particular field to be the chief that Sanford sorely needs.

As of this writing the Sanford Police Department has a total of six individuals with the required educational requirements, ranging in rank from lieutenant down to corporal. As far as years of experience and proven leadership ability, the list narrows to one man and one woman only. That person is Lt. William Hassan. The question to ponder is why hasn't the city government approached him or any of these men? Lt. Hassan has major support among the rank and file at the police department. I hear this often. He is a fair, honest, and just man, yet knows how to be firm when the occasion calls for it. This man has the ability to put trust back into a department that has been in disarray for far too long. Officers are afraid to trust each other because of "office politics." This will stop under his command. Lt. Hassan knows how to separate his friendships from the business of running the department. He will show no favoritism. So if he is made our next chief, those few men with the puckered lips will have only each other's butts to kiss. It'll be good-bye to good old boy politics under his command. Lt. Hassan will retire in five years, but in that length of time he can turn the department around 180 degrees. This will only happen though if city government will give him the leeway to do the job right without having to pander to petty special interest groups.

Everyone wonders what our illustrious city commission is up to, nothing good most likely. What's it take to move this bunch of constipated nincompoops to do the right thing? A swift kick in the backside! I think we'd wear our legs out first before we saw any movement.

The commissioners are doing a great disservice to all city residents by prolonging this matter. Do these people deserve our trust anymore?

I suppose they could come up with some hairbrained idea of giving the prospective chief 2, 3 or 4 years to meet the educational requirements, but that would still leave the department without a chief. Getting a degree would be a full-time job in itself, and it's tougher to get one now than when I got mine. You can't be chief and a full-time student at the same time. Besides, by the time he graduated he'd just about be ready to retire.

Has anyone thought that maybe Florida's Sunshine Law has been breached? It's just a thought. Something stinks in all of this and the stench isn't coming from just the downtown area either, a strong odor is coming from the county's way too. All I can say folks is break out the air fresheners because the stench is going to get a lot worse before this is all over.

On health care system

It is now obvious to most citizens, "This country has no future unless we deal with health care costs." (Gov. Mario Cuomo, "C-Span," February, 1993). Also obvious, is the foreboding threat of loss to health care access by those who now have it, except for the rich.

I now see a third deadly facet that is seldom discussed. And that is the lack of information available to help the public protect themselves from our doctors and hospitals. We need to know which doctors have been sued and why. We need to know the mortality rates of hospitals.

The present Mafia structure of our health care system is dangerous and in such a mess it forces the question: do we have a health care system worth saving? No! Not without a single-payer system with the strictest of guidelines that physicians and hospitals are forced to follow. And where the deviants show up on a central computer.

We have a structure which allows doctors to masquerade as experts and hide behind a self-built wall of protection. Where their sense of rugged individualism or autonomy and place of hierarchy kills people. Where an over-supply of surgeons use naive and trusting patients to hone their skills and stuff their wallets. Where kickbacks for new patients, patient referrals and from doctor-owned labs is rampant (TV, "Prime Time," Feb. 11, 1993). Where fraud is projected to be $100 billion by 1995 (Sarasota Herald Tribune, May 7, 1992).

For instance, in 1976 in Los Angeles, "doctors staged a work slow-down...there was virtually a steady decline of deaths during the time of the slow-down and as soon as the work action ended, and elective surgery was resumed, there was a substantial jump in the mortality rate." ("Medicine on Trial," 1988, People's Medical Society, Prentice Hall Press.)

We have a structure where hospitals spread infection, refuse the public access to mortality rates, use an indecipherable, easily falsified accounting system to shift costs for indigent care to the paying patients. And they continue to overbuild, hire more people to operate under utilized high-tech machinery in spite of the fact in Florida we have a 53.7 percent occupancy rate, which means 46.3 percent of the beds are empty.

Do we have the sanity to stop our incompetent, greedy, arrogant, inward-directed, dangerous medical system by passing a single-payer system with strict medical guidelines and absolute control on costs? If you do, write and re-write your legislators both state and federal for this system. An added bonus: the correction of the one-third waste in present costs for health care.

ness, which would result in a $300 to $400 per month loss.

Patrick Leonard, in a statement, said McClanahan stopped by the station and told him if he didn't "do something about it," he would lose business from three families and nine or 10 cars' worth of business.

Eckstein said the events went somewhat differently.

"I never raised my voice," said Eckstein. "I simply asked for an apology. He called me an SOB and when I asked for an apology, he hung up."

Eckstein said he called Acting Police Ralph Russell earlier in the day to assure him of his support for the police department.

Eckstein said he called Leonard Shell to speak with Sheaffer but spoke with one of the two brothers who owns the business. He said he never threatened to steer business away from the gasoline station unless the Leonards spoke with Sheaffer, but admitted to saying he would take his own family's business elsewhere.

"I have a right to take my business where I please," said Eckstein. "I love the Leonard boys. I taught them in school. I carried them on my back at Disney World. I can't tell you (why they signed statements against him)."

In closing, Eckstein said he can provide a written account of his actions should the matter be investigated by state law enforcement officials.

Chief

When the vote was called, Thomas joined the other three, and provided the fourth required vote.

The proposal not only involves the police chief, but the positions of city clerk and fire chief as well.

Howell's motion was to have the city attorney prepare an ordinance which would eliminate the three positions from civil service control, and place them under direct authority of the commission.

behind the person being considered for the job as chief. They are a happy family."

"Although a person might have a full degree," he added, "that doesn't automatically mean he would make a good police chief. So I feel, for the good of the city, that I should support this motion. I believe this is something that is good for all the citizens."

In casting the lone negative vote, Mayor Smith said, "In spite of what was said by my opponent during the political campaign last fall, I have always believed it would be important to advertise for the chief's job nationally, so we would have the best chief possible for the city."

She continued, "I believe bending the rules is sending the wrong message to other people. The rules are there for a reason and should be followed."

Smith said her decision had nothing to do with Capt. Russell,

"but I just feel I should vote my conscience."

The vote last night will allow Colbert to prepare an ordinance which will be presented for first reading at the next commission meeting scheduled for March 22, and second reading at the April 12 meeting.

If the ordinance obtains approval when presented, it will specifically be to change the civil service section which covers jurisdiction over the three positions. A move to hire Russell as police chief would still be required to pass the commission.

Smith commented, "I want everyone to know there will be public hearings when these are presented, so everyone will have an opportunity to speak on this."

Over a half dozen uniformed police officers and several in plain clothes were in the audience during the discussion.

"It was beautiful last year," Brock said. "We are praying for more of the same this year."

