BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

MEASURELESS LOVE: But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Romans 5:8.

THE MOCKINGBIRD

Little gray bird with a perky tail
And throat with a seraph song.
Where do you find the angels notes
That you sing thro' the summer long?

At morn I wake to your light voice
As you fit outside my door
From branch to branch in the swaying pines.

Unabashed by the ocean's roar
I think when I hear you, the trees are full
Of songsters from all around.

But, no, 'tis only their borrowed songs.
And 'tis you, alone I've found
The silver notes that greet the day.

Suggest a plumage bright,
But your somber coat of darkish gray
Does not betray your might
As champion of the feathered hosts.

That raise their songs at morn
And eventide, to soothe and bless
All hearts grown tired and worn.
—Frank Rodman Woods.

A City Re-Born

The formal dedication on July 4 of the Overseas Highway linking Key West to the mainland of Florida marks a happy day in the history of a town that has passed through extremely varying degrees of good luck and misfortune during its existence.

Once a proud community of over 20,000 persons, possessing important cigar manufacturing plants, the center of a profitable sponge fishing industry, the terminus of the Florida East Coast Railroad, the port of entry for Cubans and their products, and an important military and naval outpost, Key West at one time seemed to possess all the economic elements needed for a thriving community.

One by one, however, the town suffered misfortune after misfortune. The cigar industry moved to Tampa, the sponge industry to Tarpon Springs, the Army and Navy closed their establishments, and trade with Cuba fell off to such a degree that the railroad operated on increasingly limited schedules.

What appeared to be the crowning blow to Key West came when a severe hurricane swept across the Florida Keys and destroyed a section of the railroad, which was never replaced because the railroad had no funds. Key West was then cut off from the rest of the world, except by an occasional boat and an inconvenient ferry service for automobiles.

But the hurricane that destroyed the railroad was a blessing in disguise, because out of this misfortune there evolved a plan for making the railroad trestles and bridges into an automobile highway. This accomplishment was made possible by federal assistance and today the government has an investment, worth $30,000,000, into which it has put $3,600,000 and Key West will be the mecca of thousands of motorists who will come to view one of the engineering wonders of the world.

Florida's island city will reap great rewards from this project and the visitors who go there will be amply repaid, for Key West has a distinct charm and flavor which cannot fail to please and satisfy.

BALZAC'S NOVELS deal in detail with innumerable types of human beings—barbers and dandies; great ladies and courtesans and small bourgeois; bankers and farmers and misers; artists and mystics and criminals—yet he seldom met and never knew these types. He lived like a monk, in the seclusion of a violent and inverted imagination, he thought of himself as a man of business, a man of pleasure, a miser or an atheist. It was the only way he could satisfy his immense appetite for life; his hunger for possessions, action and success projected itself in dreams which he transferred to paper. When he snatched an interval to go out into the world he seems to have been like an owl in daylight. He was still pretending that he was one of his own characters—an adventurer with his hand on a fortune, a popinjay with the ladies of Paris at his feet, a shopkeeper battling with bankruptcy.—Margot Asquith, More or Less About Myself (Dutton)

Prizefighters, generally speaking, are "through" in their thirties—if they last that long. With few exceptions, the champs of ring history have gone down under the telling blows of men younger than themselves.

One of these exceptions was old Jim Mace, heavyweight champion of England. At 21 he started a 35-year ring career in 1855 by whipping "Slasher Slack" in a 3-round decision.

Then, in 1890, Mace stepped into the ring against Charlie Mitchell, Mace was 59 years old, but he still laid claim to the heavyweight title of England because he won first from Sam Hurst in 1861. Mace stepped out of the ring a loser, but left behind a

Doris Rockey Is Wed To W. Bacot Ellerbe

Miss Doris Abelaide Rockey, daughter of Mrs. E. S. Rockey, became the bride of William Bacot Ellerbe, son of Mrs. E. R. Ellerbe of Kings Mountain, N. C., Sunday morning at a small church wedding at the First Baptist Church, the Reverend Paul Redfern performing the ceremony in the presence of a small group of relatives and close friends.

