Confidences Swapped By Representatives Of Two Countries

LONDON, May 5.—Alonso Houghton, newly appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James, made his bow to a British audience Monday night at the traditional dinner of the Pilgrims, which always is the first to welcome a new American representative to London and always the first to receive a full and frank expression of his views on vital matters which affect the relations between the two countries. It was a night of plain speaking, Ambassador Houghton, in a brief and concise address, told his audience that the United States had a right to expect a settlement of Europe's existing troubles, and that unless peace was established in Europe the United States would have to play a less and less active part in the world's affairs.

IDEAL THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FOR HOURLY exercise profitably little, but Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.—I Timothy 4:8.

THE TEST

This is the test of a man, Does he stand to the blow? Is he willing to go Just as far as he can For the right, and not break When his honor's at stake?

He who has plenty can pay With a smile what he owes, But the true splendor glows In the spirit of him who will say: "No dollar is mine that I get While I stand 'neath a debt."

A pledged word is easy to keep When there's little to lose, But when you must stand up and choose Between hardships and sufferings deep And the soft way dishonor would take, It is then that your soul is at stake.

The test of the man is the blow, The storm and the tempest and strife, Not the soft, sunny days of his life, But the length he's willing to go, And the hardship he'll bear and go through Because it's the right thing to do.

Tennessee may prevent the teaching of Darwinism but they can stop evolution.—Sanford Herald. The principal result of Tennessee's foolishness will be to inspire a lot of young people to read Darwin, and any person, except a bigoted ignoramus who reads Darwin, will be impressed by the reason of his statements. And no person will find an attack on religion in anything Darwin wrote.—Ogila Star.

It's Results That Count

Not long ago Charles Dawes arose in the Senate of the United States and created a furore which placed tottering solons on the brink of eternal peace and made younger men who sat in the chamber, age considerably, while the echoes resounded from coast to coast and have not yet completely died.

Not that the Vice President said anything unbecoming, or said anything varying greatly from what other vice presidents before him might have said. He neither took the name of the Lord in vain, intimated a war with Japan, nor suggested an oil well probe. Apparently it was not what the Vice President said, but the way he said it that disturbed everyone.

Nothing is offensive in the Senate if it is properly presented, but the slightest deviation from "Senate Rules" will start a commotion which won't subside for days. They are very fussy about little things in the Senate. Mr. Dawes didn't show the proper respect for senatorial dignity, or red tape, and it made some of the old boys sore.

Referring to the incident in a speech he gave before a group of Boston business men, Mr. Dawes said:

"It was the way I said it ('Senate Rules') not what I said, that gave rise to irritation in Washington. My grief over that irritation is somewhat tempered by a remark of George Bernard Shaw, that no offensive truth is properly presented unless it causes irritation.

"And may I am going to say a few things. And I am going to say them because Senator William M. Butler is here to listen.

"I am going to appeal to you as part of Senator Butler's constituency to express your opinion on this subject of Senate rules."

"Did our forefathers have in mind when they framed the Constitution the lodging with any one of 96 Senators a power greater than the veto power of the President of the United States? Would they have said, when our laws must have the concurrent action of two houses of Congress, when they must be subject to the veto power of the President, and get again subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States, that a further check was needed in the shape of power, placed in the hands of one Senator, to block all legislation power that he might sometimes use for his own personal gain?"

"I want Senator Butler to know how you feel about it. All of you who think the Senate rules might be changed, stand up. Come on. Get up and say so right now."

It was not strange that all stood up, all applauded, and all sat down together. It was not strange because all were business men, not senators; except the venerable Senator Butler and even he rose with the rest, overwhelmed by popular opinion.

But there is the difference between business men and senators. What do business men care for rules and decorum, etiquette and things like that? It's results they want.

One For Sanford, By All Means

Is Sanford to have a "Clean-Up Campaign" this Spring? If so, what dates for the affair are set? If not, why not?

Sanford, taking it all in all, is commendably clean. The visitor from the average town would even go so far as to say Sanford is remarkably clean. But the campaign could be of much benefit. It is the general psychological effect of a "Clean-Up Campaign" that is worth many times the bother and expense that such a campaign occasions.

When a man washes his face, says Dr. W. A. Evans, one of the country's greatest authorities on public health problems, he "hones" to put on a clean collar. When a man cleans up his lot, sweeps out his house, and paints and whitewashes generally, he "hones" for a clean collar—that clean collar is better health for himself and family.

And along this line, The Sanitarian magazine says: "Sanitary standards are raised by 'Clean Up Campaigns' and there is so much talk about the disease carrying power of insects and rodents and of dust and grime, people begin to feel uncomfortable in surroundings that are not strictly sanitary. For months after a 'Clean-Up' program has been carried out in a community, that community displays a real conscience in the matter of warfare against any agency it thinks is distributing germs.

