

Pentagon Says Walker Was 'Birch' Member

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon has disclosed that Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, former commander of the 24th Infantry Division, was a member of the controversial John Birch Society. However, an Army official report on the events leading up to Walker's loss of command mentioned there was only a coincidental similarity between the Society's program and Walker's own "pro-blue" anti-Communist indoctrination program for troops.

The Army report, signed by Lt. Gen. Frederic J. Brown, inspector general for the case, was made public Thursday after it was supplied to the Senate Armed Services Committee. The committee is considering whether to investigate an alleged conspiracy to murder anti-Communist statements of military leaders. The Army's report on Walker, an 80-page document dealing with a variety of allegations, included the conclusions on which the much decorated officer was given an official admonishment and stripped of his European command, it said.

Walker made derogatory statements, alleging leftist influence on former President Truman, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and similar statements against three noted newsmen, Edward R. Murrow, Walter Cronkite and Eric Sevareid.

Walker violated the law and Army regulations by attempting to influence his troops to a voting analysis with a "conservative bias."

North Orlando Family Visits Relatives, Friends On Trip

By MONA GRINSTEAD
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nall and children, Pam, Kenny and Lisa of North Orlando visited on their recent summer vacation, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Nall, and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell McWhite, and their family and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Leona Young, all of Pensacola. At the time of their visit, Mrs. Young was confined to the hospital.

Other relatives visited during that time included another grandmother, Mrs. Genettie Nall and a brother, H. H. Nall, in Cottage Hill. The death of his grandmother caused Mr. Nall a return trip early this week from his North Orlando home to funeral services which were scheduled to be held in Lenox, Ala.

Before returning from their vacation, the Nalls went to Ft. Walton and to Eglin AFB where they visited former North Orlando residents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey and their children, Frankie and Laura. While there they attended a barbecue-beach party, toured the air base and spent many happy hours reminiscing with their host and hostess.

On their way home, they stopped at the Stephen Foster Memorial in White Springs and Game Reserve at Welaka. They also stopped at the Suwannee River State Park.

While the family was in Pensacola, Lisa celebrated her first birthday with her grandmother Nall baking the cake. Mrs. Nall had been with each of her grandchildren for the first birthday celebration and had baked the cake for each occasion.

Florida Acts On Water Pollution

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The problem of pollution of Florida waters by wastes from neighboring states is being attacked by cooperating state agencies, Assistant Director Earle Frye of the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission reported this week.

The chain reactions and effects of interstate pollution are especially evident in the waters of northern Florida. Rivers and streams originating north of the Florida border are being polluted, with wastes and poisons carried downstream to cause damage to Florida interests. Of the more important streams so polluted are the Escambia, Ochlockonee and St. Mary's rivers in Florida, Frye said.

The State Board of Health and Game Commission are consulting with the proper agencies in neighboring states to explore the situation and discover remedies.

While the family was in Pensacola, Lisa celebrated her first birthday with her grandmother Nall baking the cake. Mrs. Nall had been with each of her grandchildren for the first birthday celebration and had baked the cake for each occasion.

Social Security Payments Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 3.7 million Americans, including former slaves and veterans of the Indian wars, will get bigger Social Security checks this week.

Under the liberalized benefits enacted by Congress earlier this year, one out of every four persons drawing Social Security will get a bigger check.

The oldest of the beneficiaries, Charlie Smith of Polk City, Fla., will get a $7 raise to $47 a month. Smith, 118 years old, was seized off the coast of Liberia when he was 12 and sold in the New Orleans slave market in 1835.

The new amendments provide a 10 per cent increase in benefits to aged widows and raise payments of persons receiving the lowest amount.

Special White House Aide Lands In Divorce Suit Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just about the time the White House was announcing the resignation of James M. Landis as special presidential assistant, he was named co-respondent in a divorce suit.

The 61-year-old former Harvard law school dean was accused Thursday of committing adultery with his 41-year-old secretary, Pauline Todd, estranged wife of Joseph A. Todd, a Washington public relations man.

Mrs. Todd's attorney, Elisabeth

J. Hand, denied her client had relations with Landis. She said they had dinner together several times.

The divorce suit was made public as the White House announced that President Kennedy had "regretfully" accepted Landis' resignation, effective last Friday.

The White House, at the same time, made public a letter dated Aug. 1 in which Landis asked Kennedy to accept the resignation "as soon as you deem it desirable."

Sports Take Over At Miss America Beauty Contest

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) — The all-American beauty contest gets down to a couple of all-American sports today — old-fashioned baseball and new-fashioned twirling and strutting.

That last is "the fastest growing girls' sport in America," said Miss Tennessee, Rita Louise Wilson, 20. "It's second to the Girl Scouts nationally as an activity."

But neither she nor any of the other six Miss America contestants who claim talents as twirlers and strutters is going to show them off in the contest for the nation's beauty-and-brains crown and $35,000 in scholarships.

"Everybody enjoys it," Rita said sorrowfully, "but everyone says, 'Oh, I could do that, too.'"

So she went into training with hillbilly singer Dorothy Shay and will stand still and sing tonight, her own version of "I'm Doing All Right for a Mountain Gal."

