

Coach Is Ticked Over Workout Of His Celery Feds

Best Scrimmage Of Season Put On By Squad On Monday

Coach McLucas of Seminole High's Celery Feds, was in high spirits this morning, tickled over the workout of his squad yesterday, and is pleased with the prospects.

Scrimmage work yesterday was the best of the year, the coach said today, all the crickets were back in the lineup, and "we're in fine shape," the mentor declared.

Sanford goes against St. Augustine in that East Coast city on Friday night of this week, and the Celery Feds are going over there with the intention of defeating the Saints. Some more hard work is ahead of them before the end of the week, but if workouts today and tomorrow are as successful as that of Monday it is believed that they will stand a good chance of victory.

The squad will leave early Friday afternoon for St. Augustine and the student body is endeavoring to arrange a motorcade to leave later for the battle city to cheer the boys.

5 Decision Bouts Feature Program Of Athletic Club

Five decision bouts featured the program put on by the Seminole Boys' Athletic Club in the Fourth Street Arena last night, though a no decision bout between Tillman Whitmore and T. H. Willis was one of the best exhibitions of boxing that has been witnessed by local fans this season.

The first go of the evening was between Edward Crosby who won a decision over Calvin Burch. Joe Johnston defeated Laurence Barrineau, Sidney Recharad won from Clifford Williams, Billy Wilkinson was awarded the decision in his bout with Billy Herndon, and Edward Crosby won over Earl Peirry.

No decision was given in the work-out bout between Clyde Peirry and Jesse Cook, Holly Peirry and Joe Burch, Jr., boxed to a draw, and the Billy Barrineau vs. Monroe Burch, the Harry Lee Moore vs. Buddy Recharad and the Kent Peirry vs. Joe Johnston bouts were also called draws.

Darrell Ferguson, Clarence Barrineau, Pete Tillis, Giles Chapman, Marvin Smith, Ray Herndon, Duane Tillis and Paul Moore worked out.

Speakers Take 'Ex' From Vet Organizations

Armistice Day celebration in their town.

In his address to the veterans State Commander Hopper of the V. F. W., himself a Legionnaire, and former district manager of the Legion, expressed confidence that more would be accomplished by the veterans' groups in forgetting differences "as we are all working for the same purpose, for justice to the veterans, especially the disabled, and to instill in the hearts of the people principles of peace and security."

Veterans of 1898 were "ticked from pillar to post," he said, because they had no voting strength, and then the "damnable economic act" took from them what they had until the larger veterans organizations got together and demanded that they be given justice.

"Those who decide to have a war are always beyond the means of making a profit out of war," he said, but the V. F. W. stands with the Legion in the contention that both capital and industry shall be drafted in the event of another war.

"There is a comradeship here in this group tonight that you won't find up town tomorrow," he said. "There is something about service under the flag that makes for friendship, that instills that feeling of love, or our fellow man that the Nazarene taught, a feeling we found in the sacrifices we made in the service.

Holding in his hands, the old Springfield a General, left on his locomotive 37 years ago, Mr. Shelley told some of his experiences in transporting soldiers to the Port of Tampa during the war of '98 and said he wanted the Legion to have the old life because "you in the American Legion have done your part."

"I hope you will maintain and perpetuate this organization to which you have the honor to belong," said Mr. Shelley. "You earned that honor, honestly, and every one who served in the war should feel it an honor to belong to this organization. Then referring to communism he declared that "it is up to you to watch this thing, to fight against the element that is trying to overthrow our government, and you can do it, because you have been tried and not found wanting."

The speaking came after the 100 veterans had started away 20 gallons of stew, 15 gallons of coffee, and quantities of fry bread, pickles and beer. After the meeting Hayward Walker, past commander of the local post, showed a picture of a hundred feet of millionaires, and their old engine in the Armistice Day parade.

THE WAY OF SALVATION: A path, when the wicked man turns away from his wickedness...

England doesn't seem to be much more popular in Egypt than Italy is in Ethiopia.

One thing about this "Yankee" hurricane. It demonstrated pretty clearly that national planning, as far as the Weather Bureau is concerned is a lot of bunk.