The bride and groom were accompanied by the bride's father and mother. Two large bouquets of gladioli and lilies were arranged on each side of the altar.

The feast for the families of the bride and groom were marked with pink lilies.

Mrs. Evans McCarty of the organ played a melody for the organ and the wedding march by Wagner and Mendelssohn. During the ceremony she played "Be My Love" Always.

George Barton of Daytona Beach was best man for Mr. Ellerbe and Douglas Armstrong, cousin of the bride, acted as usher.

The bride wore a dress of white crepe which was styled at the waist and fastened. She chose a white picture hat with a band of navy blue. Her accessories were white and she carried a bouquet of pink gladioli, lilies and blue lilies.

Miss Sybil Boyd, maid of honor, wore an ensemble of light blue crepe, trimmed in narrow beige lace. She wore a large lagoon hat and matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of pink roses and lilies.

Miss Rockey, mother of the bride, was gowned in white. Her flowers were sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Ellerbe, the groom's mother, wore navy blue net and a corsage of mixed blue and white.

The bride was born in Detroit, Michigan, but has lived in Sanford most of her life. She was graduated from Seaside High School in 1927 and later attended Stetson University in DeLand. At present she is employed by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine.

The groom was born in Huntington, S. C., and is a graduate of St. John High School of that city. He is assistant manager of McCarty's in Daytona.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ellerbe will return to Sanford and make their home at 2004 Magnolia Avenue.

Out of town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. E. B. Ellerbe, Mrs. W. T. Weir, Miss Willie Ellerbe of Kings Mountain, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shaw of Bishopville, S. C., Clarence Elver of Newberry, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bryan and children, Ned and Jimmie, of Palatka, Mrs. Elsa Tiedler of DeLand and Miss Avis Stenstrom of Winter Haven.

Leesburg Captures Eight Inning Affair By 9 to 7 Score

Gondoliers Score Seven Tallies In Second Frame

Cook, Fitzgerald Pitch For Lookouts; Deluge Ends Contest Prematurely And Nightcap Is Postponed

VENETIAN PARK, LEESBURG, July 5. (AP)—After the Leesburg Gondoliers and the Sanford Lookouts battled eight innings yesterday the game appeared to still hold their jinx of the Lookouts as they captured the affair 9 to 7.

The Gondoliers pushed across seven runs in the second inning to take a seven run lead and Bob Maxwell stood the Lookouts on their toes during the first ten innings. However, the Lookouts came back to score four runs in the third, two runs in the fourth and one run in the fifth to knot the score.

The score remained knotted until the last of the eighth when the Gondoliers scored twice before a downpour of rain ended the contest and caused the second game of the scheduled double header to be postponed.

Maxwell started on the hill for the Gondoliers but failed to last as the Lookout's big arms lashed him out in the third with their four run rally. Manager Nellie Leach then sent in his faithful relief hurler, Jake Hunch, in relief but Jake was not as effective as he has been for the Lookouts plastered him for two runs in the third, two in the fourth and one in the fifth. Jake was in hot water every inning but he was saved by the brilliant fielding of his mates.

Manager Bill "Raw Meat" Rodgers sent Big Chief Cook to the hill for the Lookouts and with the exception of the second inning, Cook set his opponents down with ease. Cook was touched for but three hits following the second stanza.

Cook was taken out in the eighth and replaced by Harold Fitzgerald, newcomer to the Lookout hurling corp. However, rain started to pour and Fitzgerald was unable to control the wet and slippery ball.

The nightcap was called off at about 8:30 o'clock and it was not announced when the game will be played but it is expected that a double bill will be played when the Lookouts travel to Leesburg again.

BRINGS 'EM BACK DEAD

RAWLINS, Wis., July 5. (AP)—Hired by a livestock company to rid the range of predatory hares, Jim Hobbler went into the Battle creek country and came back with the hides of 10 hares and one cub, representing a month's work. The company estimated the bear killed 300 sheep.

