The report reflected the second round of filings after General Motors' two-week, company-wide shutdown in late July. The Labor Department said new applications for jobless benefits totaled 474,000 during the week ended Aug. 8, up from 403,000 a week earlier. It was the highest number since 479,000 were filed during the week ended Dec. 7, 1991. Jobless claims went on a roller-coaster ride after GM closed all of its plants for two weeks beginning July 17.

SANFORD — Market on the Mall, in downtown Sanford wants to grow. It will require approval of the City Commission. At the same time, the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association, wants the City to provide $10,000 in matching money, to inaugurate a downtown Mainstreet Program. Chris Cranias, president of SHDWA will make both proposals during a workshop session of the Sanford City Commission Monday afternoon. The proposed Mainstreet Program is a combined effort. Cranias said, "This program will be directed by a board comprised of a representative from each of the following local organizations: Sanford Historic Trust, SHDWA, the Chamber of Commerce, Sanford Committee, the Preservation Board, and the City of Sanford." Cranias is projecting that the board could manage the Mainstreet Program which would establish a welcome center, establish an office on First Street, hire a program manager, and encourage and promote various events that would draw more people to the downtown area. "We are prepared to institute this program immediately," he added. At the core of the Market on the Mall expansion, Cranias wants it opened to all members of SHDWA. At the present time, the membership consists of approximately 80 persons, representing at least 35 separate downtown businesses and professional organizations. The Market, which operates Friday and Saturday, at the Magnolia Mall in the heart of historic downtown Sanford, has had approximately 10 businesses and artisans displaying their goods, paintings, sculpture and other items. Cranias is asking the City to allow participation to be opened to not only SHDWA members, but non-members as well. He is calling certain stipulations for non-members, including the requirement for them to SANFORD — Glyneese Johnson of Lake Mary said she attended the Greater Seminole Business Show yesterday just for the opportunity to meet Dr. Paul Hagerly. Hagerly, the superintendent of schools in Seminole County, was honored at a reception during the meeting in the Seminole Community College health education building.

The reception was sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the chambers of commerce of Sanford, Lake Mary, Oviedo, Longwood/Winter Springs and Seminole County. "Education is an important component of business," Johnson said. "I want to know what plans he has to improve the quality of education here in Seminole County." Hagerly spoke briefly to the assembled crowd at the business show before stepping down to chat with people one-on-one. "Communication is the key to the improvement in the school system," he said. LAKE MARY — The proposed development of Eagle Crossing has been brought up before the Lake Mary City Commission for over one year. An effort to win final approval is to be made again tonight. Although a request has been listed on the City Commission agenda many times, it has never been formally approved, due to a number of suggestions to table the matter, either at the request of the applicant or members of the Commission. Eagle Crossing contains 36 acres of land, and is located near the intersection of Humphrey Road and Wood Street. The development has been proposed by Steve Hardin how has indicated he wanted to built approximately 40 homes on the property. One of the original hurdles occurred in early June of this year, when a rezoning request was brought before the Commission. It asked for a classification of R-1AAA, which would allow homes to be built on half acre lots rather than one acre lots, as had previously been approved.

The matter had already passed the Lake Mary Planning and Zoning Board in April, but when it was later presented to the Commission, it was with the stipulation that Hardin be required to obtain a certain amount of right-of-way along Humphrey Road, for future road expansion. Hardin at one point had told the Commissioners he was working on obtaining the right-of-way, but later said he had not been able to confirm the deal at that time. That was followed by a question from the City Attorney, of whether or not the City could require

DOT asked to consider sound barrier along I-4

By J. MARK BARFIELD

LAKE MARY — Enough is enough is a group of west Seminole County residents told state road designers Tuesday night. A handful of residents told planners Tuesday they welcome the state's proposed widening of Interstate 4 between State Road 434 and Lake Mary Boulevard, but they can't tolerate the additional noise they think the road will bring. About 30 residents from the Markham Woods Road area, Sleepy Hollow subdivision and other neighborhoods close to I-4 attended the information session. The state wants to spend nearly $21 million to widen Interstate 4 between State Road 434 and Lake Mary Boulevard. Construction is not scheduled to begin before 1996. Bruce Wallace said he knew when they moved to their I-4-side home in the Mandarin subdivision seven years ago the busy highway would be noisy. "It's not so bad inside," said Wallace. "But if you sit outside with friends, and the wind is blowing the right way, you can't even hear each other speaking."

Wallace's wife Kerry Wallace said her college research found continued excessive sound levels can lead to physical problems with the heart and other organs. Wallace said he has planted 50 pine trees around his one-acre lot to help dampen the sound from I-4, which lies a few yards from his home. Wallace and others asked project designers to erect a sound barrier wall to deflect the noise of additional traffic on the road. Up to 75,000 cars per day travel the section between SR 434 and Lake Mary Boulevard. Within 10 years, the traffic is expected to top 100,000 cars per day. Bob Gleason, a Florida Department of Transportation environmental manager in DeLand, said

K-5 open houses tomorrow

By VICKI BOBBERN
Herald Staff Writer

Elementary school students, maybe more than students at other levels, need to become acquainted with their schools before the first day of classes. To that end, most of the district schools are offering orientation sessions tomorrow for the students, especially those who have never been to that school before, to bring their parents and take a tour of the campus and to meet their teachers. Three elementary schools, Goldboro Elementary School, Sanford, Geneva Elementary School, Geneva and Lawton Elementary School, Oviedo, have been in class since July 20 and are on the year round schedule. They will not have an orientation this week. Some schools will offer an additional open house for parents to meet with teachers after classes have begun. Those open houses will allow teachers the opportunity to get to know the students before talking with parents about their plans for the year with each student. # County loses 8 in revised census

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County lost eight people to Orange County in the latest revised 1990 Census.

The new formal total of the April 1, 1990 U.S. Census for Seminole County is now 287,521, eight less than the 287,529 population figure released by the Bureau of the Census in January 1991.

Local planners say they're content the number hasn't changed significantly. The census figures are used by the federal government in determining federal revenue sharing, such as Community Development Block Grant allocations. "It's an insignificant change," said Tony VanDerworp, county planning director. "We don't have a problem with it."

Edward Kobilarcik, a specialist with the census bureau in Washington, D.C., said the only Seminole County city affected by the revisions released earlier this month was Altamonte Springs, which had contested its original population count of 34,879. Sanford and Lake Mary population and housing counts did not change.

Kobilarcik said several neighborhoods assigned by the census bureau to unincorporated areas were determined to be in Altamonte Springs city limits. But four homes containing eight people that had been assigned to Altamonte Springs were actually found to be located in Orange County, Kobilarcik said.

The change increased Altamonte Springs official population to 35,167, but decreased the unincorporated population from 148,842 to 148,546.

County budget director Jean Kassab said the changes may reduce the county's state sales tax and other state-shared revenues, but by an amount so small to have no overall effect on the county's proposed $233.7 million budget.

The final Census count for Seminole County cities is:

Woman wants accused stalker in jail

FORT LAUDERDALE — An elderly woman vowed in court to see her former roommate in jail for stalking her and making her life miserable.

Clare Elmore Gray, 66, is one of the first people in Florida to be prosecuted under an anti-stalking law that took effect July 1, allowing criminal charges in cases of harassment without violence. Judge June Johnson ordered Gray, who is homeless, to undergo a psychiatric evaluation and return to court Friday.

In an emotional appearance at Wednesday's hearing, Mary Kucinaki, 75, his roommate of 17 years, said: "I gave you a home. I gave you food. I put clothing on your back. I admired you then. Today I hate you for what you did to me."

Ms. Kucinaki charges Gray has pestered her with up to 22 telephone calls a day, threatened her and slept in her yard since she threw him out when his drinking became a problem.

"I'm going to see that you are in jail. I can't help it," she said, her voice cracking. "He's taking my family through the mud."

Gray faces a misdemeanor stalking charge carrying a possible year in jail and $1,000 fine. He could face felony charges if he has any more contact with the woman.

Cafe owner arrested for cocaine sales

KEY WEST — The owner of a cafe and arcade has been arrested in a police sting and accused of running crack cocaine sales out of his business.

James Chapman, 53, owner of Chapman's Goombay Cafe, was arrested on cocaine sales charges Tuesday along with a 20-year-old son, stepsons age 17 and 18, and a 20-year-old man.

Undercover officers bought $20 to $50 worth of crack in purchases just outside the business and tape recorded the transactions since April, said Sgt. Steve Hammers. Police found 50 crack rocks when making the arrests.

People in the area were surprised by Chapman's arrest, saying he has ordered drug sellers to leave his business.

"I'm sure he didn't want to put out the image that he's selling it," Hammers said. "He wouldn't just sell it to anybody. That's why it took a while to work our way into it."

Kit for screening diabetes to be tested

GAINESVILLE — A kit for screening people at risk for juvenile diabetes will be tested by researchers working together at two universities and a medical diagnostic company.

A costly test currently requires pancreatic tissue for examination, but the new version will test for blood antibodies identified as early indicators of juvenile, or insulin-dependent, diabetes.

About 35,000 Americans are diagnosed with the disease each year, and most require daily doses of insulin to survive. Insulin-producing cells are destroyed before the first symptoms appear.

An agreement on development of the test brings together the University of Florida, the University of California at Los Angeles and Byva Co., an affiliate of Syntex Corp. of Palo Alto, Calif.

Freighter seized, cocaine found

MIAMI — A Haitian freighter was seized by the U.S. Customs Service after agents found 80 pounds of cocaine in the bilge when the 70-foot ship docked on the Miami River, the agency said.

"The St. Yves arrived in port empty Monday, but ships from Haiti have been receiving more scrutiny because of the trade embargo enacted by the Organization of American States and recent alien smuggling cases. Customs spokesman Cliff Stallings said Wednesday.

The Miami River, which was unpoliced for years, also now has its own enforcement team.

The captain and four crew members were turned over to the Border Patrol but no criminal charges were filed against them, Stallings said.

"I don't think there was any way they could actually physically connect the crew members with the cocaine," he said.

Environmentalists, FPL disagree

TALLAHASSEE — Environmentalists say it would be a grave mistake for the state to allow a utility to build a coal-fired power plant just 12 miles north of Lake Okechobee.

"A coal plant near Lake Okechobee jeopardizes the Everglades ecosystem and may also endanger South Florida's largest water supply," said Bill Wood, spokesman for the Florida Public Interest Research Group.

The 832-megawatt Okechobee County plant, which would not begin generating electricity until 1997, must gain approval by the Public Service Commission and Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet. The plant would be built by Cypress Energy Partners; FPL would buy the electricity under a 30-year contract.

Budget aide to tackle health care

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — After a year and a half of working on Florida's budget, Doug Cook is moving on. His next job is to come up with a solution to Florida's health care problems.

Cook, Gov. Lawton Chiles' top budget aide, will head the Agency for Health Care Administration starting next month. Lawmakers created the agency this spring by combining the Health Care Cost Containment Board and health regulatory divisions of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

The new department is charged with figuring out how to bring down health care inflation so that government and the private sector together can extend services to the 2.5 million Floridians who don't have insurance and don't qualify for assistance.

Florida's budget for Medicaid, the joint federal-state health program for poor welfare recipients, has risen 365 percent in the last 10 years.

"Increasing health care costs are the driving force behind our budget growth," Chiles said.

