Man shot by police left suicide note

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

Fed up with cocaine addiction, Duff states 'only way out is bullet'

SANFORD — The purse-snatching suspect who was fatally shot last week in Longwood left a suicide note in his van saying he wanted to be killed by police.

Jay Scott Duff, 33, was fatally shot by deputies Thursday at 11:20 p.m. after he charged them with what appeared to be a handgun in Brauser Business Center's parking lot just off 1225 Bennett Drive in Longwood.

The object carried by Duff turned out to be a replica of a semi-automatic handgun, a non-firing device.

The three-page suicide note written by Duff detailed two previous suicide attempts and stated he wanted to release himself as well as his family from dealing with his addiction to "crack" cocaine, said Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger.

Preliminary autopsy results showed cocaine was present in Duff's blood system at the time of his death, said Eslinger.

"The only way out is a bullet," Duff said in a portion of the note released by the Sheriff's Office.

"I came up with the idea to get in trouble and have the police shoot me. I pray they shoot me dead."

Duff, who moved to the Lake Mary area in 1998, leaves behind his wife Cheryl and two young children.

Cheryl Duff said her husband was an "honorable, non-violent man" who had for years been fighting a losing battle with cocaine.

A new playhouse was an early Christmas treat for the boys and girls at the United Cerebral Palsy Center in Sanford. Tricia, Michael and Sammy are out front with Program Coordinator Marife Gomez and two staff members. That's John peeking out from inside the playhouse.

Kids enter playhouse of miracles

Commission considers 'nice guy' resolution for its code of conduct

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Terms of the controversial resolution governing the behavior of Longwood's volunteer city board members may soon also apply to City Commission.

The Longwood City Commission passed a resolution on Dec. 6 governing the code of conduct for city volunteer board members. Proponents of the ordinance say it promotes civility, while opponents claim that it inhibits free speech.

On Monday, the City Commission agreed to consider passing a similar resolution governing its own code of conduct. The resolution proposed by Commissioner Butch Bundy will be discussed Jan. 3.

"If we are going to require certain levels of behavior from volunteer board members, citizens have the right to expect the same behavior from us," Bundy said.

The code of conduct for city board members states the members shall not be confrontational with other members, the staff or persons in attendance.

"We've had incidents in the past of abusive behavior by certain members," Bundy said.

A clause within the code states it applies not only during meetings but also prior to and subsequent to meetings, whether the communication takes place on or off city property.

The code prohibits "abusive or disrespectful conduct toward fellow board members, staff, officers of the City and members of the public at all times."

It also prohibits board members from giving direction to city staff members without the consent of the city administrator.

Board members found to be in violation of the code are subject to suspension or removal from the city board.

Mayor Paul Lovstrand said the ordinance promotes free speech by protecting people from abusive behavior.

"There is nothing in it about expressing opinions or dissension," Lovstrand said. "It just says that people are going to behave in a civilized manner."

However Jim Daly, chairman of the city's Board of Adjustment and a critic of the code of conduct, said the code inhibits free speech.

"It prohibits certain types of speech, no matter where it takes place," Daly said. "What's next, will they place speakers and

Police still looking for shopping mall carjacker

By Bill Kerns

SANFORD — Police are continuing to search for a Chevrolet Extended Cab pickup truck that was stolen from a parking lot in the Seminole Towne Center shopping mall last week.

Last Tuesday, at about 10:40 p.m., 25-year-old Kevis Murphy of Deland became the victim of a carjacking while putting packages into his 1997 pickup truck in the Dillard's parking lot of the Seminole Towne Center shopping mall.

The pickup truck is valued at $32,000, police said.

"We are still searching for the truck," said Cleo Cohen, a spokeswoman for the Sanford Police Department.

The victim was approached by an unidentified man who may have been carrying a

There's a laugh in this if you'd just practice

If you haven't had a good laugh today, check your pulse. We're taking ourselves too seriously, folks. Time to lighten up.

Remember Eleanor Roosevelt. Gawd, those shoes. Well, one night, dear Eleanors was watching a dance company perform and who but Groucho Marx was sitting next to the First Lady.

"You could do that," Groucho told Mrs. Roosevelt. "If you'd practice."

The point here is that if a silly situation arises, don't be afraid to say something silly.

I've experienced many such occasions. One was with the late but hardly great Vice President Spiro Agnew. We were at a celebrity tennis match at Georgetown University. I leaned to Mr. A. and whispered, "You could play like that...if you'd practice."

