

All That Sunshine

You can't help but have noticed the silver and snowy weather in the rigorous north of the Sunbelt State in fully appreciate what has been going on around here weather-wise.

At last, you can't help but have noticed the silver and snowy weather in the rigorous north of the Sunbelt State in fully appreciate what has been going on around here weather-wise.

Of course, what has happened is that we have had a low of four degrees and a warm-up to 16 during the day, adding that the snow had made driving bad enough but the sleet and freezing rain had topped all that with real hazards of sliding.

Many to remember this year with the blizzards—pre-Christmas and post-New Year—have put on a display of extraordinary comfortable days and nights when temperatures are a-bloom, year after year.

A Challenge In '68

Although this is the time for kudos and those who have borne the brunt of the battles of 1967 are being honored, yet these opening weeks of 1968 are also important challenges.

They indicate the situations and issues which will make 1968 important. As they arise, we recognized and produce of their own weight the champions who will win in 1968, it might be wise to do a little pre-emptive defining.

We see the Sanford scene through a haze of developments which may obscure the details but the general outlines are quite clear.

Politics mounting to the ballot box moment of truth next November will have momentary peaks of local interest, but it will be in the matter of government that the issues will be joined.

Acquisition of the Naval Air Base by the city and its conversion into a useful and profitable asset will be a major challenge for City Hall and its advisers.

Educators will have to decide whether or not their profession is, indeed, a profession with a "discipline" capable of restoring dignity to the individual teacher and a return to the high regard teachers of old received.

Industrialists and business men will be confronted with major challenges both within and without the city. Attraction of industry and the exploitation of the tourist trade to the point where it becomes more significant in the Sanford economy are easily seen as specific areas for activity.

Of course, we are not unaware that challenges exist in the field of communications. But these are general and something all mass media wrestle with daily.

What encourages us at this time is the wealth of manpower that exists in Sanford and which has been found and rewarded in many ways by words, plaques and official commendations. We look forward to 1969 when such as these will be receiving the plaudits of their fellows and recorded in our news columns.

News People Real Nervous?

The movies and television often depict newspaper people as harassed, fast-living characters always working on the deadline minutes before deadline. That's not the case at all. Yet, apparently newspaper men live more dangerously than one might imagine.

A prominent psychologist reported to a meeting of his colleagues in New York recently that newspapermen had the highest anxiety level of any American occupational group which he had studied so far. He said newspapermen were even more anxious than navy aviators, pilots in training and business executives.

The fear of sounding like an idiot in print must be greater than the fear of drowning, flaming death in a crash or going bankrupt, a psychologist might conclude. —Gulverson (The Daily News)

"Congress Sure Sets a Nice Table"

James Marlow Says: Senate To Adopt Code Of Conduct

Senate To Adopt Code Of Conduct

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's bipartisan ethics committee is hearing completion of the proposed standards of conduct for senators, Senate officials and Senate employees.

At the heart of the code is the matter of financial disclosure requirements. It is expected to be some kind of financial disclosure requirement.

Whatever form this takes, it is certain to lead to controversy within the Senate over the difficult and sensitive issue of how far, if at all, men should be compelled to go in disclosing the amount and sources of their income, assets, liabilities and business and professional activities.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., has been a leading advocate of requiring senators and all Senate aides earning $10,000 a year or more to file and make public annually a detailed financial report.

An outspoken foe has been Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who contends that financial disclosure proposals would make second-class citizens out of senators.

He asked that the Senate leadership set a time for taking up its proposed standards of conduct later this month. However, action may be delayed since a battle over a civil rights bill may take up the Senate after this.

James Marlow, who usually writes this column, is ill.

Housewives Union Proposed

HOME TOWN, U.S.A. (AP) — "Housewives are such utter fools," announced Trilla Mae People, America's most average wife.

"Oh, I wouldn't say that about you," said Wilbur, glancing around the kitchen. "The place looks pretty nice and you're always, after I finish drying the dishes and you take out the garbage."

"I am not talking about housewives, I am talking about being disappointed."

"Well, if housewives are disappointed," asked Wilbur, still at it. "Just who is disappointed?"

"The subway workers and bus drivers of New York City—that's who!" exclaimed Trilla Mae.

"I know you're not going to leave me just standing here wondering," suggested Wilbur. "What's it all about?"

