The Sanford Atlantic National Bank will be operated under federal banking laws and will be capitalized for $100,000 with a surplus of $20,000. Floating Wreckage May Prove Clue To Grayson's Airplane

HALIFAX N. S., Dec. 31.—(INS)—What may prove the first tangible clue to the fate of the missing airplane Dawn with Mrs. Frances W. A stick of wood resembling a strut to support the wings of a plane was picked up at savage harbor in the northern part of Prince Edward Island.

WRECKAGE OF ILL-FATED SUB FLOATS TO TOP

Divers Are Preparing To Enter Undersea Boat And Remove Bodies; Weather Favors Execution Of This Plan

Excitement Occurs When Sailor Faints

Bodies Of Crew Will Be Taken To The Charleston Navy Yard On Board Destroyer

PROVINCE-TOWN, Mass., Dec. 31.—(INS)—Divers cut away the wooden covering over the engine room hatch of the ill-fated submarine S-4 today and first pieces of wreckage floated to the surface. If bodies are found when the divers enter the hatch, they will be attached to ropes and raised to the surface for immediate transfer to the Charleston Navy Yard aboard the U. S. S. Bostwick.

Considerable excitement attended the use of axes and crowbars by divers 102 feet below. Diver Bradford Bedford, of New London Conn., making his first dive, telephoned to the deck of the U. S. S. Falcon that he was going blind.

Diver William Carr, of Philadelphia, notified, hurried to Bedford's side and found his mate groping around on the floor of the ocean. Carr brought Bedford to the foot of level platform. After Bedford had been hauled to the Falcon's deck he was found to have had his vision blanked by forged eye plates in his helmet. He was rushed to the decompression room with blood flowing from his nose. The call sent down the telephone tube to Carr:

"Shall we haul you up?"
"Hell no" was the answer. "I'm going down to open that hatch."

PROVINCE-TOWN, Mass., Dec. 31.—(INS)—The S-4 may be raised from the bottom of Provincetown Harbor today and the bodies of forty men recovered from the sunken submarine, which was sent to a watery grave when struck by the coast guard destroyer Paulding here on Dec. 7.

Work of digging a tunnel under the submarine has been completed and lines will be strung around it, the huge pontoons are in readiness for lifting operations.

He is a native of Georgia and entered upon his banking career at Brunswick.

Reno Nevada Receives Recognition As Being The Most Vice-Ridden City In America By Noted Investigator

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—(INS)—Broadway isn't wicked—it simply has that reputation. Reno, Nev., is the most vice-ridden city of the U. S. A., according to Major Bascom Johnson, internationally known vice investigator, and the cleanest city in the country—considering its size—is New York.

The six worst cities in the world for commercial vice, he said in an interview today, are as follows: In the order named, Cairo, Constantinople, Marseille, Rio De Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Paris.

Major Johnson, who is connected with the American Social Hygiene Association (took a leading part in investigating and assembling white slave traffic data for the League of Nations. He and his associates investigated conditions on four continents. Then the league recently issued a lengthy report incorporating the investigators' findings.

"Of all the big cities of the world New York is the cleanest," said Johnson. "This will surprise people who read of the gay times, the big butter and egg men as supposed to have here. They do cut up some high jinks at the night clubs, but if they are looking for loose girls and women they have to hunt. There is no segregated district. Greenwich Village is only a ballyhoo—nothing like the village of the days before the war. Hotels have developed a technique to check immorality by means of private detectives, floor clerks and strict supervision of bell boys. Politicians have come to the conclusion that vice does not pay from political standpoint and it has almost disappeared in America's biggest city."

SCIENTIST FINDS NEW METHOD FOR CURING DIABETES

Discovery Will Be Of Tremendous Importance To Medical World; May Outrank Insulin As Palliative For Dread Ill

OAKLAND Cal., Dec. 31.—(INS)—A discovery of tremendous importance to the medical world—a possible cure for diabetes which may outrank insulin, the only known palliative—today is holding attention of scientists at the University of California at Berkeley and elsewhere through out the United States, the Oakland Post-Enquirer said today.

