Parking ticket cost $1 million

SPOKANE, Wash. — A bank in Spokane learned an expensive lesson by refusing to validate a 60-cent parking slip for a destitute-looking man, who retaliated by withdrawing his $1 million account.

"If you have $1 in a bank or $1 million, I think they owe you the courtesy of stamping your parking ticket," John Barrier said in an interview published Monday in the Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Barrier, 59, said he was wearing his usual shabby clothes last October when he pulled his pickup truck into the Old National Bank parking lot in Spokane.

He paid a quick visit to his broker, cashed a check at the bank and then went outside to drive away.

The lot boy said there was a 60-cent parking fee, but that Barrier could take his slip inside to get it validated.

Satanists subject of probe

HILLSDALE, Mich. — Vandalism in graveyards, disemboweled and partially skinned animals and ritual altars have prompted police to investigate an upsurge in suspected satanism and occultism.

Police Chief John Katusniak said a goat was found skinned from the middle of the body upwards and the top of the animal's skull was missing. Police suspect the horns and skin were used for a ceremonial robe.

"That's pretty serious," he said Monday. "Some poor goat gets its throat cut and bled out. I mean, it could be your pet or mine."

"We're all a little concerned that this is going on in a small farming community, but we have reports of the same thing in other areas," Katusniak said.

Midway plans drug war

Police officials, residents meet for discussion

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — About 30 Midway residents, including about 10 ministers, aired their feelings about what is needed to combat drug trafficking in their community Monday night and asked for help from law enforcement and elected officials.

Johnelle Jackson, coordinator of the meeting held at Western Sizzlin Steak House, said the Midway community is most interested in a legal way for law officers to stop cars containing suspected drug dealers which are present in that community night after night and in more sheriff's patrols in the community.

Lt. Don Eshinger, head of the City County Investigative Bureau which is chiefly involved in enforcing drug abuse laws, said he would relay the residents' request for more patrols to Sheriff John Polk.

The request for a way to stop suspected drug dealers' vehicles led

School board fighting for funds

By CAROL J. RUMSEY
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board will vote Wednesday on a legislative program calling for equal state education dollars for all Florida counties.

That equality doesn't exist now, according to Carey E. Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance.

Ferrell says the formula used to calculate these funds favors rich counties over poor ones. If the program is approved, Ferrell School Board members, parents, teachers and school administrators will take the issue to Tallahassee.

The funds they'll be fighting for help keep schools operating. They pay the salaries and purchase the supplies. Fewer dollars for some counties results in more students per teacher, and thus a lower

Longwood commissioner asks for ouster of city administrator

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — City Commissioner Carol Odum stunned the rest of the commission last night when she called for Acting City Administrator Don Terry's removal from the position.

Odum offered a motion of no confidence regarding Terry and recommended that he be removed immediately and reinstated as city clerk. The reason, she said, is that he withheld vital information from commissioners.

The motion failed 3-2 with commissioner Gene French supporting Odum's motion and Mayor Hank Hardy, along with commissioners Ted A. Parkling and Richard E. Hollington being against it.

Odum said that there was an excess of over $1.5 million in the budget that the commissioners were unaware of, resulting in taxes and sewer and water rates being raised under false pretenses.

She said that some decisions, such as the purchase of the Chouser Cottage and land adjacent to city hall, were made with the idea that there was no additional money.

Smith grievances remain unsettled

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Housing authority commissioner's last night delayed responding to former Executive Director Elliott Smith's list of grievances.

After an attorney for Smith read a 10-page statement claiming his termination was based on race and handicap discrimination, the commission voted 3-1 to table the vote until March 2.

Commissioner Bob Ball made the motion to table, saying the board needed time to consider claims made in Smith's statement.

Chairman Alexander Wynn cast the dissenting vote. "The bottom line is, if we want to decide to put him back on, we'll have to pay him more money in back pay," he said.

Commissioner Robert Francis Jr. was absent. Attorney Marilyn Dwyer presented the grievance statement on behalf of Smith. Dwyer said that because of his termination, Smith suffered from a stress-related illness that he has been hospitalized three months. Although he has been released from the hospital, she said, doctors advised him not to attend the hearing last night.

In the grievance statement, Dwyer alleged that the authority, with some exceptions, withheld some of the information regarding Smith's termination.

Dwyer's statement alleged a gross violation of Ball that appeared in the March 15 edition of the Sanford Herald. Ball, she said, was quoted as

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Florida's 1980s growth sets record

GAINESVILLE — Florida's population has skyrocketed by nearly 334,000 people a year during the 1980s, the largest growth of any decade in state history, according to estimates released Monday.

Figures from the University of Florida's Bureau of Economic and Business Research show state population in April 1988 was 12,417,606 — an increase of 2,670,645, or 27.4 percent, since 1980.

Cargo plane crashes with 8 aboard

HURLBURT FIELD — A C-141 military cargo jet with eight people aboard crashed in a heavily wooded swamp on Eglin Air Force Base Monday night while trying to land at Hurlburt Field, Air Force officials said. There were no reports of survivors.

The 168-foot C-141 Starlifter, en route to Hurlburt from Colorado Springs, Colo., crashed about 8 p.m., said Air Force Capt. Thomas Connell. It went down about 4 miles north of Hurlburt Field on Eglin Air Force Base, he said.

Connell said there were seven crew members and one passenger aboard when the plane crashed during its final approach for landing.

"There's no word yet on the possibility of survivors," he said. "It will be daylight before anything firm will be known about the eight on board. If (the wreckage) doesn't appear to be too spread out, part of the tail is still intact."

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

County approves Sanford spray plan

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Board of Adjustment unanimously approved the city of Sanford's request Monday night to spray up to 3.1 million gallons per day of treated wastewater on a 1,150-acre site near Geneva.

The citrus and hay irrigation site is a mainstay of the city's sewage treatment improvement program, which will cost up to $20 million.

The system includes a $3.5 million improvement to the city's Lake Monroe treatment plant and a $2.5 million loop around Sanford between the treatment plant and the spray site.

City engineer Bill Simmons said the spray irrigation system will cost about $8.9 million, although the land's cost, site preparation and other costs could escalate the project's total price to $14 million.

The spray irrigation site is located on a 2,200-acre site of Sanford, a mile east of the State Road 46 bridge. About 1,150 acres are under state wetland and floodplain jurisdiction and another 700 acres are unusable for irrigation, according to a city report, said deputy county manager Jim Bible.

Final design of the system will take about six months to complete, Simmons said. The entire sewage treatment system is expected to be operating in 18 to 24 months, he said.

Simmons said about 200 acres of the site will be planted in citrus, possibly Hamlin juice oranges, by the city or a leasor. The remaining acreage will be planted in hay. The citrus will be irrigated using microjet under-spray heads. The hay will be irrigated using a trickle irrigation method.

Simmons said the system should pose no threat to nearby Lake Jesup or the "Geneva Bubble" — Geneva's fragile island of freshwater surrounded by saltwater. He said the small amount of treated wastewater placed on the site should evaporate without seeping into the lake or the Geneva Bubble.

When the final site plan is completed, county commissioners will have an opportunity to review it in a public hearing in about six months.