The baseball is simpler. Miss Ohio, Darlene Theresa DiPasquale, 18, a Cincinnati Redlegs fan, will give a dramatic reading called "Betty at the Baseball Game," about a bride who isn't quite a fan.

Other strutters on the talent bill for the final night of preliminaries are Rita's schoolmate, Miss Mississippi, Annice Raye Jernigan, 21, who's switched to the piano, and Miss West Virginia, Carole Esther Johnson, 21, a cheerleader at West Virginia University, who will present a song and dance act. Miss Iren Louise Sealise, 18, said she would preach her own re-arrangement of the Sermon on the Mount from the new Roman Catholic Bible.

FUTURE FLORIDA AIRMAN: dreaming today...doing tomorrow!

Today, he plays with models. Tomorrow, he may be designing, building, flying the real thing. He may, in fact, be among those future pioneers who will reach the stars.

The world in which he lives is caught up in a desperate struggle between the forces of freedom and slavery. What his future will be depends largely on the outcome of that struggle. In the one world, he will be free to do what he wishes . . . to think and speak and work and worship as he chooses. In the other, his initiative will be stifled, his freedom abolished, his individuality ruthlessly repressed.

His world of tomorrow will be what we choose to make it. The anti-freedom forces are insidious, masquerading under the guise of socialism and bureaucratic control. We must be constantly vigilant against these threats to freedom . . . for only under a free enterprise system can we remain strong and prosperous.

Nowhere is the value of free enterprise more clearly demonstrated than in the development of our nation's great power systems. And nowhere is faith in free enterprise more clearly demonstrated than in the activities of Florida Power & Light Company. Confident in the future, we are embarked on a course pointing to one goal: to provide more and more electric power for HAPPIER FLORIDA LIVING . . . ELECTRICALLY!

Hunt Wreckage

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI)—Rescue operations resumed at dawn today to recover the remaining bodies from the wreckage of a chartered United States-bound airliner which plunged into the River Shannon, killing all 83 persons aboard.

By LARRY VERSHEL
This is Civil Defense week around the county... but don't tell anyone in the courthouse. Most of the boys are suffering from persecution complexes.

I had planned on saying something nice about the County board today... Spent all of last Saturday night thinking of what to write but a two hour power failure lost my train of thought.

Quote Of The Week. At Friday's budget meeting... Commissioner Chairman J. C. Hutchison: "We've had a private discussion on this budget and it shouldn't take us long to handle it now."

On Aug. 22 State Welfare Director Frank Craft promised the Herald an investigation into certain welfare practices. What ever happened to that probe? Or, like everything else around here, has it been conducted underground?

Look for construction of a new shopping center south of Sanford in a few weeks.

Gordon Frederick Jr. today told us he won't seek re-election for the legislature in the 1962 spring primaries.

We hear that the state is still not satisfied with Sanford on its sewage treatment plant plans. They want something more concrete. The only thing the city has done is approve the preliminary report on the plant.

The city commission will meet at 8 p.m. today and will probably give the green light to City Manager W. E. Knowles to advertise for bids for materials for the city's disaster headquarters.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY — If the County Commission can fire Dr. Brothers for not following orders what is the governor gonna do to our governing body for not following an executive order?

Union Walks Out On General Motors

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers Union went on strike against General Motors today in the first company-wide strike in the auto history in 11 years and the biggest walkout—some 310,000 workers—in automotive history.

The union struck the world's largest manufacturing corporation as its 10 a. m. EST deadline ran out after a marathon bargaining session, beginning Sunday morning and running all through the night, failed to produce agreement on a new contract.

GM and the union reached record last week on the "money" terms of a new contract but were still at odds over the so-called non-economic issues involving working conditions and production standards.

The walkout will shut down all GM automobile operations, in 129 plants from coast to coast, just at the beginning of the 1962 model year.

Avery Calls Dunn 'Headline Hunter'

County Commissioner James P. Avery today fired a long range blast at Commissioner Vernon Dunn, hospitalized in Orlando, calling him a "headline hunter."

Avery made these remarks after Dunn sent Chairman J. C. Hutchison a statement asking for a "full explanation" on Avery's remarks last Friday of the budget meeting.

"Regarding a statement by Commissioner Avery of Sept. 8 as quoted by the press, I call upon him to identify specifically for the record and public information the items in the budget comprising the tens of thousands of dollars that are not legal nor an obligation of the county."

Dunn countered with this statement today: "Furthermore, that he, by letter, request the comptroller to strike these items from the budget if determined as not legal."

Dunn said he was tired of being subjected to these memos from "I don't intend to teach Mr. Dunn the English language," Avery said, adding that the papers quoted him correctly, but that Dunn "was just 'misinformed and doesn't know the difference between illegal expenditure and moral and legal obligation.'"

173 - Mile An Hour Winds, Tides Pound Texas Coast

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI)—Hurricane Carla slammed full force into the Corpus Christi area today with winds as high as 173 miles an hour. Killer tides that flooded the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast began rising toward 25-foot levels.

