Export Of War Materials To Britain Okeyed

Ireland Will Receive Share Of 138 Key Products, Including Airplane Parts

Daily Check On Supply Planned

Volume Will Be Cut If Shipments Are Thought Too Great

WASHINGTON, Mar. 3.—Blanket authority was issued today for the export of 138 key war products, including aluminum and aircraft parts.

The office of the administrator of export control explained, however, that a daily check would be kept on the export of vital commodities so that supply could be checked off if it appeared that too heavy a volume was leaving the United States. The general freezing order, restricting the removal of all foreign funds, including those of the Axis, from the United States, passed by the War Relocation Authority, is being reviewed by the War Relocation Authority.

The general order would not prevent the removal of Axis funds, but would require that they be placed in a special account for a 12-month period. The order would be subject to the same restrictions, but possibly would require licenses with little delay or red tape.

Appropriation For Farm Work Is Considered

Senate Leaders Seek To Obtain Action On Lease-Lend Bill By This Weekend

WASHINGTON, Mar. 3.—(AP)—A bill appropriating $90,824,037 for the 1942 farm program and other activities of the Agriculture Department was sent to the House by its Appropriations Committee today.

The bill carried the customary $500,000,000 for soil conservation payments to farmers, $58,846,150 for rural rehabilitation loans, $100,150,000 for the removal of surplus commodities, and $35,418,884 for the soil conservation service.

The Senate leadership announced its determination today to obtain action on the British-aid bill by this weekend, and Democratic Leader Barkley said he was considering a move to limit debate on the measure.

The State Department advised the Treasury to "freeze" Bulgarian funds in the United States as a result of the entrance of German troops into that country.

President Roosevelt signed a $35,587,775 deficiency bill, and made $375,000,000 available to continue the WPA program until July 1.

Fire Destroys Home Of J. C. Ellsworth

Fire turned the home of J. C. Ellsworth, on Boardwalk Avenue near Lake Jessup, early this afternoon and only a small amount of the furniture was saved, according to Alex Foster, a neighbor of Mr. Ellsworth.

It was reported that the family was sitting at the dinner table when the fire was discovered on the first floor. Sparks from the fire started from sparks from the chimney.

Mr. Foster said he believed the house was covered by insurance but did not know how much. He could not give any figure as to the value of the building but said it was a nice house and well furnished.

Chief Mack Cleveland said he received a call to the fire about 1:00 o'clock this afternoon but the lady who called hung up before he could get any information about the fire or its whereabouts.

Turkey Blocks Strategic Dardanelles; King Boris Told Of Diplomatic Tension

British Report Raids On Brest

Yugoslavia Reported Ready To Sign As Minor Axis Power

Adolf Hitler's mechanized legions rolled across Bulgaria toward the Greek and Turkish frontiers today, threatening to create a new front in the European war.

As the fateful march to the south and southeast proceeded, Turkey barred the strategic Dardanelles to all ships without a special permit, mining all except the narrow channel in the historic straits.

In Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria, British Minister George W. Rendel informed King Boris III that Britain would break off diplomatic relations with Bulgaria probably tomorrow, and that a state of war "undoubtedly" would follow.

Yugoslavia, the largest power in the Balkans, was described authoritatively as ready to sign the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis as the fifth minor power to join the Axis, following the wars of Rumania, Slovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria.

In Athens, the arrival of British Foreign Secretary John G. Dill, chief of the British imperial general staff, heightened British expressions of confidence that "full preparations" had been made to meet the crisis.

Reports from Bulgarian sources said the entire country was being overrun by the Nazis. The Turkish press unanimously predicted that Bulgaria soon would become a satellite of the Axis.

On the western front, the British reported new overnight raids on the German-held naval base at Brest and on German-occupied airfields.

124th Infantry Is Invited To Camp Here For 2 Days

Almost 2000 men and 143 oficers in the 124th Infantry, including three Sanford units, have been invited to this city for a two-day encampment as a good-will gesture, Edward Higgins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said today. The invitation was extended by civic clubs in the city and county.

"We are in hopes that the group, a mechanized infantry regiment, will come here the latter part of this week or in the very near future," Mr. Higgins said.

The invitation was sent to Major General John T. Parsons, commanding the 31st Division, and to Colonel Fred A. Saffley by the letter written by the Chamber of Commerce to the effect it was pointed out that the units of the 124th Infantry have made Sanford their headquarters for the past 20 years, as the National Guard, and that the people of Sanford are interested in them.

The troops would be quartered in tents on vacant property around town, Mr. Higgins explained, and would use the Army as their headquarters. As a gesture of friendship, some form of entertainment will probably be planned for the men. Mr. Higgins said, but no details have yet been worked out.

While encamped in Sanford, the soldiers would engage in their regular training schedule.