Cook is the last of Chiles' original inner circle of three top aides to leave his office. However, Cook will continue to report directly to Chiles in his new position.

Both of his old colleagues, former Chief of Staff Jim Krug and Communications Director Mary Jane Gallagher, left state government earlier this year.

Cook's first major job will be to develop a plan to present to the Legislature by December.

The deadline for achieving the goals of cost containment and full access is 1995. If enough progress hasn't been made by then, the state may impose a solution, Chiles said Wednesday.

As budget director, Cook had charge of Chiles' first priority after becoming governor: balancing the budget.

County recycling efforts curbed

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County recycling efforts curbed last month, dropping 2.5 million pounds between June and July.

A total of 7.1 million pounds of household and business garbage was separated from garbage that was taken to the county dump, according to a monthly report by the county recycling office. In June, county residents and businesses separated a record 9.6 million pounds of garbage.

The state has required counties to reduce the amount of garbage disposed at dumps by 30 percent by 1994. Seminole County obtained an official reduction rate of 23 percent by the end of the state fiscal year June 30.

Unincorporated residents boosted their curbside recycling of aluminum cans, glass jars and other materials that can be reused. Nearly 1.9 million pounds of recyclable materials was collected from the unincorporated areas, compared to the about 1.2 million pounds collected in June.

Unincorporated yard waste disposal dropped off a bit. In July, 677,120 pounds of grass clippings and other yard debris was left by unincorporated roadsides. In June, 877,649 pounds were collected by county haulers. Since January, the county has been required to stop dumping yard waste in the county dump. The county is building a mulching facility to convert the waste into a landscaping material.

Of the city recycling programs:

Sanford residents dropped their curbside recycling efforts from 152,480 pounds in June to 135,220 pounds in July. Sanford yard waste disposal dropped considerably. In June, city residents disposed of more than 1 million pounds of yard waste. But in July, yard waste collections dropped to 728,500 pounds.

Lake Mary residents reduced their recycling efforts in July, but increased their yard waste disposal. Recycling collections dropped from 68,768 pounds in June to 50,110 pounds in July. Yard waste collections increased from 128,100 pounds in June to 158,188 pounds in July.

Longwood residents increased both recycling efforts and yard waste collections during the two-month period. Recycling collections increased from 82,080 pounds in June to 95,911 pounds in July. Yard waste collections in the city increased from 310,920 pounds in June to 278,968 pounds

Transfer station ready

SANFORD — Seminole County will begin limited operations of its $9.4 million Central Transfer Station near Soldier's Creek Park Aug. 24.

The facility will replace the Sanlando Transfer Station in Altamonte Springs. The new facility can handle about 2,900 tons of garbage from the central and southern sections of the county each day.

The football-sized facility features a split-level design. Garbage trucks enter the facility from County Road 419 and drive over a computer-operated scale. The truck will then follow a long looping ramp to the second level where they will dump their loads through an opening in the floor to an open-topped truck below.

The design will eliminate the mechanical problems associated with the Sanlando and the closed Upsala Road transfer stations.

By October, the station is expected to be fully operational and the Sanlando station will be closed and converted into a softball park.

John Murphy Rowe, 30, 174 Lake Side Drive, Sanford, was arrested Tuesday. He was wanted on an Orange County warrant charging him with failing to appear on a charge of petit theft.

Derwin Whitney, 33, Apt. 134, 2000 Lake Mary Blvd., was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday, responding to a call regarding a domestic dispute between a mother and her son. During a computer check, police reported Whitney was wanted on a Seminole County misdemeanor warrant.

Michael Marcellus Depalma, 44, 178 Duncan Trail, Longwood, was apprehended during a traffic stop on Interstate 4 Tuesday. Deputies found he was wanted on two Seminole County warrants charging him with obtaining property with a worthless check.

William Casanova Bradley, 19, 59 Lake Monroe Terrace, was located at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Tuesday, where he was being held on an unrelated charge. He was found to be wanted for violation of parole on a conviction of burglary to a dwelling.

Titus James, 29, 1415 Mara Court, Sanford, was located at the jail Tuesday. He was wanted for violation of parole on a conviction of escape.

Incidents reported to authorities

Laurent Urion and James Entinger, both of 102 Ichobod Terrace, Longwood, reported being robbed Monday on Rolling Hills Road. They told sheriff's deputies they were approached by three men in a car, one armed with a crowbar, who took a bag from Urion containing $190 in clothing and various other items.

John Rumbley, 2542 El Portal Drive, Sanford, told sheriff's deputies his car was burglarized while parked in front of Whiskey River, 3730 S.R. 46 Tuesday morning. Rumbley told deputies he saw a man in his car when he exited from the establishment. The only item reported missing was the car's battery.

Corey's Tire Zone and Auto Service, 2413 French Avenue, was reportedly burglarized. A Sanford police officer passing the building reported seeing the front door broken open. No information regarding items that may be missing was available.

A metal box reportedly containing several thousands of dollars in personal papers, was reportedly taken from a window at the apartment of Veronica Holdos, Town & Lake Apartments, 711 E. First Street, between Aug. 13 and Aug. 18.

Bill Hick's Auto Sales, 601 S. French Avenue, was reportedly burglarized Tuesday. Police said Hicks believed the burglary may have occurred on Aug. 13, 1992 in various tools was reported missing.

Police to sponsor dummies

SANFORD — The Sanford Police department is sponsoring an exhibit and demonstrations of Larry and Vince, the seat belt dummies. Demonstrations will be held this Saturday, at the Wal-Mart store.

Sanford police Lt. Mike Rotundo said, "We will be holding seatbelt seminars to explain to as many people as possible about the need to use them at all times.

"We also hope parents will bring the children out because we will have photo sessions with the two crash-dummies, Larry and Vince," he said.

The exhibits and seminars will be held at 1 p.m., and again at 2 p.m. this Saturday, Aug. 22, at Wal-Mart, 3653 Orlando Drive, in Sanford.

"I never had to dial the area code when I called my sister before, why do I have to now?"

"Will this new dialing plan cost me more?"

New Dialing Directions for the Information Generation.

Because Florida's growing so quickly, the supply of telephone number combinations is running low. But the answer to this problem is simple. And it won't cost you a dime.

Now, when you dial a long distance number within the same area code, you need to dial it like any other long distance call - by including the area code.

This new dialing plan will dramatically increase the supply of available telephone numbers.

So, remember to dial the area code on all long distance calls within your area code. And, remember to re-program speed-dial numbers, programmed FAX machines, computer modems or alarm systems affected by this new dialing system.

Here's The New Way To Call Long Distance Within Your Area Code.

Dial 0 or 1 + Area Code + 7-digit Number

It's about time

Marvin Runyon means business. The new postmaster general plans to pare 30,000 of the U.S. Postal Service's 130,000 management positions by offering employees early-retirement incentives.

Then he aims to streamline the agency's top-heavy bureaucracy by replacing 42 associate and assistant postmasters general with 24 vice presidents. For good measure, he intends to replace the Postal Service's 73 regional divisions with three branches: Marketing and sales, customer service and processing distribution.

What's more, he plans to complete this most ambitious restructuring in the history of the Postal Service within 90 days.

Postmasters in Seminole County say they expect no changes in local operations.

In the past, many other well-intentioned postmasters general have tried and failed to reform the bloated Postal Service bureaucracy. But Runyon, known to his admirers as "Carvin' Marvin," is uniquely suited for this Herculean undertaking.

In a previous job, as head of the Tennessee Valley Authority, Runyon reduced the employee rolls by 40 percent. That saved the quasi-public utility $600 million a year and spared its customers $1.8 billion in proposed rate increases.

Similarly, the reforms Runyon has in mind for the Postal Service would save $700 million in the first year and $1.4 billion the second. That will do much to eradicate the agency's projected $2 billion deficit for next year.

The ultimate beneficiaries of these reforms will be postal customers. Without the restructuring, first-class stamps could have increased from the current 29 cents to 35 cents within the next two years, according to Runyon.

That just would not do. Postal customers are still recovering from last year's rate hike, which saw the cost of first-class postage increase four times the rate of inflation; second-class postage (newspapers and magazines) by more than five times inflation; and third-class or bulk mail by more than six times inflation.

The new postmaster general has promised to delay a rate increase scheduled for 1994. He asserts that if rates are increased, the Postal Service's volume will drop even more due to increased competition.

The days have long since passed when the U.S. Postal Service operated as an unchallenged monopoly and could pass along the costs of its inefficiency to customers. Postmaster General Runyon understands this. Now he has to get the message across to the postal bureaucracy.

Change would improve Sanford

I would like to present to (city officials) two subjects which I feel are very important to the people and future of Sanford.

1. The proposed rezoning of the school property facing French and Elm Avenues and 15th and 18th streets. P & Z has forwarded this request to the city commission with a recommendation that the rezoning be denied. I hope that (city officials) will concur with this recommendation. With a new head of the school district, I would suggest that Mayor Bettye meet with him to discuss ways and means for the city to obtain this property to be used for a possible future fire station and city park to preserve its present beauty. State and/or federal grants may be available for these uses. Where there is a will, there is a way!

2. The City of Sanford's involvement with the leases of the lakefront property. As you may know I had a personal involvement in the development of this property while a member of the city commission. As the Navy was moving out of Sanford, it was apparent that something needed to be done to publicize Sanford. It was necessary at that time to offer a very desirable financial package to the prospective lessees (motel and marina) to induce them to invest in the, at that time, questionable lakefront project. I know it was a good move as it has provided the public and visitors alike with something to show and be proud of. I think the city was wrong when it changed the lease income provisions with the motel people. I think the city should have stuck by the provisions of the original lease agreements (or now the modified agreements), then I think the city should take whatever legal steps it can to take over the motel and find competent professional managers to operate the motel complex. It doesn't make sense that a name brand motel (Holiday Inn) located in the heart of central Florida on a most beautiful lake/river and the most desirable vacation spot in the nation, is unable to make it a profitable operation. Occupancy seems to be relatively high most of the year and the restaurants/lounges have a very high usage seven days a week.

I would appreciate (city officials') consideration of these items and hope that (they) will be able to agree with me on these changes.

The media go to work against Bush

Is it just my imagination, or is the pro-Democratic bias of the media more visible in this campaign than ever before?

That the bias exists is undeniable. Most journalists don't even try to deny it except in election years like this one, when a reasonable neutrality is still — however vainly — expected.

The first scientific demonstration of the bias was the Lichter-Rothman report of 1981, based on in-depth interviews with 240 randomly selected members of America's media elite, both print and electronic. Perhaps because the study had academic sponsorship (Lichter and Rothman were professors at George Washington University and Smith College respectively), the responses were unusually candid. It transpired that never less than 80 percent of the media elite had voted for the Democratic candidates in the four preceding presidential elections: 1984, 1988, 1972 and 1976.

Since that indiscretion, the media have become more cautious, but there is no reason to think that their bias has gotten anything but worse. Several conservative organizations and publications now exist that are dedicated, full time, to demonstrating and condemning it. A glance at any report of the Media Research Center (113 South West St., Suite 200, Alexandria, Va. 22314) will provide a dozen recent examples.

But, as I say, 1992 promises to be a vintage year in the slanted-news business. This was borne in upon me just the other day, when the Gallup Poll reported that Clinton was now leading Bush by 17 points, 53 percent to 36 percent (with 9 percent undecided and 2 percent still hanging in there for Perot).