Damage was extensive on the coast. Buildings and piers toppled and fell into the boiling sea, but Carla itself had caused no casualties directly, thanks to the record exodus of more than 300,000 residents from the two-state coastal region.

Two refugees died of heart attacks. An infant died and 37 persons were injured in Kaplan, La., when a Carla-spawned tornado struck the town Sunday. One man was bitten by a snake in Galveston, but was recovering after treatment.

But the coast could expect maximum punishment from the winds for many hours more as the storm dawdled in its forward path. Tides surging up before the winds rose toward 12 foot levels above normal and the Weather Bureau warned they would rise to 25-foot levels in bays and inlets.

The Miami Weather Bureau said today Hurricane Debbie was curving more toward the north and was not expected to affect the U.S. mainland.

The storm, one of the worst in history, suddenly stopped its forward motion at a point 65 miles off Corpus Christi and the mid-Texas coast area braced for an hours long ordeal before the storm thunders inland to wreak more damage with wind and rain. Cities and towns began running out of drinking water. Residents who remained in badly-flooded Texas City after the storm hit were appealing desperately for water.

Communications began to falter in the storm area from Houston and Galveston, south to Corpus Christi as telephone poles snapped. Telephone and electric power lines lay on the ground in many areas. Six cities were without long distance telephone service.

The weatherman at Corpus Christi said the Coast Guard station in the city clocked winds ever

Airliner Forced To Land; FBI Hunts For Bomb

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — A four-engine airliner, carrying 25 passengers including several television stars, was forced to land here Sunday night when FBI agents searched the plane for a bomb.

After a thorough search of all baggage and compartments, Eastern Air Lines officials said the anonymous bomb tip was a hoax.

Actor Steve Allen, a passenger, said that pilot Jack Pass of Wyckoff, N.J., had said before landing "he believed the report was a hoax, but he said he would not risk the lives of the passengers."

Allen and his wife, actress Jane Meadows, were returning to New York from Birmingham, Ala., where they appeared in a benefit show. Other entertainers returning from the show were Ed (Kookie) Byrne of TV's "77 Sunset Strip," folk singer Ken Carson, and Lee Patterson and Margarita Sierra of TV's "Surfside 6" series.

Castro Soldiers Fire In Anti-Red Crowd

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro's soldiers and police fired Sunday into a crowd of anti-Communist Cubans chanting "Cuba si, Russia no." Several of the demonstrators were wounded.

The demonstration was the biggest display of open opposition to the revolutionary regime since Castro came to power more than two and a half years ago.

After the main demonstration was broken up, small groups roamed through the downtown area shouting anti-Castro and anti-Communist slogans.

When finally it was announced that Bishop Boza had called off the procession, the crowd shouted protests and started off in the direction of the presidential palace. As it surged forward, police and militiamen stationed at an intersection opened fire.

Witnesses said the government forces started to fire over the heads of the marchers, but apparently aimed some of the shots at them.

No Probe Seen Now Of Police Action

United Press International The U. S. Civil Rights Commission plans no immediate investigation of charges of police brutality in Alabama.

The Alabama Advisory Committee to the U. S. Civil Rights Commission Saturday said that police power in Alabama was abused and recommended a full-scale investigation of police brutality.

The charges were promptly branded as "old wives tales," by State Atty. Gen. MacDonald Gallion.

"In feeding such loosely gathered and unverified information to the Civil Rights Commission in Washington this Alabama 'do gooder' brigade is doing this state a great disservice," Gallion said.

The Alabama Advisory Committee said its report was based on information gathered from questionnaires mailed to leading Alabama officials. It gave no detailed information about complaints.

In Washington Civil Rights Commission staff director Berl Bernhard said the commission was working on getting out reports and "what we do in the future as far as taking action on the recommended investigation has not been determined yet."

This Advertising Leads To Sorrow

Dundee and two of his army buddies had said they would marry the first girl who put up $420 to $700 to buy them out of the army.

Miss Daley made the offer in a letter to the Sketch on a dare and the newspaper quoted her as saying she was prepared "to stand by my offer"—but only if she can pay on time.

Pope Urges Peaceful Negotiations

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII appealed Sunday to world leaders "before the tribunal of history" to avoid war through peaceful negotiations.

He said that right, not force, must prevail in the world. He warned that modern weapons could cause "frightful" destruction.

The Pope stated his plea in an unusual radio and television address from his summer residence here after holding a special Mass for peace in the general audience hall. Roman Catholic churches in Rome also held peace Masses.

In a clear reference to leaders in Washington and Moscow, the Pope called on statesmen responsible for "the life or death of the peoples" to avoid a war that would use "frightful . . . new weapons of destruction and ruin."

"The world has no need of victorious wars and defeated peoples," he said.

Five Children Die In Raging Fire

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Five children, ranging in age from 10 months to 13 years, died Sunday night when fire destroyed their home here.

The victims, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Young, were Steve, 13; Mike, nine; Margaret, five; Tony six; and Russell Jr., 10 months.

The father, who is a mail carrier, was severely burned when he attempted to rescue the children. Firemen found him bursting from the house with his clothes flaming. The firefighters threw Young to the ground, smothered the flames and rushed him to Good Samaritan Hospital where he was reported in serious condition.