Washington Merry-Go-Round tells about a fellow in Washington looking for the "Bureau of Self Control." But he soon found out that there ain't no such animal.

Sanford folks returning from the North indicate heavier than ever travel on the main highways leading this way. And, incidentally, some of them say there's a lot of hitch-hiking, too.

The Sanford Herald discovers one good feature of the cross-state canal. It might prove a barrier to hitch-hikers. But we hardly think so; nothing seems to stop 'em.—Tallahassee Star-Advertiser.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York criticizes red tape in the relief and public works organizations. "They have too many typewriters in Washington," he says, "and too many 'semi-colon boys' running them."

"Dutch" Schultz, according to J. Edgar Hoover, used to do a $6,000,000 a year crime business in New York City while he was the city's Public Enemy No. 1. But he, too, learned that crime doesn't pay. A rival gangster bumped him off.

Germany is planning to increase her standing army to one million men during the coming year. That is a far cry from the 100,000 limit which the Treaty of Versailles allows. But, evidently, the League of Nations hasn't heard about that yet.

"A working man" writes us a very interesting letter which we would like to publish, but because he failed to sign his name, we are unable to do so. "If you are not afraid of the moneyed man of Sanford," he writes, "Please print this." If he is not afraid to sign his letter, we will show him whether we are afraid to print it.

Lumber interests, western farmers, and certain others are looking about the new trade deal with Canada. Florida citrus interests, however, should be pleased. Canadians will buy more oranges and grapefruit from us if we buy more lumber and paper from them.

Senator Borah and Herbert Hoover are apparently determined to kill each other off. Which reminds us of a similar Democratic impasse in the summer of 1934 when Al Smith looked horns with William Gibbs McAdoo leaving the field open for "Silent Cal" Coolidge.

With the customary constancy of most candidates for political offices, Judge Fitzway, the "Boss" candidate for governor, advances a reduction in state taxation, and additional expenditures which the Palatka estimates at about $10,000,000 a year. The two, however, don't go together. Elizabeth is for tax reduction, and the bigger and better the the public. Now to the Judge?

Struggling Upward

It takes men with ideas to get ahead in this world in times like these. But a man with an idea can make a success now as he could in another day when some fellow thought of putting rubbers on the end of pencils, or using metal pen points instead of quills.

The current issue of the American Magazine tells about a Philadelphia boy, who, having nothing else to do, started a "Canine Catering Company," serving specially prepared food to the pets of wealthy dog-owners. Before long he had 25 people on his payroll, was preparing meals for 4,000 dogs, and estimated his business as worth $100,000 a year.

Another man with an idea was Tom Skillman, Jr., who, with a prep school friend, Phil Foote, was wondering what in the world to do with himself after graduation from college in 1931. That was when the depression was just getting into full swing, when work in private employment was harder to find than it is even now, and before government jobs had become readily available for everyone.

One day the sister of one of the boys said, "Why don't you start something useful?"

"Such as?" said Phil.

"Washing babies' diapers," replied the sister who was the mother of a small child.

"I really mean it," she went on. "Laundries won't take them. Why shouldn't somebody start it as a business? You'll have a million grateful mothers."

Tom and Phil immediately began to think the thing over and the more they thought about it the more they liked the idea. Soon they heard that a man named Albert Lau, an ex-bond salesman, had tried something like that out in Chicago, so they hopped a train and went to see him. He gave them a few tips, and back they came to Philadelphia, soon to find themselves seriously engaged in the dinky washing business.

"For the first few months," says the American, "Tom and Phil were the whole works—solicitors, washers, ironers, delivery boys. From bridge party to bridge party the word spread, and Tom and Phil began to get more and more phone calls from eager mothers. A spick-and-span black-and-white delivery truck, with the name 'By-Dee Wash' on the side, helped a lot, too."

Today Tom and Phil have $8,000 invested in equipment, a force of nine people and are washing and delivering 3,000 diapers a day. "And yet," says the American, "it was a simple idea. It only needed the germ, the initial impulse."

This story is of particular interest in Sanford since one of the boys, Tom Skillman, is well known here, having visited here frequently at vacation time during his college career.