The cure, development of which is one of the outstanding promises of 1928, lies in a tropical fruit which grows wild in the jungles of Siam, according to a report now under study at the University of California, given to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Hugh M. Smith of Bangkok.

Dr. Smith formerly was United States Commissioner of Fisheries and now is acting as advisor in fisheries to the Siam Government. Preliminary studies appear to show, Dr. Smith said, that whereas insulin serves only to hold diabetes in check, the strange tropical-fruit may under some conditions be regarded as a curative.

So cheap is the fruit that five days' supply may be purchased in the Bangkok market for the equivalent of five cents in United States money. Treatment is simplicity itself. One merely eats the fruit. The discovery was made by Dr. Yai S. Sanitwongse, a graduate of the medical department of the University of Edinburgh.

Sharp Conflicts Of Opinion Occur Among The Oracles, With Election In The Lead

By William K. Hutchinson.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—America will be prosperous in 1928, agriculture will gain relief, Mississippi floods will be controlled, world peace will loom nearer while Calvia Coolidge, Herbert Hoover and Al Smith will be elected president in November.

These were some of the outstanding prognostications for the happy new year of 1928 made today by a special convocation of twenty senatorial seers, oracles and soothsayers.

There appeared sharp conflict of opinion among the oracles. The presidential election caused the most uncertainty, as one Democrat even predicted the re-election of Coolidge while another named Al Smith as the winner. Others were indefinite and avoiled naming individuals.

There was more unanimity of opinion about farm and flood relief. In fact, no soothsayer had anything but kind words for the future of both proposals. Here are listed the most important events of 1928, according to the senatorial seers:

Senator Curtis, of Kansas, Republican leader of the senate: "Action by Congress giving substantial relief to farmers and flood sufferers in the Mississippi Valley." Senator Reed (R) of Pa.: "Twelve more months of peace, prosperity and steady employment, with continued improvement of agriculture."

Senator King (D) of Utah: "A movement toward the union of all nations for the purpose of promoting peace and preventing war." Senator Hefflin (D) of Ala.: "The control of the government by the South and West by the election of a strong Western Democrat to the presidency and (continued on page two)"

OFFICERS PROBE DISCREPANCIES IN HICKMAN'S STORY

Lawyers Investigate Admission Of Hunt's Grandmother That She Tried To Rent Room Where Crime Occurred

By Arthur L. Marek
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 31.—The startling admission by Mrs. Carl M. Driskell, 42-year-old grandmother of Welby Hunt that she and her grandson had sought to rent a double apartment in the Bellevue Arms today inspired district attorney's investigators to redouble their efforts to uncover new evidence of the Marion Parker kidnaping and murder case.

William Edward Hickman, confessed kidnaper and slayer of the little Parker girl, says it was in his apartment in the Bellevue Arms that he held Marion captive and unaided put her to death.

In a previous confession, which he has since repudiated, Hickman declared a man, "Andrew Kramer," and a woman, "June Dunning," were his accomplices.

Hunt, 16 year old Kansas City youth, and Hickman, who were schoolmates and later worked as bank messengers under Perry M. Parker father of the murdered girl, have by their dual confessions admitted they embarked together on a career of crime which was climaxed on Christmas Eve, 1926, by the fatal shooting of S. W. Fry Thoms, Los Angeles druggist, in a frustrated holdup of his Rose Hill Pharmacy.

Both boys formerly lived in the Alhambra home of Hunt's grandfather, Abner Driskell, well-to-do drygoods merchant, whose mysterious suicide at the age of 60 also is being investigated by the district attorney's office.

Other new developments in investigation of unsolved phases of the Marion Parker kidnaping and murder are:

MANY INJURED IN DISASTROUS TRAIN WRECK

Accident Occurs When Engineers Neglect To Observe Signals

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—(INS)—An unidentified woman was killed and more than 60 others were injured, many possibly fatally, when two trains crashed in a snow storm here today.