The mother and a daughter, Nancy, 12, also escaped and were reported suffering from shock.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze had not been determined. The fire apparently broke out on the first floor of the brick house and then spread to the second floor where the family was sleeping.

Leo Carrillo, Famed Actor Dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Actor Leo Carrillo, 81, member of a pioneer California family who played Pancho in the movie and TV version of "The Cisco Kid," died of cancer Sunday.

One of the most colorful character actors in American films, Carrillo "passed away peacefully," according to Dr. Adolph Kosky, his physician.

Carrillo was unconscious on Thursday until his death. He had been confined to his bed most of the time since July.

His father, Juan J. Carrillo, was the city of Santa Monica's first mayor. His great grandfather was Carlos Antonio Carrillo, first provisional governor of the state in 1857. Carlos' parents were married by the famous Father Junipero Serra with a script from the king of Spain authorizing the wedding.

Harrell fired three times before trapping Edward Wade, 22, of Theodore, in the supermarket restroom. Wade was charged with assault with intent to kill and two counts of burglary.

Surprise For Shoppers Planned For Friday

Downtown Sanford is a busy, bustling place on a Friday night now, as the steady flow of evening shoppers keeps clerks and salespeople hurrying to satisfy their needs and wishes.

Last Friday night was no exception to the rule and parking places were at a premium as usual, with cars loaded with families coming to take advantage of specials and bargains offered by the local specialty and department stores.

The Downtown Merchants Assn. is planning a surprise for shoppers Friday, however, as the giving of prizes will be resumed and some sparkling entertainment has been planned for audience viewing and participation.

Further details for the big plans for next Friday will be revealed in subsequent editions of the Herald this week, also advertisements of hundreds of sale-priced items to make it easy on the shoppers' budgets.

Congress Faces Heavy Work Load

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate and House headed into a busy week of action today with leaders hoping for adjournment of Congress no later than a week from next Saturday.

Both foreign policy and domestic issues were on the immediate agenda. The administration appeared likely to win three foreign policy skirmishes, but faced defeat on one, and possibly two, proposals to expand the government's role in electric power production.

The foreign policy measures coming up this week included foreign aid appropriations, President Kennedy's proposal to expand the Peace Corps, and his plan for a new disarmament agency. The outlook was good for all three.

But administration forces conceded they expected to be defeated in their efforts to win House approval of a Senate-passed compromise on Kennedy's proposal to generate power at the Hanford, Wash., atomic installation.

They had only slight hope of winning a fight in the House for funds to start construction of federal transmission lines to deliver power directly to users from dams in the upper Colorado River storage project.

Both proposals are opposed by private utilities which characterized them as federal intrusions into the field of private enterprise.

Casselberry Firemen Prepared In Case Of Hurricane Here

By JANE CASSELBERRY

With the hurricane season upon us, the Casselberry Volunteer Fire Dept. is not going to be caught napping in case another like last year's Donna comes this way.

Fire Chief Paul Bates said today that in the event of such an emergency, permission has been secured from Rev. Oscar Poole to use the Fellowship Hall of the Casselberry Community Methodist Church again as an emergency shelter.

Last year 90 persons were accommodated at the church.

Bates advised trailer residents and all others who feel insecure in their homes to come to the shelter at the approach of a hurricane before the weather gets too bad. Food will be supplied by the department, he said, but each person seeking shelter is asked to bring a blanket and pillow.

Last year during Donna, the firemen were on duty all through the major part of the storm, offering invaluable service by giving emergency first aid, answering calls to homes, checking fallen wires and trees, checking damage to buildings and delivering messages and telegrams.

Should a hurricane hit the area this season, someone will be on duty at all times in the fire station to answer calls for assistance.

Fire Volunteers Schedule Meeting

The Lake Mary Volunteer Firemen's Assn. will meet this month at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Fire Hall, Ed Zimmerman, president, said today.

The change in schedule from Tuesday, Zimmerman said, was made so that the men who are attending classes in Sanford on uses of radiological monitoring equipment may present it to the Lake Mary firemen as they learn.

Members receiving the instruction are Zimmerman, Bob Willis, Harvey Pugh and Bill Gray.

Odham To Debate At Gainesville

National health insurance for the aged will be debated at a public service program in the J. Hillis Medical Center Auditorium in Gainesville at 8 p. m., Sept. 15. The Gainesville Democratic Women's Club is the sponsor.

Brailley Odham, a leading candidate for governor in 1952 and 1954 of Sanford, and Dr. Harry Walker, local physician, will be the debaters.

Odham will argue for health insurance based on the social security program President Kennedy has called for.

Dr. Walker will argue for the Kerr-Mills law, that it, along with local and state appropriations, can meet the problem of medical assistance for elderly people.

The Kerr-Mills law is based on a principle of voluntary health insurance, supplemented by publicly financed medical care. Compulsory health insurance tied in some way to Social Security, is the plan backed by the Kennedy administration.

The Hard Core

Who are the unemployed? According to the Department of Labor, as of mid-June, the composite jobless worker was between 25 and 35, and an unskilled or semi-skilled worker in durable goods industries.