One Of The "Semi-Colon Boys"

When Mayor LaGuardia made his historic remark that red tape in Washington is holding up relief work, that there are too many typewriters at work in federal bureaus and not enough steam shovels throughout the country, that the "semi-colon boys" in the swivel chairs at the Capital are the ones who are holding up construction, he must have had in mind Professor Rexford Guy Tugwell of the Rural Rehabilitation Administration.

For, according to figures released in Washington yesterday, Professor Tugwell, who is supposed to transfer the unemployed workmen in the cities to the country and set them up on farms, supply them with land, tools, livestock, and show them what to do with all these things, at government expense, has after more than six months succeeded in taking care of only 5,072 persons.

At the same time, in order to accomplish this monumental task, he has found it necessary to employ secretaries, assistant secretaries, assistants to the assistant secretaries, and then just ordinary clerks, stenographers, bookkeepers, assistant bookkeepers, auditors, and office boys to the number of 12,089. In other words, it required the services of 12,089 "semi-colon boys" to find jobs for 5,072 relief workers.

The offices of this efficiency expert, Professor Tugwell, are spread out through 18 office buildings in Washington. In addition to taking over 104 automobiles from other Washington bureaus, he has found it necessary to purchase eight new passenger cars, four station wagons, 12 trucks and one motorcycle. The relief workers which he has succeeded thus far in providing for cost the government $300,000 a month, but 12,089 bureaucrats necessary to take care of them are costing $1,750,000 a month.

Professor Tugwell, it will be recalled, is one of the leading members of the professorial group who have lately been injecting campus antics into governmental policies; he is, in fact, chairman and general manager of the "Brain Trust," and was, before he became interested in politics, a teacher at Columbia University. His experience, which largely qualified him for his present job as Administrator of the RRA, seems to have been primarily his sojourn in Russia a few years ago when he made an intimate study of Soviet methods and policies.

After he returned from Russia, he wrote a book. And in this book, he goes to great pains to point out clearly and completely just how this country could be improved by the adoption of the Bolshevik system. Now that he is enconced in his elaborate offices in Washington, which include the magnificent McLean mansion, he is being given a wonderful opportunity to show just what academic training along Soviet lines is able to accomplish.

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was one grand, good time and peachy one of a dance that was enjoyed on Wednesday evening by the guests of Miss Florence Frank and Miss Selma Williams, invited for their tacky dance at the Sanford House and "lucky it shortly was." Bigville was there with the goods, gingham, veils, calico, and feathers, a gorgeously ludicrous combination that excited the risibles and kept the merry dancers and well flowers in a state of giggles from start to finish. Prize for the tackiest gown was finally awarded to Miss Charlotte Hand who rivalled in style Miss Roseanna Devereaux, the Bigville beauty. The prize is supposed to have belonged to Arthur Tugwell, a very handsome fellow, and was given to the tackiest prize girl after the dress parade it was awarded to Miss Hand.

President Wilson plans to visit all this week on his message to Congress and expects to have it finished before Thanksgiving Day. He discussed some features of it today with the cabinet. National defense will be the principal subject treated in the message which is also expected to take up recommendations for raising the additional revenues. A beautiful shower of miscellaneous articles was given by the Embroidery Circle for Mrs. Harry Lee Gibson Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. C. Marlowe which was an attractive event and much enjoyed. The City Council, at its meeting on the night of Nov. 12 appointed W. A. Ginn to make a preliminary survey of the city for installing a water works and sewerage system as well as to make estimates of the cost of an electric light plant.

THE COMPASS

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce By Arthur Dunn

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 20.—The average person best understands round numbers, and in speaking for public consumption, those in high places may be pardoned if they depart from strict exactitude. That, however, cannot excuse exaggerated or unfair statements—especially from those whose position insures acceptance at face value.

In a Forbes column recently, Rupert F. Aplund, director of the Taxpayers Association of New Mexico, estimated all government expenditures (federal, state and national) for 1933 at $17 billion 210 million dollars, stating that "the annual expenditures are estimated at 40 percent of the annual income."

