SENATE WORKS BUSY DURING SPECIAL TERM

Improvements Of Credit Conditions Are Reflected In Every Section Of Market

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Splitting the Republican party into three factions and bolting their regular leaders, a militant group of 20 regular Republican senators joined hands with the insurgent group today to carry out President Hoover's request for passage of the new tariff bill through the Senate before the special session ends.

This new alignment, aimed by a group of Democrats, blocked every attempt to fix a definite date for adjournment, the special session. They announced the regular leadership and announced a determination to keep the Senate in session day and night until it enacts the tariff. Their purpose was to carry out the request of the President, made last week for passage of the bill within two weeks.

The new Republican "stairwells" were led by Senators Vandenberg, of Michigan, Hastings, of Delaware, and Fess, of Ohio. They organized their group, it was learned at a dinner party given by Senator Kean, (R) of New Jersey, and included in its number, Allen, Glenn, Goff, Gillett, Goldschlager, Hatfield, Herbert, Metcalf, Patterson, Shackelford, Stewart, Thomas, Ideben, Townsend, Walcott and Waterman, besides the leaders. Most of them are serving their first term in the Senate.

This militant band, rallying itself with the insurgents solely on the issue of adjournment, planned to keep the Senate in session day and night until the bill passes. Their very enthusiastic advocacy indicated they might succeed. The insurgents have arranged a like purpose. It was even hinted the measure might be sent to conference by the Senate before Nov. 23, the date fixed by the leaders for adjournment. After allowing the Senate a week's rest before the new session starts Dec. 2.

Labor Leaders Are Enthusiastic Over Plan Of Unionizing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(INS)—Labor leaders representing 105 national and international labor unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor reacted to their names today enthusiastically over plans that have been made to unionize the workers in the southern states.

The first step in the program designed to facilitate the general plan of southern organization will be an immediate appeal to the Senate to adopt the Wheeler resolution providing for a senatorial investigation of the southern textile situation.

Lady Actor Accused Of Having Cold Feet

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(INS)—Lady Astor, British parliamentarian and the former Nancy Astor, was one of the 100 parliamentarians who drew attention to the fact that the British government had not yet taken any steps to improve the conditions of the unemployed.

PARTY GUESTS ARE ROBBED BY SEVEN BANDITS

Society Prominent At Formal Dinner Are Relieved Of Valuable Worth Big Sum

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(INS)—A state-wide search was made today for a dining party of 12 persons who were robbed by seven bandits who entered the home of Mrs. J. M. Spivey, Jr., in Snyder, a suburban suburb of Buffalo.

The party, which included prominent men and women, was made up of 12 persons, and made of money, jewelry and clothing worth between $20,000 and $30,000.

COALITION PLANS TO SUPPORT HIGH INDUSTRIAL RATE

Tariff Leader Of Democrats Announces Change In Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(INS)—Riding rough shod over a small minority, the Senate today adopted a series of sharp increases in tariff rates upon finished and agricultural products, with the citrus fruits of California and Florida sharing largely in the boosts.

Sheriff's Raid Nets Large Liquor Still

One of the largest liquor stills to be seen in this section in several years was seized by officers of the Seminole County Sheriff's office early this morning when deputy George Schifley, D. C. Broadway, Jack Hickson, and J. R. Estrada arrested W. A. Griffin and Cecil Jones, of Chulavita, for making bootlegging liquor.

Minister Of France Asks For War Boats

PARIS, Nov. 15.—(INS)—While all the world is talking about disarmament, Minister of Marine Lorgeon today asked the chamber of deputies for authorization to construct 16,000-ton cruiser, six destroyers, six first-class submarines, six second-class submarines and two auxiliary cruisers.

Check-Up Of Automobiles Entering State Indicates Great Influx Of Tourists

That hordes of tourists are ready on their way to Florida, as indicated today from information disclosed by the Florida registration headquarters in Orlando, to the effect that 23,651 foreign cars had passed southward through the 15 guard posts on the northern border of the graduation area during the two week period ending on Nov. 7.