Then again, the "clean collar" is often a new flower garden, some new vines for the porch, a beautiful lawn—things that add to the beauty of a neighborhood. Sometimes out of the co-operation of a "Clean Up Week" neighborhood improvement associations came into existence and act most effectively for the betterment of the entire community.

Sanford should not fail to have a "Clean-Up Campaign" this Spring. "Clean-Up, Paint Up, Plant Some Flowers" let that be the slogan, with everybody helping everybody else to make the affair a notable success.

TO THINK immortal, time can do no wrong, And that a boy a never is to die for ever must be young.—Cowley.

THE NATURE of everything is best seen in its smallest portions.—Aristotle.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

The original of my fiction character of "Judge Priest" was a certain Judge William Bishop, now deceased. He was a wonderful old man—shrewd, simple, kindly, witty, gentle, merciful, and one of the most perfect interpreters of human character that the Border South ever produced.

One time, a good many years ago, the old Judge was acting as chairman of a committee of three lawyers who sat to examine a gauching young man from the country who sought a license to practice at the local bar. The candidate had started out to be a blacksmith, but he had decided that wearing a frock coat and making speeches to juries would be easier than bending mule shoes and shrinking wagon tires, and so he made application for admission to the less arduous profession.

"Henry, my son," he began in his usual benignant fashion, "I suppose you have done a course of reading with a view to acquiring the rudiments of this calling of ours and thereby fitting yourself for your new career?"

"Well, Judge, I done some reading, but not so very much," confessed Henry. "I aims to do the most of my readin' after I opens an office."

"Well, let's see just what readin' you have done," pursued Judge Bishop. "I assume naturally that you have read Blackstone?"

"Black which, judge?"

"Blackstone, author of great textbooks on the practice and principle of the law."

The candidate shook his head. "I ain't never heard of him," he confessed.

"Well, how about Coke?"

"I don't know of I ever heard tell of him, neither."

"Well, surely then you have studied the Constitution of the United States of America and the constitution and the bill of Rights of the state of Kentucky?"

"To tell you the truth, judge, I ain't got round to them yet," admitted the aspiring blacksmith.

"Henry," pressed Judge Bishop, "suppose you tell us just what books—what authorities—you have studied since you became seized with the desire to become a member of our bar?"

As Brisbane Sees It

Hush, Little Baby "Sneak and Jibber Somebody Must Be Rich We Must Learn, Rev. Sir. By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

THE PRESIDENT invites business to take its mind from Washington, "free from apprehension of sudden frightening development," and attend to its knitting.

The big business that message sounds like the voice of a mother singing, "Go To Sleep, My Baby, Mama Won't Let The Black Man Get You." The black man in this case is radicalism.

BUT, unhappily, you can't keep a hard radical down. New York radicals hired the Metropolitan Opera House for a "musical fete" and then sang "the Internationale." That's a revolutionary hymn, containing the preposterous suggestion that all men are equal, and they should divide property on a Communist basis.

YOU haven't heard the worst. Those radicals actually sang, stamped their feet, and told what they would do to "capitalistic government sitting right in the expensive boxes of the diamond horse shoe."

That's where fashionable ladies sit, in the season, with ropes of pearls around their necks, diamonds "stomachers" over their little color dresses, diamond earrings on their heads, innocently imagining themselves quite different from their African sister with a piece of bone stuck through her lower lip. And that's where the landlords sit, behind the pearls and diamonds, wondering what they will do to the stock market next day.

Can you imagine radical selecting such a hallowed spot for their elections. It reminds us that a spirit did "sneak and jibber" in the streets of Rome.

THE NEXT time anybody asks "how do things look," you can reply, "Well, somebody has got money."

The turn over, by check, in New York's banks, on Friday, was one billion, six hundred and ninety-seven million dollars, breaking the highest record previously held by London.

YOU HAVE read about that single check for one hundred and forty six million dollars, signed on record paid by Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Read & Company, for the Dodge Motor business.

Our business men are doing things on a big scale. And they must operate in a big way if they want to compete with Europe, where whole nations go into business on a national scale.

INDIVIDUAL concerns here, like Judge Gary's steel company, Mr. Rockefeller's oil concern, Henry Ford's automobile business, eclipse by 100 per cent or more any similar individual or national business anywhere else in the world. The thing to do is to hold that supremacy. Bigness counts.

DEAN INGE, of St. Paul's, London, says an autocracy, like that of Germany, is better than any democracy especially in an emergency. He mentions the wonders accomplished by Germany during the war, building off for five years, Russia, France, England, Belgium, Canada, Australia, Japan, etc., including Italy and the United States part of the time.

THE VERY Rev. Inge says the weak spot in German autocracy was the Kaiser. That's it you cannot have autocracy without an autocrat, and your autocrat is the agent of birth. You may have a strong man in one reign, a half first blunderer in another, a weakling, and so on.

THE GREAT advantage of the Catholic church, through ten centuries, from the point of view of a layman, resides in the fact that she, kings and emperors were subjects of birth, kings were chosen for their ability, by the keenest body of men in the world, the college of cardinals.