That income in 1933 reached 45 billion dollars; in 1934 exceeded $1 billion. Experts agree that it will be greater in 1935 and '36. Indeed, Mr. Eccles estimated, in a speech here before the bankers' convention, that it would reach 60 billions for 1935.

It is true that all government expenditures in this country in '32 were over 15 billion dollars and did exceed 40 percent of the '32 income of that year. But production and distribution are rising, not falling. Forty percent of present income would mean taxation of from 20 to 24 billion dollars. Or, stated another way, 17 billion 210 million dollars. Mr. Aplund's estimate, is 40 percent of a 43 billion income, to arrive down to which means a decline of 8 billions from the '34 income, and 18 billions from the '35 estimate—just a mere trifle!

If we must now pay 17 billions in taxes, against 15 billions in '32, we shall at least have 13 billions in taxes, against 15 billions in '32, we shall at least have 13 billions more income out of which to pay it.

These figures clearly demonstrate that increased taxation and economic progress have gone hand in hand. They illustrate just how wild sweeping statements may be, even though coming from one no less than the President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. In his address to the American Bankers' Association here last week, Mr. Sibley said: "The lower the taxes are kept, the more sure economic progress."

It requires but one illustration to puncture his assertion completely. If it were true, we would not build modern highways at all, for such impose large increases in taxation; but everyone knows that good roads are essential to economic progress.

It is not the amount of taxes, but what they are used for, which is the test. The sadder the civilization, the lower the scale of living and the smaller the taxes.

Mr. Sibley's U. S. Chamber of Commerce has just asked four questions of over 1000 local associations. Some have refused to answer because the questions were general, vague or partisan. They are clearly framed to imply criticism of the New Deal.

The first one is: "Should there be extension of federal jurisdiction into matters of state and local concern?"

There has been such extension going on ever since the Constitution was adopted. Or, perhaps, the query refers to matters exclusively of state and local concern. We must first answer with the question: "What are such matters?"

The second: "Should the federal government at the present time exercise federal spending power without relation to revenues?" carries its own answer. No sane person, of course, advocates spending without relation to income. Does the Chamber disapprove all expenditures in excess of revenues? Then it would oppose government borrowings. We borrowed 22 billions for the World War; President Hoover borrowed 5 billions during his term. Were those acts "exercise of federal spending power without relation to revenues?"

The fourth question asks: "Should all grants of authority by Congress to the executive department of the federal government be within clearly defined limits?" It cannot be intelligently answered by yes, or no. During the World War Congress granted authority to the President not within "clearly defined limits." War and equivalent crises demand discretionary powers different from those of normal times.

The only question which raises a clear issue is the third. It reads: "Should there be government competition with private enterprise for regulatory or other purposes?"

A conditional answer is necessary. I believe it should be "yes," provided (1) it is vital to correct gross injustice; (2) to relieve acute suffering; (3) to conserve natural resources; (4) to furnish a yardstick for monopoly—in which case legislation should provide that the government must operate under the same conditions of taxation and amortization as the competing private industry—no subsidy.

Unhappily, the Chamber's questionnaire smacks of propaganda rather than of sincere desire to ascertain sentiment. It is no credit to that distinguished organization.

Assessments Against Homesteads Allowed

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Tax levies against homesteads were allowed to stay on Duval county's 1933 assessment rolls by the Supreme Court as it again denied Martin Long of Jacksonville an injunction against taxation of homesteads.

The court upheld Duval county commissioners' contention that such an order would cause confusion and endless delay in collecting current taxes as tax rolls already have been prepared by the tax assessor.

Long, however, was given the right to bring new proceedings which will cover all angles of the tax situation in the case, so that the court might determine them.

Sanford, As "Hot Springs," Vision Of Northerner

18,000, 20 miles from Detroit.

"I stayed there 10 weeks this summer, and the actual cure I noticed were last year, and the prosperity of that small city is materially being enhanced by the thousands of people who go there for the baths, and I truly believe that Sanford and the whole state of Florida can be also benefited if proper bathing facilities are made available for the thousands who annually flock to Florida.

"New York state is booming Saratoga as a bath resort, but the people must be induced to go there whereas Florida will already have a small multitude of strangers in the state.

