

IS CHANCE FOR MEN IN FLORIDA

GET GOVERNMENT TRAINING AT GAINESVILLE

Call No 1088 upon your state in hereby announced as follows: "Complete the entrainment for Gainesville, Fla., of one hundred and fifty men who have had at least a Grammar School education or its equivalent, or who have the ability to read and write and have had at least four years of school education, and who have aptitude for mechanical work—and some experience along the lines of training hereinafter specified,—to report to Commanding Officer University of Florida, on August 16th for instruction as auto mechanic, carpenters, chauffeurs, electricians, radio operators and telegraphers."

Only white men and men physically qualified for General Military Service are to be inducted under this call.

Men selected for this service will receive a course of training at Government expense fitting them to serve in army positions both at the front and behind the lines. Men taking this course will receive thorough instructions which will be of great personal value in working their way ahead, both in the Army and in civil life. The men will be assigned during the course to that kind of mechanical training for which greatest need exists at the time of the call. At the end of the course they will be assigned to various branches of the service in accordance with the needs of the Army. They are to receive no assurance of an assignment to any particular branch of the Service. This is an exceptional opportunity for energetic ambitious men. You are urged to make this call one of State-wide interest. Qualified registrants should be urged to present themselves to their local boards for voluntary induction.

The voluntary period will continue UNTIL August 6th. After August 6th no more Volunteers will be accepted. If, on August 7th, a sufficient number of volunteers has not come forth to fill the allotment of the Local Board, the local board will proceed to elect in sequence of order numbers, a sufficient number of qualified men from within Class I to fill its allotment.

Registrants of the Class of June 1918 may be accepted as volunteers under this call, but no registrant of the class of June 1918 can be inducted until all available registrants of the Class of June 1917 in any local board have been exhausted. Only men who possess the qualifications specified in first paragraph should be inducted under this call.

Each man must carry with him at least two suits of underclothing one suit of outer clothing in good condition, a sweater, a stout pair of shoes, three extra pairs of socks, and two bath towels, as he will be kept in civilian clothing during the first three weeks until he can be supplied with a uniform and other clothing.

The number of men called for under this call must be actually entrained. Men must not be allowed to arrive before August 15th and the entire party must be entrained so as to arrive on that date.

Edward Anderson, Captain Inf. R. C. Officer in Charge of Draft for Florida.

Our Boys Are Going

Martin McDaniel left yesterday for Syracuse New York where he will be assigned to active duty in the army. Martin was on the special reserve list but wanted to go at once and was sent yesterday. He has been an employee of the Herald since he was a youngster in knee pants and his job will be open for him when the war is over. We hate to see our boys go but Uncle Sam needs them.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Newman and daughter, Olive and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hill and Mrs. A. E. Hill have returned from a months stay at Daytona Beach.

OUR STATE IS IN LEAD ON CROPS

IN GREAT SHIPMENTS OF YEAR FLORIDA SHOWS

"In 1916 the railroads for this country handled a total of 664,175 cars of 77 different kinds of farm commodities, exclusive of shipments by express and steamer, which in total reach many thousands of cars. The total known car shipments would make a freight train nearly 1,100 miles long, or 1,100 trains each one a mile long," says the State Marketing Bureau.

"Florida participated in the wonderful movement with 32,321 cars. In several different products Florida leads all the States. Grapefruit was shipped by the car from eight different states, but Florida forwarded to market 1874 of the total of 2327 cars, or about three-fourths of the whole number."

"Six States—Alabama, Arizona, California, Florida, Louisiana and Texas—shipped oranges by the carload, the total being 50,134 cars, but all except a couple of hundred were from California and Florida, the latter's share being 11,810 cars."

"Pineapple shipments were made from seven states, and Florida's share in the total of 1303 cars was 774 or more than one-half."

"The total shipments of tomatoes from 32 states amounted to 19,323 cars in which Florida sent 6184 cars, or a little less than one-third."

"Of cucumbers shipped by 25 states, Florida with 613, was second in a total of 3552 cars."

"Of celery the shipments amounted to 3002 cars or nearly one third of the 10,195 cars shipped from sixteen states."

"Of lettuce shipped by 24 states a total of 4700 cars, Florida participated with 1528 cars, or one third of the total of that crisp delicacy."

"Forty-three states took a hand in the shipping of cabbage, the total being 24,605 cars in which Florida with 867 cars went above the average."

"Strawberries are grown in all of the states, but shipments were only made from 33, and Florida participated in the total of 18,044 with 573 cars but these were shipped in the late winter and early spring and brought prices two or three times higher than those grown later in the northern states."

"Forty states reported a combined total shipments of 28,939 cars of watermelons in which Florida showed up with 2,320, but in cantaloupes its record was 94 cars of a total of 17,321 from 39 states."

"White potatoes were handled from every one of the 48 states, the total being 191,751, of which Florida share was 2004 cars, while sweet potatoes shipped from our state amounted to 64 cars of a grand total of 15,695 cars, Virginia shipping one half of the total."

"Of eggplant Florida shipped 110 cars of the total of 223 cars handled by the various southern states."

"Of peppers Florida sent 121 cars to market, of a total of 1,066."

"Nearly half of the states showed shipments of peaches, a total of 25,026 cars, with New York first and our neighbor, Georgia, second with 3,300 cars, while Florida showed up with 2 cars, and yet peaches will grow in every part of our state."

"Texas leads the country in shipping onions, the Lone Star State reporting 3210 in the total of 22,043 cars, by all the states, Florida showing up with one car, and yet onions make fine yields whenever their culture has been undertaken in the Sunshine State."

"Of the pulse crops, Florida shipped 10 cars of green beans, 178 cars of string beans, and 3 cars of green beans. Of mixed vegetables the total car movement was 116."

"Florida shipped hundreds of cars by express and steamer, not included in the totals above, as gathered by the U. S. Bureau of Markets through extensive correspondence with railroads and shippers, and printed a volume of 196 pages, from which the above compilation was made."

NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING NOW READY FOR BUSINESS CHANGE MADE YESTERDAY

POSTMASTER ELDER IS NOW IN FINE NEW QUARTERS

It is with a feeling of pride and satisfaction that the citizens of Sanford and vicinity can now go into the beautiful new post-office building and get their mail. New postoffice buildings are not being erected in war times and Sanford was indeed fortunate in being among the first applicants for a new building before the war clouds lowered on the horizon and appropriations for all work except war work was discontinued.

Thanks to the initiative of Congressman Frank Clark who at the earnest behest of the Herald first started our initial appropriation through the House and afterward to the fine work of Congressman Sears who remained right on the job until it was finished, Sanford now has one of the most complete post-office buildings in the state.

There is no vulgar or gaudy display of national wealth on the exterior of the building, in fact it looks rather squat and very matter of fact at first glance, but the architect evidently had the old proverb about beauty being only skin deep when he arranged the plans for our postoffice. No extra money has been wasted on the exterior although it is good to look upon and has artistic lines looking like a business building. It is built of the best of red-pressed brick with rough effect and trimmed in Georgia sandstone. The front entrance has beautiful white sandstone pillars and the largest stone steps and stone pillars make a massive appearance. From the outside vestibule one goes through the fine doors and inside screen doors and into the lobby which is a work of art. The floor is of the Terrazzo effect in concrete and granite rubbed smooth as glass. The ceiling is high and finished in square panels with skylight and ventilators. As you enter, the different windows of the departments are right at your side, Postal Savings, Money Orders, Registry, Stamps, General Delivery, every convenience but those who know him best know that he will never be content to stay in his office for he is here and there and everywhere over the building looking after the patrons and seeing that the work is finished up.