Now, you probably think that I swiped that line from Groucho. Nothing could be closer to the truth. I can't tell you how it amused Spiro. He passed smiling.

Here's a line to use when the opportunity arises. If someone asks you if you can fill his or her shoes, your reply should be, "What do you want me to fill 'em with?" You can do it, if you'd practice.

Lily Tomlin's little character, Edith Anne, offered this warning: "You know what happens when you get angry? First your face gets just like a fist. And then your heart gets like a bunch of bees, and flies up and stings your brain." And, that's the truth.

We've had more than our share of sour pussies in recent years. Richard Nixon was one. So was the Ayatollah Khomeini. Obviously, something was stinging their brains. I don't remember either of them laughing. They probably could have, if they'd practiced.

Mel Brooks was asked by a Newsweek reporter to name the greatest comedy team in the history of film.

He answered: "Wilt and Neville Chamberlain. What a hysterical team. First Neville would read the Nuremberg pact. Then, Wilt would stuff him through a basket."

This is the kind of answer any of us can render when asked something so silly. All we have to do - you've probably guessed it - "is practice."

George Burns and Gracie Allen had a number of routines that they could do better than any other comedy team. The key was their timing, and Gracie's practiced naiveté.

George would ask: "Gracie, were you the oldest in your family?"

Gracie would answer: "No silly. My mother and father were older."

The comedian Steve Allen says that unless there's more laughter, life on our planet is going to get intolerable. He said that the ability to provide laughter is so rare that people like himself make a good living at doing so. Allen estimates that they're aren't more than a couple hundred good comedians. "Not enough to go around," he said.

I believe that most people are too stressed to render and accept sheer, gleeful, silly good-time laughter. The worst offenders are those of you using cellular phones. Put down those phones and laugh. You can do it, if you'd practice.

smile. She is particularly pleased that Christmas has arrived early this year for the children at the center.

On Monday, volunteers delivered a handsome playhouse to the center. It is a donation from ABC Fine Wine & Spirits. "We're a non profit organization," Gomez said. "Donations like this are greatly appreciated. They help us serve the children."

The center's multilingual staff includes licensed therapists, speech language pathologists, teachers with specialized degrees in Early Childhood and Special Education, trained family service coordinators and a licensed clinical social worker.

When Gomez began the Seminole center four years ago there were three children to care for. "Today, we have 20," she said. "We only have room at this facility for 20. We have others on a waiting list."

Gomez said that from birth to three years old is an especially critical time for a child with a disability or a developmental delay. The skills the staff is able to help develop are life's basics - mobility, speech, play and independence.

The children attend what are known as Early Intervention Preschool classes - Birth to Age three. They go a half-day (morning or afternoon) and some go a full day on an extended care program. "By three, the children are ready to attend regular schools," Gomez said. "What we do sets the stage for future development."

Caring for others came naturally for Gomez, who was born in Puerto Rico and came here 10 years ago. As a very young woman, she cared for an aunt who was deaf and for her dad who lost an arm after an automobile accident.

At 39, Gomez has two daughters, one of whom at 13 is a UCP volunteer. Gomez attends night classes at the University of Central Florida in pursuit of a Masters Degree.

"I love these children," she said Tuesday. "It's a joy to see how they progress. How they learn to eat or drink from a cup. How they put on their clothes. How they interact with one another."

After the children had played in the new playhouse on Tuesday, they boarded a six-seat red carriage for the trip back into the classroom. "Remember, hands and arms in," Gomez called to them.

One by one, the little arms were tucked in safely. Marie Gomez was smiling.

Winter Springs students choose 'angels' to assist others

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — Students at Keeth Elementary School in Winter Springs this month participated in a project to donate gifts to the area's needy children.

The students collected 220 gifts for Keeth Elementary's Second-Annual Angel Tree Drive, a school-wide project to benefit the area's needy children.

The project was organized through HRS and the Division of Children and Families. "Angels" with gift ideas were collected from HRS.

The students designed "angels" and attached gift cards. These were placed on a "giving tree" in the school's main lobby and selected by the students.

One student, Jackie Hauser, used all the money she saved during the past two years to help the children enjoy Christmas, school officials said.

Many classes chose an "angel" as a class project to teach the spirit of giving during the holiday season.

In its second year, the school collected more gifts than last year when it collected about 115 gifts for children.

