Accounts Of Death Marches In Korea Are Told By POWs

Many Sick, Wounded GIs Still Held

By ROBERT BUNSON
FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea—Accounts of Bataan-style death marches, semi-starvation and calculated brutality came today from the second handful of Allied prisoners returned from Communist prison camps.

And stories of many more than 500 ill Allied soldiers still in Red captivity indicated the Communists do not plan to free all sick and wounded as they had agreed to do.

Today's reports recalled the shocked words "Incredibly small" uttered two weeks ago by Rear Adm. John C. Daniel, the U. N. truce delegate, when the Reds told him 600 sick and wounded would be repatriated.

The new development suggested that the Communists were fulfilling once again on a solemn agreement.

Sgt. Walter H. Mitchell of Greenville, Tenn., said, "There were quite a few left in the hospital at the Pyongyang camp. I would rather die here than be repatriated. They needed medical attention more."

The returned prisoners said treatment improved after the truce talks started in July, 1951, but varied since with the ups and downs of the negotiations.

Death marches over frozen high ways in bitter winter weather were reported by two American soldiers, Pfc. Roger Herndon of Jacksonville, Fla., and Cpl. David H. Mullins of Covington, Ky., told of separate agonies in 1950 and 1951.

Allied reconnaissance planes today spotted a convoy of Communist trucks and ambulances carrying more sick and wounded prisoners toward Panmunjom. Shortly after noon it was moving between Haeju and Kaesong, 50 to 75 miles north of Kaesong.

Herndon was captured in the winter of 1950. He said some 40 American and British soldiers perished in the county schools last year north from Kunu, where the U. S. 2nd Division met disaster in November, 1950.

Of 120 men who started, only 60 arrived at the 3rd prison, he said and related:

"We were not allowed to stop for any cause—no given to get the latrine. If you did, you would have to look out for yourself."

On April 17, of the year, we had a small group next morning when I saw there were only two living."

Herndon who had a wounded hand amputated by Chinese doctors eight days before the march, said many died from pneumonia.

He said all they had to eat on the march was "millet and cracked corn... one bowl a day."

Herndon just laughed when asked if he attempted to indoctrinate him in communism he worked.

"I've never been as happy as I am to reach freedom today," he said.

Mullins told of a march north from Pyongyang in August, 1951, just as the truce talks were beginning.

"We passed two Jeopdoles of Russian soldiers," he said. "They stopped us on the road and tried to get our guns and so they would shoot us."

Mullins said the Russians were (Continued on Page Six)

A COMMUNIST TRUCK CONVOY (top) loaded with sick and wounded prisoners for repatriation to the United Nations, is spotted six miles northwest of Pyongyang, Korea, by an Allied plane at an altitude of 10,000 feet. The Reds buzzed spotter planes with flash anti-aircraft fire as information reported out at the freedom route is being used to bring tons of military supplies to Communist troops at the front. At bottom, Red prisoners of the U.N. disembark from an LST at Pusan on their way to Panmunjom. (Continued on Page Six)

Cooper Explains How Plight Of Farmers Has Effect On Everyone

By R. E. COOPER
 Due to mild growing conditions in all vegetable producing sections this season, the farmers of Seminole County have been able to realize only a small portion of their growing costs. At the present time I do not know of a farmer in this county who will get back to the farm enough to pay all costs of production, and this general condition in the county will most certainly affect all of us directly or indirectly.

When things are so bad, it is high time we should all get together and help each other. It is not too late to bring this matter to the attention of the public.

The importance of taking an active interest in national affairs and of keeping ourselves advised as to the public's desires is stressed at a meeting of the legislative committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce today.

Mr. Williams, another one of the active members of the club, pointed out that the club has a perfect attendance record.

Mr. Williams personally presided over the 12th meeting of the club, which was held to make an absence at Mr. Williams' home.

"As you know," Mr. Williams said, "it is because of the fact that we are all together that we can make these meetings up to other nearby meetings."

Florida Negro Is Among Exchanged Korea Prisoners

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—"We were kind of nervous," he had written, "but I got my hands on a father of 12 said here Monday night after learning one of his boys, Pvt. Roger Herndon, was one of the American prisoners exchanged in Korea."

Cohen Herndon, 50, a Negro laborer, said his whole family "in-cluding the youngest five-month-old" had stayed with the radio Sunday and Monday night waiting for the news.

"We were very happy when we heard," Herndon said, "it means Roger will be with his own people again."

Herndon was the first American with a Florida address released by Communist captors in the current exchange of prisoners.