Now, this was news. The immediately preceding polls of half a dozen public opinion researchers had shown Clinton leading Bush by nearly twice that much: 33 percent in at least one widely heralded poll. In those circumstances, Clinton's 17-point lead, though still impressive, was an astonishing comedown.

How do you suppose the media would have handled the story if the names of the candidates had been reversed? How did they, in fact, handle the comparable story when Bush's astronomical 1991 approval ratings of 90 percent or even higher began to fall? We were told, with suitable dramatic emphasis, that the Bush ratings had "plunged" (or "plummeted") from 90 percent to "only" 62 percent, or whatever.

Yet the lead paragraph of The Associated Press story reporting the new Gallup figures began as follows: "A national opinion poll brought more bad news Saturday for President Bush, showing him trailing Bill Clinton by 17 points." Not a word about earlier polls; not a hint that the Gallup figures showed Clinton losing a full half of his lead over Bush before the Republican National Convention even began.

So I invite you to watch the media's antics when the Republican Convention is over and the first post-convention polls come in, showing the predictable "bump" in Bush's support and a corresponding drop in Clinton's.

Never mind if that bump knocks Clinton's lead down another 10 points, into the single digits. The media will tell you that "the Republican Convention failed to give George Bush the boost he desperately needed to pull ahead of Bill Clinton." What a pity we can't watch the authors of such tortured junk as they cast their votes for Clinton on Election Day!

JOSEPH SPEAR

Tales of a media conspirator

I confess I did it. It happened just as a Republican Party Chairman Richard Bond, Vice President Dan Quayle and First Lady Barbara Bush said it did.

Bond was upset because a Washington Post story about the first Bill Clinton-Al Gore campaign bus trip described the two Democrats as "the heartthrobs of the heartland." Based on this evidence, Bond declared: "I think we know who the media want to win this election — and I don't think it's George Bush."

Quayle was disturbed because reporters asked the president point-blank about an alleged dalliance in 1984 between Bush and a female aide. It was very clear to Dan Quayle why the question was asked: "I can't think of any other motivation other than that you want to hurt the president and help Bill Clinton."

Mrs. Bush was asked why the media were biased. "I'll be damned if I know, unless they're just liberals," she said.

So we have finally been found out. I doubt that the rest of the media will own up to it, but I am tired of carrying the dirty secret around. Here's the way it happened:

It came down on a cold night last December. We gathered — 1,202 delegates representing 1,464,810 pencil-pushers, producers, directors, on-air personalities, camerapersons and deliverypersons — in a convention hall in Kansas City and conspired to elect Clinton. The vote was 670 for Bill, 408 for George and 124 abstentions.

OK? So there you have it. Guilty as charged.

I think we were convinced we couldn't be caught because media conspiracy charges are such a hackneyed tactic. Richard Nixon ran the gambit into the ground with his wild accusations that he was being smeared by "leers and sneers of commentators," so we figured the Republicans would be too embarrassed to finger us. But George Bush promised he would "do what I have to do to be re-elected." Just proves once again that it doesn't pay to underestimate the depravity of despotic politicians.

Then there was the Jennifer Flowers flap, which 98 percent of the press itself thought was despicable. We were mortified when Steve Kraft of "60 Minutes" repeatedly asked Clinton if he had ever had an extramarital affair.

We were equally chagrined when CNN and NBC reporters — citing a dead source who allegedly told a reporter who told his wife who wrote a book that he (the dead source) had helped arrange adjoining rooms for Bush and his putative paramour — posed the same question to the president. But given the Republicans' lack of concern at the time for Clinton's plight, they clearly weren't bothered about the principle of the thing. So who would've thought this episode would be our undoing?

We thought we had covered our tracks so well, too. There was all that fawning we did over Bush for three years. All those pictures of puppies and warm stories about how he loved to pitch horseshoes and play aerobic golf and said all those endearingly goofy things like "Unleash Chiang" when he played tennis.

And those Superman George stories we wrote when he rallied the world to defeat Saddam Hussein — well he almost defeated him, anyway — and the way we anointed him president-for-life. "BUSH'S LUCK IN WAR CONFERS AN AIR OF INVINCIBILITY IN '92," said a headline in The New York Times 18 months ago.

To top it all off, this was supposed to be the year when Larry and Oprah and Phil and the rest of the "new media" rendered the "old media" obsolete. It said so right in Newsweek: "This may be remembered as the year that the mainstream political press lost control." So who would have thought that the Republicans would even give a damn whether the press was biased? Nobody pays any attention to us anymore.

Anyway, the media's ugly secret is now exposed and I feel better for it. Now everyone can just ignore us and concentrate on the unvarnished truth as dispensed by Marlin Fitzwater and other trustworthy prosecutors of the Republican Party.

We thought we had covered our tracks so well, too.

Wrestling with the politics of sleaze

HOUSTON — When the late Lee Atwater felt like plotting political strategy, he'd often tune his TV to pro wrestling. Just watching the crowd, he once told me, helped him gauge how far a pol can go in fooling some of the people some of the time.

So Atwater would have been tickled to see his convention pals perform their Republican razzle-dazzle — their Grand Old Party Tag Team has all the class and integrity that has made pro wrestling what it is today.

We saw the Grand Old Party Tag Team in action: One wrestler jumps into the ring, clamps on a dirty hold (talking about one of those sleaze issues President Bush prohibited to avoid); then another "gliss" — and tags a teammate who does much the same thing the next day.

First, was the slammer-bammer by Bush/Quayle Campaign Deputy Mary Malinin, who tagged GOP Chairman Rich Bond, who tagged Bush/Quayle Campaign Chairman Robert Moebacher (he was led gleefully into the mud by a reporter's question — more on the media's complicity later), who tagged U.S. Treasurer Catalina Villalpando (she called Bill Clinton and former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros "skirt chasers").

We also recently saw George Bush and Dan Quayle pounding the mat in feigned pain — suddenly outraged that the media would dare force any sleaze issue upon the public. They were much better at containing their outrage all winter and spring, when the news media kept pressing Clinton daily about infidelity. Back then, Quayle encouraged reporters, contending political nemesis fidelity is a fine measure of presidential character.

The other day, Quayle was probably right — but months late — when he lectured reporters after the sleaze issue finally landed on Bush's doorstep: "When you start talking about sleaze, I think some in the media ought to look in the mirror." And he was diabolically when he added: "I can't think of any other motivating factor (for the media's questions about fidelity allegations about Bush) other than that you want to hurt the president and help Bill Clinton."

What Bush/Quayle & Company didn't want to do, of course, was brag about the great success they've had at getting some of my unwitting media colleagues to become their tag-team partners in the ring — as reporters kept the sleaze issue alive, raising it without prompting, so it can be turned against Clinton, yet again. Example: It was a reporter who asked Moebacher whether fidelity should play a role in judging presidential character — and that let him get in his new sleaze swipes. Later, Moebacher cheerfully allowed that he wouldn't dare bring up such matters himself — but can discuss it "only in answers to questions."

It's time for serious journalists to start understanding the role they are really playing in the political process. Consider our August excesses:

1. The New York Post went beyond responsible bounds by devoting its whole front page to an unverified allegation found only in the fine print of a footnote in a new book (a dead man once said Bush may have had a tryst, years ago).

2. A CNN reporter made a bad call by asking about that report at a press conference with Bush and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin (surely a better time could have been found to get Bush's comment).

3. Next, an NBC reporter went fishing in the Oval Office by asking Bush whether he'd ever had an extramarital affair — a query that has no place in any interview.

I think some in the media ought to look in the mirror.

Light agenda tonight for P&Z

By BOB PEPINAW
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Planning and Zoning Commission meets tonight. Only two requests are listed for consideration.

Virgil Gracey has requested a rezoning of property located at 2560 Sanford Avenue. The property is presently zoned at RC-1, restricted commercial. He has requested it be reclassified as GC-2, general commercial.

The property presently has a vacant one-family dwelling on it. Gracey said yesterday, "I would like to get it remodeled for a better use and either lease it or sell it, but I haven't made up my mind on that yet."

Several parcels in the immediate surrounding area are zoned RC-1. A church is located east of the site, in a single family residential zone, with a small neighborhood shopping center southeast of the site.

Land Development Coordinator Bettye Sonnenberg has recommended denial of the rezoning. One of the reasons stated in a memo to the P&Z Board says, "The site's characteristics prevent and otherwise limit the adequate accommodation of the on-site vehicular movement characterized by general commercial development."

She added, "The recommendation to deny the request is also based on the City's policy of maintaining the established RC-1 zoning district in the immediate area."

The second item on tomorrow night's P&Z agenda is a request for a conditional use to allow alcoholic beverage consumption on premises located at 2544 Park Drive.

In her application, Thelma L. Munger, owner of the Party Machine, has requested permission, "to sell beer & wine on selected nights."

Sonnenberg has not submitted a recommendation on the request.

Both items are scheduled for the regularly scheduled meeting of the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission, beginning at 7 p.m., this evening in the commission chambers of the Sanford City Hall.

a developer to meet conditions which were not required in the City's Land Development Code. Attorney Ned Julian had originally indicated the City could not demand the purchase, but later changed his opinion after further examination of the City codes and ordinances.

During discussion on the matter during the June 4, Commission meeting, Hardin said, "First you tell me it's not an issue any more, now you are flip-flopping and still want it. You are delaying this project, and time is money."

The matter was then tabled by the Commission, hoping the City staff would be able to supply more input by the June 18 meeting.

The matter has subsequently been tabled until Aug. 6, and again until Aug. 20, both at Hardin's request.

Tonight, the matter is again listed on the agenda, for first reading. The City requires two readings and public hearings prior to final approval of such developments. If it is approved tonight, the second hearing could take place as early as Sept. 3.

As of yesterday however, City Planner Matt West commented that he has not heard from Hardin, and was unsure if he had made an arrangement to obtain the right-of-way property.

The City Commission meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. tonight. In the Commission chambers of Lake Mary City Hall, 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

participate for a fee, and a restriction against their offering any items that conflict with the downtown members.

In order to expand the Market, Cranias is suggesting the City waive permit fees for participants and allow local restaurants to sell food.

"The purpose of the Market on the Mall is to make people aware of the downtown shopping district," Cranias said in his application for consideration.

"We are creating a reason for the people to come to the Historic District and spend the day in Sanford."

Both the proposals will be explained during the work session of the Sanford City Commission, beginning at 5 p.m., in the City Manager's conference room on the second floor of the Sanford City Hall.

The regular City Commission meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m., in the commission chambers of City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Grand Jury indicts entire school board

Associated Press

BROOKSVILLE — A grand jury indicted all five members of the Hernando County School Board for allegedly conducting the public's business in private.

The indictments of the elected officials were unsealed Wednesday, the first day of school in Hernando County.

Three of the school board members could be fined and/or sent to jail and two board members could be fined if convicted of violating the state's Government-in-the-Sunshine Law.

Florida's Sunshine Law prohibits public officials from discussing in secret matters that affect the public.

The indictments span nearly two years and deal with private discussions between board members about school contracts with outside firms, personnel and student matters.

But the main focus revolved around discussions about the appointment of the new superintendent.

The school board decisions that followed the allegedly secret conversations could be nullified, including the hiring of Superintendent Harold "Butch" Winkler.

"This is not a good message to send to our children," said Barbara Beehr, president of the Hernando County Council of the Parent-Teacher Association.