Hamilton Elementary employees help area families through gift collection

By Bill Kerns

SANFORD — Eight families whose children are attending Hamilton Elementary School received gifts this week, courtesy of a gift collection held by the school's teachers and staff.

The families were chosen to receive the gifts by teachers who were concerned the parents might be unable to purchase many gifts during the holiday season because of financial difficulties.

Parents picked up wrapped presents at the school's Guidance Department this week. They can present the gifts to their children as either coming from themselves or from Santa Claus.

In total, 200 gifts were collected so that 19 children will receive extra gifts this holiday season.

"There will be huge train sets, dolls, clothing, shoes, electronic gifts, all kinds of stuff," said Beth Jensen, a teacher who is participating in the program.

The children receiving gifts range in age from 1 to 14 years old. The average value of each gift collected is $20.

Florida wins outstanding state award

TALLAHASSEE — Florida is one of two states to win the Federal Emergency Management Agency's "Project Impact Outstanding State Award." The award came Thursday at the 1999 Project Impact Summit in Washington, DC. Florida was recognized for its strong leadership in helping make communities less vulnerable to the devastating and costly effects of natural disasters. The State was also recognized for providing outstanding support to local project impact communities.

"We are pleased and honored to receive this award from the Federal Emergency Management Agency," said Governor Jeb Bush. "This achievement represents the hard work and commitment of our State and local governments in finding innovative ways to reduce the damage and cost of natural disasters like hurricanes."

Project Impact is a nationwide initiative developed by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and administered in Florida by the Department of Community Affairs. It encourages state and local governments to partner in efforts to build communities that are more resistant to natural disasters. Some of these partnerships have resulted in residential storm shuttering programs, funding for home inspections and helping the business community educate and train employees about disaster preparedness.

"Hurricanes and other natural disasters affect all of us in one way or the other, whether it be physically, emotionally or financially," said Steve Seibert, Secretary of the Department of Community Affairs.

"Initiatives like Project Impact will continue to provide the resources and support communities need to recover from these effects." In November 1997, the Department of Community Affairs named Broward County and the city of Deerfield Beach its first Project Impact Community. Two more communities were named earlier this year: Escambia County and the city of Pensacola and the Tampa Bay Region.

Happy feet are comfort to bride on special day

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from "Wishing for Comfortable Shoes" and wondered why the mother of the bride is dictating what the bride should be wearing. This is the bride and groom's special day — not the mother's.

..... Mother needs to lighten up, or she not only will spoil the bride's entire day, but also everyone at the affair will notice how miserable the bride is.

That's not a healthy way to start off a marriage.

I married 3 1/2 years ago. I wore a beautiful white dress with plain white sneakers, and replaced the shoelaces with blue ribbon that matched the dresses worn by my bridesmaids. And I was comfortable the entire day.

COMFORTABLE IN DELAWARE

DEAR COMFORTABLE: I received a bushel of mail from like-minded, practical women such as you. I hope the bride-to-be sees this column and heeds what you — and they — have to say. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I'm invited to a bridal shower, or hear of an upcoming wedding, I not only buy the happy couple a shower gift, I also take the time to decorate some plain white lace-up sneakers with ribbons, lace, roses and bows to match the color of the bride's dress. I also enclose a little poem. It's a special and personal gift for the bride to keep forever. (It gets many oohs and ahhs from everyone who attends the shower.

I am the mother of three daughters, and I'll make sure that their wedding will be what they choose, not what I choose.

PAM T. IN DANIELSVILLE, GA.

DEAR PAM T.: You have hit upon a terrific idea for a shower gift. You must be a very talented lady. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I have been a professional wedding photographer for more than 15 years. I have seen every kind of footwear, from cowboy boots to simulated "glass" slippers.

A few weeks ago, one of my clients came up with a clever solution to the wedding-day shoe dilemma. The bride wore traditional dress shoes for the ceremony, but before the couple left the reception, she changed into a pair of adorable white sneakers that her mother had hand-decorated with lace, sequins and beads. (She applied them using a glue gun.) The photo we took of mother and daughter with those shoes is one of their favorites. Those who noticed them at the reception thought it was a great idea.

I hope that "Wishing's" mom will loosen up. The best thing any bride can do for herself is wear comfortable shoes.

DALLAS WEDDING PHOTOGRAPHER

DEAR DALLAS: I agree. One reader told me she wore Isotoner slippers that matched her gown.

"After many years of his addiction, he wanted to be free," she said. "He wanted to release us and the children from the pain of his addiction."

