Deformed fish discovered

MIAMI — Deformed sea creatures, including fin-less fish and crabs with three claws, have been found in significant numbers in Biscayne Bay, and researchers now want to determine the cause.

In some spots, 50 percent of the fish showed deformed or absent fins and other problems, and more than 10 percent of the crabs had deformities.

"There is no question now that there are significant numbers of deformed marine life in Biscayne Bay," said Michael Schmale, chief investigator in the study being conducted by the University of Miami's Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science.

Execution rescheduled

TALLAHASSEE — A July 21 execution date was set for convicted cop-killer Edward Dean Kennedy, who has escaped the electric chair on three previous occasions through court appeals.

Gov. Lawton Chiles signed the fourth death warrant Thursday for Kennedy, 47, after the U.S. Supreme Court this week upheld Kennedy's first-degree murder convictions.

In May, Kennedy came within two hours of execution when the court issued a stay to examine his appeals.

Kennedy was sentenced to die for the 1981 slayings of state Trooper Robert McDermon and Floyd Cone Jr. in Duval County.

Patriotic party-goers can watch a parade, choose a variety of food, games, and music and finish the Fourth of July with bursts of fireworks in Seminole County.

Sanford's festivities will be held in Ft. Mellon Park along Lake Monroe.

An Antique Car Show will begin at noon. Trophies will be presented at 3 p.m.

All afternoon food will be served and festivities will be held in the park. Enjoy pizza, ice cream, cotton candy and popcorn and boiled and roasted peanuts. An arts and crafts exhibit will be set up at Magnolia Mall. Live music by TKO Band will be played. The Jaycees' dunk tank will give everyone the opportunity to "sink the fireworks man."

Geneva's celebration begins with a festive parade at 10 a.m.

Opening ceremony commences at 11:15 a.m. with the program lasting until 3:30 p.m.

Entertainment includes the Old Hickory Stompers, baton twirlers, the Geneva Young People Theater Group, soloist Chery Franklin, Geneva Generation Band, the Bubble Boys Band, Christopher Columbus, a surprise performance by Mr. Kelly and a dunking booth. Kids activities include a sack race and an egg and spoon race.

Choose taste tempting treats such as chili, hotdogs, hamburgers, Italian sausage, french fries, popcorn and cold drinks.

Fun seekers can kick up their heels at a country dance scheduled from 7 p.m. All activities will be held at the community center on First Street. All proceeds will support the "Save Our Bubble" movement.

Longwood veterans invite the public to their post home, 1520 N. Hwy. 427, July 4.

Beginning at 11 a.m. and lasting until the last person decides to leave is the celebration at the Longwood Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8207.

The post is offering tournaments including horseshoes, darts, shuffleboard and cribbage.

Barbecue chicken, potato salad, baked beans and corn on the cob dinners will be served for $3.50 adults, children under 10 free. Italian sausages with peppers and onions will also be available.

The post will top the evening with fireworks. Public is invited. Call 339-8016.

The Winter Springs Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5406 and its Ladies Auxiliary will be holding a Fourth of July bash at the post home, 420 N. Edgemon Ave. from 3 to 6 p.m.

Hamburgers and hotdogs will be served for a very reasonable donation.

Fun for everyone includes shuffleboard, darts, pool and bingo.

Heathrow and Lake Mary residents can gather at the Heathrow Country Club on Independence Day. Fun begins at 1 p.m. and ends at 4 p.m.

Friends and neighbors are welcome to enjoy Roale O'Grady's Good Time Dixieland Trio, carnival booths with great prizes, a dunking booth and hot dogs, hamburgers and all the fixins'. Popcorn will be served for 25 cents, beer for 50 cents and frozen yogurt for 25 cents.

Kids can earn prizes for the best decorated bike and rider. Get your entry form from Karen at the club.

A Goofy Golf Tournament is slated for 9 a.m. Sign up for $20, which includes food, in the Pro Shop.

Cost of the food and festivities in the afternoon is $7. Children under 8 eat and have fun free.

All state, city and county parks will be open for picnics and fresh air.

Power-line proposal irks residents

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Residents of The Crossings residential area near here will study a proposed new powerline route through their community that will string lines along 80- to 115-foot-tall poles.

"We already have massive, rusty-looking power lines through our community; now I guess we'll have two," said Debbie Miner, who leads the Crossing Community Citizens.

Thursday, Florida Power Corp. ended a year-long suspense and submitted an application to state officials for a new high-power line between DeBary and Winter Springs. The 230 kilovolt powerline is needed to boost power availability to the growing south Seminole County area.

If the $13.6 million construction project is approved by the governor and Cabinet by spring of 1993, FPC spokesman Bill Warren said construction would begin shortly afterwards and be complete by 1996.

Miner said the 3C voted recently to oppose the new route. She said the group will order a copy of the route application and decide what actions to take next.

"A lot of our objections have to do with aesthetics," said Miner. "They're placing a 40- to 50-foot (tall) system with two 125- to 150-foot systems. It's somewhat overpowering."

Miner said some citizens are concerned high power lines might lead to medical problems.

The 19-mile path follows existing powerline routes over the St. Johns River and along South Oregon Street west of Interstate 4, to State Road 46, where it crosses and continues south along Rinehart Road to south of Lake Mary Boulevard. There, the route follows an existing power line route already containing a 230-kV line and a 115-kV line that splits The Crossings.

County mulls local road construction

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — County Manager Ron Rabun will ask commissioners to spend nearly $39 million for major road construction projects during the year beginning Oct. 1.

The highway construction effort represents the lion's share of the $56.6 million Rabun has proposed to spend for construction and equipment purchases in 1992-1993.

County commissioners established the furious road construction pace in order to meet state requirements that services should be available "concurrently" with the need for them. In other words, asphalt should be on the ground before the cars are there to drive on it. The state also requires the county to relieve current congestion before allowing growth to contribute new traffic.

The road construction program, which will reach $450 million during the next 10 years, will be paid for with the voter-approved penny sales tax, fees paid by developers and gasoline taxes.

Many of the road projects were begun last year, either in design or land purchases or even construction. Much of the proposed spending is for land needed for the widening projects. When the land is ac-

Zoo to unveil eagle exhibit

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — The Fourth of July will be celebrated tomorrow at the Central Florida Zoological Park with the unveiling of the new American Bald Eagle exhibit.

The day also marks the 17th year the zoo has been located at its present site west of Sanford on U.S. Highway 19-92 near Interstate 4. The zoo had its origins in 1933 with a group of former circus animals that had been given to the Sanford Fire Department. The first zoo was begun in 1942 at a site now housing City Hall.

The new exhibit featuring a pair of eagles will go on display a 10 a.m. at the zoo. The birds were donated by the Florida Audubon Society Madalyn Baldwin Center for Birds of Prey in Maitland, where they have lived since January 1991. The eagles can't fly, so they can't be released to the wild, but zoo officials hope they will breed.

"We are proud to offer permanent residence to this pair of American Bald Eagles at the Central Florida Zoological Park and hope for the possibility of future reproduction," said park director Edward Pose.

Pose said any offspring would be released to the wild. The $14,500 cost of the display was donated by the Seminole County Harley Owners Group, based in Longwood. The American-made Harley-Davidson motorcycle's emblem is the likeness of the bald eagle, which the motorbike fan club adopted for its club insignia.

"It seemed like a natural match, the eagle and their log," said Andrea Farmer, zoo marketing co-

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Loaned gun leads to manslaughter

FORT LAUDERDALE — A man was convicted of manslaughter in his third trial for giving a pistol to a woman who said she wanted to kill herself and did.

Assistant State Attorney Ken Padowitz called the jury verdict "a brave, difficult decision" in the third trial of Jeremy Rushing. The first trial ended in a hung jury. A manslaughter conviction in the second case was erased on appeal.

Rushing, 40, a Hollywood construction contractor, gave his .45-caliber semiautomatic to Joanne Volpe, 38, of Hollywood, outside the Drydock Lounge in Dania on Feb. 10, 1980.

He testified Wednesday that they had been in the bar drinking, but he barely knew her and was unaware of her two previous suicide attempts.

Volpe told Rushing more than once while they were drinking that she wanted to die, but he said he dismissed it as bar talk and the conversation turned casual. The woman later asked to see the gun in his car.

Crocodile moves in FORT LAUDERDALE — The caretakers at the Bonnet House take pride in the many forms of wildlife that roam the historic beachfront preserve, but they're not too enthusiastic about their most recent visitor.

A 6-foot crocodile has taken up residence in a concrete culvert that empties into a small mangrove marsh on the property. It was still there on Thursday as wildlife officials pondered what to do next.

The Bonnet House already has wild Brazilian squirrel monkeys, possums, raccoons and swans that roam the lush grounds.

Cause of death unknown

GAINESVILLE — Medical investigators were unable to determine a cause of death for a mother of four whose skeletal remains were found last month in a pond, according to autopsy results.

The remains had been identified through dental records as those of Judy MacFarlane, 30, who had been missing since mid-January.

"The cause of death is unknown," said Alachua County Sheriff's spokesman Spencer Mann. "This is not because we don't have the best experts here to look at the body. It was simply a matter that the decomposed state of the body decreased the chances of the cause of death being found."

Mann said Thursday the probe will be considered a "death investigation, but we're not ruling out homicide."

Mrs. MacFarlane was last seen picking flowers in the rain after she left a service Jan. 13 at the United Pentecostal Church. She had declined a ride to her home seven blocks away. Her clothing remains were found June 25 by a road crew cutting weeds around the small pond.

Tax hike considered

WEST PALM BEACH — Water managers are considering a tax hike as a down payment on a long-term Everglades restoration strategy that goes far beyond the cleanup plan approved earlier this year.

"I would be willing to raise taxes, and that is a hard thing for a Republican to say," Ken Adams, a South Florida Water Management District governing board member, said at a workshop Wednesday.

The initial outlay of $5 million would amount to less than a 2% tax increase for owners of homes valued at $100,000 — but the restoration plan might eventually cost as much as $1 billion, some environmentalists say.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Rinehart extension opens soon

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The extension of Rinehart Road to State Road 46 may be open by August.

County Engineer Jerry McColium said developers of Seminole Towne Center have indicated they do not plan to add two lanes to the new two-lane road before fall, when they hope to begin construction on their 1.2-million square-foot mall west of the new road.

"If the contractor does what he says he will and wraps things up by the end of this month, there's a good possibility we'll have it open by Aug. 1," said McColium.

Developers of the mall, Melvin Simon and Associates, planned to pay for the additional two lanes during the initial construction to accommodate traffic driving to and from their new shopping center. But the financial downturn in the economy and collapse of one of their partners, American Pioneer, has delayed the construction startup of the mall until this fall or next spring.

Simon officials said last month they'd like to take advantage of construction savings by adding the two lanes this summer, but McColium said company development director Tom Schneider indicated they'll wait until construction on the mall begins.

The $1.5 million Rinehart Road extension from County

This road will have more cars to watch soon as completed. The road is scheduled to open in August.

Road 46-A to S.R. 46 is half of a north Seminole County loop on either side of Interstate 4 to encourage industrial and commercial development and remove some short-trip traffic from the interstate. Land is being bought west of I-4 for the Granite Road half of the loop. Construction on that road is expected to begin by 1986.

Rinehart builders Briar Construction Co. of Lake Monroe are months ahead of the scheduled completion date in mid-December. Construction began in January this year.

