The marriage of Miss Helen Joyce Anderson, daughter of Mrs. C. A. Forming a beautiful background for the wedding were palms and tall floor baskets holding white gladioli and calla lilies. Branched candelabra held white candles and the pews of the ribbon section were marked with sprays of white gladioli and fern.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Marvin Milton, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music including the traditional wedding marches and "Claire de Lune" which accompanied the ceremony. Roger Harris, soloist, sang "I Love Thee" by Gilek.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Charles A. Anderson and was gownned in a light blue satin dress, ballerina in length. The dress was fashioned with a strapless bodice and full skirt of net and lace over satin. The lace jacket over the bodice featured a standing collar and fastened down the front with self-covered buttons. She wore blue mitts, and a fingering veil of blue net attached to a crescent shaped cap of shirred veiling. Her bridal bouquet was of white carnations showered with satin streamers and lilies of the valley.

Her sister, Miss Marjorie Anderson, served as maid of honor and wore a pink net ballerina length dress with snug fitting pink jacket. Bridesmaids wore Mrs. Roger Schmidt, Miss Barbara McNab and Miss Betty Peacock. They were gownned alike in sheer pink nylon over taffeta fashioned with round necklines and extremely full skirts. Miss Swope Married To Stanley Rosier

Miss Doris Sandra Swope of New Smyrna became the bride of Stanley Buford Rosier of Sanford in a quiet but beautiful ceremony performed at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 626 Faulkner Street.

The bride is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Swope Jr. and the bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Rosier.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joe Hinton, pastor of the Edgewater Baptist Church with only members of the two families present. The vows were spoken in front of the fireplace which was banked with potted plants and glowing fires. The bride and groom were flanked by lighted white tapers in tall candelabra and two tall baskets of white gladioli and fever few. Ferns, gardenias, and lilies were also used in decorating the Swope living room.

Proceeding the ceremony recordings of "At Dawning," "Because," and "I Love You Truly" were played and recordings of the traditional wedding marches were also used.

The couple had no attendants but before the bride's entrance, little Jimmy Swope, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Swope, entered the room dressed in a white suit and carrying the rings on a white satin pillow.

The attractive bride chose for her wedding a full-length light blue dress of nylon over tulle. The entire gown featured after rows of baby, ruffles, and satin cord and a wide band of white satin was used at the waist. The dress was strapless and featured a stole. The bride also wore an orange blossom halo with a rose veil, white lace mitts, and carried a lace handkerchief which was carried by her mother at her wedding. Her flowers were a bridal bouquet of carnations, orange blossoms, and lilies, centered with a pink double white orchid.

Mrs. Swope, the bride's mother, was attended in a blue chiffon dress with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of pink roses and baby lilies. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Rosier, chose a light blue silk dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. W. E. Swope, of the bride's paternal grandmother, wore a blue-primed white dress with accessories, and a gardenia corsage.

Following the ceremony, a breakfast and luncheon were served in the dining room. The table was decorated with white roses and topped with a cornucopia of fresh and green. The bride's table, which was accented with an Italian linen white cloth, was decorated with white tapers in silver candelabra, fern, gardenias, and fever few.

When the bride couple left for a honeymoon trip to North Carolina, Mrs. Rosier was wearing a Navy blue suit with pink accessories, and the bride from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return they will make their home on Lake County where Mr. Rosier is accounted in business with his father.

Mrs. Rosier is a graduate of the New Smyrna high school where she was active in sports, clubs and organizations, and at the time of her marriage she was attending the University of Florida. Twice-A-Year Cancer X-Rays Are Urged For Those Who Are Smokers

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Release Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Twice-a-year X-ray examinations for middle-aged men who are heavy smokers were recommended today by a "task force" of the American Medical Association.

The task force, which is a nucleus of improving the attack on lung cancer, declared that there is a higher proportion of lung cancer among heavy smokers than among non-smokers. Dr. J. Winthrop Peabody said he believed such an X-ray procedure would assure spotting any such cancers early enough to allow successful surgical operation.

"Until this is done," the Georgetown University doctor told the annual meeting of the American Medical Association, "mortality (from lung cancer) will continue to be high."