The father said Roger, now 10, had been a prisoner since Nov. 28, 1950.

Herndon said his son stopped school in 1949 and he told him "Make up your mind to go to school or go to work." Roger with his parents consent joined the Army the day after his 17th birthday on March 23, 1950.

That was before the Korean war. The war began that June.

Roger was a member of Company B, 85th Regiment, 25th Division.

Rising Costs, Not TV, Seen As Real Problem Of U. S. Newspapers

NEW YORK (AP)—An executive of the American Newspaper Publishers Association said today rising costs are more of a problem to the nation's newspapers than competition from television.

George C. Biggers of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, vice president of the ANPA, told one of the opening sessions of the ANPA's 87th annual convention: "It is not one of those who views with alarm the future of newspapers because of television. Newspapers years ago took radio in their stride and I think will do the same with television."

"I do believe," he said in his prepared address, "that with the advent of this new form of communication, newspapers will have to take another look at their plans. They will have to extend themselves to improve their product. Executives will have to learn from their readers just what it is about the newspaper that appeals to them and what is far more im-

Course Planned For Practical Nursing

A course for licensed practical nurses is being planned in Seminole County if the demand is sufficient to warrant a class. This course is part of the Vocational Education Program of the State Department of Education. In order for this course to be offered, not less than 18 licensed practical nurses must express a desire for this instruction. Any licensed practical nurse who would be interested in taking this course is urged to contact Fred C. Murray, director of adult and veteran education, whose office is in the Court House in Sanford. This course is recommended by the State Advisory Committee for Practical Nursing Education as a means of improving the efficiency of experienced practical nurses, who have not had the benefit of formal training. This course does not qualify one to take the licensing examination to become a Licensed Practical Nurse in the State of Florida.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—The trickle of American prisoners now being freed in Korea is a sad reminder of the thousands listed as missing—who will never return.

Most of them were lost in the early stages of a war that will soon be three years old, and the nation owes them a debt it can never repay.

Today the United States has perhaps the finest army in its history, stationed in Korea and in that way has grown the sacrifice demanded of the individual soldier has tended to lessen.

It wasn't that way in the beginning. A few thousand soldiers had to serve as the spearhead of 135 million unprepared Americans.

They didn't like the job they were given, each outfit had perhaps too many over-zealous sergeants too many under-age privates who had joined the army for security—not to die in an obscure peninsula called Korea.

Their resentful attitude was summed up by one:

"What business have we got fighting here anyway, and why do I have to be the one?"

They had no idea what they were going up against. They really thought it would be nothing more than a police action of a few days or weeks.

"We actually thought all we had to do was stand on a hill and shoot our American uniforms, and those little brown devils would turn around and run right back where they came from," a captain said later.

But they deployed in the rugged hills, and took the vanguard of a 300,000-man North Korean army head-on. They tried to form a continuous line of defense, and there were too few of them.

They were shattered line and again, pulling their remnants back to a new hill and trying to form a line, but each time allowed the enemy and gained precious hours and days that enabled the Army to rush over more troops and supplies.

The American people were shocked to see their troops defeated in the field. If they had known how pitiful small their numbers were, they might perhaps have paid more honor to those and not few who truly saved Korea.

For their stubborn withdrawals forced the surprised enemy to pause, delay, and sidestep.

"If the devils had really known how small a force they were up against," said a colonel, "they could have crashed right through us, taking their losses all at once, and had the whole peninsula in three weeks."

Some day the full valor of those over-weight sergeants and the green young privates will be known and their terrible sacrifices appreciated. They were mostly regular army men, and lying with them now is many a young West Point officer who would have been

CROWN NAVALCADE PREDECESSORS ELIZABETH II

No. 2: William I (The Conqueror), Ruled England 1066-1087.

Born: 1027 or 1028, illegitimate son of Duke of Normandy and a Danish girl. A cousin of Edward the Confessor, he invaded England after Edward's death and deposed and killed Harold II, who had made himself the king. He made one strong kingdom of England, previously many small realms. He encouraged the woolen trade and crafts, and forged trade links between England and Europe that ended its political and cultural isolation. From his time on, England was Anglo-Norman, not Anglo-Saxon. The English language has many Latin roots because of the Norman conquest.

William introduced a feudal system in disputes. Fate was supposed to favor the one who was right.

Vessels in William's invasion of England, 1066—a detail from the famous Bayeux Tapestry. William turned his warships into trading vessels and introduced British goods the breadth of Europe.

