Milk Commission Nears End?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida's controversial Milk Commission may be abolished during the upcoming session of the Legislature.

This was the growing feeling in certain quarters of the state. There have been suggestions ranging from abolition to placing the commission under federal control.

Two weeks ago, Gov. Farris Bryant said abolition of the commission "would give me no quills at all." And Secretary of State Tom Adams recommended that the agency's powers be transferred to the State Department of Agriculture. He suggested that the state then could set up a system of controls somewhat like the federal system.

200 Acres Donated Here For New School

5,000 More Ready

By Larry Vershel
 Congratulations to Jan Fortune . . . And to the Republican committee chairmen who worked hard . . . And recognized the importance they had in the coming election . . .

Two hundred acres of "high and dry" ground were offered "free and clear" as a site for the proposed new state university by Hibbard Casselberry Tuesday evening at a session of the Chamber of Commerce's long range planning committee on education. Furthermore, Casselberry informed the committee another adjoining 5,000 acres is available from two Miami residents.

The offer by Casselberry was made at a meeting called by Douglas Stenstrom, committee chairman, to evaluate progress made at this point on Seminole's bid for the state to select Seminole County for the proposed new university. However, Stenstrom emphasized that, as of now, the county must remain "unified" and the question of a site must be decided after the state decides to situate the school "somewhere" in this county.

Casselberry located his 200-acre offer as between Winter Park Drive and Highway 436, with the south boundary only a quarter mile from Orange County.

It was brought out Tuesday evening that Seminole County has raised $5,000 to finance a feasibility study for bringing the school here . . . $1,500 from the City of Sanford, $2,500 from the County of Seminole and $1,000 from the Chamber of Commerce. This fund will be used to retain "a qualified expert" to prepare the feasibility study and "an answer is expected by May 6."

Stenstrom emphasized that "time is of the essence" since the Legislature opens Tuesday and the county's "fight" must be in the hands of the county's legislative delegation before the end of the session. In other words, Stenstrom pointed out, if no action is taken during this next legislative session then the question of the proposed university must wait for an answer until the 1965 session.

Stenstrom also pointed out that adjoining counties are in the fight seeking to have the new university placed in their environs. For example, Volusia County has raised a fund of $25,000 to finance its drive to obtain the school. This is opposed to Seminole's $5,000. And Orange County is driving for the college but, at this point, has not announced how much in funds is being used.

Stenstrom outlined in detail to the education committee Tuesday evening progress during the last 10 days the efforts to bring the University to Seminole County. He stated the drive gained impetus when the McDonald Committee unexpectedly announced its recommendation for a four-year humanities, arts and allied courses university for this area for high school graduates over and above a "space institute" for qualified scientists and engineers.

The attorney pointed the university has been specified for the Orlando-Daytona-Canaveral area as opposed to a space institute for the Orlando-Daytona-Canaveral area. "And," he emphasized, "we are right in the middle of the Orlando-Daytona-Canaveral area, both geographically and population-wise." He stressed the nearest state university is at Gainesville and "there are thousands of newly-qualified students from our county who may benefit from this university when and if it is placed in Seminole County."

Fortune Topples Frederick

GOP Gains Area Stronghold

Seminole County Republicans turned a lackluster special election Tuesday into their biggest legislative victory here since Civil War days.

Lying up to a promise of an all-out campaign and strikingly successful campaign, the GOP candidate Jan Fortune captured 2,188 votes to Gordon Frederick's 1,831 to gain a house seat for the spring legislative term starting next week.

The official tally of the Seminole County legislative race this afternoon revealed that Mack Cleveland Jr., unopposed for the Senate, grabbed 2,311 votes and Jan Fortune who won the house seat took 2,214. Gordon Frederick had 1,831.

JAN FORTUNE The Victor

With less than 28 percent of the registered voters turning out, Fortune took 12 out of 23 precincts and in the traditionally strong Democratic Sanford precincts lost out by slim margins.

Of the 15,934 registered voters, unofficial returns show that only 4,324 turned out during a perfect spring day.

Fortune in victory campaign told the Herald this morning: "I thank the voters of Seminole County for giving the two-party system a chance to bring better government to the state. And to give the two-party system an opportunity to bring better candidates before the electorate for the good of the citizens of Seminole County. I intend to bring good representation to all of the county and I respectfully offer my services and time to all the people at any time, day or night, they may wish to confer with me."

Seminole County also got its first Senator when Mack Cleveland Jr. was unopposed and will serve a four year term. There were no write-ins against Cleveland. Fortune will serve only one term filling Cleveland's unexpired term.

Following is a precinct by precinct tally.

U.S. Rejects County Interchange Request

Seminole County's bid for an interchange at Lake Mary Boulevard with the new Interstate 4 has been rejected.

The county, which has ordered improvement of the boulevard with the hope of an interchange at the new cross-state highway, reported in Tuesday's Commission meeting that the federal government has rejected the "cloverleaf."

Chairman J. C. Hutchison briefly reported he had received a letter from the State Road Department that the federal government refused to consider the interchange.

This means there will be outlets off the cross-state highway at the north and south ends of the county, a nine-mile stretch almost by-passing Seminole County.

Commission members and the Chamber of Commerce long range planning committee were so confident the Lake Mary Boulevard interchange would become a reality that plans were pointed toward a county airport near the proposed cloverleaf.