He was a resident of one of six large industrial states—New York, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois—and was receiving about $32 a week in unemployment benefits.

At the time of the study, 700,000 unemployed were receiving temporary extended unemployment benefits. They represented a third of the two million workers who had used up their state unemployment benefit rights since mid-1960.

The average worker had received about 22 weeks of benefits and had about 10 more weeks left.

This general picture has not changed significantly since June. While individual workers have joined or left the group, this large army of unemployed remains, seemingly unsharable in an otherwise prosperous economy.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Laura is giving her mother reasons for the latter can't be her constant chaperone. But all smart parents can easily give their youngsters a constant chaperone by the mother's side today. Then you can relax and sleep more calmly when your teenagers are out on dates. So send for the booklet below.

CASE 3-81: Laura L., aged 16, is a very popular girl.

"But I am becoming a serious wreck," her mother confessed, "for I am always worried till Laura gets home safely from a date."

"I don't like to let her go unless she is with another couple or in a chaperoned group, for you never can tell what trouble a girl may get into nowadays."

"I try to keep check on her as much as possible but I can't be with her all the time so I worry constantly. How can I avoid it?"

That's rather easy. Place a guardian angel in her skull, who will be with her always and tell her what is right.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," her mother protested, "but how can I do that?"

Just start early and build up a proper conscience in your child. Teach her the Ten Commandments, plus the Golden Rule.

Take her to Sunday School. Set a good example of honesty and fair play in front of her.

Then order the various sex booklets and Rating Scales offered in this educational column.

No parent can always be with his child to steer the latter's actions. So if you parents don't place a well-developed conscience in your child's skull, you ought to worry every minute the youngster is out of your sight.

But train the child properly and she will then carry a moral "chaperone" or "guardian angel" within her brain at all times.

Then you parents can relax and sleep more soundly when she is out on a date.

If you have taught her to avoid boys who use liquor and drive recklessly, your daughter will give you little cause for worry.

But if you throw liquor parties at home; tell risqué stories or make low jokes in front of her, and generally flout immorality, what can you expect when she ventures forth?

"Bad children usually have bad parents," is an axiom of modern psychology. It has some exceptions, but is generally very true.

"Mommy, where did I come from?" asked the toddler.

If you snicker in embarrassment and try to concoct a bizarre fib to avoid answering this direct question, you have already started your child on the wrong pathway.

"For the truth shall make you free," stated Jesus, and that is fact.

"Dr. Crane is too frank," a Midwestern publisher recently argued, but this gentleman was 65 and childless.

If anybody thinks I am too frank, just make such a charge in the "Letters to the Editor" and see what happens.

Parents and YMCA secretaries, teachers and counselors almost unanimously support this rule that you must tell children the facts and do it early; not just when they are getting married.

For if you parents do not inform them properly, they will soon distrust your remarks and then seek "alley" instructors who often give them vile and unscientific counsel.

Facts don't harm children but ignorance and evasions drive them into sexual or salacious escapades.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope plus 25¢.

If your parents are shy or tongue-tied, just let your teenager read this booklet for himself.

The Other World

From Rome Henry McLemore

ROME, Italy—Physically, General Charles de Gaulle is an Alp and I am a rise in the ground, yet we often see eye to eye.

Right now is one of those times.

Surveying the world scene from his lofty height, the General is dead against immediate negotiations with the Russians over Berlin. He appears to take the view that the Berlin crisis is of Russia's making and that it should be the one to make the overtures and present sensible grounds on which to negotiate.

The General is against negotiating just for the sake of negotiating. He sees it as a sign of weakness unless there is definite evidence that something worthwhile will come from the talks across the table.

The General has been called a variety of names for this attitude, none of them complimentary. He has been described as "stubborn," "difficult," "arrogant," "narrow," "war-like," "blind," and "uncooperative." This probably doesn't bother

Fay Henle's Your Pocketbook

How's your behavior as a consumer?

If yours is an average household and you were to total your spending for the acquisition of your car and other big-ticket items like a refrigerator, you would discover you had a $7,000 investment. But if you wanted to sell all these, you probably would be able to raise only $3,300 in cash.

These figures come from a report on "Consumer Behavior in 1961" issued by the Foundation for Research on Human Behavior at Ann Arbor, Mich.

If you follow the national pattern, your spending for these items increased 6 per cent from 1948 through 1955, then tapered off and increased by only 1 per cent over the past five years.

Do any of your possessions look shabby? If so, the foundation is correct in predicting that within the next two or three years your replacement needs will increase.

The big unanswered question that business is seeking is: when will you step up your buying?

My desk is covered with forecasts.

William F. Butler, economist and vice president for New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, sees you stepping up your buying of both goods and services by 7 per cent between now and next summer.

The National Industrial Conference Board, surveying 220 manufacturers, reports three-quarters of them expect to sell more during this quarter than they did a year ago. About half of them predict the rise of new orders will go 10 per cent or more over 1960's figure.

Taking a more temperate view, Leonard H. Lempert of Statistical Indicators Associates sees an uneven course of an upswing.