This is No. 2 in a series on the predecessors of Elizabeth II as ruler of England. The next will appear tomorrow.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

All time in civilized lands is dated from his birth, yet he came in the form of a servant and performed humble, judged menial, tasks. Inflated egotism characterizes very little men, not really great ones. Jesus began to wash the disciples feet.—John 13: 5.

We see where the President has decided to have the yacht Williamsburg put in mothballs, probably as part of his spring house cleaning. The best way to keep moth out of anything is to put it in mothballs.

Senator Flinders says no one knows how much the Korean war has cost. "Apparently no one, not even the top Pentagon officials, has kept any record of the cost of this war," he says. Well, we reckon that is one thing we better forget anyhow.

"Well, it was a short summer we had," someone said to us yesterday, reasoning with enthusiasm to the chill winds blowing in off Lake Monroe. But fall is still a long way off and there will be some warm weather before then. However, the late cool weather will help shorten the summer, as well as improve the late spring crop.

The cost of a high school band is no insignificant item, $550 for kettledrums, $2,000 a year. Elbert Coodley tells the Rotary Club. But it is worth it. The band is not only good training for the children who participate in it, it is good entertainment for the grown-ups who enjoy nothing better than to hear and see the youngsters perform. And the band is always most generous with their talents.

Down in Tampa they have been conducting an experiment in night shopping, keeping the stores open until 9:00 o'clock at night so that those who have to work in the day time can do their shopping at night. And as usual some are in favor of it and some against it; some pointing out that the extra payroll and light bills more than offset any possible benefits, others that the extra business more than justifies the extra cost. And some are afraid that the public may become so enamoured with the idea that it will become impossible to discontinue it.

The American people are losing confidence in the objectivity and accuracy of the American press," says Senator Morse, the senator from Oregon who deserted Eisenhower in the last election, not because he liked the Democrats but because he couldn't get along with the Republican "large segments of the press," he says, "are distorting their news columns and slanting their stories." Some newspapers do, of course, since there are bad bankers, bad lawyers, and bad farmers. But most of them don't. Most newspapers try to tell the story straight, just as it happened, and let the chips fall where they will.

It is too bad that so many people think of war, and a wartime economy in terms of high wages and profits. That thought tends to create, we are afraid, a war psychology which is itself a breakdown. A friend of ours showed us a clipping the other day from the Wall Street Journal which bears out this thought. "Those who preach that a war economy is a prosperous economy," the Journal says, "are blind to the absurdity in which their own reasoning leads. If it were true, . . . then we could get more and more prosperous by taking more men away from useful work and putting them into uniform; by taking more and more of our machines out of useful production and putting them into production of things to be blown up to make it simpler, we could half the production to make money and the other half to spend money with them. And the result of unemployment and machine production would be stupor."

Invitation To Peace

President Eisenhower's speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors made sense. He offered peace to the Soviet group of nations and their people—and he stood firm on what was needed to earn it.
This was no wishy-washy offer to appease or concede principles or give in to a bully because of fear. It was a strong, dignified suggestion from one group of equals to another that they participate in a co-operative effort to make the world stronger, more prosperous, more normal in mind and wholesome in body than peoples can be who live under the constant shadow and menace of war. He offered the hand of fellowship in common effort to a common goal.
Will it be accepted? Can the promise be trusted? Only time will tell. But it is a great and worthy experiment in friendship. It deserves acceptance. One sentence in the speech is worth remembering:
"Today the hope of free men remains stubborn and brave, but is sternly disciplined by experience."
That's the only kind of hope which deserves fulfillment, in man or nation. The Book of Proverbs has a sentence which may well be set beside it:
"Hope deferred maketh the heart sick; but the desire, when it cometh, is a tree of life."

Fifty Parties

Americans sometimes complain that they would gladly join a political party if they could find one with which they could wholeheartedly agree. If they lived in Italy, they would find no such difficulty. At the approaching elections no less than 50 parties will be in the field. Large as this number seems, it is as nothing compared with the 1948 election, when 120 parties presented candidates. Other Continental countries show a comparable state of affairs.
These parties are not ordinarily long-lived. They are little more than temporary groupings of individuals who choose a name, stay together for an election or two, and then drop off to join other parties. Often some prominent figure will announce that he is starting a new political party.
Such short-lived groupings contrast greatly with our own political parties. These are held together largely by patronage and the other spoils of office, and by the local organizations, state, county and city. They have developed war cries and traditions of allegiance. Many Americans boast of having always voted the Republican or Democratic ticket. An Italian would be hard put to make a similar boast about the splinter political group to which he attaches himself, as in all probability it was not in existence three or four elections ago.
Another factor making for many parties is the proportional representation system of election to the parliaments. A minority group is discouraged from putting up candidates by the knowledge that they have no chance of election. When ten representatives are chosen by proportional representation, a group polling only 15 per cent of the total vote can count on electing one candidate.
This multiplicity of parties is one cause of the instability of the Continental governments.