The work room proper where the employees hustle to get out the mail and to receive the mail and get it properly placed is a large and well lighted room equipped with all the latest and improved materials for the rapid disposal of the mails. The money order room has 400 square feet floor space and the balance of the lower floor contains 1800 square feet which give the employees plenty of room.

The basement is of concrete and a passageway runs the entire length of the building giving access to the inspectors and making an admirable shelter in case the Germans bombard the city. The rear of the basement is a storage room and here is a new and complete hot water heater or furnace for the lavatories and baths. The heater burns garbage and trash of all kind making an economical and satisfactory heating arrangement. Upstairs no expense has been spared in the fixtures. A storage room is in the northwest corner and there is a large lounging room for the carriers and clerks in the center. On the northeast corner there are toilets, lavatories and shower baths and the marble wainscoting and terrazzo flooring and beautiful porcelain fixtures make this room one of the finest in the building. Everything has been placed here for the comfort of the employees. Where the floors in the new building are not of concrete they are of fine maple wood tongue and grooved and polished and are laid on the solid concrete foundation. The building will be heated with individual gas radiators and is electric and gas lighted with the finest of fixtures built especially for postoffice use. The building also has its own fire protection and there is a here and fixtures on every floor for individual fire protection in connection with the city fire department. All the hardware is of solid brass and the building screened throughout with copper screens, cor-

Letter and Package drop, Parcel Post, etc. The bulletin window where all orders will be posted beneath a glass is up to date and no more bills and advertising matter will be tacked up in the office here. The lobby is 16x28 and while this seems small the public is not supposed to make the lobby a loafing place but the patrons must get their mail, transact their business and get out.

Postmaster Elder has a fine office all his own on the left of the entrance that will be fitted up with nices and skylights and all outside roofing fixtures being of copper. In fact the building is all that could be desired and has been built under the careful supervision of C. C. Sanford who has been on the job since the first shovel of dirt was taken out and who represents Algernon Blair of Montgomery the contractor.

B. F. Whitner and family will spend the month of August at Coronado Beach where they have a cottage.

GERMANS ADVANCE ON BERLIN

RETROGRADE MOVEMENT WILL BE ORDERED

London, Aug. 1.—The allies today delivered a new stroke over a 10-mile front between Buzancy, about 4 miles south of Soissons, to Serjings, north of Fere en Tardenois. The result was a considerable advance and the wiping out of the elbow in the line at Oulchy le Chateau, according to advices to the Evening Standard this afternoon.

London, Aug. 1.—Germany is contemplating the recall of Ambassador von Mumm from the Ukraine and the handling of passports to the ambassador of the Ukraine in Berlin, pending the clearing up of the situation in Kiev, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam, under Wednesday's date.

Foreign Secretary von Hintz, the message adds, had a long interview with the ambassador from the Ukraine Wednesday and then met the Austrian minister. The possibility of sending reinforcements to Ukraine was discussed with him.

Washington, D. C. Aug. 1.—What will follow the Foch offensive in the second battle of the Marne?

Present indications point to the beginning by American troops of the Battle of the Rhine.

The allies are now definitely pursuing the initiative on the western front and there is no indication that they intend to give it over.

In the wake of the Franco-American drive pinching the Huns out of the Aisne-Marne salient, the British started a series of local attacks between the Ancre and the Somme which kept the Germans annoyed and resulted in the capture of villages and prisoners.

The next thing in the Foch plan, in the belief of American military observers, will be an offensive by the American divisions which are holding four sectors of the front between Verdun and the Swiss border.

London, Wednesday Aug. 1.—Tuesday was a day of sheer, hard in-and-out fighting on the American front, telegraphs Reuter's correspondent on the front north of the Marne. He says that the final capture of Serjings by the Americans was an especially creditable achievement.

After the Americans took the village on Monday, the Germans made no infantry attack on the place, but kept up a constant artillery and machine gun fire to drive them out. This continued all day Tuesday and towards evening the enemy seemed to think that the spirit of the defenders might possibly be broken and then they began to emerge from the Nesles forest, in a way that seemed to forecast a forest attempt to take the village. Of the fighting which ensued, the correspondent writes:

American and French troops have begun a turning movement that, if successful, will compel a German retirement over a wide sector east of Fere en Tardenois in the center of the Soissons-Rheims salient. They have attacked on a three mile front on each side of Nesles, the apex of the allied wedge north of the Ourcq. Their greatest advantage was toward the east, where the allies pushed on some distance from Serjy and approached Chamery.

Although the announced purpose of the attack was the straightening out of the line between Serjings and Cieres, this is really secondary to the outflanking of the Germans to the southward. The enemy is holding strong positions at Ronchères and St. Gemme, where his line is still less than five miles from the Marne, and a continued advance between Nesles and Cieres would force him to fall back to escape being cut off from the rear.

The Germans used less artillery late yesterday against the attacking forces on this front, depending more upon their machine gunners for defending their lines. This fact coupled with stories of prisoners and deserters, tend to strengthen the belief that they are planning a withdrawal.

CONGRESS AGREES ON NEW TAX

LUXERIES WILL GET THE HOOK THE DEEPEST

Washington, Aug. 1.—A 10 per cent tax on gross sales of manufacturers, producers and importers of passenger automobiles, piano players, graphophones, sporting goods, cosmetics, patent medicines, cameras and similar articles was tentatively agreed upon today by the house ways and means committee, which is drafting the new $8,000,000,000 revenue bill. The present excise tax on most of these articles ranges around 3 per cent, and the increased taxation will produce an immensely greater revenue from these sources, although no estimate was made of the total yield. Motor trucks will be taxed only half the increased rate on the ground that they are for business purposes and not in the same class with passenger automobiles. The automobile tax was discussed at length. It was felt by some members of the committee that a large proportion of automobiles are used for business as well as other purposes, but it was agreed that it would be impossible to differentiate. There was no effort to put a tax on gasoline, although such a tax has been urged.

There was some discussion by the committee today of the tobacco tax schedule. The treasury department has recommended doubling the present rates on tobacco. They want more revenue than this would yield, and will decide the increases later. Data laid before the committee showed that consumption of cigars in this country is decreasing while cigarette consumption is mounting rapidly.

Chairman Kitchin said tonight the committee also had under consideration a tax on admission to theatres, operas, moving pictures shows, etc. The committee favored doubling the tax on admissions and club dues, he paid, and also to impose a one cent tax on all admissions where the minimum charge does not exceed seven cents.

"Under existing law all moving picture shows, theatres and other amusements whose minimum charge does not exceed five cents are exempt from the tax," he said.

"The committee proposes tomorrow to take up the luxury tax suggestions of the treasury department."

Today's committee action, it was said, does not commit the committee to a general gross sales or consumption tax, although that may be resorted to at the last moment if the revenue yield from all other sources is not sufficient. It has been estimated that a gross sales tax on all articles and on transactions affecting all articles would produce upward of $2,000,000,000, if only a 2 per cent rate was adopted.

A war profits superimposed tax has not yet been even tentatively passed upon by the committee, but it may be considered this week.

The committee cut the treasury suggestions in half so far as rates are concerned, on most of the articles affected by today's tentative agreement on a 10 per cent tax on original sales of articles included in the existing war excise tax class.

drawal to new positions along the river Vesle.

A deserter who came into the lines last night declared that orders had been issued for a series of retrograde movements, until Fismes, on the Vesle had been reached.

Except for minor engagements there was only a light artillery fire along the line up to noon today and that was comparatively light.

Supplementary Feeds Return Profits While on Grass.

Results Given as Obtained by Experiments Covering Period of Five Years Conducted by Bureau of Animal Industry.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Supplementary feeds in addition to grass have been found to be more profitable than grazing cattle without such feed, according to results obtained by experiments, covering a period of five years, conducted by the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture, co-operating with the Alabama experiment station.