Commission also instructed Engineer William Bush to commence construction of a new $12,000 concrete bridge on Tuskwallow Road across Howell Creek.

Clerk Arthur Beckwith Jr. informed the Commission that the Seminole Boulevard paving job leading to the Seminole Raceway Park has been completed and, according to Bush, at a cost of $10,000.

Warner's thought follows established "in the water" airports at Washington, Cleveland, Chicago and other points . . . landing fields made from filled-in water sites.

His proposed site as at the edge of Lake Monroe, across from the city-owned industrial park, roughly half-way between French Avenue and the turn-off to Interstate 4. It provides access by railroad, highway, waterway and air lanes, both land and sea-types. It would attract industrial docks, terminals and warehouses. It would provide water and air access for the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Learned from Sarepta Rest Home that cost-per-patient, according to a new state ruling, has risen to $133 a month, $70 contributed by the state and the balance to be contributed by the county.

Instructed Beckwith to warn theaters against posting advertising signs on county rights-of-way.

Heard a renewal of a protest by a Temple Terrace subdivision delegation demanding improved roadways.

Denied a request from the Zoning Commission to increase drainage plans for new construction occupying 25,000 square feet, retaining the present regulations for 2,500 square feet.

Denied a request from Prairie Lake Baptist Church for a $1,000 sign fee.

Instructed Dush to purchase two sets of aerial photographs of Seminole County, at $1,000 each, from the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council; one set for his office and one set for the county tax assessor.

Deferred discussion on proposed State Association of County Commissioners legislation pending a meeting with the county's legislative delegation this week.

Approved relocating Smith Canal in Ravenna Park area.

Approved a zoning amendment relative to minimum size of residential lots.

Tabled a proposal relative to regulations pertaining to sanitation facilities for transient campers at fishing camps.

Approved a plat for the third addition to Ravenna Park.

Changed a meeting date to 7:30 p. m. Tuesday with the Town of Casselberry relative to a discussion on improving Winter Park Drive. Meeting was set for 2 p. m. April 6.

Warner pointed out. He recounted that the Army Corps of Engineers continually dredges a channel in Lake Monroe for St. Johns River water traffic and "there is no reason in the world why the Army could not throw this soil into our desired airport fill-in site."

He added "it wouldn't cost the county taxpayers a cent."

Warner's picture is a fill of 700 feet by one mile, with a saving of one-half mile of frontage acquisition since it is city-owned. He said a rough estimate of overall cost would be $1,500 per acre for 100 acres of airport, with a possibility of federal matching funds.

As to serving South Seminole County, Warner pointed out it already is served by the Orlando airport and "besides this would be a Seminole County-wide airport for all of Central Florida."

Two Injured
 A two car accident on Park Drive and Oak Ave. left two persons hospitalized Tuesday night, Police reported.

Police said a car driven by Walter Holloway of 519 E. 8th St. collided with a vehicle operated by Charles Bollman of Fern Park.

Two passengers in the Bollman car, Mrs. Louise Bollman and Elizabeth Seelberger were treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital for cuts and bruises. Holloway was charged with failure to yield the right of way. Damage to both cars was estimated at $950.

Darin, Dee Marriage Shaky

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The marriage of one of Hollywood's youngest and most publicized couples appeared headed for the rocks today, that of singer Bobby Darin and actress Sandra Dee.

A spokesman for Universal-International Pictures said Tuesday the couple had separated, but had no other details except that there were no immediate divorce plans.

Darin, 26, and Miss Dee, 20, were married Dec. 1, 1960, at Elizabeth, N. J. They met in Italy where they made a movie.

Both recently had denied rumors circulating for several months that the couple — both with highly successful individual careers — were on the verge of separation. They have kept details of their personal lives a secret, and neither was available immediately for comment. She was in Honolulu and he was at Lake Tahoe.

The couple has one child, a boy, who is 15 months old.

Both Patti Smith and Bruce Robinson will attend the county contest to be held in April.

Fifth grade champion is Ann MacLaughlin. Bill Schmidt and Michael Greaser are second and third in that grade.

Dale Grieme is the fourth grade champion and Dawn Boatwright and Joy Wilson are second and third place winners.

Unemployment Rocks England

LONDON (UPI) — The festering unemployment problem, which set off a riot at the houses of Parliament, loomed today as a major threat to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government.

The riot by an estimated 5,000 unemployed Tuesday brought new demands from the opposition Labor party that Macmillan take firm action to ease the problem.

The Times of London called the storming of the government buildings "the wildest, most determined demonstration" outside Parliament since World War II.

The Daily Mail said it was the "biggest threat to Parliament" since the anti-Catholic riots in 1780.

Nine men were arrested and more than a score were injured after squads of 500 policemen broke up the riot and forced the demonstrators back out through St. Stephen's Gate, the main entrance to the houses of Parliament.

Worldwide Hunt On For Dutch Ship

NEW YORK (UPI) — A worldwide search for a Dutch ship which may have contacted the missing Marine Sulphur Queen is being conducted by the U. S. Coast Guard.

A Coast Guard spokesman disclosed the search Tuesday and said the Dutch vessel reportedly was seen near the mollen sulphur tanker after it hoisted a distress signal shortly before disappearing off the coast of Florida.

He said 50 nations were participating in the search. The Queen left Beaumont, Tex., on Feb. 2 with a crew of 29 men enroute to Norfolk, Va., and vanished the following day. Debris identified as being from the tanker has been found but no bodies or survivors have been picked up.