One Good Reason

A policeman we know finally caught up with an expensive car that was doing double the speed limit.
"Your excuse better be good, and one I've never heard before," he informed the attractive and befuddled young woman who was driving.
She looked at him thoughtfully for a moment and then said quietly, "I'm the star of a show. The producer has to leave town next week, so the date was shoved up because of that—and also because of some very active competition that has just arisen."
"After I write this ticket, I'd like to have the date on this show—just for my own satisfaction," our friend said grimly.
"Well, here it is," said the girl. "Place: Memorial Hospital. Producer: Dr. H. O. Grye. Act: Cesarean section. How about helping me get there?"
For the rest of the trip the "star" sped behind a police escort.—From "Life In These United States."

Four Are Killed, Four Missing In Airliner Crash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A huge airliner carrying 10 persons plunged into San Francisco Bay with a roar and a flash late last night—minutes after unloading 44 passengers at San Francisco Airport.
Two survived, four were killed and four were missing.
The crew of five and five passengers on the Western Air Lines DC-8 were on a short, low-level 10-mile hop from San Francisco to Oakland, last leg of a flight from Los Angeles.
The two who survived are: Stewardess Beverly Nelson, 27, Playa Del Rey, Calif. She suffered no serious injury.
Jerry Adams, 21, Fairbanks, Alaska, a passenger, was in severe shock when rescued but was reported recovering.
Four bodies were recovered by U. S. Coast Guard crews.
The dead: Joseph B. Petty, San Bernardino, Calif., passenger.
Nancy Turner, Oakland, passenger.
Charles H. Graves, Oakland, passenger.
Co-pilot Robert Jacobsen, 31, Waltham, Calif.
The missing:
Pilot, Capt. Robert Clark, 35, Torrance, Calif.
Flight engineer Robert League, 36, Los Angeles.
Stewardess Barbara Brew, 30, Hollywood.
Stanley J. Newman, Richmond, Va.
The giant plane—one of the largest types of passenger craft—crashed at 11:05 p. m. in 15 feet of water in the southern part of the bay about four miles from San Francisco and six from Oakland.
It was almost the same spot where a United Airlines plane crashed in 1937, killing 11, and exactly a month after the crash of a Transocean Air Lines transport that killed in a landing attempt near Oakland.

Apprentice Seaman Devon C. Peterson, 23, Glenwood, Utah, of the Alameda Naval Air Station, plunging into the water with an oily water with a line from a crash boat and rescued Miss Nelson and Adams.
Peterson said Petty went under just as he reached his plane. The crash boat was unable to revive him.
Peterson said he swam for 13 minutes in the oil-slicked water among floating bits of plywood, pillows, clothing and plane seats—all that remained of the giant plane on the surface.
Search for the missing four continued through the night under the light of million candlepower flares dropped through an overcast from Coast Guard helicopters.
C. W. Hollingsworth, Western Air Lines station manager at Oakland, said the plane was making a "routine approach" and had given no indication of trouble. He said cause of the crash was unknown.
Two federal investigators went to the scene immediately.
Western Air said it was the 1946's first crash since December, 1946.

In connection with foreign aid he pointed out that this nation has given over $7 billion dollars to foreign nations in the last 12 years, only $1 billion of which has been paid back.
Among those present at last night's meeting were John Brumby, president, and current brick-bridge, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Judge Douglas Binstrom, County Commissioner J. E. McClelland, George Touhy, Henry Wehott, Henry Simpson, E. B. Odenkirk of Cleveland, O., and Rolland Dean.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT?