Ten crews of men worked feverishly to cut through the steel walls of three telescoped pullman coaches on the "Hummer" crack Chicago-Alton railroad train to liberate eight or more men and women imprisoned following the terrific crash with train No. 78 of the same railroad.

Both trains crashed in a freight yard here when engineers failed to observe "stop" signals due to the intense drive snow which cut a white curtain before them.

Witnesses told police that the engineer of the "Hummer" apparently observing the rear end of the express train loom out of the white curtain, jammed on his brakes—too late.

With a roar and smash the fast-moving train plunged through the stationary coaches, scattering the last three coaches. The engine of the "Hummer" failed to leave the tracks but rested, its frame by the sides of the three coaches.

Many of those rushed to the hospital were severely burned by the red hot sides of the boiler and the showers of sparks from the fire-bed of the engine.

An immediate investigation was launched by police, the coroner's office, the state's attorney's office and railroad officials to establish negligence, if any, to the wreck.

Lindbergh Honored By Jubilant People In British Honduras

DELIZE, British Honduras, Dec. 31.—(INS)—Jubilant residents of this little part of the British Empire tucked away in Central America today prepared to celebrate a double holiday.

Only a day away, as the clock goes, was the New Year—something to be ushered in with fitting enthusiasm, and in their midst was that personable ambassador of good will from the United States, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—a young man to be showered with honors befitting a distinguished guest who chose a route never before used by any other visitor to these parts.

With all business suspended, officials and private subjects were ready to crowd whatever time the young aviator decides to spend here with receptions, parades and excursions to places of interest.

Program Given For Reception Tonight For Pioneer Party

Arrangements were completed this morning for the third annual reception given by the Lake Mary chamber of commerce honoring the pioneer residents of that community who are 60 years and over. Frank Evans, prominent Lake Mary citizen, who was to have made a short address, will be unable to be present because of an operation performed on an infected finger.

Remus May Be Freed From Asylum In Few Months Declares Official

LIMA, Ohio, Dec. 31.—(INS)—Possibility that George Remus will be released from the state asylum here after only a few months was voiced today by Dr. W. H. Vorbau, superintendent of the institution. Dr. Vorbau said that from three months to a year would be required for observation of Remus before he could possibly be dismissed as sane.

Remus' attorney has appealed the probate court decision and is also attempting to obtain his client's release on a writ of habeas corpus and it is likely that Remus will be brought here for several days even if these efforts are unsuccessful.

Walsh Selects Taylor To Defeat Canzoneri In His First Battle In Garden

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Bud Taylor, most consistent of all fighters before the public today unless you care to make an exception in the case of Gene Tunney himself and no other, will meet Tony Canzoneri tonight at Madison Square Garden in a ten round bout that will decide two interesting points, one of which bears the aspect of downright drama.

It was almost four years ago to the month that Taylor, fists flying and cold grey eyes flashing, knocked Frankie Jerome into that nether state of unconsciousness from which no victim emerges, Frankie didn't. He died that night in Bellevue Hospital.

For four years, Taylor has gone right on fighting the best and the worst in all sections of the land but he fought none of them in the garden ring. Tonight he will return to the auspices under which the tragedy was enacted, although another garden and another ring since has risen up to replace the old.

Perhaps Taylor had other reasons for not appearing at the club which witnessed the first of two fatal finishes in which he has been an innocent principal. The other resulted in the death of clever Senio, Filipino, and the writer feels certain that Taylor never returned to fight again at the scene of that tragedy. Somehow, too, I suspect that Taylor's avoidance of the Garden was equally intentional. But they finally are getting him back there tonight and I, among many thousands, am anxious to see just how he comforts himself. My guess is that Taylor, an unimaginative young man with remarkable nerve control, will do it well. Apparently, however, the gamblers are not so certain of this point. They have made Canzoneri a 7 to 5 favorite in the betting quite regardless of the fact that Taylor already holds a decision over Tony and has fought one draw with him in preceding engagements. Tony had to make weight the first two times; he won't tonight. Maybe that accounts for the odds.