"The main reason is we were working right through the woods, so we didn't have to deal with traffic," said Briar vice president Bob Harrell. "In a project like Lake Mary Boulevard, you can only get half the work done because you're dealing with traffic all the time. We hit the project pretty hard in the beginning because we needed the work. We were also able to handle equipment more efficiently because it is nearby."

Russian mother entrusts a mayor with solemn mission

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — A Russian mother has entrusted Gainesville's mayor with a solemn mission: look after her 18-year-old sailor son in this country.

Mayor Tom McKnew met with Ludmila Sinkovitch last week while on a trip to Novorossiysk, Gainesville's sister city in Russia.

Mrs. Sinkovitch tearfully informed McKnew that she wanted her son, Sergei, to know that his 16-year-old brother had been killed in an accident. She said she hoped Sergei would decide to return home. But if he didn't, she wanted McKnew to look after him in the United States.

The mayor agreed to do what he could.

But neither he nor the mother knew that Sergei had left his non-military ship and had requested permission to remain in this country. McKnew was informed of this by immigration officials in Puerto Rico after the mayor's return to Gainesville this week from his Russian trip under the Sister Cities program.

"She had one son who was lost across the ocean and one who had died in an accident," McKnew told The Gainesville Sun on Wednesday. "I promised his mother I would make sure he got a start somewhere."

The mayor was told that Sergei and three of his crew mates were being held in a detention center until their case is resolved within a few months.

McKnew decided not to tell Sergei about the death of his 16-year-old brother over the telephone and through translators. He said he would keep an eye on the case and take up a collection for bail money for Sergei and his friends if it becomes necessary.

"They're clearly being taken care of," McKnew said. "It's not really like they're in jail."

Tallahassee — It's not clear in Florida law just when a parent is guilty of child abuse if conventional medical treatment is refused children for religious reasons, the state Supreme Court ruled.

In another decision Thursday, the court publicly reprimanded Circuit Judge John E. Santora Jr. of Jacksonville for racial comments he made in a newspaper interview last December.

The court unanimously set aside the child-abuse convictions of William and Christine Hermanson, formerly of Sarasota, over the August 1980 death of their 7-year-old daughter, Amy.

"We conclude that the Legislature has failed to clearly indicate the point at which a parent's reliance on religious beliefs in the treatment of children becomes criminal conduct," wrote Justice Ben Overton.

The Hermansons, who are Christian Scientists, were convicted of failing to provide conventional medical treatment for their daughter, who died from juvenile diabetes.

They believed the church's own health "practitioners" would be able to heal Amy and that a Florida law similar to that in 42 other states allowed such faith healing.

But prosecutors obtained convictions on child abuse and third-degree murder in Amy's death.

Chiles: Budget defeats weapons in legislative races

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Defeats in the Capitol budget fight will be transformed into weapons on the legislative campaign trail, Gov. Lawton Chiles and his supporters have warned.

"With your help we're going to do everything in our power to put a clear choice before these legislative candidates and before the people that will be voting," Chiles told advocates for children and the mentally ill, environmentalists, and representatives of public school teachers and college students.

Chiles and Lt. Gov. Buddy Mackay, whose offices aren't up for re-election this fall, said they'll distribute the data to make their case about the inadequacies of the state budget. Lawmakers approved less than half the additional spending Chiles wanted.

"What we've got to do is take the next 120 days and get the information for every city and every county and every school board and show what it did to them," Mackay said.

The next step, he said, is to go to the candidates and get them to commit to where they stand.

"If we hang together, we can deliver the votes to the right people," he said, noting that legislators' votes on Chiles' defeated tax reform and lottery proposals were recorded "on the board" rather than lost in voice votes.

The governor met with his coalition of supporters Thursday, a day after signing a $31.5 billion budget on the first day of the fiscal year. Chiles, who twice vetoed no-new-tax budgets, had been seeking $1.3 billion in new spending but settled for $560 million.

Federal matching funds and a tuition hike made up $186 million of that total and the rest comes from a variety of taxes, fees and fund shifts.

Lawmakers met some critical needs but didn't do enough to provide other important services or reform the state's tax structure, Chiles said Thursday.

The governor urged the coalition of various interests supporting him to take the battle into neighborhoods where legislative candidates will be campaigning.

Melinda Piller, a teachers' union lobbyist, said the Florida Education Association would be getting legislative voting information out before the elections.

"I want you all to know that we are going to live on the road for the next 90 days," she said.

"We intend to change the face of the Senate."

Earlier Thursday, Education Commissioner Betty Castor said the growth in new students was funded in the budget passed by lawmakers and that most — but not all — of a potential 6,000 teacher layoffs had been avoided.

"I think the erosion has stopped," she said, adding, however, that schools would be asked to do more with less.

The funding level, an average of $3,094.56 per student, is down slightly from the current level of $3,096.54.

seat to Rep. George Albright, R-Ocala.

SANFORD — State legislative candidate Ronni Collins of Mt. Dora said she will establish a west-district campaign office near the Seminole-Volusia County border to learn more about the area.

Collins, a Democrat, is seeking the proposed House District 25, which includes portions of Marion, Lake, Seminole and Volusia Counties. It is an expansion of the former House District 27, now represented by Rep. Stan Bainter, R-Eustis. Bainter has announced plans to seek re-election. Also seeking the

In Seminole County, District 25 includes the area west of Interstate 4 between the St. Johns River and State Road 434 and Wehwa Springs Road. East of I-4, the district is bounded by County Road 48-A, Upsala Road, the Atlantic Coast Line railroad tracks, Perissimon Avenue, Terwilliger Lane and U.S. Highway 17-92 along Lake Monroe to I-4.

According to information provided by Collins, she has owned and operated several businesses during the past 20 years, including an advertising agency and a real estate firm.

Collins said she needs to increase her familiarity with Seminole County, but knows that transportation issues are important here.

"I want to become more acquainted with problems in that area," said Collins Wednesday. "Transportation, I know, is a big one so that's one I'll be looking at."

Collins said if elected, she would seek a review of many state programs that now escape legislative scrutiny. Many state departments and major programs are "sunsetting" periodically to allow the Legislature to consider continuing them.

Domestic violence charged

Sanford police arrested Mike David Phillips, 2530 Apt. B, Hartwell Ave., in Sanford on Tuesday. He was charged with domestic violence, following a dispute with an unidentified female, near his residence.

Aggravated assault charged

Kimery Andrea Hardy, 23, 807 Cedar Creek Circle, Sanford, was charged with aggravated assault and resisting arrest by Altamonte Springs police Wednesday morning.

According to witnesses, Hardy drove alongside an Altamonte Springs city truck on State Road 438 Wednesday morning, yelling at her husband who was in the truck. The vehicles parked in the lot of a restaurant and witnesses said Hardy got out of her car and began arguing with her husband. Witnesses reported Hardy tried to strike her husband with his radio and smashed the windshield of her car with a pair of hedge clippers.

Struggle with officer leads to arrest

Emory G. Griffo, 53, 401 Katie St., Sanford, was charged with battery on a law enforcement officer early Thursday morning.

A Seminole County deputy said when he arrived at the scene of reported fight, Griffo shoved him. While the deputy was trying to arrest him, a struggle ensued, reports state.

Woman charged with auto burglary

A Sanford woman was charged with automobile burglary by Sanford police early Thursday morning.

Police report seeing a man and a woman in the parking lot of Sullivan's Auto, 190 Perissimon Ave., at about 1:45 a.m. The man ran and woman walked away but was apprehended nearby. Reports state a battery had been removed from a Cadillac in the lot that had been forced open. The lot owner also reported the the auto's radiator had been partially removed.

Charged was Tammy Peterson, 26, 1212 W. 13th St. After he arrest, Peterson was also served with a warrant, charging her with failure to appear at a hearing to answer to a trespassing charge.

Park incident brings charges

Randall James Stanfill, 20, Covilla Apartments, Apt. 2, Sanford, was charged with aggravated battery by Sanford police Wednesday.

A man told police a man, later identified as Stanfill, struck him in the face with a bottle while he was in Park on Park June 13. The victim had a portion of his nose cut off and required stitches, according to reports. In a statement, Stanfill told police he thought the man was trying to abduct a child at the South Park Avenue park.

Armed burglary charged

Ryan Lamar Stone, 20, 508 Myrtle Ave., Sanford, was charged with armed burglary, theft and alteration of serial numbers on a firearm by Sanford police.

Stone's former roommate told police his vehicle was burglarized as he was moving out of the residence on June 17. Stone was identified after an investigation. Police found the serial numbers on the weapon had been removed, but the victim identified it as his.

Warrant arrests made

The following wanted persons have been taken into custody:

• John Lee Shepherd, 22, 631 Palmetto Ave., Longwood, was served a warrant at the Seminole County Courthouse Tuesday. He was wanted on a warrant charging him with burglary to a dwelling.

• Lexis Lorenzo Martin, 39, 2324 Water Street, Sanford, was transferred to Seminole County from the Orange County Jail Tuesday. Martin was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of retail theft.

• Adria Shanell Taylor, 24, 94 Shenandoah Village, Sanford, turned herself in to deputies at her home Tuesday. She was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of battery to a pregnant woman.

• Darren Eugene Holden, 807 8th Street, Sanford, was served a warrant charging him with battery, at the John E. Polk Correctional facility Tuesday.

• Chester Lee Howard, 22, 5065 Wilson Rd., Sanford, was transferred to Sanford from Thomasville, Ga., Tuesday. He was wanted on a Seminole County warrant for violation of parole on a conviction of grand theft, 3rd degree.

• Vincent McGriff, 28, Route 2, Box 3, Sanford, was served with a warrant Wednesday at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, where he was being held on a prior arrest. McGriff was wanted for violating the terms of his probation for a conviction on charges of possession of burglary tools and petit theft.

• Denise Ann Humke, 34, 112 Autumn Drive, Longwood, was served with an Orange County warrant at her home Wednesday morning. Humke was wanted for violating the terms of her probation for a battery on a law enforcement officer conviction.

Incidents reported to officials

The following incidents have been reported to Seminole County deputies and Sanford police:

• $1,550 in jewelry was reported taken from a residence in the 800 block of Brookfield Loop near Lake Mary sometime between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Wednesday.

• $900 in jewelry was reported taken from a residence in the 300 block of Lake Breeze Circle near Lake Mary sometime between 11:30 a.m. and 5:05 p.m. Wednesday.

Family settles for $350,000 in dental death of daughter

Associated Press

SANFORD The family of an 8-year-old who died in a dentist's chair has received a $350,000 settlement from the dentist's insurance company.

Altamonte Springs dentist Dwight Barron pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the death of Jenny Crenshaw in August 1989. He was sentenced to house arrest and probation, and the state stripped him of his dentist's license.

Medical experts said Barron gave his patient a lethal dose of anesthesia and medication. Barron contended that the death was due to an allergic reaction.

Scott and Barbara Crenshaw sued Barron for malpractice, but the dentist decided not to go to trial, limiting the amount the Crenshaws could collect under the law to $350,000.

The Crenshaws are arguing that the law is unconstitutional and asking that it be overturned, lifting the limit on medical malpractice awards.

LAKE MARY — The City Commission meeting, which would have been scheduled for the first Thursday, July 2, was cancelled. A special commission meeting to address personnel problems and two criminal investigations within the city has been called by Mayor Randy Morris on Monday, July 6. The City Hall will be closed for the Independence Day holiday on Friday.

A special called meeting of the City Commission has been scheduled for July 23. City Finance Director Robert Lockridge explained, "We planned that meeting to set the tentative millage and rollback rate for the fiscal 1992-93 budget year."