An American freighter, The Sea Lady, recently reported it was steaming about 25 miles off Dry Tortugas Key, Fla., when it saw a ship lying dead in the water, displaying two black balls from its mast which indicated it "out of command." The Sea Lady reported another ship passed "very close" to the stricken vessel without stopping and did not answer The Sea Lady's attempts to communicate with it.

The Sea Lady's officer identified the passing ship as being of Dutch registry and a further check narrowed it down to one named The Albasserdijk, the Coast Guard said.

The Albaserdijk was located in Rotterdam, Holland but the ship's owners reported that while it was in the general vicinity of the Florida Straits, it did not see or communicate with any ship of the Queen's T2 tanker type.

The search was renewed on the possibility another Dutch ship or some other vessel may have been the one sighted by The Sea Lady. During the air-sea search, the information was broadcast to shipping circles but now the same information has been sent out by mail to about 5,000 shipping lines and other maritime interests.

"This is our last resort," Capt. G. R. Evans, said. He is Coast Guard operations officer for the eastern area.

A Coast Guard Board of Inquiry here continued its investigation into the disappearance. Calvin J. Staffa, production engineer for the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., has been called to testify on the handling of molten sulphur. His firm was the shipper of the Queen's cargo.

Tuesday's testimony came from Raymond F. McGraw, port engineer for the Marine Transport Line Inc., operators of the Queen. He told the board the "Out of Command" signal could have meant that the generator was out of order or that the main engine had stopped.

Plans Nearing Completion For Presbyterian Church

Rev. Thomas H. Makin announced this week that plans are rapidly moving toward completion for the new Presbyterian Church soon to be established near the intersection of Lake Mary Blvd. and Hwy. 1792.

Rev. Makin has been called by the Church Extension Committee of the Presbytery of St. Johns to serve as evangelist in charge of the new church.

Recommendations for the erection of a demountable chapel with six classrooms and a seating capacity of 200 persons have been made by the Chapel Council, a temporary group elected at an Informal Meeting held on March 17.

The Presbytery has agreed to purchase this prefab building from the new church when the first permanent unit is completed and will relocate it on a new site.

A total of 55 persons already have signed the petition to presbytery with many more having indicated willingness to commit themselves and now suggestions for a name for the new church are being sought, Rev. Makin said.

The first worship service of the new congregation has been scheduled for 9 a. m. or Sunday, April 21, at the Pinecrest School. Church School will follow at 10 a. m.

A choir is being organized with James Meriwether as director and Mrs. C. W. Gallagher Jr. as pianist. Marshall Smith has been named superintendent of the church school and teachers are being selected.

New York Newspaper Strike Nearing End

NEW YORK (UPI)—Publishers and striking photogravers came to terms early today, all but ending a newspaper shutdown of almost three and one-half months in the nation's largest city.

The presses were ready to roll, and it was virtually certain that they would be turning out papers tonight. The papers had their staffs on telephone alert, and 5.7 million readers looked forward to regaining their prime source of information.

jubilation prevailed at City Hall early today as a weary but happy Mayor Robert F. Wagner announced the peace pact.

One detail remained: Ratification of the agreement by the 820 members of the Photogravers Union. But Frank McGowan, president of Photogravers Local 1, scheduled a ratification meeting for 4 p.m. EST today, and predicted his men would vote yes within an hour.

Walter N. Thayer, president of the Herald Tribune, said that if this were done his publication would be on the streets tonight with the Thursday morning edition. The other titled morning papers—the Times, Mirror and the News—have indicated they could publish within a few hours after pickets were withdrawn.

The idle afternoon papers—the Journal-American, World Telegram and Sun, Long Island Star Journal and Long Island Press—should have no problems in publishing Thursday afternoon.

Feeling was strong among the negotiators at City Hall that the future would not bring any more such painful and acrimonious disputes. This was predicated, in part, on the achievement of a common expiration date by the ten unions involved.

Also seen was a new amity among the publishers and the newspaper unity committees, representing all the unions. J. M. Flynn, publisher of the Daily News, said both sides had "learned a lot."

And Thayer declared, "We think we have something we can build on—something which will better labor relations in New York."

He added, "This is a day we have looked forward to for 110 days and it is a happy one." There were "no winners, and, we hope, no losers," he said. He would not comment on whether the morning newspapers might raise their price from five cents to a dime.

The 110-day blackout knifed savagely into the city economy, causing an estimated loss of more than $300 million. And its repercussions were felt as far away as Canada, where the newspaper industry suffered a financial blow calculated at $28.7 million by the publishers.

Lawn Care Stressed

Area landscapes will be looking their best after being treated with the methods presented at the Homeowners Clinic on Yard Care and Cold Rejuvenation by the Seminole County Agricultural Department.

Cecil Tucker, county agent and Ernest Lundberg, assistant county agent, presented the program at the Home demonstration Center Monday to 60 participants.

Cold rejuvenation was a large part of the presentation and included a demonstration on pruning live plants. The agents explained that pruning should be done after new growth begins on frost damaged plants to determine the amount of living material left.

A water repellent pruning paint should be used to coat pruning wounds over one-half inch in diameter, they said.

Corrective pruning and pinching of ornamental shrubs which grow rapidly in the Florida climate were also demonstrated.

Regular watering of cold damaged plants is also important, the agents stressed, as root systems may have been damaged and reduced in size. A mulch several inches thick is also helpful to conserve soil moisture and prevent high temperatures in summer they said.