"We would appraise the odds of a continuing upswing during the remainder of 1961 as 8 in 10."

After carefully studying our assets I am willing to predict an upswing in business, and the biggest Christmas ever. Here's why:

Right this minute our income, buying power, for every man, woman and child in this country, equals $2,913. This is 3 per cent higher than it was earlier this year and 1 per cent above last summer's peak.

And more spendable money is coming. Because of the hikes in social security benefits, some 4,500,000 of us will have $1 billion more to spend during the next 12 months. These benefits go mainly to "little people," those with the lowest income and the highest needs. With the step-up in defense outlays, job opportunities will increase, meaning more spendable dollars.

Adventist's School Opened Tuesday

The Seventh-Day Adventist Elementary School opened last Tuesday with Miss Margaret Jones as its teacher.

Although the school is one of Sanford's smallest educational units the regular elementary school curriculum is covered in addition to religious subjects, Miss Jones said. Classes are offered through the eighth grade and extra curricular instruction is given in nature, "God's other book."

The school here is one of a chain of some 5,000 educational units operated by Seventh-Day Adventist around the world. These range from simple mission schools to complex college organizations such as College of Medical Evangelists, medical education center in Los Angeles, Calif.

Yankee Loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commissioner Sidney H. Weiler of the Community Facilities Administration announced Thursday a $45,000 loan had been granted to Yanketown, Fla., to help build water system extensions and improvements.

Peter Edson's Political Notebook

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Kennedy's statement opposing a steel price increase is regarded as a hope and a prayer.

It is not an order. It is not binding on the steel industry, because the President has no authority to enforce it.

Congress will probably be out of town Oct. 1 when the steel industry puts into effect the wage increase averaging 7.5 cents an hour, authorized by the January 1960 contract.

Calling Congress into special session to pass a price rollback law would not be popular and might not succeed. It would give the Republicans in Congress an opening to argue that the steel industry was being discriminated against.

This would be done in spite of the fact that a group of liberal senators under the leadership of Albert Gore, D-Tenn., is beating the drum to stop a steel price rise before it's announced.

The senators' main argument now is that a steel price boost now would be the start of another inflationary spiral causing all prices to rise, and wages with them. The only remedy Gore and his associates have suggested is moral suasion by the President, which he has now exercised.

All these techniques have been tried before and failed.

Before World War II, before there were price controls, President Roosevelt sent Leon Henderson to tell the steel masters that if prices were raised Congress would be asked to roll them back. Prices went up. Congress was not asked to roll.

But after the war began, Congress did pass price control and wage stabilization laws. In spite of this, wages went up under the "little steel formula." Prices went with them.

During the Korean War when another economic stabilization law was in effect, the government told industry it could not have price increases to cover wage increases. The steel companies fought it. They got their increase.

Ever since the end of World War II the steel industry has been under attack in Congress by both parties for alleged management of the price structure, controlling prices by market demands without relation to production costs.

The late Sen. Robert A. Taft got this as chairman of the Joint Economic Committee. Sen. Estes Kefauver continued it as chairman of a judiciary subcommittee on monopoly.

When the 1960 steel wage contract was signed the business recession of that year was not foreseen. The delayed wage increase authorized was considered in line with expected increases in industrial productivity. That would have tended to help industry absorb the wage increase cost without a price rise.

But productivity went down in the depression. Steel production dropped as low as 45 per cent of capacity and only recently has gone above 70 per cent.

If the current business pickup continues, steel production and productivity will both go up further. Some government economists argue that under these conditions steel will be able to absorb the Oct. 1 wage rise without increasing prices.

Increased government spending is an important factor in keeping this boom going. The stepped-up defense program is not considered a big steel consumer. Most of the money is going for missiles and aircraft which call for light metal, alloys and specialty steels not produced in great volume.

The big bulk of the increased steel business coming from government money will be in public works, highways and housing programs. Full effect of this demand hasn't yet been felt.

There are other conditions within the industry, however, which have considerable bearing on steel price levels.

Tin plate is meeting more and more competition from aluminum and plastic containers, which keep plate prices down. On the other hand, steel has a near-monopoly on structural shapes, nails and bolts. It would be easier to raise their prices.

But here again, U. S. producers reinforcing bars are meeting increased competition from foreign production, particularly Japanese. That tends to hold down all steel prices.

A final important factor of government action is that the vigorous antitrust law enforcement policies of Department of Justice and Federal Trade Commission make any price increases vulnerable to investigation and bad publicity.

Altamonte Library Gets New Sign

By ATLANTA GEMINIS

Motorists driving down Maitland Ave. are asked to note the attractive new Altamonte Springs Community Library sign.

Designed, constructed and donated to the library by Earl Gaskill, it is shaped as a book imprinted with the library hours.

Mrs. Paul French, president of the library, says that Gaskill also is making new bookcases for the children's department. She asks for volunteers to help paint the library rooms since a visitor from the State Library Assn. out of Tallahassee is expected Sept. 18 and it is desirable to have the rooms appear fresh and attractive.

Assistance also is needed on Thursday afternoons at the library between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. Interested persons who could volunteer for this work are asked to contact Mrs. French.