Sluggers Drop First Tilt In Semi-Pro Tourney, 9-1

Locals Are Limited To Two Scattered Hits By Daytona Beach Hurler; Play Ormond On Thursday

CITY ISLAND PARK, Daytona Beach, July 5. The Sanford Semi-Pro Sluggers lost their first tilt in the Halifax District Semi-Pro Tournament Sunday afternoon, after holding the Daytona Beach nine scoreless for five innings.

Both the Sanford and Daytona Beach outfit were stymied by the opposing hurler, E. K. Ashburn of New Smyrna Beach, who pitched for the Al Stars, and Hyrl Higgs also huffed for the Sanford team.

In the fifth frame the Sanford club broke the tie as Gama walked, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Dymon and scored on a wild pitch.

The Daytonians came back in the sixth to put Higgs with five straight hits including a triple by Carl Johnson and a home run by Bob Burnside, and continued their merry knocking of the red apple to score nine runs in the frame and win the game. Under semi-pro rules, when one club is eight runs ahead, the game is called automatically. The Daytonians got eight straight hits in the sixth, a folder's choice which left every one safe—Third Baseman Adams of Sanford dropped the ball, and two more hits, including a triple by Red Burnside, in scoring their nine runs, without a putout as the Sanford club folded up.

Semi-pro tournament games will be resumed tomorrow with Park Hill playing Daytona Beach country and came back with the hides of 10 hares and one cub, representing a month's work. The company estimated the bear killed 300 sheep.

Mason To Direct Study Of Nature At Camp Winona

Approximately 50 youths are scheduled to leave Saturday for two weeks at Camp Winona, H. E. Morris, director of the camp announced today.

One of the highlights of the program during the two weeks will be a nature study under the direction of C. R. Mason, president of the Florida Audubon Society. Mr. Mason will give an illustrated lecture Monday and personally direct the first nature study hike.

The camp staff chosen by Mr. Morris to assist him this year is composed of the following: H. B. Schmitt, Billy Zachary, Lewis Wright, Richard Mason, Ryd Higgs, Douglas Garner, Raymond Higgs, John Morgan and Letty Cooper. Mrs. Clara Stenstrom, a registered nurse, will inspect the boys at the camp each day. Mrs. Clara Stenstrom will again be in charge of planning the meals and the dining hall.

San Louren, of Daytona Beach, Mr. Morris reported, will be in charge of all water sports. Boys will participate in all forms of swimming under his supervision. He will also give lessons in swimming.

All parents of the boys who attend will be welcomed to the camp on Thursday afternoons from 2:00 until 5:30 o'clock. Any boy interested in the camp who

Death Toll May Reach 1,000 In Japan's Flood

600 School Children Drowned At Kobe As Overtaxed Reservoirs Collapse

Americans Said To Be Imperiled

Numerous Landslides Reported In Hills Surrounding Kobe

TOKYO, July 6.—(AP)—A furious flood surged through Kobe, principal port of western Japan, and reliable estimates placed number of dead at between 400 and 480 persons. A Kobe resident telephoned to Tokyo that destruction was heavy and said the death toll might reach 1,000.

The inundation came on the heels of serious floods which last week swept wide areas of Japan and left a toll estimated by the home ministry at 861 killed, injured or missing.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—(AP)—The Dollar Liner "President Cleveland" reported today at least 800 Japanese school children and 40 Europeans were drowned in Kobe, Japan, when three war reservoirs, overtaken by heavy rains, collapsed.

In a message to Globe Wireless in San Francisco, H. K. Lewis, chief radio operator aboard the Cleveland, said the tragedy occurred about 10 A. M. July 5 (1938) and that the liner was carrying 1,200 passengers, 141 missing, and 60,000 homes damaged.

In addition, students were killed when a school collapsed at Osaka and three more persons were drowned there.

The emperor and empress personally granted money for relief funds.

Scores of Americans were said to be imperiled by the floods. Frederick Taylor, native of Sacramento, Calif., at midnight gave the Associated Press a vivid telephone picture of the flood which had cut a tragic path through the heart of the city of 938,000.

It's still raining and I am heading for higher ground before morning," said Taylor, long-time resident of Kobe, "I will try to get out by launch tomorrow."