He said that a definite diagnosis of lung cancer is now possible in 85 per cent of the people who have it. He declared the diagnosis may be made early in the disease, even while in the "latent stage" or when ough is the only apparent symptom.

In another report, two Chicago doctors said allergic diseases are apt to develop in children of parents who themselves are sufferers from allergic diseases. Therefore, the children should be shielded from substances capable of producing allergic reactions.

They said that in such families, dogs and cats should be removed from the home, that the children get a reaction from their fur; stuffed toy animals, heavy drapes and bedroom carpeting should be avoided; and mother should even wash the type of cosmetic she uses to make sure it does not contain a chemical derived from a certain form of iris plant.

Dr. Leon Unger and Albert Unger said youngsters showing signs of allergic diseases should be advised to avoid becoming farmers, bakers, furriers, upholsterers, grain mill workers, florists or workers around animals.

"It is easy to avoid these occupations," they said. "It may be difficult to change when an adult."

Short Order Cook Is Killed By Waitress

MIAMI (AP)—A waitress killed a short-order cook with one of his own boning knives on a downtown street corner today after an all night drinking party.

The dead man was identified as Carl Goldberg, 35.

Patrolmen A. E. Hambacher and J. M. Dillon said the waitress was Doris Kethum, 31, and that she had been living with Goldberg for about a year.

The officers quoted Mrs. Ruth Phillips, a taxi driver, as saying she saw the waitress grab an 8-inch boning knife from a bag Goldberg was carrying and stab him in the chest.

She ran from the scene at Southwest First Street and Seventh Avenue, but was captured by police about a block away. She was held for investigation pending filing of formal charges.

The patrolmen said Goldberg and Mrs. Kethum had been drinking and quarreling all night long.

The argument continued as they walked down the street about 7

a. m. Apparently Goldberg had some jewelry the woman claimed was hers and was taking it away in the bag, police said. Goldberg stopped on the corner and opened the bag. It was then the stabbing occurred.

Sheriffs Meet

by a Central government, far removed from our supervision and our attention, one of the consequences will be an uninformed, passive and gullible public, engrossed in private interests; such a public will be an easy prey for agitators and propagandists of all varieties.

"A people, however, who are actively engaged in governing themselves in their own areas are people who, if they have not been themselves a city commissioner or a county sheriff or a school board member have at least worked to elect or defeat them, hawked their activities, entered their debates, a people who have written letters to their editors, who have helped or harassed their state representatives, raised money for their own hospital, such a people as this, an independent and resourceful people, will be a tough and wary customer for any variety of agitator or propagandist."

General Hutchison noted the instance of the enforcement of the gambling laws in Illinois as a case in which "the state of Illinois was not reaching down for power, but the enforcement of gambling laws was being thrust upon the State by local default. If local officials had been doing their duty, it would not have been necessary for the state to have intervened."

"It is interesting to note that in 1948 and 1949, some 75 percent of the registered gambling devices in Illinois were in the hands of similar public places, but that in the first three months of the new license year beginning July 1, 1951, only 7 percent of the devices were in taverns while 93 percent were in lodges, veterans' posts, country clubs and so forth.

"These figures speak for themselves. They speak loudly and insistently of an attempt to establish a double standard of observance which would negate the concept of equal treatment for all, the most basic concept we have in our government."

He then pointed out the arguments about how the slot machine in the country club is one thing and the slot machine in the corner saloon another. Of course there is a difference. But I know also that the law is in no position to insist that its elected officers enforce the law in either place is against the law; and I know that the citizen who violates the law in his club is in no position to insist that his elected officers enforce the law in the corner saloon.

"When the reputable and influential citizens are guilty of breaking laws such as this, they lose their power and influence to demand and get faithful performance of their local officials. They are contributing toward the breakdown of local law enforcement and hastening the day when government must be surrendered to higher levels of authority."

General Hutchison concluded by urging the sheriffs, "the first line of defense in local self-government," to rely on "the citizens who elected you" as a second line of defense. "I am sure that the large majority of our citizens want good government," he said. "We might help you if we knew what to do. You might consider the idea of keeping a better record of your neighborhoods and ask our help when you think it is needed. I sincerely believe that as long as the Sheriff is the first line of defense in local self-government, as long as he is doing his job without favor or fear, we will maintain our American way of life and Old Glory, the flag that we reverence, will continue to fly over a free people."