"Well, these subway workers have got a great big union for all. And I just read in the paper they've got a new contract that will give them more money and less hours for their old friends' benefit."

"Well, the big thing is that they are getting a big raise and they are getting a big raise and they are getting a big raise."

"And I don't think it's fair," said Wilbur. "Fair to whom? Fair to whom?"

"Fair to whom? Fair to whom? Fair to whom?"

Political Notebook: Romney's Time Of Decision Near

BY BRUCE BROWST WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. George Romney is expected to announce his presidential ambitions in the next few days.

But from late-1967, and most probably in the next few days, Romney has indicated to friends and press and others a yearning "knowledgability" which has made the choice of his vice-presidential pick a matter of some importance.

His many, many stumblings over Vietnam are, of course, a very old story. But what may not be fully appreciated are the embedded elements of his make-up and background which have made the choice of his vice-presidential pick a matter of some importance.

For 14 long months, since he secured a smashing third election victory as governor in 1967, Romney has gone about the nation and the world in an incredibly self-destructive odyssey.

A new map was reached when a dispatch from Vietnam told of the evidently crumbling offensive in Cambodia and the U.S. troops in the field and in hospitals.

Certain success close to the government was being sought by the press and some staff members for the year-long decline in his political fortunes. They are in the California land of men bent on undermining Romney as a national candidate.

The truth is that he has dismissed many of his good friends most of all. His attractive physical image, his good record as businessman, civic leader and politician, his obvious skill in business, all seem to be in jeopardy. He is a man of a very old story. But what may not be fully appreciated are the embedded elements of his make-up and background which have made the choice of his vice-presidential pick a matter of some importance.

As his business and political associates have subsequently told this reporter and many others, he has been himself a "fast learner" in the sense that he has learned many of his good friends most of all. His attractive physical image, his good record as businessman, civic leader and

Crane's Worry Clinic: Fathers: Take Time For Your Sons

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE 9-583: Norman D. aged 11, is unhappy.

"My daddy is too busy to play with me," he began. "So I don't know how to catch a ball. The other kids call me lousy because I can't throw."

"And I always strike out, for I don't get any practice at home."

"My daddy is too busy to play with me. And if he does have some time at home, he is then too tired, conspiracy and income tax evasion."

"He the kids think I am easy, but it isn't all my fault." Dads must beware lest they work at the office of 8:30 and then neglect their children's social and athletic needs.

Norman has very little camaraderie with his father. Yet his dad thinks he will earn his "pile of dough" and later fraternize with Norman.

But then it will be far too late. Children rely on their parents quite heavily, at least till they reach high school age.

So it is far better for dads to earn less money but to be present for their children during the pre-teen years.

Lower Tax Hike Pondered By Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler has opened the door a crack—just a little crack—on the possibility the administration will seek a tax hike lower than the 10 per cent it unsuccessfully sought in the last session of Congress.

"I am aware of some discussion of whether or not 8 per cent would be adequate or 6 per cent would be adequate," Fowler said Sunday. He added he would reserve judgement until the House Ways and Means Committee resumes hearings Jan. 2 on President Johnson's tax plan.

In the first session of the 90th Congress, Johnson's 10 per cent surcharge bill died in the committee. Fowler said his "current inclination" is that the bill be reworked and brought back to the House in the next session.

It is also revealing that he has been told by some of his personal advisers that he found extra time to do a 4-8 week intensive study of the bill.

Fowler has said a tax hike would improve the $3.5 billion balance-of-payments deficit.

He said the Vietnam war is responsible for about $1 billion of the deficit but rejected a suggestion that the dollar drain would force the United States to curtail military commitments overseas.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called Sunday for the withdrawal of four of the six divisions of U.S. troops in Europe in order to reduce overseas spending and, he said, strengthen the dollar.

The United States is spending $1.5 billion to $2 billion a year to maintain forces in Western Europe, said Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee.

Fowler appeared on CBS "Face the Nation" and PBS "News and Notes" on Wednesday's "Opinion: Washington."

Nicholas Katzenbach, returned secretary of state, urged home Sunday from Geneva and reported widespread support in European capitals for the U.S. campaign to stem the dollar drain.

He told newsmen that every capital he visited—in Britain, France, West Germany, Switzerland, Belgium and Italy—approved the principles but some expressed concern about specific provisions.