The influx of out-of-state cars has been noticeable in Sanford for several weeks, an investigator yesterday afternoon by a Herald reporter revealing 19 automobiles with foreign licenses parked along E. Street. The following states with the number of cars represented from each were as follows:

Texas, 1; Iowa, 1; California, 1; Georgia, 6; Tennessee, 4; Michigan, 3; Pennsylvania, 1; District of Columbia, 1; New York, 1; and Illinois, 1.

COLLEGIATE GRID CONTEST WILL BE HELD HERE SOON

Night Game To Be Staged Between Stetson and Southern

That night football will meet with the popular approval of Florida college fans was indicated by the announcement today that negotiations between Stetson University and Southern College have been completed for a game between the two teams to be played in Sanford next Friday evening.

STOCK PRICES MAKE FURTHER RALLIES TODAY

Militant Group Joins Hands With Insurgents To Carry Out Wish Of President

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The improvement in credit day recovery, situation of the conditions was reflected to stock markets, where prices of industrial and railroad shares made further improvement on yesterday's brilliant advance.

Another large decrease in brokers' loans has cleared up the speculative loan situation to the satisfaction of the reserve bank heads and call money was freely offered in the outside markets today at a 1-1/2 per cent, compared with the official rate of 5-1/2 per cent. Though some selling down of business was reported today, industrial leaders were confident that 1929 would be as profitable for American industry as 1928, which is saying a great deal.

The recovery today, added to yesterday's price gains, have restored from 15 to 20 points to current prices. The recovery today, added to yesterday's price gains, have restored from 15 to 20 points to current prices.

Good Shows Much Improvement Say His Doctors Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(INS)—Considerable improvement in the condition of Secretary of War James W. Good, who is fighting desperately for life following an appendicitis operation, was reported by his physicians at 10:30 A. M. today.

THROAT IS SORE

OPTIMISM GROWS IN WALL STREET AS STOCKS RISE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(INS)—A distinct feeling of optimism and relief pervaded Wall Street today.

Everywhere in brokerage houses, banks and business places, expressions of confidence in a continued improved market could be heard. Predictions have been made most aggressively bullish.

Factors responsible for the change in sentiment were: 1.—The fact that the domestic movement of prices has developed a decided uptrend, expected to be followed today by substantial buying orders from all parts of the country.

HERNDON PLACES HIS HAT IN RING FOR COMMISSION

Petition, Signed By 25 Voters Qualifies Local Man For Race

B. W. Herndon, prominent business man of Sanford, today announced his candidacy for the city commission to fill the vacancy of former Commissioner Gray, who resigned some time ago on account of business interests elsewhere.

Mr. Herndon's announcement came after his name was presented to the City Commission by 25 qualified voters of this city. A notice stated this morning, in an interview with the Herald, that he had given much thought to the matter, but only a few days ago he decided to run for the office.

Mr. Herndon was born and raised in Sanford. During the time of his residence here he has been engaged in farming, insurance, and hotel businesses, having been interested in the latter for the past 10 years, operating the Simplex Hotel at Park Avenue and Second Street.

FLOOD WATERS ARE MENACING ALABAMA AREA

Many Low-Lying Sections Have Already Been Inundated Due To Excessive Rains

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 15.—(INS)—Southern Alabama, caught in the vortex of devastating flood waters last Spring was threatened by high waters again today as rivers in the central portion of the state continued to rise as the result of incessant rains during the past week.

Many low-lying sections along the Alabama, Coosa, Warrior and Tallapoosa rivers, have already been inundated and residents looked to abandon their homes. Highways and railroad transportation have been partially paralyzed in several places, while reports from Gadsden said that city faced complete isolation as the Coosa River was at flood stage.