"Once installed in the mind of citizens of the eastern United States that Florida has superior mineral baths equal to many in other states and which are available in winter, (Arkansas Hot Springs is the only place in the U. S. A. where one can enjoy a winter) I am positive it will bring many more to your shores.

"If this simple New York cure is only slightly improved, and as I write you my thoughts sound out of the wonderful cures of Carlsbad, and I sincerely hope you will look into this matter which I consider as being of great importance to Florida, and which can be done at Sanford or perhaps in some other town."

Phelps said the meeting would be one of the "brightest" in the United States. All but $5,000 of a $50,000 guarantee to the order has been raised by the city, and the fraternity will be certain the remainder would be paid.

Hundreds At Work On Many Projects, Large Number On 2 Sanford Streets

35,419 Taken Off Relief In State

Unemployed May All Be Assigned Work In Next Two Days

The names of only 43 persons remained on the relief rolls in Seminole County last night, officials of the local WPA office were advised. Three government projects were completed yesterday or will be finished today, and this may cause the temporary increasing of the roll by a few names, but all are being rapidly reassigned work. WPA officials stated today that those on relief will probably be assigned work today and tomorrow. The three government projects completed or being completed are the Tusawilla road, the Elm Avenue road and the Lake Mary Longwood road. In their place come two large projects in the City of Sanford—the resurfacing of Park Avenue and First Street pavement—and these are providing employment for the largest number of workers.

Officials of the state headquarters of the WPA in Jacksonville announced yesterday that the new works program for Florida had taken 35,419 persons from the ERA relief rolls. The employment figures in the Orlando district were given in the report as 3,728. The largest number, 1,160, have been given work in the Tampa district, with 6,176 in the Pensacola district rating second, and Jacksonville district ranking third with 6,064. In the Gainesville district employment has been found for 2,229. Madison district 2,672. West Palm Beach district 1,848. Miami district 1,688, and Key West district 1,221.

Figures based on workers' lists of last Monday indicated the WPA had surpassed its quota by 413 persons, opening the way for the ERA to close down direct relief activities by Nov. 30.

Most of the nine districts had taken more than their quotas, but Orlando, according to WPA officials, due principally to the citrus industry, had fallen short. The Jacksonville district, they said, is "about even."

Monday's figures showed 34,956 were employed in the nine districts, 260 on administrative staffs and 213 on state-wide projects. The administrative jobs listed, the officials pointed out, were only those given to relief clients.

Florida At Head Of Procession On Prosperity Road

Sholtz Tells Other Governors Of Good Times Returning

ATLANTA, Nov. 21.—Florida "is leading the nation back to prosperity," Governor Dave Sholtz of Florida told a conference of governors here yesterday. Signs of "returning prosperity" were also noted by the governors of eight other Southern states.

"Our development this year has been safe and sane," said Sholtz. "From every standpoint the year 1935 has been the best in Florida since the boom period, we had more visitors last winter than any season since 1926, and all indications are the coming winter will be even better."

Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, outspoken against the Roosevelt Administration, said "Georgia is making sturdy, strong efforts to a sound, fundamental recovery. She is getting results in spite of the New Deal."

South Carolina's Governor Olin D. Johnston said his state has made "remarkable" progress.

In the neighboring state Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus of North Carolina said better business conditions and improved methods of tax collection are being reflected in increased state revenues.

Gov. Ruby Laffoon said things have picked up in Kentucky but that he was unsure of the future. Refraining from any prophecy about the future, Gov. Sennett Conner of Mississippi called attention to a surplus in the treasury as representing a healthy condition in the delta state.

Seminole County Being Advertised In A. C. L. Booklet

A Seminole County celery field and the Giant Cypress between Longwood and Lake Mary are prominently featured in the 1935-36 edition of "Tropical Trips," published by the Atlantic Coast Line. Copies of this interesting publication described as "a ready reference booklet wherein representative Southern resorts are located on the Coast Line or its connections, and therefore reached with ease and comfort," are widely distributed throughout the United States and Canada and is considered a most valuable means of obtaining publicity and advertising for the sections mentioned on their pages.