Cottonseed cake is an excellent supplementary feed for cattle on pasture. Larger daily gains, but more expensive gains, were secured when cake was fed, but the cake-fed steers sold for enough more at the end of the season to make the feeding of cake extremely profitable.

Cold-pressed cake did not give as satisfactory results as the common cottonseed cake, when cold-pressed cake cost $3 and cottonseed cake $28 per ton.

Cottonseed at $14 a ton proved somewhat more valuable than cottonseed cake at $28 a ton for feeding to steers on pasture.

Steers which were fed a heavy ration of cottonseed cake on pasture and finished early in July proved far more profitable than steers which did not receive as much cake daily, but were fed for a longer time and sold late in the summer.

The feeding of cattle on pasture increased the size of the gains, caused the animals to fatten much faster and smoother, increased their value per hundredweight, and produced better carcasses and a higher percentage of marketable meat than the grazing of steers on pasture alone.

Dusting for Brown Rot.

Dusting peaches through the season for brown rot and scab is fully as effective and much quicker than spraying. Two applications are necessary in a dry season; three if rainy. The first application should be made about three weeks before picking.

SHERM'S DOTS

THE DOTS SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.

By Clifford Leon Sherman.

Dear Folks:—Yes, I'm in a hospital in France, but don't worry about me, because I am not badly hurt. All of the boys have been joking with me, and asking me if I intend to wear a medal for being the first wounded man in this expedition. But I don't believe that I am entitled to any jewelry. I suppose you want to know what happened. Price List of Drinks O'Brien Picked Up at a Free Motion Picture Show in a Beer Garden.

A day or two later, while walking the streets at night in search for food, I had passed this place and was very much tempted to go in and spend a few hours, particularly as it would perhaps give me an opportunity to buy something to eat, although I was at a loss to know how I was going to ask for what I wanted.

While trying to make up my mind whether it was safe for me to go in I walked half a block past the place, and when I turned back again and reached the entrance with my mind made up that I would take the chance I ran full tilt into a German officer who was just coming out.

That settled all my hankerings for moving pictures that night. "Where you came from, my friend," I figured, "there must be more like you! I guess it is a good night for walking."

The next day, however, in recalling the incident of the evening before, it seemed to me that I had been rather foolish. What I needed more than anything else at that time was confidence. Before I could get to the frontier I would have to confront German soldiers many times, because there were more of them between this city and Holland than in any section of the country through which I had so far traveled. Safety in these contingencies would depend largely upon the calmness I displayed. It wouldn't do to get all excited at the mere sight of a spiked helmet. The Belgians, I had noticed, while careful to obey the orders of the Huns, showed no particular fear of them, and it seemed to me the sooner I cultivated the same feeling of indifference the better I would be able to carry off the part I was playing.

For this reason I made up my mind then and there that, officers or no officers, I would go to that show that night and sit it through no matter what happened. While people may think that I had decided unwisely because of the unnecessary risk involved in the adventure, it occurred to me that perhaps after all that theater was about one of the safest places I could attend because that was about the last place Germans would expect to find a fugitive English officer in even if they were searching for me.

As soon as evening came, therefore, I started out for the theatre. I fixed myself up as well as possible. I had on a fairly decent pair of pants which Huylliger had given me and I used a clean handkerchief as a collar.

With my hair brushed up and my beard trimmed as neatly as possible with a pair of rusty scissors which I had found in the house, while my appearance was not exactly that of a Benü Brummel, I don't think I looked much worse than the average Belgian. In these days the average Belgian is very poorly dressed at best.

I can't say I had no misgivings as I made my way to the theatre; certainly I was going there more for discipline than pleasure, but I had made up my mind that I was going there to see it through.

The entrance to the theatre or beer garden, for it was as much one as the other, was on the side of the building and was reached by way of an alley which ran alongside. Near the door was a ticket-seller's booth, but as this was one of the free nights there was no one in the booth.

I marched slowly down the alley imitating as best I could the indifferent gait of the Belgians, and when I entered the theatre endeavored to act as though I had been there many times before. A hasty survey of the layout of the place was sufficient to enable me to select my seat. It was early and there were not more than half a dozen people in the place at that time, so that I had my choice.

There was a raised platform, perhaps two feet high, all around the walls of the place except at the end where the stage was located. On this platform tables were arranged and there were tables on the floor proper as well.

I decided promptly that the safest place for me was as far back as possible, where I would not be in the line of vision of others in back of me. Accordingly I slouched over to a table on the platform directly opposite the stage and I took the seat against the wall. The whole place was now in front of me. I could see everything that was going on and everyone who came in, but no one, except those who sat at my own table, would notice me unless they deliberately turned around to look.

The place began to fill up rapidly. Every second person who came in the place seemed to me to be a German soldier, but when they were seated at the tables and I got a chance later on to make a rough count, I found that in all there were not more than a hundred soldiers in the place and there must have been several hundred civilians.

The first people to sit at my table were a Belgian and his wife. The Belgian sat next to me and his wife next to him. I was hoping that other civilians would occupy the remaining two seats at my table, because I did not relish the idea of having to sit through the show with German soldiers within a few feet of me. That would certainly have spoiled my pleasure for the evening.

Every uniform that came in the door gave me cause to worry until I was sure it was not coming in my direction. I don't suppose there was a single soldier who came in the door whom I didn't follow to his seat—with my eyes.

Just before they lowered the lights, two German officers entered. They stood at the door for a moment looking the place over. Then they made a beeline in my direction and I must confess my heart started to beat a little faster. I hoped that they would find another seat before they came to my vicinity, but they were getting nearer and nearer and I realized with a sickening sensation that they were headed directly for the two seats at my table, and that was indeed the case.

These two seats were in front of the table facing the stage and except when the officers would be eating or drinking their backs were toward me, and there was considerable consolation in that. From my seat I could have reached right over and touched one of them on his bald head. It would have been more than a touch, I am afraid, if I could have gotten away with it safely.

As the officers seated themselves, a waiter came to us with a printed bill-of-fare and program. Fortunately, he waited on the others first and I listened intently to their orders. The officers ordered some light wine, but my Belgian neighbor ordered "Bock" for himself and his wife, which was what I had decided to order anyway, as that was the only thing I could say. Heaven knows I would far rather have ordered something to eat, and I was afraid to take a chance at the pronunciation of the dishes it set forth.

There were a number of drinks listed which I might safely enough have ordered. For instance, I noticed "Lemon Squash, 1.50," "Ginger Beer, 1.—," "Sparkling Dry Ginger Ale, 1.—," "Apollinaris, 1.—," and "Schwepes Soda, 0.80," but it occurred to me that the mere fact that I selected something that was listed in English might attract attention to me and something in my pronunciation might give further cause for suspicion.

It seemed better to parrot the Belgian and order "Bock" and that was what I decided to do.

One item on the bill of fare tantalized me considerably. Although it was listed among the "Prijzen der dranken," which I took to mean "Prices of drinks," it sounded very much to me like something to eat, and Heaven knows I would rather have had one honest mouthful of food than all the drinks in the world. The item I refer to was "Dubbel Gerstein de Flesch (Michaux)." A double portion of anything would have been mighty welcome to me, but I would have been content with a single "gersten" if I had only had the courage to ask for it.

To keep myself as composed as possible I devoted a lot of attention to that bill-of-fare, and I think by the time the waiter came around I almost knew it by heart. One drink that almost made me laugh aloud was listed as "Limonades gazeuses," but I might as well have introduced myself to the German officers by my right name and rank as attempt to pronounce it.

When the waiter came to me, therefore, I said "Bock" as casually as I could, and I felt somewhat relieved that I had gotten through that part of the ordeal so easily.

