

Politically Speaking..

There's rather intriguing question in the election laws of the State of Florida.

The law provides that names of candidates without opposition in the party primary need not appear on the ballot in the primary but do appear in the general election.

Therefore, the question: How can they be legally nominated when no one casts a single vote for them in the primary?

The law says its sufficient that they qualify for the primary and, since they have no opposition, they are automatically nominated.

But it seems that at least one vote should be cast for them to make it legal for their names to appear on the general election ballot.

It also seems that should someone, after the primary, challenge this question in court they might succeed in throwing out the law . . . and the unopposed candidates. Good question for a would-be write-in candidate.

Sen. Strom Thurmond upset the apparent for his followers in Florida seeking to draft him for the Democratic nomination for president.

Some 32 Floridians handed together and qualified with the Secretary of State as candidates in the Democratic primary for delegates to the Democratic national convention.

But the South Carolina union directed Secretary of State Tom Adams to delete his name from the ballot . . . and Adams did so.

Jim Talmadge, of Sanford, one of the candidates, telegraphed Adams insisting his name appear on the ballot for Thurmond.

The Sanford Herald checked Tallahassee and learned a court ruling of several years ago upheld the Secretary of State when the late Sen. Estes Kefauver directed his name be withdrawn from the Florida primary.

Talmadge indicated he will be willing to accept his $50 filing fee refund without further to-do.

Secretary of State Adams estimated there are 1.5 million persons in Florida qualified but not registered to vote May 5.

On the other hand, Registrar Caml Bruce estimates the total count of Seminole County qualified electors will set an all-time high when she completes the count. Registration of voters closed last Saturday.

Adams also reports there are in excess of two million registered voters in the state.

Gubernatorial candidate Fred Dickinson points out the state could save $15 million annually by eliminating the duplication of duties of the various state commissions, bureaus and agencies.

In his 21-step program, Sen. Jack Mathews, here again last week in his campaign for governor, claims "the state that neglects education is inviting federal education. I believe that problems of government should be solved at the local level if at all possible, at the state level only when these problems cross county lines, and at the federal level only when the problem is so vast the state cannot or will not meet it."

He continues: "I believe it is the responsibility of the governor to display the leadership that would solve Florida's problems as they arise, and where they should be solved—in Florida."

Just about all the gubernatorial candidates are attacking the 1964 increase in the cost of automobile and truck license tags . . . and advocating repeal of this hike.

Party primaries are only four weeks away . . . May 3. Local candidates should commence swinging in earnest about now. So far, there has only been hand shaking, card passing and some personal appearances at some social events and small rallies.

Free World Mourns MacArthur's Death

TOKYO (UPI) — Generals and statesmen, diplomats, an emperor, and the man on the street today mourned Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

From Tokyo to London, the old soldier's death made headlines and brought tributes. Only the Communists attacked his memory.

Leaders of the Philippines, where he served as a young officer 61 years ago, Japan, where he laid the foundations of democracy after World War II victory, and Korea, where he commanded UN troops against the Communists, spoke for their nations when they praised the general.

Lyman Brain Team Loses

By Jane Casselberry

Lyman High School's Brain Team lost their last Brain Bowl Match of the season to four very bright young men from Daytona Mainland High who outwitted them 360 to 115 last Thursday night at Lyman.

Representing Lyman were Frank Renew, Donna Lundgren, Pete Carlson and Ken Ament. Sponsor is Fletcher Cockrell.

On the Mainland team were Douglas Short, Ross Ashley, Eric Van Horn and Greg Hollinger, captain. Sponsors are Miss Anne Singer and Bill Whorley.

Ray Pharr, assistant principal at Lyman, served as moderator. Mr. and Mrs. Paul French were judges.

Only Two Preserved

Only two of the letters written by George Washington to his wife, Martha, are known to exist. Almost all of their correspondence was destroyed after Washington's death.

The news of MacArthur's death was flashed by radio to lonely outposts of Corregidor and Bataan, and Filipino veterans of the Pacific war mourned the man who promised them: "I shall return."

In Tokyo, sorrowing Japanese lined up to sign the book of condolences in the U. S. Embassy.

Radio Moscow reported MacArthur's death in a single sentence without comment. But Communist East Germany's news agency called him the commander of "aggressive troops" in Korea and "a rabid advocate of preventive war."

Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda cabled President Johnson that MacArthur is remembered here "not only as a soldier but as a friend." "Representing the victor nations, MacArthur came to Japan," he said. "With sympathy and wisdom, he contributed to Japan's rehabilitation."

Woman's Club Has Annual Election Meeting

By Jane Casselberry

Mrs. Kenneth Green was named president of the Casselberry Woman's Club at the annual election meeting held last Wednesday during a business and social evening at the Club building on Overbrook Drive.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Edward Pender, vice president; Mrs. Edward Lunn, recording secretary; Mrs. Velvet Jacobs, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Eleanor Storr, treasurer.

Guest speaker for the evening was Howland A. Sarra, advisor on senior citizens insurance from the office of J. Edwin Larson, state treasurer and insurance commissioner.