Besides the photographs of a celery field and the Giant Cypress, with appropriate titles, and information regarding Sanford's hotels and golf courses, "Tropical Trips" carries the following interesting item:

"SANFORD, FLORIDA—The Celery City," on the shore of Lake Monroe, head of navigation on the St. Johns River, on main line of the Atlantic Coast Line. Sanford is the center of one of Florida's most prosperous sections, has finest soil in the state; fine tourist hotel, The Mayfair. The largest and oldest cypress bog in America and beautiful Sandhills Springs are nearby. Hunting, fishing, golf."

So, again, the thanks of Seminole County folk are extended to the Coast Line for lending such able co-operation and material assistance in the furthering of the advancement and development of Sanford and Florida.

Lawton Chosen President Of Teacher Group

Seminole County Man Is Elected By West Coast Association To Succeed Lynch

T. W. Lawton, superintendent of public instruction in Seminole County, was yesterday elected president of the West Coast School Officials Association at a meeting held in Lakeland. He succeeds the late Captain George M. Lynch, of St. Petersburg. Fred T. Williams, chairman of the Seminole County school board who with board member E. T. Haines of Altamonte Springs attended the convention, said that the honor was given Mr. Lawton because of his long and active service in the association. He has been superintendent of schools in this County for about 20 years.

One of Mr. Lawton's first official acts after being inducted into the office of president of the educational group was to appoint a committee to report on the application of teacher salary schedules as suggested by R. M. Evans, state director of school financing. This schedule is based on the teachers' training and experience. The committee is composed of Superintendents H. B. Hines of Osceola county, Hollingsworth of Polk county and Turnley of Hernando county. Their report will be made at a meeting of the association to be held in Dade City of Dec. 14.

The main discussion at the Dade City meeting, Mr. Lawton forecasts, will be on the proposal to ask for an amendment to the State Constitution that will place the schools on the same level as other departments of the government. He said today that under the recent ruling of the State Supreme Court the educational department of the state is a "step child" with no standing in the matter of financing.

Mr. Lawton appointed W. J. Walker, chairman of the board of instruction of Manatee county, to lead the discussion on the proposed constitutional amendment.

According to the new president of the educational group, most important in the discussions at yesterday's meeting of the educators in Lakeland was that having to do with school finances and the ability of schools to borrow necessary funds. Speakers said that school boards can borrow only up to 80 percent of the state revenue estimated by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, W. S. Cawthon, superintendent of the state, as compared to the governor's assurance of 90,000,000.

E. L. Robinson, vice president of the association and superintendent of schools in Hillsborough county, declared most of the counties face shortened terms unless funds in excess of Cawthon's estimate are raised. Already, he said, boards had pledged most of the money in sight, against loans.

Only one county is assured of a nine-month term, said W. J. Walker of Bradenton, Manatee county superintendent and chairman of the association's resolutions committee.

He added three counties could count on eight months, three on seven and the rest of the 47 counties answering a poll looked for terms ranging from four to six and one-half months.

The school outlay has been exaggerated in some estimates, running as high as $25,000,000, Walker said. He said the highest expenditure, in 1928, was about $15,000,000, while the total raised from state and county operating funds last year was about $12,000,000.

John Irwin, colored, living at 1719 Avocado Avenue in the Goldsboro section of Sanford, would delight the heart of Demosthenes. He found a pocketbook today that contained $4.62, a watch, fountain pen and other valuables, and though he was "broke," out of a job and on the relief roll, he promptly brought his find to The Herald office in the belief that the owner could thereby be found. He was right, because shortly before he appeared a "lost" ad for the pocketbook was ordered in today's issue by Mrs. Everett M. Hinshaw of Fern Park. Irwin found the pocketbook at the corner of Sanford Avenue and First Street. He has lived in Sanford all his life.

Church Club Favors 'Billy' Zachry's Idea

Members of the Men's Club of the Episcopal Church agree with "Billy" Zachry, high school student, that proper recreational pursuits must be provided for the youth of this city to offset questionable modern diversions. Young Zachry told the Rotary Club a few days ago that Sanford should provide the right environment for its young people, and his ideas were passed on to the Men's Club at its meeting last night by W. A. Leffler, Rotarian and city commissioner, with the result that the Club voted to lend its aid to any movement to obtain more recreational facilities.