Handicapping and form sheets, however, should make Bud no worse than an even money bet, so I must assume that his return to the club he has so obviously avoided has also influenced the odds. In other words, local gamblers are getting psychological and all I have to say is that they were tough enough in the first place.

Speaking of the first place recalls the fact that I mentioned a second point, hitherto unaccounted for. I is that the Taylor-Canzoneri match will proceed some distance in unsmuggling the featherweight championship muddle. Taylor already is bantamweight champion in every place where they insist on thinking first and talking afterward. He pretty thoroughly can establish a claim to the featherweight title by beating Canzoneri; in fact, that goes for both of the principals.

Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, happens to be in with a prior claim; but this happens to be boxing, not gold mining, and so Benjamin really cannot hope to go anywhere unless he sees fit to dispose of tonight's survivor. Benjamin, I understand, is a bit miffed at the local commission and may not care to play in our back yard but if they show him the money and the unqualified title, he ought to be nice. In any event, it begins to look as though the featherweight class soon will have a real leader and tonight's work, if not actually starting the ball rolling, at least will give it a first class nudge on the stiches.

Old Moore's Almanac Has Gloomy Predictions For World During Coming Year

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Censeless unrest in China, two influenza epidemics, threats of war between the United States and Japan, four disastrous fires of explosions in America and England, two earthquakes, storms, floods and volcanic disturbances, the illness of a member of the British royal family, the death of a famous statesman, a cholera epidemic in India, coal riots in the middle west of the United States, the loss of a warship with many casualties and an abortive attempt to restore to the throne a deposed monarch of Central Europe.

These are the main events the world may expect during the year 1928, according to the predictions of Old Moore's Almanac, one famous handbook which has had a place upon nearly every English library table or bookshelf for generations.

Brighter Outlook
In spite of these impending catastrophes, Old Moore sees a brighter outlook for the world in general during the coming year. Industry is healthy, he sees, but the governments of the world will find themselves beset with worries of many different sorts. Old Moore is specific in his predictions. About the 18th of April, according to his prophecy, a cinema fire will cause consternation in America, and about the same time a hurricane in the Middle West will involve further loss of life and property. The coal riots he predicts will occur in September, and they will be prompted by efforts to lessen the power of the unions.

"Mars is hovering over America and Japan," Old Moore declares in his predictions for February. Throughout the almanac this sentence is reiterated; he sees the questions of immigration and racial supremacy precipitating a dispute which threatens to develop into armed conflict. Of China, Old Moore has much to say, and little of it is optimistic. He sees the Communist influence causing incessant uprisings, with foreign life and property constantly endangered.

Serious fires in London and the Midlands are on the calendar for February, followed by the American motion picture fire in April. October, too, will have its share of disaster, for Old Moore foresees fire or explosions threatening oil wells in America. On the 22nd of October, according to the predictions, a scandal at Geneva will rock the world.

The member of the Royal family who is slated for the sick-bed is not identified, but the event will take place early in April, causing widespread anxiety throughout the United Kingdom.

In June Europe will be thrown into a turmoil by an attempted coup d'etat to reseat a deposed monarch on a tottering throne. September will be a busy month, according to Old Moore, for in that period the famous statesman, American or British will die, a war vessel will be sunk with a heavy loss of life. China will be embroiled in serious internal difficulties, and the coal riots in the United States will cause great alarm.

Earthquakes Seen
March and December will see earthquakes in different parts of the world, and August will be the month of a serious financial panic in one of the British colonies. Trouble in China is forecasted specifically in January, February, March, September and November. But in general, Old Moore concludes the world will be better in the year to come. The average man will look upon a life less in an "eat drink and be merry" sort of way, and will devote his time to a serious sober attempt to make the New Year a prosperous one.