Sarra spoke on the difficulties of obtaining adequate health insurance covering those from 65 years up. He stated that only 80 companies properly licensed in the state now offer plans specifically designed to fit the needs of senior citizens. Much helpful information was made available during a question and answer period following his talk.

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Nance Russell who presented a Gypsy dance accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Dunwoody on the accordion.

A new 40-inch electric range and 40 gallon electric water heater have been purchased by the club. Mrs. Thomas Hueston, president, expressed the appreciation of the club to Ben and Miller Evans who donated their time in helping install the necessary wiring on the new appliances.

Refreshments of cookies, cake, coffee and tea were served following the program by the hostesses, Mrs. Storr, Mrs. Clarence Doebener and Mrs. Joseph Cisewski.

The new officers will be installed at a luncheon to be held at the Imperial House in Winter Park on Thursday, April 16, beginning at 12:30 p. m. Members and guests planning to attend should make reservations with Mrs. I. E. Swope.

What's In This Series For You?

Written for NEA
Time your reading of this column and compare your speed with that indicated at the end. The expected speed assumes a daily five per cent improvement.
Have you met the fellow who loathes social science because his text is too heavy? You eventually will. And the cute coed who just can't stand geometry because of the terrible pastel color of the book's cover? She's around too.
Oh, you're not that way? You just love all kinds of books and reading and have no problems at all with them? Well then, we haven't met you yet. In fact, we have never heard of you.
Assuming he has most of his marbles, just why should a high school or college student ever read 20 articles about reading in his native language? There's a very simple reason: to read faster and better. It's the same reason that has brought a lot of professional people and business executives to The Reading Laboratory program—after they've become successful. You can get a jump on them.

But we'd better get straight on what's in this for you right now. Will you settle for understanding instead of aggravation in your assigned reading? Will you take speed instead of plodding misery? Well, that's what's in this for you, and we'll do it this way. We'll take your reading

In the subjects for which you can spare little affection. Follow along with us and you'll get through your work twice as fast and with far better understanding.

See that circle right above this line? Poke a hole through it. Ask one of your buddies or one of the family to read the next paragraph while you observe his eyes through the hole. You have to look very closely. Here's what you see. The eyes stop . . . go . . . stop . . . go. They move across the lines in jerks (fixations is a nicer word). The eyes can work no other way, so we have no plans of changing that. What we will do is cut to an absolute minimum the number of eye fixations required in reading. In that way we add speed.

Now let your friend look at your eyes through the hole as you read the next paragraph. Tell him to count the number of eye fixations it takes you to read the next paragraph. There will be 66 words, so if you require 66 fixations, you're a word-by-word reader. And that's not good.
It's a safe bet that you have many times found yourself staring at a word, line or paragraph, yet read nothing. Your eyes are on page 14; your mind is off on Cloud 9 with a girl or a guy. Unless both the eyes and the mind work together, there's no reading, no understanding. That's just something we have to live with—the eye-mind relationship.
The final point we have to agree on before we outline our program in the next article is that you must have clear purposes in reading. And the purposes must be yours, not your dad's not your teacher's—yours.

Some people can be motivated by what's ahead for them 10 years from now and they'll get plenty from their reading. But that's not generally true; most people want to know what they will get for themselves here and now. We'll show you how to read with just such purposes in mind and get more than you ever got from say, world history. And you'll save plenty of time in the process.
(You should have completed this reading in 100 seconds.)

'To Cure More, Give More', Is Cancer Slogan

The theme, "To Cure More, Give More," will again be used by the American Cancer Society during the crusade which opens next Monday.
Mrs. Richard Gleason, crusade chairman, said the society will continue to use its slogan, "Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check."
"Both slogans are meaningful, all of us admit cancer is an urgent problem," Mrs. Gleason explained. "About 630,000 will develop cancer in 1964. There will be more than 280,000 deaths from the disease this year. There were 84 deaths in Seminole County last year."
"In the face of this, we must waste no time in developing new cures for cancer and better detection techniques because lost time means lost lives. The Society's broad research program is geared to move ahead toward this end."
Also she said, the society must move ahead with its education and service programs—both of which are saving lives now.
"To Cure More, Give More," according to Mrs. Gleason, "reflects the Society's determination to reach more people with life-saving facts about cancer; provide more physicians with the latest facts about detection and treatment; to support more scientists in the growing cancer research field, and to supply more service to cancer patients."

His talk in DeBary will be in response to popular request growing out of his previous address on this subject. This meeting, which will be held May 8, 7 p.m. at DeBary Manor, also will be open to the public.

In other business, members voted to send the annual mortgage payment for repairs on the Mansion House to the Florida Federation of Art, Inc. It was announced that Clinton Sommer is home from the hospital and members were asked to remember him with cheerful cards and letters. Attention was called to the work being done by students from the Methodist Children's Home in Enterprise under direction of Clinton Sommer and Archie MacNaughton as instructors. Lovely landscapes in oils have been painted by many of the youngsters who show remarkable talent.
Members were asked to notice the rug in the DeBary Room which has been cleaned and relaid.
A Critique was held following the meeting with Chester Eldridge, club president, pinch-hitting for Arthur Bennett who was unable to be present. Paintings of Frieda Stern and Kathleen Rand, both of DeLand, were submitted for discussion and criticism.