While the waiter was away I had a chance to examine the bill-of-fare and I observed that a glass of beer cost 80 centimes. The smallest change I had was a two-mark paper bill.

Apparently the German officers were similarly fixed and when they offered their bill to the waiter, he handed it back to them with a remark which I took to mean that he couldn't make change.

Right there I was in a quandary. To offer him my bill after he had just told the officers he didn't have change would have seemed strange, and yet I couldn't explain to him that I was in the same boat and he would have to come to me again later. The only thing to do, therefore, was to offer him the bill as though I hadn't heard

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Introductory. Pat O'Brien tells of his purpose in writing the story of his adventures.

CHAPTER II—Tells of his enlistment in the Royal Flying Corps, his training in Canada and his transfer to France for active duty.

CHAPTER III—Describes fights in which he brought down two German airplanes and his final fight in which he was brought down, wounded within the German lines and was made a prisoner of war.

CHAPTER IV—Discovers that German hospital staff barbarously neglected the fatally wounded and devoted their energies to restoring those who might be returned to the firing line. Witnesses death in fight of his best chum, Lieut. Paul Hainey.

CHAPTER V—He is taken to the officers' prison camp at Courtrai. There he begins planning his escape. By great sacrifice he manages to save and hide away two daily rations of bread.

CHAPTER VI—He confabulates a map of Germany and just half an hour later is put on a train bound for a prison camp in Germany. He leaps through a window while the train is traveling at a rate of 30 miles an hour.

CHAPTER VII—For nine days more he struggles on in a weakened condition through Luxembourg in the direction of Belgium.

CHAPTER VIII—He endures terrible hardships, swims rivers while delirious from hunger, living like a hunted animal and on the eighteenth day after jumping from the train he crosses into Belgium.

CHAPTER IX—When well on his way through Belgium he is befriended one day by a Flemish peasant, who feeds him and directs him to a man in a Belgian city who will help him to get a passport.

CHAPTER XI—By mingling with Belgian peasants he manages to elude German soldiers and reaches the Belgian city where he finds the home of the man from whom he expects help.

CHAPTER XII—Huylliger forges a passport for O'Brien and promises to assist him in getting into Holland. Later Huylliger and his associates demand an exorbitant sum for their services and O'Brien breaks with them.

CHAPTER XIII—He spends five days and nights in an unoccupied house without food except for the scraps he picks up in night forays.

CHAPTER XIV—To gain confidence for the adventures to come in his attempt to get into Holland, he ventures one night into a moving picture theater patronized by German soldiers.

CHAPTER XV—Some observations in a Belgian city.

CHAPTER XIV.

A Night of Disipation.

During the first two days I spent with Huylliger after I had first arrived in the big city, he had told me, among other things, of a moving picture show in town which he said I might have a chance to see while there.

"It is free every night in the week except Saturdays and Sundays," he said, "and once you are inside you would not be apt to be bothered by anyone except when they come to take your order for something to drink. While there is no admission, patrons are expected to eat or drink while enjoying the pictures."

OUR PLEDGE

"Appreciating to the utmost the supreme unselfishness of our American manhood which is offering its very life upon the altar of freedom for the world, we, the members of the South Florida Press Association, in semi-annual session assembled, do hereby

"Resolve, That in this crisis and as long as life shall last, we dedicate all that we are and all that we have to the support of our glorious nation, our righteous cause, and our illustrious government. And be it further

"Resolved, That every newspaper holding membership in this association display this resolution in bold type at the masthead of its editorial page throughout the month of August, and that copies be sent to the president and our representatives in congress,

"Done and ordered in the city of Wauchula, state of Florida, this 12th day of July, 1918."

ILLUSTRATING AUTOCRACY VERSUS DEMOCRACY

The German Kaiser has six sons—all of military age, and all in the army, or presumably so. They must all bear charmed lives or be immune to any of the ordinary casualties of war, for we haven't heard that a single one of them has received so much as a scratch in war. Even the Crown Prince, whom the Kaiser is most anxious to have appear a hero in the eyes of the German people, who are said to love him none too well, has escaped the dangers which menace the soldier.

Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, had four sons in the army of the Union fighting in France for the freedom of mankind. One of them has already paid the supreme price, and his bones lie in foreign soil. Another was wounded while gallantly leading his men against the enemy, and is now recuperating in a hospital in Paris. The others are doing service like men and patriots, and will yet be heard from.

William Howard Taft, ex-president of the United States, has two sons in the army fighting the battles of the nation, asking no special favors because of their relationship to his who once was the head of a great nation.

Grover Cleveland, who sat for two terms in the presidential chair, is represented in the American army by his only son, Richard Cleveland.

Here are two sets of young men, of the best blood of Germany and America, fighting on opposite sides in this great world war. They represent autocracy as opposed to democracy. They might be called typical of the two great principles of the contest. Can you see any difference in them? Have you noticed that the motto of the Germans seems to be "Safety first;" that they take good care to keep their precious bodies out of range of flying bullets and shrapnel? Or that the Americans are in the thick of the fray, that one has fallen already, and that another was shot down while leading his men in the charge; that they are asking no favors, except to be placed in the fore-front of the battle line? Well, that is just the difference between autocracy and democracy.—Tampa Times.

LUCKY FLORIDA

From the Palmyra, N. Y. Courier we clip the following:

During the intense heat on day afternoon a portion of the new pavement on Main street in Phelps exploded ripping a big hole way across the street and damaging about 200 square feet of brick. The pavement on Main street in Phelps makes one of the most attractive highways in Western New York and it is hoped that the damage may be repaired without much further expense to the village.

Now wouldn't that jar you? Think of a pavement exploding because of the heat and ripping up 200 square feet of brick! The only 200 square feet of brick. Isn't Florida a lucky state! The only explosions we have down here is when something goes wrong politically in a county, and the sheriff, or some other official gets wrong or goes to sleep and then the governor gets hot, explodes and blows the offender clear out of his seat.

Think what would happen to, say Polk county with its 289 miles of asphalt roads if such weather as that in Palmyra, N. Y. should be common here! Imagine the continual and continuous roaring as mile after mile of her roads exploded with heat.

Seriously, this istate is the Garden of Eden when it comes to climate, for it is never too warm for a cloak of fig leaves or too cold for an apron of fig leaves. There is no trouble with heat in this state and this summer friends from the north are staying here for the first time, some of them, on the statement of others who have spent years, that the summers of Florida are more equavie and delightful than are the winters of Florida, which up to now have constituted the chief attraction to visitors.—Tampa Tribune.

WHERE FLORIDA HAS BEEN A LOSER

When it comes to buying in quantity Uncle Samuel stands at the head of the list. If he wants canned meat for his soldiers he doesn't just step around to the grocery at the corner and order a few cans sent up.

He has recently given the great packing concerns the largest single order for supplies in the shape of bacon and canned meats that they have ever placed on their books, in fact the largest order ever given to any concern in any industry in the world. It was for 99,560,000 pounds of bacon and 134,000,000 pounds of canned meats. It will take approximately 1,900,000 hogs to supply the raw material for the bacon and about 900,000 cattle to fill the order for canned meats. The producers will receive about $80,000,000 for the necessary hogs, and more than $50,000,000 for the cattle.