"Yet there was universal approval that President Johnson is taking such strong measures," Katzenbach said.

He also reported the nations he visited expressed strong support for Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal as the quickest way to back inflation.

In Bonn, Germany, Johnson's program was qualified support from Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger but political opposition was developing in that country against the U.S. request that Bonn pay the full local costs of stationing American troops there.

Kiesinger said West Germany would be able to absorb the loss of U.S. tourist dollars and investments and would back Johnson's program "to the hilt."

But he said the Washington proposals on troop cuts were not studied "with all care" and with consideration to West Germany's own economy.

As for himself, Percy said again he doesn't plan to be a candidate other than as a favorite son from Illinois.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., like Percy an opponent of the administration's Vietnam war policy, said some antiwar senators aren't endorsing his announced presidential candidacy because they expect him to lose.

"I don't think that's the kind of excuse that really stands up very well," he said.

McCarthy plans to enter several Democratic primaries against President Johnson but is unhappy because Sen. Howard P. "Buck" Cannon, D-Miss., has not expressed support for him.

Earning Limit Raised Under Social Security

By BRUCE BROWST WASHINGTON (AP) — Since the Social Security system is designed to reduce the income loss you may suffer as you get older, it should not be surprised that your monthly retirement benefits will be smaller if you can still work and earn pretty good money.

Up until this year's revision of the law, you could earn $1,000 a year and still collect your full retirement benefits age 65. From 1968 on, that dividing line is set at $1,000.

The U.S. Senate wanted to put the figure at $5,000 a year. It would have cost the system another $776 million now—and even more later.

There is more than a little sentiment among legislators and elsewhere for doing away with this so-called "retirement test" altogether, but this proposition did not make much headway in 1967. It would have cost $6 billion in the short run, more later.

This idea goes against the grain with those defenders of the system who want it to stay what it is—a program to protect people against the risk of a decline in earning as they age, but not a program to reward them simply for getting old.

To go too far in liberalizing the retirement test, Social Security specialists argue, is to offer extra protection to the working aged at the expense of the older and perhaps disabled beneficiaries who cannot augment their benefits by taking jobs.

It is estimated that maybe 1.6 million elderly people can benefit from the revision lifting the retirement test from $1,000 to $5,000.

Some 300,000 people presently earning between $1,000 and $1,500 a year may have been consciously limiting their income in order not to lose full benefits. The other 1.4 million earn more than $1,500 a year and have been getting either partial benefits or none at all.

Congress in 1967 gave another small lift to those who can still work but whose earnings nevertheless tend to count heavily on monthly retirement benefits.

No matter how much money you make in any one year, you can get the full Social Security benefit by retiring in complete retirement. For any month in which your earnings do not exceed $100, the old figure in 1967 was $100.

This protects the "some-time" worker of retirement age from sudden dips or lean periods in earning power.

These same rules apply if you are self-employed. But even if you are not earning (profits) for a given month, you can get the $100 limit now set—and even more later.

For instance, a man at retirement age who earns $3,000 a year and would get $4200 annually in benefits if fully retired would still get yearly benefits of $3,360.

Even if a man in that benefit category who made $5,000 a year would get $480 in yearly benefits.

Moon Landing Stated Tuesday

PARSONS CORP. (AP) — A space shuttle, carrying a lunar lander, is expected to launch from Cape Kennedy, Fla., on Tuesday, Jan. 14, for a mission to land on the moon.

The shuttle is expected to be launched at 10:30 a.m. EST. The landing is planned for Tuesday night.

Controllers reduced an initial direction change Sunday afternoon and said the operation was over.

The course adjustments were necessary because the booster rocket that powered the 2,300-pound vehicle from Cape Kennedy, Fla., early Sunday aimed it at the crater Hipparchus, 1,000 miles north of Tycho.

U.S. space agency scientists had designated Hipparchus as the target but then decided the Tycho region was better suited to the mission's goal of sampling subsurface material. Because it is a newer crater, the soil ejected when Tycho was created had less time to be changed by erosion.

Engineers figured it would be easier to change Surveyor's course in flight than to rebuild the booster's electronics.

Police Probe Shooting Of Catholic Nuns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A young girl who told police she purchased a rifle from a downtown gun store remains in city jail today, charged in the sniper shootings of two Roman Catholic nuns.