She said she hopes the publicity surrounding her husband's death serves as a wake-up call to others who are taking illegal drugs.

"I know that Scott's death will not be in vain," Cheryl Duff said. "I hope this serves as a wake up call for others to reach out and seek help. It really is a matter of life and death."

Cheryl Duff said police did what they had to do when her husband charged at them.

"He led them exactly where he wanted them to go," she said. "And, they did what they had to do."

Cheryl Duff reported her husband as missing last Wednesday. According to the report, she expressed concern about Duff's possible involvement with crack cocaine.

A videotape taken by the Sheriff's Office Alert 2 Helicopter's infrared camera on Thursday shows Duff pacing back and forth behind his full-sized, white cargo van before running toward deputies, his arms out-stretched holding the replica of the handgun.

Deputies had been urging Duff to drop his weapon as he paced around the parking lot.

Six deputies were involved in the shooting. They were released from administrative duty on Monday and cleared to resume their regular duties.

"The shooting only took place in about two seconds," Eslinger said. "They acted professionally and appropriately for the situation. They did what they had to do for themselves, as well as for their families. They had no way of knowing at 11 p.m. that the gun was not real."

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement is continuing to investigate the case. The number of shots fired has not yet been released. Duff was pronounced dead at the scene.

"The bullets may have taken his life, but I believe truly that it was crack cocaine that killed him," Eslinger said.

Eslinger said he is concerned that, given the publicity of the case, someone else could also attempt to force police into a shooting as a method of committing suicide.

"This is something that concerns law enforcement nationwide," Eslinger said.

Duff was a suspect in two purse-snatching robberies that occurred in Casselberry on Thursday, and was being sought for those crimes at the time of the shooting, authorities said.

Purses belonging to victims of a pair of robberies that occurred earlier on Thursday were found in Duff's white full-sized cargo van, according to Casselberry police.

One robbery occurred in a Casselberry Wal-Mart parking lot on State Road 436, and the other in a Casselberry Target store parking lot near U.S. Highway 17-92.

Following the Thursday morning robbery in the Casselberry Wal-Mart parking lot, police said Duff later tried to cash checks belonging to the victim in the Suntrust Bank in Longwood, where he left behind some identification.

Thursday night in a Casselberry Target store parking lot just off U.S. Highway 17-92, police said Duff pointed what appeared to be a handgun at a woman and took her purse. He then tried to purchase cigarettes with the victim's credit card at a nearby Winn Dixie on State Road 434.

An alert was issued for Duff, which led Longwood police to pull him over shortly before 11 p.m. Shortly after the traffic stop, Duff pulled out what was described as a handgun, prompting Longwood police to call for backup.

Backup arrived from several area police agencies as well as the Seminole County Sheriff's Office. Duff exited his van and walked around the business center parking lot.

Deputy Tim Smith was slightly injured when a bullet ricocheted and grazed his left leg during Thursday's shooting. He was treated at a local hospital and returned to duty, authorities said.

Duff was a registered felon for a strong-arm robbery in Nashville, Tenn. In 1996. He registered as a known felon with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office in 1998, after moving to the Lake Mary area, authorities said.

weapon while putting the packages into his pickup truck. The weapon has not yet been identified.

"(Murphy) thought he felt something at the back of his head," Cohen said. "There may or may not have actually been a weapon."

The suspect told Murphy he would be shot if he moved, and ordered him to lay down and turn over the keys to his pickup truck, according to the incident report.

"The suspect snuck up from behind (Murphy) and order him to lay down," Cohen said. "I don't think he ever got a good description of the suspect. He probably was never masked."

As soon as he heard the truck pull off, Murphy ran into Dillard's to call police, the report said.

microphones in peoples' homes?"

He said the ordinance will discourage residents from serving on city boards.

Judy Putz, a former city commission candidate and former member of the Historic Preservation Board, is also opposed to the code. She said the code inhibits free speech because it is too vague.

"Describe to me what's confrontational," Putz said. "It's very general. What's insulting to you may not be insulting to me. Free speech seems to have gone away in Longwood. If you are critical, they can say that you are being impertinent or derogatory."

Solar Bears thankful for holiday rest

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - The Orlando Solar Bears picked up two points in last week's action with a pair of shootout losses to the Cleveland Lumberjacks.