Here is where Florida loses out by her improvidence in the past. If she were prepared to furnish even a part of these enormous requirements, she might get her proportion of those millions that will be divided up among the stock men of the northern cattle and hog states. If she had begun years ago the movement for improved stock of all kinds, which is sweeping over the state today, she would have been in position to profit by these demands. With fenced ranges, ticks eradicated and improved breeds of both cattle and hogs, she could contribute largely to the feeding of the world instead of being told that she "must feed herself." Nature has been prodigal of her gifts in nutritious grasses, a mild and queable climate, abundance of pure water, and a soil productive of a great variety of fattening forage plants, but man has been neglectful of his opportunities. Perhaps the very prodigality of nature's gifts has been responsible for much of this. Why should man worry when the fields and the forests, the lakes and the surrounding seas, flung into his waiting lap nearly all the necessities, and many of the luxuries of life, almost without labor and without price?

But the signs are already to be seen of a great awakening, incoming. They are to be seen in the fencing of vast pastures; in the widespread interest in tick eradication; in the improvement of the breeds of both hogs and cattle. The old times are passing away, and a new era is dawning. Florida is coming into her own, and will yet be known as one of the greatest stock states in the Union. In the meantime she can only look on and regret her want of foresight.—Tampa Times.

We have been lately devising all kinds of plans to help this class and that class. The government has organized a bureau to furnish help for the farmer. It has strained its publicity department in rounding up help for the great ship-building plants. We have gone into the highways and byways in search of labor for the war-industries plants; and have extended a helping hand to this industry and that. In fact, we have been busy playing the good Samaritan until we have developed a perfect mania for useful service. But with it all we have strangely overlooked the one most deserving of help—and the one who most needs our help—the patient, uncomplaining housewife.

Who's going to help Mother? Mother used to have help. Heretofore father, son, daughter and the hired man and woman could be called on for various acts of usefulness about the house. Father had some spare time for various acts about the house. Father had some spare time before breakfast that he could turn to Mother's account. Son was rarely too busy to run her errands. Daughter spent the greater part of her time in Mother's company and was her good right hand. The hired man could find time for useful bits of service while the girl help was always at hand.

Now all that is changed. Father is out and away at dawn—you know he starts an hour earlier—doing his best to speed up production. Son is in the army or in some "needful industry" and is frequently working overtime. Daughter is pounding the typewriter keys in an office early and late. The hired man has faded away to join the great ranks of laborers in some public works and the hired girl is now a nurse or a Red Cross worker. Mother is alone!

And Mother is not only alone with her work, but her work has increased and seems destined to keep increasing. She must see that the inner man of the entire family is satisfied three times daily. As this is an era of strict economy, old clothes must be made to do longer duty and the patch endorsed at Washington, must be applied to various and sundry garments.

Neither must garments be worn too long between washing. In the intervals Mother must care for the milk and butter, feed the chickens and pigs, and as the men folks are very busy, must frequently take the produce to market. Her spare time, formerly devoted to social duties, is now given to selling Liberty Bonds, War Saving Stamps, and raising funds for the Y. M. C. A. And with it all she somehow—God only knows how—manages to sew and knit many needed garments for the Red Cross.

Is Mother busy? Well, yes. Can Mother stand the strain indefinitely? God and Mother only know. One thing is sure, she will keep going till she falls.

But with all our help devices, hadn't we better devise some means of lightening the strain on Mother? Mother hasn't asked it, and God bless her heart, she isn't going to ask it. But the need exists just the same.

Let's think about it.

Ever notice that it is the ultimate consumer who always gets the "hot end of the poker?" It's a fact.

The remark is prompted from watching the ice man. See him start out with a 100-pound block of ice under a blazing sun. That block is estimated to cut ten blocks of 10 pounds each—and ten blocks it does cut, but as to whether of but as to whether 10 pounds each or not depends on the time and distance the ice man must travel. And the ultimate consumer foots the bill.

See the grocer order a barrel of apples. Going through them he discovers a certain per cent have rotted. His per cent of profit must cover these—and again the ultimate consumer gets the hot end of the poker.

Poor Mr. Ultimate Consumer must not only pay store rent and clerk hire, insurance, ect., but he must make good all losses from decay, deterioration and waste, and, as if all these were not enough, he must pay the bad debts of the fellow who is on the beat. The remedy? Be a producer or a middleman.

Chimes From The Temple Hon. and Mrs. J. C. Poppell of Starke were in Sanford this week. Mr. Poppell was formerly Supt. of Public Instruction of Bradford County, is now a prominent lawyer of that county, and is also teacher of the Men's Bible Class, Clerk of the church, and member of the Board of Deacons of the First Baptist Church of Starke. He looked through our Sunday School plan with a great deal of interest, and being an old friend of Dr. Hyman's was especially glad of the opportunity to see the building of which he had heard so much favorable comment. It is possible that these good people may locate in Sanford, as they were greatly impressed with the

The Post Office building is now complete and Capt. Elder and his excellent force are doing business at the new stand, while we rejoice in this, we are sorry to lose from our number Mr. and Mrs. Samford. It is Mr. Samford's business to construct post office buildings for Uncle Sam, he having just finished the post office building in Waynesville, N. C. before coming to Sanford. Mrs. Samford is an excellent Sunday School teacher and has been of great assistance to us in the Junior Dept. She holds a teacher's diploma issued by the Sunday School Board of Nashville, Tenn. Our best wishes go with them.

Miss Ruth Lossing expects to leave next week for Sarasota for a stay of about six weeks.

Miss Jeanette Laing left Monday for a visit to relatives in Jacksonville, while away she will spend some of the time at a house party at Atlantic Beach. Miss Laing is the enthusiastic President of the Fidelis Class of young ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Millen have returned from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bray at Sebring, Fla. Mr. Millen don't believe there are any fish in the lakes down there, in spite of the reports to the contrary.

Rev. Bunyan Stephens, former pastor of the church at Kissimmee and recently of Ocala, has been appointed Assistant Camp Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Johnson. He will be recalled as the man who preached the High School Commencement sermon in Sanford at the close of school in 1917, his subject was "The Battle of Armageddon." He has many friends in Sanford.

Dr. Nollie Tolar is reported out of the hospital and will soon be on his way home again. He and Mrs. Tolar will stop in Rocky Mount to visit relatives for a few days.

It is said that the difference between Methodists and Baptists in regard to "back-sliding" is that the Methodists preach it and the Baptists practice it.

Mrs. E. E. Cox has returned from her vacation spent in St. Augustine and Jacksonville and will resume teaching her class of girls. She is one of our veteran teachers, and holds not only a blue seal diploma but also a gold seal post graduate diploma as a Kings Teacher.

Our pastor Rev. M. H. Massey preached last Sunday evening in his old church at Hartwell, and was joyfully welcomed by his friends there. He will assist in a big revival meeting in one of the large country churches of Georgia this week.

Rev. H. S. Rightmire, moderator of the Seminole Association, and pastor of the Daytona church, has returned from his vacation in New York state; while he was absent Mrs. Rightmire supplied his pulpit; she is a very talented lady and took the seminary course and graduated at the time her husband did.

Our prayer-meeting service was well attended Wednesday evening; on next Wednesday evening the B. Y. P. U. will have charge of the meeting.

Repelling the Russ Buss.—Kerensky kissed Arthur Henderson, the British labor politician, and all England gasped. Kerensky is coming to this country. He may want to kiss Bob Holly or Jack Davison or even President Wilson. This has led an anonymous poet to suggest that a president put his greetings into a song, and to furnish him with the song, as follows:
Salute me only with thy fist,
And don't attempt to buss me;

The very thought of being kissed is quite enough to fuss me. If you must kiss, try it on Gompers. He hasn't been kissed since he wore rompers. Adapted from the Literary Digest.

Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Stones will spend their vacation at Seabreeze during this month; Mr. Stones will preach for the Baptists each Sunday while there.

Last Sunday was the 25th anniversary of Dr. Collins' ministry, he celebrated it by preaching a great sermon in the Temple Sunday evening, his text was "Thus did Job continually," and his theme was that to do anything worth while we have got to keep everlastingly at it.