City Commission

All municipalities.
Mayor Randall Chase voiced strong opposition to the proposed bill stating he did not feel it was the right way to proceed in determining the hours during which sales could be made.
Attorney Fred R. Wilson appeared before the Commission asking that no disposition be taken on sidewalk property adjacent to the Congregational Church at the corner of Third Street and Park Avenue dating back to Jan. 9, 1924.
The Commission moved that authority be given to take care of the matter by use of a satisfaction form.
William Leffler Jr., again appeared before the Commission in connection with proposed zoning in the second section of Fort Mellon and was referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission.
A letter was read from Robert A. Williams in which he submitted an offer of $1400 to the City for property in Maryanna, second section. He pointed out he currently owns two adjoining lots.
However, the Commission decided that no disposition of the property would be made until it was determined what portion of the lot should be reserved for a right-of-way. These other applications have previously been made for that property.
Mayor Chase called attention to the speed-up of traffic on the streets near the Southern Primary School since new thoroughways were established. Police Chief Roy Williams was directed to make a study of the problem.
Public hearings were held by the Planning Board on Dec. 18 concerning the Dreamwood and hospital site areas, and in a letter to the City Commission dated Dec. 29, 1952, the Planning Board wrote the following:
"Reasoning of Dreamwood—It is recommended that all of Dreamwood remain in zone R1AA after that portion referred to in the previous recommendation (the land fringing on French Avenue) had been rezoned R2, be rezoned from R1AA to R1AA.

THE WORLD TODAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is a brief rundown on what lies ahead in the Korean War.
Next step, now that wounded prisoners are being exchanged, is resuming the truce talks this week between the U. S., representing the United Nations, and the Communists.
Once the two sides agree on a cease-fire, if they do, talks to reach a permanent peace begin. No one predicts how long they would last. If in the end the peace talks break down, presumably fighting starts again.
The truce talks started in the summer of 1951, one year after the war started. They continued until October, 1952. In that time the two sides agreed on about 60 points that must precede any truce at all.
But last October the U. S. broke off the talks on a cease-fire on one major point which had been a stumbling block all the way through: the voluntary exchange of prisoners.
The Communists insisted all prisoners must be returned to their original side, whether they wanted to return or not. The U. S. said prisoners must be returned only if they wished to return or not at all.
The U. S. claims that 50,000 out of 132,000 Communist prisoners it holds do not want to return to Communist control.

Cold In Florida

MIAMI (AP)—Cool weather swept over Peninsular Florida early today but no general freezing temperatures were reported.

Hints To Housewives

Extension Nutrition Specialist Eggs may be used at any round of our diet the year round, they gain special importance during the spring when they are plentiful.

Considering their food value, eggs are an economical buy when they are selling at high prices. Families who have plenty of fresh eggs from their own hens are fortunate. These eggs contain about as much high quality protein as one fourth pound of meat. Eggs also contain fat, minerals, vitamins A and D, thiamine, and riboflavin.

Eggs can be served in many delicious ways. They may be cooked in water by poaching or cooking in the shell, fried, or baked by themselves or with other ingredients. A low cooking temperature considerably below the boiling point of water is desirable for eggs. High temperatures cause the egg to become tough, leathery and discolored. Egg white coagulates at a temperature lower than that required for the yolk. To cook the white and the yolk to a soft firmness without overcooking the white, cook them separately.

Cooking eggs in the shell is easy. Place clean eggs in pan with water to cover at least one inch above the eggs. Bring rapidly to boiling. Turn off heat and set pan off burner. Cover pan and stand two to four minutes for soft-cooked eggs or 15 minutes for hard-cooked eggs. Cool eggs in cold water for several seconds to prevent further cooking and to make them easy to handle. The eggs can then be served with seasoning and butter or in other ways.

Eggs-Shrimp Mornay
Eggs and Shrimp Mornay is a good main dish. Serve with buttered potatoes, vegetable salad, and fruit for lunch or supper.

Ingredients: 9 hard-cooked eggs, per to taste, 9 or more cooked tablespoons butter, salt and pepper (depending on size), 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 lb. sharp cheddar, grated, 3 cups medium white sauce, and toasted bread or English muffins.

Directions: Halve eggs lengthwise, remove yolks and mash them with butter, salt and pepper. Re-fill egg whites and put them in casserole or chafing dish. Make white sauce by cooking over low heat or in double boiler, 8 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 3 cups milk

The Easter bunny is smiling down upon these folks who are celebrating his day with such gaiety as he has never before has seen. The setting is the Navy Center and the folks are Navy personnel, stationed at the N.A.S. Their wives and in our hostesses. The dance was held on the first floor after Easter and dancing was enjoyed to the music of Paul Kishner and his orchestra. Mrs. Edward E. Lane, chairman, was assisted by Albert Hyatt, Clifford Gayton and Jim Behrendt of the Air Station; also Mrs. Louise Carman, Mrs. H. E. Pennington, Mrs. Slaughter, Mrs. W. A. Gatch and Mrs. S. C. Graham, along with hostesses from the First Baptist Church.