Clinton's stance

Throughout the presidential campaign, Bill Clinton has worked to portray himself as a fresh alternative to the reflexive liberal policies of past Democratic nominees. But there is nothing novel about the four-year economic blueprint he unveiled.

With a few exceptions, Clinton's strategy is, in fact, a recitation of the traditional Democratic approach to government and the economy. That means he places heavy emphasis on higher taxes and higher spending, and gives priority to government investment and public works jobs over free market investment and private sector jobs.

Not surprisingly, his plan for bigger government would relegate the federal deficit to a back seat concern in his administration.

During the primaries, Clinton pledged to balance the budget within four years. His latest proposal settles for a reduction in the deficit of only $150 billion over four years.

The projected $150 billion cut in the deficit would be matched by a $150 billion tax increase. Wealthy individuals would pay $60 billion in new income taxes, including higher personal rates and a surtax on the very rich; corporations would pay $60 billion in higher levies. Meanwhile, the Democratic candidate has abandoned the 10 percent income tax cut for middle-class families that he proposed early in the primary campaign.

The centerpiece of his game plan is $200 billion in new government spending.

The political appeal of his big spending programs is that they would create millions of jobs on public works projects, such as rebuilding roads, bridges, and other infrastructure. For example, Clinton would commit federal dollars to create a high-speed rail network between America's major cities and develop a "national information network to link every home, business, lab, classroom and library by the year 2015." In addition, he would establish a National Police Corps to transform 100,000 veterans and active military personnel into cops.

Clinton's strategy also calls for an increased government role in the marketplace. He would require companies that bid on federal projects to locate part of their operations in low-income neighborhoods and hire local workers. He would eliminate tax deductions for "outrageous" executive pay and "require every employer to spend 1.5 percent of payroll for continuing education and training, and make them provide the training to all workers."

In short, Clinton's economic program closely tracks conventional Democratic policies. But at least voters have a clear idea now precisely where he stands. They have a right to expect the same degree of specificity from George Bush and Ross Perot.

Freedom works

On Independence Day we celebrate America's freedom from her colonial masters.

In the past two centuries America has emerged as the world's greatest advocate of human rights and democracy. This has made a strong impact upon the world's changing political climate. In recent years the winds of freedom have been blowing across Europe. Communism has become bankrupt. The "Iron Curtain" has been shattered.

America has set the example that "Freedom Works," but it takes time, patience, hard work and a willingness to accept diversity, recognize mistakes, and move ahead to new frontiers of sharing human rights and liberties with multiple religious, racial, ethnic, political and economic backgrounds. We are still working out some of the details.

Freedom Works! Many look to the American example and seek to adapt it to their own circumstances. The job is not yet complete. There's still a long way to go. The fruits of liberty do not come overnight.

Freedom Works! - If given half a chance, Eastern Europe, China, the Middle East - have patience, have understanding. Remember America has been at the job for two centuries, and still working to make it more complete for her minorities. The winds of freedom cannot be stopped. Eventually they will sweep with tornadoic force across the Chinese plains, the Middle East deserts, the Cuban sugar fields. China will be free. Cuba will be free. The Balkans will be free.

Freedom Works! Yes, but the people involved must give themselves completely to making it work. Freedom is not a monopoly for a privileged few, but involves a wholesale sharing of equal rights and opportunities for "all" peoples. Then freedom works for everyone.

Is there a right to burn society?

Burn, baby, burn.

The question follows: burn what? The American flag in public? A Ku Klux Klan cross? The Supreme Court permits both, ruling that both are protected by the freedom of speech clause in the First Amendment.

The constitutionally arrogant decision a few days ago upheld the right to burn a cross, even though such a threatening action could well be considered what Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes called "a clear and present danger."

But the court insisted that the right to exercise one's freedom of expression could not be based on the value of the speech. By the Supreme Court's reasoning, Ku Klux Klansmen and their supporters have as much right to call for the extermination of all black people as rap singer Sister Souljah has to call for a week where blacks would only kill whites.

I was uncomfortable with the court's unanimous ruling, because this is not a court committed to the protection of civil rights or civil liberties. And there's a good reason why it's not.

As Finley Peter Dunne's sagacious wit, Mr. Dooley, accurately observed: "No matter whether th' constitution follows th' flag or not, th' supreme court follows th' fiction return."

And that's exactly what this Rehnquist court did. Both Reagan and Bush have made a point of choosing judicial ideologues who would reverse the judicial activism tradition that was established by the liberal Warren court.

So, when the Supreme Court's most reactionary justice, Antonin Scalia, writes a majority opinion that is unanimously supported by the other eight, I feel very nervous.

An American flag burned in a public place threatens nobody. It may anger and incite, but nobody within the area of the symbolical incineration is physically threatened. On the other hand, the burning of a KKK cross on a black family's private lawn, which is what happened in the case the Supreme Court considered, is clearly an act announcing the intent to harm.

An American flag burned in a public place threatens nobody.

Most Americans don't accept the Supreme Court's blithe nonsense that all incinerations are equal under the First Amendment, especially where the incendiary rap videos of Sister Souljah and Ice-T are concerned.

In fact, a growing number of Americans are beginning to feel that the expression of ideas that cause a person or a group to feel physically threatened should have some constraint.

The trouble with that position is that it places a higher value on consensual speech (which won't incite any fear in anyone) over calls for radical change.

But when hate-mongers freely exercise their right to spew venom, shouldn't the courts take judicial notice of the cause-and-effect reactions to such speech?

One of the two intellectual fathers of uncensored freedom of speech, John Stuart Mill, authoritatively answered that question: "Even opinions lose their immunity when the circumstances in which they are expressed are such as to constitute their expression as a positive incitation to some mischievous act."

Justice John Paul Stevens took essentially the same position in his concurring opinion to Justice Scalia's: "One need look no further than the recent social unrest in the nation's cities to see that race-based threats cause more harm to society and to individuals than other threats."

Army brass fade then make money

WASHINGTON - If Gen. Douglas MacArthur were alive today, it's likely he would be represented by a lecture agent who would have advised him against making the "old soldiers never die, they just fade away" farewell address to Congress.

In the modern era of $1 million book advances and six-figure speaking fees, MacArthur might have been in danger of what agents call "overexposing."

Earlier this year, retired Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf turned down a $60,000 offer for a speech in San Francisco, partly because his agent, Marvin Josephson, is trying to keep the demand for Schwarzkopf high by not over-exposing him. Besides, Schwarzkopf was going to be in Los Angeles the previous week and he didn't want to speak in California twice in the span of one week.

By contrast, MacArthur started his new job at Remington Rand in 1952 with a salary of $45,000 a year. MacArthur apparently didn't live long enough to enjoy the spoils of victory in the media age.

On this July 4 weekend, two stars of the Persian Gulf War have parlayed their fame on the battlefield into lucrative careers on the lecture circuit, commanding nearly as much money per speech as they once did - per year - commanding troops and briefing reporters. In this celebrity-driven culture, even generals have groupies.

Stormin' Norman wowed audiences during the tenebrous hours of Desert Storm with a brilliant brew of bravado and witty banter. His counterpart back home, Lt. Gen. Thomas Kelly, who became another household face during Desert Storm briefings, is telling friends that he just topped the $1 million mark in earnings on the speakers' circuit. He commands $30,000 an appearance.

Kelly's TV sidekick, Vice Admiral John M. McConnell, has not been so prosperous. McConnell was the Navy's soft-spoken briefer, outshined by the Army's gregarious and grandfatherly Kelly. After the war, McConnell was named director of the National Security Agency. Since he's still in the military, he's not allowed to charge money for speeches.

McConnell addressed the graduating class of the Defense Intelligence College near Washington recently (free of charge) and began by telling the audience about Kelly's good fortune. Then he quipped, "You get what you pay for."

Just over a year ago, Kelly was fighting back tears in the Pentagon's Hall of Heroes as he bid farewell to his friends. "Coming to the end of the trail is a bummer," Kelly said. "But we all have to go through it."

Close friends, including Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reveled in roasting the once-obscure Kelly. "We weren't sure that he would be able to fit us in," cracked Powell. "And, Mr. Secretary (Dick Cheney), I want you to know we got the government rate - it's only going to cost us $10,000."

Schwarzkopf, who was ubiquitous during the war, is now close to invisible by the design of his agent. He has a special arrangement banning the media from attending any of his speeches, presumably to sustain interest for his book, which netted him a reported $5 million advance.

Sources told us that Schwarzkopf earlier this year at a conference with other high-profile speakers, demanded that the press leave during his $80,000 speech - even if they were present to cover other proceedings of the day.

Stormin' Norman wowed audiences during the tenebrous hours of Desert Storm.

Political motivation?

Is it just me or has anyone else noticed that anytime a negative statement is made about the Seminole County Sheriff's Department the standard response is "it's politically motivated." No other explanation is given.

It has become increasingly apparent that the current Sheriff of Seminole County is so arrogant that he believes that the public deserves no further explanation.

Florida Department of Law Enforcement and Seminole County grand juries have conducted two investigations into activities of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department conduct in less than two years. One report has been sealed and has yet to be revealed to the public. Whose political motivation was behind having that report sealed? The most recent report states that they found instances of use of unnecessary force but because of fading memories (if my job were on the line my memory would be fuzzy too) they could not confirm these allegations. Several Seminole County deputies were willing to put, not just their jobs, but their careers on the line and attempt to let the public know that there are some serious problems within the Sheriff's Department - yet the Grand Jury felt they had waited too long to come forward. It is a sad statement to the public that the system fails to work if you wait too long to right a wrong. Next time a murder is committed and a key witness fails to come forward in a timely manner, because of fear of retaliation, will a murderer go free?

The most recent Grand Jury investigation could perhaps be labeled as "politically motivated" but certainly not in the context the administration of Seminole County Sheriff's Department would like the public to believe; that of "dirty politics." The political motivation was to inform the voting public that something is amiss - who would know better than employees.

If the Sheriff's administration wishes to use the term "political motivation" so frequently, I say, use it when appropriate.

In this case the "only" appropriate time would be when Seminole County voters chose another candidate to be their sheriff; then you can say that it was "politically motivated."

Expressway is good idea

Hoo Ray for the Expressway! I don't understand why a few residents in Hidden Lakes Subdivision believe that stopping the Seminole County Expressway at 17-92 is a good idea. The expressway is the best way to correct some of our transportation problems in Seminole County. Our roads are antiquated and lend themselves to danger because of the increasing use. We can't stop the clock and believe that progress will not include us as time passes. Property values in Hidden Lakes will not deflate. Hidden Lakes will become a more desirable location for prospective home buyers considering its close proximity to a state of the art link to surrounding communities. The Seminole County Expressway will open the door to many new and exciting possibilities as people bring in new money to develop profitable businesses and provide jobs for people who need them. The environment will not suffer. Experience tells us that the environment has a great capacity to accommodate change. I hope that the few residents in Hidden Lakes who are resisting change will consider the possibilities that are becoming reality as progress in Seminole County continues.

Why negative publicity?

With respected people from the community, such as a podiatrist and a veterinarian, on the Board of Directors of the Humane Society of Seminole County who "volunteer" for the benefit of the "animals"...why the continuously negative publicity from the same people?

What are "they" doing for the "animals"? Statistics have proven that since Diane Albers became director, the Society has done a tremendous job of nurturing and rehabilitating injured, abused, neglected and unwanted animals into loving pets for hundreds of adoptive families, rather than resorting to euthanasia!

