Suspicious fire

SANFORD — An unoccupied mobile home burned shortly before midnight last night. The home is located at 4407 Francis Ave., just south of C.R. 427.

According to Seminole County Chief Fire Investigator Bob Christian, the building was not completely destroyed. "I would give a preliminary estimate of between $5,000 and $6,000 in damage," he said.

Christian would not release any other information regarding the fire or the owner of the mobile home. "We believe this is a highly suspicious incident," he said, "and we won't be releasing any details on this at the present time while the investigation is still in progress."

He said the fire was being investigated by the State Fire Marshal, Metro Seminole Bureau of Fire Investigations, and the Seminole County Sheriff's office.

Lake Howell custodian fired

SANFORD — A custodial worker, who had been warned repeatedly not to consort with students, has been suspended without pay by the Seminole County School District after he allegedly left alcohol and cigarettes as gifts for two Lake Howell High School students.

According to a spokesman for the school district, Frederick Alexander, 30, will be recommended for termination at the April 13 school board meeting. In the meantime, he will not be allowed to return to work and he will not be paid.

School district staff reports indicate that two female students reported to the Lake Howell guidance staff that Alexander had bought liquor and cigarettes for them and that he had left the items in one of the bathrooms at the school where the girls retrieved the items.

The two then reported the incident to school officials.

Chamber office relocates

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce office has relocated temporarily. The business office is now in the executive conference room.

The move is to allow work to continue on the remodeling program presently underway. The conference room was the first to be modernized. Now that the work is completed, Executive Director Dave Farr and his staff have moved out of the office areas for work to begin there.

Clarification

Sue Allbee, director of Seminole County Better Living for Seniors, said that 22 seniors in the Goldsboro area receive service from the Meals on Wheels program. While the organization has had some difficulty recruiting volunteers in that area they still service those who are in need.

Two die in wreck near Lake Mary

by VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Two died early this morning after being ejected from a van that ricocheted off a guardrail and flipped several times on I-4 near E.E. Williamson Road just south of Lake Mary.

Eight people were passengers in the van.

"They were thrown from the van onto the pavement," a highway patrol spokesman said. "They were dead on the scene."

Six others were treated at area hospitals.

Brian Mello and James Phillips were taken to South Seminole Community Hospital in Longwood where they were treated and released.

Glenn Howell, a spokesman for the hospital, said he was not aware of the nature of the injuries they had sustained, but said he believed that the two were the "least seriously injured" of those in the vehicle.

The remaining four patients were transported to Orlando Regional Medical Center in Orlando.

According to spokesman Joise Sosa, one person was in surgery at 8 a.m., two were in stable condition, but would not require surgery and the remaining person was being evaluated.

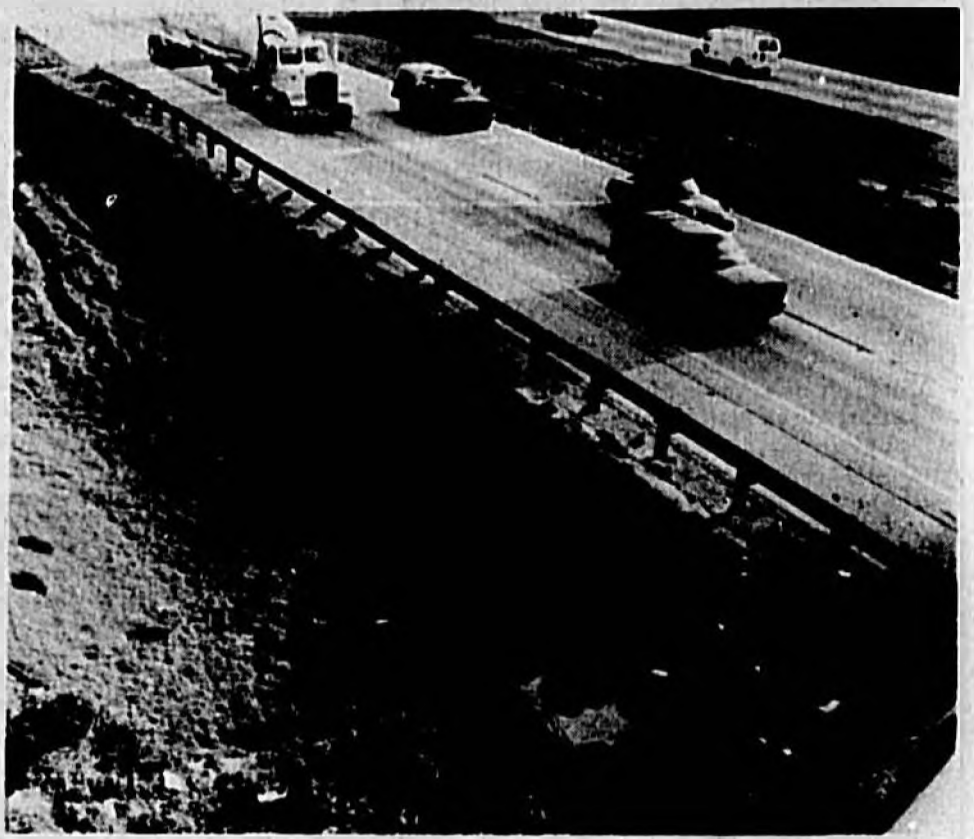

She did not know their names or the nature of their injuries.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, the eight passengers in the vehicle were traveling west bound on the Interstate toward Orlando. All were believed to be from the West Point, N.Y. area, the FHP said.

Reports indicate that at about 4 a.m. the 1993 Plymouth minivan was westbound on I-4 when the accident occurred.

They said the driver, who has not yet been identified, may have fallen asleep at the wheel and driven off

Jury: Man shot wife with crossbow

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — An April 29 sentencing date has been set for a man found guilty Thursday night of attempted manslaughter for shooting his estranged wife with a crossbow.

A Seminole County Circuit Court jury also found Alfred Johnny Haygood, 37, guilty of two counts of false imprisonment and not guilty of armed burglary. Haygood was originally charged with attempted first degree murder, armed burglary and two counts of kidnapping stemming from an incident June 8 at an Altamonte Springs apartment complex. He was charged with armed burglary for entering the apartment with a knife and crossbow, without his estranged wife's permission.

Judge Veron Mize ordered a presentence investigation and remanded the defendant to custody. The jury returned the verdicts after seven hours of deliberation.

Haygood, who lived in Atlanta, Ga. and worked as an apartment security guard at the time of the incident, claimed he was in Florida making an attempt to reconcile with his wife. He testified his wife, Linda, had visited him in Atlanta and he had visited her in Florida to try and work out their marital problems. He had also testified he had applied to be a policeman in Georgia.

Haygood testified he never got along with her nephew, William Bourne.

His wife, Linda Haygood, claimed as she was leaving for work June 8, Haygood approached her, placed a knife at her throat and forced her

Time in a capsule found

Surprise unearthed at chamber

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Workers removing paneling from a wall in the office of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building uncovered a "time capsule" yesterday.

The items, contained in a plastic bag, indicated they were hidden in February of 1979.

Jack Horner, who was executive director of the chamber from 1973 until 1986 recalls placing the items in the wall. "We had previously placed a time capsule just inside the door of the Sanford City Hall for the city's 100th anniversary," he said. "Then several years later, when we put the paneling on the wall at the chamber offices, we tossed in some items just for the fun of it."

Horner said, "We just wanted

85 workers lose jobs at Jetstream

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Jetstream Systems, Inc., located at 3795 Sanford Avenue, is closing, leaving an estimated 85 workers out of work between May 15 and May 28.

The firm manufactures mechanical conveyers and other equipment.

Ronald Gniadek, director of Human Resources for the St. Louis based firm said, "We are closing the Sanford facility and relocating the operations to Denver and St. Louis. The company is still going strong, and there is no reflection on Sanford. It's just that it would be economically beneficial to move to our other two locations."

Gniadek has notified Sanford Mayor Bette Smith and Seminole County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm of the decision.