City officials have also offered part of the site to the federal government for a prison and a Veteran's Administration hospital and nursing home. Federal prison officials are actively pursuing investigation of the site. VA officials are considering it with nine other central Florida locations, including one near Oviedo.

Midway

to a suggestion from Assistant State Attorney Steve Plotnik that the county commission try to draw an ordinance authorizing law officers to stop suspected drug dealers.

Plotnik explained that a current Florida law giving law officers the authority to arrest someone for "loitering and prowling" if the person is "at a place where it is not normal for him to be and the person can give no reason for being there." He said, "the trouble is, most crack dealers can come up with a reason why they are there."

He said it may be possible for the county to draw up an ordinance that goes beyond state statutes, but said such an ordinance would inevitably be challenged by the first person arrested under its authority, and it would be up to the court to decide if it was constitutional.

Johnson liked the idea of such an ordinance and said the group of ministers will meet with Plotnik to further discuss how such an ordinance could be worded.

Eislinger, when asked what the community can do to help law enforcement officers, said members of the Midway community can communicate more with the sheriff's department. "I don't know where all the crack houses are in Midway and maybe some of you do," he said. "You can call me directly and I'll be glad to talk to you," he said. He added that any emergency situation should be reported by using the 911 emergency number.

Johnson contended that outsiders are bringing drugs into the community and outsiders are coming into the community to buy them. He said the cars that come into the area night after night should be stopped.

However, Eislinger disagreed that most drugs in Midway are being bought and sold by outsiders. "The number of buyers from outside the community is not as high in Midway as it is in some other areas of the county," he said.

Eislinger also disagreed with a statement from Johnson that drug laws were not enforced as well in the northern part of the county as in the south and that Midway's drug problem was worse than other parts of the county. "Crack is a problem in every community in the county," he said.

Rep. Frank Stone also advised those present to "get more involved in neighborhood watch programs — take down license numbers, take pictures if you can, and communicate with the sheriff's department."

Johnson demonstrated the community's interest in improving by listing past efforts to clean up drainage ditches and malfunctioning septic tanks, improve drainage and get rid of abandoned houses. He said those efforts did not meet with any success when brought to the attention of county officials.

Some of the abandoned houses are now crack houses, he said.

County Commissioner Jennifer Kelly, who represents the Midway area, said she would begin the process of getting those houses condemned and razed if she was furnished with their addresses. She said the owners of the abandoned houses had to be located and informed of the county's intentions before any action can be taken.

She said she had already told the county Environmental Services Department to gather water samples in the area and report violations of the county health code.

Johnson said the group is also interested in what can be done about groups that gather outside of bars all night, dealing in drugs and stopping cars and beating their occupants.

The group also said penalties for drug dealing and purchasing should be harsher and those convicted should serve longer terms in jail.

Trial

mistakenly drove into Wallace's driveway. He was killed by a single shot to the abdomen from a large caliber handgun, which sheriff's deputies said was apparently fired through the window of his 1983 Buick.

Neighbors who heard the shot called the sheriff's department and when deputies arrived they were told nothing was wrong at the Wallace address. However, a handgun was discovered on a picnic table, and Conner's body was found in his car.

Defense attorneys J. Cheney Mason and Russell E. Crawford entered a motion Monday morning to suppress certain statements Wallace made to, or in the presence of, law officers at the crime scene, or at the jail.

Testimony on the motions began Monday afternoon after the jury for the trial was selected, and continued this morning.

Mason told Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr., who is presiding over the trial, that Wallace was never given the Miranda warning after his arrest. The warning, named for the name case in which the U.S. Supreme Court ruled those rights must be read to a defendant, informs suspects of their rights to remain silent or have an attorney present at questioning.

Assistant State Attorney Thomas Hastings agreed that the Miranda rights were never read to Wallace. However, he contended that some of the statements made by Wallace were "spontaneous" and were not in response to questions from law officers. However, he said some of Wallace's statements probably should not be allowed into evidence to be considered by the jury.

Mason said some of the statements were in response to questions from a paramedic at his residence who asked him whether he shot Conner and why he did it. Although the paramedic was not a law officer, a deputy standing with him heard Wallace's replies, Mason said.

Other statements Mason asked to be removed from evidence were ones made by his client at the jail when he was being questioned in regard to being booked into the jail.

Funds

quality of education. The problem has long angered educators, and recently several school superintendents asked lawmakers to correct it.

The disparity arises out of the size of county tax bases. Funding now comes from two pots: local and state. Local funding being millage that school boards are authorized to levy.

"State funds are calculated by a formula," Ferrell said. "Then we're permitted to add to that so many mills of taxation. The problem is what the millage will produce on a per student basis varies substantially from county to county."

That millage will raise 10 times as much in Florida's Collier County as it will in Baker.

Most of the counties affected are rural, low-income, with fewer total students. Seminole County has the highest median family income in the state, so it can hardly be termed poor. However, due to its residential nature, Seminole has a very small tax base from which to draw. In addition, there is an unusually high number of school-age children needing to be served. The two issues make it doubly difficult to get a fair shake of state dollars.

Ferrell said the situation is better than it used to be. The state has closed the gap on the disparity, but he argues, there should be no gap at all.

Jacobson

that he, along with his wife, carried on to this day at RoJay women's apparel shop on First Street. It amounts to a legacy that epitomizes the American Dream.

Herman Jacobson arrived in America from Poland with his mother and brother when he was 16 years old, said Shirley Moak, a longtime family friend. In 1926, he and his brother Arthur decided to make their fortune in boom-time Florida.

They moved from Providence, R.I., to Orlando to work with a relative, said his son, Sam. "He didn't like working for someone else, so that didn't work out too well," his son said. "He and his brother wanted to get out on their own, so Arthur went to the Sarasota-Bradenton area to look and my dad came to Sanford."

A lover of farming, Herman Jacobson drove through the celery fields surrounding Sanford until he became stuck in one of them. "The farmer who owned the place came out and wanted to know why my dad was in his field and they got to talking," Sam Jacobson said.

He told the farmer he was looking for a store and the farmer happened to own a storefront at the corner of Sanford Avenue and Fourth Street, Sam Jacobson said. Herman Jacobson looked at the store and rented it. H&A Department Store, named for the two brothers, was opened soon after.

At the time, Sanford Avenue was primarily the shopping district for the black field workers and Jacobson kept the store open until 1 a.m. on Saturdays for them, according to Sam and Moak.

Jacobson's business acumen paid off, even though he had no formal education, as H&A survived the Depression. Moak said Jacobson used a barter system, exchanging clothing for food during lean times.

Jacobson met his wife, Rose Edith Zauder, during the early 1930s. At the time, Rose Zauder was a fifth-grade teacher at Sanford Grade School. They were married in June 1935. Rose Jacobson quit teaching and went to work at the store. Arthur Jacobson left the business during the late 1930s and moved to Winter Haven, Fla., Sam Jacobson said.

Rose and Herman Jacobson continued to run the store until 1952, when Rose opened RoJay on First Street, where it remains.

The couple worked daily at the store together until about two years ago, when Herman Jacobson's battle with Alzheimer's Disease left him unable to continue. Rose Jacobson continues to operate the store, Moak said.