The Alabama River, cutting its way through the center of the state, was threatening to break its banks along a great stretch below Montgomery, and towns were felt to be in danger. A smaller one at that point would feel the full force of the water.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE FIRST TEST—And when the temple came to Jesus he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. But He answered and said to him, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.—Matthew 4:3, 4.

PRAYER—"Shall not we Thy sorrows share, And from earthly joys abstain?"

WANDERING

"What do you see in your wandering?
Teacher, tell me pray?
At the edge of the world what charms untold
At dawn and dusk of day?"

"Oh, whether I traveled a mountain ridge
Or walked in the valleys fair,
Or the edge of the sea, I found,"
said he,
"That people were dwelling there."

"Up or down to their tasks they went
At evening home they came,
When as we are, were the folk afar
And that, dreams were much the same."

"They laughed and sang when their hearts were glad
And the children romped and played.
They struggled for gain and they suffered pain
And I say graves newly made."

"Tough customs differ and manners change,
However a man may roam
He'll find the tear and the smile appear
The same as they do at home."
By Edgar A. Guest

Senator Bingham says he didn't know he was doing wrong. It's just like a law-maker not to know the laws.

"I don't doubt but that Mr. Bingham was in ill health. Who wouldn't have been sick, if he had made any recent investments in New York stocks?"

The staid old Times-Union says that a pretty girl can talk an hour and not say anything worth listening to. It has been our experience that anything a pretty girl says is worth hearing.

Reports from the port of Tampa amounted to $670,000 for the month of September, while during the same period a year ago, they were only $421,175. That is the kind of report about general conditions that we are hearing from every city in Florida. Beginning with September of this year, Florida business has continually become better.

In announcing a plan to increase the capital stock of the Barnett National Bank by half a million dollars, its president said, "The Barnett directors feel that general conditions in Florida have reached the turning point, and with the return of more prosperous conditions and the expansion of the bank's interests, and with the reorganization of other banks in Florida, it is desirable to increase the capital of the bank."

Robester, N. Y., utility man committed suicide when his personal fortune of a million and a half dwindled during stock market speculation, to about three hundred thousand. Let's see now; six percent interest on three hundred thousand is eighteen thousand a year. And the man probably thought he couldn't live on eighteen thousand annually. It's positively terrifying what strange ideas people can get some times.

The Volusia County Medical Association declares that Florida is one of the most favored states in the union for the successful treatment of tuberculosis, and that more tuberculosis clinics should be established in this state. For our own part, we would just as soon have the outside world never know we were aware that Florida is a good place for the treatment of tuberculosis. We hate tuberculosis and we've never wanted to get it on people who had it.

A Ship Comes In

Not long ago we saw a movie called "A Ship Comes In" in which a little old German immigrant becomes a very proud American citizen after going through numerous tribulations. The old man, played by Rudolph Schickel, was such an appealing figure with his great reverence for the Statue of Liberty and his intense pride in his citizenship that we have not been able to forget him, and the other day we were reminded of him again when we saw an article dealing with the practices of unscrupulous people who take money from ignorant helpless immigrants under the pretense of helping them to gain their citizenship.

In Europe, a person with the title of notary is a very important official, and when the newcomers to this country arrive, they bring with them complete confidence in, and great respect for, anyone with notary powers. Although a great many American notaries are just as honest as any in Europe, notary powers are more easily secured in this country, and unfortunately some of the applicants are not above making a neat revenue by bleeding the unsuspecting immigrants. A Wall Street lawyer was recently discovered to be getting fees ranging from twenty-five dollars to twenty-five hundred dollars by pretending that through him could be secured the royal road to citizenship.

Just picture for yourself an immigrant arriving at Ellis Island with his numerous bags and boxes and as much of his family as he can bring in. He might be just a simple, trusting old man like the one in the movie we saw. His highest ambition is to become an American citizen. America is his promised land. He looks at the flag and feels a thrill of pride. He works to earn his citizenship and puts his trust in some American who tells him that, for a certain sum, he can prepare him for the examination. The so-called teacher takes his money, tells him a few unimportant facts, and when the great day of the examination arrives, the old man fails to pass and his faith in his new country receives a sad blow.

