MURDER AT SCOTLAND YARD

Nearly everyone has heard of Scotland Yard, London's famous Metropolitan Headquarters, but few people know how the institution got its name.

Scotland Yard more correctly New Scotland Yard is not in Scotland and is not a yard. It is a collection of buildings, in the Scottish baronial style, designed in 1891 by Norman Shaw, R. A., famous British architect.

Scotland Yard derived its name from the fact that the Police headquarters originally were built in 1829, on the site of an old palace in London where the kings of Scotland used to pay when they came to London to do homage to the king of England.

As London grew in size and the police force with it, officials demand to move to the new Thames Embankment fact opened in 1862. On the site of a proposed National Opera House, including 50,000 acres of land, the New Scotland Yard found its home.

Strange as it seems, shortly after the police obtained the site, the mutilated remains of a woman's body were uncovered there. The entire resources of the Criminal Investigation Department were marshalled to solve the mystery and discover the murderer.

Scotland Yard's best detectives were assigned to the case. In the best manner of Sherlock Holmes, the finest detectives searched for clues to the mystery, without success.

Thus, strange as it seems, did the new Scotland Yard come into being on the site of a mystery murder. In the past half century the Yard has achieved world-wide fame for its efficiency and ability to enforce London's laws and solve her crimes; yet, under its very threshold, lies locked the secret of an unsolved crime.

The Scott resolution pointed at revision of the neutrality act to make it applicable only to aggressor nations, calls on the president to say what nations, if any, have violated in recent years treaties to which this country is a party.

Italy Ready To Talk Peace With France

Insurgent Troops Advance On Tessa; Re-Inforced Troops Launch New Attack

When France and Italy made their truce, the Italian government was ready to settle on the basis of the Ethiopian conquest, which had been the world's attention.

Italy's readiness to settle her differences with France was expressed by the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, in Rome, who last Sunday asked if Italy was prepared to open negotiations leading to friendly relations.

In doing the Italian army drove on Bracciano, fought it way into the outskirts of Florence, and into the outskirts of Rome.

General Garzia's troops captured the city of Bracciano under the support of artillery batteries shelling government positions on both sides of the river.

The city's fall appears imminent. About 10,000 government troops, among them American and other international units, sought to hold off the approach of the Italian army.

The Italian government refused to negotiate and announced that the largest battle of the Italian campaign was now being fought.

A last time ago, a new committee to investigate the union's financial affairs would be set up.

It would complete the appointment of the 10-member committee. Previously three representatives appointed by the union had declined to serve.

The collision occurred at a crossing near Sanford. The motor car was struck by the train's engine.

Mrs. Ginn was traveling with her family. She was killed instantly.

Sugar control is also being attacked. Farmers are concerned that the government's control will restrict production and deny thousands of jobs.

THE NINETY AND NINE

There were ninety and nine that safely lay

In the valley of the hill

But one was on the hill

Far off from the gates of gold

Away from the mountains and the haze

Away from the tender sheep-herd's care,

"Lord, thou hast here thy ninety and nine

Are they not enough for thee?"
But the shepherd made answer:
"This of mine

Has wandered away from me
And although the road be rough and steep

I go to the desert to find my sheep."

But none of the ransomed ever knew

How deep were the water-crossed

Nor how dark was the night that the Lord passed through

Ere he found his sheep that was lost

Out in the desert he heard his cry,

Sick and helpless, and ready to die

"Lord, whence are those blood-drops all the way

That mark out the mountain track?"

"They were shed for one who had gone astray

Ere the shepherd could bring him back."

"Lord, whence are thy hands so rent and torn?"

"They are pierced tonight by many a thorn."

But all through the mountain-thunder-riven,

And up from the rocky steep,

There rose a cry to the gates of heaven:

"Rejoice! I have found my sheep!"

And the angels echoed around the throne

"Rejoice for the Lord brings back His own!"

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Clephane.

The last "pump priming" program

That Mexican oil coup was

One good thing about the new spending program of seven billion dollars, no one has made so bold this time as to say it isn't going to cost anybody anything. Even President Roosevelt admitted it would cost a couple of billions.

Free, White, And Twenty-One

Mark Wilcox made a favorable impression last night on the majority of the large number of people who turned out to hear his address on his senatorial candidacy. He discussed fully and frankly all the major issues of the campaign even venturing into the dangerous waters of Towns-ndism where other candidates have been compelled to compromise their intellectual honesty but where Mark Wilcox remained true to his convictions.