One of the victims, Sister Richard, 24, said from her hospital bed Sunday: "It just seems like a dream I should wake up from any moment."

"All of a sudden I felt a stinging sensation. I know I yelled 'I'm hit' and that the flames pulled me back. Bullets were still coming."

Police said they are still probing for motives in the shootings of Sister Richard and Sister Mary Leonard, 33, who were hit by rifle fire Saturday as they stepped outside their Dominican convent to mail a letter.

Officers arrested without struggle a former mental patient, Janet Marie Lazarus, 28. Detective Charles Phillips said the girl admitted buying the .22-caliber rifle "to go hunting."

Severe winter weather continued to grip much of the nation today and sent freezing temperatures deep into the South. Many deaths were attributed to the weather.

Snow squalls pelted the eastern shores of the Great Lakes and left 12 inches more of snow at Syracuse, N.Y., where there already was 12 inches on the ground.

Gale warnings were posted from Rhode Island to Maine as the remnants of a savage snowstorm moved out of New England. The East was digging out of up to 18 inches of fresh snow which fell Sunday.

Cold wave warnings were in effect for parts of the middle and northern Atlantic coastal states where surface readings were common.

A storm gathered momentum in the Southwest today and the Weather Bureau issued heavy snow and hazardous driving warnings for parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

Freezing rain and sleet spread over sections of western and northern Texas and south-western New Mexico today.

Warnings of blowing and drifting snow were issued for Montana parts of the Continental Divide as a new storm moved into the northern plains.

An bitter cold weather swept into the Deep South. Lows of near zero were reported over portions of Tennessee and North Carolina. Temperatures dipped into the upper 20s in northern Florida. Snow flurries fell in the southern eastern Tennessee and North Carolina Sunday.

The Weather Bureau said, heavy frosts were expected from Mississippi to southern Texas.

With Israeli's Chief LBJ Discusses 'Shalom'

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol today discussed the peace in the Middle East and the world during a visit to the White House.

With the Hebrew word "Shalom" — peace — Johnson started things off.

"We will try to extend the peace that is in our hearts to all men who are willing to share our partnership of good faith and good purpose," the President said in an airport welcome for Eshkol at Randolph Air Force Base, some 60 miles south of the ranch.

The 72-year-old Israeli leader said peace was his "central concern." Eshkol noted that he was in his area of the world in ancient days that "men first exchanged their swords for plowshares."

Youth Pleads Innocent In Lover's Lane Deaths

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Defense Attorney Murray Wadsworth, after a brief debate with State Attorney William Hopkins, convinced Judge Walker to officially appoint two psychiatrists to examine Sanders, but it was unable to get the court to delay setting a trial date.

Sanders is accused of shooting, stabbing and beating to death Kaye Oranger and Ann Wood, both 17, of Florida High School, on a lonely road the night of Oct. 17. Sanders was a service station attendant in nearby Madison when the slayings occurred.

U. S Settles With Indians

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Uncle Sam has finally settled with Oregon's Tillamook and Nehalem Indians.

An 1831 treaty set aside 97,250 acres for the two tribes. But the U.S. government, which never ratified the treaty, began selling the Indian lands to homesteaders and buyers.

The Indian Claims Commission, 153 years later, has ruled in favor of the Indians and declared an award of $155,620. The government has begun paying each Tillamook and Nehalem $620.

MRS. HARRY Z. SILSBY, II

We The Women:

By Betty Canary

Today was my official last day of the Christmas season. It was a busy day, but I managed to get all the wrapping paper from under the rug and pick the last of the quilts and give off the kitchen table. Finally, I've got the whole thing over and I can get on to celebrating the good of winter.

It may be over and cold and wet, but the snow and winter are closed and the sun is shining on the outdoor scene. We are all looking forward to the problems of snow pollution, I think, and most realize that snow means and expresses a different kind of winter. The seasonal machinery are not only antagonistic.

It all adds up after awhile. The main in the department store and department store of the child playing blocks upstairs while the baby prattles. The woman next door practices the piano and the

I sent Stu to his room to practice his trumpet and made Clay stop playing ball with the dog. I turned down the television and made Babe stop jumping off the sofa.

"I also read where Professor Parr of the University of Texas said that rain can trigger a variety of ailments," he told me.