Herman Jacobson was active in Sanford's business development and served on the board of Sanford Development Corp., the city bonding committee and was a major donor to the Downtown Redevelopment Corp.

Family members ask that donations be made to the Alzheimer's Foundation in lieu of flowers.

Grievance

story about his alleged misuse of authority travel funds as saying that the authority would never be investigated "as long as blacks are in charge out there."

The statement also noted a May 20 article in which, she said, Ball was quoted as saying that citizens had encouraged him to "not let blacks win again."

"Commissioner Ball has never denied making these statements," Dvorea said.

Dvorea's statement alleged that Commissioner Teri Buratti harassed Smith about his blindness publicly during authority meetings. Dvorea said Buratti made him sign documents during meetings and made "references to his sight or lack thereof in a manner designed to humiliate Mr. Smith."

The board's decision to fire Smith violated the Florida

Whistleblowers Act of 1986, Dvorea said. The board took the personnel action after Smith charged Ball with misappropriation of authority funds.

The board fired Smith Sept. 8 during a meeting to discuss air conditioning units at a housing project. A list of authority personnel grievances was read, then Ball moved for Smith's immediate dismissal on grounds of incompetence. Buratti seconded the motion before the board approved the motion by a 3-2 vote.

Dvorea said housing authority employees indicated in depositions that they understood the grievance was with authority policy, and not with Smith as director. Some employees said they were forced to sign the list, Dvorea said.

The immediate dismissal of Smith violated authority personnel policy requiring two-weeks notice, Dvorea said.

POLICE BRIEFS

Man charged in burglary, rape

APOPKA — A 29-year-old Altamonte Springs man is charged with sexual battery and burglary in connection with an early Monday attack on a woman who said she knows him. The victim was raped in her bed after the suspect kicked open the door of her house, Seminole County sheriff's deputies report.

William Robert Hornish Jr., 29, of 1141 Magnolia St., was arrested at home at about 10:17 a.m. Monday, less than two hours after he allegedly left the 30-year-old victim's rural Apopka house.

The woman said the assailant entered her house at about 4 a.m. and stayed until 8:30 a.m. He grabbed her by the neck and threatened her both before and after the rape, she said.

Hornish, who was on community control for violation of probation on another charge, is held without bond.

Brother accused of aiding escapees

SANFORD — Tony Keith LeMasters, 27, of Sanford, was charged Monday for allegedly aiding his brother and another man in their escape from an Orange County jail Jan. 31.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies report that LeMasters, and his brother's girlfriend Mary Clark, 18, of Sanford, allegedly planned the escape of Robert LeMasters, 25, and Brian Smith, 22. They are also accused of supplying the fugitives with food and a campsite during their three week stay in woods off Snow Hill Road in Geneva. Clark was charged in the case about two weeks ago. Tony LeMasters was arrested at that time in connection with burglaries to a Sanford antiques store. The escapees have been captured. Tony LeMasters is held without bond in the Seminole County jail on a charge of aiding an escapee. The escapees are in an Orange County jail.

Man allegedly forged prescriptions

LONGWOOD — A man who allegedly presented a forged prescription for a class II controlled drug was arrested by Longwood police at about 8:14 p.m. Monday as he walked out of Albertson's, U.S. Highway 17-92, with the drug.

A pharmacist had checked with the doctor whose name was on the prescription and the doctor said he hadn't prescribed the medication, police said. The doctor also said that an hour earlier he had been called by a drug store in Fern Park, where a similar prescription had just been filled.

Police were called to Albertson's where they charged George Irvin Dobbs, 63, of 200 Fern Park Blvd. #212, Fern Park, with obtaining a controlled substance by prescription fraud and possession of a controlled substance.

Sleeper charged with auto theft

LONGWOOD — A man found sleeping in a car parked at the eastbound rest area of Interstate 4, rural Longwood, at about 1 a.m. today was charged with grand theft after Seminole County sheriff's deputies determined the car had been reported stolen in Georgia.

Clements L. Seals, 18, of Orlando, is charged with the case. Bond is $1,000.

Collision victim not identified

SANFORD — Sanford police haven't identified an elderly black man who was struck by a van as he tried to cross First Street on a bicycle at about 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Police Chief Steven Harriett said the victim is in very critical condition after being airlifted to Orlando Regional Medical Center. The victim had apparently been gathering aluminum cans before the collision with the van driven by Jeffrey L. Clements, 40, of Bartow. No charges are pending in the case, Harriett said.

Longwood gives students 'Joy' awards

LONGWOOD — Five students were "Joy" Award recipients at the commission meeting last evening.

The winners, who were selected by each of their schools, were awarded with a plaque by Mayor Hank Hardy.

Honored were Christopher Abelmann, Woodlands Elementary; Amber Dudley, Rock Lake Middle School; James E. Hollis, Lyman High School; Dana Lowery, Milwee Middle School; Heather Oates, Longwood Elementary School.

City Attorney Richard S. Taylor Jr. declared Feb. 20 "Joy Award Day" and commended Former Mayor Steven Uskert for initiating the program in February, 1980. Uskert gave a brief speech and said that the awards were to recognize honesty, integrity, cooperation and the desire to succeed in life.

Scott Underwood, the original recipient of the award, was also present at the meeting. Underwood was 12 years old when he earned the national punt pass and kick award. A graduate of Lake Mary High School, Underwood is studying pre-medicine at the University of Central Florida and is captain of the baseball team there.

In other matters commissioners:

- Amended the city code to abolish the Department of Community Development and create the Department of Planning and Zoning Administration with a Planning Director as the head of the department. The intent of the action is to eventually hire an assistant planner for the city's only planner, Chris Nagle. The Department of Planning and Zoning Administration will be responsible for planning and zoning matters, code enforcement and other duties as determined by the city administrator. Also, the Department:

ment of Building was created with the Building Official as its department head. The department will be responsible for building permits and inspections as well as other matters requiring permitting and inspections and other duties as the city administrator determines.

- Approved the first reading of an ordinance decreasing the minimum monthly sewer fees for commercial users making them the same as those charged to residential customers. Any commercial establishment connected to the city's water system shall pay a monthly minimum charge of $31.20 instead of $50 for commercial businesses that use 9,000 gallons of water or less per month. "We believe it is a more fair and equitable rate especially for the low users," Acting City Administrator Don Terry said.

- Approved the final concept of Candyland Park plans.

- Decided to get prices on a van before agreeing to Terry's recommendation that the city purchase a 6-cylinder Ford Taurus sedan. The Ford Taurus is on the state contract for $9,898 to be purchased from Don Reid Ford, Maitland.

- Voted unanimously to purchase for $50,000 a one-acre parcel of land on East Warren Avenue subject to financing and a contractual agreement. The property is adjacent to the public works compound and will be used for storage and to create more space, commissioners said.

- Delayed action on the disposal of drums containing hazardous waste until the city resolves payment to the company which removed them in December.

We must attain justice for all

In the Supreme Court's 6-3 decision invalidating a Richmond, Va., plan designed to help minorities and women get government contracts, Justice Thurgood Marshall dissented. Marshall, the court's only black justice, alluded to "the tragic and indelible fact that discrimination against blacks and other racial minorities in this nation has pervaded our nation's history and continues to scar our society."