He explained that he had voted for and supported most of the New Deal measures particularly those dealing with relief and recovery. He helped to secure the enactment of the Home Owners Loan Act, the Farm Credit Act, federal insurance of bank deposits, and acts providing for the creation of the Federal Housing Administration, old age pensions and unemployment insurance, and all relief and welfare bills.

Alone and almost unaided he had secured the passage of the Wilcox Municipal Bankruptcy Act at a time when most Florida cities were staggering hopelessly under the burden of their bonded debts, and he was a freshman congressman generally expected to sit around and do nothing until he had acquired experience. He also secured the enactment of the Everglades National Park Act and the Wilcox National Air Defense Act.

But it was not for these reasons that he incurred the displeasure of the Administration. He opposed the trade agreement with Cuba under which fruits and vegetables produced in the island republic by peon labor were admitted to the United States during the height of the Florida shipping season but, as a result of thoroughly unfair and discriminatory tariff regulations, were excluded as soon as Florida products were off the market and the Texas and California seasons began.

Sanford farmers may well consider what effect this treaty which went into effect last year has had on market conditions under which they have been compelled to dispose of their crops this winter. While we have been paying higher freight rates, and higher costs in general, and have had to plow under two-thirds of our crop in the vain hope of securing the cost of production for the rest, we have been compelled to compete with Cuban vegetables produced by peon labor and admitted to this country under an agreement sponsored by the Administration but opposed by Mark Wilcox.

And then another thing which Mark Wilcox opposed and which brought down on his head the wrath of the powers-that-be in Washington was the Sugar Control Act. Although this country produces only 30 percent of the sugar which is consumed here, and although Florida alone could produce sufficient sugar to feed the entire United States, bureaucrats and Brain Trusters in Washington decided it would be a good thing to restrict the production of sugar.

Although Florida sugar producers were planning to enlarge their mills and increase their acreage, thus providing good paying jobs in private employment for 10,000 workers at a time when unemployment was increasing and the need for more federal relief was being argued, the Sugar Control Act limited their production to less than the consumption in the state of Florida alone, and the government paid one large corporation $1,300,000 for NOT producing sugar.

These and similar laws, clearly detrimental to the best interests of the people of Florida, Mark Wilcox has had the courage to speak out against. The only difference in this respect between him and Pepper is, as Mr. Wilcox pointed out last night, the Senator also disliked these laws, but he voted for them anyway because he was under the control of the Washington politicians and was not free to express either his conscientious beliefs or the will of his constituents.

And so the Washington bureaucrats are fighting Mark Wilcox and using their influence with WPA workers and the vast horde of federal office holders and political favorites to elect Claude Pepper. But they cannot do it unless the people of Florida let them.

There will be no Austrian plebiscite in this state. There will be no 99.75 percent elections in this country as long as the blood of Patrick Henry still flows in the veins of any of us.

THE DAUGHTER of a friend of mine who was traveling in South Africa under circumstances of considerable discomfort, was advised by her mother to say over to herself, on first awakening, these three comforting considerations: "I'm an Englishwoman, I was born in wedlock, I'm on dry land."—Arthur Christopher Benson, Memories and friends (Putnam)

Competition Is Threat To Future Of Rail Industry

Federal Aid Needed As Temporary Solution To Crisis

By MOREAN M. BEATTY WASHINGTON—If you can't make head or tail of that railroad crisis the President tossed to Congress the other day, console yourself.

Some of the world's ablest financiers and the cream of railroad genius have been trying to solve one railroad crisis after another for more than a hundred years.

It's a wonder the railroads are still with us. They have competed with each other ruthlessly, they have been hit by competition from buses, automobiles, trucks, airplanes, pipelines and electric power lines. They have been in seven financial panics since 1837, with investors bearing the brunt each time. They have borne regulation—good, bad and indifferent—from 18 states and the federal government.

Through the years, taxes and labor costs have soared; today the railroads are paying annually $210,000,000 in taxes, $2,000,000,000 in wages.

Why They Survived

The railroads have survived and held their place as a basic industry, still as important as its recent rivals, the automobile, for these reasons:

1. The American public needed rapid transportation to stretch this young and amazingly rich nation. The railroads were the answer.

2. Railroad inventive genius constantly figured out the ways to cut costs and increase safety and comfort. The first steel rails cost $218 a ton. The Bessemer steel process had brought rails to $28 a ton by 1914. The Westinghouse air brake brought trains under scientific control for the first time. Block signals reduced accidents. Pullman cars changed night travel from nightmare to comfort.

3. Railroad workers and management produced the genius and organization to operate the largest railroad network on the earth with speed and efficiency.