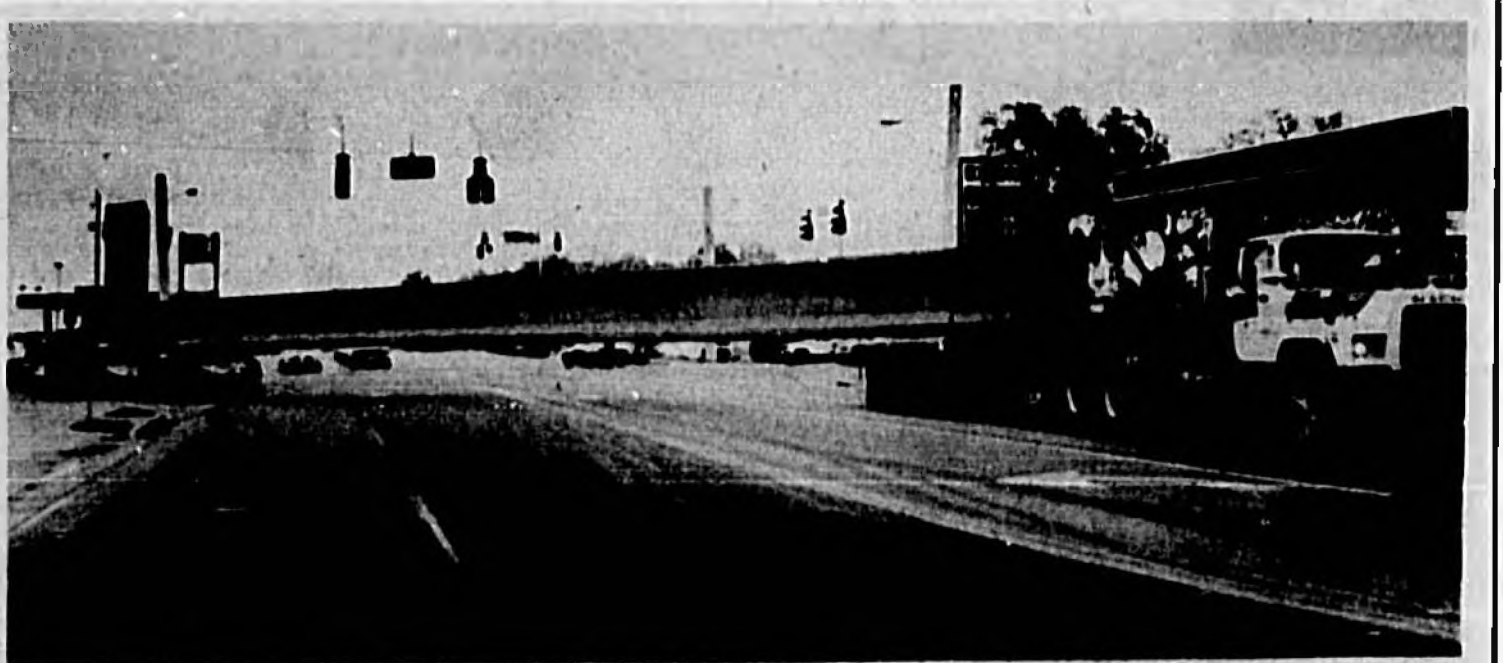

The Sanford plant official closing date has been set at May 28.

Workers to be laid off include 13 from the managerial and professional levels, 16 technical workers, 8 clerical employees, and 48 plant workers.

A bridge construction beam makes for a tight squeeze around the corner of First Street and French Avenue Thursday, even with someone steering the front and rear of the 132-foot-long girder. The 136,000-pound girder is one of the longest used in the northern half of the Seminole County expressway, said expressway spokesman Gayle Geddes. The beam is one of 16 that will be used in the construction of the bridge over Sanford Avenue.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Exec sentenced on credit card fraud

ORLANDO — The president of a telemarketing company prosecutors say defrauded people seeking credit cards of nearly $12.5 million will serve 2½ years in federal prison.

Bruce Grossman, 34, of Altamonte Springs, also was ordered to forfeit $2 million in property and must serve three years on probation.

Grossman headed the defunct Advanced Interactive Communications Inc., also known as Infonet Financial Services. The company will go on trial this spring, charged with 20 counts of mail and wire fraud. Grossman will testify for the government.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Judy Hunt charged that Grossman and his company operated three dozen telephone rooms around the country which solicited people who were denied credit.

AIICI and its subsidiaries promised to obtain credit cards for customers for a $25 or $50 fee, but they received only pamphlets on how to rehabilitate their credit.

Chicken farmer may face prison

TAMPA — Prosecutors said they will ask a judge to order prison time for a poultry farmer who has pleaded no contest to a charge of letting thousands of chickens die of starvation.

Daoud Kiswani, 57, entered his plea to a felony cruelty charge Wednesday before Hillsborough Circuit Judge Diana M. Allen. A no-contest plea means the accused neither admits nor denies the allegations. He will be sentenced April 22.

Last year Daoud Kiswani and his son ran into financial trouble, Daoud could not afford feed and tried to get credit and donations, prosecutors said.

Eventually about 15,000 chickens starved at the egg farm south of Plant City.

David Kiswani, 33, was allowed to enter a pretrial intervention program similar to probation. If he completes it, he will have no criminal record.

Prosecutor Ty Tison said state guidelines recommend probation for the elder Kiswani, but because of the large number of birds that starved, he will ask for prison time.

Plant burned; owner plans to rebuild

PORT ST. JOE — Seafood processor Gene Raffield says he intends to rebuild his plant, Gulf County's second largest employer, after a second fire in the last nine years.

The blaze Monday did an estimated $1 million in damage to Raffield Fisheries Inc., where about 250 people work. Only St. Joe Paper Co. employs more workers in this Florida Panhandle city.

Raffield has been beset with legal problems connected with the $3.5 million reconstruction and expansion of the plant after it was destroyed by fire in 1984.

The owner and his company have pleaded guilty to criminal charges of taking kickbacks on the reconstruction work that was financed with a federal loan.

The U.S. Commerce Department, which provided the loan, has filed a lawsuit alleging Raffield still owes more than $1 million and asking for fines of up to $2 million.

Raffield has insisted he took the kickbacks only because that helped speed the reconstruction work.

Gulf Sheriff Al Harrison has declared Monday's fire to be accidental, ignited by a welder's torch.

Man charged with telemarketing scam

WEST PALM BEACH — A Palm Beach man has been charged with running a telemarketing scam that duped and triple-billed thousands of customers who joined his club and discounts.

Kevin Casady, 33, arrested Wednesday by Secret Service agents, had his first appearance before U.S. Magistrate Ann Vitunac on charges of credit card fraud.

Casady and employees at his Hollywood International Travel Club billed customers from across the country by charging them at least twice for membership in the discount travel club, according to Dave Noznesky, head of the Secret Service office in West Palm Beach.

The club began operating last summer, Noznesky said, and ran ads in newspapers and magazines.

Victims ranged from senior citizens seeking inexpensive retirement trips to college students looking for deals on spring vacations, Noznesky said.

Grounded ship carries candy, cigarettes

KEY WEST — A salvage crew pumped fuel off a freighter laden with candy bars and cigarettes that ran aground on a coral reef just south of here during last weekend's winter storm, officials said.

The 147-foot Miss Beholden was bound from Miami to the Mexican port of Progreso when it foundered in heavy seas and gale-force winds brought by the weekend storm that killed 44 people in Florida, said Coast Guard Capt. George Williams, who also serves as captain of the Port of Miami.

Children's bill passes House

Kids may now sue parents for physical, sexual abuse

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Children would be able to sue their parents for physical and sexual abuse but not for lack of food, clothing or shelter under a bill the House passed Thursday on a 67-43 vote.

An amendment that would have limited lawsuits to cases where parents have been convicted of criminal charges was defeated on a voice vote.

Bill sponsor Rep. Shirley Brown told her colleagues she spoke from personal experience when she said many victims of sexual abuse never come forward.

"It's a very, very difficult issue to ... make public," said Brown, D-Sarasota.

After the session, she said she and other members of her family had been childhood sexual abuse victims but never pursued legal action.

An identical bill (SB 1344) was approved 5-0 later Thursday in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Many states have already lifted the traditional protection given parents from lawsuits filed by their own children, according to Brown. But the debate on the House bill (CS-HB 621) revolved around the rights of children as people versus the integrity of the family unit.

The legislation was amended on a voice vote to limit lawsuits to sexual abuse, aggravated child abuse like battery, torture and caging, and physical and mental abuse that results in severe physical harm or permanent disability.

Language that would have let children sue parents over the deprivation of food, clothing or shelter was removed with a compromise amendment Brown and cosponsor Rep. Debbie Wasserman Shultz agreed to.

"You could not be sued for not allowing your children to go out with their friends, for grounding them, or for spanking," Wasserman Shultz, D-Davie, said, calling on the House to send a message to child abusers.

"Children are not property," she said.

"They should have rights as individuals."

But some lawmakers said they were concerned about the bill's effect on families.

"This bill will put a judge in every living room. It will pull the rug out from other family, it will open a Pandora's box of civil litigation, pitting son against father, daughter against mother," said Rep. Robert Starks, R-Winter Park.

Another Central Florida Republican said angry teens and troublemaking attorneys was a scary combination.

"This bill ... will be a vehicle for teen-agers, through the use of mischievous trial attorneys, to harass and intimidate parents in order to get their way, whether it be they're mad about curfew requirements, whether mad about not having the family car, mad about being told they can't participate in gangs or drugs or cigarettes or booze, whatever," said Rep. Tom Feeney of Orlando.

"Heller-dust," replied Rep. Charlie Roberts.

"What we're talking about is giving our weakest members of society — children and their ... court-appointed guardians — the ability to have legal representation," Roberts, D-Titusville, said.

And Brown said the arguments that the bill would hurt family harmony didn't have much strength.

"I say in instance of this kind of abuse 'family harmony' rings rather hollow in my ears," she said.

Kiwanis Pancake Day

SANFORD—Pancakes will be flippin' Saturday at the Sanford Civic Center as Sanford Kiwanis Club members hold their 29th Annual Pancake Day to raise money for underprivileged children.

The all-you-can-eat pancake and sausage meal will be served from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will feature Kiwanis Club members cooking and serving the food. Juice, milk or coffee accompany the meal.

Janice Springfield, project chairman and Kiwanis Club vice-president, said money raised at the fund-raiser is used for a variety of projects including toys purchased for needy children at Christmas, three scholarships for Seminole High School students and support for the Boys and Girls Clubs as well as the Christian Sharing Center.

During the summer, Springfield added, the Kiwanis Club provides a lunch and clowns for entertainment for children at Camp Challenge.

There will be fresh produce for sale, entertainment by local schools, a silent auction and bake sale throughout the day.

Tickets are $2.50 in advance from Kiwanis Club members or $3 at the door.

Longwood candidacy announced

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

LONGWOOD — Spring has not even officially arrived but signs of fall appeared in Longwood this week as the first candidate for the city commission filed for office.

Ron Sargent, 37, 342 Overstreet Avenue, declared he will seek election Nov. 2 to the district 2 seat currently held by Fred Pearl.

A mortgage broker in Longwood, Sargent believes that the city government is still bloated and in need of leadership that will study merits of privatizing as many positions as possible.