Too Much Talk

While Hitler takes over one more small European nation by means of power politics which leaves no alternative and pushes his blitz troops through Bulgaria to the Greek frontier in a move to "enforce peace" on another little nation and thus bring to "within the scope" of his military control practically the entire remainder of the European continent, our enlightened senators in Washington who are charged with the defense of this hemisphere continue to talk.

Throughout the entire winter the British aid bill offering the most effective means possible of preventing the defeat of England and staving off attack on this country has been under discussion. For weeks it has been debated in both houses of Congress as Germany consolidated her forces for the kill this Spring and Britain was subjected to merciless raids from the air. Every member of the opposition has been heard, not once, but dozens of times.

It is right that in a free country a measure of this importance should be carefully considered and both sides of it thoroughly analyzed. Those who are against it could do a service to their country by pointing out its defects. And those who are for it might do well to study their objections. It is no reflection on any of the senators merely that they oppose it. That they have a perfect right to do.

But at a time like this they have no right to obstruct the will of the majority by what appears to be a filibuster, even if Senator Wheeler says it isn't a filibuster. When a man has had his say, and then says it again, and keeps on saying it, just to keep anybody else from saying anything, and what is worse from doing anything, it gets mighty close to a filibuster. A bill can be talked to death more easily sometimes than it can be voted down, and Senator Wheeler evidently knows it.

Not that the arguments of the isolationists have convinced anybody. On the contrary the more they talk, the more convinced the public is becoming that the welfare of the country cannot be found in their policies. And in the Senate itself where the votes are counted, we doubt if a single person has changed his mind as a result of the repeated assertions that Hitler has no designs on this country.

But these filibustering tactics are wasting valuable time during a critical period when there is no time to be lost. The bill could have been passed two weeks ago. It was confidently expected to be passed by the first of March. Now it may be another week or two before it becomes a law. Meanwhile events are rapidly moving to a showdown in Europe.

Here there has been too much talk and not enough action.

War On Civilians

England's death losses in 1940, civilian and military combined, exceeded annual peacetime totals by approximately 120,000, or 20 percent.

While no one would minimize the seriousness of this extra mortality, half of which was due to direct enemy action against the civil population and defense forces, an official of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company comments: "It is so much less than what was expected that the British people, their leaders, and medical and health authorities have been much heartened."

The official total of civilians killed in the bombardments in England in 1940 was 85,000, but in addition it is pointed out, the state was an indirect beneficiary responsible for a sharp rise in fatalities in highway accidents. At most of these occurred during the winter. During the first 15 months of the war the number of these fatal accidents totaled 11,424, or 8,141 more than the figure for the 15 months preceding the war.

"Of diseases directly related to the war," says the Metropolitan, "cerebrospinal meningitis was of outstanding interest in England last year because it showed a marked rise in incidence, partly as a result of over-crowding in the air-raid shelters in large cities. The estimated number of cases of the disease totaled 12,500 or eight times as many as in 1939, while the number of deaths may exceed 2,500. That the number of cases and deaths was not even greater was probably due to the fact that since children are the chief victims of this disease, the evacuation of children from endangered cities undoubtedly saved many lives."

Another important health hazard during the first quarter of 1940 was a moderate influenza epidemic, which was largely responsible for the rise in the death rate from all causes to the highest point reached in any quarter of any year since 1929. The rate was one-third higher than in the corresponding period of 1939. In the second quarter of any year since 1929. The rate was one-third higher than in the corresponding period of 1939. In the second quarter the death rate from all causes among civilians was slightly better than in 1939.

"This is remarkable in view of the enormous strain on London's population," the Metropolitan says, "and this finding is in line with reports of reputable English psychiatrists as to the comparatively low rate of acute psychosis in English cities subjected to air warfare. However, the nervous strain on London's population has been reflected to some extent in a rise in mortality from ulcers of the stomach and duodenum."

Your Income Tax

NO. 29 DEDUCTION FOR LOSSES OTHER THAN FROM SALE OR EXCHANGE OF CAPITAL ASSETS

Deductions for losses are divided into four classes, and to be allowed must follow closely the wording of the income-tax law. Losses are deductible if incurred (1) in the taxpayer's trade, business or profession;

(2) in any transaction entered into for profit; (3) from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualties, or from theft; and (4) from wagering transactions.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of inventories, which are required whenever in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

The term "transaction entered into for profit" means any kind of business proposition. For example, a taxpayer purchases an automobile to be used solely for business purposes, and which is sold at a loss. As this is a business proposition from start to finish, the loss is deductible, subject to the limitations of section 117 as amended. But if he had purchased the automobile to be used for pleasure or convenience, the deduction would not be allowed; it was not a transaction entered into for profit.

A loss sustained in the theft of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is deductible, as it falls in class 3, if because of faulty driving but not of "wilful negligence" an automobile maintained for pleasure is damaged; the taxpayer may claim the loss sustained, as it comes within the meaning of the word "casualty." Where damages result from the faulty driving of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned the taxpayer likewise is deductible.