"It's an unfortunate but, I guess, a real-life lesson. I guess it shows our children that our democratic system does work, that if there are alleged improprieties, they are eventually taken care of. The system eventually polices itself."

Board member Susan Cooper, whose role as whistleblower led to the charges against the other board members, said she was satisfied with the outcome.

Noise

sound level studies taken as recently as this week along the five-mile section of I-4 suggest a sound-barrier wall would help reduce noise levels. A final analysis will be completed in about a month, Gleason said.

Gleason said if the wall is determined to be feasible due to sound levels, the review would next consider the cost of the wall versus the number of people benefited. Gleason said a sound barrier wall costs about $15 per square foot, or about $1 million a mile for a typical 14-foot high wall.

Gleason said the feasibility review would also consider the availability of land for the wall and whether 100 percent of the residents along the corridor agree to it.

from Oregon. She believes the show will be a good way to assess her future business opportunities in Seminole County.

The business show probably attracted as many political candidates as businesses. Shaking hands, answering questions from the public and smiling politely at one another, the candidates made their way through the rows of exhibits.

"I guess you've got to expect that at this time of year," said one woman, shaking her head. "But you just can't seem to get away from them anywhere."

Jheri Fulton, director of sales and marketing for the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, said the move of the show's location from the Central Florida Regional Airport to SCC was a good idea. The move, she said, boosted attendance as well as participation by businesses.

"We've heard nothing but positive comments from the businesses who are taking part this year," she said. "And attendance is way up."

She said that part of the success of the program, she believes, is due to the fact that the chambers of commerce from Sanford, Lake Mary, Oviedo and Longwood/Winter Springs are working together on the project.

"The camaraderie between the chambers has never been higher," said Fulton. "That pleases me."

She said that the addition of entertainment and business seminars by companies such as the Charles Givens Corporation have drawn more people to the show than last year.

"There's a lot more for them to experience," Fulton said.

She said that plans are already underway for next year's show.

"People are already signing up for next year," Fulton said.

This year's show will continue through 5 p.m. today.

ness gathering where networking is the key."

Julianne Durkin of Longwood said she had attended several school board meetings since Hagerty took over as superintendent in July, but she had never met him.

"I think that as a taxpayer and parent I have a right to meet the superintendent," she said.

Judy Smith who is on the board of directors of the Seminole County Council of PTAs, said that more and more people feel that way.

"It's a sign of the times," she said. "People want to know about the schools from the classroom teacher on up."

Hagerty said he enjoyed the opportunity to meet with the public.

"This is an important opportunity for me," he said. "The schools are a service to the taxpayers. We are here for them."

Hagerty said the schools can only be as good as the public wants them to be.

"No better. No worse," he said. "But with dialoging and networking the schools can get better and better."

Les Fisher of Lake Mary said she was glad to have had the opportunity to meet Hagerty at the show.

"He's very accessible," she said. "That's good to know if I ever have the need to talk to the superintendent."

The black religious leader Yahweh sentenced today

By MICHAEL WARREN
Associated Press Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — A black leader convicted of using religion as a cover for a conspiracy to murder 14 people and commit other crimes faced up to 20 years in prison at his sentencing today.

Yahweh Ben Yahweh and two of his followers were to be brought before Chief U.S. District Judge Norman Roettger, who last week sentenced four other co-defendants to up to 18 1/2 years in prison.

Yahweh changed his name from Hulon Mitchell Jr. to the Hebrew words for "God, son of God" and built a real estate empire with his followers' donations. He won praise from white business leaders and politicians for preaching economic self-sufficiency in the inner city and at one point claimed thousands of adherents in 23 states.

But a parade of witnesses at the federal racketeering trial of Yahweh and 15 followers said his sermons about Old Testament vengeance were actually orders to seek retribution for what he saw as attacks from outsiders.

After five months of testimony, jurors in May found Yahweh and six followers guilty of conspiracy to commit 14 murders, two attempted killings and arson between 1981 to 1986.

Seven defendants were acquitted, and jurors failed to reach a verdict for two. None of the 16 defendants were convicted of racketeering, which would have required jurors to decide they actually committed the crimes.

Defense attorney Alice Hastings accused the government of persecuting his client for racial and religious reasons and because Yahweh's rhetoric threatened the white establishment.

But Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Scruggs, who was promoted to chief criminal prosecutor in southern Florida after the trial, said the Nation of Yahweh was only a "so-called religion" that masked a terror campaign.

Ordinance will ease paperwork for Longwood site plan reviews

By NICK PFERPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — An ordinance is being prepared for the Longwood City Commission on site plan reviews. If passed, it will ease the paperwork and time required for approval.

City Planner Richard Wells made suggestions for the ordinance during Monday night's city commission meeting, on behalf of the Design Review Board. It would deal with proposed development within the city's commercial and industrial districts as well as residential subdivisions, multi-family or commercial developments within the Historic District.

"What we are proposing here," Wells said, "is to arrange that site plans for new buildings, or additions to existing buildings, in the amount of 10,000 square feet or less, be reviewed by the city administrator rather than having to go through the commission."

As the review stands now, a member of the city commission, on a rotating basis, is required to join the city administrator in the review. The proposed change would eliminate the need for the commissioner to become involved.

According to the proposal, the city administrator would consider the plans in cooperation with members of the city staff or consultants that may be required.

"Of course if there are any unusual circumstances, controversial items or variances to a building site plan review," Wells said, "the plans would come before the commission."

Longwood resident Bo Simpson, who deals in real estate and development in the Central Florida area spoke in favor of the concept. He told the commissioners, "You don't know about the all of the details in a site plan, and you shouldn't have to make every decision that comes up." He added, "If you enact this, it will not only speed up the process, but take a lot of red tape out of this."

"Does this mean that the commission won't have the opportunity to consider site plans?" Commissioner Paul Lovestrund asked.

Wells responded, "At any time there is a variance requested, or any questionable matter what-so-ever determined by the city staff or the city administrator, the matter will be presented to the full commission for their consideration."

Longwood City Attorney Becky Vose has been instructed to prepare the ordinance which will be brought before the commission at its next regularly scheduled meeting, which has been moved from Monday to Wednesday, Sept. 9.

Inspector gets campaign flyers

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The Seminole County Sheriff's Office will turn over two unmailed campaign flyers left in area mailboxes to the U.S. Postal Inspector's Office.

The unmailed flyers, which make several allegations about Sheriff Don Ealinger, were left in at least two mailboxes on Saturday. Others were mailed to presidents of homeowner's associations throughout the county.

Connie Waterer, a spokesman for the inspector's office, said materials left in or on a mailbox that do not have postage is a violation of federal law. Waterer said if the flyers were unmailed, there is nothing that can be done about them. If the flyers had been signed or addressed, then the matter would be billed $9 cents for each one, she said.

Most such materials left in mailboxes are removed by the deliveryman and thrown away, said Slade.

Saturday, Mary Slade, 68, who lives in an unincorporated area near Longwood, said she found the flyer in her mailbox after her mail had been delivered. Slade, an Ealinger supporter, said the flyer angered her because it was unsigned and had not been mailed.

"I'm dead against people abusing the federal postal laws," said Slade. "I don't like that in the mail."

Ealinger said a second flyer was left in the mailbox of John Spolaki Jr., son of his campaign advisor John Spolaki Sr. Ealinger said both Spolaki and Slade had Ealinger campaign signs in their yards.

"This was an act of desperation," Ealinger said.

Man goes to trial in statutory rape case

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — A defendant who claims a 13-year-old girl told him she was 17 when they had sexual relations will stand trial after an unsuccessful challenge to Florida's statutory rape law.

A lawyer for Anthony Volpitta, 22, failed to convince Circuit Judge Alice Blackwell White on Wednesday that the law was in violation of the state constitution's privacy provision.

Blackwell refused to dismiss the charge and scheduled trial for next month in the latest challenge to the law prohibiting sex between adults and minors.

Volpitta says the girl consented to sex and that only her parents want the case prosecuted.

Defense lawyer Robert

Buonsuro argued that not recognizing consent in sexual relations was archaic, that the law violated the Florida Constitution and that his client was misled about the girl's age.

"Whether or not she consented is simply not at issue and not a defense," said Assistant State Attorney Jenna Brennan. "Florida courts have upheld that."

Playing 'possum

Thelma the opossum, a resident of the Central Florida Zoo, was not in the mood to network with representatives of the business community or the public during yesterday's session of the Seminole County Business Show at Seminole Community College. Thelma preferred to snuggle with zoo docent Shannon Jordan while being petted by Bev Wineburgh. The show, sponsored by the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, will continue through this afternoon.

Police promote kids' 'Buckle Up Buddies'

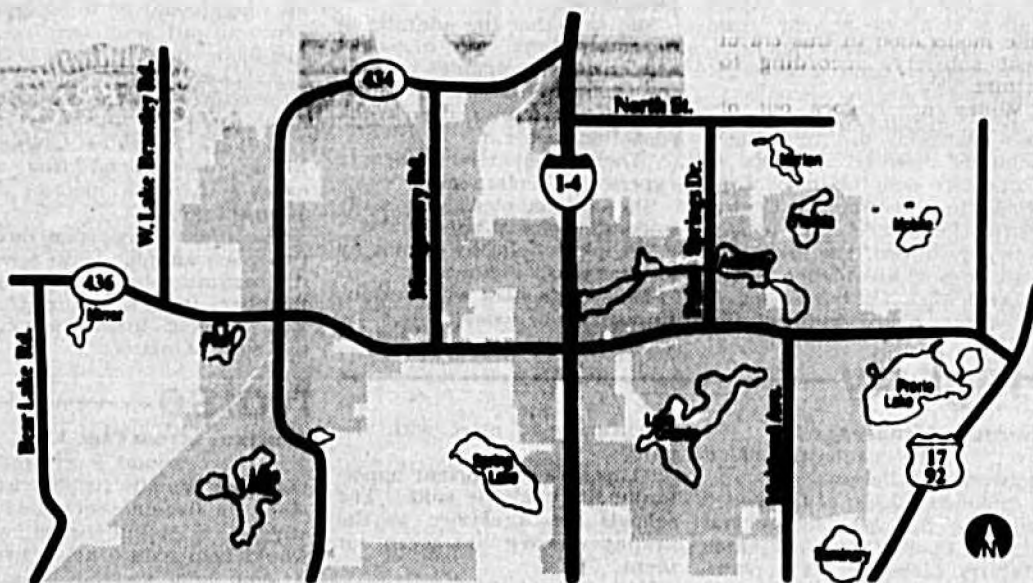

SANFORD — The Sanford Police Department is trying to promote the use of seat belts by small children. It started as a cooperative effort with the National Seatbelt Coalition.

The cooperation now involves Metro Chrysler & Plymouth, 4113 S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford. Lt. Mike Rotundo said, "We have donated 20 Buckle Up Buddies to Metro, who will be giving them away to customers purchasing new vehicles with the child restraint seat." Buckle Up Buddies come in the form of small Panda Bears, Koala Bears, Brown Bears, Hound dogs, Kittens, and Teddy Bears.

Were 1950s really good old days?

WASHINGTON — With family values in the campaign spotlight, many politicians are looking back longingly on the 1950s. But were they really the good old days?

"Many stereotypes of the 1950s don't stand up to rigorous examination, although all of them contain a kernel of truth," Diane Cripell wrote in the August issue of American Demographics magazine.