Weather predictions indicate this could be a dry, comfortable weekend, with little chance of rain and temperatures in the mid-70s.

"We're doing our best," Brock said.

David Burton, associate director of evangelism for the Florida Baptist Convention, will be the featured speaker at the Saturday function.

There will also be face painting, evangelism from Freedom the Clown and a variety of athletic events ranging from the nine-legged race and the friabee toss to the biscuit relay to the water slide.

"These are all just for fun," Brock said. "Anyone can enter and we encourage community participation."

Included in the exhibits at the Youth Blast will be a conglomeration of displays by local and state law enforcement departments.

The Florida Highway Patrol will bring a display of safety tips and law enforcement awareness.

"We hope to have some marked patrol cars and officers out there to meet the young people," said Sgt. Alvin Beverly, public relations officer for the FHP's Seminole-West Volusia auxiliary unit. "We want to show the young people that law enforcement officers are regular people."

Lt. Mike Rotundo of the Sanford Police Department said the department will be sending out several officers and the BAT (Blood Alcohol Testing) Mobile. Tours of the vehicle and demonstrations will be offered, he said.

In addition to good times, there will be good food as well.

"They told us they would have about 400 employees the first year of their operations," Cooke told the commissioners. "The salaries would range on the average of $30,000."

Regarding the economic impact, he predicted at least $110,000 in ad valorem taxes per year to the city by the business operation, plus additional taxes paid by the employees purchasing homes and spending money in Sanford.

In making his presentation, Cooke requested the city support affairs investigator, turned himself in to deputies at the county jail Monday evening. The 40-year-old DeBary man makes a first appearance in court today. If convicted, the former county jailer faces a state prison term of up to five years. Johnson began work for Seminole County as a jail attendant in June 1973. He was sworn as a deputy soon after.

Until recently, Johnson served several years as SRO to Seminole High.

A Sanford nurse's aide reported to police that Johnson has been continually harassing her for some time, said Sanford Lt. Mike Rotundo. The contacts included telephone calls, unannounced visits and showing up at social gatherings where she was, said Rotundo. The woman reported Johnson threatened to harm her, but never did. The two had a former relationship that had gone awry, said Rotundo.

Rotundo said the woman filed a complaint with police after he showed up at a recent gathering at Fitzgerald's and ordered her outside.

"I guess she just had enough after that," said Rotundo.

Sheriff Don Ealinger said Johnson has been suspended with pay pending the outcome of sheriff's and police investigations.

Technology safeguards CDs with new anti-theft device

DEERFIELD BEACH — A leading recording industry group is banking on anti-theft technology to keep down the number of compact discs stolen from stores, even after the industry eliminates the "long box" packaging.

Sensormatic Electronics Corp. announced Monday its system to stop shoplifting had been chosen as the standard by the National Association of Recording Merchandisers.

The group's decision came after a fiercely competitive bid including a lawsuit by Sensormatic against a top contender, Checkpoint Systems Inc., of Thorofare, N.J.

The 900-member NARM chose Sensormatic over several companies, including Checkpoint. Sensormatic is a dominant player in the business of supplying electronic security systems to retailers.

Sensormatic's Ultra-Max acousto-magnetic labels will be affixed to CDs and cassettes at the point of manufacturing. The labels activate an alarm if they are carried out of the store without being deactivated at the cash register.

The technology is particularly important to the industry since it plans to do away with cardboard "long boxes" for CDs on April 1 for environmental reasons.

The recordings will be shipped only in their plastic "jewel boxes," which are more subject to theft.

Ronald G. Assaf, president and chief executive of Sensormatic, said putting security labels on merchandise at the point of manufacture would be a great help in fighting theft.

"The industry in April does away with the long box and that's certainly going to increase shoplifting," he said. "Source labeling will allow retailers to maintain their prices."

Many major music store chains already use Ultra-Max. Including the Musicland Group, a leading national music retailer; Tower Records; Warehouse Entertainment and Trans World Music.

There are more than 14,000 music stores in the U.S. and 850 million cassettes and CDs are expected to be sold in 1993.

Assaf said Monday the competition for the NARM contract was fierce, but he was happy with the results.

"It got a little out of hand, but hopefully this can be good for the industry in total," he said.

Not only good for the industry, but for profits as well.

Chris Brown, Sensormatic's market development manager, told The Wall Street Journal the retailers' decision means as much as $25 million in new revenue for installing hardware. The company expects as much as $15 million in annual revenue when the system is fully implemented, he said.

Sensormatic reported profits of $31.5 million on revenue of $309.8 million in the fiscal year that ended last June.

In January, Sensormatic filed a $35 million lawsuit against Checkpoint, claiming false and misleading advertising about Sensormatic. The lawsuit is pending in federal court in Miami.

The lawsuit came after an ad in the Jan. 9 issue of Billboard magazine that claimed Sensormatic's tags can distort tape recordings when they are deactivated. Checkpoint cited studies, but Sensormatic questioned them.

No one at Checkpoint's offices was immediately available Monday to comment on the decision. But Neil Austin, a company vice president and counsel, said earlier that he was confident the testing of the systems would be fair.

Blockbuster getting bigger

FORT LAUDERDALE — Blockbuster Entertainment Corp. has jumped on the opportunity to become a major force in the making and distributing of filmed entertainment, its chairman and chief executive officer says.

The Fort Lauderdale-based video store operator announced Monday it would buy 48.2 percent of the common stock of Spelling Entertainment Group Inc., a television producer and distributor.

"To be associated with Aaron Spelling, one of the television industry's most creative and profitable producers of network programming, is an outstanding opportunity for Blockbuster," H. Wayne Hutzenga said.

Blockbuster will acquire approximately 24.5 million shares of Spelling's common stock through a swap with American Financial Corporation, a Cincinnati-based insurance and investment holding company. The shares represent American's entire stake in Spelling.

Blockbuster also will give approximately 7.6 million shares of its common stock to American. In addition, the company will issue to American Financial warrants to acquire 2 million shares of Blockbuster common stock at a price of $25 per share.

Spelling Entertainment Group, based in Los Angeles, was a leading television show producer in the 1970s and has a library that includes TV series, feature films, television movies, mini-series and specials.

The library includes more than 55 former network series such as "Little House on the Prairie," "The Love Boat," "Dynasty," "Dallas," and "Twin Peaks," and a selection of feature films including "Basic Instinct," "Total Recall," "Terminator 2," "Platoon" and the "Rambo" trilogy.

Spelling Entertainment is the producer of the hit network series "Beverly Hills, 90210" and "Melrose Place" as well as a number of made-for-television movies.