The League for American Citizenship and the Daughters of the American Revolution are two organizations that have been active in lending their aid and protection to the immigrants in an effort to save them from the malpractice of unprincipled men. It seems to us that there could be no finer work to do for one's country than to help preserve that feeling of hope and trust and pride that burns in the hearts of these Americans-in-the-making when their "ship comes in" to New York harbor and they catch their first glimpse of the Statue of Liberty.

Self Help Bureaus

All men are not born free and equal in the United States as is popularly supposed, but the day is rapidly approaching when every person will have a chance, if he applies himself and tries hard enough, to make himself the equal of any other man on earth. In the matter of education, for instance, the great increase in the number of schools and colleges, and the great increase in their enrollments, is rapidly making it possible for everyone to have an advanced education.

At the same time scholarships and the employment bureaus of most schools are giving the poor boy the opportunity to go to college which in former days he might not have had. Yale University is sometimes regarded as a "rich man's school" and it has been a rather general impression that a large bank account was an absolute necessity in order to matriculate there. On the contrary, however, it has recently been pointed out that students comprising over one-third of the present enrollment are earning their way through college.

According to the Yale Bureau of Appointments, undergraduates either earn or receive through scholarships the sum of $1,173,267, of which $687,647 was earned by the students themselves. This money was earned by 1,240 undergraduates, filling some six thousand jobs, which included accounting, advertising, announcing, artist modeling, cabinet making, chauffeuring, entertaining, housekeeping, gardening, operating stereopticons, tutoring, and acting as supernumeraries.

It is obvious from such facts as these that any boy who can do anything at all, can make his way through college. And that it must be worth while and a wholly desirable thing to do is evidenced by the increasing number which are annually availing themselves of the opportunity. In these times there is no excuse for anyone's not continuing his schooling after he graduates from high school. And the boy who does not go to college has no one to blame but himself.

HEAVY DRINKING BOUTS at lavish dinner parties in Washington have apparently been in vogue for several years. Whether the custom was established during the Harding regime when, it seems, everything went, or dated back to the signing of the Volstead Act itself, when these same Senators and Representatives decreed that their constituents should not drink, we are at present somewhat in doubt, but regardless of the origin, the political leaders of our country are setting a very poor example for the enforcement of the laws which they make. If the reports of various investigating committees are to be believed, one could sit on the Capitol dome and throw rocks into the very eyes of half a dozen blind tigers. The Senate chambers must reek with the pungent odor of imported beer and the corridors resound with the reverberating pop of champagne bottles. Truly it is an interesting spectacle that our law-makers furnish in Washington, and one which is always amusing, even if sometimes costly.

THE FARMER'S ADVICE

BY ALFALFA SMITH

The conditions around you are of your own creation. The reason I am writing this particular talk is that the other day a truck came along and splashed mud all over a nicely dressed man.

To say that the man was very angry would be expressing it mildly—judging by the man's language. However, what was the man doing there while the truck was splashing mud all over him?

If you get hit by a rotten egg it is a good idea not to blame the hen that laid the egg.

The conditions around you are of your own creation, I say again, and if you wish to change them there is one way of doing it and that is to change your attitude toward people and things.

Are you willing to make the effort?

The chamber of commerce has been notified that the board of county commissioners has approved an application for the selling of Lakes Dora, Carlton and Beauclair, and an expression of this approval has been forwarded to Commissioner C. C. Woodward of the State Game and Fish Department. Just as soon as some rope has been unrolled at the state capital, the chamber will arrange with a selling contractor to take up the work of removing the enemy fish from local waters.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY
By Robert Barry

A man does not have to be a gray-beard among Washington correspondents to remember when Mrs. George F. Richards was the only woman reporter in the press galleries of Congress. Within the brief space of fifteen years a swarm of femininity has descended upon and buzzed about the gallery register until to-day lipsticks abound where good, strong profanity used to have free rein.