Circle Meets With Mrs. V. C. Messenger Gregory Carlton Is Honored On Birthday

Members of the Blue Knight Circle of the First Baptist Church volunteered to hold their services in an advisory capacity to the Y. W. A. of the church at the meeting of the circle held at the home of Mrs. V. C. Messenger last night.

The circle also decided to contribute $5 toward purchasing linen for the Fernand Laughton Memorial Hospital. The business session was presided over by Mrs. V. C. Messenger and Mrs. A. Anderson, Jr. who had charge of the program, introduced Mrs. Margaret Kaler Reynolds. Mrs. Reynolds gave an interesting talk on "Our Neighbor, Mexico" and illustrated her talk with a number of hand made articles of clothing which she had brought back from Mexico on her travels there.

A former teacher in a Mexican village, Mrs. Reynolds told of her customs, explaining the extreme hardships of the lower classes in just the mere matter of existence. She said they are eager to learn the American customs, and especially the English language. Mrs. Reynolds also told of the efforts of the missionaries to convert them to christianity.

Following the program and business session the hostess, as stated by her mother, Mrs. Lillian Vickers, served refreshments.

Those present were Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. J. T. Denton, Mrs. Cliff Alden, Mrs. Keet Clifton, Mrs. Vernon Dwyer, M. H. Odham, Sr., Mrs. Ouida Wilson, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. M. S. Messenger, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Thomas Banney, Mrs. Vickers, Miss Louise Frank and the hostess.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a cloth of the same color as the hostess's. A birthday cake was presented to Gregory which furthered the theme being emphasized with a cowboy hat and a Lone Ranger mask and during the morning they enjoyed a party. Prizes were awarded to Duane Negratto and Tommy Ruffin. Pictures were also taken during the party.

Warren Knowles Employed By City As Civil Engineer

Warren E. Knowles, a former town manager in Warwick, Me., and Derry, N. H., started his career in this work as superintendent of streets and civil engineer acting in an engineering capacity for all departments of the City of Sanford.

Born in Gloucester, Mass., on Mar. 27, 1923, Mr. Knowles graduated from the high school of that city in 1941. His college education at the University of Maine, Orono, Me., was interrupted by a three year tour of duty with the Army during World War II. After one year of study at the Maine University in 1941-42, he returned to that campus in 1943 and graduated in 1948 with a Bachelor of Science degree in public management and civil engineering. He spent another year studying for a Master of Science degree in public management.

Too Honest To Get Married At Twenty

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., (AP)—Ex-soldier Eugene Priddy and Miss Atanku Toman slipped up for a marriage license application yesterday.

"Your ages" the clerk asked. "In 25 and she's 21," Priddy said.

"No, Gene," his fiancée protested. "In 20."

"Two had," the clerk said. "You'll have to get your parents' consent."

Miss Toman is doing just that by air mail. Priddy met her while he was stationed in Tokyo.

HOLLYWOOD VIRTUE

CANNES, France (AP)—U. S. movie star Kirk Douglas tickled French film critics last night with an old Hollywood saw—"Virtue isn't photogenic."

The actor omitted the saying at his first all-French press conference. Replying to a critic who asked whether it was true that Hollywood is the last stopover before hell, Douglas said:

Train Wreck

first aid and sometimes operating on the spot to free the injured. More than 25 ambulances, recruited from far and wide in this Northeast South Carolina tobacco section, maintained a steady parade to and from half a dozen swamped community hospitals.

Part of the 1 1/2 in caught fire and the burning oil, emergency lights and cutting torches cast a weird glow.

The wreck occurred shortly before midnight, 2 1/2 miles south of Dillon, 12 miles south of the North Carolina line and only about 25 miles from Lenoir, N. C., where two ACL passenger trains crashed Dec. 10, 1943, killing 72 persons and injuring 187.

Heading northward through the night, the train carried an estimated 300 passengers, many of them vacationers returning from a winter in Florida.

The seriously injured engineer, B. B. Sweeney, of Rocky Mount, N. C., told Sheriff Pete Rogers he didn't know what happened. He said a freight train covered the same stretch only 10 minutes before the Champion derailed.

The train's fireman, Chaclie Hunt, son of Rocky Mount, died in his flaming locomotive. His body was cut out with torches.

Five coaches, seven Pullmans, two diners, two lounge cars and a baggage car comprised the streamliner. Engines overturned and six remained upright.

Dozens of passengers were trapped in the overturned cars. Joe Habney of the Florence Morning News, one of the first reporters at the scene, said the fire day coaches on their sides "apparently ate full of passengers unable to get out."