ALSO Reverend Dean Inge, comparing democracy with autocracy, or like comparing a baby held in its nurse's arms, with a baby learning to walk, falling down and bumping the little forehead.

The child is safer, of course, in the arms of its autocrat, the nurse, but it must learn to walk sometime. That's what we are doing, perhaps more efficiently in Britain, preserving their king as a convenient symbol. We're just preserving democracy, building on to the coat tail of plutocracy, is steady ourselves, a little. Come around in 500 and 1,000 years, and we'll show you.

DR. NED McLean's daily philosopher writes, "The agricultural bloc cannot understand why Colorado farmers pray to rain, when all that is necessary is to pass a law."

The agricultural bloc perhaps has been studying railroads. They don't pray for higher rates. They go before the Inter-tate-Commerce Commission and get them. If farmers could work on the railroad plan they wouldn't have to pray for rain. But high finance and Government say to them, "You farmers must obey the national law of supply and demand. What about the railroad? Oh, that's a different business."

In SOEIA, Communists and others described as "Reds," are trying to kill King Boris. We can't understand why Boris wants to be king, or why anybody wants to kill him.

It is the custom, outside of Bulgaria, to attribute the "Red disorders in Sofia to machinations of the Russian Government.

"HOCH, DER PRESIDENT"

"YES—BUT WE DON'T WANT ANYTHING SAID ABOUT IT"

GAINESVILLE SUN

"Consistently is practically unknown in Gainesville real estate circles. Real estate dealers of the city will "hum and haw" at the boss about the paper not carrying real estate deals and give us particular "h—" and say we are not boosting the town as we should.

"But these same real estate men will pull off a big deal—the reporters of the deal, but when the real dealer is approached on the subject all we can get is "yes—but we don't want anything said about it." Of course we do not expect the abstract people to give out information concerning deals which are in the making, neither do we want the real estate man to give out premature transactions the publicity of which might spoil his sale, but it is up to the real estate man to make it his business to call the press for a reporter when a deal is completed and not go around raising said because the paper is not carrying land sales, building sales or other improvements.

"This paper is always ready to give wide publicity to these things—they mean a larger, better and more progressive Gainesville. That's our primary business here, and if the real estate men don't like it to us how in the world are we going to get it. The columns are open to all live news of any kind. Newspaper reporters are not unprincipled—we have to get the "tip" before we can run down the story. We can't be everywhere at the same time—we couldn't do it if we had a thousand reporters.

"If the real estate men will give us a square deal and put the news out when it is news, we will guarantee the best publicity we can give. This applies not only to real estate men, but to all of our readers who hear anything. Our telephone is 219, and we'll follow up any thing you report to us. Thanks, we're not mad, but are tired of being "snubbed" when it's the other fellows' turn. We have enough to do trouble causing without taking on any one else's business.

"The trouble with Gainesville now is "we don't want anything said about it" and until we come to a realization of that the more that is said about it the better we will be. The city will never progress as it should.

"I might be well for the real estate men to get together and see if they can't get a "Gainesville" and then get it and make some little party differences. That's the only way a "tip" can be "dead" now and then, and by doing make a few dollars."

ADVERTISING DOES PAY

ST. PETERSBURG INDEPENDENT

For a long time St. Petersburg has been held up to other Florida towns as an illustration of what well-directed advertising will do for a municipality. During the past season several towns of the state have made their entry into a municipality, and St. Petersburg is the only one that has not.

The advertising campaign of St. Petersburg, Florida, is a well-documented and successful one. It is the only one of its kind in the state. It is the only one that has not.

THE HAWAIIAN WAR GAME

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

The war game in Hawaii which ended Monday night was intended to disclose the capacity of the land fortifications and the Hawaiian garrison to resist a surprise attack by an enemy fleet. It was a test of the land forces, rather than of the sea forces, and the lessons are to be drawn from the game's decision with, therefore, have a local rather than a general military significance.

The ability of the Hawaiian garrison to hold out is only one factor in the strategic situation in the Pacific. Hawaii is our navy's only lying western operating base. It is a depot for supplies and a place for refitting and repair. But it is hardly conceivable that the Hawaiian Islands should be attacked by an enemy fleet of the strength of the "Blue" fleet unless our own Pacific fleet had first been destroyed. With our Pacific fleet "in being" it would be extremely hazardous for another to come all the way across the Pacific to attack our coasts. If it made a successful landing in Hawaii it would have to give battle to our fleet under the handicap of losses sustained in the seizure. Its communication also would be likely to be cut. ### Italians Consider Using Own Language As Patriotic Thing

ROME, May 5.—William Shakespeare is William Shakespeare in nearly every country of the world, no matter what its language, but in Italy he is Guglielmo Shakespeare, just as George Washington is Giorgio Washington. This is because of the growing nationalism feeling among Italians which makes translation of all foreign proper names into Italian a corollary of patriotism. No nation or language is exempted.