Recent headlines buttress Marshall's lament. Riots erupted in a black section of Miami after a police officer shot and killed a black man speeding by on a motorcycle. Controversy over a plan by the NCAA to strengthen entry standards for college athletes focuses on whether the plan discriminates against black students. Recent studies conclude that blacks continue to be victims of economic discrimination; the gap between black and white median incomes is wider than it was a decade ago.

All are reminders that questions of race and racism continue to vex this nation.

We don't argue with the court's reasoning in the Richmond case. Set-aside programs and affirmative-action plans, however laudable their intent, don't always accomplish what they are supposed to. But finding flaws in affirmative-action programs must not be an excuse to stop looking for ways to ameliorate the effects of race discrimination, past and present. Congress and the American people cannot relax efforts to eliminate every vestige of racism in our society.

Some 36 states and 190 cities have implemented some sort of affirmative-action plan. California, for example, requires all state contractors to use their "best efforts" to subcontract 15 percent of a project to companies controlled by minorities and 5 percent to companies controlled by women. Although the California law may be able to survive a court challenge because it doesn't absolutely require fixed quotas, many programs are likely to fall.

So what can be done to help minorities overcome effects of past discrimination? How can we hasten the day when racial injustice is permanently consigned to the past? President Bush reaffirms a basic commitment when he decries "bigotry and indifference to disadvantage." The president's affirmation is laudable, but it's only a beginning. We must go further.

Affirmative-action plans implemented by state and local governments still are a possibility — if past discrimination can be proved. Governmental bodies may be able to implement affirmative-action efforts that stop short of mentioning specific percentages. They certainly can establish training programs that better prepare minority businesses to compete for government contracts. And, they can establish goals and timetables and undertake zealous recruiting efforts.

The Richmond ruling also reaffirmed the right of Congress to establish set-aside plans for federal programs it deemed necessary to enforce 14th Amendment guarantees. And, of course, Congress can make law that reinforces this nation's commitment to equal rights for all Americans.

Along with Justice O'Connor, we look forward to the day when questions of race are peripheral. As Justice Marshall knows, we're not there yet.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Raise the pay of federal judges

It isn't easy to identify the worst single aspect of the recent congressional pay-raise fiasco. The sheer cowardice of Congress' attempt to raise its own pay by 50 percent through a tricky maneuver whereby it would never actually be seen to vote for the raise is certainly a contender for the prize.

But when one takes into account overall damage to the public interest, the most inexcusable aspect of the whole affair was undoubtedly the harm it inflicted on our federal judiciary. That ought to be rectified promptly.

Like a highway robber leaving a gas station with the contents of its cash register, Congress, in its raid on the federal treasury, took the precaution of taking along a hostage. The commission that was to recommend higher congressional salaries to the president was also charged with proposing raises for federal judges. The president could approve the recommendations, or modify them, or reject them; but, whatever he did, the chances were that he would treat Congress and the judiciary alike, in the interests of good will all around.

And that, of course, is what President Reagan did when he was presented with the recommendations of the Cutler commission. There is considerable evidence that what was chiefly on

Mr. Reagan's mind was the need for substantial increases in judicial salaries, lest judges start leaving the bench for far more lucrative jobs in private law practice. But, having decided on husky raises for the judges, Mr. Reagan evidently concluded that members of Congress would be mortally offended if he didn't do as much for them.

But the cases of judges and members of Congress are very different. The basic salaries of federal district judges and members of Congress are identical ($89,500), but the official and unofficial perks of a member of Congress are vastly greater.

A member of Congress, whether a senator or a representative, of course enjoys the franking privilege — i.e., he pays no postage on his voluminous mail. He is entitled to specific amounts of free travel to and from his home district or state. Even his haircut and his parking space at the Capitol are free. He enjoys, in addition, the services of a large office staff.

And then, of course, there are those famous "speaking fees" — payments averaging around $2,000 apiece (plus travel expenses) for informal talks to friendly organizations. Some prominent and powerful congressmen earn so much this way that a lid has finally been put on how much of the booty they can keep; but such fees remain a formidable supplement to their base pay.

None of this applies to judges. Wherever they live and work, they must get along on that salary. If they have one government-paid clerk, that's a lot. The financial burden undoubtedly falls most heavily on district judges, who tend to be younger and often still have children to put through college. Small wonder that many of them — including many Reagan appointees, who are of course on average the youngest of all — are tempted to leave the bench altogether and earn three times as much in private practice.

The solution, obviously, is to yank the judicial hostages out of the clutches of the highway robbers on Capitol Hill.

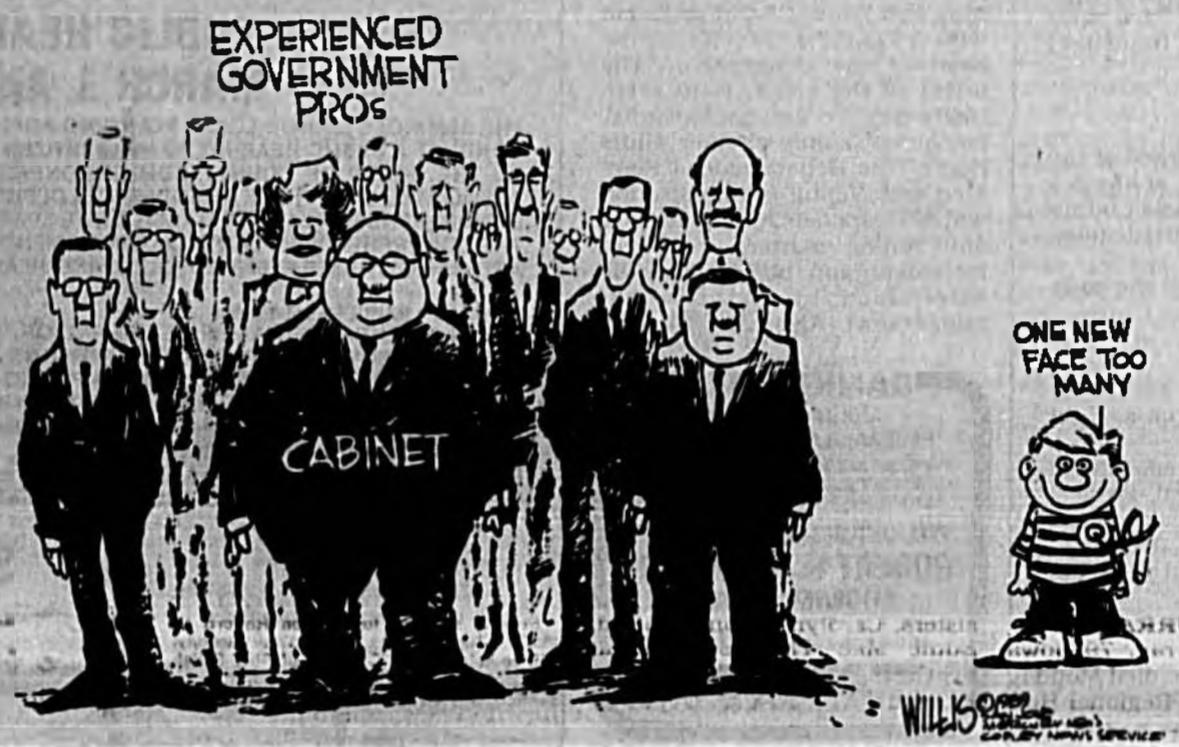

And then, of course, there are those famous 'speaking fees'

Roe overturned: Loss of freedom

BOSTON — The protestors are gone now. The legal hit team has wandered off in search of another target. The television crews have moved to other sites and other stories.