We greatly miss from the Sunday School Miss Allie Trafford, Supt. of the Primary Dept. who has been ill, we are glad to learn that she is much improved.

Mr. Ed Cameron left for his station in the navy at Key West on Wednesday, his mother accompanied him and will remain in Key West for a visit with him.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Laing will entertain Dr. C. L. Collins next Sunday evening.

Forrest E. Gatchel was called by wire to return to Key West Tuesday as his gun crew had been ordered to New York at once; a message from him is to the effect that he arrived in time to join his crew.

Mrs. Chapman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Stewart, who is in the hospital in Orlando for treatment, is much improved, and will soon be out again; the children Helen, Stanley, Clifford, and Hildeward are with their grand-parents in Sanford. Mrs. Chapman's home is in Kissimmee.

We are delighted to see that our former pastor (for one day) Governor Sidney J. Catts, has been making speeches in favor of prohibition in Okechobee County; we predict that that county goes dry.

The sudden death of Mrs. Ed Cameron has brought sorrow to our hearts, and we deeply sympathize with her bereaved husband and relatives. She grew up among us from childhood to young womanhood, a beautiful young woman, whose winsome ways and beauty of character even outshone the beauty of her face, to know her was to love her for her very goodness and kindness. At an early age she became a member of this church, and her gentle influence counted for much in bringing others into the kingdom. When a few months ago her husband and her brother Forrest enlisted in the navy and were stationed at Key West she moved there and, equally patriotic with them, determined to serve her country while her husband was in service, took up the study of shorthand and typewriting and passed the physical examination with a view of entering the navy as a yeomanette for the period of the war. Another brother Arthur Gatchel, is in the army in Texas, but was to far away to return for the funeral services which were conducted Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church by Dr. Collins.

Death of Ezekial Matthews. Ezekial Matthews died at his home on Second street yesterday after an illness of several weeks having been a sufferer for some years with Bright's disease. Mr. Matthews was 82 years of age at the time of his death and had been a resident of this city for several years. He moved to Leeburg from his home in Alabama and was a resident of Leeburg for forty years. He moved to Sanford about twelve years ago and here as elsewhere he was loved and respected by all who knew him. The funeral services occurred from the residence at ten this A. M. Mr. Matthews was a devout Christian, a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church, an exemplary citizen and while ill health prevented his taking an active interest in material things during the latter years of his life he was nevertheless an example of what a God-fearing true American citizen should be and he will be missed from this community where he resided so long. The sympathy of the Sanford people is extended to the wife and daughter and son in their loss of husband and father and one who lived for them.

PREVENT HOG CHOLERA The B. A. Thomas Hog Powder has a record of 95 per cent cures of Hog Cholera. If you feed your hogs as directed, you need never fear hog cholera or any other hog disease. And the directions are very simple, just about what you are doing, plus a few cents' worth of B. A. Thomas' hog powder in the feed twice a week. Usually, though, Cholera gets in before we know it. Then it requires close attention to each hog—each hog must be dosed—and if you will dose them as directed, you will have better than 90 per cent. If you don't, the B. A. Thomas medicine costs you nothing. We—not some distant manufacturer—pay your money back. L. Allen Seed Co. 91-Fri-4tc License Inspector Appointed. At a recent meeting of the County Commissioners Mr. Archie B. Cameron was appointed License Inspector for the County; it will be his duty to see that every one engaged in a business or occupation requiring a license is supplied with one; he has already entered upon his duties with his characteristic thoroughness and has the names of several who will shortly be haled into court for doing business without a license.

Mr. Cameron continues to call on those who have failed to pay their personal property taxes before same became delinquent. On last Saturday he attached a large stock of goods and the proprietor promptly got busy secured the money and paid his taxes. A storage space has been secured in the Court House and hereafter Mr. Cameron expects to seize personal property and store it until necessary advertisement is made, then sell it for the taxes; only two weeks notice of sale is necessary.

Florida Artillery Slices. Washington, D. C. Aug. 1.—Senator Park Trammell has been industriously working for the last week to secure inspection of Florida sites for use as a proposed artillery camp. The senator, whose home is in Lakeland, Fla., made a number of calls at the war department regarding the matter, after learning that such camps were contemplated. Senator Trammell urged upon the chief of artillery that the various sites which have been tendered the government in Florida—there about 20 of them—should be given an inspection. That officer has informed Sen. Trammell that in all probability such a cantonment will be located in Fayetteville, N. C. It is claimed that the lay of the land and the nature of the country in that section has had considerable weight in determining the reports of the military experts who recommended the Fayetteville site for an artillery range and camp. The transportation facilities to the ports of embarkation and centers of population are also said to have been given much consideration.

RECRUITING OFFICE. The U. S. Naval Reserves now has a recruiting office in Orlando postoffice building and all the boys who would like to join this branch of the service should go to Orlando at once and get in while the getting is good. The office is in charge of Ensign H. M. Matheson and his assistants are Assistant Surgeon P. G. Parker, M. W. Lance, W. T. Goodyear, J. O. Leverton, A. F. Nordblom and A. Rose. All men from 18 to 40 are eligible for enlistment. provided they can pass the usual examination. Colored men are used in the mess attendants branch and there is an opening now for enlistment in this branch. Men who are registered may enlist in this branch of the service by first obtaining their release from their local board. There is an exceptional chance now for young men of ability to obtain commissions in the naval service. Men recruited in this office will be sent to Key West for training.

Thanks Red Cross. The boys that left July 26th wish to thank the good Red Cross women of Sanford for the nice lunches prepared for our comfort. They were highly appreciated. We are now in Denton Camp B. No. 15, Co No. 6, Camp Greenleaf, Chickamauga Park, Ga. We would all appreciate hearing from any of our friends. Semanole Boys.

Quentin Roosevelt Dead The Herald in its Tuesday issue might well have left unsaid the remark thrown at young Quentin Roosevelt, whose noble death, most naturally and justly everywhere was noticed by the public press. True and properly as intended it was a deserved recognition of the bereaved and distinguished father. AN OLD REB. New Sugar Regulation Effective August 1st., the allowance of sugar is to be two pounds per person, per month and housewives are going to be kept busy planning their menus and using all sorts of sugar substitutes—honey, syrup, molasses and other kinds of sweetening. The new sugar regulations are in accordance with the new order issued by State Food Administrator, Braxton Beacham, who of course is acting upon instructions from the National Food Administration. A new feature of the August sugar regulation is the fact that every grocer has been instructed to keep a record of each and every person to whom he sells sugar and the amount sold. These names are to be carefully kept on file, and at the end of the month will be listed and submitted to the Food Administrator. The lists from the different grocers will then be checked. If it is found that persons have been buying at different stores and exceeding their allotment, Government officials will proceed to press the cases against the offenders.

Methodist Church The services at the First Methodist Church Aug. 4th will be as follows: Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Epworth League at 6:30 p. m. At the close of the morning sermon the Sacrament of the Lord Supper will be administered. All Christians are invited to unite with us in this solemn service. A special welcome is assured those who may be absent from their home churches. At the morning worship Mrs. J. K. Mettinger, who is to leave next week to make her future home in Jacksonville, is to sing for us. Mrs. Mettinger's many friends will be delighted to have this opportunity to hear her again. A most cordial invitation is extended to all.