So, what is these critics' problem? Virginia M. Markland

County manager incenses

I read with interest your article on county license fees and their increase. I was especially incensed by the quote by Mr. Rabun that, "It costs us more to administer them than we collect." What's wrong with this picture? How long has this been going on? Why don't they discontinue a program that costs money to administer? Private enterprise would. Also, does this office exist only to give people jobs and not to license businesses, especially those in a city that are licensed and regulated by that city. If this is the case, why does the occupational license office exist at all?

quired the county will begin construction. A local road construction project that may be begun during the next year is the widening of Sanford Avenue from Airport Boulevard to Lake Mary Boulevard to four lanes. About $1.3 million will be appropriated for land purchases and $3.6 million for construction, now scheduled to begin in May 1983.

The county will also begin buying land along most of County Road 427 between Altamonte Springs and Sanford to allow for widening the road to four and six lanes in sections. Nearly $6 million will be appropriated this year for the purchases. The entire project is expected to take 10 years to complete.

Another $560,000 has been included in the budget to design the widening of County Road 46-A between Orange Avenue west of Interstate 4 and Country Club Road east of I-4.

Another $6 million is being included to buy land for the widening of Lake Mary Boulevard between Country Club Road to U.S. Highway 17-92, completing the project to add two lanes to the busy road. The land costs are $5 million more than anticipated.

Among other expenditures planned for the next fiscal year, Rabun has proposed spending $584,066 for county libraries. Of that amount, $157,220 will be used to buy new books to assure every resident has at least one book available at a local library. That amount will be paid from the county's new library impact fee on new residential construction. The remainder will be used to replace books and increase the number of subscriptions. The budget also includes $1.5 million to continue the efforts to improve county drainage. Much of the money is for studies and land acquisition. No construction will be done under the program during the next year.

Foreign players in soccer tournament find help here

By NICK PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

Extra participants in international soccer competition in Seminole County will rest easy tonight. The unexpected arrival of additional youth players provided a problem in housing.

Although 53 players, mostly from Kiev in the Ukraine and Moscow in Russia, arrived in the Seminole County area earlier this week, Seminole Soccer Club Treasurer Karl Willard explained, "We suddenly found that an unexpected 23 more flew in to Miami at 2:30 this morning."

Willard explained, "We had arrangements made for the first group, but we did not expect this additional group of players, and had no plans for their housing."

"He added, "It was a difficult situation, but thanks to the cooperation of the local families of soccer players, we will be able to put them up."

The group already on hand consists of five sponsors, a small group of coaches, interpreters and doctors, and approximately 40 members of the soccer team between the ages of 11 and 16. The additional group is believed to be mostly teenage players.

"We sent a bus donated by

Christmas in Action, to pick them up in Miami today and bring them back here," Willard said, and by the time they arrive, I believe we will have all of their housing arranged."

The youth team will be competing in the Firecracker Soccer Tournament being held at the Seminole Soccer field, 7390 Lake Marham Road, just south of Lake Sylvan Park, west of Sanford.

Barry Taylor, who had coordinated the events for the past 2 1/2 years explained, "The Tourist Development Council allocated $107,000 to us for the third consecutive year, to handle promotion, housing, and all other aspects of bringing these overseas players into the local area."

Taylor continued, "This year however, with a change in operations, arrangements apparently got confusing with the first group of Russian players."

Following what Taylor called "a great deal of pulling strings," the players were placed in private homes of Soccer Club members around the Seminole County area, and the staff and coaches were allowed to stay at the Altamonte Springs Hilton.

"The local people have to supply the visitors with meals as well as lodging," Taylor explained. "It was a very difficult situation for awhile, but everything was worked out, thanks to Jack Wort of the Development Council, who really did an outstanding last-minute job in finding lodging for these people."

Most of the arrangements for the housing and food for the unexpected 23 arrivals this morning were expected to be completed by mid afternoon today.

The soccer teams will be playing against teams from various states, as well as a team which arrived earlier from Denmark. The games continue through Sunday, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., with playoffs on Monday, at a time still to be determined.

Admission is free for spectators.

Lines

Warren said the new 230-kV line would replace the existing 230-kV line on higher poles that will be spaced up to 1,000 feet apart from each other.

South of The Crossings, the powerline path continues along an existing route eastward to Winter Springs.

Warren said the route was selected from several options because it followed existing powerline routes and roadways.

"Whenever we do one of these things, we always attempt to go, where possible, along existing routes," said Warren. "The impacts to residents played a major factor. Our leading decision were impacts to population, environmental impacts and where ever we can, use existing right of way."

Lake Mary criminal cases hampered

By NICK PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary may ask for guidance to resolve disputes connected with two criminal investigations. Mayor Remy Morris plans to request the move Monday night. Public Safety Director Charles Lauderdale however, disagrees with the need to call in outside agencies. "On one of the two cases," he said, The Florida Department of Law Enforcement has been and still is working with us on it, so I don't see a need for them to be asked to step in."

"The other case," Lauderdale said, "Involves one of my officers, accused of possible police brutality in an arrest made in 1980," Lauderdale commented, "This is one of the points of disagreement I have written about and submitted to City Manager Litton." Lauderdale submitted a five page list of grievances against Litton last week, and has requested a hearing on the matter.

Morris commented, "Both of the investigations, two separate incidents, have had some accusations and disagreements." He has informed the Commissioners that there are "...potential conflicts or problems in their investigation of which some facts are in dispute."

Morris commented that he does not plan to turn the cases over for higher authority investigation, but to ask for guidance or suggestions on how to possibly resolve the problems connected with conflicts in the investigations. "This is a situation where there is a disagreement between agencies involved in an investigation," he said. "City Attorney Ned Julian has suggested the cases be turned over to either the FBI, Florida Department of Law Enforcement, or the Department of Justice to resolve conflicting matters."

"This was the original intent of calling for Monday night's special meeting of the City Commission," he said. Morris added, "We decided on this even before the second matter, the continuing conflict between city department heads, came up."

"Regardless of the other matters," Morris said, "the investigation problems are serious and require action by the City Commission."

One of the cases occurred on July 26, 1980. It involves a complaint from the NAACP regarding police brutality during the arrest of Anton Lamar Sanders and Raymond Ashley. Records show that the two men, in a car, were pursued from within the City of Lake Mary, Fla., Sanford, where they stopped at Fresh Ave. and 22nd Street.

The other case to be discussed involves an unresolved homicide in Lake Mary. Lauderdale commented, "The FDLE has urged us not to identify this case because of the nature of the investigation that is still in progress."

Morris commented, "We are not going to mention any details in this case at the meeting Monday night. It will only be referred to by case number."

Monday night's meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers of the Lake Mary City Hall.

Schools weigh re-hiring some teachers

By NICK PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Some teachers may be re-hired by the Seminole County School Board. Money from the State budget may allow for a few to return to their jobs.

In approving the State budget, the legislature placed a freeze on salaries for elected school board members. The possibility of bringing back some 6,000 teachers fired statewide however, will be up to individual school boards.

Seminole County dropped approximately 100 teachers at the conclusion of this past term, in a budget cutback.

Acting School Superintendent Richard Wells said, "When the teachers had to be let go last year, it was part of a $12 million trimming we had to do on our budget." He continued, "Now the Legislature has allocated $4 million to us, which is more than we had expected, so there is a possibility that some teachers could be rehired."

Wells could not estimate how many teachers might be called back, or even if the numbers could be large or small. "This is something that will now have to be decided by the School Board," he said.

"One thing that we will be giving serious consideration to," he commented, "is lowering the teacher to pupil ration that we had to increase this past year, which will help the teachers we have in the system."

Regarding the possibility of any raises for present teachers, Wells said, "While there is a very remote possibility, there just isn't enough money available and I don't see how we could do that this year."

Wells is relinquishing his post to Dr. Paul Hagerty, who will be taking over as Seminole County School Superintendent beginning Monday. "We'll be working closely with him," Wells said, "in determining exactly how the money may be used."

While many Board members were unavailable for comment because of the four day holiday that began yesterday, one member was in favor of trying to bring back as many teachers as possible.

Board member Joe Williams Jr., commented, "I think this money should definitely be used to reinstate the displaced teachers we had to cut back on last year."

Phase-3 gives hope for future traffic

By MARK POMPANO
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Seminole County plans to widen C.R. 427 in the downtown Longwood area. The project has drawn objections, but officials believe it will do much to alleviate the heavy flow of traffic on that highway through the downtown area.

The area to be widened runs from S.R. 434 in the center of Longwood, north to approximately the junction with Longwood-Lake Mary Road, a distance of about two miles.

During peak traffic periods in both right and left turn lanes at the C.R. 427 and S.R. 434 junction, vehicles sometimes wait for two or three light changes before being able to cross the intersection.

Frank Van Pelt is heading up the project for the county. He is listed as the county project engineer in charge of production. "The latest statistics on traffic shows 23,747 vehicles traveling the area we plan to widen at the present time," he said. "This is up by over 2,800 per day from last year, and it's growing fast."

The county engineering department has labeled the project in the downtown Longwood area as Phase-3. Future Seminole County construction plans call for the eventual widening of C.R. 427 to Highway 17-92. Engineers report those plans are still in the development stage. A portion of C.R. 427 in the downtown area is four lanes for a short distance at the present time, but quickly narrows to two lanes within approximately a half mile, with an occasional third lane for turns.

Van Pelt estimated, "Even a six lane highway is only supposed to handle 48,000 per day, and Longwood is fast approaching that level."

"One thing this will not help resolve is the congestion on S.R. 434," according to Van Pelt. "We hope we can convince the state to get involved in a widening project they have often discussed, but not yet arranged for in that area. Then, we will have a good traffic flow through that intersection."

The County is presently starting work on obtaining sufficient right of way along the highway to allow for an eventual addition of several more lanes to make the highway six lanes.

Van Pelt said the actual construction project for Phase-3 is slated to begin in mid 1994, with a completion date estimated to be in about 18 months. The additional widening of the artery to six lanes is not scheduled to begin until possibly 1996.

The major problem in the widening is the possible loss of businesses along the area. Longwood City Manager Jim McFellin said, "With the number that may have to move, plus the number that may have to turn over some frontal property, there are about 30 businesses involved."

"But we certainly don't want to lose those businesses, and for those who have to move, we hope they will be able to find adequate facilities elsewhere in Longwood," he said.

McFellin had not been hired at the time the project first surfaced near the beginning of the year. "I know there have been many public hearings in which many people, mostly business owners and operators, voiced strenuous objections to the widening," he said. "While I feel certain there are many who are angry about this and may be for sometime, when it's all done, I hope the widened highway can prove to be a benefit to all of us."

'American Dream' poll finds charitable mood

By HOWARD GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Given "all the money in the world" to fulfill their "wildest dream" charity would be a leading priority for Americans, a poll found.

The national poll of 1,296 adults by the Roper Organization was sponsored by Shearson Lehman Brothers, which said it wanted to know how people define the American Dream.

The investment banking company released the survey today to coincide with the July 4 weekend.

Sixteen percent of those polled said they have already achieved the American dream, as they define it. Six in 10 said their parents achieved, or will achieve the American dream. More than seven in 10 said that attaining the American dream is harder now than it was a generation ago.

Given unlimited money, 27 percent said they would give to charity first, more than would travel (22 percent) or help their families (19 percent, not including the 7 percent who would save for their children's education). Just 3 percent would quit their jobs or retire.

Most of the remaining responses were scattered among various types of spending, such as buying a house or other real estate (19 percent), a car (6 percent) and paying bills (11 percent).