For example, the publication, which focuses on population and economic statistics, pointed out that in the 1950s smoking was fashionable and abortion was illegal.

Separate-but-equal treatment of blacks was not considered discrimination, and women, minorities, older Americans and homosexuals had no employment protection rights.

U.S. has enough aircraft over Iraq

LONDON — The United States already has enough aircraft in the region to shoot down any Iraqi warplanes that might attack Shiite Muslim rebels, and probably to conduct a brief air war if necessary, military experts say.

But the experts warn that ultimate protection of the Shiite rebels, who have taken refuge in the marshes of southern Iraq against attack by Saddam Hussein's forces, could require more than an air umbrella.

According to U.S. and British estimates, Iraq has only 150 combat-ready planes compared to about 200 U.S. warplanes already in the area and hundreds more on call, said Paul Beaver, publisher of Jane's Defense Weekly.

Combat pilots draw on experience

WASHINGTON — U.S. combat pilots will be able to draw on their Gulf War experience in enforcing a "no-fly" zone over southern Iraq to protect its minority Shiite population from Iraqi warplanes. Iraqi pilots who defied allied "you fly, you die" orders were detected and shot down within short order in the weeks following the end of the war.

In March 1991, U.S. F-15C fighter jets downed two Iraqi SU-22 attack planes for violating the provisional cease-fire agreement against putting warplanes in the air.

The allies had warned Iraq not to deploy combat aircraft, primarily to protect the vast numbers of allied forces that remained in the region after the gulf conflict.

Bodies scattered at Baldoia hospital

BAIDOA, Somalia — When the American medical team arrives at Baldoia's hospital each morning, it is greeted by bodies scattered across the rocky courtyard. Some of the new arrivals have survived the night. Many have not.

On Tuesday there were just a few bodies and only one death — the best day since the International Medical Corps team arrived three weeks ago and reopened the hospital in this desert town devastated by war, famine and drought.

The hospital, the only one serving vast southwest Somalia, had been closed for 18 months amid general anarchy in a country where 1.5 million people — one-fifth of the population — are in danger of imminent starvation.

Woody Allen affair analyzed

NEW YORK — Woody Allen was America's favorite schlemiel a week ago, before his life took a twist too abrupt for any Allen script.

The revelation that he was having an affair with his ex-lover's daughter, someone he had known since she was 9, transformed Allen from press-shy filmmaker into front-page news.

Then, Connecticut police said he was under investigation, apparently over allegations — vehemently denied by Allen — that he abused his 7-year-old adopted daughter.

Will the scandal help or harm his charmed career? "Allen never pretended that he was anything more than a mixed-up New Yorker," said Andrew Sarris, film critic for the New York Observer. "Mainstream America never much liked Woody Allen anyway. His audience was mainly in cities like L.A. and New York with people who wear shoes and read books."

But Sarris said the affair with Mia Farrow's 21-year-old daughter may cost the 56-year-old Allen female fans. "It's a kind of semi-incestuous thing with someone who's looked upon him as a paternal figure," Sarris said.

Bahamian prime minister ousted

NASSAU — Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling, who guided the Bahamas to independence from Britain nearly two decades ago, was ousted after 25 years in office in an election upset that turned Parliament upside down.

Hubert Ingraham's Free National Movement won 31 of 49 seats in unofficial, preliminary returns Wednesday. If officially declared the winner, the 45-year-old lawyer and reform candidate will probably be asked to form a government on Sept. 2.

Pindling's People's Liberation Party was left with only 18 seats. It had held 32.

Companies trading in insurance policies

WASHINGTON — At first glance, the sheet looks like a listing of real estate for sale. Words like "SOLD" and "OFFER PENDING" are stamped atop the various properties.

The properties are insurance policies, owned by dying people trying to raise cash.

State securities regulators complained Wednesday that some companies trading in life insurance policies of terminally ill people are doing business illegally, although they say they find nothing wrong with this new industry.

Blaze causes evacuation in California

SAN ANDREAS, Calif. — Up to 14,000 people were ordered evacuated from their homes in California's Gold Rush country as a blaze charged across more than 12,500 acres of rugged terrain pocked with treacherous mine shafts.

Some 3,700 firefighters early today battled the out-of-control blaze in the Sierra Nevada foothills about 50 miles southeast of Sacramento, but officials said the fire could double in size before it is contained.

Only minor injuries among the firefighters were reported.

Billionaires list grows, Fortune says

By PHILIP I. ROSENBAUM
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — They still have plenty of cash to burn, but the world's richest people aren't getting any richer.

Fortune magazine, in its 1992 ranking of the world's billionaires, said Wednesday the average wealth of the supremely affluent held at $2.7 billion, the same as in 1991. Last year's average wealth was up $100 million from 1990.

While they're not clipping coupons, eating at home more often or trading in their Rolls-Royces for Hyundais, the world's wealthiest people are showing some moderation in this era of fiscal sobriety, according to Fortune.

"Money never goes out of style, but spending it sometimes does," the magazine said in its Sept. 7 issue. Many of the richest "seem to be cooling it a bit and turning to other pursuits."

For example, the sultan of Brunei, a tiny Pacific island nation sitting on a vast pool of petroleum, remained the richest person in the world for the sixth straight year with a hoard worth $37 billion.

Nonetheless, Fortune said, the Moslem monarch showed signs of restraint. He made three trips to Mecca, where prayer takes priority over his favorite pastime, polo. Though he remains the single-biggest customer of Rolls-Royce, with 153 limos, USA Today said he is trying to unload his swank Beverly Hills Hotel.

No. 2 on Fortune's list is America's richest family, heirs of the Wal-Mart store chain's folksy founder, Sam Walton. Their combined worth was put at $24 billion.

No. 3 is Takichiro Mori of Japan, who made most of his $14 billion in real estate.

Billionaire list

NEW YORK — Here are the top 10 entries in Fortune magazine's 1992 ranking of the world's billionaires, with name, home, source of wealth and estimated fortune:

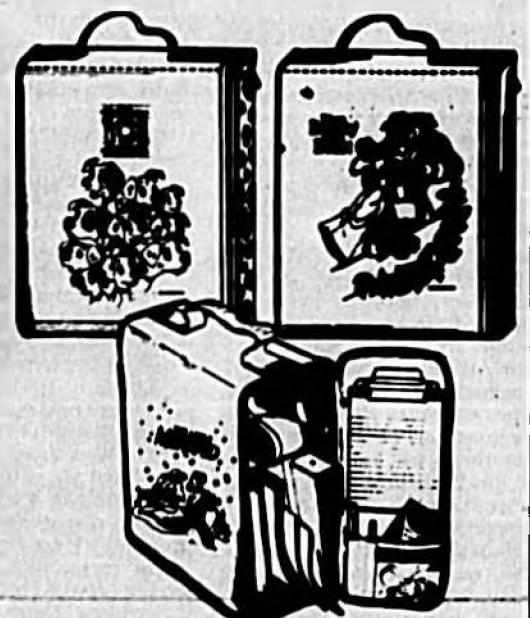

1. Sultan of Brunei; oil and gas, real estate, investments; $37 billion.
2. Walton family; Arkansas; Wal-Mart stores; $24 billion.
3. Takichiro Mori and family; Japan; real estate; $14 billion.
4. Forrest Mars, Nevada; Forrest Mars Jr., Virginia; John Mars, Virginia; Jacqueline Mars Vogel, New Jersey; Mars Inc.; $13 billion.
5. Samuel I. Newhouse Jr., Donald E. Newhouse and family; New York; publishing and broadcasting; $13 billion.
6. Queen Elizabeth II; England; real estate, stock investments, race horses, jewelry and art; $11.7 billion.
7. King Fahd; Saudi Arabia; oil and gas; $10 billion.
8. Anne Cox Chambers, Georgia; Barbara Cox Anthony, Hawaii; media and publishing; $8.2 billion.
9. John Werner Kluge; Virginia; communications and real estate; $6.1 billion.
10. God Rausing, Hans Rausing; England; liquid-food packaging; $7.2 billion.

Century of the woman

Hear them roar

U.S. female voters wield political power

EDITOR'S NOTE — The 20th century has seen the emergence of the woman as a political factor in the United States. Given the vote early in the century, she only recently has begun to wield that power with significant effect. Now an unprecedented number of women are in the political arena and it is likely American politics will never be the same again.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The small voices crying in the political wilderness after the birth of the 20th century have swelled into a roar that this election season promises to redefine the nation's governmental, social and legislative agendas.

American women voters are mounting a charge on the bastions of political power, mobilized by such concerns as abortion, sexual harassment, pay inequities, education and health insurance.

Even before the November national voting rolls around, some male defenders of the fortress have fallen, while others have belatedly embraced these "female issues."

A hundred years from now, historians may concoct a thousand theories as to how it happened. Someone will say the dishwasher freed the woman from the kitchen. Others will say higher education or Susan B. Anthony or Betty Friedan or consciousness-raising.

Still others may list as the single most important event the Senate Judiciary Committee hearings in 1982 at which Professor Anita Hill leveled charges of sexual harassment against Judge Clarence Thomas, the Supreme Court nominee.

But there will be no denying that the 20th century has been the century of the woman's emergence as a political factor in the United States.

The question, however, will remain why did it take so long?

It was in 1920 that the American woman was granted the right to vote. Then came 72 years of housewifery, stymied careers, stifled desires, whispers from the corner of the social and political closet.

But not anymore. Today, encouraged by their pivotal strength in presidential polls, women are voting more as a bloc, ready to do what Sam Gompers once recommended for labor: reward friends, punish enemies.

They currently hold two of 100 Senate seats, 29 of 435 House seats, three of 50 governorships. No one can guess what their growing political strength will win them this time around.

But the numbers command respect. There are 18 women running for the U.S. Senate, more than 185 for the House of Representatives, seven for governorships. Ten years ago there were three for the Senate, none successful; 55 for the House, 21 successful.

Non-family households

The percentage of non-family households in the United States for 1970, 1980 and 1990.

1970
Total	18.8%
Women living alone	12.8%
Men living alone	5.6%
Other non-family households	1.7%
1980
Total	26.2%
Women living alone	19.2%
Men living alone	6.6%
Other non-family households	3.4%
1990
Total	29.2%
Women living alone	14.9%
Men living alone	9.7%
Other non-family households	4.6%

The percentage of "non-family" households in the United States has increased dramatically. Where less than one-fifth of all U.S. households were non-family in 1970, nearly one-third were non-family in 1990.

That year was 1982, the same year that the Equal Rights Amendment was allowed to die for lack of interest. It was reintroduced the next year, and women began to find their political voice.

"What's happened since the 19th Amendment was added to the Constitution is that women have been struggling against the legal, social and cultural obstacles which made it difficult for them to be prominent political actors," says Professor James Foster, political scientist at Oregon State University.

"Now we're beginning to see that work begin to bear fruit." "These women running this year have spent decades of their lives working through the male ranks, essentially doing their apprenticeships, learning the political ropes, and now they are saying, 'It's our turn.'"

Professor Hanna Kay Hill of the Bolt School of Law at the University of California-Berkeley says, "People are aware that something new is going on. For the first time I don't think you see women running as individual candidates. You see a movement that is garnering support."

The 19th Amendment did not spark women's emergence as a political animal.

Students of women's history concede that suffrage seemed ineffective because women would vote the same way men did, and indeed they did in the first presidential elections after the 19th Amendment passed.