What I would like to know is why men have to wait for experts to tell them things. I've known this all the time, and the children can verify it. If I've said it once, I've said it a million times. I am SICK of all this noise!

Bob shouted, "I saw in Scientific American that Dr. Bernack of MIT says noise pollution is a threat to human hearing."

Focus On Little Middle Back In Spring Fashions

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — For two years the fat of the land hid behind leotards and slippers, but now many women face a very tight squeeze as fashion returns to the little middle.

It's no cinch inching under a bra again and, the American garment industry sympathizes. Moreover, the designers, or at least those at the first day of the New York Couture Group's press week activities, are doing their best to mend the situation with various eye to better shape.

"Women have added two inches to their waists," lamented a spokesman for Mignon. "The size 10 has abandoned its old waist measurement of 24 1/2 for a more comfortable 26 1/2."

Though Cleo Borden of Borden's has noted his success, he has cut the garment comfortably loose to give the wearer a chance to slip a notch or two when a feeling of burning desire. Borden's hats were the temporary solution offered by designers for junior sophisticated clothes.

But at the Coco fabric show which is under way here, the designers are showing the new line of the fashion figure would give. A voluptuous example was a slouchy, draped dress with a ruffled neckline worn by a model with well-endowed breasts to make the plunge worth while. The dress was a simple job of cutting the fabric.

Editorial Endorsement Douglas Stenstrom - No. 1 For Congress

We heartily endorse the candidacy of Douglas Stenstrom for the United States House of Representatives to fill the seat being vacated by the retirement of U. S. Representative A. S. Herling Jr. of Leesburg.

We could be moved to take this stand merely on the basis of local pride. For "Doug" Stenstrom as boy and man has grown up here on the shores of Lake Monroe. His family has played an important part in the growth and development of the city.

Furthermore he is the first hat flung into the ring of national politics by a Sanfordite. All of which could be our motivation. But this is not so—even if not a native son, his record would earn our editorial endorsement.

Pick any area of worthwhile activity, and his name will be found. Professionally he has high honors with an LL.B. cum laude from Stetson University's College of Law in 1948. That same year he was elected county judge of Seminole and re-elected in 1958.

His governmental experience dates from 1954 when he went to the Florida Senate representing Brevard and Seminole counties. There he served until 1960 after having won the Allen Morris Award as outstanding first term member in 1955.

His drive and abilities have been recognized by the Florida Bar Association, Civic clubs and associations have bestowed their recognition with election to their top offices.

And when we look into the future we see Stenstrom exerting his best efforts to cope with what he is describing as the "No. 1 issue today: Law and Order." Representing this congressional district he will support strong crime control laws, a return to the orderly society which he sees as "the prime function of government."

Thus we are happy to endorse such a candidate with such a record and with such a concept of issues. And we are equally happy that he is coming out of the growing city of Sanford.

A Record Year For Seminole Banks In '67

Banks in Seminole County had a record business year in 1967 with prospects even brighter for 1968, survey by The Herald today shows.

Sanford Atlantic National Bank experienced an all time record growth during the year with deposits of $15.2 million at end of the year, up 11 per cent over 1966. The bank's loan portfolio reports $2.7 million in new, highest loan volume ever recorded.

During the year, Sanford Atlantic completed an exterior remodeling program. Purchase of 23 feet of First Street frontage from McCarty Corporation also was made and plans are now on the drawing boards for complete interior expansion and remodeling.

The State Dept. of Agriculture has turned down the city's request for the Farmer's Market property on W. 13th St. for a Goldsboro Recreation Center.

An official of Commissioner Doyle Conner's office today reported the project was turned down to "make way for future expansion of the market."

City Commissioners last night discussed the possibility of appealing to Conner in person but no action was taken.

The commission had gone on record as not spending more than $100,000 for the facility. However, if the board is forced to purchase another piece of property, that figure will skyrocket.

Indications are the next location for the center will be 8th St. and Mangrove. John Burton had been selected as architect for the project.

In other business at the meeting last night the board approved a $7,500 storm sewer master drainage plan study to be done by Clark Dietz and Associates. The survey will take in all of Sanford and include ways to alleviate flooding and loading of the sewers. Earl E. However, the $7,500 was included in this year's budget and if the massive project is undertaken it will be done in phases.