Best estimates show between 400 and the dead but so many buildings have been smashed flat that nobody can say for certain, we know five foreigners are dead. They are a Frenchman, a Russian, a German woman and two Portuguese children. I do not believe any Americans have been killed or injured.

"It has been raining for three days and the hills on all sides of Kobe have been slipping." He said the slides seemed to advance like moving mountains right up to the residential districts. "They came up to within a few feet of my place. You can hear low rumbling and then trees crashing. There is a reservoir in the hills back of the city and some say it broke. I do not know about that. Anyways millions of tons of water has been dammed in the hills by the slides."

"Everybody was awake tonight but there was no sound. The worst problem is bringing water which pipes are striking around in paths."

Cash Leave To Attend Meet Of Pardon Board

PRINCETON, N. J., July 6.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey Cash left by automobile for Tallahassee today where the State Pardon Board will consider pleas tomorrow to commute the death sentences of Francis James McCall who killed his only child, 10-year-old James J. McCall, in 1918.

Mr. Attorney G. A. Weller will appear for the Cashs.

Disturbance East Of Jax Reported

JACKSONVILLE, July 6.—(AP)—United States Weather Bureau located a slight disturbance today about 400 miles east of Jacksonville. The advisory issued at 10:30 A. M. said the intensity was diminishing and the disturbance was moving northward. The bureau said squalls would continue for the next 36 hours in an area considerable distance off the coast of the Carolinas and a slight squally condition over the northern Bahamas and the Florida straits for the next 24 hours.

Kiwanians Are Hosts To Young New York Actor

Sam Byrd Remarks On Failures Met With During His Career

Sam Byrd, addressing the Kiwanians at their regular weekly luncheon at the Valdes Hotel today, spent most of his time telling of the failures incident to his career.

He told of the purchase of "Journeyman" from Erskine Caldwell who authored "Tobacco Road," the play in which Sam gained national renown or his portrayal of Dude Lester, a cracker boy.

"The play was a much better drama than 'Tobacco Road,' Sam declared, "but the public didn't take to it."

Sam told about the production of "Journeyman" which opened this season while he was playing in "Of Mice and Men" after he finished his performance in that play he went over to see how his play "Journeyman" was making out. As he got there, he noticed that the theater was deserted by a little 16-year-old girl in the audience.

As he approached the stage and as he approached the stage, he said "You surely have bought yourself something," Sam said he agreed entirely.

Out of the failure of that play, he declared, he had learned a great deal. He pointed out that Henry Hull, who played the part of Jester Lester in "Tobacco Road," said he should have learned more from that failure than from all of his successes put together.

Stating that he was glad to be back in Sanford among all his friends, Sam said the hardest place to prove that one is a success is in the home town where everybody has known you for years.

President Sidney Nix thanked him for speaking to the club and wished him a pleasant visit.

George A. DeCottey was chairman of the program committee.

Firm Ordered To Stop Anti-Union Activities

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board announced yesterday it had ordered the Harlan Fuel company, Yancey, Ky., to cease interfering with efforts of the United Mine Workers to unionize the coal workers in Harlan county, Kentucky.

The board ordered the company to re-employ 24 men who it decided were discharged for union activities, and to disband, as a company-dominated union, the Yancey Workers Association, Inc.

The board's order was extended to prohibit the mining company from barring U. M. W. organizers from the streets of Yancey. The company holds a 99-year lease on all land and buildings of the town and had contended that by virtue of its lease it was entitled to bar union organizers from entering the community.

The board held that the exclusion of U. M. W. organizers was an unfair labor practice on the grounds it denied to the employees the right to organize for collective bargaining, under the Wagner act.

The board said representatives of the company had threatened the lives of union organizers.

NEWARK TEST

RUNNING, N. Y.—(AP)—Police last night investigated the theft of $125,000 worth of jewelry from the downtown Plaza III, the site of the residence of the second wife of the late Senator Charles McNary.

Market Pact Changes Are Recommended

Control Group Suggests Measures To Make For More Efficient Operation

Following a list of difficulties issued last week which in the opinion of the Control Committee hindered the efficient operation of the Celer Marketing Agreement during the past season, the committee today released a list of suggestions for remedying the situation.