Fur-trimmed coats hang on "Jim" Preston's long line of wrap hooks and some of our most respectable gentlemen of the press swear profoundly when they arrive late for an interesting Senate debate and have to dump a new hat or topcoat on a window ledge.

With the increase of "lady reporters" has come a development of their own sense of importance. They have a Woman's National Press Club and essay an annual dinner entertainment along Gridiron Club lines. That some worthy gentlemen say they are "along the sidelines" involves an argument from which, I choose to run.

There has been an incident recently which serves to illustrate the importance which the women and girls of the press gallery attach to themselves.

They are picking a quarrel with Mrs. Herbert Hoover. They contend she is trying to high-hat them. If I were in Mrs. Hoover's place I would take steps immediately to "placate" them, unless I enjoyed a tussle with a mess of wild-cats.

The "ladies of the press" insist that Mrs. Hoover has been trying to run the White House like Queen Mary conducts Buckingham Palace.

It seems that Mrs. Hoover has not been as democratic with the "ladies of the press" as was her predecessor. No one intends the slightest offense to Mrs. Hoover, either of the Mrs. Wilsons, or Mrs. Taft, when it is asserted that the little New England school-marm made herself so popular as chateaine of the White House as to have her "million-dollar smile" place her on a par with the sprightliest of them all—Dolly Madison.

Mrs. Hoover has been meeting all kinds of people in all kinds of places around the world since she decided to take her chances with a young engineer she met at Leland Stanford. To high hat any one would be to her about the last thing in the world. There have been times when she thought her husband had some pretty terrible friends but she endured them so long as he said they were all right.

As the story goes the former First Lady had a tea party, or a Mayflower yacht cruise or something of the sort for the husbands or more women news writers in Washington every now and then and occasionally attended a Women's Press Club lunch or grill. Mrs. Hoover has not done anything of the sort. It looks like a pretty straight tip had gone forth that she had given no thought to the matter.

I have not the slightest doubt in the world that the moment she hears the "ladies of the press" feel they are doing anything and everything in their own way. Then we may be able to get the press gallery discussion back to public issues and the world will run along smoothly once again.

We shall have to hear such comment as this:

"Mrs. Hoover invited a Negro to the White House to tea because she felt she had to do so, but she has felt no urge to have newspaper-women down there."

Opinions are numerous about issues of the sort.

Should any sort of feud develop between a President's wife and a hundred newspaperwomen, it might lead to an embarrassing situation for a President.

As one glances over the lists of White House dinner guests it becomes obvious the pressure exerted on a social secretary must be little short of appalling. The temptations which a President and his wife are exposed to such functions keep alive that old, old riddle:

"Why does any man want to be President?"

It is with some regret, therefore, that I cannot share the current indignation of the press gallery's feminine contingent. My notion is that the President and his wife ought to be free to do whatever they please in the residential section of the White House.

Calvin Coolidge hit it off pretty well when he served notice that his official acts were subject to every possible scrutiny but that he reserved the right of every American citizen to enjoy his private life without invasion.

It is just as true that Mr. Coolidge learned in time he was a fine theory, but that he did not carry it out. No President ever engaged the social opportunities

Spivey To Conduct Services At Local Church On Sunday

Dr. Ludd M. Spivey, president of Southern college, Lakeland, will occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock to deliver the first of a series of messages covering a period of one week. The widely-known college president is coming here upon invitation from the Rev. W. P. Durham, pastor of the church.

Since accepting the presidency four years ago, Dr. Spivey has delivered several hundred addresses all over Florida before numerous organizations. In addition to being one of the South's outstanding educators, he is a Methodist minister, of note, having served for several years as a pastor in Alabama and Missouri before entering the educational field.