ARMY WORM ACTIVE IN SEVERAL SECTIONS FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

PEST SHOULD BE STOPPED AT THE FIRST TRENCH

The following telegram was just received by C. M. Berry the County Agent: Army worms destroying crops East Coast now reported middle Florida. Advisable you take prompt action for control. See Watsons circular letter July twenty-third. If poisons recommended not available wire Newell plant commissioner for arsenate of lead. Have newspapers publish remedies. Spencer Vice Director

From the Experimental Station at Gainesville the following letter is interesting: Gainesville, Fla., Aug. 1.—The appearance of the semi-tropical army worm in many fields through the central portion of the State has been responsible for the impression that pests were being spread by enemy agents. In discussing these rumors, the State Plant Commissioner, Mr. Wilmon Newell, said:

"There is no foundation for such a belief. In the first place, this insect is a native one, occurring in Florida every year in limited numbers and as rule not very destructive, and neither a German nor anyone else could possibly have predicted that some combination of natural causes would result in its becoming unusually abundant this year or that, even if introduced into fields on purpose, it would prove destructive. "The appearance of the worms in thousands of fields through the central portion of the State is fully accounted for by moths being carried with winds, or even migrating, from the fields in South Florida where they have developed in countless millions."

There is no longer any doubt in the minds of the Plant Board inspectors that the pest is moving northward. Since Sunday the army worms have appeared in Orange, Seminole and Pasco Counties. In the western part of Pasco County they are doing serious damage and all Plant Board inspectors in that section have been assigned to fighting the pest. That the pest will appear this week and next in Marion Citrus, Sumter, Hernando, and probably other central Florida counties is extremely probable.

The Plant Board is warning farmers throughout central and northern Florida to examine their fields at once, particularly castor bean, cotton, velvet bean and sweet potato fields, for in all sections already afflicted the crops have been practically wiped out where the farmers did not apply poison in time, while the worms were still young. Similar warnings have been sent out by the University of Florida Experiment Station to all County Agents. In the invaded districts the County Agents and Federal Department of Agriculture employees are working with the Plant Board force in subduing the pest. Directions for fighting the army worms can be secured by writing or wiring the Plant Commissioner at Gainesville.

Weather and Crops Weather and crop conditions in Florida for the week ending July 29, 1918:

Temperature during the week was moderate; in fact, somewhat below the seasonal. The highest reported, 97; the lowest 61 degrees.

The rainfall was generally light to moderate, except locally, where the amounts were heavy. Rain is needed, as a rule, over all divisions. The greatest amounts reported were: Bartow, 1.4; Orlando, 4.1; Lake City, 2.8; Gainesville, 1.1; Switzerland, 1.4, and Madison, 1.6 inches. 1. Rains of the current week were highly beneficial west of the Suwanee river.

The dry weather, which ruled during most of the week, was very favorable for cotton, although rain is needed locally in portions of the cotton district. As a result of the dry weather, and high per centage of sunshine cotton is opening quite rapidly in the central division, where picking is increasing; several bales have been marketed. Bolls are opening also in the northern division. The corn crop is about matured, except some late plantings. The yields are generally good, except the counties west of the Suwanee river, where dry weather caused damage. Rain is needed in uplands for some cane, rice, and sweet potatoes. Citrus fruits are doing well. Worms damaged castor and velvet beans, but the trouble is decreasing. Rains were indicated at the close of the week over most of the state.

VEGETABLE SEED CROP PROMISING

A majority of the growing vegetable seed crops are in good condition, according to reports just received from many large growers in the United States by the seed-reporting service of the Bureau of Markets. Growers in the East and Middle West almost uniformly reported on June 28 good growing conditions. Some failures have been reported for some crops in certain sections, particularly California and the Pacific Northwest, where hot weather during June damaged many crops severely. Crops growing in the river districts of California have suffered the least from drought and the prospects in these sections are that fair to normal seed crops will be harvested. Hot weather in the spring in the western section will result in damage ranging from "slight damage" to 15 per cent, according to local conditions.

Attract and Repel Lightning. The best conductors of lightning, placed in the order of conductivity, are said to be: Metals, gas coke, graphite, solutions of salts, acids and water. The best nonconductors, ending with nearly perfect insulation, are India rubber, gutta-percha, dry air and gases, wool, ebonite, silk, glass, wax, sulphur, resins, paraffin.

ENGLISH WOMEN DRIVE SIDE CARS

Women motorcycle and side-car drivers are not uncommon in the streets of London these days. They act as dispatch carriers and drivers for one of the women's auxiliaries that have so greatly assisted the government.

escaped British officer, I could hardly help smiling to myself, but when I thought of the big risk I was taking, more or less unnecessarily, I began to wonder whether I had not acted foolishly in undertaking it.

Nevertheless, the evening passed off uneventfully and when the show was over I mixed with the crowd and disappeared, feeling very proud of myself and with a good deal more confidence than I had enjoyed at the start.

I had passed a night which will live in my life as long as I live. The bill of fare and program and a "throw-away" bill advertising the name of the attraction which was to be presented the following week which was handed to me as I came out, I still have and they are among the most valued souvenirs of my adventure.

CHAPTER XV.

Observations in a Belgian City. One night shortly before I left this city, our airmen raided the place. I didn't venture out of the house at the time, but the next night I thought I would go out and see what damage had been done.

When it became dark I left the house accordingly and mixed with the crowd, which consisted largely of Germans. I went from one place to another to see what our "strafing" had accomplished. Naturally I avoided speaking to anyone. If a man or woman appeared about to speak to me, I just turned my head and looked or walked away in some other direction. I must have been taken for an unusual sort of individual a good many times, and if I had encountered the same person twice I suppose my conduct might have aroused suspicion.

I had a first-class observation of the damage that was really done by our bombs. One bomb had landed very near the main railroad station and if it had been only thirty yards nearer would have completely demolished it. As the station was undoubtedly our airmen's objective I was very much impressed with the accuracy of his aim. It is by no means an easy thing to hit a building from the air when you are going at anywhere from fifty to one hundred miles an hour and are being shot at from beneath from a dozen different angles—unless, of course, you are taking one of those desperate chances and flying so low that you cannot very well miss your mark and the Huns can't very well miss you either!

I walked by the station and mingled with the crowds which stood in the entrances. They paid no more attention to me than they did to real Belgians, and the fact that the lights were all out in this city at night made it impossible anyway for anyone to get a good look at me as if it had been light.

During the time that I was in this city I suppose I wandered from one end of it to the other. In one place, where the German staff had its headquarters, a huge German flag hung from the window, and I think I would have given ten years of my life to have pulled it down, however, it would have been impossible for me to have concealed it, and to have carried it away with me as a souvenir, therefore would have been out of the question.

As I went along the street one night a lady standing on the corner stopped me and spoke to me. My first impulse, of course, was to answer her, explaining that I could not understand, but I stopped myself in time, pointed to my ears and mouth and shook my head, indicating that I was deaf and dumb, and she nodded understandingly and walked on. Incidents of that kind were not unusual, and I was always in fear that the time would come when some inquisitive and suspicious German would encounter me and not be so easily satisfied.

There are many things that I saw in this city which, for various reasons, it is impossible for me to relate until after the war is over. Some of them, I think, will create more surprise than the incidents I am free to reveal now. It used to amuse me as I went along the streets of this town, looking in the shop windows with German soldiers at my side looking at the same things, to think how close I was to them and they had no way of knowing. I was quite convinced that if I were discovered my fate would have been death because I not only had the forged passport on me, but I had been so many days behind the German lines after I had escaped that they couldn't safely let me live with the information I possessed.

One night I walked boldly across a park. I heard footsteps behind me and turning round saw two German soldiers. I slowed up a trifle to let them get ahead of me. It was rather dark and I got a chance to see what a wonderful uniform the German military authorities had picked out. The soldiers had not gone more than a few feet ahead of me when they disappeared in the darkness like one of those melting pictures on the moving picture screen.