Mrs. Frank Hiken of Spring Hill, Mass., lay almost in the wreckage for nearly five hours. She joked with her rescuers until a doctor reached her with a hypodermic. She was dug out from beneath a car at 4:12 a.m. and taken to a hospital.

A surgeon was lugged into one of the telescoped coaches to cut off the left leg of a woman in an effort to free her.

Habney said: "In one coach I saw three people pleading for help. It seemed impossible that anything could be left of the legs of any of them."

"Wonderful first aid assistance was given by several sailors who were in the seven passenger cars behind the locomotive," said Harry Gardner of Boston who was in the last car, said. "There were three bumps and then it sounded like an earthquake just before we left the track."

Philip McCabe, sales from the Parris Island, S. C. Marine recruit depot, reported there were four dead in his Pullman.

Habney said he counted six dead, one of them a Negro seaman whose body was removed only after two men worked 30 minutes with axes.

DILLON, S. C. (AP)—Bill Bond Jr., 16, was in the first automobile reaching the wreckage of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad streamliner near here last night.

And the first to be rescued was his father, W. L. Bond of Dillon, baggage-master on the train.

Legislature

authorize the Cabinet Budget Commission to make an immediate start on setting up a uniform system of hiring, firing, promoting and paying state workers.

Before the House went a McCarty proposal via a commission be named to study revision of the state constitution and decide upon the method and scope of any revisions. His recommendations would be presented to the 1955 Legislature.

The Legislature was asked to strike out that part of the sales tax which applies to clothing by Reps. Moody and Johnson of Hillsborough County. Clothing costing more than $10 now is subject to the tax.

Other bills included: A proposal to stagger terms of members of the State Highway Board so all members will not quit when the governor's term is up as is now the case.

A plan for earmarking all auto license tax money not already put aside for school construction purposes for construction of primary roads in Florida.

Cities with 10,000 above population be permitted to regulate railroad movements under another bill.

One of the biggest fights developing is the plan to build a toll turnpike down the East Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dysart of Northham, Mass., were singled out by doctors at the scene for their valiant work in aiding injured passengers.

Among the first persons reaching the site were members of the Dillon First Aid and Rescue Crew, organized three years ago for just such emergencies. National Guardsmen, Boy Scouts and Red Cross workers also assisted.

Rising Costs

continuing and steadily increasing shrinkage of the grain between expense and income.

He advocated a closer look at the problem, with a view to having house-keeping methods, and added:

"Such a close look at each step in our day-to-day operations, even to the smallest detail which until now has not been deemed important in the face of heavy matters of obvious concern, can save more of us money than we now realize."

In a separate committee session for newswomen under 1940-1941 session, ANPA President Charles E. McCall of the Cleveland News stressed the importance of the whole industry of the nation's newspapers.

The chairman of the session, David R. E. of the St. Petersburg, Fla., Herald Tribune, called this a challenging era for newspapers, not only because of increased competition from other media but also because the public expects more from newspapers.

"In charity driving, in political affairs, in exposure of gangsterism and corruption in government, the people expect their local newspapers to take the lead."

"Sometimes these expectations are excessive, beyond the capabilities of a small newspaper staff. But at times they should be heeded, and at other times they are a real expression of the vital place given to newspapers by our readers. This in itself is the greatest reassurance we can receive in the face of media competition."

There was a discussion in connection with lowering speed limits in the following areas: On Route 46 west from the City limits to Monroe Corner, on Clergy Avenue from the City limits to St. John's River, and from Heck Hammock to Mellenville Avenue. There will be additional study on the proposal.

Commissioners granted use of the County's large transport truck to be used by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in connection with the beauty contest being held in Daytona Beach on May 1 and 2. Don Blair, chairman of the Jaycee Committee, said that Frances the committee the saving would be small and Camp Blair is subject to being taken over by the federal government at any time, making it unwise to establish a new agency there.

An administration-back bill to regulate Florida's nursing and old folks homes was introduced in the House today by Rep. Morgan Davis of Duval County.

The bill would be under supervision of the State Board of Health, which would have authority to set health and safety standards, including "protection from fire hazard."

A bill to put all Florida's essential standard time west to 23rd degree in the House.

$60,000,000 since 1945, but the assessed value of those properties for 1945 was $117,507,830, and in 1952 was $110,075,300.

The assessed value of all other properties in the county, including railroad and telegraph properties, increased over 100 percent during that period. The earnings of the railroad and telegraph companies have more than kept pace with the increase in investments of those companies.