In addition, Sargent states that flooding in Longwood has been given mostly lip service for far too long and points to the waste of thousands of dollars of drainage tax money on Church Avenue when it should have been spent to curb the flooding of homes.

"Now when tax money is critically needed," he said, "it is not available." As an example of waste, Sargent points out that spending $21,000 in drainage tax money for a street sweeper as an example of bureaucratic mismanagement.

"Commissioner (Steve) Miller's investigation of the flooding matters brought this to a halt," according to Sargent's press release.

Sargent says he agrees with Miller and others who want to ensure that bureaucracy understands that it works for the people, not the other way around.

"The City of Longwood needs to cultivate a climate more conducive to business development," the candidate said. He would like to see a pro-active business coalition formed to determine and reduce barriers that presently deter business development.

Sargent is married and has four children.

Hearing into firing of two deputies is to continue

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Sheriff's Civil Service Board will continue their hearing into the firings of two deputies next week.

The board ended the second evening of testimony Wednesday night with no decision in the Feb. 15 firing of Deputy Steve Martin and Lt. John Thorpe. Sheriff Don Eslinger fired them after an investigation found Thorpe had provided Martin with a copy of a flyer obtained from an investigation into white supremacist groups.

Martin showed the flyer, titled "The Real Black Achievement Awards," to three other sheriff's employees.

Eslinger passed over the recommendations of two Disciplinary Review Board panels to suspend the two deputies and instead fired them, saying they had compromised their ability to perform their duties in minority neighborhoods. Eslinger said they had exhibited conduct unbecoming law enforcement officers.

Sanford attorney Tom Greene, representing Martin, said testimony was completed in his client's appeal for reinstatement last night. But CSB members decided to hear Thorpe's case before rendering a decision to uphold Eslinger or reinstate either of the deputies, said Greene.

Greene said sheriff's officials have concurred with Martin's position that he is not a racist and the material is racist. Greene said Martin has taken the position that given those facts, Martin did not show unbecoming conduct simply by showing the flyer copy and not making comments about it or making some action in conjunction with it.

Both Thorpe and Martin told investigators that they found the language in the flyer amusing, but understood some people would find it the contents offensive.

Kudos for a job well done

The storm hit the area Saturday. By Monday morning, an estimated 220,000 customers around the state were still without power.

Power company officials say the biggest problem was not with power lines being blown down, but with trees falling on the lines. As a result, not only power company crews, but tree services have been out in full force for the past several days.

Although power company workers, normally limited to 8-hour days, are required to have short safety breaks to protect their safety, many continued on the job almost non-stop. It is apparent that becoming a worker with a utility company requires a strong dedication to service above self, especially when the chips are down.

Most homes and businesses are back to normal, thanks to hard work and long hours spent by these dedicated men and women.

A few people, mostly in remote areas, were still without power for several days. Some in the Central Florida area may not have electricity until late in the week due to unusual circumstances.

Many people have lost a great deal of food from refrigerators and freezers. They have also incurred other costs connected with the storm. It is unfortunate.

In this particular situation, several points stand out as being commendable. Neighbors turned out to help neighbors. People with only a little damage to their property volunteered to help others. Food was shared in some cases, and in the rural areas, even drinking water was brought to those with inoperative wells.

An expression of appreciation is in order to the linemen and other power company workers. A few people may be angry over what resulted in a long and costly delay. Damage from the storm was severe and getting so many power outages restored in just a few days was an outstanding accomplishment.

Thanks to the power company people for a job well done. Thanks also to good neighbors.

Ask the NRA about cult leader

Both President Bill Clinton and the National Rifle Association love their country. Both are patriotic. But they part company on one formidable rock-bottom difference — the president's belief that cult leader David Koresh does not have a legal right to Koresh's murderous storehouse of artillery.

On the other hand, the NRA (known to some Americans as the National Repository of Assassins) believes that the Second Amendment gives Koresh the same right to store up 50-caliber machine guns and anti-tank weaponry as it gives the weekend hunter to own a rifle.

Tell me if you believe that the following constitutionally guaranteed right refers to any private citizen: "A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

By the NRA's interpretation, David Koresh and any other psychotic barbarians are "the people." And they have a right to build and maintain their own personal "well-regulated militia." The next step is inexorably logical. "The right of the people" to maintain a militia extends to the right of a private citizen to stockpile as many guns as he or she neurotically wishes.

Anti-abortionist Michael Frederick Griffin apparently thinks so. That's why he bought a gun, prayed, then went out and assassinated a Pensacola doctor who had saved lives and cured patients, but had also performed abortions. But there is an even crueler irony. David Koresh's constitutional "militia" (courtesy of the NRA's interpretation of the Second Amendment) was able to immobilize a government that had wiped out Saddam Hussein's war-making capacity within a few days.

Obviously, the two situations aren't completely parallel. When a satanic nut repeatedly proclaims his sick intention of becoming a martyr, law enforcement officials are forced to tread lightly to prevent Koresh's slaughter of innocent people.

But as the bodies on both sides are totaled up like pieces of raw meat in a freezer, it makes us aware that once again the ignominious will of the NRA has prevailed. And we are all held hostage to a homicidal idiosyncrasy that subsidizes a dubious right to bear arms.

Nobody — with the exception of NRA members — can sanely argue that the founding fathers endorsed the right of a David Koresh to gather a storehouse of deadly artillery.

The founding fathers were scholars. The Lockian phrase "the people" means the people as a duly constituted group in a representative government, not some perverted mob of NRA fanatics, David Koreshes and Michael Griffins running amuck, yelling they have a right to bear arms.

In Locke's epochal treatise on civil government — the basis for our Declaration of Independence — he raised the question of who shall decide a public controversy and he answered his question: "The people shall judge."

Both President Bill Clinton and the National Rifle Association love their country.

Abortion clinics now exist in a war zone

WASHINGTON — Guard dogs, razor wire, panic buttons, video cameras and bodyguards are not typically associated with medical environments. Yet this is the picture of the bunker mentality that has gripped abortion clinics across the country.

"These are health facilities that are forced to function like maximum security prisons," said Ron Fitzsimmons, a lobbyist who represents about 200 abortion clinics nationwide.

Even before the recent murder of a doctor outside a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic, a radical fringe of the pro-life movement has been resorting to violence and sabotage to achieve results on the streets that they've failed to achieve through the system.

With little fanfare, the battleground of the abortion controversy has been shifting from the Congress and the courts — where pro-choice advocates are winning — to the doorsteps of clinics and even the driveways of doctors, where militant pro-lifers prevail, thanks to a combination of pranks and black-bag jobs.

"When I came to work here, never did I think that I would be working with undercover intelligence and a police bomb squad," said Ashley Phillipps, executive director of a woman's clinic in San Diego that was recently subjected to a balyric acid attack — one of more than 40 occurring within the last year. The chemical is poured into hypodermic needles and injected through keyholes, under doors or through ventilation shafts at the clinics, forcing their closure and often costly repairs.

"Every package that comes into the clinic improperly labeled is considered a bomb," one clinic administrator told our associate Melinda Maas. "The packages are dumped in water or simply turned away." As a result, patients are getting searched before entering clinics and are forced to flash I.D.

A clinic director compared this climate to serving in a "MASH" unit: "We are trying to perform surgery, while being threatened by bombs, chemicals, hate mail and violent protesters. It's like working in a war zone."

Less threatening but highly disruptive is the technique of tying up telephone lines. "They put their phones on redial and just keep calling," one clinic staffer told us. "Or a bunch of them call and make appointments they don't show up for, so we're left with no patients that day."

One of the more ominous developments is the way the battle is often taken far beyond the boundaries of a clinic, to the private lives of clinicians. Families, friends and landlords of abortion providers are targeted for violence and harassment. In Minnesota, Dr. Sue Wicklund's daughter was followed to school by protesters who stood outside her classroom and distributed flyers calling her mother a baby killer.

Physicians are stalked on the freeways, picketed at their homes and blocked into their driveways. Tom Tucker, who owns and operates three clinics, was boxed in by three cars at a traffic light and then run off the road by an unidentified man who was shadowing him. Tucker claims that protesters have followed him to the airport and even to Pizza Hut. "They have 'broken every window in every building I own,'" he said. "The other day, when I went into J.C. Penny to buy socks, they came in behind me screaming 'baby killer.'"

Jeri Rasmussen, executive director of an abortion clinic in Minneapolis, says she's been stalked for three years, forcing her to install a home security system. Her car tires have been repeatedly slashed. At one time, 30 men stood in front of her home protesting with an attack dog alongside them.

Reject D.C. statehood

Statehood proposals for Washington, D.C. should be rejected. Statehood would not solve D.C.'s many problems and no amount of political posturing on the part of the statehood supporters will change that fact. In truth, many problems would be intensified, not improved. Washington, D.C. does not meet the requirements for statehood. Making such an exception to the historical prerequisites for statehood would risk fundamentally changing our federalist republic. This is a risk that should be avoided.

There are a number of alternatives to D.C. statehood. Given the intent of the Founding Fathers, maintaining the status quo may be the best choice. Denying Washington, D.C. statehood does not mean denying its residents a voice in the nation's affairs. The district's residents currently have far more access and influence than the residents of any state. They maintain control over their local affairs and receive more in federal aid than any other area of the country. If the status quo is deemed unacceptable, ceding territory back to the state of Maryland is an alternative that should be considered. Of representation is truly the issue concerning statehood proponents—not personal political advancement—then retrocession should receive their full support. Retrocession would give the city's residents congressional representation on par with other U.S. cities, while minimizing the damage to the nation's federalist form of government.