The people who surround Nancy Klein these days are those who care about her. Not as a case study or a political focal point, but as a wife, a daughter, a mother. Her husband Martin visits with her as he has every day since the 32-year-old woman went into a coma. He tells her the simple things, how his day went, what he did, what their 3-year-old daughter did.

If some spark leads Nancy Klein out of the shadows of her coma, her husband and parents will eventually also tell her how strangers tried to wrest control of her medical care away from them. They will tell her how these intruders, men she had never met, sued to become guardians of her and her fetus, to make decisions about her life and death.

The story of the Klein family began on Dec. 13 with a car crash that left this woman, pregnant with her second child, in a coma. In the weeks that followed, doctors at the Long Island hospital told Martin Klein that his wife might have a better chance of recovery if she had an abortion.

These doctors offered opinions rather than promises, and odds rather than certainties. But Nancy's family held to those opinions and pinned their hopes on those odds. They opted for the abortion.

If this had been any other medical procedure, there would have been no further delay. It is virtually automatic to allow family to make decisions for an incompetent patient. This hospital, however, spooked by right-to-lifers, refused to perform an abortion without court permission. The administrators invited intervention and they got it.

Two men, anti-abortion advocates both, came to wrangle for power over the body of the comatose woman they had never met and have never yet seen. Their lawyer was A. Lawrence Washburn Jr., a regular on the right-to-life legal circuit.

In 1984, in the famous Baby Jane Doe case, Washburn was the one who sued to force surgery on the handicapped baby against the will of her parents. Since then, he has represented more than one estranged husband trying to prohibit his wife from having an abortion. In June, he was briefly appointed guardian of the fetus inside a client's wife's body.

Washburn eventually lost the Klein case as he lost those others. After two bitter weeks, three New York state courts ruled that only Martin Klein was the proper guardian. On Saturday after the Supreme Court refused to overturn the ruling, the abortion was performed.

The crucial sentence in all of this judicial maneuvering came from the appeals court ruling that stated unequivocally that these "strangers" had "no place in the midst of this family tragedy."

All but the most hard-core right-lifers in the country seemed to identify with the family and against the invaders. Even Barbara Bush came out of her silence on abortion. Not only she but her husband sided with the Kleins. "I agree with my husband on that," Mrs. Bush said. "The life of the mother was at risk. I'm very grateful that it worked out as it did."

Is the Klein case then such an exception in the annals of abortion that even a pro-life President and an ambivalent populace can separate it from the others? I don't read it that way.

The question in this case was not whether an abortion would save Nancy Klein's life. The medical evidence was less than conclusive; sadly, she is still in a coma. What was at stake in the court was who had the right to make the determination.

This is not some peripheral issue. It is the central question of the entire abortion debate: Who decides? The answer of the pro-life activists is: "Strangers."

Martin Klein eventually won the right to choose abortion because his wife had that right. It was protected in the Roe v. Wade decision. He was merely the guardian allowed to exercise his wife's rights. It abortion were illegal, he might not have had that right.

What we have seen here is a preview of what the world would look like if Roe is overturned, a grave and imminent possibility. It's a world in which the Washburns would decide the fate of the Kleins and the rest of us. A world in which the government would become the "guardian" of every pregnant woman, of every fetus. A world in which "strangers" would weigh the evidence of every woman's health and life.

So I wish Nancy Klein a full recovery and a return to her husband and child. In a coma, this woman may have helped to wake up the country.

Who decides? The answer of the pro-life activists is: "Strangers."

Eagleburger has ties to Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON — If Lawrence Eagleburger is confirmed as deputy secretary of state, he will bring with him a wealth of experience in dealing with Yugoslavia — maybe too much wealth.

Eagleburger has revolved in and out of the diplomatic door. While he was in, he hustled loans from American banks for Yugoslavia. While he was out, he joined the board of directors of a Yugoslavian bank that benefited from those loans. While he was in, he encouraged Yugoslavia to generate hard cash by producing exports. While he was out, he became the top American representative for one of those exports — the Yugo car.

Now Eagleburger is on his way in again, having been nominated as the No. 2 person at the State Department. Congress will have plenty of ground to cover during his confirmation hearings.

Eagleburger is a well-regarded former foreign service officer who spent 27 years with the State Department. His career was boosted during the Nixon administration when he became a protégé of Henry Kissinger.

During the Carter years, Eagleburger was U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia. Under the Reagan administration, he was assistant secretary for European affairs and undersecretary for political affairs, until he retired in 1984.

As ambassador and assistant secretary, Eagleburger leaned on U.S. banks to lend money to Yugoslavia, even though loans to East European countries were frowned on by the administration. For example, in early 1983, he summoned executives of nine major American banks to Washington to urge them to lend money to Yugoslavia, even if they were cutting back their loans to other East European countries. Treasury Secretary Don Regan was reportedly furious at Eagleburger's meddling.

In a 1985 interview, a Yugoslavian newspaper asked Eagleburger if he felt some responsibility for putting Yugoslavia billions of dollars into debt. "I believe I did a great favor to Yugoslavia getting them the money they felt was needed at the time," he responded. "I will not apologize because of this. If now Yugoslavia has difficulties in paying back, then maybe she should not have taken the loans."

That Monday-morning quarterbacking is little comfort to Yugoslavia which is $20 billion in debt and has an inflation rate of 200 percent.

When he left the State Department in 1984, Eagleburger went to work for Kissinger's consulting firm. In short order, he also became the American representative for Yugo mini-cars.

A Yugo sells for $8,000 in Yugoslavia and for $4,000 in the United States. To critics, that looks like a blatant attempt to raise hard currency by dumping a product for less than it is worth.

The Yugo is built by a division of Zavodi Crvena Zastava, the huge Yugoslavian conglomerate also known as "Red Flag," which is the backbone of the Yugoslavian arms industry. The Yugo is a sideline for Red Flag. The company builds tanks, helicopters and small arms. Among its clients are Iraq, Libya and East European countries.

As a private citizen, Eagleburger also became a director of the New York branch of Ljubljanska Banka, a bank owned by the Yugoslavian government. In December, a wholly owned subsidiary of Ljubljanska, LBS Bank of New York, was indicted for allegedly laundering more than $1.4 million for U.S. Customs agents who were posing as drug lords.

That Monday-morning quarterbacking is little comfort

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Tuesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues, as market participants, who took Monday off to observe Presidents' Day, renewed their buying interest from the previous week.

Advances led declines 335-342 among the 1,129 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 7,540,000 shares.

Analysts said investors were keeping a close eye on Washington, where Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan is to deliver the semi-annual Humphrey-Hawkins report to the Senate Banking Committee Tuesday morning.

government is preparing for release Wednesday its monthly report on consumer prices, which is expected to provide an update on inflationary pressures.