The Solar Bears are currently in fourth place in the International Hockey League's (IHL) Eastern Conference with a record of 18-9-4 (36 points). The O-Bears will enjoy a seven-day break before resuming action at Orlando Arena on Sunday, December 26, with a 6 p.m. matchup with the visiting Grand Rapids Griffins.

The Solar Bears picked up a point in the IHL standings on Wednesday night with a 3-2 shootout loss to the Lumberjacks at Gund Arena. The Cleveland victory ended Orlando's winning streak over the Lumberjacks at eight straight games.

The O-Bears jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead with first period goals from newly assigned left wing Per Svartvadet at 0:29 and right wing Brian Wesenberg at 3:25.

Cleveland rallied in the second period with a pair of power play goals. At 1:32, center Jock Callander scored his fifth of 1999-2000 from defenseman Ted Crowley and center Brett Harkins. Center Todd White then tied the contest at 2-2 with his 13th goal of the season from defenseman Radim Bicanek and Crowley.

After a scoreless third period, the game headed into a shootout where left wing Jeff Christian, Callander, and Harkins scored to lift the Lumberjacks to a 3-2 shootout win.

For the game, Cleveland out-shot the Solar Bears by a 31-30 margin with Orlando netminder Rick Tabaracci making 29 saves. Lumberjacks goaltender Yevgeni Nabokov stopped 28 shots to earn the win.

The Solar Bears were 0 for 4 with the man advantage, while Cleveland went 2 for 7 on the power play.

On Saturday night, Orlando dropped another 3-2 shootout decision to the Lumberjacks before an Orlando Arena crowd of 6,287.

Cleveland wasted no time in jumping out to a 1-0 lead. Just 0:18 into the opening period, Lumberjacks defenseman Nathan Perrott tallied his third of the season from Christian and White.

Beaufait pulled the O-Bears ever at 1-1 by scoring his sixth of the campaign just 0:36 into period two. Svartvadet picked up his second point in as many games with an assist.

Cleveland stormed back at 4:47 as forward Chris Herperger scored his 10th of the season from linemates Callander and Casey Hankinson.

Vasiljevs scored the only goal of the final period with a shorthanded strike at 18:02 to tie the contest at 2-2. Center Gary Shuchuk and defenseman Curtis Murphy were credited with the helpers on Vasiljevs' seventh goal of 1999-2000. In the shootout, Cleveland's Kyle Calder netted the clincher as the ninth shooter to lift the Lumberjacks to a 3-2 shootout win.

For the game, Orlando outshot Cleveland by a 34-25 margin with Lumberjacks netminder Marc Lamothe making 32 saves. Tabaracci stopped 23 shots in the shootout loss.

Top-ranked Bears crush Boca Ciega; Lake Howell girls waltz into Target Soccer finals

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SARASOTA - When the Class 3A State Champion Winter Springs girls basketball team was moved up to Class 6A this season there were probably some skeptics around the state who were thinking that the Bears would be just another team this season.

Wrong. With Jen Forst and Missy Guadagnino leading the way again, No. 1 ranked Winter Springs came back from a 12-9 first quarter deficit, using a 19-5 third quarter to turn a close game into a rout as it crushed a strong St. Petersburg-Boca Ciega squad (11-3), 65-40, in the Karp Classic in Sarasota.

Forst netted 16 points, while Guadagnino added 13 points to lead the Bears. Mary Lou Johnston and Bev Dedelow chipped in with nine points each for the winners, who outscored the Pirates 38-15 in the second half.

In the Target Girls Soccer Classic at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium, Lake Howell (14-3-1) got goals from Piper Seaman, Jenny Mulvihill and Nandi Pryce, the last two coming on headers off corner kicks by Jill Rice, to advance

Metalade wraps up Industrial

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - After falling on its face a week earlier, Metalade rebounded to play like the champions they are as they claimed title in the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Fall Industrial Slow Pitch Softball League.

Metalade had entered the second to the last night of the season undefeated and needing just one victory to secure the crown. But the leaders promptly dropped a doubleheader, leaving things wide open.

Metalade came back to Pinehurst Field on Friday, December 10th with a renewed enthusiasm and whitewashed Briar/BBM Corporation, 10-0 in five innings, holding Briar/BBM Corporation to five singles and scoring at least three runs in three different innings to claim the victory.

With the championship decided, Kemco went out and did what it had to do to finish second, scoring 12 runs in the top of the sixth inning to erase a 21-17 deficit and held on for a 31-28 triumph over third place Wayne Densch B-53's.