Dismantling the federal city and creating the "State of New Columbia" is a serious threat to our federalist heritage and should be rejected. It would seem D.C. statehood proponents have chosen to ignore the risks and have forgotten Washington, D.C. is the nation's capital. D.C. statehood is a risk the American people do not wish to take. A POST-election poll conducted Nov. 3, 1992 by Citizen's United found that 62 percent of American's disapprove of the statehood initiatives for D.C.

Sanford civil servants

As somewhat of a cosmopolite having traveled to 24 countries and all 50 states, I can say without reservation that civil servants in Sanford (policemen, firemen and ambulance drivers) have got to be the most siren-happy vehicle drivers I've seen in all my travels.

I swear one could spot anyone of the three proceeding crossways on a plowed field, 22 miles from any semblance of a highway with sirens screaming wide open with nothing ahead of them indicative of anything or anyone representative of an object of pursuit.

As near as I can figure, there can be only two reasons for these nightly disturbances. One: they want to assure the citizenry that they are carrying out their assigned duties, or two: they are attempting to stay awake until shift change.

As a victim of acute emphysema and asthma, my limited sleep is interrupted at least 40 to 50 times nightly as a result of these nighttime jolly-poppers.

P.S. As a former resident of New York City I didn't hear that many sirens.

Stop smoking

Tired of No Smoking laws? Try the John E. Polk Correction Facility.

Way too much money is used each year to stop people from smoking yet all laws are ignored. People still manage to damage their bodies. If you're a believer in spiritual realms, it isn't your body, but a temple of the Lord's. If you aren't so inclined, you have a rebellious human nature and are self-centered.

Unlimited reasons for this habit come from all directions none of which seem to bother the inhaling smoker, who is unconcerned about our environment and about others putting up with this nasty smoking habit.

Money is wasted on over-the-counter products to "stop smoking."

When your environment says "no smoking" it's the law — government issued ban. Why keep on breaking the law? Mostly because smokers will risk their health to break that law.

People have stopped caring about their own health as well as that of others made to endure their unhealthy problem.

Yes, I am a smoker. But I do have a guaranteed way to stop smoking. As we learn in life everything is a sacrifice to a point. Here is a 100 percent way to follow the law and stop smoking, plus other habits. Be in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility April 1, 1993.

You will then learn you really had no need for clinics costing mega money. You will not actually die. You will find you probably still have your tramped up reason to smoke, just like you originally had for picking up your first cigarette.

There are many lessons learned once your own life is out of hand. You neglect your life in many areas. Well, a lesson was learned by this puppy. No more smoking in this correctional facility. See, life has already improved.

To leave here and keep on smoking would not be a lesson learned, now would it? The choice is ours. We have the freedom to do what is best for our future.

SANFORD — The Central Florida Zoological Park will host the Southern Regional Conference of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums, beginning Sunday.

This is the first time the Central Florida zoo has hosted a conference of this nature. Between 250 and 300 delegates are expected to attend the three day conference.

Romance, an evening at Sea World and an afternoon at the Central Florida Zoo."

Post conference tours will include visits to the Merritt Island National Wildlife Refuge and Blue Springs State Park.

Although Farmer indicated the conference is aimed primarily at AAZPA members, the sessions will also be open to other interested people.

Lake Mary water bills may be heading down

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Water bills may be lower in the near future for Lake Mary customers. The City Commission approved a study of water and waste water rates last night.

Ron Ferland, vice president of Dyer, Riddle, Mills & Precourt, Inc., hired for the study, made the presentation during last night's commission meeting.

"In undertaking this study," he said, "we considered the potential growth in population, and projected income to the city, and determined that, under the present charges, it would be collecting more money than needed to operate the system."

Ferland projected the bill for water rates for the average residential customer at the present time is now approximately $53.37. He made his estimate on a water usage of 10,000 gallons per month. "The city could reduce this by approximately $14 per month under this new schedule," he said.

While Ferland's study covered 1993 through 1995, he cautioned, "Whenever Seminole County raises its waste water rates, the city will have to raise its retail rates accordingly."

Under the proposal, the minimum monthly bill for water would be lowered from $5.96 to $5.64. The usage rate would drop from $1.33 to $1.22 for each 1000 gallons over a base amount of 3000 gallons.

The next step will be the preparation of an ordinance specifically identifying the lower rate. It is expected to be presented by the first commission meeting in April.

In other action during last night's city commission meeting, the city selected Judy's Ice Delight and Catering, 777 Heather Glen Circle, Lake Mary, as concessionaire for the new Lake Mary Sports Complex. Judy's was among seven proposals from four separate vendors submitted to the city for consideration.

According to Parks and Recreation Director John Holland, the Parks and Recreation Board had studied all proposals, and determined that the offer made by Judy's would provide the highest rate of return to the city.

Judy's would pay the city a monthly guarantee of $800 plus 15 percent of gross sales at the concession stand. Holland estimated it provide the city with $9,600 per year plus the gross percentage.

The FHP spokesman said that the vehicle struck a guardrail and flipped over several times. During the rolls, she said, the two passengers were ejected.

Traffic westbound on the interstate was closed for two hours and forty minutes.

Seminole County sheriff's officers were called to the area to help direct traffic which began to back up as the rush hour began to get underway about 6 a.m.

The outside lane near the accident scene remained closed for nearly four hours, the FHP spokesman said, but one lane was opened to allow the traffic to begin to flow through.

Still, a back up of nearly three miles resulted.

School district developing five-year improvements plan

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district is currently developing five-year capital improvements plan in order to better address future building needs.

The staff hopes they will be able to complete the plan as part of the 1993-94 budget process.

Diane Kramer, the executive director of facilities planning, said she didn't believe any five-year plan would be perfect, but plans had to be made.

"The process (for developing the plan) is not perfect," she said, "but having a plan is far preferable to having no plan."

The school district has to understand the needs of the schools. The needs will have to be prioritized before action can be taken on any of them.

She said that once a plan is formulated for this year, it will be fine tuned again for future planning.

Kramer added that as part of the annual budget preparation, the staff will also develop an allocation formula that would distribute funds to every school for technology improvements.

According to Kramer's staff the current capital improvement needs "far exceed" the anticipated revenue over the next five years.

Kramer said the district needs to estimate the annual revenue projections over the five year period; to forecast the anticipated student enrollment by grade level over that period; to verify existing facilities capacities and determine new capacity requirements; to determine the capital improvement needs; to estimate individual project costs; to establish basic priorities of need and to rank the identified projects.

As part of the planning process, individual schools will be asked to take their school plant survey and to review and prioritize each proposed improvement.

The staff will then have to estimate the cost of what should be done at each facility.

"It is a planning process that is still evolving," Kramer said.

Engineer says he was powerless to avoid crash

By JOHN FACENTI
Associated Press Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — The engineer operating the Amtrak passenger train which collided into a gasoline tanker said he knew there would be a collision but was powerless to do anything about it.

The engineer, whose name has not been released, told the National Transportation Safety Board he was shocked when he realized the tanker was not backing off the tracks.

Federal investigators continued their investigation today to determine who was at fault in the collision of the 11-car, southbound Silver Star from New York to Miami and an 8,500-gallon gasoline tanker. Six people were killed Wednesday in the ensuing fireball.

John Hammerschmidt, one of five board members, said Thursday night the engineer applied the brakes lightly when he noticed a white vehicle on the tracks about 1,500 feet away, presuming the tanker would make a move.

"The engineer anticipated that the gasoline truck would back off ... Rather it moved west and he noticed that the signal arm came down and began to bounce off the truck," Hammerschmidt said the engineer told him.

Realizing the truck was not moving, the engineer applied the emergency brake, fled to the engine compartment about 40 feet away from the control compartment and braced for impact, Hammerschmidt said. He survived.

Investigators Thursday began reconstructing the final 72 hours in the life of the tanker driver, Vincent DeFrango of Amerada Hess Corp., who died in the crash, and the engineer.

NTSB members said Thursday night they would conduct a routine toxicology exam on DeFrango's body.

Investigators haven't reached any conclusions yet but said there was a possibility the crash site — also a construction zone — may not have had the federally mandated two-lanes of traffic in each direction, Hammerschmidt said. Signals there were also being investigated.

Hammerschmidt said he was unaware of any work that had been done Sunday.

back into the apartment she shared with her nephew, Bourne.

When inside, the defendant handcuffed and gagged Bourne and bound his wife's hands, according to the police report of the incident. Mrs. Haygood was shot with an arrow as she fled the apartment after her hands were bound. She recovered from her injuries.

During his closing arguments, public defender James Figgatt argued if his client was guilty of anything it would be the lesser offenses of attempted manslaughter and false imprisonment. Assistant state attorney Andrew Cameron in his brief closing arguments noted that three of Linda Haygood's neighbors testified they saw her fleeing the apartment, hands bound behind her back with tape partially over her mouth. They said they saw the defendant with a crossbow and heard the defendant threaten the woman saying, "I'm going to kill you."

The prosecutor asked the jurors if they thought Linda Haygood, shot herself with a crossbow, beat herself senseless, gagged and tied herself up and then fled her apartment.

to put something in the wall and see what happened when someone found it."

The papers included a copy of the Sanford Herald, then called the Evening Herald, dated Feb. 6, 1979. Other papers included a number of pamphlets from the zoo and other area attractions.

A copy of the chamber membership directory and budget were also in the bag. The membership at that time was 650, approximately the same as now listed. Several members of the board of directors are still serving in that same capacity.

The budget for 1979 was listed at $59,000. Executive Director Dave Farr said the current budget is in excess of $150,000.