After new growth on these plants begin, a balanced fertilizer should be applied lightly and frequently to encourage new growth, the agents said.

Insect and disease control were demonstrated by means of slides and charts.

Whether to continue with regular maintenance or renovate the frost damaged lawn was discussed and methods of each described by the agents. They suggested that if the lawn had a large amount of "chattel" (dead but undecomposed leaves, stems and clippings at the soil surface) that the lawn be renovated.

Renovation involves the use of two basic tools. One is a vertical mower which thins out the grass and breaks loose the thatch so it can be raked up. The other tool is an aerifying tool which loosens the soil.

After these operations, the lawn should be fertilized and kept well watered, the agents said.

Other questions were regarding replacement of shrubs and flowers and new plantings. Publications helpful to the homeowner in landscaping his home were pointed out and questions of individual problems were answered by the county agents.

French Rail Workers Strike

PARIS (UPI) — French railwaymen called a series of harassing walkouts today and leaders of 200,000 striking coal miners urged restraint from further violence in the drive for higher wages.

President Charles de Gaulle summoned his cabinet for a report on the labor crisis from Michel-Maurice Bokanowski, minister of industries.

The 350,000 railwaymen scheduled two-hour walkouts at each shift change to back the miners' strike against De Gaulle's wage austerity policies.

Gas and electricity workers called for more walkouts Thursday, and there was talk of a possible general strike by France's 2 million-man nationalized work force unless the government backs down.

Striking coal miners clashed briefly but sharply with police in Lorraine Tuesday. Minor injuries were reported.

It was the second incident of violence reported during the miners' strike for more pay, shorter working hours and more vacation time.

Union leaders immediately issued urgent appeals to avoid any more fights with authorities.

Ervin Asks Provision On 'Impasse'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A constitutional provision requiring the State Supreme Court to reapportion the legislature if the legislature fails or reaches an impasse was recommended Tuesday by Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin.

Ervin urged the 1963 legislature to approve a brand new constitutional amendment on reapportionment that would be elastic enough to meet future needs in terms of experience, growth and legal realities.

The recommendation headed the list of 57 new laws urged by the attorney general in his report to the governor and 1963 legislature. Other recommendations included a public defender system and a permanent state building fund.

"It is apparent that as Florida's population growth patterns further develop, the problem of reapportionment will again assert itself," he said. "It is incumbent upon the legislature to endow the state with a constitutional apportionment provision that has sufficient flexibility to allow the legislature to reap-portion itself within the constitutional framework."

Such action, he said, would do away with the necessity for endless special sessions on reapportionment and the threat of federal court intervention such as was experienced by Florida in the past year.

He said ratification by the voters in November, 1961, of the 44-senator, 112-representative plan written into a constitutional amendment proposed by last month's special session, is "at best problematical."

A formula elastic enough to meet the challenge of new legal situations, yet firm enough to maintain Florida's traditional form of constitutional government would insure voter approval, he said. The provision for the state supreme court to reapportion should the legislature wind up in a political impasse would provide an "escape valve" to keep the federal courts out of this state issue, Ervin added.

He recommended that the proposed amendment include:

1. A requirement that the legislature reapportion itself every 10 years beginning with the 1971 session.

2. A senate of no less than 36 nor more than 44 members representing districts of such number and territory as the legislature shall prescribe with due consideration given to population, geographical and other rational factors.

3. A house of no less than 104 nor more than 144 members apportioned on a basis of equal proportions formula with each county having at least one representative. And a provision allowing the legislature to give weighted votes or more than one vote to members of multiple-county delegations in order to reduce the number of members.

4. A requirement that the governor must call a special session on reapportionment within 30 days after adjournment of a regular session which fails to reapportion.

5. A provision that if such session fails to apportion within 120 days, the legislature must adjourn and the state supreme court be required to reapportion pursuant to criteria in the state constitution.

6. A provision that Dade County's two senators not be elected at the same time, necessitating a change in the number of this district from 43 to 44.

This plan, Ervin said, would be sufficient to cover the present 43-senator, 112-representative plan and flexible enough to assure its ratification by the voters.

Recommendations in other fields included: —Creation of the office of Public Defender to represent needy persons accused of crime.

—A constitutional amendment creating a permanent State Building Fund composed of a portion of surplus general revenue funds, estate and inheritance taxes, sales and cigarette taxes, restricted funds and the $10 million State School Fund.

—Authority for the state to appeal orders quashing search warrants or suppressing evidence in criminal cases.

—Repeal of the State Inventory Tax.

Food Prices Push Costs Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department was expected to report today that continued increases in food prices pushed living costs up another notch during February.

The monthly cost-of-living report was to be released at 11 a. m., EST.

Department officials said the jump in February was not expected to match the two-tenths of one per cent increase reported last month.

The January increase was prompted chiefly by damage to crops caused by a cold wave throughout the South.

"There was some freeze in the South after the January figures were reported," one spokesman said, "so we are not sure we're through the increase in food prices."

"We had an almost identical situation in 1957-58 and prices remained high until May or June in that case," he said.

The January price index stood at 106, one-tenth of one per cent lower than the all-time record high established last September.