Greenspan has previously stated in recent congressional appearances that he plans to stress fighting inflation. Analysts said investors were waiting to see if that meant raising the discount rate, the fee the Fed charges banks for loans, which now stands at 6.5 percent.

Stock prices closed higher Friday in moderate trading as investors took in stride the latest U.S. trade data, which met expectations.

"The February mood is sour compared with the sweet one we saw in January," said Goldman.

firm that the city has "a very extreme positive cash flow" but that he could not explain this.

"At this point in time, we are looking at a cash flow of more than $2 million. I cannot explain it. We're looking into it," Holt said.

Odom also said that Terry failed to place an item on the agenda concerning the hiring of an interim city manager until they find a full-time person.

Farach agreed with Odom's claims that Terry was keeping information from the commissioners.

"We haven't had the kind of relationship we need to have," Farach said.

He said that Terry blocked a meeting with the Lieutenant Governor in which he and Terry were to speak in behalf of the city concerning fines from the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) for the burial of barrels behind the public works department.

"There seems to be a lack of communication, a lack of coherency in the relationship I have had with you," Farach told Terry.

Terry said that because DER officials said they would not fine the city, there was no further need to talk to the Lieutenant Governor.

Hardy disagreed with Odom and Farach that Terry provided inaccurate or withheld information.

"Don Terry has, in my opinion, done an excellent job filling in. He's done two jobs wearing two hats. I don't see any benefit (to remove him)," Hardy said.

Bullington said he could not support Terry's removal without knowing who would fill the position.

Poelking said that he needed to find out more information before making his decision.

"I still would like to take the cloud off my name as far as the budget. I've been in this position for only six weeks," Terry said.

Farach told Terry there was "no malice whatsoever" in his decision to remove him.

"We're not here to crucify anybody," Farach said.

A work session was set for Feb. 27 to explain the grievances that the two commissioners have concerning Terry.

Farach said that the commissioners should be looking for someone to replace Terry.

Odom said to "give it some thought."

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Three sisters, cousin killed in fire

NEW YORK — A fast-moving fire swept through the top floor of a three-story home Monday, killing three young sisters and their cousin despite their mothers' efforts to save them, officials said.

The children, ranging from 4 to 8 years old, apparently sparked the fire playing with matches, fire officials said.

All four children were severely burned. One was declared dead at the scene, and three were dead on arrival at local hospitals, said Efrain Parrilla, a fire department spokesman.

Firefighters found a smoke alarm in a kitchen closet but it had no batteries, Parrilla said.

The fire in the third-floor apartment began shortly after 1 p.m. in a front bedroom, where the children had been playing, the spokesman said. The children were trapped by a mattress propped against one bedroom door and a bunk bed next to another bedroom door that opened inward, he said.

Firefighters found three youngsters huddled on the bottom bunk of the bed and the fourth child on the floor beside them, he said. "There was really not much of a chance," he said.

Trial set for accused police killers

NEW YORK — Prosecutors geared up for the trial Tuesday of three men charged in the shooting death of a rookie police officer on orders from a jailed crack kingpin in a case that riveted national attention on the violence of drug gangs.

The trial was set to begin Tuesday in state Supreme Court in Queens, almost a year after the Feb. 28, 1988, slaying of Officer Edward Byrne.

Lawyers for two of the suspects said Monday they doubted the defendants could get a fair trial, citing widespread publicity that has prompted a parade of politicians, including President Bush, to use the case as a platform for a campaign to restore the death penalty.

Salvatore Alocco and Frank Hancock, the lawyers for Todd Scott, 20, and Philip Copeland, 22, said they will not make any opening statements to the jury and are unsure of what defense to use because the prosecution may spring some surprises on them in the form of new witnesses.

Penalty phase begins in FBI suit

MIDLAND, Texas — Hispanic FBI agents who won a landmark discrimination case against the agency last year will seek $10 million in damages in the penalty phase of the lawsuit, which begins Tuesday in a federal court.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton, who in September ruled that the FBI had systematically discriminated against its Hispanic agents in job assignments and promotions, will preside over the second phase of the class-action suit.

The class-action suit involves 311 of the FBI's approximately 400 Hispanic agents, and at least 50 are expected to testify that discriminatory FBI practices caused them to suffer serious loss of income. Lawyers for the agents said they will seek $10 million in damages from the government.

North trial begins, jury takes oath

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Nine women and three men chosen as jurors in the Oliver North case were summoned to court Tuesday to take their oath, officially beginning the 12-count felony trial of the ex-White House aide.

After U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell administered the oath to the jury and five alternates, lead prosecutor John Kecker was to give a 90-minute opening statement, followed by one from North's chief defense lawyer, Brendan Sullivan.

The attorneys' statements were expected to open a courtroom drama that has been 11 months and $15 million in the making — and could last as long as five months.

Independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh won North's indictment March 16 on charges arising from the 1985-86 sales of U.S. arms to Iran and the diversion of profits to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

North faces 12 counts of lying to Congress, destroying official documents, tax fraud and accepting illegal gifts. If convicted on all counts, he could be sentenced to 60 years in prison and fined $3 million.

Among the District of Columbia residents sitting in judgment of the former National Security Council aide are a Labor Department statistician, a retired bus driver, a hospital laboratory technician and a World War II veteran who marched with Gen. George Patton.

The jury, empaneled Feb. 9 after eight days of laborious questioning, was not sworn in because the administration hurriedly entered the case with complaints about Gesell's rules for the handling of classified information at trial.

An angry Gesell sent the panelists home to await a resolution to the complaints, which the administration took all the way to the Supreme Court.

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Cavs continue impressive ways

The Cleveland Cavaliers gained another admirer Monday after routing the Houston Rockets for their club-record 18th consecutive home victory.

"The Cavs impress me more than the (Los Angeles) Lakers," Houston Coach Don Chaney said after Cleveland took a 110-90 triumph. "This team is scary. They have size, speed, quickness and they have guys who can score."

They did well on Akem (Olajuwon), a different wrinkle that we didn't handle."

The Cavaliers have a 24-1 record at Richfield Coliseum, with their only loss coming Dec. 13 to the Lakers.

BASEBALL

Greenwell, Bosox near pact

Boston left fielder Mike Greenwell met for 5 1/2 hours Monday with Boston Red Sox officials and emerged saying "minor details" are all that stand in the way of a two-year contract.

Greenwell said he and General Manager Lou Gorman made significant progress in contract talks Monday, adding that he expected a deal could be wrapped up Tuesday.

"It's just minor, minor details (remaining to be resolved)," said Greenwell, who is representing himself in the negotiations. "Hopefully they can just say yes and I can go out and play baseball."

Elsewhere, at Vero Beach, Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Orel Hershiser, who arrived in camp amid much fanfare, said he wants to keep a low profile. "It was good to work out again," said Hershiser. . . . at West Palm Beach, Atlanta outfielder Dale Murphy demonstrated his right knee is sound by running a series of sprints in the outfield. Murphy underwent arthroscopic surgery on his knee several weeks ago to repair a slight cartilage tear.

Bo says TV hurting attendance

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Attendance at college football games fell by nearly 1 million fans last season and Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler said he knows where to lay the blame.

In an era when most coaches ache to get their teams television exposure, Schembechler, speaking Monday at an NCAA-sponsored college football preview, said television may soon cost football programs more money than it generates.