"Back in 1979," Horner said, "we didn't have the money to have the building refurbished, so the members bought everything, and we all pitched in to do the work." He added, "I recall being part of the members who put up that paneling."

Other items were also found in the wall, including a stack of blank score cards for the Mayfair Country Club golf course, complete with an ad for the Mayfair Inn, which has since become the New Tribes Mission.

Work is continuing on the $20,000 refurbishing of the chamber building. The meeting room has been completed, and work is presently underway in the western office areas where the items were found.

Both sides on abortion picket

Murder defendant pleads innocent

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA — Activists on both sides of the abortion issue held demonstrations as a man accused of shooting a doctor at a clinic last week pleaded innocent through a lawyer he didn't want.

About 20 pro-choice demonstrators picketed outside the courthouse where murder defendant Michael E. Griffin — who had asked to serve as his own lawyer — was arraigned Thursday for allegedly shooting Dr. David Gunn three times in the back.

Across town a couple of hours later, no more than a dozen anti-abortion protesters returned to the clinic where Gunn was shot during a demonstration March 10 for the first time.

Both demonstrations were peaceful, but anti-abortion activists were defiant.

"We are not going to quit," said John Burt, who had led the demonstration during which Gunn was killed. "I'd like to send a message right now to Bill Clinton, Gov. (Lawton) Chiles: you pass all the laws you want to; we are not going to stop as long as babies are being killed."

Legislation is pending at the state and federal levels to give abortion clinics increased protection against violence and harassment.

The Florida House has approved a bill to curb violent protests at abortion clinics after a representative who is a gynecologist described the way demonstrators had intimidated his patients. A state Senate committee approved a companion bill earlier this week.

Rep. Ben Graber, D-Coral Springs, said he obtained a restraining order that halted the blocking of his doors, but it doesn't protect other facilities.

"We're dealing with ignorance, we're dealing with stupidity, we're dealing with blinders on," Graber said. "This isn't a pro-life-abortion debate. This is human decency."

On Thursday, administrators at Pensacola Women's Medical Services said little about their operations, but the protesters claimed a victory because a woman in their group made a bogus appointment and was told it would be rescheduled.

"We feel confident that because we were out here today this abortion clinic closed down," said the Rev. Ed Martin of Ocala, executive director of Rescue America. "There will be people here when they do kill babies next week."

Patty Dombroski, assistant administrator, declined comment on his statements, only saying the clinic had patients and was busy.

After the demonstration, police stopped Burt, a local Rescue America leader, a few blocks away and served him with a subpoena.

Burt said it directed him to appear at the state attorney's office an hour later. When he got there he was questioned for three hours about Griffin and the shooting. Martin accompanied Burt and he, too, then was served with a subpoena and questioned for about 10 minutes.

Martin said he was going to propose to other anti-abortion groups that they hold massive demonstrations this summer to try to make Pensacola abortion-free.

While no confrontation took place Thursday, Martin said he would advocate civil disobedience in the future and the barricading of both of Pensacola's abortion clinics.

The National Organization for Women held a demonstration at the M.C. Blanchard Judicial Building to show support for freedom of choice in abortion and in memory of Gunn, 47, of Endauka, Ala.

A little girl held a sign saying "Rescue America Murdered Dr. Gunn." Other placards read "Keep Your Religion Separate" and "Forced Pregnancy Increases Church Membership" in reference to Griffin's fundamentalist Christian beliefs.

"We want him to be treated as any other person who commits a capital felony, to have a fair trial, to have a thorough investigation into all the charges and if he is found guilty on all charges to have the fullest possible sentence given to him, which at this time is the death penalty," said Theresa Hunter, vice president of NOW's Escambia County chapter.

At the hearing, Griffin said he didn't want a lawyer. But Circuit Judge Kenneth Williams appointed one because of the seriousness of the charge. That will be reviewed when another judge can hold a hearing on Griffin's request to defend himself.

Teen Challenge to raise funds with sale

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Teen Challenge facility is now in operation. 30 men and 15 women are already housed at the facility located near the intersection of Sanford Avenue and E. Lake Mary Blvd.

The organization has been renovating the 30,000 square foot former Cardinal Industries modular office complex. Teen Challenge operates programs aimed at helping teens and young adults with life controlling problems such as drugs and alcohol. They become involved in a one year live-in residency program.

This Saturday, a fund raising moving sale event will be held. Executive Director Jerry Nance said the money will be used to help pay for more renovations including the installation of a commercial size kitchen.

"We have already put in 21 showers and dormitory style rooms to house our people," he said, "but we need to do a great deal more to improve the place."

In moving to Sanford, Teen Challenge has closed operations in Winter Haven and Fort Lauderdale. Furnishings from both locations have been brought to Sanford, and will be offered for sale this Saturday at the facility.

Nance said the items include over 30 desks, kitchen equipment, chests, beds, over 50 office type chairs, fax machines, computer and conference tables, and even cars.

"Some of these items are relatively new," Nance said. "Many people have been donating office equipment and furnishings at our facilities, and we simply have more than we can handle now that we are in this location."

Nance said the next Teen Challenge facility is already in the planning stages. "We are looking to open a juvenile program, possibly by this summer, in the Daytona Beach area," he commented.

The sale will be held at the new Teen Challenge facility at 3706 S. Sanford Avenue in Sanford, this Saturday, March 20, from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Lotto jackpot at $83 million

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's $83 million Lotto jackpot may get even bigger if sales continue to soar. Lottery Secretary Marcia Mann said.

"We're watching the sales by the hour," she said Thursday as billboards were changed from $77 million to $83 million. "We're hoping maybe there will be one more jump. We just don't know."

The jackpot, which has rolled over three weeks in a row with no player picking all six numbers, started out this week at $70 million and grew to $77 million Tuesday. It began as an $8 million prize back on Feb. 21.

Sales were doubling last week's levels, according to Mann. Late Thursday afternoon, retailers were selling 13,740 tickets every minute, up from 11,760 five hours earlier.

"This country has not seen a Lotto jackpot this high since 1991," Mann said.

In October 1991, the Florida Lotto jackpot reached $89 million and six players split the prize. The state's largest prize ever was $106 million in September 1990, also split among six winners.

The $83 million qualifies as the sixth largest prize ever in the country.

More than 50 additional lottery terminals have been flown into the state and installed at traditional sales hot spots. But even with the extra terminals, lines began forming Thursday morning at gas stations and convenience stores along Florida's northern border.

"What we're hearing is that many of the tickets are being purchased for friends and relatives in other states," Mann said.

Wednesday, a single player marked individual slips to buy 4,560 tickets.

It took over four hours to print out all the tickets for the unidentified Alabama man in the Pensacola Lottery office.

Sanford starts play Saturday

Last year, the Korg U.S.A. Expos claimed the Sanford Little Major League championship, beating the K'n'D Trailer Sales Red Sox in the best-of-three series. This year, the Expos, Red Sox and the rest of the Sanford Recreation Little Major teams and the Pee Wee league will open their 1993 campaigns Saturday at Fort Mellon Park.

SANFORD — What better way to say goodbye to winter than to play some baseball?

This Saturday, one week after one of the worst winter storms of the century swept through the area, the Sanford Recreation Department will conduct opening ceremonies for its Little Major and Pee Wee baseball leagues.

The city's Babe Ruth Baseball and girls' softball leagues will open their seasons the following Saturday, March 27.

"We're looking forward to a fun season," said Recreation Department Superintendent Rocky Ellingsworth. "We're trying to promote interest in the game. We want to have the kids come out and have fun and get away from the 'win, win, win' mentality."

"We want the kids to know that if they win, they win." See Opening Day, Page 2B

Forfeit clinches title for Florida Sport Wear

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Florida Sport Wear received a bittersweet gift from Myers Tree Service in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Thursday Night Polar Bear Showpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

Second-place Gator's had held off Bamboo Cafe, 6-5, in one of the most exciting games of the season to open the night's play, forcing Florida Sport Wear to win their game to clinch the championship.

The league-leaders got the title clincher the easy but most unsatisfying way when Myers Tree Service failed to have enough players show up for the game, resulting in a 7-0 forfeit triumph for Florida Sport Wear.

Bamboo Cafe	100	000	4	—	3	18
Gator's	401	001	4	—	6	16

And while they certainly did not back into the trophy, Florida Sport Wear finishing the season with a 9-0 record, most competitors would rather win the game on the field and not on the sideline.

No information was received on the other scheduled game between Sanford First Baptist Church and R.E. Templeton.

Wind, rain win out again

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Old Man Winter just refuses to give up.

With spring ready to kick in Saturday, winter threw one final (hopefully) salvo of strong wind and cold weather at Seminole County, forcing the postponement of several athletic events.

Among the games lost was an important Seminole Athletic Conference softball contest between first-place Oviedo (4-0 in the conference) and Lake Mary (3-1 in the SAC) high schools and a big Mid-Florida Conference baseball game between Seminole Community College and Ocala's Central Florida Community College.

"We were drizzled out," said SCC head coach Jack Pantellas, whose team suffered its third straight conference rainout. "It never really rained hard, but it was windy and cold and looked ugly. It was tough and go in the morning and it started to look real bad at noon so we called it."

"The weather had been so good, I guess we should have expected some bad weather. Not like we've gotten lately, but March is always a windy month."

With the recent bad weather the Raiders have six games scheduled in five days at home next week.

"If we can get through next week, we should be all right," said Pantellas, whose young team is 13-8 on the season. "Everything looks pretty good, we're starting to hit the ball well and the pitching's been good. I think we have pretty good shot at going to state if we survive next week."

Courier eliminated after split of 'doubleheader'

By STEVEN WINE
 AP Sports Writer

KEY BISCAYNE — Bidding to beat the world's best player, Mark Woodforde liked what he saw across the net.