Highlights

TV Time Previews

7:30 p.m. NBC. The Virginian. "Echo From Another Day." (Color). Doug McClure and James Drury handle the whole show tonight with a good deal of excitement that makes up for general lack of believability. A pair of ex-convict gold robbers meet to dig up the hidden loot. Trampas joins the searchers since one of the pair is an old friend and the other has hired gunslingers for some kind of "protection." Bradford Dillman and John Dehner are featured.

7:30-8:30 p.m. ABC. Wagon Train. "The Adam Mackenzie Story." Worth watching if only for the sincere performance of Michael Ansara in the title role. He plays a frontier doctor, thwarted at every turn in his attempt to treat a critically injured Indian boy (Danny Bravo) by his primitive parents. They believe the lad can only be cured by the death of his sister (Lola Roberts), whom they consider a witch. Wagonmaster Hale (John McIntire), of course, sides with the doctor.

9:30 p.m. CBS. The Beverly Hillbillies. A funny plot has Jed Clampett (Buddy Ebsen) preening himself in outlandish city clothes and even attempting the twist, all for the love of a lovely secretary (Lola Albright). She is anything but unattainable when she learns Jed's bank account totals over $32 million. Before she is through she figures even millions can be a bad bargain, thanks to the antics of the other Clampetts, which include Irene Ryan, Donna Douglas, Max Baer and, as Cousin Pearl, Bea Benaderet.

9:10 p.m. NBC. Perry Como. (Color). This one is loaded with nostalgia for us senior citizens and some pleasant surprises for the younger set. It features Tex Beneke with his orchestra, made up largely of old Glenn Miller personnel, including the Modernaires with Paul Kelly and Singer Ray Eberle. On hand too is Wynn Miller, a musical comedy singer and niece of the late band leader. Perry also brings on lovely and talented singer-dancer Carol Lawrence, all of which adds up to a first-rate show.

What is breakfast? Dictionary definitions include "the first meal in the day" and "a meal after fasting." But most people explain what breakfast is to them in terms of the goodness of the foods associated with this meal — crisp ready-to-eat cereals with cold, frothy milk; the pleasant tartness of citrus fruits; fragrant coffee; hot, buttery breads and toast.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 years old and have been married ten years. About a year ago I started seeing a young girl who lives in a small town near here. She is in trouble now and it's my fault. My wife and I have one eight-year-old son and we were told my wife can't have any more children. I told her I knew of a girl in trouble who wanted to give her baby up and asked my wife how she would like a new-born baby. She was thrilled. I called the girl and told her I'd pay all her expenses if she'd let me have the baby. The girl agreed, but said she would have to leave town pretty soon to await her baby. I'm afraid if I let the girl come here for her confinement my wife will find out the whole story. But then, if the girl goes somewhere else, she might be talked out of giving us the baby. Can you advise me in a hurry please?

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Pay for the baby and help its mother adopt it out, if that is her wish. But leave your wife and family out of it. One such mistake is enough in one lifetime.

DEAR ABBY: What should a girl do when a boy she dates makes a date to pick her up at 7:30 and he doesn't show up until around 8:30? My mother says I should keep him waiting for me just as long as I had to wait for him. I don't want to get him mad at me because I really like him. Do you have a better solution?

— KEPT WAITING

DEAR KEPT: Chronic lateness is nothing more than proof in living color (usually bluish pink) that the late one is disorganized. Don't fight fire with fire unless you want to sacrifice the relationship. Let the boy know you are hurt, and ask him to try to be more prompt.

DEAR ABBY: About the "worried mother" who was concerned because her 16-year-old son kept peeping across into the neighbor's window where two teen-aged girls have their bedroom, I agree with the father. It's only natural for a normal 16-year-old boy to look. What boy his age wouldn't like the chance? Instead of the mother peeping on her son, to see if he's still peeping on the girls, she should tell the girls' mother to put a shade up and see to it that the girls pull the shade down. Then the audience will know the show is over.

We The Women:

By Ruth Millett

A little booklet called "Family Fun with Card Games," sent to me by the playing card association, brings back vividly many happy childhood evenings. It says, in part:

"Remember the wonderful days of childhood when the whole family would gather round the dining room table and play card games?"

"No one ever dreamed of such mechanical diversions as television or automatic pin-setting machines in those days. A rousing game of hearts, fan-tan or Michigan was everyone's delight."

"Dad used to pop a dishpan full of corn, hot and buttered. Aunts, uncles, grandparents and cousins—too old or young for other recreations but not too feeble to enjoy walloping the daylight out of a sleepy-eyed player—were there."

Viets Kill 33 Commies

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — South Vietnamese troops killed 33 Communist guerrillas and captured a number of weapons Monday in fierce fighting near Ap Bac hamlet, a U. S. military spokesman said today.

Ap Bac, some 35 miles south of Saigon, was the scene of a costly government defeat at the hands of the Viet Cong last January.

The spokesman said today that 18 government troops were killed and 14 wounded.

"Lots of children in those days got the groundwork of arithmetic, good manners and fair play over the card table long before the word 'togetherness' was ever coined. Parents saw to that without reading any books on child psychology."

Surely, I remember those days. Each family seemed to have a favorite game that all could play and the big, round dining room table made a card table that could accommodate any number of players. (No pin y r o o m s in those days, either.)

At our house the game was "High, Low, Jack and the Game"—and here every member of the family was equal. The only thing I can find wrong with the picture as depicted in the booklet is that line: "Dad used to pop a dishpan full of corn, hot and buttered." We had the popcorn, all right—but pop didn't pop it. Those were the days before men knew their way around a kitchen.