Declaring that it would not be fitting for the retiring committee to do more than make recommendations, it was pointed out that most of "needed adjustments" will require only the approval of the committee, and consist mainly of improvements in the office routine. A few, however, will necessitate amendments to the marketing pact, which it was pointed out, could be worked out at a later time.

In its third report, the committee recommended that it meet not later than December and with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture formulate a definite "shipping policy" and then advise all members of the industry.

The committee also suggested that a secretary and a few field men be employed not later than Oct. 1 for the purpose of recording all settings and tabulating integrated plantings by months. This information would then be sent to interested members throughout the industry.

Pointing out that efficient administration is based on facts, the committee declared that each shipper should be prepared to furnish in some detail, information covering the entire crop, settings, interstate and intrastate shipments, amounts shipped by each shipper and other necessary information. The committee underscored that this was not a burdensome or an complicated as it seemed and that serious misunderstandings might be avoided in this manner. The committee also suggested that prompt reports be required.

Regarding estimates, the committee recommended that a sufficient number of field men be employed to allow preliminary estimates on which to base prorata recommendations and that a final estimate be made on the day before or on the day of the cutting. The first number will be used to determine the allotment percentage for the state while the second will be used to determine the number of crates to be allotted to each individual.

Declaring that reports to the industry are most essential, the committee pointed out that a slight increase in office expense will permit distribution of bulletins from time to time advising the growers and shippers of conditions and problems confronting the committee and the industry.

As a measure for guarding against the wrong usage of emergency allotments and withdrawals, the committee recommended that certain field men be designated to pass on applications and stated that their decision would be final except as qualified by the committee or the Secretary of Agriculture.

The committee further pointed out that under the provisions of the Marketing Agreement, emergency allotments and withdrawals were permitted only to correct errors in judgement, unforeseen weather conditions and similar conditions. This season there was no designated authority to pass on such applications.

Regarding violations, the committee said that as the provisions of the Marketing Agreement became more clearly defined legally, the Department of Agriculture could be depended upon for enforcement if the committee made the necessary reports promptly.

As a means of eliminating misunderstandings, the committee suggested that any grower or shipper having a complaint present his case directly to the committee, and that these complaints, if not settled satisfactorily after a thorough investigation, should be referred to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Pointing out that the committee has found no evidence of discrimination against the various producing sections and that the marketing pact is designed to control interstate shipments during the season.

Work began yesterday on the new front for the Yowell company. When completed the entire renovation including the recent installation of an air conditioning unit, will have cost about $15,000.

WHERE DARING BOATMEN LOST BATTLE WITH RIVER

E. R. Wakefield and A. S. Hunt, adventuresome business men from Denver, Colo., attempted to navigate the turbulent waters of the Rio Grande river through Black canyon—a feat never accomplished. But the river was again. Here's the wreckage of their small home-made boat after it struck a submerged rock near Cerro, New Mex. Wakefield is missing and it is feared he was drowned. Hunt was injured but managed to reach the bank.

Low Rent Housing Case To Be Heard By Supreme Court

Validity Of Municipal Housing Authorities Will Be Tested

TALLAHASSEE, July 6.—(AP)—The State Supreme Court will decide whether the larger cities of Florida may establish municipal housing commissions and borrow money from the United States to construct low-rent houses.

Lawyers presented arguments yesterday on a test case from Jacksonville that will control the plans of several other cities to establish slum-clearance projects.

Counsel for William Marvin contended Jacksonville's Municipal Housing Authority cannot issue debentures and obtain a Federal loan without first having a referendum. The loan would be repaid with an annual subsidy from the Federal Government and with rentals from the houses.

Lawyers for the Housing Authority declared the proposed projects did not involve any obligation upon municipally-owned property that might subject it to taxation for payment of the loans.

Jacksonville proposes to borrow about $1,027,000 from the government, and raise about $125,000 locally by sale of debentures from a low-cost housing project. The $125,000 would be paid from rentals, which also would maintain and extend the housing community. The Federal loan would be repaid with a subsidy grant of about $47,000 a year from the government.