But now women are responding not as singular citizens, but as a bloc with its own agenda. "They are dissecting American society and finding it wanting. So-called women's issues are on the tip of their tongues."

"More women are speaking out for day care for children, health care, divorce law reform, abortion, all the things women have been involved in," says

Foster. "I think we will see the gradual emergence of women's concerns to the forefront of American politics."

The breach between men and women rises from old assumptions that have become ingrained in society, that women are physically weaker than men, that they were born to be the nurturers of society, the bearers of children, the caretakers of the aged and the sick.

In early Western society, single women had more rights than married women. When a woman married, as an English common law suggested, the husband and wife became as one, and that one was the husband.

Abigail Adams, brilliant and outspoken, outlined female frustration in a letter to her husband, John Adams, second president of the United States: "While you are proclaiming peace and good-will to men, encompassing all nations, you insist upon retaining absolute power over wives."

That sums up the basic attitude that the 20th-century woman inherited and fought against.

Women historians point out that that marital violence is still legal in some states. In the old days such laws said a woman could be beaten with a stick provided it was no thicker than a man's thumb — the so-called "rule of thumb."

One of the reasons the women's vote has been difficult to mobilize, says political scientist Foster, is not necessarily men per se, but "a particular set of values and assumptions we label male," instituted by males long since dead as a way of perpetuating male dominance. The problem is that most present-day males — and females — bought the idea even though they wondered why.

Male values are considered positive in the political field, female values are not, and the trouble is they have become ingrained "and taken for granted as socialized sex roles."

What surprises Foster is that for the last 72 years women accepted the idea that they "need to be the angels in the house, they need to be the power behind the throne, they need to be the bearers and rearers of children, and that's where they believe their power lies."

He cites a book by Christine Luker of the University of California-Berkeley, "Abortion And The Politics Of Motherhood," which says that the bottom-line difference between pro-choice women and anti-abortion women is the differences in what they conceive a woman to be:

"What it means to be a woman, what it means to be a mother, what it means to be part of a family, what it means to be part of a society."

And women pass that concept

Summer youth program a success

By VICKI BOGDANSKI
Herald Staff Writer

The Private Industry Council of Seminole County has been presenting awards to those who have helped make the Summer Youth Employment Training Program a success this year.

Throughout the past week, awards have been presented to those youngsters who have performed above expectations at the summer jobs provided to them by PIC.

"As the summer draws to a close, we want to honor those who have made the program a success this year," Linda Wice, assistant coordinator of the summer program said.

Other youngsters were also honored for their accomplishments during the eight week program.

"These youngsters have worked hard this summer and have learned some excellent professional skills they'll be able to take with them into the workforce in the future," Wice said.

The job sites that provided an outstanding work environment for the youngsters were also honored.

Idyllwild Elementary School's maintenance department was given an award as one of those outstanding workplaces. The department, coordinated by head custodian William Padilla, has won such an honor for the second year in a row.

"I'm glad to have the opportunity to work with the program," Padilla said. "I've enjoyed working with the kids."

Wilfredo Ortiz of Sanford, a hearing impaired student at the St. Augustine School for the Deaf and Blind, worked with Padilla at Idyllwild. He was named one of the exceptional performers in the summer program.

According to Wice, the other work sites and workers who have been given awards are:

Crooms School of Choice in Sanford, an outstanding work site; Quentin Brooks, who worked at Crooms, a most improved performer.

Carolyn Davis and Latrecia McGill, who worked in the personnel department at Sanford City Hall, exceptional performers.

City of Sanford Parks Department, an outstanding work site; Anthony Burke, who worked in the Parks Department, exceptional performer; Terrance Moran, who also worked in the Parks Department, most improved performer.

The Boys and Girls Club of Seminole County, an outstanding work site; Tennesha Eason, who worked at the West Sanford Boys and Girls Club, an exceptional performer.

Ray Jackson, who worked at Sanford Middle School in Sanford, an exceptional performer; and Roderick Carroll, who also worked at Sanford Middle, most improved performer.

George McDonald who worked at Goldsboro Elementary School in Sanford, an exceptional performer.

Roderick Wright, who worked at Pine Crest Elementary School in Sanford, an exceptional performer.

Kendra Williams, who worked at Seminole High School, an exceptional performer.

Geremiah Dickerson, who worked at Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary, a most improved performer.

Rita Crumity, who worked in the Public Defenders office, a most improved performer.

The Seminole County Traffic Engineering Department was named an outstanding work site; Luisa Wilson, who worked in the traffic engineering department, an exceptional performer; Losholondalyn Payne, who worked in the employee relations department, an exceptional performer; Veronica Colon, who worked at the Casselberry branch of the county library system, a most improved performer; and Lakesia Dennard, who worked in the Current Plan department, a most improved performer.

These north Seminole winners are among 19 exceptional performers and 12 most improved performers county-wide.

Insurance costs lower Longwood city budget

By MARK PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Personnel Director Jim Coleman can cut $23,000 out of the City's 1992/93 expense budget. Employee insurance costs will remain unchanged in Longwood for another year.

The City of Longwood uses Blue Cross/Blue Shield for its employee managed health care program. 104 city employees are entered in the program.

"Because we expected an increase in the cost of our insurance next year," Coleman said, "we put in an increased cost of almost seven percent when we prepared the new budget."

"Now that the company has told us the rates will not be increased," he said, "the city can take that expense out of the budget and we will have saved about $23,000."

Coleman was extremely pleased with the announcement from Blue Cross.

The City of Sanford however, will have insurance costs for employees going up during the coming year. Sanford has a two year contract with Prudential, June Strine, in charge of Employee Benefits for the city said. "They told us last year that we could expect an increase in the costs for this coming year."

She said, "The costs per employee will climb from $166.24 to $196.16 per month." She added, "For additional dependent care, the cost will go from $278.40 to $328.51 per month for fiscal 1992/93."

In Lake Mary, Maurice Liberator handles insurance for approximately 80 city employees. Lake Mary deals with two separate companies, Signa and Eina. Their contracts will be expiring this year, and Liberator expects to have the insurance programs put out for re-bidding.

Goff assessed late filing fee

By VICKI BOGDANSKI
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Bob Goff, candidate for the Seminole County school board in District 4, was assessed $150 in fines for submitting his campaign treasurer report three days late to the supervisor of elections office.

The reports were to have been turned in by Friday afternoon at 5, but Goff's report was not received until Monday, according to Sandy Goard, supervisor of elections.

"I knew the report was supposed to be through the 14th,"

Goff said by way of explanation, "but I thought we had a week beyond that to turn it in."

Goard said that if he had mailed the information on Friday and it had received an Aug. 14 postmark he would have not been fined.

"He just brought it in on Monday and said he had made a mistake," she said.

The fine must be paid out of Goff's own money and can not be considered a legitimate campaign expense, she said.

IN BRIEF

SHS Booster drive Saturday

SANFORD — The 1992-93 Seminole High School Booster Club's membership drive will be this Saturday, Aug. 22, at the 7-Eleven store at the intersection of Airport Boulevard and 25th Street.

Boys and girls from all of the athletic squads, dance team, band and cheerleading squads will be out and about that day, selling Booster Club memberships and asking for donations for Muscular Dystrophy. Barbecue dinners also will be sold with the funds going to the participating teams and the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation.

For more information, contact Gail Stewart at 323-8690.

SunRays blank Birmingham

ORLANDO — Bill Wisler pitched a three-hitter to lead the SunRays to a 2-0 victory over the Birmingham Barons in the first game of a scheduled Southern League doubleheader Wednesday.

The second game was postponed in the top of the first because of rain and lightning.

Earlier, all three of the hits against Wisler were singles, and only two Birmingham batters reached second.

The SunRays scored both of their runs in the bottom of the fourth. After two outs, Dave McCarty singled, Paul Russo walked, and then they both scored on a double by Cheo Garcia.

Overton leads PGA Sectional

ORLANDO — Jay Overton led the North Florida PGA Section Championship for the second day in a row after shooting a 7-under-par 65 Wednesday.

At 126, the head pro at the Innisbrook Resort in Tarpon Springs is 18-under for 36 holes and takes a five-stroke advantage into the final round Thursday at Bonnet Creek Golf Club.

The two-time section champion needs only 78 Thursday to beat the tournament record of 205 set in 1985.

Mike Domalake of Sarasota shot 63 to move into second at 131. Will Frantz of Sarasota is third at 135 following a 69. Mike O'Sullivan of Ormond Beach shot a 65 and Ron Philo of Amelia Island had a 67 to tie for fourth at 136.

Oviedo's Merchant leads Suns

JACKSONVILLE — Oviedo High School graduate Mark Merchant had a home run in the fifth to put the final blows in a Jacksonville 7-4 Southern League victory over Greenville Thursday night.

The Suns had two innings for seven runs and held on to even the series at two each.

Jacksonville had four singles and a double by Bobby Holley for four in the fourth, then had three more in the fifth with Merchant's homer.

Bucs sign Newton, McHale

TAMPA — Nose tackle Tim Newton and offensive guard Tom McHale ended holdouts Wednesday when they signed two-year contracts with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Newton, an eighth-year pro, has started 21 games since joining the Bucs in 1990. McHale is a sixth-year pro who has averaged nine starts per season at left guard the past three years.

The signings leave the club with four holdouts — linemen Jesse Solomon and Kevin Murphy, defensive lineman Reuben Davis and wide receiver Bruce Hill.

Coach Sam Wyche said the team will be prepared to go on without the unsigned players if they don't reach contract agreements before this weekend's preseason game against the Miami Dolphins.

Running backs Reggie Cobb (slight hamstring pull) and Gary Anderson (thigh contusion) will not play in Saturday's game at Miami. Steve DeBerg will start at quarterback as part of Wyche's continuing preseason rotation, the coach said.

Marino to start vs. Bucs

MIAMI — Quarterback Dan Marino will play the first half with Doug Pederson to follow as backup in Miami's preseason game Saturday against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, the Dolphins announced Wednesday.

Miami, in announcing the projected starting lineup for Saturday's game at Joe Robbie Stadium, said another backup quarterback, Jim Jensen, will be available for play.

Also on the starting list for the game were left outside linebacker Marco Coleman and left cornerback Troy Vincent, the Dolphins' two first-round draft picks this year.

But the projected lineup also had two notable names missing — backup quarterbacks Scott Mitchell and Scott Secules. Mitchell was on the injured list with a fractured left index finger, while Secules was out with a torn pectoral muscle.

Flexing to raise funds

Seminole Classic to benefit AIDS Foundation

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Since its inception, the proceeds from the Seminole Classic bodybuilding championship have gone to some charity. Last year, for example, it helped raise funds for the Pinklon Thomas Youth Foundation.

This year, the sixth annual installment of the physical fitness event will benefit the AIDS Foundation.

"It's been very, very successful," said organizer Tom Robare. "Every year, it's been a benefit, raising funds for a charity."

Tickets for the Seminole Classic, which will be conducted this Saturday, Aug. 22, at Lake Mary High School, are $9 in advance at The Health

Store and Matt Arena Fitness, both located in Lake Mary. Tickets at the door will be $11.

The evening show is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Scheduled to be in attendance Saturday will be the 1992 Miss Florida bodybuilding champion, Rozann Keiser. She will be selling autographed pictures with the monies raised also going to the AIDS Foundation.