"The time has come where we've got to eliminate (television executives) telling us what time we're going to tee the ball up and tell them we're going to play at such and such a time, if they want to televise the game, fine," Schembechler said.

"We're going to have to have some people with enough guts to stand up to television."

HOCKEY

Gretzky enjoys falling Leafs

It's bad enough for a defenseman to fall as an opposing player begins a breakaway rush up the ice. It's even worse when the opposing player is Wayne Gretzky.

Gretzky twice took advantage of fallen defensemen to score breakaway goals Monday, leading the Los Angeles Kings to a 5-4 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Gretzky's first goal at 7:49 of the second period broke a 2-2 tie to give the Kings the lead for good. After Toronto closed the gap to 4-3, Gretzky scored the Kings' only goal of the final period with 10:43 to play.

"The two phantoms took our feet out," said Toronto defenseman Chris Kotropoulos, whose second-period slip inside the blue line occurred at the same spot where teammate Borje Salming slipped in the third period.

Regional titles at stake

Lake Mary looks to upset No. 5 Apopka

By CHUCK BURGESS
 Herald correspondent

The Lady Rams of Lake Mary enter tonight's 4A-Region 5 girls basketball confrontation against the fifth-ranked Lady Blue Darters of Apopka as heavy underdogs, but have their hearts set on an upset and a sectional berth.

Lake Mary (19-10) advanced to the regional championships with a 51-36 win over the Lady Silver Hawks of Lake Howell in the 4A-District 7 finals while the Lady Blue Darters (22-2) were 68-60 victors over the Lady Panthers of Dr. Phillips in 4A-District 10 play. The site for tonight's game is Lake Mary and game time is slated for 8 p.m.

The Lady Blue Darters have a big height advantage with 5'11" Tasha Fair, 6'1" Juandrea Baldwin, and 5'10" Conya Johnson. All-state guard Betty Rouse runs the offense for Apopka while Keshia Brown fills the other guard slot. The Lady Blue Darters are the defending region champions and look in top form to repeat. However, the likes of the scrappy Lake Mary squad has other things in mind for the visiting Apopka team.

For Lake Mary, Amy Kuvach has had the hot hand of late along with Anita Mitchell. Wiletha Hartsfield will provide the bulk of the inside play and Lisa Johnson, Trudie Roundtree, and Heather Gleason are the Lady Ram speed demons who

Seminole doesn't know what to expect in 3A-3

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

Seminole High School's girls basketball team will try to stay with their game and look to gain the region 3A-3 title tonight when they travel to take on Starke-Bradford.

The Lady Tribe (24-3) downed Jones, 69-63, for the district title and will look for its strong inside game to keep rolling tonight.

Starke-Bradford (20-8) won its district with a 54-53 upset of Ocala Vanguard.

"We don't know a thing about them," Seminole coach John McNamara said. "We just want to go in and play our game, use our strengths, which are our inside game and our pressure defense. If we can play our game it will take a real tough team to beat us."

SCC benches St. John's

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

Using a strong effort from its bench, the Seminole Community College men's basketball squad reached the semifinals of the Mid-Florida Conference tournament by whipping St. Johns Community College, 83-72, Monday night in opening round action before 201 fans at SCC.

The Raiders improved to 20-12, their ninth straight 20 win season, and will return to action Wednesday night against host Florida Community College-Jacksonville. The Vikings finished their season with an 11-17 record.

"We're as up as we can be right now," Seminole coach Bill Payne said. "I feel great going into Jacksonville and playing FCC-J because we've never won their and I think it's about time that changed."

Terrell Barnes led the Raiders with a game-high 22 points and eight rebounds with reserves Rishard Brown and Terry Acox adding 17 and 10 points respectively. Guard T.J. Scaletta added 13 points with point guard William "Wimpy" Woods breaking a school record with 19 assists while picking up seven rebounds and five steals. Eddie Johnson led St. Johns with 21 markers as Melvin Smith netted 17 and Pat Mittell 15.