Blockbuster's video division included 3,127 video stores as of Dec. 31 in 48 states and nine foreign countries. Of those, 1,125 are franchise-owned and 2,002 were company-owned. Its music division includes 238 Sound Warehouse and Music Plus stores in 40 U.S. cities.

Blockbuster shares rose 1 1/4 cents in trading on the New York Stock Exchange to close at $18.75. Spelling fell 1 1/4 cents on the Big Board to finish at $6.87 1/2. American is privately held.

Hendrix Antiques - Where Your Satisfaction Is Our Business

Located two and a half miles west of Oviedo on State Road 419/434, is Hendrix Antiques. Hendrix Antiques is owned and operated by Walter Hendrix. A father of six children, one of which still lives at home. Mr. Hendrix has spent the last 31 years with the same loving wife, and working in the same business, making old look new.

When asked what makes him different from other refinishers in the area, he replied, "nothing, I just feel that the customers should be satisfied to the best of my ability." He learned the art of refinishing antiques from "one of the area's best refinishers," D.L. Montgomery.

He takes a lot of pride in his work and it is guaranteed. Some of his customers have had their furniture shipped in from miles away to have it redone. People are pleased enough with his work to ship their furniture from Miami to have it refinished. He has had repeat customers for more than 21 years, and has been in the same location for over 23 years.

Mr. Hendrix says he will take in any wood piece in any condition, strip it to the bare wood, repair it and prepare it for a new finish. All stripping is done by hand, not dipped, for more careful attention to quality and results. Mr. Hendrix can also handle pieces for commercial offices, such as desks, chairs and typing stands. Some pieces Mr. Hendrix recently worked on are from some of the area churches such as: All Souls, Mt. Calvary, and First Baptist. He recently refinished all of the church furniture for St. James Methodist Church.

Besides refinishing, Mr. Hendrix also pastors Friendship Missionary Baptist Church in DeLand, for the past three years, so you can be assured that Hendrix Antiques is a Christian Family Business. Mr. Hendrix has even taught 4 of his children the art of furniture refinishing.

Mr. Hendrix is always happy to give a free estimate, and does free pick up and delivery six days a week. Mon.-Sat. 8:30 am - 4 pm. No job is too small. "If it's broken, I will fix it. If it is dull and scratched, I'll make it look new."

Mr. Hendrix refinishes and sells antique furniture. Some of the items he has for sale are chairs, mirrors, tables, rockers, buffets, chest of drawers, and much more. Mr. Hendrix says "we try to please everyone." So if you're looking for someone who will do a quality refinishing job or would like to see some of the items for sale call Walter Hendrix today at 365-3740 or stop by at 2 miles west of Oviedo on S.R. 419/434.

GARY MILLER, OWNER

Federated to expand network after their bankruptcy recovery

CINCINNATI — Federated Department Stores Inc. is recovering from U.S. Bankruptcy Court protection so well that the Cincinnati-based retailer says it will expand its nationwide network of stores.

Federated announced fourth quarter earnings Monday of $99 million, or 78 cents per share. And for the fiscal year ended Jan. 30, Federated earned $113 million, or $1.01 per share.

Net income would have been $105.1 million for the quarter and $132.7 million for the year. However the total was reduced by $19.7 million in expenses during the year for refinancing of credit operations and repaying $950 million in long-term debt, Federated said.

Federated's nine department store groups are Lazarus, based in Cincinnati; Bloomingdale's and Abraham & Straus, New York; The Bon Marche, Seattle; Burdines, Miami; Goldsmith's, Memphis, Tenn.; Jordan Marsh, Boston; Rich's, Atlanta; and Sterns, Paramus, N.J.

Janet Mangano, vice president of Burnham Securities Inc. in New York, said the earnings show how well Federated's management has been doing to ensure the retailer's comeback.

"They've done an excellent job," she said. "It isn't just the past year. It's the work they've done since filing for Chapter 11. It's the fruits of their labor for the past three years."

The department store chain emerged from two years of reorganization, from 1990, under public ownership. On Monday, Federated said it obtained approval from its bank lenders to increase spending by $461 million the next three years to $1.2 billion. The money will be spent on store construction and renovation, and new operating technology.

In a separate action, Federated's board released restrictions on transfers of stock issued to creditors when the company emerged from reorganization. The release, effective April 5, frees 18 million shares of stock for unrestricted market sale.

Including those shares, there are 126 million shares of Federated common stock outstanding.

It was the last group of shares whose sale Federated had restricted. The restrictions were imposed to stabilize trading of Federated's stock during its emergence from reorganization. The restrictions were to last until August 1994.

Nutmeg reports record sales

TAMPA — Nutmeg Industries Inc., a sportswear manufacturer, Monday reported sales of $160 million and earnings of $11.45 million for the fiscal year ending Jan. 30, both record highs.

The company said the fourth-quarter was its 11th consecutive quarter of record sales earnings. Sales of $41 million produced earnings of $3.5 million, or 19 cents per share, in the last quarter compared to sales of $36.8 million and earnings of $2.7 million, or 15 cents a share, a year ago.

Per share earnings for the year increased 30 percent to 61 cents this year compared to 47 cents a year ago. The per share amounts reflect three-for-two stock splits in January and June last year.

Richard E. Jacobson, chairman and chief executive officer, said the company ended the year with no short or long term debt; more than $3 million in cash and $85 million in equity.

"As satisfying as this year's results have been, they could have been better," Richardson said. He was referring to the termination of Saturday's Hero joint venture which contributed $16 million in sales to fiscal 1992 results and closed in January 1992.

He said he expected international business to be boosted by the acquisition earlier this year of Tryrare Limited, a British sportswear manufacturer.

Nutmeg designs, manufactures and markets sportswear under licenses granted by major professional sports groups and many leading universities and colleges.

Company must save Jonestown

GEORGETOWN, Guyana — The government has ordered a halt to a timber company's destruction of Jonestown, the jungle settlement where a messianic preacher and 912 followers committed suicide in 1978.

President Cheddi Jagan's Cabinet instructed the Works Ministry to block work at the site by the Barama Timber Co., according to the weekend edition of the Mirror newspaper, published by the governing People's Progressive Party.

Barama, jointly owned by Sunkyoung Ltd. of Korea and Samling Corporation of Malaysia, has extensive rights to cut timber in the forests of Guyana, a largely undeveloped country on South America's northwest shoulder.

In recent years abandoned and largely overgrown, Jonestown was developed by the Rev. Jim Jones, an American preacher who moved his Bible-based People's Temple sect from San Francisco to this former British colony.