The Wayne Densch B-53's then got a 'freebie' in the final game of the season as Invacare failed to field a team.

Metalade finished the season with an 8-2 record with Kemco (7-3), the Wayne Densch B-53's (6-5), Briar/BBM Corporation (4-6) and Invacare (0-9) completing the standings.

Metalade joins Bixon Chiropractic (women's League), Wilson-Eichelberger Funeral Home (Men's Wednesday) and Longhorns (Men's Thursday) as Fall League Champions in the City of Sanford.

The final standings in the Women's League were: Bixon Chiropractic (9-3), Donnie's Darlins (8-4), Curt's Alleycats (6-6), the Sharks (4-8) and Vaughan Incorporated (3-9).

Motor Racing Network celebrating 30 years of keeping NASCAR fans tuned in

Special to the Herald

DAYTONA BEACH - In 1970, William H.G. "Big Bill" France, the founder of NASCAR, wasn't happy.

Yes, his new and exciting sport of stock car racing was thriving at breakneck speeds, but there was something missing. The sport wasn't getting the media exposure he felt it deserved.

Enter Motor Racing Network. Exit France unhappiness.

Thirty years ago MRN launched to less than 100 affiliates. Three employees and one truck made the trek from Daytona to Talladega and back, providing coverage of stock car and motorcycle events. Today, MRN has grown into the nation's largest independent sports network and the primary source for NASCAR fans to tune in and get the most updated information.

"MRN's 30 years of unparalleled and in-depth coverage of NASCAR events makes it indispensable for today's race fan," said Bill France, NASCAR president. "The knowledge and enthusiasm of its broadcast team will keep its millions of listeners coming back race after race for many years to come."

"To say that MRN has come a long way in 30 years is indeed an understatement," said the network's General Manager David Hyatt. "Celebrating a 30 year anniversary is a testament to this network's hard work and determination to provide the best in NASCAR coverage anywhere."

From a few employees criss-crossing between Florida and Alabama, MRN now boasts:

- 21 full time employees and 20 contract announcers from nine states.
- Two full mobile production trucks.
- Coverage of more than 80 events, including NASCAR Winston Cup, Busch Grand National Series and the Craftsman Truck Series.

• Coverage of the new Grand American Road Racing Series' Rolex 24.

• A traveling schedule from February through December.

• Four programs produced year round.

• More than 640 stations in the United States and Canada.

Award-winning MRN, with its coverage of the NASCAR Winston Cup Series, NASCAR Busch Series, and NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series is heard in all 50 states and Canada.

In addition to live race coverage, over the years, MRN has provided its affiliates with innovative, exciting and informative programming including:

NASCAR USA: COUNTRY MUSIC AT THE SPEED OF SOUND: a live, two-hour Sunday morning program featuring music artists interviews, race highlights, previews, features and updates set to debut from the "World Center of Racing" at the 2000 Daytona 500 on February 20th.

NASCAR LIVE: Each Tuesday night at 7 p.m., MRN presents America's premier motorsports telephone talk show devoted exclusively to NASCAR.

NASCAR TODAY: This daily five-minute newscast features race results, driver interviews, and late breaking news stories from the NASCAR circuit.

MONDAY MORNING RACING REPORT: a morning drive-time feature designed to recap the previous weekend's NASCAR event.

NED JARRETT'S "WORLD OF RACING": The longest running daily syndicated racing radio program in the United States features the many personalities in NASCAR racing.

BUD POLE UPDATES: Affiliate stations receive the 90-second updates on the progress of first round qualifying during the event. A final 2-minute wrap-up report after qualifying provides the starting line-up for the upcoming NASCAR Winston Cup Series race.

MRN is a division of International Speedway Corporation (ISC), a motorsports entertainment company which currently promotes more than 100 events annually.

In addition to MRN, ISC owns and/or operates 11 major motorsports facilities, including Daytona International Speedway in Florida (home of the Daytona 500); Talladega Superspeedway in Alabama; Michigan Speedway located outside Detroit, Michigan; California Speedway near Los Angeles, California; Homestead-Miami Speedway in Florida; Phoenix International Raceway in Arizona; Richmond International Raceway in Virginia; Darlington Raceway in South Carolina; North Carolina Speedway in Rockingham, North Carolina; Watkins Glen International in New York; and Nazareth Speedway in Pennsylvania.