Many Americans in the poll taken in April rated money and power as unimportant to their American dream. Three in four said being prominent or famous is unimportant. Half said having power and influence is unimportant.

Three in four said it was very important for them to own a home and have enough money to send children to the college of their choice. But just 12 percent said being wealthy was very important, and 46 percent said it was unimportant — a figure that increased to a majority among those age 55 and older.

Ninety-three percent said being able to contribute liberally to charity was important to their American dream. The number who said being able to donate was "very important" was 41 percent overall, and 49 percent in the $100,000-plus category.

"When most of us think about the '80s we conjure up notions of indulgence and excess," said Joe Plumeri, president of the retail division of Shearson Lehman Brothers. "The findings of this study indicate the focus is on traditional values and charity."

In 1991, giving to charitable causes in the United States by individuals totaled $103.13 billion, up 5.76 percent from the previous year, according to the American Association of Fund-Raising Council Trust for Philanthropy.

Most polls reported in the media do not break out figures for the high-income category because too few people are included. But given Shearson's interest in that market, Roper included 207 high-income respondents, to take a closer look at their responses before adjusting them back into proper proportion in a nationally representative sample.

Interest rates cut once again

By DAVE BRIDGES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The dramatic reduction in interest rates by the Federal Reserve will help stimulate economic activity a bit, but economists say it won't work any miracles before the election.

The cut in the discount rate ordered Thursday may persuade a few more businesses and consumers to borrow and spend, but it is unlikely to produce the kind of economic growth needed to put large numbers of people back to work, they said.

"I don't think it's going to be all that effective. After all, the Federal Reserve has been cutting interest rates for the better part of three years now and those cuts have not really sparked a significant economic revival," said economist Norman Robertson of Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh.

The central bank announced the rate cut less than an hour after the Labor Department reported a surprising surge in the unemployment rate to an eight-year high of 7.5 percent in June. The figure is up from 7.5 percent in May and 7.2 percent in April.

The nation's biggest banks followed the announcement of the new discount rate — down by a half percentage point to 3 percent, the lowest in 29 years — by slashing their prime rate a half percentage point to 6 percent.

A variety of rates charged on consumer loans, from adjustable-rate mortgages to auto loans, were expected to decline as well.

President Bush, amidst a tough re-election fight, said the cut "would be stimulative and would be very well received ... by ... particularly small businesses." He had been publicly urging the Fed to act for more than a week.

However, economists say the president may be expecting too much. Most are predicting a modest improvement in the unemployment rate by the election, but say the rate probably won't move below 7 percent.

The problem, in economists' jargon, is that the Federal Reserve is pushing on a string. It is pumping money into the nation's financial system and making it cheaper to borrow. But so far, banks have had trouble finding borrowers at any price.

Jobless aid extension approved by Congress

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress reacted to news of the highest jobless rate in eight years by swiftly completing a measure providing up to a half-year of extra unemployment benefits for 1.5 million Americans.

Lawmakers sped the measure to President Bush Thursday in a span of activity that also saw the House approve a package of tax breaks and spending for economically ailing cities and rural areas. The House and Senate then left town for their Fourth of July recess.

Following word that last month's unemployment rate hit an unexpectedly high 7.8 percent, Bush abandoned veto threats against earlier versions of the jobless benefits bill and said he would sign it "as soon as it reaches my desk."

United States military joins Sarajevo airlift

By TERRY LEONARD
Associated Press Writer

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — The U.S. military today joined an international airlift into Sarajevo as U.N. peacekeepers dug in to secure the airport for relief flights to the embattled and hungry capital.

A U.N. official in Zagreb, Croatia, said early today that the airport was quiet late Thursday, as Serb forces stayed away from the facility they had closed down for 87 days in their war on newly independent Bosnia.

Two U.S. Air Force C-130 transport planes were flying in today with forklifts, generators and 10 tons of military rations, and a British Royal Air Force C-130 flew to Sarajevo loaded with medicine and food.

The first U.S. aid shipment — from the New Canaan, Conn.-based private relief agency AmeriCares — arrived Thursday with 16 tons of antibiotics, analgesics, infant formula and insulin.

Sarajevo's nearly 400,000 residents are desperate for relief in the siege by Serb forces backed by troops of Serbian-dominated Yugoslavia. Fighting broke out after Bosnia's majority Muslims and Croats voted Feb. 29 to secede from Yugoslavia, once a six-republic federation that now includes only Serbia and Montenegro.

Bosnian officials estimate at least 7,440 people have died in the war.

Nearly 500 Canadians were expected today in Sarajevo after a 180-mile journey from Croatia through mountainous territory held by fighters from both sides of the Bosnian conflict, which broke out after the republic seceded from Yugoslavia.

They join 350 Canadians who arrived on Thursday to bolster 80 U.N. soldiers and 125 French commandos. The airport was reopened on Monday, but machine-gun and rifle fire still rattled in nearby villages as the first Canadian contingent took up positions.

In Washington, President Bush warned Serbian forces that he is prepared to back up the Canadian troops if needed to keep the Sarajevo airport open for humanitarian aid.

Bush said Thursday he would "not rule anything in or out," and sought to dispel any notion that he would not commit ground forces if he saw fit.

Lord Carrington, head of the European Community's special conference on Yugoslavia, was scheduled to arrive from London today in an effort to get Bosnia's warring sides to resume talks.

Milan Panic, a Serbian-born American businessman, was heading today to his homeland to accept the prime ministership, in hopes that he can soothe relations between Serbia and the international community.

Maj. Gen. Lewis MacKenzie, head of the U.N. operation in Sarajevo, said he hoped to have eight relief flights a day landing at the airport soon. The European Community said it was starting a planned 10-plane airlift.

U.N. officials said two planes arrived Thursday with more aid. A Norwegian military plane brought 15.5 tons of American medical supplies, and a French plane brought in 15 tons of food, enough to feed 30,000 people for one day.

In Belgrade, the Serbian and Yugoslav capital, protests mounted against Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, who is blamed by the West for his role in the conflict in the former Yugoslav republics of Croatia and Bosnia.

An orderly crowd of up to 100,000 people, chanting "We want the truth," surged to the state television building in Belgrade to demand an end to government-biased reporting and more air time for the opposition.

Astronauts light candle, take time off

By SUSAN MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Columbia's astronauts lit a tiny candle in space and took some time off from their hectic research schedules today, nine days into the longest shuttle flight NASA has attempted.

Astronaut Carl Meade used an electrically heated wire to light the wick of a half-inch white candle four times, creating squat, nearly round flames.

"Ooh, Carl, that was awesome. Really interesting," a ground controller at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., responded.

Scientists asked Meade for an extra go at the experiment so he could take color photographs; earlier candle tests yielded only black-and-white images. Researchers said the flames, some of which burned more than a minute, glowed a cool blue, indicating a low temperature with no soot.

On Thursday, astronaut Bonnie Dunbar charred a 4-inch strip of ashless filter paper. Since reaching orbit June 25, the crew also has burned insulated wire and plastic foam — all in sealed, fire-retardant chambers — to help NASA improve spacecraft fire safety.

Astronaut Eugene Trinh was scheduled to get a four-hour respite from work this morning, while Meade took a similar "vacation" Thursday night.

NASA scheduled the breaks — a shuttle first — before the 13-day voyage began to help the astronauts cope with 12-hour days inside Spacelab. The other two astronauts carrying out scientific research had their recesses Wednesday.

The seven astronauts will become only the second American crew to spend Independence Day in space. In 1962, when Columbia returned home July 4, President Reagan was on hand to welcome the crew.

Also Thursday, the astronauts photographed the flooded Parana and Uruguay rivers in Argentina at the request of the Argentine embassy in Washington. Commander Richard N. Richards said it was very hazy over the area; little was visible in video beamed down.

Columbia is scheduled to return to Earth Wednesday. On Monday, it will surpass its own record — a 10-day, 21-hour trip in 1990.

Rocket launched at last

Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL — After six scrapped countdowns, the Air Force has launched an unmanned rocket with a satellite designed to relay secret conversations among U.S. military personnel.

The 15-story-tall Atlas blasted off from Cape Canaveral Air Force Station at 5:54 p.m. Thursday.

It was the seventh launch attempt since June 20. The earlier tries were thwarted by thunderstorms, a bad rocket navigation unit and a power outage at the pad.

The Defense Satellite Communications System satellite will join nine other DSCS craft in a 23,300-mile-high orbit, eventually replacing one of the older ones. An attached motor is to raise the new satellite to its proper altitude over the coming week.

Air Force officials said the satellite and motor cost $164 million. The Atlas, built by General Dynamics Corp., cost another $50 million to $60 million.

The 2,500-pound DSCS-3 satellite is jam-proof and shielded to withstand nuclear attack.

DSCS satellites provided 80 percent of the military communications in and out of the Middle East during the Persian Gulf War.

IN BRIEF

No-Top at Bowl America

SANFORD — Bowl America-Sanford will conduct its weekly No-Top Tournament this evening beginning at 9 p.m.
There are separate men's and women's divisions. The $15 entry fee includes three strikepots.
For more information, call 322-7542.

Mavericks after Roberts

DALLAS — The Dallas Mavericks want to add Orlando Magic center Stanley Roberts to their 1992 rebuilding plan, but squeezing the seven-footer under the team's salary cap may not be easy.
Rick Sund, the Mavericks' vice president of basketball operations, says he's already met with Roberts' agent, Oscar Shoenfelt. Shoenfelt was expected to also talk to Miami and Milwaukee, according to a league source.
Roberts, 22, is considered one of this year's most coveted free agents on the National Basketball Association market. He was one of 108 players who became restricted or unrestricted free agents Wednesday.
Sources say Roberts and Shoenfelt want a multiyear $3 million-a-year contract.
Roberts signed a one-year, $550,000 contract with Orlando in 1991. He averaged 15.5 points and 8.1 rebounds in his final 24 games.

Puerto Rico next for USA

PORTLAND, Ore. — Puerto Rico advanced to the semifinals against Team USA in the Tournament of the Americas with a 92-85 victory over Argentina.
Venezuela defeated Canada 78-72, and will play Brazil in the semifinals. All four teams have clinched Olympic berths.

Reds' Browning out for season

CINCINNATI — Tom Browning's injured left knee will sideline him for the season, forcing the Cincinnati Reds to place the 32-year-old left-hander on the disabled list for the first time in his nine years with the team.
An exam found Browning ruptured his posterior cruciate ligament, one of the knee's main stabilizers, in a home-plate collision.
Although surgery won't be required, he will be sidelined to rehabilitate the knee. Browning was replaced by utility infielder Jeff Branson, called up from Class AAA Nashville.
Browning tore the ligament when he ran over Houston catcher Scott Servino during a 3-2 Cincinnati loss Wednesday in the Astrodome.
He was 6-5 in 16 starts with a 5.07 earned run average.

Athletes do graduate

WASHINGTON — Athletes at major colleges graduate about the same rate as other students, but black males — especially basketball players — lag far behind white teammates.
The study showed 51 percent of athletes who entered Division I colleges and universities in 1983 and 1984 graduated, compared to 52 percent for the general student body.
The report found that 61 percent of female student-athletes graduate, compared to 54 percent of female students in general.
But only 29 percent of black males who play basketball earn their degrees, compared to 55 percent of their white teammates.
Overall, black male athletes had a graduation rate of 33 percent, compared to 31 percent for the entire black student body. Black female athletes had a rate of 43 percent, compared to 34 percent for black females in general.
For white student-athletes, the graduation rate was 58 percent, compared to 55 percent for white students in general.