On Nov. 18, 1978, Jones and 912 followers committed suicide by drinking cyanide-laced grape punch from a bathtub after killing Rep. Leo Ryan of California and four others who had come to check on allegations that members of the colony were being abused and held against their will.

One of the journalists accompanying Ryan, Charles Krause, said Monday that he was not surprised that Guyana had permitted the timber company's initial move into Jonestown.

"I think the Guyanese governments — both the past and present — have no intention in preserving Jonestown because they believed that what happened there was an aberration," said Krause, author of "Guyana Massacre: The Eyewitness Account."

House urges Chiles to end bear hunt

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

FALLAHASSEE — The Florida black bear may follow the path of the endangered Florida panther if hunters are allowed to continue killing the animals, say 22 of the state's U.S. representatives.

Only about 30 panthers are believed to be in the wild compared to 1,200 Florida black bears.

The U.S. House members Monday sent a letter to Gov. Lawton Chiles urging an end to the bear hunt.

The Bush administration last year settled a lawsuit by agreeing to list the bear as threatened or endangered by September 1996, which would outlaw hunting.

But that may be too late, said Rep. Porter Goss, who authored the letter.

"There is one indisputable fact that we have to understand: extinction is forever," said Goss, R-Sandwich. "If we don't do something to help the black bear today, there may not be any to protect in 1996 and that would be a tragic, irreversible loss."

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has determined the Florida black bear is threatened with extinction but did not list it as an endangered species because of a backlog of at least 101 other species waiting to be listed, the letter states.

The only one of the 24 House members from Florida not signing was Rep. Charles Canady, R-Lakeland. He was ill last week and his position on the issue is unknown, said Wayne D. DeLoach, a U.S. House spokesman in Tallahassee.

Chiles has long opposed bear hunting and will bring the letter to the attention of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said Anthony A. Spokeswoman for the governor, although the commission is an independent agency and he cannot tell it what to do, she said.

Hunting is allowed in North Florida on the 1.6 million-acre Apalachicola National Forest, southwest of Tallahassee, and on private property in Baker and Columbia counties.

From 30 to 50 bears are killed each year during limited hunting seasons based on surveys of the bear population, said a commission spokesman Henry Cabbage.

The last Apalachicola season was only from Nov. 30 to Dec. 11. The Baker-Columbia season went from Nov. 8 through Jan. 21.

Maryland official arrested in Florida

CUMBERLAND Md. — City administrator Ted Ryan Jr. was ordered held without bond until a bail review hearing today on charges he and his brother kidnapped five people and extorted $100,000.

Ryan, 49, and his brother are accused of kidnaping a Port Charlotte, Fla., jewelry store owner and four others, including two teen-age girls, and threatening them with explosives, police said.

Ryan was charged Monday with 12 felony counts in the Jan. 22 incident. He was arrested as he returned to city hall after having lunch with the mayor, police said.

Ryan, who was hired to the $50,000-a-year post Jan. 18, told reporters on his way to District Court Monday evening that "they've got the wrong man."

He also said he was sorry for any embarrassment he may have caused the city.

The store owner, Steven Duke, 42, of Port Charlotte, said the kidnappers got into his girlfriend's house after pretending to be interested in buying it and held her hostage. Duke's girlfriend, her 13-year-old daughter, her 14-year-old son and the real estate agent.

When Duke arrived six hours later, they taped explosives and a radio-controlled detonator to his chest and said they knew he had half million dollars in drug money, Duke said. He told them he didn't have any drug money and gave them the $100,000 after he was driven to his home.

Duke was then brought back to his girlfriend's house.

Then they threatened they would kill them if they didn't work with them in the Charlotte, Fla., Sheriff's Department and they would know if they contacted police. And if we did they would be back to kill us," Duke said.

Duke did not report the incident to local authorities until Monday.

Duke, who is formerly of Pikeville, Md., said he still has not recovered the stolen money.

City officials said Ryan has been charged with five counts of kidnaping, five counts of aggravated assault with a firearm and two counts of robbery with a firearm.

Cumberland officials scheduled an executive session Monday night to discuss Ryan's arrest. Ryan was placed on administrative leave with pay pending an investigation into the matter.

Ryan's 13-year-old brother, Robert, was arrested Feb. 3 in Orlando and charged with use of a firearm in the commission of a felony, five counts of kidnaping, two counts of grand theft and two counts of threatening to use explosive devices.

Ryan appeared before District Court Commissioner Alan Dougherty early Monday evening and was ordered held without bail at the Allegany County Detention Center. A bail review hearing was scheduled this afternoon.

Cumberland police said they were awaiting extradition orders from Florida authorities.

An extensive background check conducted before Ryan was hired by the city did not turn up anything unusual, city officials said.

There was no reason not to pursue him, Mayor William A. Adams said. Adams said he had lunch with Ryan on the day he was hired and at 4:30 p.m. he was in the city.

Ryan's professional and civic affiliations were listed in the city directory.

Sanford Herald reporter Bill Kaczor was arrested Monday night in an attempt to interview Ryan.

Adams said he was contacted Monday by a person who said he had information regarding Ryan for the city. Adams said he was not sure if the person was a source or not, but he did not contact anyone.

Florida courts ordered Ryan's police file, including his address and phone number, turned over to the Allegany County police. The police said they would be in contact with Ryan's attorney in Florida this afternoon.