Jim Courier looked shaky. "He was a bit nervous," Woodforde said. "That goes to prove he's normal."

Normal enough to lose, which is what the top-ranked Courier did Thursday against Woodforde in the fourth round of the Lipton Championships. The score: 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.

No. 8 seed Andre Agassi also was eliminated — by No. 10 Richard Krajicek of Holland, 6-2, 7-5. No. 2 Pete Sampras rallied past Andre Medvedev 6-7 (5-7), 6-3, 6-2.

Courier, a former resident of Sanford, lost not only the match but his temper. Serving and trailing Woodforde 1-3, 30-15 in the final set, Courier became upset when a linesman called one of his shots long.

He lost the next two points and the game, and while walking to his seat during the changeover, he angrily shoved chair umpire Dana Loconto's chair with his forearm, causing it to shake.

"We all do things in the heat of the moment," Courier said. "I don't regret anything."

Loconto issued a code violation for unsportsmanlike conduct to Courier, who also protested a call on a crucial point in the first set.

"It was a poor performance," Courier said. "I had a poor performance. He had a poor performance."

Woodforde, a left-handed Australian ranked No. 22, acknowledged that the call against Courier in the first set was a bad one.

"But he's the No. 1 player in the world, and he's supposed to overcome those breaks," Woodforde said. "He's been able to do it so well in the past year, but there was a lot of pressure on him tonight."

The defeat, only the second this year for Courier, was the second half of a rare tennis double-header for the top-ranked American. He beat Mikael Pernfors, a two-time National Junior College Athletic Association singles champion for Seminole Community College, on Thursday morning, then had to play Woodforde eight hours later because the tournament schedule had been backed up by rain delays.

Courier said playing twice hindered his performance less than the disputed line calls. "I was affected at times," he said. "They came at bad times."

Also advancing into today's quarterfinals were No. 3 Stefan Edberg, No. 5 Petr Korda, No. 14 Malyav Washington and two unseeded players, Patrick McEnroe and South African Marcos Ondruska.

In women's play, top seed Steffi Graf, No. 2 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, No. 3 Gabriela Sabatini and No. 16 Kimiko Date won quarterfinal matches. Graf was scheduled to play Sabatini for the 34th time in today's semifinals, and defending champion Sanchez Vicario was to play Date.

The tournament schedule has repeatedly been scrambled by the weather, and on Thursday, matches at the stadium court were delayed because of sun. When the sky finally cleared for the first time in days as Edberg and Guy Forget warmed up for their morning match, the hard-court surface began to give way.

"When you were turning your foot, it would just melt," Forget said.

Workers with trowels spent several hours patching rough spots before officials decided the court was safe and play at the stadium resumed. The problem — apparently caused by sunshine following a night of heavy rain — was limited to the 3-month-old stadium court, the newest at the tennis complex.

The Edberg-Forget match was moved to Court 7, which seats just 400 fans, and Edberg won 6-2, 6-4. McEnroe rallied past Marc Rosset 4-6, 7-6 (7-2), 6-0; Washington eliminated Nicklas Kulti 7-5, 7-6 (7-3); Korda beat Guillaume Raoux 6-4, 6-4; and Ondruska beat No. 9 Michael Stich 7-6 (7-3), 6-3.

In women's play, Sanchez Vicario beat Lella Meskhi 7-5, 6-1; Sabatini swept No. 6 Jana Novotna 6-2, 6-3; and Date beat No. 5 Mary Joe Fernandez 7-6 (7-4), 6-3.

They'll be hard pressed to sidetrack Graf, who has lost 10 games in four matches. She swept No. 8 Nathalie Tauziat 6-1, 6-0.

Children need limits, structure in their lives

DEAR MARY: I come from a family where my father was the absolute ruler and his belt was his enforcer. We were all scared to death of him; we never knew when we'd be punished or for what. Of course, my sister and I vowed we'd never let that happen to our children when we became parents.

Well, my sister's son is 8, and sure enough, it's different. She's no longer ruled by a tyrant father; now it's her tyrant son. Everyone walks on eggs when he's around for fear something will make him unhappy and he'll throw a temper tantrum, poke his hand through a wall or start whining and crying. The kid has never had any discipline because my sister didn't want to repeat what happened to us, and she was afraid he'd think she didn't love him if she punished him.

Now I have a child who is four and I don't want to repeat either of the mistakes my family has made. What I'm beginning to realize is I don't know how much discipline is enough, too much, or how to go about it fairly. Maybe there's no right way to do this child-rearing thing. How can I learn some rules?

DEAR JOANNE: Rule setting and discipline for children is an inexact art at best but one thing all the experts agree on is that children need to have structure and limits in their lives. However, discipline and abusive punishment are entirely different things. Most experts agree that in order to have healthy, well-adjusted kids, they must know that their parents are in charge. Love is not enough; kids won't respect parents who are weak and indecisive. They need to be able to trust that their parents will set limits for their behavior, even though children at the earliest ages will begin to test their parents' will and firmness. The trick is for parents to remain reasonable and loving without yielding to pressure or applying unnecessary force. Try to implement these guidelines when establishing rules for your child's behavior.

- Define tasks specifically to eliminate unnecessary arguments. Be sure the rules are clearly defined and non-negotiable.

- Reward your child for proper behavior at least twice as often as you punish misbehavior. Rewarding appropriate behavior is a much more effective tool for teaching discipline.

- Don't protect your child from the consequences of her mistakes. Experience will help you teach the negative results of some actions such as not remembering to take your lunch money to school.

- Be sure the penalties you set for breaking the rules fit the "crime." Use punishment, when necessary, immediately after the disobedience and use it consistently for the same offense.

Many area schools, agencies, and colleges offer parent education classes to support your efforts in this most challenging task, the rearing of a child.

Avoid fraud and deception

After storm, take caution with repairs and cleanup

When the storm has passed, it is time to survey the damage and begin to clean up.

Trees may be down and probably there is roof or other structural damage. The homeowner knows that unless repairs are made promptly, additional damage may occur or the residence may be uninhabitable until repairs are made.

It is very important for storm victims to be cautious about employing unknown people to remove trees and do repair work. Every agreement and credit contract should be read carefully and evaluated before it is signed. Shoddy workmanship and price gouging are common occurrences associated with crisis situations.

Tree removal — Before agreeing to have any tree work done contact your local tree services. Tree removal requires considerable skill. A filled tree can cause damage to the home or to a neighbor's home. Also, there is the potential for a tree cutter to be injured. Local tree services are licensed, insured and experienced. They carry liability insurance eliminating the potential for the homeowner to be sued in case of an accident. Ask for an estimate of the cost for work needing to be done and a time schedule for the work to be completed. If possible, get an estimate from more than one tree service. Have all details of the agreement written into a contract and signed by the company and the homeowner.

In spite of the risks involved, if you decide to employ an independent tree cutter, draw up a written contract that clearly spells out the work to be done, completion date, amount to be paid and when. NEVER pay for work before it is done. Include a statement about who is responsible for expenses in case of an accident. This statement is no assurance of protection but it may help.

Remember, if a company comes to your door and solicits your business, you have three business days within which to cancel the contract if you change your mind provided the work has not been done.

Home repairs — If damage to the home occurs from a storm, the homeowner should immediately contact his/her insurance company if the home is insured. The insurance company may require specific procedures be followed to collect for repairs.

If the homeowner is responsible for arranging for the repairs, there are certain precautions to follow. Florida has specific laws. The Home Improvement Sales and Finance Act and Florida's Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act, that are designed to protect consumers from home repair con artists.

Take the time to investigate the quality of work and reliability of the home repair (or improvement) contractor or the workman that you are considering hiring. Shoddy work will only increase your loss and frustration. In Florida home improvement contractors must be registered with the state. Ask to see this license. Always get any agreement in writing and signed by both parties before work begins. Verbal agreements can be misunderstood and usually are unenforceable.

Never sign a completion certificate until all work is satisfactorily done. Also, never pay a home repair contractor or a workman for work before it is done. If considerable work is to be done, you may divide the cost for the work to be done into several payments, example, pay one half of the cost when the job is half completed.

If a mortgage is to be placed against the home to pay for the work that is to be done, even more stringent state regulations exist. These include allowing either party to cancel the contract within 72 hours (3 working days) after signing the contract. In case of an emergency where work is needed immediately, an exemption to the three-day rule is permitted if both parties sign the statement. Unless work is to begin immediately, it is not wise to sign this exemption.

Landlord and tenants — If you are renting a residence that is damaged by a storm, you have special rights and responsibilities. Repairs are the responsibility of the landlord. If repairs are not made within a reasonable time, the tenant has the right to have the rent reduced or in some instances, terminate the lease and move.

Square dancing has made many a hooper real happy

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to people wanting to meet someone of the opposite sex, how come you never mention square dancing?

It's a wholesome way to meet people. You will see no couch potatoes, no drinking is allowed, and it's great exercise.

This is a worldwide activity and is well-established in all 50 states. There are teen and singles clubs as well as couples only. Some clubs will welcome anyone from 16 to 90 who walks through the door.

If you're interested and don't know a dancer, look in the Yellow Pages under "Square Dance Apparel" and call one of the shops for information. It opened up a whole new world for me.

ROBERT FITTS, EUGENE, ORE.

DEAR ROBERT: You must be a new reader. In June of 1989, I ran the following ringing endorsement of square dancing:

DEAR ABBY: Once in a while I read a love story in your column, usually from a couple who met through Operation Dear Abby. Well, I also have a love story to tell.