Three Americans in semi's

WIMBLEDON, England — Unseeded John McEnroe will meet his pupil, No. 12 Andre Agassi, in an unlikely Wimbledon men's semifinal.
The 33-year-old McEnroe, a three-time champion, completed his suspended match with Guy Forget, 6-2, 7-6 (11-9), 6-3, while the 22-year-old Agassi, who has never won a Grand Slam title, finished off Boris Becker, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.
McEnroe, who has recently tutored Agassi on grasscourt play, reached his first Wimbledon semifinal in three years.
The women's final is more predictable as No. 1 Monica Seles will face No. 2 Steffi Graf in a rematch of the French Open final.
There was some complaining by Seles' opponent Martina Navratilova about her persistent grunting, but Seles won anyway, 6-2, 6-7 (7-3), 6-4. Graf easily defeated No. 3 Gabriela Sabatini 6-3, 6-3.

Schedule change hurts Cyclones

From Staff Reports

BASEBALL CITY — The Sanford American Legion Post 53 Cyclones received a surprise prior to the start of the 4th of July American Legion "B" Baseball Tournament at Baseball City Thursday.

And it was not a pleasant surprise.
After thinking all week that they would only play one game on opening day, a 10:30 p.m. phone call Wednesday night informed Cyclones head coach Kenne Brown that his team would be required to play a doubleheader.
"We were real surprised to find out we would be playing at 4 p.m. (after playing at 10 a.m.)," said Brown. "It messed up our pitching rotation somewhat."

Bullet rally falls short against A's

By BILL KENNIS

LONGWOOD — Rotten days often snowball into nightmares.
On a day when all four Seminole County teams fell, Thursday's Lyman Tournament play ended with a baserunning mistake of the kind that could leave a nightmarish impression.
The Seminole Animal Supply Bullets, Lyman High School's summer baseball team, entered the top of the seventh inning trailing 12-4. They rallied to score seven runs and loaded the bases with one out, and a fly out by Ted Koller should have tied the game.
But the baserunner left early, and after the umpires talked it over, was called out to end the game. It was but the most memorable of many youthful mistakes Lyman made in losing to the Oak Ridge A's 12-11.
"We've got a bunch of young kids who are learning how to play the game of baseball," said Lyman head coach Dave Campbell. "Errors hurt us early and bad baserunning killed us in the seventh inning. We came back to score some runs and with the bases loaded we should have..."
See Bullets, Page 28

Mike Warner walked and scored a run but it was not enough as the Lake Mary Mudcats fell to the Winter Park Wildcats 3-2 in eight-innings in the opening round of the Lyman Tournament Thursday afternoon.

Wildcats slip past Mudcats with late rally

LONGWOOD — A courageous pitching effort from Chad Kessler went for naught as the Lake Mary Mudcats fell to Winter Park 3-2 in eight innings Thursday afternoon, becoming part of Orange County's sweep of Seminole County teams in the Lyman Tournament.
"They were all alone in the eighth," said Lyman Tournament Director Dave Campbell. "You saw some good baseball and close games if you're a fan. It still could be anybody's tournament, although I think Dr. Phillips and Winter Park have the biggest advantages. It's a long, uphill battle from the loser's bracket."
All four Seminole County teams are in the loser's bracket. Lake Mary faced Oviedo tomorrow at 11 a.m. Winter Park will face Oak Ridge tonight at 8 p.m.
Kessler struck out seven, walked two, and gave up ten hits. Winter Park left eight runners on base, including five in scoring position, as Kessler overcame six rallies to send the contest into extra innings tied 2-2. But Steve May tripled and scored in the bottom of the eighth to defeat the Mudcats.

White Sox, Bucks fall to start Orange sweep

By GARY GRAYSON

LONGWOOD — After losing in the opening round of a double-elimination tournament, a team must overcome some adversity to succeed in the later rounds.
Both the Oviedo White Sox and Lake Howell Bucks suffered first round losses in the Lyman 4th of July NABF Tournament at Lyman High School Thursday. Oviedo 6-3 to Evans and Lake Howell 5-4 to Bates Team Sports (Dr. Phillips).
But if a coach's attitude helps at all, both the White Sox and Bucks may be able to put opening round losses behind them and succeed in the later rounds of the tournament.

Even after the loss, Oviedo assistant coach Rob Williams remained optimistic about his team's chances.

"We're going to have to fight our way through the loser's bracket, but we have the pitching to be able to do it," Williams said. "We've got some good, young arms, and if they come ready to play, we'll be all right."
Evans appeared to be a little more prepared than Oviedo on Thursday as it scored in the bottom half of the first inning. Ivoe Richards singled to center field, and then advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt. Jason Motto's double down the right field line scored Richards to give Evans a 1-0 lead. Evans would then add single runs in both the second and third innings to take a 3-0 lead.

'King Richard' to start final Daytona race on front row

By FRED GOODALL

DAYTONA BEACH — Richard Petty nearly gave himself the perfect birthday gift.
NASCAR's all-time victories leader, preparing for his final race as a driver at Daytona, sat on the pole for nearly an hour Thursday before Sterling Marlin turned a lap of 189.366 mph to become the fastest qualifier for this weekend's Pepsi 400.

Petty, celebrating his 55th birthday, clung to the top spot for 55 minutes with a surprising speed of 188.961 in his Pontiac Grand Prix. He'll start Saturday's race on the outside of the front row — a position he's pleased with but which didn't sit well with fans at Daytona International Speedway.
"It's a different feeling to get out of the car and hear them booing," said Marlin, who circled the 2.5-mile, high-banked trioval at Daytona International Speedway in 47.527 seconds — .102 seconds faster than Petty.
"I knew we were going to be close. When I came back and saw that 189 on the board and the crowd sitting there doing nothing, I figured 'Uh-oh, I done messed up here,'" the pole-winner said, breaking into a smile. "I think I may need a bullet-proof vest."
Petty, who's won seven Daytona 500s and three Pepsi 400s, has started from the pole position a record 127 times in 34 years, yet hasn't been the fastest qualifier for a Winston Cup race since 1979 — a streak of 370 starts.

"It's one of those deals where you hate to beat Richard, but we came down here with a job to do," said Marlin, who also won the pole for the Daytona 500 in February and this race last year.
Petty was the seventh driver on the track during qualifying and had already left the speedway by the time Marlin went out in his Ford...

Cyclones

The Cyclones had little trouble in winning its opening game, the only game they were supposed to play on Thursday, trouncing the Bishop Moore Angels 15-4 in five innings.

Before the tournament Brown said he hoped his team could end the early games in five innings so he could save some pitching, which they did. The local squad also got a real shot in the arm as Robbie Morgan, who has been trying to recover from arm problems and was not really being counted on, went all five innings to post the win. He threw 70 pitches and felt no pain.

"We were going to use (Jeremy) Chumst in the first game," said Brown. "But Robbie warmed up and said he felt O.K. so we gave him a shot. I was real pleased that he went the distance. We were going to pull him after five innings because he had reached the 70-pitch limit we gave him."

"But we were able to score enough runs to end the game and were able to save (Matt) Diemer. Everything was going to plan."

But Barlow put a kink in those plans in the late game, as Jeff Barr hurled a two-hitter and about down the Cyclones 7-1.

"Unfortunately, Barlow was real excited about playing the No. 14 ranked team in the country," said Brown. "Their excitement showed in their hustle and attitude, and that left-hander (Barr) was tough."

cut into the Evans lead. Chris Walker led off the inning with a triple to right field, and scored his team's first run when a fly ball off the bat of Drew Jackson was dropped by the Evans leftfielder for an error to make the score 3-1.

The White Sox then pulled within striking distance in the fifth inning. Louie Traeger led off with a single to right and advanced to second on another single to right by Ted Brown. Andy Hynes then laid down a sacrifice bunt to move the runners up a base and Traeger scored on a grounder to short by Walker to make the score 3-2.

But after the Oviedo rally, Evans put the game out of reach. Kevin Hirschy and Kevan Hoyt hit consecutive singles with one out in the bottom of the fifth inning, and then scored on Jimmy Porter's single to right field to increase the Evans lead to 5-2. Evans then added an insurance run in the sixth inning.

The White Sox' final run also came in the sixth when Walker walked, went to second on an error, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on a sacrifice fly to left by Jackson.

Despite the tough loss in the second game, Bucks coach Birto Benjamin remained focused on winning in the next round.

"I don't want to make any excuses for our guys, but we had to lay around the stadium from 11:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. and it was hot. We came out sluggish and tired and didn't hit."

Despite being lethargic, the Cyclones were still in the game as late as the fifth inning, trailing by just one run, 9-1.

But Barlow got to Cyclones starter Todd Braden and Diemer, who came on in relief, for three runs in the bottom of the fifth to take an insurmountable lead.

"Todd threw decent," commented Brown. "But he got tired. It was just too hot for him. He's still a little tight from lifting weights for the fall football season. He's out here working on his mechanics, and I'm glad to see that. Matt threw strikes, but the defense didn't make the plays that they usually do, again I think it was fatigue."

Brown said it would be tough for his team the rest of the tournament, but he thinks they will respond.

"I think we will be up for tomorrow's game," said Brown. "We must go undefeated the rest of the way for us to even have a chance at the championship. We have to play a decent Lakeland team tomorrow (Friday), then play Cooper City, whom we don't know much about, and a very strong Lake Brantley squad Saturday. We have our work cut out for us."

Brown thinks the tournament will be a good learning experience for his team.

"I think the boys have found out that there are some very good American Legion teams in this state," Brown said. "I think they were shocked. They were not so excited about coming here, as they were for the state championships. I think they have learned a little humility, every team needs that."

"We (Brown and assistant coach Red Ferguson) had a meeting with them and reminded them that Dr. Phillips was No. 1 in the nation in the pre-season this year and did not even get to the show (state championships). We told them that they may be in the same situation next year. I know they will answer the call tomorrow."

The Cyclones' game with the Lakeland Post 4 Cubs was set to start at 1 p.m. today, with Saturday's doubleheader scheduled for 10 a.m. (Cooper City) and 1 p.m. (Lake Brantley).

David Eckstein lead the Cyclones offense against Blakely going 2-for-3 with a double and scoring three runs. Also having big games were Chumst (2-for-5, two runs), Tony Duncan (2-for-3, run), Diemer (2-for-4, two runs), Matt Freeman (1-for-2, three runs), Scott Ferguson (1-for-3, two runs) and John Lugerling (1-for-3, two runs and the game ending hit).

In the Barlow game, Freeman and Corey Gochee had the only hits, both singles. Gochee scored the only run as he walked, went to second when Jeremy Laht reached on an error, advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Morgan and scored on a grounder by Ferguson.

Bullets

"We're going to try and fight back from the loser's bracket, and see if we can get back in it tomorrow," Benjamin said.

Trailing 3-1 after three innings, Lake Howell fought back to regain the lead in the fourth inning. Paul Giambolvo singled, advanced to second on Mike Hernandez' walk and scored on Peter Gill's single to right field. A fielding error then allowed both Gill and Hernandez to score giving the Bucks the 4-3 lead.

Bates Team Sports answered Lake Howell immediately in the bottom half of the inning. Ron Columbo and Gary Preiser drew consecutive one-out walks, and then advanced on a wild pitch. Brian Costello then singled to center field scored Columbo and Preiser to give Bates Team Sports a 5-4 lead.

With two out in the top of the fifth inning, Lake Howell had the tying run on third base after Joel Read walked, took second on a passed ball, and advanced to third on a fielder's choice. But the next batter popped-up to shortstop to end the threat.