Association dues are now payable to G. D. Humes or at the library, Mrs. French says, and since the facility is operating on its own, new memberships are much in need. She also said that if residents wishing to join the "Book of the Month Club" notify the association, it will be allowed to collect a dividend on each membership.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your wise answer to "Church Widow." As a pastor I am aware that many people regard church fund-raising activities, such as bingo and carnivals, as a service to God. Yet we would do better to leave undone much of what has been done in His name. I disagree when you say that most churches need funds (and fund-raising) for survival. They DO need funds, but fund-raising affairs hurt more than they help. Our churches need significant gifts from dedicated members. But fund-raising affairs are only excuses to get non-members to help the church pay its bills. Very sincerely, Sanford Wright, Westminster Presbyterian Church

DEAR ABBY: We are having an argument in our X-ray department about the difference between an old maid, a spinster and a career girl. Would you please settle it by defining each? THE ROENTGENS

DEAR ROENTGENS: A career girl is an unmarried female who doesn't feel the need to apologize for being single because she is "married" to her job. An old maid is a single woman because either (a) nobody has asked her, or (b) nobody whom she wanted has asked to marry her. A spinster is an old maid somewhat advanced in years.

DEAR ABBY: What does a married woman do when she finds out, after several years of marriage, that her rings were originally intended for someone else.

While chatting with my mother-in-law, the subject was turned to a girl my husband once went with. I said I never knew anything about the girl. My mother-in-law said, "Well, the rings you are wearing were once hers." I was so shocked and hurt I didn't know what to say. My mother-in-law asked me please not to say anything to my husband when she saw how hard I took it.

I haven't said anything to him, but I have taken my rings off because I don't want to wear them again. Am I wrong to feel my husband has deceived me? Is there a solution to this problem? HURT

DEAR HURT: Let's start with the assumption that the rings given you came from the man who loves you. And end with it. Wear the rings, ignore your mother-in-law's unsolicited remarks, and cherish the husband.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HOPEFULLY YOURS": Quit torturing yourself. You told him he was forgiven. Now, never mention the incident again, and forget it!

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Lee Remick - Babies And Movies

By ERSKINE JOHNSON SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA) — Lee Remick of the sky blue eyes and obtrusively sexy movie roles is just like most wives, fellows. She adds figures incorrectly—five and two comes up six for Lee—to slyly suit herself. Unlike most wives, however, Lee admits to her shady mathematical ways. She herself brought the subject up during an afternoon off from being chased up and down San Francisco's hills by a psychopathic killer. Catching her breath from "Experiment in Terror," her first movie since becoming a mother 11 weeks ago, she laughingly told us: "All I do is have babies and make movies—two children and 22 films now. It's really seven movies," she smiled unconcernedly. "but I always say only six. One film was so terrible I'm forgetting it by ignoring it."

"These Thousand Hills" was the film Lee refused to count, like a wife happily neglecting to add a milliner's bill to the month's over-shot family budget. "It was just awful," she lamented. On the other hand, Lee simply can't believe what happened to "Wild River," in which she costarred with Montgomery Clift for Elia Kazan. "I thought it was a wonderful movie. So did the critics. But the last I heard the title had been changed to 'The Woman and the Wild River' and it was being sold as a sex film. A sex film was the one thing it wasn't!"

Last spring "Sanctuary," in which she played William Faulkner's sultry temptress, Temple Drake, was no "Anatomy of a Murder" at the box office either, but this film Lee also insisted on counting. She explained that it taught her a lesson. It was a candid, honest admission, one seldom heard from young actresses. "I guess," she said, "most of us make the mistake of reading a script and not a script. It happened to me. I read the script of 'Sanctuary' and the role for me was so dazzling I forgot the story. In the future I'll be reading SCRIPTS, not roles." What we thought was near impossible Lee shrugged off with quiet assurance. She anticipated no problems in sustaining the emotions of terror for three hours as the "Experiment in Terror" heroine. "The way the script adds up," she said (and on this addition we accepted her figures without question) "it's a variety of terror caused by various kinds of fear—protective fear (her sister is also threatened by the killer), panic fear and frustration fear because I never see the would-be killer's face."

Lee Remick was "the girl scared by the fires of her desperate desires" in "Sanctuary." Today she's just plain desperate in her latest film, "Desperate" also applies to her career, she admitted. "I'm desperate to do a musical—I studied dancing for 10 years—or something light. I think I've had enough problem films."

"Days of Wine and Roses" is coming up for her next but that, she beamed, "is a decoy." She plays the wife of Jack Lemmon and their social drinking leads to

We The Women: By Ruth Millet

A reporter for a London newspaper spent three months following women drivers in order to study "female driving habits" and came up with the verdict that they are "terrifying."

He must have been following them around suburban neighborhoods to have reached that conclusion. Put a woman behind the wheel of a car on a highway or busy city street and she tends strictly to her driving. If anything, she is a more careful driver than a man. But turn her loose in the suburbs—and she seems to forget that she is behind the wheel of a car. She'll slam on the brakes to crash her neck to see if there really is a For Sale sign on the Jones' house or if the Smiths actually are starting to work on turning their carport into a playroom, without even a glance at her rear view mirror.