Beginning Monday, the college head will deliver an address each morning at 10 o'clock to the women of Sanford on practical and applied psychology. His appearances each night will be for the general public. Many organizations of business men throughout Florida have heard him in his lectures on business psychology, and he has appeared in numerous high schools of the state as commencement speaker.

Holla's bell gave us a drink... get any Scotch you want... I'll be your friend, thank you very much.

Three friends, from Arizona, and one from New York, go to Florida to see Dolores Costello and George Formby in "NOVA'S ARK". They find her in a unique role, plotting this novel, it is based upon the scenario by Darryl F. Zanuck.

It was the priest of the train. He was the priest of the train. He was the priest of the train. He was the priest of the train.

Pushing, calling out, laughing, shouting, the newcomers crowded around the bar, or hung themselves down into the chairs about the table, loudly demanding drinks and cigarettes. Their uniforms were dirty, caked with the grime of night after night, day after day.

"You dance, Mister? You dance?" The heavy girl pulled a holder from his chain and swung him about in a fox-trot of jumpy, nervous French translation.

"All right, come on—we dance!" The two swung into the amazing interpretation of the music. Loud and raucous the voices rang out, picking up the tune, shouting loudly the familiar words. The soldiers pounded on the floor with their feet, banged on the table with their glasses.

"Hello, there, babe!" A man in uniform caught hold of Marie and swung her about. "Where's the matter, kid?"

"I-I-I look for the American. He came to see Travia. You know him? Jim Travia?" The girl looked up at the soldier appealing.

Intelligence Test Shows High School Students Are Poor

Average Pupils Can Answer Only Four Of 10 Simple Questions

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The average American high school student can answer correctly only four of 10 simple questions concerning persons, places and topics prominent in the current life of the world. Some cannot name the governor of their state. Many cannot identify such frequently photographed persons as Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Mussolini and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Few know the difference between an airplane and an airship.

These are the facts disclosed by an analysis of the ninth annual current history test prepared by the Educational Department of The Review of Reviews magazine and given in high schools throughout the country. In a cross section of 50 schools only 41.25 per cent of the answers are correct.

The papers, however, show an increasing interest in current affairs as the students progress through school. The country-wide average for high school freshmen was 35 per cent, sophomores 38 per cent, juniors 44 per cent, and seniors 48 per cent.

The test, which constitutes a survey of all types of high schools, rural, urban, and metropolitan, public and parochial, indicates that it is the interest and efficiency of the individual teacher or teaching staff rather than the location or status of the school which determines the student's knowledge of what is taking place around him. A New York City high school, Stuyvesant, turned in the highest average for senior classes, 78 per cent. On the other hand, another New York City senior class fell to 45 per cent, while freshmen of the small Belmont, South Dakota, High School answered 68 per cent of the questions, approximately doubling the national average.

A freshman class of similar size in Ohio answered but 22 per cent of the questions, and in Pennsylvania but 19.

"The results," says the Review of Reviews analysis can be regarded as typical of student knowledge throughout the country, although several schools, disappointed by the poor average achieved, did not return the test papers.

Only 50 per cent of the students answering, admitted that they did not read a current topics magazine, while a slightly larger percentage does not read newspapers regularly.

The test included 10 questions under the seven following headings: prominent officials, places frequently mentioned, topics frequently discussed, recent achievements, photographs to be identified, cartoons, and scenic pictures to be explained.

The survey discloses that an average of only 40 to 45 minutes is given to discussion and study of current topics in the ordinary high school each week.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, only Hoover and Edison are identified by as many as 85 per cent of the students and the President is named by 78 per cent.

for the PRICE of a SLICE of BREAD!
Do you know that for the price of a single slice of bread, you can toast twelve slices or a whole loaf of bread? Each slice is delicious, crisp, golden brown that is appetizing. You never lose a slice of bread when using an Automatic Electric Toaster and it toasts perfectly. Again—think of the cost per slice, just one-twelfth of the cost of a loaf of bread. It will always pay to toast the electrical way!