This year's special guest poser is Orlando native Deke Warner, who was fifth in the most recent Mr. America competition. He is also scheduled to compete in the national championship competition that will be conducted in Orlando in September.

There will be competition in four Men's Open classes, two Men's Novice classes and three Women's classes.

The four Men's Open classes will be Lightweight (154 pounds and under), Middleweight (154 1/2 to 172 pounds), Light-Heavyweight (172 1/2 to 190 pounds) and Heavyweight (190 1/2 pounds and up).

Men's Novice competition will be divided into two classes, 175 pounds and under and 175 1/2 pounds and above.

Women will compete in Lightweight (114 pounds and under), Middleweight (114 1/2 to 125 pounds) and Heavyweight (125 1/2 pounds and up) classifications.

According to Robare, it will be possible for bodybuilders to enter the competition up through morning of the show. For information, contact Matt Arena Fitness in Lake Mary at 333-1927.

DOG DAYS OF SUMMER

Hot enough for you?

If you value your physical well being, it would be best not to ask that question anywhere near one of Seminole County's six public high schools. While classes don't begin until next Monday, members of most of the county's football, volleyball, cross country and swim teams have already begun their school year with preseason drills. At Lake Mary High School on Tuesday afternoon, T.J. Young and Ryan Vantrase (above) went through this comic-looking but tortuous agility drill. During a break, Erin Stevens (right) resorted to a time-tested method of beating the heat. The football preseason will end with a six-team jamboree at Lake Brantley High School on Friday, Sept. 4. On Sept. 11, all six county schools will open their regular season.

As owners twaddle, St. Pete, 'Frisco square off

By RONALD BLANE
 AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Don't expect a decision on the proposed move of the San Francisco Giants for several months. A lawsuit, however, could come a little sooner.

Baseball officials said Wednesday it was increasingly unlikely the proposed move of the Giants to St. Petersburg would be voted on quickly. But Rick Dodge, assistant city manager of St. Petersburg, said his lawyers were considering the possibility of a suit against the city of San Francisco for interfering with the proposed $111 million deal between Giants owner Bob Lurie and a group of Tampa Bay investors.

Dodge, speaking by telephone during a news conference in New York, said the Florida city was angry with San Francisco's attempts to retain the Giants. After stadium proposals to replace windy Candlestick Park were rejected four times, Lurie announced on Aug. 7 that he intended to sell the team to a group headed by Vincent J. Naimoli.

"The ownership group and St. Petersburg would be greatly damaged if somehow that contract did not come to full fruition," Dodge said. "If someone interferes, they run some risk of some very huge damages."

While no owners have spoken publicly against the sale, a consensus has not yet emerged for or against approval. Lurie has said he will not consider other deals until baseball decides on the Florida proposal, but San Francisco officials hope they can stop a move by presenting a stadium plan and finding an alternative buyer.

"If for some reason it gets off track and that's the reason it gets off track, we'll examine our options at that point in time," Dodge said.

San Francisco mayor Frank M. Jordan issued a statement defending his city's campaign, saying "St. Petersburg is involved in a sale in principle only."

"I believe what we are doing is entirely appropriate," Jordan said. "However, it's nice to know that St. Petersburg is paying attention to us."

Jordan spokesman Bob Forsythe went further, saying Dodge's remarks were a sign St.

Petersburg officials were getting "anxious and a bit nervous."

Dodge said it was unclear if the proposed deal between Lurie and Naimoli's group would have to be renegotiated if it is not voted on at baseball's quarterly meetings in St. Louis Sept. 9-10. Baseball officials repeated with increasing assurance that they probably wouldn't be ready to vote then.

"Not a whole lot is happening," said Fred Kuhmann of the St. Louis Cardinals, chairman of baseball's ownership committee. "Somebody has to make a decision, either the commissioner or (National League president) Bill White, to bring this matter up before the league to pass on the question of whether the Giants can move anywhere, and if they want to specify, Tampa Bay. I think the ownership committee will probably start doing some of the background work on the Tampa people on a parallel track."

Deputy commissioner Stephen Greenberg said that before the question is sent to the league, it would be discussed by the executive council. □ See Giants, Page 8B

The league will also be registering players between the ages of 5 and 15, boys and girls, at the tryout sessions. The registration fee ranges from $30 to $62, according to the age bracket of the child being registered.

Included in the registration fee is the game shirt, cap, stirrups and insurance. Players have to provide their own gloves, white baseball pants and appropriate shoes.

The teams will begin practice on Aug. 25 with the season scheduled to open the weekend of Sept. 12.

Seminole PONY Baseball
 FIVE POINTS — Seminole PONY Baseball will conduct registration for its winter leagues on Saturday, Aug. 22, and Saturday, Aug. 29, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Five Points Complex on State Road 419.

Players between the ages of 5 and 12 can be registered for instructional play for $35. Players 13 and older can be registered for $45 to play in competitive winter leagues.

Proof of age is required for those registering for the first time with Seminole PONY Baseball. Players must be these ages by Aug. 1, 1993. Family discounts are available.

Courier advances at U.S. Hardcourts

By BETH HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Top-seeded Jim Courier defeated Cedric Pioline of France 6-4, 6-2 at the U.S. Hardcourts on Wednesday.

In other matches of note, Boris Becker broke out of his summer slump with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over fellow German Markus Zoccke; defending champion Pete Sampras raced past qualifier Stephane Sansoni 8-0, 6-1 in 39 minutes and No. 11 Jimmy Connors beat Simon Youl of Australia 7-5, 6-4.

Five seeded players, mostly clay court specialists, were ousted in second-round action of the $1.4 million tournament.

Courier, a former resident of Sanford and the world's No. 1 player, dispatched Pioline with three service breaks in the first pro meeting between the former junior competitors.

Last week, Courier said tennis wasn't fun after he lost to David Wheaton in the round of 16 at Cincinnati.

"I'm feeling much better. I got out and played some golf, did some fun things," he said.

After winning the French Open in June, Courier lost early at Wimbledon and the Olympics. "Lost a few matches, had a few dinners, slept a few times, gone out a little bit, been living," he said. "Tennis isn't all of my life."

Sansoni, a Frenchman ranked 202nd in the world, won just four points and was broken three times in an 18-minute first set against Sampras.

"My opponent was a little bit nervous tonight," Sampras said. "I concentrated just to get it done quick."

Sampras blasted 110 mph serves and collected two more breaks in the second set — slightly longer at 21 minutes.

Meanwhile, Connors converted four of five break chances against Youl. His vaunted service return was dead on against Youl's 100 mph or better rockets.

"I moved exceptionally well, which is one of my main concerns," said Connors, who turns 40 on Sept. 2. "Playing like that, I can't be critical of anything out there today."

Becker, who received a first-round bye, advanced to the third round in his first tournament since winning an Olympic gold medal with countryman Michael Stich earlier this month.

"I'm glad I did it, but it took a lot out of me," he said.

Playing his first hardcourt match since March, Becker connected on 62 percent of his first serves.

"My serve worked extremely well, my forehand worked well, and I moved pretty well," he said. "but there's room for improvement."

Becker broke Zoccke to take a 3-2 lead in the first set. The game featured six deuces between the doubles partners, who lost a first-round match Tuesday.

Becker gained the only other break of the 1 hour, 47-minute match to start the second set when Zoccke miss-hit a backhand into the stands.

The unusually low humidity and a high in the upper 70s let Becker rest his patent serve-and-volley attack against Zoccke, and rally from the baseline.

"It was very dry today. It was nice to play," said Becker, who donned a vest in the cool conditions.

Becker endured a miserable summer, with early-round losses dotting his 26-10 record.

He owns two indoor victories this year, but has not advanced past the quarterfinals since a five-set loss to eventual Wimbledon champion Andre Agassi. He's ranked ninth in the world and seeded third here.

Becker could revive himself with a victory here two weeks before the U.S. Open begins Aug. 31. He's comfortable at the Indianapolis Sports Center, where he won titles in 1988 and '90 and was a finalist last year.

While the big names won on the stadium court, five young players pulled upsets of clay-court specialists on the outside courts.

Eighth-seeded Derrick Rostagno lost 6-3, 6-3 to Brett Steven, a New Zealander ranked No. 156 in the world.

Sandon Stolle, an Australian ranked No. 64 in the world, took out No. 9 Javier Sanchez of Spain 7-6 (7-5), 6-7, 6-4.

Sanchez's brother Emilio, the seventh seed, was beaten by qualifier Tommy Ho, 7-6 (7-4), 6-3.

Fourth-seeded Carlos Costa, another Spaniard more comfortable on clay, lost to Marcos Ondruska of South Africa 6-1, 6-3.

David Engel, ranked No. 164 in the world, upset fellow Swede and No. 16 seed Magnus Gustafsson 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

Hurricanes try to out indictments behind them

By STEVEN WINE
AP Sports Writer

CORAL GABLES — Saddled with a financial aid scandal, the Miami Hurricanes are short two players and trying to keep their attention on the upcoming season.

The team maintained its normal two-a-day practice schedule Wednesday, one day after standout receiver Lamar Thomas and reserve running back Jason Marucci were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges they fraudulently obtained Pell Grant money.

More indictments are possible.

"When we're on the field, we don't worry about any of that stuff," quarterback Dino Torretta said. "Off the field, I'm so tired I just go home and go to sleep. I think the rest of the team does, too."

Thomas and Marucci, both seniors, were scheduled to make their initial court appearance today before a U.S. magistrate. Neither player has been suspended but both were excused from practice Wednesday and today.

Beyond that, their status with the team remains undetermined, athletic director Dave Maggard said.

"The main thing right now," he said, "is to give them time to work with their attorneys and gather information."

But the two players likely will get a final chance to enter a pretrial diversion program that would ultimately clear them of the charges. The Miami Herald reported for Thursday's editions.

The newspaper quoted unidentified sources close to the federal investigation as saying the players were only charged because they didn't comply with conditions of an offer that would have protected them from indictment.

Miami's opening game as the defending national champion is Sept. 8 at Iowa.

"It's not a great distraction, because in the past Miami has been through a lot of trials and tribulations," receiver Kevin Williams said. "All we do is become molded into something to fight harder to accomplish our goals."

The indictments were the first stemming from a 18-month federal investigation into the university's Pell Grant scandal. According to the indictments, the players fraudulently obtained federal financial aid — $4,880 for Marucci and $3,300 for Thomas.

Last month the U.S. attorney's office mailed letters to 66 University of Miami students advising them that they were targets of the probe. The letters accused each student of four criminal violations by making false statements in applying for federal aid.

The letters offered protection from indictment if the students, including more than 40 current and former football players, entered a pretrial diversion program and made restitution.

Thomas, 22, and Marucci, 21, received letters but failed to meet a 30-day deadline for talking with the Pretrial Services Office. Attorneys for the two players did not return phone calls.

Federal prosecutors would not comment about the case. Maggard declined to speculate as to whether there will be additional indictments.

"I really don't know," he said. "We don't even know the identities of some of the athletes who received the letter."

Thomas is part of a receiving corps billed as the nation's best. He led the team last year with 39 catches and has career totals of 97 receptions for 1,570 yards and 13 touchdowns.

"He's a wonderful player," Williams said. "but if you look at Miami's team, we're full of talent. Lamar will be very, very hard to replace, but we still will be a great team."

The focus of the probe, former university academic adviser Tony Russell, has yet to be charged. Last year he publicly admitted to falsifying Pell Grant applications, but said he acted alone.