The resolution asserted that "the railroad and telegraph systems are not assessed by the county tax assessors, but make their annual returns to the State Comptroller. The annual tax returns of those companies cannot be changed except by the Railroad Assessment Board, which can assess only on an appeal of the State Comptroller."

"The Railroad Assessment Board has not convened in many years (believed to be about 10 years), and it is considered to be in the best interest of all counties of the State of Florida that the Assessment Board be required to meet annually."

The resolution concluded with the request that "the Honorable Richard W. Ervin, attorney general of the State of Florida, draft the legislation necessary to require the Railroad Assessment Board to meet annually to consider the returns of the railroad and telegraph companies."

Three roads within Seminole County came in for comment by the Commissioners. Upon the Board's recommendation, the district right-of-way agent for the State Road Department, who was present, the Commission accepted the State Road Department's plan to develop a road from the Orange County line to Olato, and also approved the plan for the Forrest City to Olato road by way of Hawthorn Springs road.

Mr. Swift stated the State Road Department is very anxious to start construction of a four lane road leading into the Sanford Naval Air Station from the State Road to the Orange County line, and that the necessary right-of-way could best be handled by the U. S. Navy and an informed Mr. Swift.

armed and in uniform. He said he knew the Bulgarians wanted the guards to shoot because "they made motions."

Sgt. Mitchell said about 20 serious hospital cases were left behind. "Medical attention was no good at all. Very few guys got any."

His story was confirmed by Pvt. Louis Kerkstra of Byron Center, Mich., who contracted tuberculosis.

"Some of the 70 patients in my hospital were in worse condition (Boats) Moore, local entry in the Miss Florida pageant, needed the transport in connection with presentation of her act.

Clerk Horton asked for purchase of 20 to 30 chairs for use in the Grand Jury room, and also filing racks in the basement of the Court House. Both requests were granted without a vote.

A resolution prepared by the Chamber of Commerce in connection with the untimely death of Garland W. Spencer was directed to be placed in the minutes of the Commission.

than I was," he said. "The way I see it, they took me because I was in a little better shape and knew we would hit the press first."

Treatment of the prisoners varied widely from place to place and time to time.

Pfc. Tibor Rubin of Long Beach, Calif., a Hungarian who spent 14 months in a Nazi prison camp in World War II, said that treatment was better than the Nazis gave him.

"The Chinese treated us much better. I'm not Communist, but they did treat us better than the Germans," he said.

Cpl. George Jones of Mesa, Ariz., was captured in November, 1949. On an eight-day march north, he said, he was wounded in a misunderstanding caused by the language barrier.

"The guards would take them off and give them hot water about all the months of the year."

He said that after the initial atrocious stages, conditions in some of the camps improved.

Farmers Plight

Some farmers have felt that the men on the market could have gathered together and held the prices up. This is not the answer to this big problem. High prices year before last were due to freezer and surplus of certain crops.

I have known our manager, Sandy Anderson, for several years and have always found him interested in the farmers. He is anxious to see them get every break possible, and I feel that we have one of the best and most conscientious managers in the state. He has kept us informed of the number of packages going through the market each day and the gross sales, but one of our farmers felt that the public, as well as the housewife, should know what a small percentage of the prices quoted in the papers and over the radio gets back to the farmer to help pay for growing the crops.

For an example—I have harvested over 20,000 packages of vegetables on my acre farm. This season, and will realize a loss of at least $5,000 on the cost of growing these vegetables. Farmers who have not mostly celery will realize an even greater loss. It is our celery, cabbage, and other crops.

Since harvesting and marketing, including containers, are some of our most expensive items connected with farming, will you give us an example of one car of cabbage. This car sold for 80 cent per crate. Crates cost forty-one cents each, cutting and packing, twelve cents, handling, five cents and commission, ten cent, which leaves twelve cents per crate for me to help pay growing costs.

On a total of 15,000 packages of cabbage this season, I have averaged only twenty cents per package back to the farm. It doesn't make sense to put 20 cent cabbage into a container costing twenty cents, handling, five cents and commission, ten cent, which leaves two cents per crate, which brought back to the farm one cent per head, and in visiting one of our stores the other day, I found they were making a heavy medium-sized head, that weighs 1.00 cent between farm and consumer.

I have no quarrel with anyone, but we do need someone who can know the position of the farmers in Seminole County. I realize that some of us who farm have not been careful enough in the quality of our produce, but in the future we must put more thought and planning in producing and putting in better quality of produce.