As I wandered through the streets I frequently glanced in the cafe window as I passed. German officers were usually dining there, but they didn't conduct themselves with anything like the light-heartedness which characterizes the allied officers in London and Paris. I was rather surprised at this because in this part of Belgium they were much freer than they would have been in Berlin, where, I understand, food is comparatively scarce and the restrictions are very strict.

As I have said, my own condition in this city was in some respects worse than it had been when I was making my way through the open country. While I had a place to sleep and my

Just a Little Touch of Braid Makes All the Difference in the Appearance of a Frock

By KATHRYN MUTTERER. The woman who is planning her summer wardrobe on an income considerably reduced by war is going to depend largely upon braid for decorative effects because it is always attractive and costs but little. Embroideries are highly to be desired, everyone admits, but they take longer to develop and everyone can not do embroidery successfully, while everyone can stitch braid into a bit of material.

Pictorial Review Braiding No. 12426. Transfer, blue or yellow. On Costume No. 7559. Sizes, 34 to 44 inches bust. Price, 25 cents.

For women of conservative tastes who follow the styles yet cling to simple effects, this excellent braiding pattern is designed. It may be employed for a border at the lower edge of a panel, also as a trimming for pockets, cuffs, collars, etc. As illustrated it is used to trim a cotton voile frock for which 7 1/2 yards of material 36 inches wide are required. Very good quality voile may be obtained under thirty-five cents a yard, so with the braid, the costume should not be expensive. The front and back panels are rounded at the lower edges, the side panels being turned back to form pockets. The waist is dart-fitted and closes at the left side. A belt of black satin gives a smart touch to the dress, especially if the voile is in one of the new pastel shades. A narrow edging of braid gives an unusually dainty touch to the collar and, if desired, a small embroidery design may be added. The detail shows how the braid appears when put on in border effect. It is four inches wide and takes but little time to stitch on the machine. Very few dresses nowadays have the braid put on by hand unless the materials are extremely sheer and difficult to manage. By carefully regulating the size of the stitches, however, even crepe georgette and chiffon cloth may be braided by machine. The pattern supplies six yards of 4-inch border, one yard of which to braid requires 10 1/2 yards of soutache.

or noticed what had happened with the Germans, and I did so. He said the same thing to me as he had said to the officers, perhaps a little more sharply, and gave me back the bill. Later on, he returned to the table with a handful of change and we closed the transaction. I gave him 25 centimes as a tip—I had never yet been to a place where it was necessary to talk to do that.

During my first half hour in that theatre, to say I was on pins and needles is to express my feelings mildly. The truth of the matter is I was never so uneasy in my life. Every minute seemed like an hour, and a dozen times I was on the point of getting up and leaving. There were altogether too many soldiers in the place to suit me, and when the German officers seated themselves right at my table I thought that was about all I could stand. As it was, however, the lights went out shortly afterwards and in the dark I felt considerably easier.

After the first picture, when the lights went up again, I had regained my composure considerably and I took advantage of the opportunity to study the various types of people in the place.

From my seat I had a splendid chance to see them all. At one table there was a German medical corps officer with three Red Cross nurses. That was the only time I had ever seen a German nurse, for when I was in the hospital I had seen only men orderlies. Nurses didn't work so near the first line trenches.

The German soldiers at the different tables were very quiet and orderly. They drank beer and conversed among themselves, but there was no hilarity or rough-housing of any kind.

As I sat there, within arm's reach of those German officers and realized what they would have given to know what a change they had to capture an dart seam as notched terminating the seam at the small "o" perforation. Close remaining seam as notched. Sew sleeve in armhole of outer waist as notched, with small "o" perforation at shoulder seam easing any fullness between notches. Hold the sleeve toward you when basting it in armhole.

Arrange outer waist on underbody with center-backs, lower front edges and under-arm seams even; stitch the lower edges to position, tack neck edges of back together and tack the front to vest matching the small "o" perforations.

Then join the gores of the skirt as notched leaving the left side seam free above lower large "O" perforation in front gore and finish for closing. Gather upper edge between

"T" perforations. Adjust skirt on waist stitching the upper edge along the upper row of gathers in waist with center-fronts and center-backs even. Bring side seam to the single large "O" perforation in front of waist and leave skirt free from center-front to left side opening; draw gathers to the required size, bind the edges and finish for closing.

Now take the girdle and sash and gather edges between "T" perforations and draw gathers in to about 4 1/2 inches. Adjust to position on waist with center-fronts and center-backs even; double small "oo" perforations indicate center-front and single small "o" perforations indicate center-back of girdle. Tack upper edge to position at the upper small "o" perforations in vest, at the under-arm seam in front and near the center-back; tack the girdle to the upper edge of skirt (at center-front) at the single large "O" perforation. Place sash placing "T" on corresponding double small "oo" perforations and tack. Fold over (with the shorter end on top) matching the small "o" perforations and tack together forming a loop. Arrange sash under upper right edge of girdle and tack upper edge of girdle along the small "o" perforations clothes were no longer constantly soaking, my opportunities for getting food were considerably less than they had been. Nearly all the time I was half famished, and I decided that I would get out of there at once, since I was entirely through with Huylliger. My physical condition was greatly improved. While the lack of food showed itself on me, I had regained some of my strength, my wounds were healed, and my ankle was stronger, and although my knees were still considerably enlarged, I felt that I was in better shape than I had been at any time since my leap from the train, and I was ready to go through whatever was in store for me.

A tan voile collar and belted with self-material, the collar lined with satin. Braid adorns the outer edges of the collar and ends of the belt. A pleasing suggestion for the well-dressed woman is this one-piece dress of tan cotton voile. The front is underlaced and rolled back to form revers above which is a square collar outlined with braid. The two-piece skirt has a high waistline and is gathered under a belt of self-material. Flare cuffs finish the one-piece sleeves and the ends of the belt are braided to match the collar. In medium size the costume requires 5 yards 44-inch material. The underbody should be made first, so that the vest may be arranged upon it. Stitch right side to position and finish the left side edge for closing. To make the outer waist, close under-arm and shoulder seams as notched. Gather lower edge between "T" perforations and 2 inches above. If desired with square collar, underface front edge of outer front to line of double small "oo" perforations. Now, face the collar and sew to neck edge, with notches and center-backs even. Roll collar and front of waist as illustrated. Take the sleeve next, and close in sash.

GAVE BLOOD FOR BROTHER

Transfusion in a Hospital in Chicago Saves Man From Keokuk, Iowa.

Fort Madison, Ia.—N. J. Bever, manager of the Fort Madison Produce and Storage company, is home from the Augustana hospital in Chicago, where he gave up some of his blood in a transfusion operation in order that his brother, M. C. Bever of Keokuk, might live. The operation was successful and it has been announced that the Keokuk man will live, although it may be necessary to furnish him with a little additional blood to aid his own. Other members of the family have agreed to furnish this if it is needed. Mr. Bever has been suffering for years with a bad case of anaemia. The local man declares he feels no worse for his experience aside from a soreness in his left arm, from which member the transfusion was made.

Helping Blind Chinese. Missionaries from the Y. W. C. A. are assisting in the relief of the blind in China, but find it difficult to mitigate the evil because of the curious religious beliefs of the Chinese.

Let Your Work Be Thorough. It does not make any difference at all how quickly you may get through your work, if, after you have finished it, some one else has to come along and re-ly complete the job.

Good Excuse for Sobering. Charles lived with his aunt, who was a milliner and worked down town. She told him not to telephone to her unless it was important. One day she was called to the phone, and little Charles said, "Auntie, don't be cross, but this is something very impossible." -Chicago Tribune.

Father Ate It. The proprietor of a Cleveland dog market sold a nickel's worth of dog meat to a small boy, and was told the next day by the boy that the meat was not good, and that his father couldn't eat it. The butcher is now wondering who eats the meat he sells for dogs.