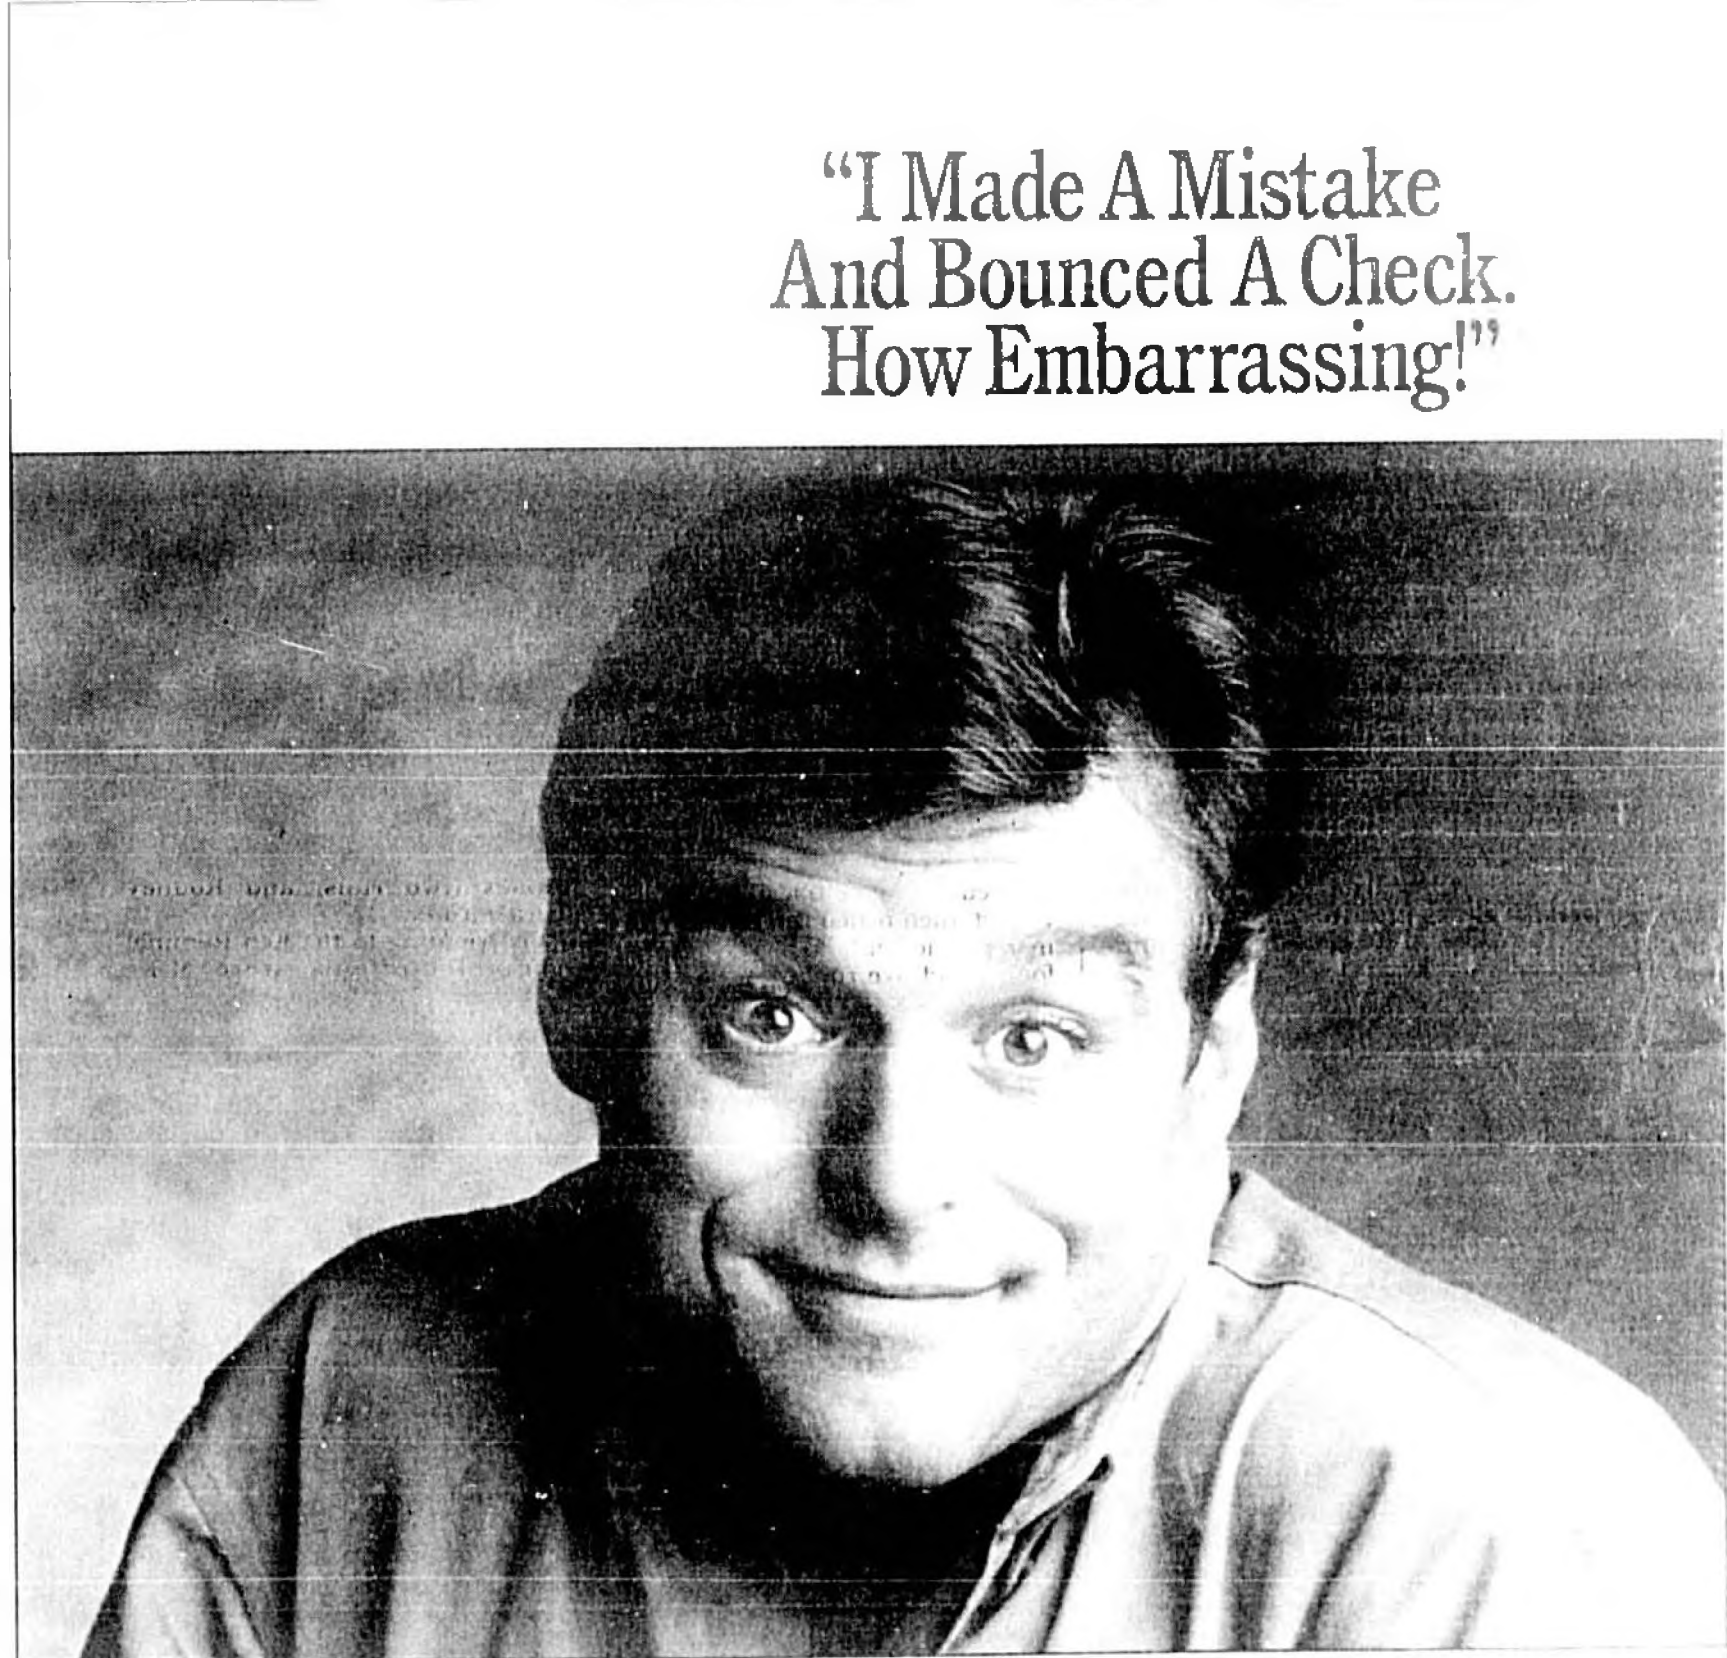

After verifying a warrant issued on the nationally known warrant for Ryan's arrest, police said they were working to obtain a warrant to search for Ryan's residence in Florida this afternoon.

Hail the champions

Hardee's, Fleet Reserve Branch 147 claim titles

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — There is nothing more exciting in sports than a playoff game to decide a champion. And it's even better with three teams.

After the regular season of the Junior Division of the Sanford Recreation Department Youth Basketball League ended in a three-way tie between Calvary Apostolic Temple, Sanford Electric and Hardee's last week, the league was forced to put on a three-team playoff this past Saturday at the Sanford Middle School Gymnasium.

After a coin flip, Calvary and Sanford Electric squared off in the first game with Calvary outscoring Sanford Electric 15-14 in the fourth period to advance to the finals by the score of 38-37.

Calvary got off to a good start in the championship game, building a 21-14 halftime edge, but Hardee's proved to be too much, outscoring Calvary 19-7 in the fourth quarter to claim the league title, 45-38.

All three teams had ended the regular season with impressive 8-1 records.

The final Junior Boys' Division standings were: Hardee's (9-1), Calvary Apostolic Temple (9-2), Sanford Electric (8-2), Christo's Restaurant (6-3), the Sunnland Corporation Juniors and Sanford Antiques (both 4-5), the Fleet Reserve Ladies Auxiliary (3-6), Sanford Ace Hardware and Rich Plan (both 2-7) and Sanford Paint and Body (0-9).

The Junior Division was not the only championship decided this past Saturday, as the Senior Boys' Division also came down to the final week with the Fleet Reserve Branch 147 holding a one-game lead over the American Legion. A loss by the Fleet and a win by the American Legion would force another playoff.

But the Fleet Reserve Branch 147 ended all hopes for the American Legion with a 61-15 drubbing of the Sunnland Corporation Seniors.

The American Legion did not let the Fleet victory affect its play, however, as it held A.B.B. Power Distribution to only six points in the second half; posting a 44-32 victory.

The final game of the season found A-OK Tire evening its season record at 5-5 with a 52-47 triumph over Video Vault.

TRC clinches tie in Super C

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — A chilly night did nothing to cool the hot bats Monday night at Chase Park as the Tim Raines Connection (TRC) clinched a tie for the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Super C Polar Bear Slowpitch Softball League.

For five innings it looked as if TRC was going to suffer its first loss of the season as Ken Rummel Chevrolet took leads of 2-0, 9-5, 15-5 and 18-11. But the re-formed many time champions rebounded with 12 runs in the sixth inning to pull out its eight victory of the season.