If she meets a friend driving in the opposite direction—the two will pull close together and settle down for a chat in the middle of the road. If she goes to a big tea she'll block anybody's driveway in order not to have to walk any further than necessary in her high-heeled shoes. If she is chauffeuring children she will pay more attention to what is going on in the back seat than she does to the road ahead. If you don't believe this, just try following women drivers as they wind their way through the suburbs—with their minds on anything and everything but the job at hand—driving. If you do, you'll come up with the same verdict as the London reporter. Women's driving habits are terrifying.

Highlights TV Key Previews

Leonard Hoffman and his staff of TV Time critics preview coming television shows by attending rehearsals, watching screenings and analyzing scripts in New York and Hollywood. This is their preview for today: 7:30-8:30 p. m. NBC. American — "The Rebellious Rose." (Repeat) fiction is stronger (sic) than fact in this saga. Nevertheless it makes for an absorbing episode. In actuality, there was a Mrs. Rose Greenhow, an alluring femme fatale, who supplied the south with information about the size and movement of Union troops. In this dreamed-up version, Nina Foch is captivating as the attractive beauty in Washington, D.C. with whom Jeff Chandler becomes infatuated. Martin Gabel is in the cast, and, as usual, gives a first-rate characterization. 8-8:30 p. m. CBS. Pete and Gladys—"The Panhandler." (Repeat) can't pan this stunner; but the best it rates is a moderately entertaining segment. Has to do with a community show, and Gladys's problem of going home in a tramp's clothes without any money.

Hypnosis Like Being Lost In Concentration, Hypno-technician Says In Talk To Civilians

"Everyone of you has been in a hypnotic state many times," Joseph McCawley, licensed professional hypno-technician told members of the Civilians at their meeting Thursday.

"This is when you become completely unaware of your surroundings, when you are concentrating very hard on a single object, sight, or sound.

"Television is the greatest hypnotic agent in the world," he said, "and if the truth were known, much TV advertising is written and produced with exactly that end in mind!"

Florida, through an act of the Legislature, is the first state in the union to license the practice of ethical technical hypnosis, in connection with medical and dental care. Orlando is the first city in Florida to issue a license in this field.

"The ethical hypnotist is not a stage hypnotist, he does not entertain or advertise," said McCawley. "We work on a prescription basis only, with written progress reports to the doctor or dentist who sends the patient to us," he said.

Uses of qualified hypnosis therapy, McCawley told the Civilians, can be of great value in medicine, surgery, hospitalization and in the case of heart disease of respiratory ailments that exclude the use of chemical anesthesia.

The use of hypnosis is one of the most effective methods of treating migraine headaches, the causes of which have eluded medical research up to the present.

It also can make possible completely painless childbirth, painless dentistry, and remove the overwhelming fear of surgery. It can block out the pain of arthritis and terminal cancer, when drugs fail to ease the pain.

"Almost everything you have heard, read, and seen about hypnosis on television and in movies is less than half true," McCawley said. "Contrary to the popular beliefs fostered by these media, a person in hypnosis is not asleep, will not accept a suggestion which violates his morals or ideals, and cannot be hypnotized against his will."

"Just the opposite of what you have been led to believe, the state of hypnosis is not sleep, or unconsciousness nor even semi-consciousness," he said.

"A person in hypnosis is keener, more alert than ever, because he has his subconscious mind under control, and his entire memory in his grasp."

Very small children, feeble-minded persons and insane persons cannot be hypnotized," McCawley said. "Only rational people who will cooperate fully."

Hypnosis is an established branch of psychology, fully recognized and accredited, which makes available the resources of the subconscious mind.

East Germans Step Up Recruiting Drive As Tension Climbs

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist East Germany today stepped up its armed forces recruiting drive as a series of incidents increased tensions on the border between East and West Berlin.

The Communist news agency ADN said whole regiments of youths were marched — many straight from their jobs — to take their oaths before officials in a number of East German towns Sunday and sent to start immediate training today.

The scenes were reminiscent of Adolf Hitler's Nazi Party drive for more volunteers for the Wehrmacht.

A Communist newspaper in Karl Marx City said a factory at Wiesa simply "delegated" all young men eligible for military training into the armed service — in effect, compulsory military training for those youths.

It was believed more factories would follow the line. The Communists usually begin a campaign at one point and spread it from there.

The 25-mile wall with which the Communists have sealed off East Germany from West Berlin witnessed daring escapes and battles between West Berliners and East German police Sunday.

On a half dozen occasions the East Germans fired water cannon, smoke and tear gas bombs at both East and West Germans waving to each other from opposite sides of the wall.

A crowd of 100 angry West Berliners retaliated by hurling rocks over the border at a Communist armored car carrying high pressure water firing equipment.

No one was injured but the number of incidents indicated an increase in friction caused by the wall which the Communists started erecting Aug. 13 to keep East Germans from fleeing to West Berlin.

Despite the wall and heavy concentrations of Vopos (Communist police), East Germans continued trying to make the dash for freedom and some succeeded through ingenious means.