We had a band of togetherness then that took it for granted that the man of the house was the head of the house, and that when he put his feet under the dining room table (for cards or dinner), he stayed there and left the kitchen.

Jacoby On Bridge

By Oswald Jacoby

There are two general forms of Stayman: forcing bid and nonforcing bid.

Mine is of the nonforcing variety, meaning that in most cases my two club response shows a good hand but I may also use it with a bad one.

My partner MUST rebid two of a suit over my two clubs irrespective of the strength of his no-trump. If his rebid is two diamonds it says that he does not have as many as four cards in either spades or hearts. If his rebid is two spades it tells me he has at least four spades and may or may not have four hearts also. If his rebid is two hearts it tells me that he has at least four hearts and does not have as many as four spades.

SOUTH (D)	♠ A 2	♥ A Q 9 8	♦ K J 2	♣ 8 5 4

1NT	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♥	Pass	Pass	Pass
Opening lead—♠K

If I pass his rebid it is obvious I have a bad hand and that the rebid suits me. If I go to two spades over a two heart rebid or to two spades or hearts over a two diamond rebid I still show a bad hand and partner is supposed to pass and let me play at two of my suit.

North has an ideal hand for this form of Stayman. He has no interest in game and no interest in letting his partner play one no-trump. He wants to play two hearts if his partner holds four hearts, otherwise he wants to play two spades.

He responds two clubs. South goes to two hearts and plays it there. He will surely make his contract and may make an overtrick. This is the only way North and South can show a profit. There is no way to make two spades or one no-trump.

31 To Report On Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee hoped to hear 31 witnesses today and wind up its public hearings on President Kennedy's proposed $10.3 billion tax cut.

The raft of witnesses included Democratic Gov. Matthew E. Welsh of Indiana, and Republican Govs. Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming, Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma and Tim Wabrock of Montana.

All were expected to oppose proposals that would place about $280 million in additional taxes on profits from oil and gas production.

They will probably echo the sentiments of oil industry spokesmen, who took five hours Tuesday to argue that such additional taxes would be against the public interest.

They were joined by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who said more taxes would discourage producers from looking for new deposits.

Other congressional news: Cheating: Demands mounted for a congressional inquiry into a lawmaker's anonymous charge that there are "congressmen who cheat." A number of members said the accusations tended to cast an unwarranted reflection on the whole House, and believed an impartial inquiry would fall to support the charges.

Propaganda: A House foreign affairs subcommittee headed by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, (D-Fla.), opened a new congressional investigation into how well this country is doing in the "battle for men's minds" around the world. The lead-off witness was Edward R. Murrow, director of the U. S. Information Agency. Fascell said the House group would make a comprehensive study of the U. S. "ideological offensive" with an eye to recommending improvements.

Untouchable Land

What makes a piece of land increase greatly in value? From our own observation over the years, and from what we have heard, one factor in price-boosting is the knowledge of the owner that some industrial enterprise is even mildly interested in it.

And it is for that reason, we suspect, that some prospective industrial plants have been lost to Sanford and to this area of Central Florida.

For some reason, the land owner has a notion every company that makes things, or processes them, is vastly rich and able to pay almost any price for a plant site. That, of course, is a fallacy. A business concern is interested in purchasing land—or anything else for that matter—at a reasonable market price. The boss would be a bad businessman indeed if he made it a practice to buy real estate at, say, one and one-half times actual market value. In fact, he wouldn't be the boss very long; his board of directors would see to that.

In this connection, we have a note before us from a knowledgeable Sanford citizen who writes: "Several times last year we had a good, clean industry at our fingertips, but the lack of available land at fair prices sent the prospect elsewhere. Why would it not be a good idea for anyone with land suitable for industry—or having knowledge of the same—to make it known to the Seminole Chamber of Commerce? This should be land with a fair market price, and acceptable conditions. In the past unhappily, a great deal of suitable industrial land has been 'untouchable,'

By that word, I mean land owned by an individual who jacks up the price as soon as he learns someone is interested in purchasing it."

To that summing-up, we add our "Amen." We know it is true, because we have seen it happen, and in other cases we have heard of its happening from quite reliable sources, including the property owner himself!

Now this newspaper is not in favor, and has never favored, the granting of ridiculous give-away concessions in order to bring in some industrial enterprise. Cities in Georgia, over-anxious for industry, have granted such things as ten years of free taxes, reductions in utility rates, and so on. That sort of thing, we believe, is bad business for the city and the area; any business or industry worth having is ready to pay a fair price for its land; and to share its fair proportion of taxes; and to pay its electric, gas and water bills. If it isn't, let it go to Georgia!

At the same time, any prospective industrial settler expects to purchase land at the same price anybody else would be paying for it. We would indeed be wise to establish a pool of available sites realistically priced. It is true that we cannot and should not try to force, or pressure, an individual in making a sale that is not to his liking. After all, he does own the land, and it is his to sell for whatever price he can get for it, or to keep it. Our only recourse is to scratch his property off the list—this is, if he insists on padding his price—and to find other suitable sites which are priced within reason and may be recommended.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Howard's shrewd remarks should be memorized by all salesmen, for Howard has discovered in his own work one of the basic axioms of sales psychology. Scrutinize this important case and its follow-up to our sorrow, for "value" depends on the buyer's viewpoint!