The NCAA will decide whether to launch an inquiry after federal officials conclude their investigation.

Giants

which next meets in person in St. Louis on Sept. 9.

"You get much more accomplished when you're face to face and sitting in a room," Greenberg said.

American League owners did meet together on Wednesday in Chicago, but it was to give preliminary approval to the sale of the Detroit Tigers. However, the Giants' situation did come up.

"We discussed some of the pluses and minuses," AL president Bobby Brown said. "We felt that without any documents in front of us, it was difficult to act on."

Joseph Molloy, managing general partner of the New York Yankees, said no one knew if the proposed move would pass.

"It's too early to tell," he said. "There are a lot of questions to be answered."

But Hayward Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox said, "I heard no negatives."

If the proposed move is not decided on in St. Louis, it is unclear when owners would take it up. Owners decided in 1985 that they didn't want to discuss off-the-field business during the playoffs and World Series.

"The discussion we want to have is a very broad discussion of relocation policy," Greenberg said. "It goes beyond this one."

Russ Cline, whose company manages the Florida Suncoast Dome, the Giants' proposed new home, said that in order for the stadium to be fully operational for baseball by opening day next April, decisions on purchases and construction would have to begin soon. The $130 million ballpark needs about $25 million to be completed for baseball.

"We'd like to begin to start purchasing things and begin construction not too long after the Oct. 1 date to get ready," Cline said.

Dodge said loan agreements between Naimoli's group and banks would be completed by the end of this week and that loans may finance up to 40 percent of the deal, baseball's limit. Naimoli is one of six general partners, and Paul Getz, chief operating officer of the St. Petersburg Area Chamber of Commerce, said there would be approximately 15 limited partners.

Dodge said an announcement would be made Friday telling Florida fans how to back the effort for the move.

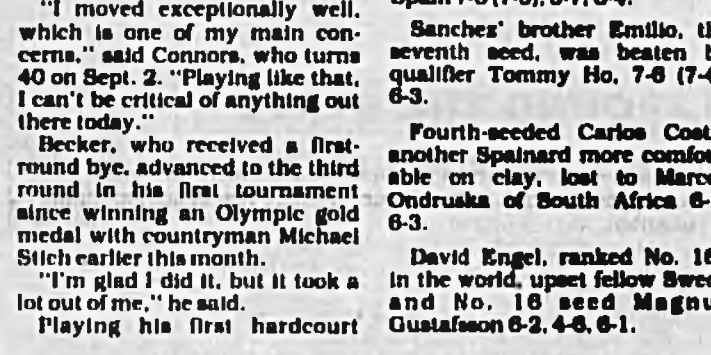

"We'll set forth some ways for fans, in the appropriate ways, to concentrate their support," he said.

Jordan, meanwhile, concentrated on lobbying AL owners. He sent each of them champagne, chocolate and cookies at the league meeting in Chicago.

"I have taken the liberty of sending you a few things that make San Francisco and Bay area special," he wrote them. "The San Francisco Giants are one of them. ... While you are enjoying some of the delicacies the Bay area has to offer, consider the Giants' fans. To lose the Giants would be a tremendous blow to not only the people of San Francisco, but to all of the Giants fans through the greater Bay area."

When owners left, however, the food was uneaten.

Showing concern for her city

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Lisa Spak wants to help her home city of Longwood. "I want to get involved," she said, "but not to the point where I get pushy or make people angry."
Her first official role with city activities was her recent involvement with the Longwood Cost Analysts Task Force. "While we covered many ways to try to save money for the city," she said, "the main focus was whether or not we should consolidate the Longwood police force and turn law enforcement over to the Seminole County Sheriff's department."
"During my association with the Task Force, I became more and more concerned about the needs of Longwood, and what I could do about them," she said. "In fact, I made the motion to the committee not to accept the consolidation suggested by Commissioner Paul Lovestrang."
"The efforts continued however," Spak said. "So as soon as the Task Force ended its work, I joined the political action committee fighting to keep the police department as it is now."

"I'm the mother of two young children and am very seriously concerned with family safety," she said. "And I believe everyone who is concerned about this or any other project, shouldn't just sit around and wait for someone else to do something. We should get involved ourselves."

Although the PAC had originally planned to have a town meeting to discuss keeping the police department as it is, the meetings were never held. "We don't want this to be a political hot potato," she said, "so we are just continuing our efforts to get the word out through our pamphlets."

To pay for the pamphlets which are expected to be released soon, the PAC has been selling T-shirts and conducting fund raising events. "Union members from the city's Public Works Department are donating signs for us," she said, "and many other businesses are supporting our efforts through some fine assistance."

Spak is married to a firefighter and was raised in the Central Florida area. She is presently a volunteer at Longwood Elementary School. "I try to attend as many city meetings as possible," she said, "especially with this T-shirt, but I don't have any intention of running for any kind of elected office. I just want to do what I think any concerned citizen should do."

Sorrows, joys of age add richness

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dear Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters from 1972 and '73.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: This concludes the series (from yesterday's column) of responses I received years ago from senior citizens, when I asked what were the biggest problems they faced: Money? Health? Loneliness? Boredom?

DEAR ABBY: I'm an "older woman" who stands 5 feet 8 inches tall, and I cannot find a dress to cover my knees!
C.P. IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: I'm 74, wear eyeglasses, false teeth, a hearing aid, and I walk with a cane. But I'm happy because I'm a born-again Christian.

I can smell the fragrance of my flowers and feel the softness of my cat, and I can eat anything I can afford to buy.

I'm on old-age pension and have lots of good books. I've always been poor, so it's no hardship.

Besides, I'll have a mansion by and by.

GLADYS IN CHILLICOTHE, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister who married well. She is two years older than I am, and she has never known a lonely hour. Her children and grandchildren flock around her like bees. She is always handing out money and presents, and they treat her like she is some kind of queen.

I have nothing to give, so I am ignored. I am not homeless yet, and God forbid I ever should be, because I'd be dumped into a state home and forgotten. Money is power.

POWERLESS

DEAR ABBY: You asked to hear from senior citizens: Would that some compassionate, benevolent God would take this body and accept the soul of a man on the day he voluntarily retires or is arbitrarily retired from his work, and soon becomes...

USELESS AT 70

DEAR ABBY: I am 74 years old and have been a widow since the age of 29. I raised five children and 12 grandchildren, and what a thankless job I had. My biggest problem is loneliness. But the reason for my loneliness is the fact that I am poor. Young people today don't want us older folks around unless we are well-fixed and can do for them.

POOR WIDOW

DEAR ABBY: I'm 75 and a widower. I made my first trip to a foreign country at age 70. At 71, I started making my own sourdough bread, and now I can't stand bakery bread. At 73, I started making my own jellies and jams. I enjoy life because I keep active. I've sent for a copy of the Living Will, thanks to you. I wish to live, but I am not interested in existing.

F.E.W. KENT, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: We are both 77 years old, and we have been married 53 years. First we liked each other, then we loved each other, and now we adore each other. Our problem? We would like to die together!

HARTWIG AND HELEN IN BERKELEY

DEAR ABBY: I am 83 and have no problems. Death took my two good wives. Did not dare to try for a third. Afraid I'd get a lemon. I bowl in four leagues and enjoy church. I give better than one-tenth of my income to God because He lets me live well.

Seek another opinion on estrogen therapy

DEAR DR. GOTT: I underwent a hysterectomy over 12 years ago and have been receiving estrogen replacement therapy by injection every two to three weeks. The shots give me terrible headaches and a feeling of disorientation for a week after. I've asked for a pill, but my doctor says they have too many side effects. The patches are not strong enough, and I'm desperate.

DEAR READER: It's hard to believe that any side effects of the estrogen pills could top the unpleasant complications of your injections. Frankly, I don't understand your doctor's position. Estrogen pills are safer, less expensive and just as effective as shots. Moreover, they're more convenient and less painful. Perhaps you misunderstood your physician.

In my opinion, there is no reason why you shouldn't be taking estrogen pills; in a woman who has had a hysterectomy, there are virtually no side effects. Return to your doctor and ask what gives. If he can't answer you satisfactorily, ask for a referral to another gynecologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please provide information on ulcerative colitis. Our 30-year-old son was put on medication, a low residue diet and was told to avoid dairy products. Can his condition be cured medically or is surgery always necessary?

DEAR READER: Ulcerative colitis, a chronic inflammatory disease of the large intestine, is marked by intermittent bouts of bloody diarrhea. The cause is unknown, but the condition usually responds to sulfa antibiotics, cortisone enemas or - in severe cases - intravenous steroids.

Some patients are helped by a low-residue diet; thus, raw fruits and vegetables are usually prohibited. About one-third of patients are aided by eliminating milk products from the diet.

Books on the British bidding system, Acol, have never sold well in the United States. The use of four-card majors and the weak no-trump have never found favor. However, a new book, "Understanding Acol" by Eric Crowhurst and Andrew Kambites (Dollenz, $13.95, 212-686-6880) is worth reading.

The authors concentrate on bidding principles rather than conventions. And these principles apply no matter which natural-based system is being used.

Today's deal, taken from the book, raises some interesting points in bidding and play.

Many experts treat a responder's one-spade rebid as showing exactly four spades and as forcing for one round. With a strong hand that doesn't have four spades and with no better bid available, responder jumps to two spades, which acts as fourth-suit forcing.

If the opponents bid all four suits and play in the fourth one, it is usually right to lead a trump.

Declarer should play for 10 tricks via three side-suit aces, one low red-suit ruff in each hand and five more trump tricks. Note that if, with the given layout, South tries to cash both top clubs, West ruffs and returns his last trump, leaving South a trick short.

The play should go: spade to the 10, diamond ace, club to dummy's ace, heart ace, a heart ruff with the spade three and a diamond ruff with dummy's spade five. Then declarer makes four more tricks with a high crossruff.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 21, 1992

Lady Luck is likely to treat you respectfully in the year ahead, but you might have difficulty appreciating her favors when they're presented. Be grateful, and don't look a gift horse in the mouth.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Hoping to do things the easy way instead of the right way could deprive you of success today. Occasionally, shortcuts work, but today they could lead to dead ends. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Leo's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Avoid doing business with an individual or firm that gave you a bum deal recently. If they do a number on you a second time, you'll have only yourself to blame.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a chance your judgment may be questionable today, but your ego might not let you own up to this fact. Don't defend an indefensible position just because of pride.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone might go out on a limb to offer you some very constructive suggestions today. However, you may ignore this individual - for the sole reason you don't like the source.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The way you treat your friends today will be keenly observed by all. If you cozy up to those you think can help you, while ignoring those who can't, you'll lose points.

ANNE
This is not a good day for you and your mate to discuss an issue where each holds opposing views. Both might focus on arguing rather than compromising.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you delegate an assignment to another today, give this individual some room to perform instead of constantly checking on his progress. You don't like it when others peck over your shoulder.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unfortunately, you might not have adequate financial discipline today to maintain your established budget. Living beyond your means invites penalties.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're not apt to have trouble getting projects started today, but there's a strong chance your interest will wane before they're completed. Continuity is essential.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) To avoid mistakes today, critical instructions - whether issued by you or given to you - should be written rather than spoken.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If possible today, make it a point not to borrow from or lend anything of value to others. This is a tricky area and, if it is handled poorly, could cause relationships to suffer.