Losses from wagering transactions, whether legal or illegal, are deductible only to the extent of gains from such transactions. The excess of such losses over the gains is not deductible. All losses are deductible only to the extent to which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Naval Contracts Will Be Awarded Pepper Announces

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 3 (Special)—"Within this week," Senator Claude Pepper declared today, "contracts for the construction of small naval craft including mine sweepers, mine layers and patrol boats will be awarded by the Bureau of Ships, Seven Florida shipyards, among others over the country, indicated a desire to negotiate for contracts for the construction of the various types of armed craft in the present 300 million dollar Navy program of construction."

Senator Pepper expressed the belief that several Florida shipyards had received contracts for the construction of some of the vessels, thus affording additional employment to skilled and common labor in Florida.

It was stated by the Bureau of Ships that the awards would be announced by the middle of the week.

Senator Pepper announced that the House Appropriations Committee had recommended, at the request of the Navy, an appropriation of $1,517,500 for additional submarine and miscellaneous operating and repair facilities, including housing and messing facilities for ship crews, and acquisition of land for the Naval Air Station at Key West, Fla. In addition to an appropriation of $1,500,000 already authorized for the rehabilitation of the Key West Naval Base.

It was also announced that the House Appropriations Committee for the construction of surface craft housing, messing and recreation facilities at the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Fla., also recommended by the House Appropriations committee was an additional $1,200,000 for aviation training facilities, including buildings and accessories, including housing and messing facilities for ship crews, and acquisition of land for the Naval Air Station at Key West, Fla. Waste Is Charged In Dealing With Farmers

WASHINGTON, Mar. 3—(AP)—A contention that so many separate government agencies deal with the farmer and his problems that they cause "unnecessary duplication of effort, waste, extravagance and confusion," came Sunday from the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the farm bureau, proposed that many existing agencies be consolidated and a five-man, non-partisan board be created to coordinate the whole farm program. He said his proposals and criticisms of the existing set-up would be carried to proper congressional committees.

Household Hints

ORANGE CUSTARD PIE
It may be true—that bored remark of Solomon—that there's nothing new under the sun. But new ways to use old things lend a fascinating appeal. We've used in the past orange, lemon and other fruit juices as a hint of flavor in cookies, cakes and breads, and really enjoyed it. But today we use citrus fruit juices—grapefruit, sweet orange, sour or white orange—for all or part of the liquid in baking, to obtain an unusually delicate crumb and a fresh, distinctive flavor. In addition, the use of citrus fruit juices for baking is another way for them to further introduce nature's most beautiful fruit acids in the diet. This, too, proves a delightful change from the ordinary baking routine.

Certainly it's a thrifty practice in these days when our fluid citrus fruits seem overly abundant. So let's have pie! Here are directions for making the orange pie.

ORANGE PASTRY
Ingredients: 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 3/4 tsp. salt, grated rind of 1 orange, 1/2 cup shortening, and orange juice (about 1 tbsp.).
Blend grated orange rind and shortening with flour and salt in large, deep pans are formed. Continue until the flour is dampened. Press gently together to form dough. Roll pastry to fit pan (12-inch diameter) by 1/4 inch deep, and place loosely to avoid stretching. Trim off extra pastry, leaving 1/2 inch extending beyond edge of pan. Fold back to avoid double rim. Press with fingers or thumb for fluted edge. Chill. Bake in a hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Orange Butter Milk Custard
Ingredients: 1 cup sugar, 3/4 cup flour, 1/2 cup salt, 3 eggs, cups buttermilk, and 1 tbsp. melted butter.
To make the filling, blend sugar and flour well, add beaten eggs and buttermilk and mix thoroughly. Fold in lightly beaten whites and pour into the pastry lined pan. Bake as per recipe above. The fruity, orange-flavored pastry gives unusual interest to this custard pie.

Falla, President's Pet Scotty Was Named For Scotch Ancestor

By JACK STINNETT WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.— This is the tale of Falla, the most famous dog in America today. Falla is a jet black scottie. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt calls him the "priggliest bundle of fur you ever tried to lay hands on." President Roosevelt calls him "Falla." His formal name is "Falla of Murray Hill." It was appropriated from one of the President's old Scottish ancestors, Falla of Murray Hill, in the story goes, was an outlaw in the days when being successful as a Scottish outlaw was as much of an achievement as being elected president of the U. The President doesn't say from whom and he doesn't say anything about Falla's parents, ancestry or lineage either. The reason is obvious. Many persons would say fabulous names and titles with pride if they could say: "My pup is a scotch (breed) scotch (breed) scotch (breed) who lives at the White House." The only thing that is known is that Falla was born in the Highlands of scotch...