The Club also voted to endeavor to revive its Boy Scout troop and a committee was appointed to scout around for a scoutmaster. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting which was largely attended. It was the first session of the Club under the presidency of A. L. Betts who was elected a month ago to succeed H. H. Coleman.

AAA Officials Hold Hearing On Chase Case

Sanford Firm Denies Constitutionality Of AAA In Failing To Pay Assessments

Denying Chase & Company's contention that the AAA is unconstitutional and that therefore the Celery Control Committee was without legal authority to collect assessments on celery shipments, officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration conducted its hearing against the Sanford concern this morning. The proceedings were held in the Seminole County Court House by G. Osmond Hyde of the solicitor's office of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C. Mr. Hyde also acted as prosecuting attorney and at times served as a witness.

It was a fact finding hearing. No decision was rendered at its conclusion, but the evidence adduced will be reported to Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture in Washington, together with Hyde's recommendations, and the secretary will make his findings within the next 10 days.

Chase & Company, represented at the hearing by A. E. Carpenter of the legal firm of Warlow & Carpenter of Orlando, presented no evidence at the hearing, but instead filed a stipulation agreeing to the correctness of the government's report as to the number of cars of celery it shipped last season (1934) and to that fact that it refused to pay any funds to the Celery Control Committee.

A stipulation from the Secretary of Agriculture was also noted in the report that "Chase & Company did not sign the Celery Marketing agreement, opposed issuance of a license, and did not acquiesce therein or ratify the same."

The Celery Control Committee and the Secretary of Agriculture, who directs the destinies of the AAA, claim that Chase & Company owe approximately $49,000 assessment of $1 per car on each car of celery shipped to the committee as its prorata assessment for that committee. Chase & Company did not sign the agreement never consented to the action of the committee and did not pay the assessment, though the company cooperated with the celery control committee in order not to hamper the exportation.

The Secretary of Agriculture claims a breach of terms of the license by Chase & Company's refusal to pay assessments.

Chase & Company did not dispute the facts and in offering no evidence at today's hearing, takes the position that the AAA is unconstitutional and that the Secretary of Agriculture has no power to assess a celery shipper who did not sign the celery agreement.

M. F. Miller, field investigator of the AAA, of Washington, has accompanied Mr. Hyde on a week's tour of the celery section, gathering evidence, was at the hearing, as were also Loring Raoul, of Nassau, chairman, and Chas. H. Pickett, of Sarasota, secretary of the celery control committee, and H. B. Day of Tampa, of the general crops section of the AAA.

Mr. Hyde stated that the Chase & Company case is the first of its kind, though he has handled more than 40 other cases having to do with alleged violations of other sections of the AAA code.

Lord Jellicoe rose to his greatest fame as commander of the biggest fleet ever concentrated in the history of the world at the Battle of Jutland in 1916.

All the members of his family, including his wife, were at his bedside when he died at 6:50 P. M. in his home, 1, de Kensington, District of London.

Fletcher Sees No Revision Of Banking Laws

"Breathing Spell" Is To Extend Through Next Session, Says Florida Senator

(A P) WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—U. Fletcher, Chairman of the Florida Democratic Party, Democrat, of the long over-worked Senate banking committee, forecast that so far as banking and monetary legislation are concerned President Roosevelt's "breathing spell" will extend at least through the next session of Congress. He said he saw no need for any new legislation on either subject. For the first time for several years, he added, the session was nearing without any substantial demands for revision of bank laws.

The senator's statement marked a turning point in New Deal legislative history. Ever since the stock market crash, the banking committee has been continuously laboring virtually rewriting the nation's banking and monetary laws.

Landis Okeys Using His Name In Two Job Cases

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Attorney General Cary D. Landis today consented to the use of his name in court proceedings to contest the employment of members of the 1935 Legislature in other state departments. He told Joe C. Jenkins, Gainesville attorney, to proceed with an action in the Second Judicial Circuit against the right of 19 members of the House and Senate to be employed by the State Road Department, the motor vehicle commissioner and the livestock sanitary board. The permission was given, Landis said, with the understanding that all costs of the case be paid by M. A. Collins, of Jacksonville, Jenkins' client, and not by the state.