Several years ago, following a painful divorce, I enrolled in a square dance class. The caller (teacher) said that every year there had been marriages as a result of people meeting there. I didn't find a husband, but I had a lot of fun and met some nice people. Then I dropped out.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Last October, a neighbor encouraged me to enroll in another square dance class, and there I met Richard — an "angel" (that's what they call dancers who come to help beginners). I approached him, just to talk, and before the evening ended, he asked me for a date.

Richard turned out to be the love of my life! I'm no spring chicken (I'm 50 plus) and never expected to find love again, but did I ever! He's a few years younger than I am, but who's counting?

We're getting married next week, and I've never been happier. Abby, please tell your readers about square dancing. It's good exercise and a wonderful way to meet nice people.

DO-IT-DOLLY IN L.A.

DEAR DOLLY: Your letter is a do-it-dolly. Thanks for the tip. Take heed, all you loneome polcats. Square dance clubs are listed in the telephone directory.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column recently that a woman had attended a very posh party and never met the bride and groom because there was no receiving line. Well, this could have been my wedding.

When I was married, I was three months pregnant, which wasn't a problem for either of us or our parents, as we had gone together for nine years and had planned to marry a year later.

I confided in my priest, who knew me well because I had attended his church all my 24 years of life, and he refused to let us get married in the church until we had completed a Catholic seminar, and the first opening wasn't for four months — at which time I would have been seven months pregnant!

Anyway, getting back to the receiving line, my parents found a beautiful Christian church. The price for renting the church was $750 for the ceremony, but no receiving line, because they had scheduled three more weddings immediately after ours. We were told later that nobody missed the receiving line, and in my condition, I certainly didn't.

LET US REPLENISH THE SEED OF FAITH THROUGH ... Regular Church Attendance

"A light unto my path"

"The Lord on high is mightier than the noise of many waters, yea, than the mighty waves of the sea" (Ps. 93:4).

The sea is a treacherous beauty, the glistening waters disguising all manner of danger. It may be difficult to gauge the proximity of a ship to the shore, where a sailor might encounter sandbars and rocks spelling disaster. The lighthouse is a bright beacon ... a signal in the sea. God's house is a beacon ... a signal in a world which, despite its beauty, can also be deceivably treacherous to those who live in the twilight of temptation without God's guiding light. This Sabbath, search for a steeple, and enter the sanctuary therein. You will learn of God's loving care as you study His Holy word. "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path" (Ps. 119:105). God will guide you safely to shore.

Loyal member

Williams recognized for more than 80 years of service to the Lord

By SHIRLEY K. BAKER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — During morning service at Historic St. James A.M.E. Church, a longtime and very loyal member of the church, Doris Williams, was recognized for her participation in the first service held in the brand new sanctuary in 1913.

Quite petite and only needing the assistance of a walking cane, Mrs. Williams, flashing her infectious smile, slowly stood, and graciously accepted the applause of the congregation. It seems Williams at the age of 11 or 12 was among the excited children who followed their parents, ministers and officials, as they proudly filed into the newly completed St. James A.M.E. Church.

Later, in a conversation with Williams, many interesting facts about her early life in Sanford were revealed.
"I was born in a house on Pine Avenue that is still standing and was one of seven children," she said. With the exception of living a few years in Miami, Williams has lived most of her life in Sanford.

She remembers her baptism in Lake Monroe by a Rev. Irving. Her school included attendance at Hopper Academy where she completed the ninth grade but was unable to finish high school. She quickly added, "My father was unable to attend any school, but he lived and worked for a family that only has male children. Each day when the boys would return from school they would teach my father all they had learned in school." He was a religious man and led the family in prayer every Sunday morning. He also told me I would live a long time." Williams said she doesn't feel lucky to have lived so long, just blessed.

Williams' remembrance of Sanford in the early 1900s is a bit sketchy but what she talked about was also interesting. She remembers when the waters of Lake Monroe covered the area where the courthouse, civic center and other buildings in that vicinity are now located. She enthusiastically talked about one of the activities she enjoyed most as a child in Sanford — riding the streetcar. "We would catch the streetcar on Sanford Avenue and 10th Street and ride almost to Oviedo." According to records at the Sanford Museum, Sanford did have a streetcar and inter-urban rail system as it was called which was built by the Sanford Traction Company in 1909. The streetcar made eight daily round trips to Cameron City.

Williams' concerns include the space program which she feels uses money that "should be used to help needy people on earth." She is also very concerned about some of the activities young people are involved in today. Her advice to them is, "honor your mothers and fathers and senior citizens, so that your days will be long upon the land which God has given you."

Her favorite hymns are "Lift Me Up" and "Precious Lord" and she can be found each Sunday morning at St. James in the section reserved for missionaries.

Commission supports Christian HELP in local neighborhoods

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Saturday is the official start of Christian HELP's home renovation program in Seminole County.

At 10 a.m., Pastor Orlando Rivera, of Northland Community Church, will dedicate the first home and volunteers from the church will begin work. The dedication will take place at 125 Mobile Avenue in Altamonte Springs, the home of Freda Mascho, a grandmother who was facing homelessness due to the deteriorating condition of her home.

In addition to treatment for termite infestation already completed by Orkin, a co-sponsor of the program, the home will require extensive internal renovation and a new roof. The work will be done by skilled unemployed persons hired by Christian HELP and volunteers from Northland, under the direction of licensed contractors. Another co-sponsor, Mills and Nebraska, will donate some of the building materials.

The Seminole County Board of County Commissioners has provided funds, which they received from HUD, to renovate substandard owner occupied homes in Seminole County. This program, directed by Christian HELP, brings churches, businesses and social agencies together to save homes, keep homeowners from homelessness, provide work for the unemployed and provide an opportunity for churches and other organizations to get involved in helping their neighbors.

The first phase, to be completed in mid July, will include eight to 10 renovations, each completed in partnership with a sponsoring organization which furnishes the volunteer labor and business co-sponsors who donate part of the material and services. Most of the sponsors lined up so far are churches, however, Jacobson's Stores is also included.

Christian HELP is a ministry devoted to preventing homelessness by helping the unemployed find jobs while providing for them materially and spiritually during the process. It also helps many skilled unemployed persons earn money while job hunting, by employing them in renovations and HELP Services, which does everything from cleaning to repairs to yard maintenance to roofing for people who want good workmanship that they can trust.

Christian HELP will be celebrating the completion of its first year of service to the community on March 30. Anyone who would like to know more about this organization or help with renovation projects and/or employment is invited to visit the office at 196 Concord Dr., Casselberry, off Hwy. 17-92, between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. or call 834-4022.

Church founder honored

March is National Women's History Month, and many Christian Science Reading Rooms will be focusing on the writing of Mary Baker Eddy, an author whose work "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" was recently recognized by the Women's National Book Association.

The local Christian Science Reading Room is at 975 Markham Woods Road, Longwood, at the corner of E. E. Williamson Rd., and is sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Longwood.

"Reading Rooms are always a good source for information on Mary Baker Eddy," suggests Virginia S. Harris, publisher of Eddy's writings.

Colson says basis of moral consensus imperiled

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK — Charles W. "Chuck" Colson, a man who has ridden a symbolic roller coaster from high to low and back to a peak again, sees the country as plunging from high moral ground toward faithless ruin.

"We are stripping religion away from public life to our great and everlasting peril," he said. "It is the most self-destructive process the nation could embark on."

"We are trying to erase the indispensable role of religion in informing the moral consensus by which civilized society has survived."

Colson once hit bottom himself, spiritually and physically, a cynical White House counsel sent to prison. But he has regained a height, in service and honor, building an acclaimed, worldwide ministry in behalf of prisoners.

As winner of the $1 million 1993 Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, the previously imprisoned "hatchet man" for President Nixon in the Watergate scandal, said he was reclaimed by God's "amazing grace" to serve his truth.

Besides building Prison Fellowship into an international network for mending lives of prisoners and their families and seeking prison reforms, Colson also has turned out a dozen books on contemporary culture and faith.

"We live in a post-Christian age today," he said in an interview. "We've attempted to become a city of man without a city of God. We're stripping away our religious roots."

Mammogram is best follow-up

DEAR DR. GOTT: Mammograms taken in 1987 and 1989 revealed fibrocystic disease, yet I was not told of this condition until December 1990. It is widespread with calcifications throughout both breasts. Did I lose time for treatment? Should I have a needle aspiration biopsy? I was told by my gynecologist to avoid caffeine, but I haven't gotten many guidelines other than that.

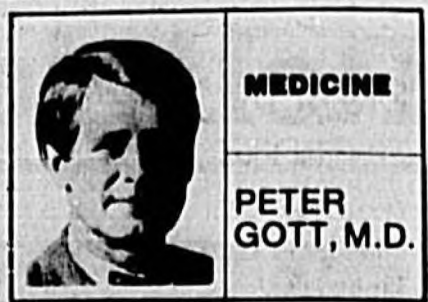

DEAR READER: While I don't understand the delay in reporting, you don't need a biopsy unless the radiologist is suspicious that the calcifications reflect a tumor. To help alleviate your fears, the gynecologist should order another mammogram (you're over-due for one anyway) and compare it with the previous X-rays. Routine mammograms should be obtained once a year in women over 50. If the calcifications haven't changed, you're all right. If they have, a biopsy is in order. It's best to avoid caffeine before the mammogram, as it can interfere with the quality of the X-rays. Also, caffeine may worsen the pain and discomfort felt by women with fibrocystic disease.

DEAR DR. GOTT: You've dealt with privacy and confidence in your column. How do you feel about AIDS and anonymity? Do you feel the laws put many people, including health-care workers, at risk?