Other track interests include the operation of Tucson (Arizona) Raceway Park and an indirect 37.5-percent interest in Raceway Associates, LLC, which owns the Route 66 Raceway and is developing a superspeedway in the Chicagoland area. The Company is also building a motorsports facility in Kansas City, Kansas.

The Company also owns and operates DAYTONA USA, the "Ultimate Motorsports Attraction" in Daytona Beach, the official attraction of NASCAR and Americrown Service Corporation, a provider of catering services, food and beverage concessions, and merchandise sales.

HOROSCOPES

Your Birthday
Thursday, Dec. 23, 1999
Initiate some changes in the year ahead that could advance your personal ambitions. By giving them adequate time and importance, they should all work out favorably for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Don't let anything of a monetary nature be an issue today when dealing with friends, especially if petty costs are involved. Weigh the worth of having good relations with others. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
The race is likely to go to the quick-witted today rather than to the most physical or strongest. Be swift on your toes to take the punch out of anyone else's feud.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Someone who realizes your sensitivities knows all the right buttons to push to get your goat. Don't play Charlie McCarthy today to his Edgar Bergen.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
It's the season for giving, not taking. If either you or anyone in your group gets too self-indulgent today, it could spoil the fun for everyone. Keep everything in perspective.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Being a heavy weight in attempting to make your points today increases resistance, not diminishes it. Don't make a big deal over nonessential matters. Live and let live.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Stand up for your rights today by saying "no" if someone tries to impose upon you the jobs she or he should be handling. You're just as busy as everybody else.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Because you tend to be possessive at times, you might need to take care today should someone be paying a bit more attention to a person you like. Fight back with sweetness, not fangs.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Should a stupid disagreement over a trivial issue surface today, quickly kiss and make up. Set the tone for a jovial, holiday spirit to prevail, especially with the family.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Keep a good sense of humor about yourself today when attempting to do tasks that might not be accomplished as easily as you'd like them to be. It'll take the edge off the situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
It is wonderful to be kind and giving, but not to the point of extravagance today, especially if the shortfall has to be shared by others. Keep your expenditures in line.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
If someone does something today to cause you to want to vent your temper, try to laugh it off instead. There is more healing in humor if you take the time to switch to it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Should a few extra responsibilities get dumped on you today, don't make matters worse by magnifying them way out of proportion. They'll be easier to deal with when cut down to size.

Win at Bridge

There's something wonderful

By Phillip Alder
The International Bridge Press Association gives an annual award for the best-bid hands. This candidate was published too late for this year, but I hope it is considered next year. It occurred during the Australian Championships, which were held in Perth last July. Which contract would you like to reach on these North-South hands? The right spot is seven diamonds. Note that seven hearts cannot be made with the 3-1 heart break. You must lose either a club or a trump trick. Only one pair in a large field full of Australia's best players reached seven diamonds. North was Bob Dalley and South Paul Lavings; both live in Sydney. After East's one-spade overcall, Lavings saw no reason to support hearts immediately. Instead, he showed his excellent diamond suit. Then, over West's cautious two spades (most modern-day tournament players would bid a pre-emptive three spades, showing a weak hand with four-card support), Dalley evaluated correctly. Despite holding only 11 high-card points, he realized that he had a wonderful hand, worth at least game in support of diamonds. So, Dalley made a void-showing jump to four spades. (Most experts treat this as a splinter bid, when North might have a singleton spade. The void-showing agreement made South's life much easier.) Lavings used Blackwood, then jumped to seven diamonds. Terrific! With hindsight, East-West wished they had sacrificed in seven spades, which costs only 800 (four down doubled) and is cheaper than conceding even a small slam.