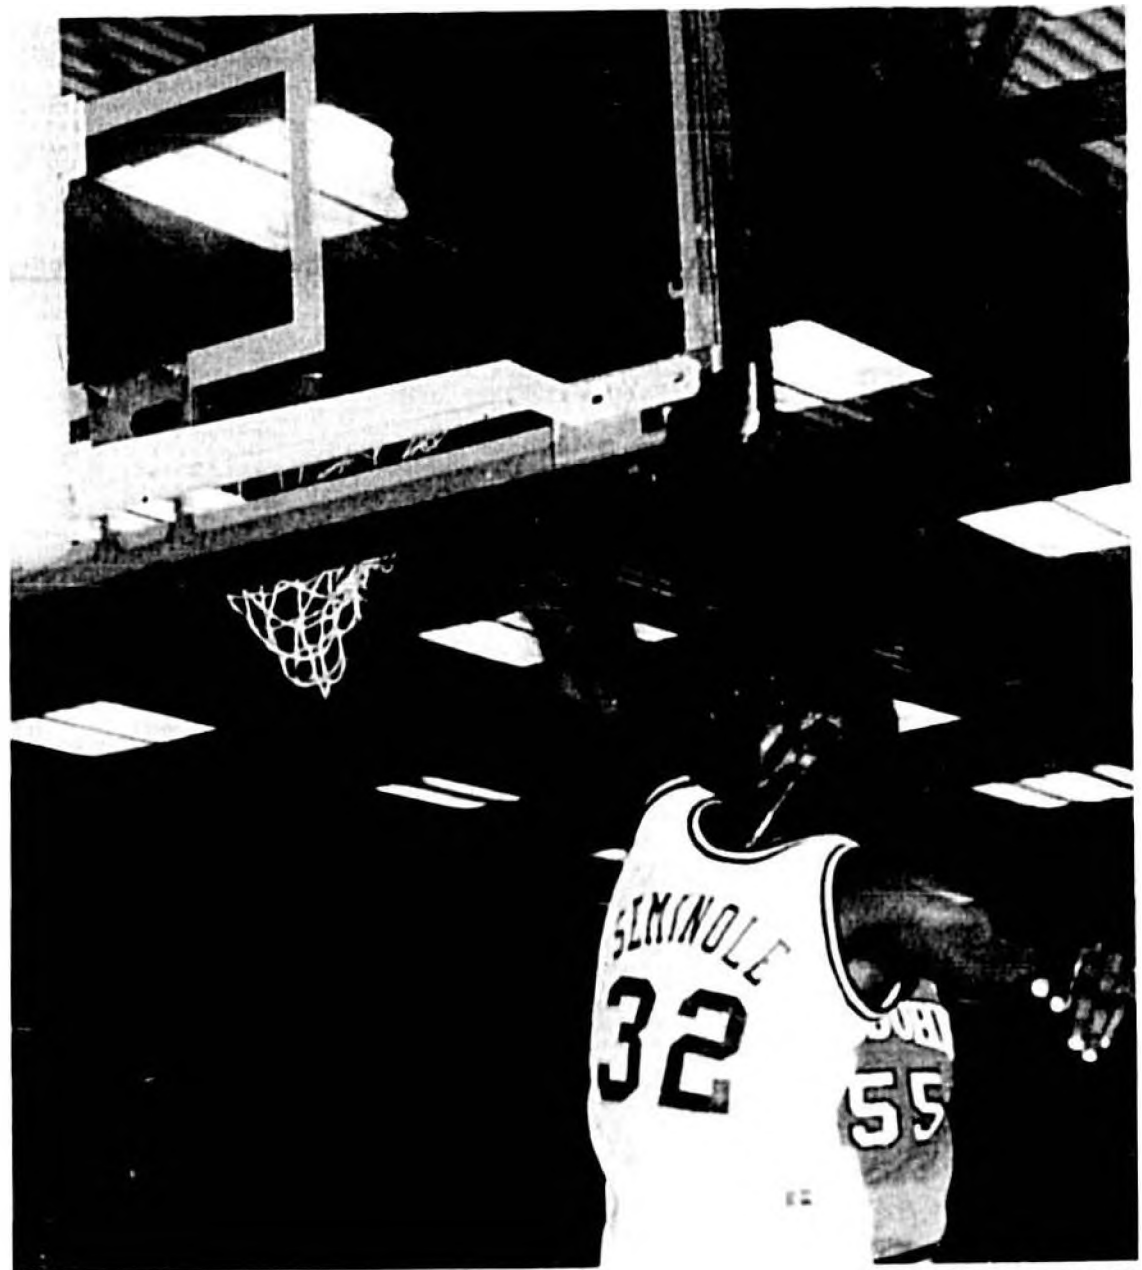

The two teams opened on an even keel with neither really taking control for the first five minutes. Smith then hit a three point field goal followed by an Anthony Adams bucket that gave the Vikings a 12-8 lead with 16:08 to play in the opening half.

Mittell then gave St. Johns its biggest lead of the night, 29-23, with 4:32 to play in the half with a jumper from the baseline. The rest of the half was all Seminole as Brown dominated the final four minutes of play scoring 13 in that time frame.

Seminole outscored the Vikings 15-4 in the final four minutes to take the lead at the intermission. Brown opened the run with a pair of free throws, then came up with a steal, fed Woods who found Acox opened for a nice two handed slam to give the Raider momentum.

Brown then hit an inside hoop followed by a Barnes bucket off the fast break. Brown then connected on a three point play followed by another layup before Eddie

Rams cruise to win behind five-run first inning

From Staff Reports

Lake Mary High erupted for five runs in the bottom of the first inning then coasted to an 8-1 victory over Dr. Phillips Monday night in prep baseball action at Apopka.

Alex Birle was the winning pitcher improving his record to 1-1 for the season while the Rams improved to 2-2 and will return to action in the Apopka Kick off Tournament Thursday against Winter Park.

"We looked pretty good tonight," Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said. "We had a strong pitching performance and played real good defense."

Greg James opened the first inning reaching first on a passed ball off a strike out, stole second and scored on a single by Aaron Iatarola. A passed ball moved Iatarola to second where Andy Wolfe brought him in with a single. Wolfe then stole second and Shane Stullet walked and both runners advanced on a passed ball. Neil James then hit a hard grounder to short and the ball was kicked with two runs scoring. James then moved to third on a single by Jason Sewell before scoring on a passed ball.

Lake Mary went on to add a single run in the second, third and fifth innings to stay in command of the game.

"Birle looked sharp tonight and finished with seven strikeouts," Tuttle said. "He stayed in control the entire game."

Noles second in tournament

Seminole High School's boys baseball team picked up its first trophy of the season with a second place finish in the Edgewater Kick-Off Tournament held this past weekend at Edgewater.

The Tribe, 3-1, will return to action Wednesday at home against Edgewater.

Seminole reached the finals with an 8-7 victory over host Edgewater in 12 innings. James Joyce came up with the pitching win and hit a big home run in the seventh inning to keep the Noles going.

Mike Senecek opened the game against Edgewater before going up against a strong Colonial team. Seminole was rocked 11-1 in the finals by the Grenadiers.

"We had a real good tournament," Seminole coach Mike Powers said. "We played good defense and hit the ball well."

Seminole junior varsity wins

Thallas Inman ripped a two run double in the fourth inning to trigger a four run inning to lift the Seminole junior varsity baseball team to a 5-2 victory over Lyman Monday night in baseball action at Seminole High School.

John Eltonhead picked up the win for the Seminoles (1-1) who picked up another run in the sixth inning to maintain a four run lead. Lyman scored its runs in the top of the first and top of the sixth. Andre Stokes added two base hits with a pair of runs batted in and Seminole stole eight bases in the game to keep runners in scoring position throughout the night.

Real mites require a practical solution

DEAR DR. GOTT: We have some kind of mite on our bodies we cannot get rid of. We've had our house fumigated, used two prescriptions of Kwell, put our clothes in the freezer, boiled everything. We finally went to a skin doctor who told my husband to repeat five times before going to bed, "I do not have bugs." Please help.

DEAR READER: Mites are tiny parasites that are responsible for rashes and intense itching when they feed on humans or reproduce under the skin. The most common mite diseases are chiggers and scabies. Mites can also cause rickettsial pox (rash, swollen glands, fever and muscle pains) and, in the Far East, mite-borne typhus (scrub typhus, characterized by rash, headache, swollen glands, cough, shock and stupor).

The usual mite diseases in the United States are easily diagnosed by scraping the affected skin and examining the residue under a microscope; the eggs or mites themselves are usually visible.

The skin specialist who advised your husband to think the mites away evidently believed that your family is suffering a mental delusion about the parasites. If you are truly suffering from mites, see another dermatologist for a second opinion that will, I hope, provide more practical information than you have been supplied.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My grandpa just had new knees put in. At first he was getting along fine but now they are very sore and swollen. I hate to see him in such pain.

DEAR READER: Joint replacements, like any other surgery, sometimes result in unfavorable consequences. Post-operative infection, rejection of the artificial tissue or misplaced prostheses can cause pain and continuing disability. I urge you — or your grandpa — to contact the surgeon who operated and ask for a re-examination or referral for a second orthopedic opinion. In all likelihood, the situation can be resolved, repaired or treated. Your grandfather does not have to live with chronic pain and a handicap.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Many players I know will automatically bid game when they have an opening bid with a six-card suit and their partner extends an invitation. That can be the winning approach on occasion, but whenever your partner has reason to assume that you have that six-card suit, you should definitely examine your total hand before going on. In today's deal, South's bidding showed a six-card heart suit. When North simply raised to three, South did well to make a conservative pass.

There was a reasonable play for 10 tricks. (If hearts split 2-2, declarer would simply play the A-K of spades, and then ace and a heart.) Nevertheless, South had to play with great care to give himself the best play for his contract. The defenders cashed the ace and king of clubs and then played a spade. Declarer took the A-K of spades and then played a low heart. Declarer did not care if that was won by a singleton heart honor, since the defender who won that trick would then have to either lead a diamond for a free finesse or play a black suit to give declarer a sluff and a ruff. If the defender who won the first heart trick exited with a heart, then hearts were probably 2-2, in which case nine tricks would always be safe.

What if declarer had played ace and a h-Q and get off lead with a club or a spade. South would then have to guess how to play the diamond suit without a loser to make his contract.