"I was pleased with our performance overall," Benjamin said. "We just have to hit that ball a little bit better when we get on base. We didn't score when we had to, and we had the opportunities to score."

walking four and giving up six runs while retiring just one batter.

Jimmy Potter relieved Stuckey in the fourth and finished the game, giving up two runs. He struck out two, walked three, and allowed three hits.

The game was just another example of the young Bullets learning by fire.

"The kids were up and down throughout the game," said Campbell. "When we were up 3-0 they were fine, but they let down when they fell behind 5-3. When Oakridge opened up the big lead they quit. In the last inning they saw they had a chance and so they started hitting good pitches, but bad baserunning hurt us."

"It's going to be a long summer if they keep playing like this," added Campbell. "Sum-

Kimmie Louwema, Valerie Wold and Staci Shannon Dancers honored

Stepping up as the 1992 winner of the "Betty Williams Award" is 17-year-old Staci Shannon. This year's "Star Bright Award" went to 11-year-old Kimmie Louwema. Both dancers are from Sanford and are dance students at Miriam and Valerie's School of Dance Arts. Staci, a recent graduate from Seminole High School, has been dancing since age 6. Kimmie attends Wilson Elementary and has been dancing for eight years.

Each year a selection committee of the Betty Williams Foundation evaluates applicants and determines the most deserving dancers for the two awards. The scholarship award designates the dancer who brings to the stage the most outstanding qualities in an experienced student while the "Star Bright Award" spotlights the younger dancer who shows great promise at an early age.

Both recipients this year are dancer members of the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole and are performing members of the award winning "Soda Pops" who will be competing nationally this summer in the American Dance Spectrum Competition being held in Orlando.

The Betty Williams Foundation began in 1989 and continues to honor the memory of Mrs. Betty Williams, mother of Mrs. Jackie Caolo of Sanford. Mrs. Williams was a dance devotee and received great joy in watching young people develop their dance skills. The foundation was therefore established in her name.

Companies want kids' money, communicate about consumerism

There are people out there who want your kids' money — bad enough to air 30,000 TV ads a year. Parents who think spending an allowance is child's play should consider these facts: $16 million was spent in 1987 by 49 companies to just test new products and sales campaigns for children and teens. Young people together have $1 billion a week in purchasing power.

Here are some of the ways that companies are trying to win that income from our youngest consumers.

• The licensing of products that appeal to kids, such as Barbie lunch boxes or Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles pajamas. This has ballooned into a $64-billion-a-year business. Licensing uses kids' emotional attachment to make-believe figures.

• In-school promotion, including things like sample products handed out by marketing agencies, free magazines from private companies to promote their products and special "educational" programs which promote their product.

• Celebrity endorsements to pitch everything from soft drinks to sneakers. The items being pitched are increasingly status products: sneakers and sunglasses for over $100.

• Kids clubs, sponsored by television shows and fast-food eateries. Initial fees range from $5 to $14. The young club members are being prepped as consumers who will be loyal to buy future products and services.

• Product placement, especially in movies. Kids' favorite movies may amount to commercials for soft drinks, fast foods, and even less benign products. Cigarettes are increasingly appearing in movies directed to youngsters, even cartoons. In 1989, cigarette smoking was shown in 83 percent of the films made for kids.

• Advertorials, which are long commercials designed as television programs or magazine articles. Many grown-ups and most kids don't recognize them for what they are: sales pitches. Ads can be disguised as games, advice columns, and comics.

Increasingly, product marketing directed toward kids is disguised as something else: a classroom lesson, a movie, a special club, a game. Parents can communicate regularly with their children about issues of consumerism, and the spinner the better!

The Cooperative Extension Service is open to all regardless of race, color, creed or national origin.

Drinking age is 21 in every state

DEAR MARY: My son who is 18 goes to Georgia to visit his father every summer and occasionally during the school year. He's planning to spend most of the summer up there and says that one reason he wants to be there is that a guy can go to into a convenience store and a beer without all the "hasale" you get around here. I told him that I thought the legal drinking age was 21 in Georgia, just like here but he says I'm wrong. Am I?

DEAR MOM: The minimum age for buying alcohol is 21 years old in Florida, Georgia, and "every" state in the U.S. Although young people your son's age are often sure they know a lot more about everything than their parents do, here are some other things that many do not know. Approximately 2.6 million teen-agers in a recent survey from the Johnson Institute did not know that a person can die from an overdose of alcohol. And one third of them thought that drinking coffee, taking a cold shower or breathing fresh air would help them sober up more quickly if they were drunk.

Your son may want to spend the summer in Georgia, but if his primary purpose in doing so is to be able to legally buy alcohol, there's no place in the U.S. where he can go.

Staff Sgt. Byron

Air National Guard Staff Sgt. David F. Byron II has graduated from the satellite communications systems specialist course at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss.

Graduates learned the operation and repair of satellite communications systems; security procedures; electronics principles; and appropriate operation, maintenance, and repair of space or satellite communications equipment.

Byron is the son of retired Air Force Master Sgt. David F. Byron of 1995 Bogey Hills Drive, Pacific, Mo., and Ruth A. Byron of 670 Jasmine Road, Casselberry. He graduated from Lake Howell High School, Maitland in 1979.

Sgt. 1st Class Lewis

FORT RICHARDSON, Anchorage, Alaska — Army Sgt. 1st Class Charles E. Lewis, a member of the 6th Infantry Division, has deployed to the National Training Center (NTC), Fort Irwin, Barstow, to participate in a desert warfare training exercise.

The NTC, located in the Mojave Desert, is one of the Army's four combat training centers. It provides mid- to high-intensity training, primarily mechanized infantry and armor battalions and brigades.

Lewis, a mortar platoon sergeant, is the son of June W. Molenaar and stepson of Bruno H. Molenaar of 2525 Lake Ellen Drive, Casselberry.

Woman looking for love fears she's in another wrong place

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but I need some advice. I met "Wally" at work and we fell in love instantly. Unfortunately, he is married. I had just gotten my divorce and needed a caring, loving man, which Wally is. I've been seeing him for six months. When we started seeing each other, he told me he was separated and his divorce was in the works. I have since found out that this was not true; in fact, he very recently separated from his wife. They have four children, and when his son found out about us, he told his father he wanted nothing to do with me — ever! His whole family — his mother, sister, etc. — feel the same way.

Wally doesn't care how they feel. He is willing to quit his job and move far away so that we can "start over." I think he loves me, and I am so desperate for a relationship like we have. I want to believe it will work out.

Abby, what would you do in my situation?

DEAR MIXED UP: I would make no decisions knowing that I was "all mixed up." Also, I would not place much confidence in a man who claimed to be separated, when in fact he was very much married at the time.

Do nothing while you are in this "desperate" frame of mind. Wally has a lot of straightening out to do.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing a letter that appeared in your column in the San Francisco Chronicle in 1956:

"DEAR ABBY: My daughter

ADVICE

has been going steady with a very nice boy for over a year. They are very much in love and would like to get married in the near future. They will both be 21 this summer. His mother does not approve of his going with my daughter, even though she is a lovely, refined girl. The boy is afraid to tell his mother of his plans. What should I do?"

DEAR CONCERNED: If your daughter wants a happy and lasting marriage, she should be certain that her husband is grown up emotionally. Any boy who is planning on marriage should be man enough to tell his mother. If he's afraid to tell his mother, he is a poor risk for marriage.

Abby, I am the "boy" in the article. I want you to know that I did tell my mother, but she did not attend our wedding. However, 10 years later, she asked for my forgiveness.

To say that my girlfriend and I were very much in love would be an understatement. We were married for 34 years — until her death last year.

She is gone, but she will always live in my heart. You may use my name.

PHILLIP MOTTINI, CITRUS HEIGHTS, CALIF.

DEAR PHILLIP: Please accept my condolences on the loss of your beloved wife, and thank you for allowing me to share a beautiful love letter with my readers.

DEAR ABBY: This is to "Claire H. Mathes, Newark, Del." Please get your facts straight before writing Dear Abby.

The two women that Dr. Kevorkian assisted in suicides were not terminally ill. I believe one had multiple sclerosis and the other had surgery that left her living with permanent severe pain. The women were not well, that is true, but they were not terminally ill.

RUTH CHRISTIE, PALM BAY, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a thank-you note that reads as follows: "Thank you for the lovely gift." signed "Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed"?

I was shocked to receive such a note. It was so cold and impersonal, it could have been run off on a copy machine.

I was very hurt because I had spent a lot of time and money selecting a gift I thought would be perfect for this couple. I would like to add that the bride is a relative of mine.

DISGUSTED IN BERTHOUD, COLO.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Obviously, the bride and groom are woefully ignorant about how to write a thank-you note. However, their note did serve to acknowledge that your wedding gift was received.

Sadly, there are some who can say, "Well, that's more than I received."

You are cordially invited to attend the celebration of the two hundred and sixteenth birthday of our nation, the United States of America.
This gala extravaganza is planned for the date of July 4, 1992... Independence Day... from dusk till dawn, rain or shine.
All who take pride in our country, and who reverse those who gave of their hearts, their minds, and their lives that our nation could have birth, are invited to attend.
You need bring only your appetite and your patriotic enthusiasm. Food, fun and fireworks will abound!
Join in the festivities. Your presence will be most welcome.

IN BRIEF

Contemporary Christian music showcase

WINTER SPRINGS — The finest in contemporary Christian music will be featured during "Victory Showcase" at the Winter Springs Civic Center, 400 N. Edgemon Ave., on July 11.

Andy Sorrells, a musician from Atlanta, will be singing songs of praise and testimony, along with Cyndy Hardy, of Sanford. A love offering will be taken at the door to help the artists cover their expenses of travel and equipment. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. For more information, call 689-1757.

Baptist announce Bible school

SANFORD — Pinecrest Baptist Church, 601 Airport Blvd., will hold Family Vacation Bible School registration day on Saturday, July 11, at 9 a.m. to noon, for ages three through adults.

They invite families from the neighborhood who do not attend Sunday School to join them.

Family Vacation Bible School will be Monday through Friday, July 27-31, at 6:30-8:30 p.m. Nursery provided for parents who attend.

A declaration from heaven

SANFORD — In keeping with the Fourth of July holiday, the new pastor of Christ United Methodist Church, 408 Tucker Dr., the Rev. Larry Armstrong, will speak on the subject of "Heaven's Declaration of Independence."

His message will emphasize the freedom believers possess through a relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ.

Holy Communion will be observed this Sunday during the 11 a.m. service.

'God and Country Day'

LAKE MARY — First Baptist Church Markham Woods, 5400 Markham Woods Rd., will be having a special service of patriotism and praise for "God and Country Day" on Sunday.

On Saturday, the church will have its annual Fourth of July chicken barbecue by reservation only.

Everyone invited to worship

LAKE MARY — Grace United Methodist Church, 499 N. Country Club Rd., announces its Vacation Bible School from July 13 to 17.

All ages are invited, from three to adults, to participate in the festival of worshipping Jesus.

Call Sam Sawyer 322-2238 or the church office at 322-1472 for more information or to register.

First Baptist awards scholarships

SANFORD — The Scholarship Committee of First Baptist Church, Sanford, has awarded scholarships from the First Baptist Church Scholarship Fund to the following young people: Ginger Albers, Andrew Blake, Derek Drake, Jennifer Noel, Nancy Matos, Zachary Morgan, and Joanna Rowland. The scholarship fund was started in 1980, and is the second year the church has awarded scholarships.