At the close of the morning session, included in the address by P. E. Breckenridge, manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Breckenridge mentioned the tremendous increase in the burden upon sheriffs caused by the great influx of people into Florida and called for a more equitable means of paying the sheriffs commensurate with this added burden.

Capt. J. Chittenden of the Sanford Naval Air Station also spoke, thanking the sheriffs of this vicinity for their understanding cooperation in keeping naval personnel out of trouble and maintaining them out when they got into it.

Steel Strike

cerned, and maintain incentives for both parties to reach agreement on the disputed issue through collective bargaining.

Mr. Truman seized the bills last April, acting under what he termed the inherent powers of his office. But the steel industry fought back in the courts and the seizure was upset by a historic Supreme Court ruling on Monday of last week that Mr. Truman lacked such inherent power.

Immediately after the court decision, the steelworkers walked out. Pleading now for Congress to give him this power, Mr. Truman told the legislature in solemn words that full-scale production of steel is absolutely necessary to the Western rearmament program. He added:

"The issue of peace or war hangs in the balance, and steel is a vital element in the outcome."

Alluding then to the great court fight over his seizure power, Mr. Truman said he believed he was only living up to his oath of office when he ordered seizure of the steel plants last April 8.

"Now a majority of the Supreme Court has decreed that I cannot take the action I believe necessary. But they have said very clearly that the Congress can. Whatever may have been the intention of the court's majority in setting limits on the President's powers, there can be no question of their view that the Congress can enact legislation to avoid a crippling work stoppage in the steel industry.

"The issue is squarely up to the Congress. I hope the Congress will meet it by enacting fair and effective legislation."

Mr. Truman said the seizure law he recommended should not prevent the government from changing wages and working conditions during the period of government operation.

As a follow-up to this the White House called in top defense and production officials to discuss this afternoon the arrangements for resuming enough steel production to meet "critical defense requirements."

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman said Defense Secretary Robert Lovett, Munitions Board Chairman John Small, Defense Production Chief Henry H. Fowler and White House Aide David Stowe would go over the entire list of defense needs and decide how much production is necessary.

Steelman's office also said Steelman, who is acting defense mobilizer, probably would meet later in the day with officials of the steel industry and the Steelworkers Union.

The nation's output of steel is down to an estimated 12 1/2 per cent of normal capacity. For defense needs—not including "defense support" production to strengthen European defenses against Communism—the armed forces use approximately 15 per cent of total output. But the military requires up to 80 per cent of some special high alloy steels and other special types for critical defense needs.

Mr. Truman did not go into any details as to how and why the direct union-management negotiations broke down.

They were reported, however, to have collapsed largely over the union shop issue. Although union spokesmen said they were not satisfied by wage concessions offered by the industry.

Rotary Meet

Dr. Haynes said that many of them are still in the experimental stage, and may grow or diminish in importance as time goes on. Among them he listed Cortisone which is being used with striking success in the treatment of arthritis. Pointing out that he has seen patients bed-ridden for years get up and walk after a week of treatment, he added that so far the treatment affords no permanent cure.

Dr. Haynes mentioned the advances which have been made in treating many kinds of diseases with penicillin and the various sulphur drugs, and said that within the next 10 or 15 years he believed it would be possible to control practically every kind of infectious disease.

Dr. Haynes also mentioned the use of new artificial kidney, and told how they had kept patients alive for 18 to 20 days after their own kidneys had ceased to function, and of heart operations and vascular surgery. And he laid great emphasis on the use of whole blood in treating operative cases as well as patients suffering from shock, and he closed with an appeal for support of the local blood bank.

President Jack Ratigan welcomed back to the club, W. C. Hutchison who has been in Hastings on a potato deal, and Henry Simpson who recently returned from the Rotary convention in Mexico City.

Visitors introduced by Charles Morrison included Paul Jones of Daytona Beach, former Sanfoldite with the Salvation Army, William White, Dr. John Morgan and J. C. Bradley of DeLand.