They again had favorable weather today.

'Corn' Belt Would File Briefs For AAA Process Tax

Farmers Ask Permission To Help With Government's Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A group of "corn belt" farmers asked the Supreme Court today for permission to file a brief supporting the government in a case expected to decide the constitutionality of AAA processing taxes. Vernon A. Vrooman of Des Moines, Iowa, who filed it, said the brief was for a League of Economic Equality, an "organization supported by farmers and friends in four of the corn belt states, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and South Dakota."

Earlier, John W. Davis, one-time Democratic candidate for President and critic of New Deal activities, asked the court for permission to join the Hoosier Mills in contesting the validity of AAA taxes.

A brief presented by Vrooman said the Hoosier Mills case, set for argument on Dec. 9, involves matters of vital concern to the farmers. "The supreme subject of the constitution as a whole is the general welfare of the people of the United States," it contended. The brief argued that the framers of the Constitution who approved tariffs would have found the AAA "equally unconstitutional."

Rev. George Hyman, Former Resident, Is Stricken In Miami

Dispatches to morning papers report that the Rev. George Hyman, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Sanford, but now pastor of the Temple Baptist Church in Miami, was stricken with cerebral hemorrhage while addressing a meeting of the Pilot Club in Miami night before last. Reports were that he remained in a serious condition yesterday, but that physicians were hopeful improvement would be shown in his condition within the next week or two.

The Rev. Hyman was pastor of the Baptist Church in Sanford from 1913 to 1917 when he entered the service as a chaplain overseas. He returned to his parsonage in this city after the war and guided the destinies of the local church for three more years when he went to Tampa as assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church, later organizing the Bay Shore Baptist Church in that city. He has been pastor of the Temple Church in Miami for about three years.

Miami Will Continue Slot Machine Fight

MIAMI, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The City of Miami defied the State of Florida again yesterday by providing severe penalties for operation of slot machines.

Courting threatened mandamus action, the city commission curtly rejected the plea of prospective operators for licensing of slot machines as provided by the 1935 legislative act legalizing the coin devices.

This done, the commissioners specifically banned operation of slot machines and fixed the maximum penalty for violations at 90 days imprisonment and $500 fine, the top sentence allowed under Miami's municipal charter.

Persons who play the forbidden machines also may be prosecuted.

Italian Planes Flew Over Same Area As Surveyed By Ruler

By The Associated Press
Premier Mussolini released 100,000 Italian troops from military duties for three months today to strengthen Italy's resistance to the League of Nations' sanctions. An official statement said that troops granted leaves would assist in speeding up industrial and agricultural production. The government stated the action had no "international significance."

As French and British experts revived peace talks in Paris, another French quarter said Mussolini would not be interested in any peace proposals until the new Italian commander, Marshal Pietro Badoglio, had "a chance to win a few battles."

Emperor Haile Selassie was back in Addis Ababa today, having completed an aerial tour of the southern war front shortly before two fascist airplanes flew over the section he had surveyed. Unexpected rains slowed the advance of the Italian southern army while the northern army was busy building roads, camps, and bringing up supplies.

Autonomy Move In North China Suddenly Halted

(By The Associated Press)
The autonomy movement in five provinces of North China came to an abrupt halt today and indications were seen in Tokyo that Imperial suggestion was responsible for the sudden hiatus. Official sources in Shanghai expressed fear that the halt was only temporary, but both Japanese and Chinese quarters agreed it was definite.

The Japanese army's high command in Tokyo instructed its subordinates on the Asiatic continent that officers conniving in Chinese separatist movements were exceeding their authority. Japanese military leaders in China were reported to have told Chinese national leaders to undertake their own reforms in North China, introducing into the area regime and public attitude more acceptable to the Japanese.

Certain Chinese officials, however, pointed out that the Japanese army on the continent often exercised independent action and expressed fear it might do so again.