38 Women To Race For Parliament At English Elections

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(INS)—A record number of women will offer themselves for election as members of the House of Commons at the next British General Election. The candidatures of thirty-eight have so far been endorsed by the three major political parties, and it is expected that probably fifty will be on the electoral lists by 1929.

At the last General Election thirty-two women put up and only two—Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintlingham—were elected.

Nine women are on the Conservative list, six on that of the Liberals, and the Labor Party have twenty-three.

Lady Astor, who sits for the Sutton division of Plymouth, will contest her constituency again. A notable recruit to the women's ranks is Mrs. Pankhurst, the famous suffrage leader. She will contest the Whitechapel division of London.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(INS)—The New Giants will play at least twenty-three and possibly twenty-six exhibition games on their spring training trip next season. Most of the contests are with the Senators, Athletics and Red Sox. No National League clubs will be met.

A squad of twenty pitchers and catchers will report to Manager McGraw at Hot Springs, Ark., on Feb. 15. They will join the regular squad at Augusta, Ga., two weeks later.

He lay there for a while, thinking about the ants that were in his stomach, and then he went to bed. The next morning he awoke with a fine case of indigestion. He knew that the ants were almost the only thing that he had eaten. The shipment of ants to the kitchen was a total of...

New Year Greetings

With this issue of The Herald, we turn hastily from bidding the gruesome period of 1927 a curt and lasting farewell to the more pleasing occupation of contemplating what the New Year may hold for Sanford citizens. Of one thing we can all rest assured, it can be no worse.

What will the financial situation be in 1928, seems to be uppermost in the minds of everyone. As far as Sanford is concerned, we can see only improvement. Though a presidential election year is generally conceded to be one more or less of depression throughout the country, Florida is not usually affected by these varying waves and this time should be affected least of all.

We find tourists, which admittedly constitute Florida's basic source of revenue, coming to Florida this winter in greater crowds than ever before. In spite of the fact that the boom period and a few short months thereafter saw such construction as no section had ever experienced, we have been strongly advised by those in position to know that present indications point to capacity crowds for all hotels and apartment houses in the majority of Florida's winter resorts.

As for Sanford, we have recently seen the signing of a new lease on the Forrest Lake Hotel and the installation of a new manager, who seems to be a decided asset and drawing card for this city. Close observation of pedestrians and motorists on our streets reveal many newcomers and automobiles from practically every state in the union. It seems more than likely that Sanford, too, will have an unusually successful tourist season.

As for celery, there seems to be only room for the utmost optimism. Cars have already gone out bringing as high as two dollars per crate, a price said to be remarkable for this time of the year when competition with California must be met. Leading growers and marketing organizations report that prices may be expected this year comparable to those of the peak years of 1925 and 1926.

As far as our municipal affairs are concerned, it is unfortunate that they have not yet been placed in capable hands, but we believe that a thoroughly aroused citizenry, eager for the future welfare of their city and satiated with former corruption, will exert a restraining influence upon the careless and extravagant acts of thoughtless officials, and work toward a united and spotless city.

With these things in mind, we can only view the approaching months with unstinted optimism. With a final suggestion that we keep our eyes to the front, cast gloom aside, and rejoice at the happiness of being alive, we wish everyone of our readers, the citizens of Sanford, our friends and our enemies, a Happy New Year.

Felicitations

With the coming of a new year, Sanford is particularly fortunate in being able to hail the advent of a new financial institution, the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, which will formally open for business on Tuesday of next week. It is with a great deal of pleasure that citizens of this city and County note the organization of this bank which is destined to play an important part in the future events of this community.

Affiliated with the Atlantic National Bank of Jacksonville the state's largest financial institution, the Sanford Atlantic National Bank is expected to reflect in general the policies which have brought such signal success to the Jacksonville bank. Controlled by an exceptionally strong directorate and officered by a group of capable and efficient men, the bank will fill a need which the community has long felt.