According to the National Dairy Council, more than 40 per cent of the nation's milk supply is used as fluid milk and cream. Most of the rest is used as butter, cheese, ice cream and other frozen dairy foods.

In 1890 it took 26 minutes of factory work to pay for a quart of milk selling at the average price of 6.8 cents. Today it takes less than seven minutes to earn the price of a quart of home delivered milk figured at 25.2 cents per quart.

Springs Town Council has given the library $300 for the 1964 year.
It was suggested that a building committee be formed to work toward securing a larger building after Earl DeLoe, architect, inspected the present facility and advised against its enlargement.
There are now 5,100 books on the library shelves and 1,200 books were processed during the past year.

Special guest at the meeting was Altamonte Mayor Lawrence Swofford who spoke on the theme, "A New Building for the Library." Swofford stated that "though Altamonte Springs as a whole had made excellent progress, the library should take first place in this field." The Altamonte

FOR THE MAN WHO HAS EVERYTHING (well, almost)

Ever feel like getting away from it all and heading for the back country? It's the easiest thing in the world in a 'Jeep' Gladiator with a camper unit. Just pack up your gear for hunting, fishing, skiing, birdwatching, rock hunting or whatever your pleasure may be.
No need to worry about sleeping accommodations, either. They're right with you wherever you go to keep you snug, warm, dry and comfortable regardless of the weather.
And because it's attached to a 'Jeep' Gladiator, you can go wherever you like . . . places which might previously have been accessible only on foot or on horseback. The unit is removable, too. Whenever you require a workhorse of a pickup truck with a large bed and extra load carrying capacity, you have it.
Sound exciting? It is! It's available in either 2- or 4-wheel drive, in 7- or 8-foot length. Deluxe or standard. Why not see your 'Jeep' dealer today and have a look at the Gladiator with attached camper unit. Maybe you can become the man who has everything. (Well, almost.)

Anna Miller Circle Makes Annual Visit To Hospital

Members of the Anna Miller Circle made their annual Easter trip to the Harry Anna Crippled Children's Hospital in Umatilla last Sunday, laden with gifts and Easter goodies for the 68 children hospitalized.

The lobby of the hospital was transformed into an Easter Bunnyland, centered with a colorful bunny house in replica of a gingerbread house. Small bunnies and chicks were peeking out the windows at the large six foot white Easter Bunny. Grass carpeted the floor outside the bunny house, which the circle members adorned with an assortment of colored eggs.

MRS. HARRY ADAIR and Mrs. James Wehry are admiring some of the gifts the Anna Miller Circle presented to the Harry Anna Children's Hospital in Umatilla as part of their annual Easter project.

The Anna Miller Circle made the Easter bunny and bunny house in previous years, and presented them to the hospital as one of their worthwhile projects. Ladies of the circle who made this trip were the Mmes. James Wehry, Hulon Hale, Clyde Ellison and James Hoolahan Jr.

Miss Susan Oyler Feted At Shower

Miss Susan Oyler was honored guest of a miscellaneous bridal shower last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Harvey Broadway, on the Old Orlando Highway, with Mrs. Sterl Weber acting as co-hostess.

A wedding tree, unique in design, was centered on a table in clear visibility upon entering the party rooms. The tree was created from frilly white net pom-poms, each centered with a blue French bow, and various charms, symbolic of the wedding tradition, were attached to each bow.

The gifts were presented to the bride-elect in a wishing well, ornately decorated in blue and white, the bride's wedding colors, and the replica of a genuine wishing well. Beautiful arrangements of assorted spring flowers adorned the party area, and the honoree was presented a lovely corsage of gold carnations. The serving table was overlaid with an imported white linen cloth, centered with a crystal punch bowl, with crystal service and white candles on each side. The unusual sheet cake was decorated in blue and white, and centered with a miniature bride and groom. Assorted nuts and candies were served from silver and crystal compotes.

Guests included the Mmes. W. E. Oyler, R. E. Soderblom, Mona Bridges, Ruby Wade, Helen Tyne, Jo Roberts, Juanita Clay, Emma Riser, Sarah Lee, Midge Walstrom, Ely Queen, Magie Ensrud, Jean Miller, Mercedes Sirianna, Barbara Nelson and Nancy Chancey. Also the Mises Linda Soderblom and Beverly Riser.

Standard brings you the first new antiknock compound since Ethyl

Methyl

Our new refinery at Pascagoula, now producing the new Standard Methyl gasoline, is America's most modern refinery.

It's an important gasoline discovery! Methyl* steps up octane performance so effectively that it stops power-wasting knock better than any other antiknock compound. Methyl spreads more evenly throughout all cylinders of your engine, stands up under extreme temperatures. And it's in Standard gasolines (Crown and Crown Extra) . . . at no increase in price! Another way that we take better care of your car.