Solutions Proposed

Three ways have been proposed to save the railroads. There are arguments against all three.

1. Voluntary consolidation, with government supervision over all transportation.

Consolidation would eliminate the waste of duplicate lines and labor costs, and keep buses, planes, etc., in fair competitive positions. But who will pay off the investors in scrapped railroads? With few takers now, where are the railroads to find new investors?

2. Government ownership. The railroads represent an investment, according to government figures, of some $25,000,000,000. The people and corporations who now have their money in railroads would have to be paid if the government took them over. Part of this payment and the railroad debts as well would have to become a public debt, and the national budget is already carrying a depression burden.

Then, too, government ownership has never been a long term paying investment in any country. The federal government sank something like a billion dollars into its operation of the railroads in its country during the World war.

3. Government ownership. The railroads represent an investment, according to government figures, of some $25,000,000,000. The people and corporations who now have their money in railroads would have to be paid if the government took them over. Part of this payment and the railroad debts as well would have to become a public debt, and the national budget is already carrying a depression burden.

But Crisis Continues

Yes, the railroad crisis is still with us, and will be the next time you pick up a paper. But meanwhile Congress will have to find a temporary solution, or else the railroads will face the wringer in the midst of a recession. That probably means government loans to buy equipment and pay bills—for the time being.

Then, when economic skies are a little clearer and the 1938 Congressional elections are out of the way, the government may tackle the railroad crisis in earnest.

TEST FOR CONGRESS MIAMI NEWS

For all the hysteria and hullabaloo surrounding the defeated government reorganization bill, it carried less danger of dictatorship than does the heavy "pump priming" program which the president is represented as ready to send to Congress now. The reorganization bill would have exposed us only to the risk that an unscrupulous president might use it to aggrandize his personal powers. But the spending program exposes us to what amounts to almost a certainty that some president, scrupulous or unscrupulous, will have no choice but to make a virtual economic and financial dictatorship to pull us out of our present predicament.

For grounds for this foreboding we need go no farther than Europe. All the major countries of Europe, with the exception of England, have spent themselves into a position where free economy no longer works. France, still struggling to make it work, finds her confidence collapsed and her capital in flight either into domestic hoarding or into foreign currencies or stocks. Now there are only two alternatives for France. One is a further drift, followed by chaos, ending eventually in some sort of dictatorship.

There is reason to fear that further large increases in the American public debt will end in the financial and political calamity of the corresponding fiscal year. The government has spent an enormous sum of money in the past few years. It has been accumulating a deficit of $1,000,000,000 a year, and it is now $12,000,000,000 in debt. There is no way to pay this debt except by increasing the tax rate, or by printing money, or by borrowing more money.

The Sanford Forum

As a suggestion after reading your editorial in the Sentinel-Star yesterday, you should write a column like Martin Andersen's No. 1 column on page one about various people and what they are doing in Sanford and Seminole County.

While you don't have any general dispute in Sanford or any other town in the county, you should write a column like Martin Andersen's No. 1 column on page one about various people and what they are doing in Sanford and Seminole County.

Congress has just given us an example of steadfastness against one threat, real or imaginary, of dictatorship. But in that case the interests of the congressmen were on the same side. If the spending program comes down from the White House, however, the interests and the principles of the congressmen will be on opposite sides.

Will congress function as patriotically in denying itself its pork as it did in preserving its patronage? We hope so. Its members cannot hope to go down as honest-to-goodness heroes in the history of democracy until they have met this test.

Sincerely yours, CARL GALLOWAY

Trailer Camp Argument, but you have an airport that needs arguing about, and many other things you could commend and laud fault with at the same time.

When you tell the good and the bad at the same time, about any body or anything that has been done, and that should be done, it certainly creates interest in your paper as well as in the improvement needed.

Since there is always room for improvement and Mr. Roosevelt is looking for something to spend money on to furnish employment to those who need a job. While there is not much employment in Sanford and Seminole County, but judging from the price of celery and oranges, which is bringing less money to the county than ever before.

The writer believes in contentment, but not too much satisfaction, and your editorial copied in the Sanford Star was a good one along this line. Sincerely yours, CARL GALLOWAY

Lookouts Drop Second Tilt With Reds By Score Of 9 to 4

Seven Runs Are Scored By Foes In First Frame

Three Local Moundmen See Duty During Second Clash

CONRAD PARK, DELAND.—Manager Guy Lacy's Sanford Lookouts went down in defeat last night at the hands of the Deland Reds by score of 9 to 4 to bring their league standing to the 34th rank.