In coming to Sanford, Atlantic National Bank interests have made no mistake. This city afforded one of the best openings in the South for a strong financial institution and its selection is a wise choice not only for the bank itself but for the people of this community. Sanford is fortunate to have had a bank such as the First National, which has so capably handled the financial needs of the city, but it has long been recognized that this is not a one-bank city and the coming of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank will give Sanford two institutions of which it may be very proud.

In the organization of the new bank, it is interesting to note the prominent part played by the Chamber of Commerce of this city. At a time when there were several movements afoot to attract new financial interests, officers of the local trade organization worked unceasingly on the matter and were rewarded by the decision of Edward W. Lane and associates to enter the Sanford field. It is the first time in its history that the Atlantic National Bank has extended its interests beyond the confines of Jacksonville and this fact is significant as an expression of absolute confidence in this community.

The Herald extends its most cordial greetings to the Sanford Atlantic National Bank and predicts success and a bright future for that institution and those who have made its organization possible.

TRUCK OUTLOOK IS EXCELLENT

FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

An excellent outlook is reported for the Florida truckers in 1928, and it would appear also that the Mexican crop, which to some extent enters into competition with the early produce of this state, is rather light. The average estimated for the season about to begin is considerably larger than last season, and everything points to good results. The bean crop, which is one of the several items that are reckoned with at short intervals practically all through the year, is promising well, and the fall pickings have shown three and a half times the totals of last year. Figures for carload movements of beans to December 13 indicated nearly a thousand cars, which were compared with the movement of 267 cars in the fall of 1926.

The statistician for the United States department of agriculture, H. A. Marks, has just made a report from Orlando in which it is stated that all sections have increased plantings of beans, with the greatest acreage additions in the Oklawaha region. About forty per cent of the total shipments of beans has come from there, and the movement is not yet going forward. Florida beans are in good demand, and there will be no slackening in the call for Florida produce, the prices probably going a little better, as all other sources of supply are limited. Telling that about eight thousand acres were planted to beans, the expert adds that the acreage given to peppers is fully a hundred times that of last season. The shipment of peppers to December 13 reached a total of...

As Brisbane Sees It

Whispering Foolishness. Rockefeller Listens. The Colored Porter's Job. Lindbergh in Guatemala. Copyright 1927 by Star Co.

WINSLOW, Ariz., Dec. 31.—Newspapers talk of a "whispering campaign," suggesting that Herbert Hoover is not eligible to the presidency because, working at his profession as an engineer in various parts of the world, he has not spent all of the last 14 years in the United States. The constitution says "neither shall a person be eligible to that office who shall not have been 14 years a resident of the United States."

HERBERT HOOVER was born in the United States, has worked wherever he chose, in any part of the earth, which is the right of every American. He did not lose his citizenship or birthright by his travels, seeing what science and engineering have accomplished elsewhere, save enabled Herbert Hoover to suggest on a sound basis, magnificent, needed projects for the United States.

The grand lama of Tibet, it is supposed to live cooped up in a place, but the United States doesn't need a grand lama for president.

WHEN THEY TOLD Lincoln that General Grant drank too much whiskey, he suggested that the same be given to other generals.

It would be a good idea to find out just where Herbert Hoover has done his traveling and send some of our other statesmen on the same trip. They need it.

MR. HOOVER'S ancestors have been born and lived in America for six generations. Not that it makes any difference. The son of an immigrant, born in this country, might be, and often is 10 times better than a man with 10 American generations back of him.

Part of Hoover's absence abroad was devoted to war work, feeding hungry children. Would he make a better president had he spent that time at home, working for war profits?

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, 83 years old, immediately changes his "stance" at golf, when told by a professional that he stood too close to the ball. That change lengthened his drive by 20 yards and he won a nickel, solemnly bet, with his friend General Ames, and went home contented.