New church opens this weekend

SANFORD — Emmanuel Assembly of God is coming to town! The young congregation, founded in the home of Pastor Eugene L. Shelton with his wife, Eva, Nov. 3, 1981, is now ready to launch an all out effort to touch the lives of all races, color and creed with the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Their new home will be located at 320 E. Commercial St., across from the Sanford Civic Center. Everyone is invited to the celebration on July 5.

The schedule of services are as follows: Sunday School 9 a.m., Morning Worship 10 a.m., Sunday evening 6 p.m. with Royal Rangers and Missionettes for the children, Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor Shelton has invited the Rev. Henry M. Evans, Ph.D., to hold a series of teaching sessions twice daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., from July 5-8. His subject will be "The Shepherd and His Sheep."

For further information, call Pastor Shelton at 321-5462.

Let us know what's going on

The Sanford Herald welcomes news about church activities and news for publication in the Religion page each Friday.

The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:

1. All items should be typed or written legibly and include the name of a person who can be contacted and a daytime phone number.
2. The deadline is 11 a.m. Wednesday before publication.

World leaders gather

Former resident runs for bishop seat at A.M.E. conference

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — St. James African Methodist Episcopal Church, 819 Cypress Ave., will honor one of its own during a special worship service on Sunday at 7 p.m.

The Rev. Dr. Zedekiah LaZett Grady, a former resident of Sanford, is running for the nomination of bishop, the highest seat possible in the A.M.E. denomination.

The A.M.E. church will hold its 44th General Conference in Orlando from July 7 to 18. A primary objective of the conference will be to elect and assign bishops of the church on July 13.

Rev. Grady was educated in the public schools of Sanford and is a graduate of Crooms Academy.

"He started his ministry as a young man under Rev. Walter White and Rev. G. J. Oates," both former pastors of St. James A.M.E. Church, according to D. C. McCoy, steward of the church for the past 36 years.

He attended Edward Waters College and the B. F. Lee Theological Seminary where he graduated with honors.

He also enrolled in Allen University and Dickerson Theological Seminary where he earned his B. A. and B. D. degrees respectively. He furthered his graduate studies at Union Theological Seminary, New York, and the Urban Training Center in Chicago.

The Rev. Dr. Z. L. Grady
He has been honored with the Doctor of Divinity Degree from Kittrell College, Allen

University and Edward Waters College.

Grady has served for the past 40 years as a pastor, administrator, civic organizer, leader, social reformer and teacher at a number of churches throughout South Carolina. He presently serves as the presiding elder of the Edisto District in Charleston, S.C.

If elected as bishop, Grady will be assigned to one of the 19 districts throughout America, the Bahamas, Virgin Islands and Africa.

The 44th General Conference of the 106 year old organization will attract over 25,000 people of African descent to the Orange County Convention and Civic Center during the eight day event.

The World Church Leaders will come together to address economic empowerment and development, political involvement, homelessness, AIDS and outreach centers for drug control and rehabilitation. They will consider development of programs to enhance the lives of humankind throughout the world. A primary mission of the conference is the development of the whole person. To carry out this mission, the conference will adopt plans for educational outreach, protest and effective stewardship. Through these programs, the church serves as vocal advocate for people of African descent around the world.

Arkansas governor and presidential hopeful Bill Clinton will speak July 7.

The Rev. David, Wanda Brett

Fellowship welcomes new pastor

WINTER SPRINGS — Lord of Life Fellowship, 395 Tusawilla Rd., announces the calling of Pastor David Brett as its new pastor.

Pastor Brett is presently the associate pastor of Christian Heritage Church in Tallahassee. He has served in many varied duties, including preaching, teaching, counseling and hospital visitation. He has a Master of Divinity degree from the School of Theology at Lee College in Cleveland, Tenn.

Pastor Brett also brings to the congregation his wife, Wanda, and daughters, Ada and Lauren.

He will assume his duties on Sunday, July 5, at the 10 a.m. service. Members of the community are invited to come worship with the parish to help welcome the new pastor and his family.

What makes your pastor special?

He drives a 1976 Volkswagen bus and if they still sold two-pants suits, that's what he would buy. He doesn't excel at preaching so don't look for his sermons in "Best Sermons of the Year." And don't look for any D.D. after his name.

Nor are you likely to find him at the head table giving the invocation at the Chamber of Commerce annual dinner at the University Club. (They usually ask the Rev. Paul Prentice Price, D.D., senior pastor at historic Old First Church.)

But without him -- and others like him -- the church could not have become the helping, healing force it has always been in people's lives.

The heart and soul and strength of Christianity are found not in the big-city cathedrals or in fashionable churches with names like St. Martin's-by-the-Sea with their magnificent paid choirs and expensive floral arrangements on the altar.

The heart and soul and strength of Christianity are found closer to the grass-roots level where two or three are gathered together in His name and the flowers in the chancel this morning came from Elsie Luggbill's tulip garden: "To the glory of God and in loving memory" of Elsie's mother.

Laboring it may be in obscurity in some crossroads church in a sleepy hamlet, or lost in "life's throng and press" in a busy city parish, these enlisted soldiers of the cross receive little if any recognition, nor do they seek it, satisfied they are "in the service of the King."

RELIGION

George Flagonz

Though discouragement and a sense of emptiness may sometimes come, it does not linger. Soon, "with head erect, they are back at their task."

Who are they -- these unsung members of the clergy with invisible halos? What are their names? Where do they live? What parishes do they serve? This is where you come into today's story.

If you have recognized your minister in what has been said up to now, here is a chance to give him or her the public attention he or she deserves.

Send the name of your minister and the name and location of the church to UNSUNG CLERGY, Box 1951, Columbus, OH 43216-1951. Include a few words telling what makes your pastor's ministry special to you.

It may be that he is like the inventor in "Gulliver's Travels" who had discovered a way of extracting sunlight from cucumbers so that on a rainy or gloomy day one need not but to uncork a bottle and the house was full of light.

I had a professor in seminary who used to tell us this story and added, "Sometimes I think that pretty well describes one of our chief functions -- extracting sunlight from cucumbers."

Certainly a minister must bring sunlight and "tidings of comfort and joy" to people beset by all manner of changing circumstances. It is in these human contacts that he makes his greatest and most enduring contribution.

"When he sits at supper with his people in their homes, when he stands with them in their struggles, when he kneels beside their beds of sickness, when he folds the hands of their dead and scatters the flowers above the ashes of their beloved, when he dedicates their children to the Lord in baptism, when he unites their youths and maidens in holy wedlock, when he is a sympathetic and understanding friend in all the sequences of living" -- at these times his ministry may go unnoticed by the world but not by those whose hearts he has comforted and encouraged.

If we are talking here about your minister, won't you let us know?

Ask M.D. to check this recurring itch

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 64 and in good health with one exception. For three months I've suffered from a vicious itch from my head to my waist...

If these examinations are normal, I suggest you then proceed to a gastroenterologist for endoscopy, during which the specialist examines your esophagus, stomach and upper intestine with a lighted tube.

DEAR READER: This type of recurring itch can be very troublesome. Your doctor is correct that you could have an allergy...

I suggest you visit a dermatologist at the height of one of your itch attacks. With the lesions in full bloom, the specialist should be able to diagnose you affliction...

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it possible to have ulcers without tests confirming the diagnosis? I've had upper and lower GI tests to rule out gallbladder disease, hiatal hernia and peptic disease...

DEAR READER: Your quandary raises the question: How much testing is enough? In my opinion, you should continue the investigation until the cause of your symptoms is identified.

As I have written before, heart pain (angina) often masquerades as peptic pain. Therefore, as part of your "work-up," you need a cardiac evaluation that should include a chest X-ray, cardiogram or stress test...

Presidential talk show exposure up, convention coverage down

By DEBORAH MASTROTTA
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — Presidential politics and candidates are new fixtures on the talk show circuit, but don't expect to see extended network coverage of either the Democratic or Republican convention.

The old donkey-and-elephant shows just ain't what they used to be.

Short of bang and long on bucks, the homogenized and lavishly produced conventions are scheduled to receive less network attention this year than ever before.

"They've squeezed the turnip of all blood in terms of surprise and announcements," said CBS News special events director Lance Venardos. "That doesn't mean there isn't a surprise for Bill Clinton, because he has to deliver one hell of a speech to keep life in his campaign."

What Venardos is referring to is his first remark in the absence of rough-and-tumble convention debate.

In the last 20 years, ratings for gavel-to-gavel convention coverage have plummeted. The drop dovetailed with changes in convention rules that saw everything from party platforms to nominees agreed on before delegates ever got to each party's national gathering.

"There's no more news here, because the party wants a television event," Venardos said.

After horrible ratings for the 1984 and 1988 party conventions, the networks this year have sliced their planned coverage by nearly 50 percent.

In an unprecedented move, NBC and PBS are providing joint coverage. Neither CBS nor ABC is expected to offer more than an hour or two of live coverage each night when the Democrats begin their four-day run in New York on July 13.

PBS and NBC will team correspondents for prime-time convention broadcasts on PBS. Then Tom Brokaw and company will go solo for a 60-minute nightly appearance on NBC.

The pact allows NBC to give its reporters airmile (albeit mostly on another channel) while cutting costs.

ABC, which has provided the least amount of convention coverage among its Big Three competitors for the last two decades, has no plans to change its strategy.

"It's a place where a lot of silly speeches are given," said ABC News Senior Vice President Richard Wald. "People are pressing not too many pauses in a speech because it might interrupt the smooth running of the convention."

And that, Wald said, makes for boring television. "Interesting speeches interest the audience. But the conventions have become an affliction of things that have already been decided."

At the 1988 Democratic Convention, despite routing oratory from Jesse Jackson and Ann Richards' "Poor George" speech, the average rating was only 8.8 — down more than 30 percent from the Democrats' 1980 gathering.

In these hard economic times, networks are hard-pressed to sacrifice advertising revenue for live coverage few Americans will watch.

That leaves cable holding this year's gavel-to-gavel mandate. When the Democrats gather at Madison Square Garden later this month and GOP delegates descend on Houston in August, viewers will have to flip to C-Span or CNN for continuous programming.

In fact, cable is offering an exhaustive slate of packaged and live broadcasts that rival any network offering in recent history.

At any given point from now until November, cable viewers will be able to see election specials and live reports on Black Entertainment Television, CNN, Consumer News and Business Coverage (CNBC), C-Span, The Discovery Channel, The Learning Channel, Lifetime, Mind Extension University, MTV, Nickelodeon, and the Spanish-language Univision network.

CNN even has "Inside Politics '92," a daily, 30-minute newscast designed to help voters stay on top of current events that could influence their polling decisions.

But network news executives say they're not that concerned by cable's picking up the slack, especially convention coverage.

Mostly, they said, because conventions have nearly become non-events — at least in terms of news value.

"We're trying as much as we can to have the amount of coverage driven by the news factor of the events," Venardos said.

Elsewhere in television...

'HOMEFRONT' CYCLE RESTARTS: People who discovered ABC's underappreciated "Homefront" in midseason last year can pick up the pieces this summer in a series of "encore" presentations and an all-new episode.

On Tuesday, July 21, the series' 90-minute pilot will be re-broadcast and, on July 28, the episode titled "Take My Hand" will air for the first time. "Take My Hand" follows the events immediately after the wartime death of the Sloan's son.

"Homefront" has received a preliminary endorsement from Viewers for Quality Television, the Fairfax, Va.-based advocacy group.