DEAR READER: My view of AIDS is medically -- but not politically correct -- thus, it is not a popular position. I believe that AIDS should be treated like any other incurable disease that is a threat to public health. Therefore, it should be reportable to public health authorities. Pre-marital AIDS testing should be mandatory. This position is not revolutionary; for example, cancer cases are routinely reported to the national tumor registry, and most states still require a blood test for syphilis as a requirement for a marriage license.

Unfortunately, the present political climate places AIDS in the social, rather than public health, realm. Consequently, doctors, nurses and other health workers are at risk of contracting AIDS from infected patients who refuse to be tested or, once tested, insist that the results remain confidential.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
"The Goon Show" was very popular in England, especially with Prince Charles. Michael Bentine, Spike Milligan, Harry Secombe and Peter Sellers wrote bizarre comedy sketches and two-liners. For example: "Good morning — my name is Neddy Seagoon." "What a memory you have!" To write their material required zany mental gymnastics. Some bridge deals require a more logical form of m.g. You assume a bad lie of the opposing cards and have to find the best way to vault over it and land safely on the mat — as in today's deal.

Sitting South, you open two spades, a classic weak two-bid showing a good six-card suit and some 6-10 high-card points. Your partner has an easy raise to game. After West leads the club king, what is your plan of campaign? If East has the diamond ace, you will be safe. So assume West holds this critical card. Clearly you must fight to keep East off the lead. You should start by ducking the first trick. Maybe West will continue with a low club to your jack. Or he might switch to a diamond. But let's assume he plays a trump. Now you do best to win in hand, lead the club jack and, when West produces the queen, duck again in the dummy. Suppose West plays another trump. You win in the dummy and cash the club ace, discarding a low heart from hand. You continue with three rounds of hearts, ruffing the last in hand. Have they broken 3-3? If so, you have a discard for your low diamond. If not, you must hope, finally, that East has the diamond ace.

On any other line of play, you trip and fall.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Osof
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 20, 1993
In the year ahead, you might make two valuable new friends, and each will prove helpful to you in independent areas of interest. The first pal will be instrumental in leading you to the second one.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your chart indicates you have good earning abilities today but, conversely, you could also have strong, extravagant urges. Don't let the latter run the show. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could be more fortunate than usual today in endeavors or enterprises that you personally initiate or manage. Don't wait for others if there is something you want to get rolling.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Developments behind the scenes today that you might not be aware of could contribute to your material well-being. Soon all will come to light.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might have an opportunity today to strengthen a relationship that has been a trifle flimsy lately. Good pals are hard to come by, so make the most of it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) When your ambitions are aroused today, you can be extremely resourceful and capable of accomplishments that you would have never dared to attempt a few days ago.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Strive to be a good student and a keen observer today, because you might learn something through a personal experience, and you can later put this to a useful purpose.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be alert for an unusual opportunity today that could enable you to participate in something originated by another. This arrangement could prove very rewarding.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In an important matter that affects both you and your mate, don't make a move without his or her consent. Your spouse might be smarter about handling this than you are.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Regardless of what your tasks or assignments are, perform them to the best of your ability today. Doing things well will provide you with an enormous sense of gratification.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be better able to cope with today's developments if you don't take yourself or life too seriously. Even though you might have difficulties, everything is manageable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It is not important how busy you are, or how many things you start today. What really counts is what you finish. Work within your limitations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're better equipped today to handle mental assignments than you are to handle physical ones. You do the brain work and let your associates do the heavy lifting.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Princess DI makes plea

LONDON — Princess Diana made an impassioned plea Thursday for better care of teen-agers left homeless by violence and neglect.

"When we as a society take over the parenting of a child — a child already damaged by previous experiences — we need to care for them as we would our own children," she said. "We need to help them build a life for themselves."

The 31-year-old princess spoke at a conference on teen-age homelessness organized by the charity Centrepoin, of which she is a patron.

Centrepoin released a report showing many local government councils in London, where homelessness among the young is acute, are failing to tackle the problem effectively.

UFO abduction story doubted

PHOENIX — Travis Walton, whose UFO abduction story is told in the movie "Fire in the Sky," says he's hounded by people who doubt him and seven fellow loggers. "I hope people come out of the movie more open-minded," he said Wednesday in a telephone interview from his home in Snowflake in eastern Arizona.

Walton, 40, was a logger in northeastern Arizona when he said he was lifted into the sky by an extraterrestrial beam of light on Nov. 5, 1975. He said he reappeared five days later.

The movie, starring D.B. Sweeney as Walton, opened last weekend, prompting a new attack on Walton's claims by the Committee for Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, which debunks supernatural claims.

A member of the organization, Phillip J. Klass, said in a 1983 book that Walton and logging crew leader Michael Rogers concocted a hoax to win a National Enquirer UFO sighting contest and to manufacture an excuse for missing a logging contract deadline.

Walton, Rogers and six other loggers split a $5,000 prize, but have denied any hoax.

Seeing the movie was tough at first for Walton. "I had to put on the brakes emotionally to sit all the way through," he said.

Malcolm X's widow visits Tyson

PLAINFIELD, Ind. — Betty Shabazz, the widow of Malcolm X, paid a visit to Mike Tyson in prison.

The two prayed together Wednesday and discussed his education behind bars.

"His prayer moved me to tears," Shabazz said. "I am as pleased and proud of his development as any mother or professor would be."

Tyson, the former world heavyweight boxing champion, is serving a six-year sentence at the Indiana Youth Center, a medium-security prison 15 miles west of Indianapolis, for raping Desiree Washington, a Miss Black America contestant.

Tyson is appealing his convictions on one count of rape and two counts of deviate sexual conduct.

"He should have been put in a non-punitive learning-teaching environment," Shabazz said in a statement. "However, I am totally confident and believe that he is mentally prepared to handle his present challenges."

Shabazz made the trip to prison after speaking Tuesday night at DePauw University in Greencastle, 40 miles west of Indianapolis.

Prince Phillip greeted

TORTOLA, British Virgin Islands — Hundreds of people turned out Thursday to greet Prince Phillip on his first visit to this British Caribbean territory in 16 years.

He was welcomed by British and local officials as he stepped off the royal yacht Britannia, then left to attend a special legislative session. From there, he was to head for a band concert, a trip to coral baths on the nearby island of Virgin Gorda and a dinner reception aboard the yacht.

The Duke of Edinburgh and the husband of Queen Elizabeth II is on a 10-day tour of the English-speaking Caribbean.

Woody Allen claims exoneration

Psychiatrists may clear star of sex charges

By STRAT DOUTHAT
Associated Press Writer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — Woody Allen said Thursday that psychiatrists have cleared him of Mia Farrow's allegation that he sexually abused their adopted 7-year-old daughter.

Allen, 57, was accused of molesting the child, Dylan, in August at the Bridgewater home of Farrow, Allen's companion and favorite leading lady for 12 years before a bitter split last summer.

As part of a state police investigation of the allegations, Dr. John Leventhal, director of the Yale-New Haven child sex abuse clinic, had been meeting with Allen, Farrow and Dylan since Thanksgiving.

Allen and Farrow met for 2 1/2 hours with Leventhal and other psychiatrists Thursday. Allen then proclaimed to a small army of reporters and photographers that he had been cleared.

He said the psychiatrists' report found that "I never ever used my daughter, that no sexual abuse took place."

Allen said he intended to seek custody of Dylan and his other children immediately. "I believe this will turn everything around," he said.

Farrow wouldn't comment on the report, except to say, "I'll always stand by my children."

Her attorney, Eleanor Alter, said Farrow felt the psychiatrists' findings were "incomplete and inaccurate."

Alter said the psychiatrists at Yale had declined to meet with people who could have given critical testimony in the case, such as some of the older children in the family.

Farrow, 47, and Allen have one biological child, Satchel, 5, and two adopted children, Moses, 14, and Dylan. Farrow has eight other biological and adopted children, some from her marriage to composer-conductor Andre Previn.

Allen announced last August that he was romantically involved with Soon-Yi Previn, 22, one of the children adopted by Farrow and Previn.

Farrow has since moved to void Allen's adoptions of Moses and Dylan on grounds of fraud because he failed to disclose his "virtually incestuous relationship with their sister."

Vending machines for fresh vegetables?

By MARI YAMAGUCHI
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO — In Japan, where millions of vending machines dispense beer, cigarettes and porno magazines, something more wholesome is now on display in the lighted windows: fresh vegetables.

The machines, while reflecting a healthier trend in vended merchandise, also reflect a decline in ethical standards in Japan.

Roadside fruit and vegetable stalls, which once operated successfully on the honor system, were being ripped off in recent years. Farmers who could not spare the manpower to operate the stands found a solution to their problem in the produce machines.

"The machine has become a popular stop in our neighborhood," said Nobue Koike, a farmer's wife in Osaka whose machine offers a head of cabbage or lettuce for 85 cents.

"I'm happy with it because I've always wanted to sell vegetables directly to consumers," she said.

Kenzo Yasumoto of Mitsubishi Agricultural Machinery, which manufactures and sells the machines, said the prices for the tomatoes, cucumbers and other produce is the same or cheaper than in retail stores.

The company introduced 10 experimental machines last November and will begin full-scale distribution next month, Yasumoto said. It hopes to sell 1,000 machines the first year.

The machine — 5 1/2 feet high and 2 1/2 feet wide — looks like a locker with a dozen pull-open windows. Each space can hold a vegetable as big as a cabbage or pumpkin.

"Kids like it a lot — they want to see how vegetables come out," Koike said. "But I also have a feeling that people like machines better because this way they don't have to talk to anyone."

The Swiss spend the most money each year on food — nearly $4,000. The English, on the other hand, spend only about $1,200 per person on food.