MR. ROCKEFELLER has said that his success in the beginning was due to patience and economy. It may have been due also to his ability to listen to others and take advice. That is a thing that many young men who would like to be Rockefeller have not learned to do.

FOR THE FIRST time, Chinese replace colored men as porters on trains. The Northwestern-Union Pacific Lines have installed 12 young Chinese as club car porters in place of negroes. All but one of the 12 American born.

They will work well doubtless, but the public satisfied with excellent service rendered by colored porters, will not like them displaced. Colored men are descendants of those brought to this country against their will, as slaves, and for that reason are entitled to special consideration.

Lindbergh's visit to Guatemala and Nicaragua, flying over vast forests, in uninhabited tropical regions reminds you of two things.

First, Lindbergh is taking too many risks. Second, this country should build a sea level canal through Nicaragua without delay.

A canal between the Atlantic and the Pacific without locks subject to bombardment should start now and be ready before traffic over-crowds the Panama Canal locks and there should be no nonsense about its being anything but a United States canal, from start to finish, the canal and the land on both sides.

ENTERING GUATEMALA City, Lindbergh flew between two volcanoes "Fuega" and "Aqua," meaning fire and water, which reminds you of the average young American's life journey here at home. He travels between fire and water, the water of prohibition, and the fire water of the bootleggers. Many unfortunately, "crash."

A LAWYER suggests that Hickman, kidnaper and murderer, may escape conviction in the first degree because doctors say the poor child died of fright, and wasn't actually killed by strangling and dismembering the body to which the murderer has confessed.

It should take a good lawyer to save that particular murderer from the extreme penalty. Whether he killed the little girl by strangling and butchering, or by frightening her to death, will make no difference to any jury. "I only frightened her to death," a weak defense.

discouraged the Mexican growers, who sent out 4,636 cars of tomatoes last season, this representing seventy-five percent of the total truck shipments. Florida truck has in many sections established a market, and will be given preference over other offerings, which is a very satisfactory phase of the situation.

FROM ONE WHO KNOWS

TAMPA TRIBUNE

George Ade is a humorist, but also a man of excellent judgment. This is shown by the fact that he has been unusually successful in "selling his stuff," to the extent that he is independently rich and able to indulge all his fads, fancies and hobbies.

One of George's "habits" is spending the winter in Florida—specifically on the West Coast of Florida, at Belleair. He has been doing this for many years.

Recently, Ade passed through Jacksonville and told the Journal why he comes to Florida and the West Coast—every year.

"I've traveled the wide world over," said George, "and have seen some of the so-called beauty spots and alleged climatic centers of the globe, but none of them can compare with Florida's winter climate, which is the best in the world. I've said that over and over again for 20 years, for I've been coming here every winter since he great Jacksonville fire, and California has ever lured me away."

George tried a Mediterranean cruise one winter—and regrets the experiment. "I almost froze to death," he said, "not only on the ship going over, but everywhere else, including Egypt, where it was fairly comfortable in the daytime, but colder than the chickens at night."

So he "decided to give up any idea of trying to find more enjoyable places and resolved to keep on coming to Florida, California. We must admit, it is a wonderful year-round climate, but it's not so wonderful in the winter time, with rain coming down every so often, and right at the time when the average Northerner wants to get away from snow and sleet and rain and ice. I let zero weather up in Indiana to come down here, and after the Christmas holidays others by the thousands will leave zero weather the same as I have done and come on down to Florida, where the sunshine spends the winter."

And that, although by George Ade, is no "fable."

Three meals a day, seven days a week!

NO EASY order, that. If any man thinks it is, let him try to plan just seven consecutive dinners without repeating a single item on any one menu. A woman must have considerable ingenuity to plan — and considerable executive ability to prepare — 21 meals a week.

In recent years, many new dishes have graced the dining tables in our homes. Delicacies that were once secrets of restaurant chefs are now prepared quickly and easily in our own kitchens.