TRC was out hit 28-18, but the extra base hit helped considerably as the connection collected four home runs and three doubles.

In the only other game played Monday night, Cafe Sorrento jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first inning, then needed the game by the mercy rule with four runs in the fourth and five runs in the sixth to stop Sunchase Homes, 15-3.

The scheduled game between Mudfish and Coaches Locker Room was a forfeit, with the victory going to Mudfish.

The win kept Mudfish's slim title hopes alive. TRC (8-0) holds a 2½-game lead on Mudfish (5-2). Mudfish must win its final three games and TRC must lose both of its starts for the league to end in a tie and force a playoff.

Completing the standings are: Cafe Sorrento (4-3), Ken Rummel Chevrolet and Coaches Locker Room (both 2-5) and Sunchase Homes (0-8).

Oviedo, Miami in rematch

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

OVIDEO — There will be a sub-plot to the task at hand when the 72nd annual Florida High School Activities Association (FHSA) Boys' Basketball Championships open up Thursday afternoon at the Tallahassee-Leon County Civic Center.

When the matchups were released Monday it was learned that one of the Thursday Class 4A matchups will pit last year's state champions, and the only team with a chance to repeat, the Oviedo Lions, against last year's state runners-up, the Miami Senior Stingers.

The game, which will start at 3:30 p.m., will have a revenge factor for both teams.

The Stingers' (33-2 and ranked No. 1 in the Florida Sports Writers Association poll) felt like they should have been the champions last year and that Oviedo stole the title.

The Lions (21-11 and unranked), on the other hand, will be trying to prove that a 91-64 loss in Miami back in December was a fluke. Oviedo has been playing as well as anyone lately, winning 13 of their last 14 games.

The other opening session game will pit Tampa-

Bayshore Christian (33-5) against Hollywood Christian (29-3) in a Class 1A matchup starting at 2 p.m.

Thursday evening, the second session will also have a 1A and a 4A game. At 7 p.m., Malone (30-4) will take on Eatonville-Wynore Career Center (26-6) in the 1A game, while No. 2-ranked Jacksonville Beach-Fletcher (33-2), which lost in last year's semifinals to Miami High, will face Sarasota-Riverview (27-7) in the 4A game at 8:30 p.m.

Friday's two sessions will be for the Class 2A and 3A semifinals. At 2 p.m., Jacksonville-Andrew Jackson (25-3) will battle Marathon (25-3) in a 2A game; at 3:30 p.m., Jacksonville-Ribault (24-7) will play Pompano Beach-Ely (24-3) in a 3A contest; at 7 p.m., Jacksonville-Boles (24-2) will square off with Rockledge (27-3) in 2A; and at 8:30 p.m., Lake Wales (who is 25-7 and eliminated Seminole in the sectionals) will tackle Bradenton-Southeast (30-5).