The Reds, blasting out 10 hits off three Lookout pitchers, came from behind in their half of the first inning to score seven runs and put the game away.

The Lookouts encountered only seven hits during the encounter off the deliveries of Andy Stout, Red Sauter and Roy Hoyer, who allowed only four runs. Stout walked a total of 10 men and forced three Lookouts down via the strike out rule.

Joe Pinder started on the mound for Sanford but was knocked out in the first before getting a single batter out. He was replaced by Johnny Hook who got a batsman out before he was replaced by Bob Hope, youthful hurler, pitching his first time for the Lookouts.

Hope pitched eight and one-third innings and was nicked for only four hits. He fanned one and had a little wild, scattering seven walks. However, they did not damage the local chances.

Leading the hitters for the Deland Reds were Joe Ruggiero, Win Brown, Nick Shimer and Bob Jones. Each blasted out a pair of hits, and had a total of 15 men stranded on the sacks.

The Lookouts started their evening early in the tilt by pushing a run in their half of the initial chapter. Ruggiero went out and McDanieli worked Stout for a free pass and went to second on a passed ball by Hinderick. Clark went out to short and Brown walked. Young was hit by a pitched ball filling the bases. Lacy got out of second but the ball was lobbed by Fulton allowing McDanieli to score. Alby popped out to third to end the inning.

The Reds overcame the Lookout one-run lead in their half of the first inning when they pushed out seven runs. They counted six hits, one passed ball, two wild pitches, knocked two Sanford pitchers from the mound, one stolen base and three walks for their seven-run lead.

McDanieli gathered another tally in their half of the first when Shimer was credited with an inside hit and ran to second when Alby's throw to first was wild. He went to third on a wild pitch by Hope and scored when McDanieli let Ruggiero's fly ball slip through his fingers. However, the inning was ended when Schmidt was caught at home on an attempted double steal.

Sanford scored three runs to make their total of four in their half of the eighth as Hope worked a single to center. McDanieli walked filling the bases. Clark was safe on a fielder's choice but McDanieli was forced at second. Brown singled to right field to score Ruggiero. Young was out on a fielder's choice leading the bases when Fulton erred on a force play at second. Lacy went out third to first scoring Clark but John Lacy filed out to deep center to end the evening.

Deland scored another in the eighth when Hope walked Ruggiero. Shimer fanned and Ryan walked. Jones grounded to Rodgers who forced Ryan at second. Fulton scored on the play. Schmidt fanned to end the inning.

Judge Landis Is Stern Arbitrator Of Baseball Laxities

By Associated Press
Baseball's Kenesaw Mountain Landis is the original American "sax".

Gruff, staid, stern when he must, dichotomous, the 71-year-old ex-judge has been handing down decisions for 18 years. There are no appeals.

He was named high commissioner of the game in 1921 after the Chicago Cubs' scandalous series scandal. Then a federal judge in Illinois, he was sought by club owners to restore the public's confidence in the game.

He did it, making decisions like those of a stern judge. He barred eight Chicago players after the 1919 episode. He fined Babe Ruth his entire world series money for participating in a barnstorming trip. Recently cracked down on the St. Louis Cardinals for operating a "farm system" illegally.

Landis sometimes found his job tough. Outstanding example was his feud with Ban Johnson, former president of the American league. In 1931 a legal battle to break his dictatorship failed. He came out of another battle with an increased salary. He now gets $100,000 a year.

Landis, who once fined Stand and Oil of Indiana over $29,000,000 was a stern judge, too. And although associates say he really is soft-hearted, he's a tough assignment for reporters. He'll discuss golf, fishing or other subjects—anything but baseball. Now 71, he's still a spy.

Lookouts Will Meet Azaleas In Palatka

Manager Guy Lacy's Sanford Lookouts start a two game series today with the Palatka Azaleas in Azalea Bowl tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

With Gainesville and Orlando tied for the loop lead, Leesburg and Daytona Beach resting on the cellar, Sanford, Palatka, St. Augustine and Deland will be fighting for a berth near the top in games tonight.

The probable lineup for the local nine will be Joe Ruggiero at shortstop, Punch McDanieli in left field, Ray Clark in center field, Win Brown in right field, Babe Young behind the plate, Manager Lacy on first base, Leon Addy on third, Buck Rodgers on second and either Bob Fisher or Lefty Hunzucker on the hill.

IN THE FIELD OF SPORTS

By JULIAN STENSTROM

The Sanford Lookouts last night to Deland evened up the first two game series of the season for the local outfit but though our club went down in defeat, a great deal of new baseball tactics were learned which will enable them to catch down in the future.