CASE O-193: Howard H., aged 42, is a piano salesman. "Dr. Crane," he began after I had addressed his Kiwanis Club, "I used to be a very mediocre salesman.

"And selling pianos is no easy job, for most homes nowadays are so small they hardly have room for even our compact models.

"But it is usually the mothers who show the most interest, for they feel that their children should learn to play the piano, as a cultural asset.

"And I really have learned much greater respect for mothers. It isn't just because they are my prospects, either, but I never realized before how widespread is this hunger of mothers to push their children a notch higher in cultural matters.

"Why mothers who really had to do washings for a living have insisted on buying a piano for their daughter!

"Several times I have tried to back out of a deal just because I felt that buying a piano was too great a hardship on some of these hard-earning mothers, but they insisted on going through with the deal.

"So I have changed my outlook, for now I am no longer selling just a beautiful musical instrument to adorn the living room of a home.

"No; I now realize that many mothers still and save to purchase a piano primarily to make Mary a lady."

"Those mothers feel that skill at the piano is an essential part of a woman's charm. So a piano indirectly boosts their daughter's prospects as 'date bait.'"

"While I'm not much of a pianist, I always demonstrate my pianos by sitting down and playing a few numbers.

"The majority of my prospects are church goers, too, so I have made it a rule to play church hymns in my demonstration.

"And ever since I have used church music as my demonstrational repertoire, my sales have increased remarkably.

"Dr. Crane, how do you explain this effect?"

"Our liking for anything is largely a matter of how many pleasant emotional memories are revived.

"Thus, the main reason why children prefer hot dogs is simply the fact that hot dogs have been associated with picnics, tamping in the park, freedom from city apartment restrictions, play with daddy, etc.

"So when a boy bites into a hot dog, he doesn't realize it, but his teeth are setting off a chain of pleasant memories that are suffusing his entire personality.

"The boy then thinks the hot dog tastes good. Actually, it tastes the same as the first one he ever sampled, but that first one was probably an indifferent, almost neutral taste quality.

"And so it is with music. We find that melodies linked with happy and uplifting moods of the past, now suffuse us with similar feelings.

"So we then 'project' our delight upon all involved, including the piano as well as the salesman! See tomorrow's follow-up.

THERE'S ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE!

Scant Attention Paid

WASHINGTON — In all the hue and cry over the $6.5 billion contract for the TFX fighter plane, one sensible suggestion is receiving little attention.

Scores of Congressmen have joined the pack to berate Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara for daring to follow his own best judgment instead of the advice of the military in giving the contract to the General Dynamics Corporation instead of Boeing Aircraft, the lower bidder. (The civilian Secretary explained that he anticipated a saving of $1 billion in the long run by settling on a single fighter model General Dynamics has developed instead of the two different models for Navy and Air Force which the military chiefs favored buying from Boeing.) But only five cosponsors came forward in the Senate when Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) recently introduced bills that would protect the country against favoritism in the awarding of defense contracts in future.

One reason may be that so many members of Congress are more concerned with abetting favoritism than with preventing it. Spending for defense and space now accounts for more than half of the national budget. Out of the $99 billion total requested by the President for the next fiscal year, approximately $60 billion is for defense and space. Millions of jobs hang on where the government decides to buy its defense hardware. Local property in a growing number of communities depends on defense orders. Therefore, local pressure on Representatives and Senators to bring home the bacon in the form of hometown or homestate contracts is intense, to put it mildly.

In the case of the TFX fighter, many a member could sympathize with Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) in whose state the Boeing Company has a chairman from the political party out of power to relieve that man from pressure from a President of his own party in the White House.

It is surprising that, as a Republican, Case failed to cite another contract practice that could stand a change. It is now unwritten procedure to announce the awarding of contracts through Senators or Representatives from the area concerned—if the Congressman is a friend of the Senator from the state of Washington, he knows at the same time that his constituents expect him to defend the interest of so large an employer in the state as Boeing.

The purpose of Sen. Case's proposed bills is to protect defense officials and members of Congress in similar circumstances from painful and embarrassing pressure. Sen. Case would have Congress require the Defense Department to keep a public record of all oral or written communications from any one in Congress or in the Executive branch seeking to influence a contract. The same system would apply in the case of negotiated contracts, let without bids—65 per cent of the $60 billion annual defense fund is spent by this means. And finally, Sen. Case calls for a Joint Congressional watching committee to review all defense and space contracts as a regular matter, as the Truman Committee did during World War II. Case would have a chairman from the political party out of power to relieve that man from pressure from a President of his own party in the White House.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There has probably been more sheer balderdash about foreign affairs printed and spoken this year than in any comparable period since the end of World War II.

The subjects have been Cuba, disarmament, the nuclear test ban, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear striking force, the Sino-Soviet split and French President Charles de Gaulle. Nobody really knows from nothing about any of these subjects. That makes it easier for everyone to speculate, and in one sense this is all to the good.

Wide public discussion of controversial issues is supposed to be the heart and life of the democratic system. So the more "thinking" there is on these subjects, even though few people know what they're talking about, the better informed everyone should be, or the more up to date, anyway.

But the only people who really know what's in the Cuban caves and how many Soviet troops have been withdrawn from the island are the Russians, and they haven't yet told.

The disarmament and nuclear test ban agreements that everyone was so hopeful about the end of last year are no nearer to signing than they ever were.