All four championship contest will be on Saturday, with the 2A game at 2 p.m., the 3A game at 3:30 p.m., the 1A game at 7 p.m. and the 4A game at 8:30 p.m.

The cost for each two-game semifinal session on Thursday and Friday is $8, while each two-game championship session on Saturday will cost $10.

Consistency gives Jarrett Cup lead

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH — Dale Jarrett moved back to the top of the NASCAR Winston Cup stock car racing standings after his fourth-place finish in Sunday's Pontiac Excitement 400 race at Richmond (Va.) International Raceway.

Jarrett, who won the opening-season Daytona 500, had dropped behind Dale Earnhardt in the standings after the Feb. 28 Goodwrench 500 at Rockingham, N.C., which was the second race of the year.

Earnhardt finished 10th Sunday and fell one point behind Jarrett, who has 490 points.

"This is what every team out here is shooting for — to lead the standings and to win the NASCAR Winston Cup championship. This is what it's all about," said Jarrett, who had never led the national standings until this year.

"There is a tremendous amount of prestige on the line for every team in this sport. There is $1.5 million if you can win the championship. I have a car owner who knows what it is like to be the champion, to be the best of all. We want to show him how good it is to be the best in motorsports," Jarrett said.

Jarrett's Chevrolet's are owned by retiring Washington Redskins coach Joe Gibbs.

Sunday's race marked the third different winner and third different winning make of car this season.

Ford driver Mark Martin moved into third in the standings with 456 points, just 34 behind Jarrett. Geoff Bodine, Ford, is fourth with 445, followed by Rusty Wallace, Pontiac, 422, defending NASCAR Winston Cup champion Alan Kulwicki, Ford, 415, Hut Stricklin, Ford, 398, Sunday's Pontiac Excitement 400 winner Davey Allison, Ford, 385, Ted Musgrave, Ford, 381, and rookie leader Jeff Gordon, Chevrolet, 371.

With two second's and a third the Chevrolet driving Earnhardt maintained his lead in money-winnings with $306,410, while Jarrett is second with $289,135.

The NASCAR Winston Cup circuit next moves to Atlanta Motor Speedway for Sunday's Motorcraft 500. Pole qualifying is scheduled Friday at the 1.522-mile speedway.

"Mice" trample Bruiser's

From Staff Reports

CASSELBERRY — Different opponent, same score.

The powers that be changed the schedule on the Paddy McGee "Mice" in the Seminole County Recreation Department Women's Class C Slowpitch Softball League at Red Bug Park Monday night.

No matter, the Oviedo squad took no mercy on the Bruiser's, one of two new teams to join the league this week, pounding them 20-0 in a game stopped in the top of the fourth inning by the 20 run rule.

It was the second consecutive 20-0 win in as many starts for Paddy McGee's, which is going after its fourth consecutive league championship.

Connie Thomas followed last week's one-hitter with a three hit, no walk performance.

Pacing the offense for the "Mice" was Jackie Janowiak, who went three-for-three, scored three runs and drove in five. Also getting three hits each were Thomas, April Stoner, Terri Mann and Tammi Chesser.

Contributing to his cash were Denise Levinson and Karen Kobs.

Paddy McGee's will play their old nemesis, Most Wanted (ex-Dan Covey) at 8:30 p.m. next Monday.

Celebrity sponsors dancer

Dustin Hoffman to attend Ballet Guild's performance

For 25 years now, since Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole was founded and chartered, each dancer adjudicated to dance with the company must meet established criteria including acquiring sponsors. Throughout the years, thousands have supported the company and their favorite dancers.

One of the enterprising dancer members of BGS came up with a unique way of securing her 20 required sponsors this season.

Tiffany Winchester, age 14, in her second season as a Guild dancer, wrote to one of her favorite actors. To her delight and to the surprise of many, Dustin Hoffman called Tiffany during dance class recently to say that he would be happy to be one of her sponsors.

Proud Tiffany and her family now have plans to visit with the Hoffmans during their Florida vacation over spring break in the Naples area. What a thrill to talk with and get to know the famous actor of her favorite movie "Rainman."

Autographed posters, CD's and tapes for Tiffany and her friend Shelly Barbour (also a BGS dancer and Hoffman fan) have already arrived plus of course...Tiffany's most generous sponsor check.

The most exciting part of this unusual turn of events centers around the fact that Tiffany can share her unexpected success with the entire company of dancers. Hoffman will actually be attending the 25th anniversary performance of the Ballet Guild to be presented April 24 and 25.

BGS dancers are inspired by the attendance of their sponsors each season but this sponsor's presence will put new meaning to the word "audience."

Tiffany Winchester has a new sponsor, Dustin Hoffman.

Mammogram is a woman's gift to self

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "X-Ray Tech" concerning the importance of mammographies.

I, too, am a mammography technician whose patients ask me how I can do this job day after day after day.

I just smile and say, "I enjoy my work because I go home feeling good, knowing that I may have saved a life. But when I find a large cancer that has been growing for years, I'm saddened, because I know the patient would have had a better chance had it been discovered earlier."

Mammography is my specialty, and I find it very rewarding. Last fall, I performed a mammogram on Rose Phillips — your mother-in-law. I was very much impressed with her youthfulness and pep. I never would have guessed her age had I not seen it on her chart. When she left, she gave me a hug and thanked me, saying it was quick and painless. She is quite a lady!

Keep stressing the importance of having mammograms regularly. Most women have a "pap" test every year without fail. Mammograms should be included with it. I do mine every year on my birthday. I call it my birthday gift to myself.

FRUETEL, MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR CAROL: Thank you for giving me another opportunity to remind women about the importance of regular mammograms. And a special thanks for your kind words about my mother-in-law for 53 years. I can say in all earnestness that Rose Phillips could give lessons on how to be an ideal mother-in-law.

DEAR ABBY: My family has had a soup recipe that we have enjoyed for many years. Two years ago, my sister submitted our family recipe to a contest conducted by a major food manufacturing company. The company replied, stating that it could not use the recipe, and thanked my sister for her participation in the contest. (Our recipe was not returned with the reply.)

Recently, we learned that this company not only used our family recipe, it changed the name — but the ingredients are the same. The company is now advertising it, and will make this recipe available to the public on a commercial basis.

My family is furious that this company did not acknowledge our recipe, nor did it compensate us for it. The contest rules states that all entries selected became the property of the company.