The issue in the case is whether the debentures to be issued for obtaining the loans constitute bonds within the provisions of the State Constitution. Bonds cannot be issued without the approval of free-holders in an election.

Sam Byrd Returns To City For Short Vacation Visit

BY CHARLES CHALKER

Sanford's Sam Byrd has returned home again from a year of successful acting in New York—a year that definitely marks Sam as one of the pre-eminent new and great American Theater.

Yesterday, learning that Sam had returned to Sanford for a short visit with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Zachary, I called Sam on the telephone and asked for an interview. He suggested that I see him about 5:30 o'clock.

Promptly at 5:30 o'clock I rang the doorbell at Mrs. Zachary's home. A young fellow dressed in a sport coat, yellow polo shirt, light blue-gray palm beach trousers, and tan and white sport shoes, greeted me. It was Sam. Taking me by the arm he guided me into the living room and invited me to have a seat.

Whatever doubt I might have had about interviewing one of the most widely publicized actors of the American stage was dispelled at once by Sam's good-natured, unaffected manner. He made himself comfortable by draping a leg over the arm of his chair and frequently shifted, throwing his other leg over the opposite arm. He bit just before a race, anxious to get into action. His eyes darted constantly from object to object in the room like a bee sucking pollen from a flower and then flitting to the next blossom nearby. One felt that his mind raced ahead so rapidly as to make it difficult for one endowed with a slow Southern drawl to say what he was thinking.

Even though he retains his Southern accent, Sam's wide, expressive mouth forms words faster than one might expect from a Southerner. He intimated that he had to be careful not to absorb a Northern accent. Most actors who try to imitate a Southern accent make a mess of it, he declared.

Sam, who once had ideas of becoming a newspaper reporter, needed no promptings as to what to say. He knew what to say and how to say it.

He pointed out that in addition to visiting his family, he intended to visit Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, the novelist whose recent book, "The Yearling," has achieved such wide acclaim; to discuss the possibility of producing a play based on her novel, "South Moon Under." He said Miss Rawlings wants to try her hand at play writing and that if satisfactory arrangements can be made he may produce such a play after Christmas.

There are two other plays he is considering for possible production after Christmas. One is a light piece called "Dude for Ladies" and the other is called "Soldier Boy." Sam didn't think much of the last one for he hardly mentioned it, but the former play seemed to fascinate him.

Although Sam first achieved fame as "Dude Lester" in "Tobacco Road" he equaled his performance in his role in "Of Mice and Men" during the past season. The play was acclaimed the best

Florence Williams Dies At Home Here

Mrs. Florence Williams, 65, died at her home at 415 Palmetto Avenue at 6:45 P. M. yesterday, following a lingering illness.

Mrs. Williams has resided in Sanford for the past eight years and was a member of the First Methodist Church. She was born in Colquitt, Ga., on Mar. 11, 1873.

Two nephews, whom she reared, Theodore and Robert Rathel of this city, survive. Also one brother, Ashley Roberts, and one sister, Mrs. Cindie Mock, both of Colquitt, Ga.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Erickson Funeral Home this afternoon at 5:00 o'clock with the Rev. Paul Redfern, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. The remains will be sent to Colquitt where burial will be made on Friday.

COMPLETE UNIONIZATION

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Sidney Hillman, leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization's textile worker's organizing committee, said last night that his organization hopes to use the wage-hour law as a springboard for complete unionization of the textile industry.

Fighting In Orient Continues On First Anniversary Of War

Military Motives Seen In Spanish Peace Proposals

Europeans Willing To See Franco Victory If Aides Move Out

BY MORGAN W. BEATTY

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The simple truth about the Spanish war at this stage of the game can be covered in two sentences:

France's drive to end the war has bogged down, so that he will require at least another year if he keeps on going at his present pace to clean up both Valencia and Barcelona.

Most of the other nations in Europe, whatever their sympathies in Spain, have therefore decided to do some serious horse-trading to isolate the Spanish firework, and remove them from the other powder-kegs on the Continent.