Many military "experts" have been waiting that NATO is falling apart because the European nations won't accept U. S. ideas on an international nuclear striking force. Yet Secretary of State Dean Rusk says simply that the President's special ambassador, Livingston T. Merchant, is in Europe to find out what the Europeans want and will agree to—so that their wishes on the ideas can be met.

After the Franco-German treaty was signed, international "authorities" were saying that the United States would have to conduct another agonizing reappraisal and completely reshape its foreign policy. Surprisingly, the foundation of America's postwar foreign policy still seems to be standing very solidly, unshaken. United States troops will remain in Europe.

The Sino-Soviet split is still a "mystery wrapped in an enigma," as new American citizen-brother Winston Churchill once called Russia. So far, the two Red powers are conducting a propaganda shouting match in which the outside world can only hope each destroys the other. But the odds are that this won't be allowed to happen in the near future, although war between them has been prophesied by some guessers.

The truest words ever spoken about President de Gaulle are that nobody really knows what he thinks. He is completely unpredictable, as he was when France vetoed Britain's entrance into the European Common Market.

That was the blastoff pad for many alarmists who declared De Gaulle's action would not only wreck the Common Market but also wreck the new United States trade expansion policy. Both seem to be surviving, and it must be remembered that neither has been expected to function fully or effectively for several years.

The hardest job for any statesman or policy maker in this air and space age is to keep both feet on the ground.

Dean Acheson, former secretary of state, has just turned in an astounding performance of this exercise in his speech on "Europe: Kaleidoscope or Clouded Crystal," before the University of California at Berkeley.

"What should be our response to the events of January?" Acheson asks. And, in condensed form he answers: "It should be a calm response . . . It should not assume, as some of the press has, that all is lost . . .

"Our present European defense policy is right . . . a multi-national strategic nuclear force for Europe is best . . . In other directions there is room and need for co-operation with him (De Gaulle) in important work . . . it is time now . . . to get on again with building up."

Acheson can say these things and get away with them because, while he is of the Kennedy administration, he is not in it. This may stand as one of the best jobs of putting international blur in to focus that has been done in a long time.

Julien Duboucq, a French-Canadian adventurer, was the first white man to settle in Iowa.

K - Pope Visit Seen Possible

Editors Note: The visit of Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law with Pope John XXIII is further evidence of a thawing in the relations between the Kremlin and the Vatican. The possible reason for the approaches being made by atheistic Communism to the leadership of the world's Roman Catholics are explored in the following dispatch by a correspondent who has covered Vatican affairs for nearly a decade.

By Ernest Sakler VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The next step toward the easing of tensions between communism and Roman Catholicism could be a visit by Premier Nikita Khrushchev to Pope John XXIII in the Vatican. Such a meeting between the leader of a government that opposes all religion and the spiritual leader of the world's half billion Catholics would have been unthinkable a few years ago.

Now, in light of recent papal audience granted to Khrushchev's daughter and his son-in-law Alexei I. Adzhubei, it appears that Moscow is seeking a rapprochement with the Vatican. In turn, Pope John also is living with the times. He never has said so flatly, but his entire approach to communism leaves the impression that he senses a profound change in the Communism world. He intends to help that apparent movement — not through appeasement but by a try at better understanding.

at about 1:30 this morning, jumped a railing and ordered the young woman to open the safe. When she replied she did not have the combination, the Negro grabbed her and forced her out of the hospital.

Unsuccessful in an attempt to steal a car, Sparks forced the girl to walk to 7th and Bay Streets, in the Negro section. There he ordered her into a parked automobile and attempted to rape her. When she pleaded with the Negro he desisted and walked her back to the hospital, released her and fled.

In the meantime, Robert Bosscher, hospital administrator, had been alerted when other employees noticed the young woman was missing. No one had heard her screams when Sparks forced her from the hospital. Bosscher telephoned police.

Sparks was released from jail only a week ago after serving a sentence on a drunk and disorderly charge. While in jail he had been made a trustee and was assigned for work at the Sanford zoo. It was there he was bitten on the right hand by a monkey. He has been under a physician's care since.

While forcing the young woman to accompany him he told her of having been bitten by an animal. Her description of Sparks, with the information of the monkey bite, led Cosgrove and Hayden to the Negro.

When brought to the city jail Sparks was placed in a lineup with six other Negro inmates. The young woman pointed out Sparks as her assailant. He then confessed to Chief Williams.

Suspicion of charges of attempt to rape and of suspicion of attempted robbery were filed by the young woman before County Judge Vernon Mize. Chief Williams said Sparks would be arraigned later today.

The day before Reinhart assumed command of the squadron his flight crew won the April 1962 Stream.

CDR. REINHART

The top crew of the 12 competing in the event was VAI-1's Lt. James F. Bell, pilot, and CPO Colin C. Pemberton, bombardier-navigator. This was their second "Thunder Stream" victory in four months. They scored a win in the December Stream as students in VAI-3.

Bell and Pemberton scored 534 points, a neat 66-point edge over an A3H crew of Lt. William Ogels, pilot, and Lt. (jg) Edward M. Holmes, bombardier-navigator, of VAI-5. Behind that crew's 468 points fell a VAI-11, Detachment Eight crew of Lt. Cdr. Bill E. Bassett and Lt. (jg) Wayne Robinson, flying an A3H, with 464 points, and VAI-1's Lt. Cdr. Patrick E. O'Garra and Ensign Paul I. Haney, who amassed 459 points in an A5A.