I think we should write to this company and protest its use of our recipe without our permission, and also demand compensation for it. Unfortunately, my sister did not keep any of the correspondence and feels that there is nothing we can do. What action should we take?

C.L.A. IN NEW ORLEANS
DEAR C.L.A.: Without copies of the correspondence, or proof that this company is using the soup recipe that you submitted two years ago, your chances for being compensated appear to be anywhere from slim to zero. However, don't take my word for it — consult an attorney.

P.S. Could the rules of the contest have stated that all recipes submitted (not "selected") would become the property of the food manufacturing company? Check it out.

DEAR ABBY: You wouldn't believe how bored I get listening to people complain that they are overweight. Every time I open a magazine, a diet ad pops out at me. But what about the poor unfortunates who need to gain weight? I've never seen an ad for that (other than steroid ads). I eat three good high-calorie meals a day, plus unnumbered "good-for-you" snacks, but I'm still what I like to call thin — and what others like to call skinny. I've been to doctors and I have no problems, so they say.

My mom has told me since I was younger that I'd grow out of it. Now she says my legs, hips and arms will fill out after I've had my first child, which I'm not planning to do for at least another five years.

I'm sure all the people who say they wish they could lose weight are saying, "I wish I had your body." Well, they don't have my body. They can always lose weight in some way or another, but how do you gain? Any suggestions? Please answer soon.

"D" IN WHITMAN, MASS.

DEAR "D": I could make many suggestions on how to gain weight, but in the interests of your overall health, the most important one would be to find a well-schooled nutritionist, preferably one who is registered with the American Dietetic Association, for a balanced, healthy diet that will help you put on some pounds.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand another "twin story"? I, too, have an identical twin sister, and although we never dressed alike, we were constantly mistaken for "the other one" — even as adults.

After we were both married, my sister moved to another state. Last summer, my husband and I were vacationing at a popular resort, and at one point, in the presence of several strangers, he impulsively grabbed me and gave me a very passionate kiss! A man I had never seen before witnessed it — and he kept staring at me to the point that I noticed it and it made me uncomfortable.

A year later, while I was visiting my sister, she introduced me to her boss. It was the same man who had seen my husband lay that kiss on me! When he saw that there were two of us, he burst out laughing. Then he confessed that he had assumed that what he had seen was my twin sister cheating on her husband!

THE OTHER TWIN

DEAR READERS: I laughed at this: "A mother hen, having some difficulty keeping her chicks in line, declared, 'If your father could see you now, he'd turn over in his grave.'"

How to understand cholesterol levels

DEAR DR. GOTT: My mother had her cholesterol checked a year ago. Her doctor recommended a diet, which she stuck to. She's recently had her cholesterol checked again and the level was significantly higher. She's very frustrated. Does any of this make sense?

DEAR READER: This is not a rare occurrence; for unknown reasons, people on low-cholesterol diets may exhibit transient rises in their serum cholesterol levels. I recommend that your mother continue her diet and have her cholesterol checked in another six months. By then, the effect of her diet should be apparent.

Of course, as an alternative explanation, one of the readings may be a laboratory error. This is another reason why additional readings are important. Most experts agree that one or two cholesterol determinations are not adequate; rather, it's the pattern that is important. If your mother's cholesterol remains high despite an appropriate diet, she might consider using the vitamin niacin or the fiber products (such as Metamucil), under her physician's supervision.

To give you further information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Understanding Cholesterol" and "Eating Right for a Healthy Heart." Other readers who would like copies should send $1.25 for each report plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the titles.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I cannot seem to taste foods the way I once did. Prior to this onset, everything was fine. Could I have a vitamin deficiency and, if so, which ones should I take?

DEAR READER: It may surprise you to learn that smell contributes enormously to the sensation we call "taste." Therefore, you need an examination of your nose, throat and upper respiratory tract. In my practice, the most common causes of diminished taste perception are sinus infection, colds, allergies (affecting the nose) and side effects of medications.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

I don't think the state does enough for artists and writers in the way of subsidy and tax relief and so on. I mean, as an artist and a writer, I have to be surrounded by beautiful things and beautiful people. And beautiful people cost money.

No, I didn't write that — it was the English humorist and playwright Alan Bennett. But I do agree with the first sentence.

There have been numerous beautiful bridge plays through the years. Many of these — like today's — are simple in essence. If you find the critical defensive play here, you can justifiably feel pleased with yourself.

Cover the East and South hands. Sitting West, you lead the heart king against four spades. Declarer wins with dummy's ace, plays a spade to his ace and returns a low spade. East following with the two and 10. You cash the Q-J of hearts, everyone following suit. What should you lead now?

There is a natural inclination to cash the club ace to defeat the game, but this is demonstrably wrong.

Count South's tricks. He has five spades, one heart and at most two diamonds. That's only eight. You must make sure he doesn't win four diamond tricks or two club tricks. But you can afford to concede one club trick. The correct defense is to lead a low club at trick six. Whatever the lie of the cards, you must defeat the game.

Note finally that conceding a ruff-and-discard is fatal with this layout. Declarer discards a diamond from the dummy and ruffs in hand. Then one diamond ruff in the dummy establishes the suit.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 10, 1993

In the year ahead, you could be more fortunate than usual through changes that have been precipitated by outside factors. Flow with the tide of events, and don't swim against them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you are considering making an investment today, be very selective about whom you see for advice. It could spell the difference between profit and loss. Pisces, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Pisces' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Others will hold you to your word today regarding any commitments you make to them. If you promise you're going to do something, you had better mean what you say.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In order to expedite a matter today, you might attempt to do something that you are not qualified to do. Instead of saving time or cutting corners, you could make something worse.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have a short memory today, there's a possibility you may repeat a painful past mistake that should have taught you a lesson the first time around.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Quality should take precedence over quantity today. Instead of attempting to do too many things simultaneously, focus in on the one or two projects that you can do well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you're not the type of person who is easily influenced by others, but today you might let associates think for you. Make sure you think for yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Strive to be methodical and realistic in your commercial affairs today. There is a chance you might kid yourself into thinking you're going to be able to get something for nothing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you want to make a favorable impression on a member of the opposite gender today, don't come on too strong. Instead of hitting a home run, you're likely to strike out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you're dissatisfied with something in a valued relationship, it's best to bring things out in the open today. However, do it in a diplomatic manner, without hostility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are indications that you might be more tolerant and considerate of casual acquaintances today than you will be of friends with whom you share strong emotional bonds.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It is wise to look out for your own interests today, but don't do so in a manner that could bruise another in order to get what you want.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard yourself against inclinations today to take fun things too seriously and serious things too indifferently. T is could spell trouble.