Bridge

Doctor Gott

Don't be shy about second opinions

DEAR DR. GOTT: I read your column every day but was struck by one in particular. In which you urged readers to obtain a second opinion when their primary doctors cannot get a grasp on what ails them. My daughter saw her primary care physician for more than five months, with no satisfaction. Finally, I insisted that she get a second opinion. The new doctor, a diagnostic specialist in internal medicine, tested her extensively — and found a brain tumor. Fortunately, the surgery was curative and she is virtually back to normal. Please continue to stress to your readers that no matter how much patients respect and admire their family doctors, a second opinion is sometimes necessary. DEAR READER: Most doctors are very skillful at diagnosing diseases; such practitioners take great pride in their abilities and commitment to help people in need. Nonetheless, there are times when even the most dedicated physician is unable to diagnose an ailment or get to the root of a health problem. At this point, a doctor really shows his mettle. The somewhat insecure practitioner is not likely to ask for help, whereas the truly good doctor is eager to ask his colleagues for assistance. In my opinion — a view that is, unfortunately, in the minority — a primary care physician should suggest a second opinion before such an option occurs to the patient. The suggestion is certainly not an admission of failure; rather, it can serve to cement the doctor/patient relationship. If the consultation subsequently proves to be unnecessary, wonderful! No harm done. If, on the other hand, it provides a diagnosis and treatment that are successful, everybody wins. I should add that this second-opinion system works both ways. Although I pride myself in requesting prompt and expeditious consultations from specialists, my second opinion is also called upon by other doctors — and I believe that I have been really helpful in giving objective assistance to them. Therefore, my advice — which was supported by your kind letter — remains the same: If your physician is stuck or appears uninterested, request a second opinion. The potential benefits are enormous. DEAR DR. GOTT: Can hemorrhoids cause health problems if left untreated? Are they linked to colorectal cancer? DEAR READER: Hemorrhoids, sometimes known as piles, are swollen veins in the area of the anus. They are not a health hazard unless they bleed. Hemorrhoids can cause bothersome pain and itching, but they are not associated with colorectal cancer.

The 'Top 10 Cookbooks of 1999' among end of year lists

Now is the time of year when "Top 10" lists come out, such as the Top 10 News Stories of 1999, the Top 10 Songs, the Top 10 Movies and so forth. In keeping with this tradition, here's my selection of the Top 10 Cookbooks of 1999:

The cookbooks that chefs write (as distinguished from the ones that cookbook writers write) are often too far-out and too fussy to be of use to the home cook. But Alison Becker Hurt, a New York restaurateur, has come up with a winner of a book in "Kitchen Suppers." It's subtitled "Good Food to Share with Good Friends," and that sums it up. It is full of friendly, homey dishes, such as corn pudding, chocolate cheesecake and tomato bisque. Even the fancier dishes sound like something you'd want to make (Roast Pork Stuffed with Rosemary, Garlic and Leeks, with Apple and Plum Compote, is one example).

The other chef's book that I've grown quite fond of is Daniel Bouloud's "Cafe Bouloud Cook Book," aptly subtitled "French-American Recipes for the Home Cook." It includes, in the first chapter, a good, concise introduction to traditional French (in this case, Lyonnaise) cooking. And the desserts are to die for. (Doesn't Apple, Almond and Pine Nut Tart sound yummy?)

Among American regional books, two volumes of Southern cookery have made their way onto my shelf of favorites. One is "Butter Beans to Blackberries," by Ronni Lundy, a highly readable compendium of recipes from the garden. "A Gracious Plenty," by John T. Edge, is a must-have for its photos and stories as well as its recipes. Okra Pickles, Sweet Potato Pie, She-Crab Soup — it's all in there.

Low-fat and "healthy" cookbooks rarely appeal to me, but Nina Simond's "A Spoonful of Ginger," delivers on its promise of irresistible, health-giving Asian recipes. I've been craving her Hot and Sour Salmon with Greens. The "Secrets of Healthy Middle Eastern Cuisine," by Sanaa Abourezk, has tasty, spicy dishes that you would actually want to eat — Thin Steak in Garlic Lemon Sauce, for example.

Although the last two books mentioned above could qualify as "International," I've got two others on my list: "The Basque Kitchen," by Gerald Hirigoyen, and "Seasons of My Heart," by Susana Trilling, which brings us recipes from Oaxaca, Mexico.

Simple cookbooks for beginners include "Help! My Apartment Has a Dining Room!" (a sequel to "Help! My Apartment Has a Kitchen!") by the mother-son team of Nancy and Kevin Mills. It's a wonderful buy for a brave beginning cook who wants to entertain with simple versions of dishes such as Chicken Satay or Ratatouille.

Finally, kudos go to "One Bite Won't Kill You: 200 Recipes to Tempt Even the Pickiest Kids on Earth," by Ann Hodgman, who is wry, witty and realistic about feeding kids. (Who else would admit that her son recently breakfasted on lemonade and Nutter Butters?) This book (hilariously illustrated by Roz Chast) is a godsend for all parents who feel that they've lost the nutrition battle. Hodgman clearly has. But she hasn't lost the war: She's still feeding her family with good grace and humor. Recipes like Taco Bake are winners with any child. We've eaten well in 1999. Bring on 2000!