The business of horse-trading among governments is naturally a complicated one and requires a lot of high-sounding terms, such as non-intervention, beligerent rights, etc.

But from the viewpoint of American experts, it is beginning to look as if Great Britain and France are quite willing to see the Franco-Mussolini-Hitler combination win out in Spain, if, in return, Mussolini and Hitler get out of the Spanish theater of action.

Here's how they figure that out: Every time you get down to cases, the meddling of outside nations in Spain has nothing at all to do with principles, but rather with the peculiar geography of the Mediterranean ocean and the Spanish peninsula.

The special points of interests in the Mediterranean are the Balearic islands and Gibraltar. The islands are the property of Spain and lie just off the east coast of that country. Probably a major reason why Mussolini supported Franco was the opportunity the alliance offered to base his submarines and airplanes in the Balearics.

For the Balearics are the military keys to the African colonies of France colonies that would pour men and supplies across the Mediterranean to France if she were engaged in a bitter end war. With the Balearics in Mussolini's hands, and filled with Italian submarine and airplane bases, France's line of supply from Africa would be menaced.

Then there's Gibraltar, now in British hands, which gives Britain control of both ends of the Mediterranean. If Germany could erect big gun emplacements and other war machinery in Spain just across from Gibraltar, and rumor says she has already done this, British control of the ocean would be menaced beyond comfort.

Therefore, it's quite natural for the British and French to offer any proposition, even if it means a Franco victory, if only Germany and Italy would take their volleys—so-called—out of Spain and the Balearics. It's quite natural for these two powerful nations to allow France to bomb vessels carrying their flags, and otherwise offer them insult, so long as they figure they can eventually lure Mussolini and Hitler away, without risking a war.

That explains why Franco's planes, which probably are Italian planes based in the Balearics, are blasting away at ships flying the British flag without any interference. Any show of anger on the part of the British just now might wreck the British treaty with Italy, under which Italy pretends eventually to get out of the mess.

Chinese Lay New Defenses In Desperate Effort To Stop Japs' Hankow Drive

U. S. Takes Lead In Refugee Parley

Spanish Factious Are Urged By Britain To Accept Peace Plan

The Chinese-Japanese war ended its first year today while Europe sought to hasten termination of the Spanish war by speeding withdrawal of foreign soldiers.

The Chinese, trying desperately to block the invaders' drive on Hankow, provisional capital, laid new mines in the Yangtze River about Hukow and strengthened a defensive boom across river 30 miles above Kiangang.

They reported they had given Japanese setbacks along the Yelow River, where they said they had inflicted 700 casualties, and along coast northeast of Nanking where they said they had captured the towns of Fowling and Yencheng.

In Tokyo, the war office announced that Japanese had occupied 175,000 square miles of Chinese territory and inflicted 1,300,000 casualties since start of the campaign, and listed Chinese losses at 36,923, but Chinese have estimated Japanese casualties far in excess of that figure.

In Spain, insurance companies rushed heavy reinforcements to a 15-mile front along the Mediterranean coast to take advantage of a series of thrusts which forced government militia men to fall back at four points.

Great Britain sent special messengers to Government and insurgent capitals asking urgent consideration for the European Non-Intervention Committee's $13,750,000 plan for evacuating foreign volunteers from Spain.

At Evian-les-Bains, France, a 32-nation conference on political refugees, inspired by President Roosevelt, opened with the United States taking a lead in the preliminary conversations.

Jaycees Propose Decrease In Dues To Induce Joiners

A proposal to decrease the membership fees in order to induce more persons to join the club was discussed last night at the Jaycee meeting held at the Mayfair Hotel. The meeting was the first of a new summer schedule in which the club will meet at the hotel the first and third Tuesdays during July and August.

President J. E. Rowland Jr. appointed a committee composed of Alva Collins, Louis East and himself to investigate the matter of garbage collection in the city. A report will be made at the next meeting.

A report on the flab-fry given by the New Smyrna Jaycee club Thursday was given by Mr. Rowland. He said the club from the Sanford club was appointing as only four were present.