The game was filled with many bone-head plays made by both teams. Manager Lacy said last night that he had never witnessed or played in a game where there were so many dumb plays but he said he saw many things that Sanford men will never duplicate.

Experts on the inside angles of baseball including many Sanford fans who traveled to the University City, such as E. J. Perkins, Andy Takach, Roy Parkard, Percy Henry Watson, John McDaniel, Mr. Clair Gamble and J. A. Adams might have had brain storms from this game.

One dumb one we saw was a play with the bases full, a six run lead by the defensive club, and one out. Manager Lacy grounded to third baseman Rutledge who instead of taking advantage of a beautiful double play setup which would have retired the side, threw to first to nab Lacy and let two men advance and allow a runner to cross the platter.

The Sanford men, following their last defeat, were not down hearted as one might think. On the other hand the boys were whumping it up and hurrying down to fill their bread baskets with some vital.

They seemed to realize their mistakes, mistakes and brain busters but were ready to take on Palatka. They know that they are aiming to make that first business.

When the boys meet George Andrews' Palatka Azaleas to meet for their third battle, an entirely different brand of baseball can be expected.

Foot Infection Keeps Mihalic From Playing

The Sanford Lookout forces last night were hampered by the loss of Pete Mihalic, brother of Johnny Mihalic of the Washington Senators, who has been forced to bed with an ailing foot.

Mihalic, centerfielder and an excellent hitter who bats in the third position, played part of the game Sunday afternoon but was forced to leave in the fifth frame because of a small blister on his left foot which had become infected.

Mihalic may not be able to return to fielding duties for a week. Firearms were first used in European warfare in the 14th century.

President Discusses Plan To Aid Private Utilities In Fight On Recession

Hopkins Expects Relief Increase

2 Recommendations Of President Receive Capitol Okey

WASHINGTON, Apr. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, expanding his recovery drive on still another front, discussed with fiscal advisers today how private utilities could be helped to finance new construction and provide jobs.

He took up the question at a White House conference. Just before he did so Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, indicated in testimony to the House Appropriations Committee that he was preparing to increase the relief fund during the first seven months of the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Two of the President's recommendations got action yesterday at the Capitol. The House added $101,000,000 for highway construction.

Fire Threatens Muck Donated For Fort Mellon Park

A crew of city workers supervised by the Fire Department, has been fighting a muck fire since Monday on the D. L. Thrasher property south of Rye Court, the Fire Department, announced today.

This is the tract of land from which 3,000 cubic yards of muck were donated to the city for use on the Fort Mellon Park project on the lake front. The muck has not yet been removed to the park site.

The Fire Department gave no indication as to how the fire might be started.

Efforts are being made by the city crew, aided by the Department, to flood the entire tract of land which covers the better part of two blocks. The department says this is the only way to smother muck fires, which sometimes smolder for days and weeks unless checked.

Firemen believe they will stop the fire before another day has passed.

Japs Win Two Victories In New Offensive

Franco's Forces Make Advances In Spain; France, Italy Will Start Negotiations

Reinforced Japanese armies defeated the Chinese in two battles during the week ending April 17, when the insurgent forces of Generalissimo Francisco Franco made further advances in the northern Spanish city of Sancho, where they drove against the rebel position of the Japanese and they captured the town in southeastern Shanxi Province, where the Chinese admitted losses of 10,000 men.

In Spain negotiations, held in the flooded Ebro River and station government resistance in a campaign against Franco's forces, were reported to have advanced 12 miles along the front and reached the outskirts of Alcala de Cordova.

On the central Catalonia front the insurgent push on Barcelona was still held up but farther to the north insurgents attacked French posts of entry along the border in the Arnan valley region, preventing further escape of rebel government troops and supplies.

In Rome, French and Italian diplomats are reported to be in negotiations for an agreement that Italy and Britain signed last week.

In France, cabinet members and Foreign Minister, Georges Bonnet, outlined the foreign policy of the Daladier government which hopes for better relations with France, the United States and Britain as well as Italy.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. A. Ginn, who was fatally injured Monday night in the auto accident in which she was struck by a truck, will be held tomorrow morning upon the arrival of relatives from the North, the Kiwanis Club home announced shortly before noon today.

The condition of Mrs. A. Ginn, who was injured in the same accident, could not be learned from the Fraternal Lodge Memorial Hospital since she was taken immediately after the wreck occurred. Latest reports, however, said she was progressing "as well as could be expected."