And advertisements have had much to do with adding to the variety of our national diet. A beautiful picture of a tempting dessert, with full directions for making it — another recipe for a luscious salad — a new use for an old familiar staple — in such ways do the advertisements continue to arouse the most jaded palate, and to save the perplexed housewife!

It is well worth while to read and study the advertising pages. To all that pertains to the home, to all that pertains to every-day life, the advertisements contribute. Whether meals, motor-cars or music, let the advertisements help you make the choice. You will find them wise in council, trustworthy in service.

Read the advertisements — they help you get the most out of life and save you time and trouble doing it

Investigators Find Incriminating Clue In Murder Mystery

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 31 (INS)—A short piece of cotton rope and a strip of canvas, found in the home of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, "sack murder" victim and wealthy widow of a Chicago inventor, today furnished sheriffs two incriminating clues by which they hope to solve the mystery of the woman's death for which Dr. Charles M. McMillan, her friend and business counselor, is held on suspicion of murder.

The rope and canvas, discovered in a spare room of Mrs. Appleby's home, is said by deputy sheriffs to match the material of the "murder sack" in which the slain woman's body was sewed when found on Christmas night in a ravine near San Fernando, a nearby valley town.

Both the canvas strip found in the murder victim's house and the bag in which her body was bundled had been patched with identical striped material and sewed with the same kind of thread.

The rope found in the woman's home was of the same weight and texture as the cord which had been tied into "surgeons' knots" to truss up the murder victim, officers reported.

Dr. McMillan who admits he was a frequent caller at the Appleby home, denied he had ever noticed the canvas and rope anywhere in the house.

NATION'S HEALTH HAS SLUMP OVER PREVIOUS YEARS

Department of Commerce's Report Reveals Fact That Death Rate Is Gradually Growing In United States

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(INS)—As a nation our health was not so good last year as the year before. We are not, of course, in a serious condition, the Department of Commerce reveals in a final tabulation of the causes of death in 1926, but day by day we are not improving as furiously as we might.

The death rate for the federal registration area in 1926 was 12.2 per thousand of population. The comparable figure for 1925 was 11.82 deaths per thousand of population.

The principal increases in the death rates in 1926 were from heart disease, which increased from 186 to 193 per 100,000 population; influenza, from 30 to 41; pneumonia, from 94 to 103; measles, from 2 to 8; whooping cough, from 7 to 9.

The outstanding decline in the death toll was in typhoid fever, which dropped from 8 per 100,000 to 7. Registered deaths in 1926 numbered 1,825,927 against 1,219,019 the previous year.

The death toll of the automobile continues to grow. The 1926 figure was 18,871 against 17,571 the previous year. Murder continues to thrive also, increasing from 8,893 in 1925 to 9,210 in 1926.

The principle causes of death in 1926 with the number of fatalities: heart disease 209,370; nephritis 103,332; cancer and malignant tumors 99,833; tuberculosis 91,586; cerebral hemorrhage 90,832; influenza 42,809.

Without any authentic statistics or census at hand we would say that the principal lines of business in the United States at this time are busy parlors and fling stations.—Montezuma (C)rgan.

John Hancock's signature

You have heard of him, of course. Everyone has. His signature is the first affixed, the most boldly executed, on the Declaration of Independence.

When that great document was drawn up and ready to sign, there was a pause. It was a moment of grave importance to all present. By placing their signatures on this paper, they would put themselves on record as avowed rebels against the British crown—a hanging offense. At this juncture John Hancock stood up, seized the pen, and wrote his name on the parchment as large and black as he could. By this act he advertised to the world that he stood ready to make any sacrifice—even life itself—in support of his principles and ideals. His signature afforded a permanent record of his good faith.

Advertisers who go to great expense to place before the public printed announcements of their products are offering similar evidences of good faith, equal guarantees of fair dealing. Advertised goods are reputable, dependable, vouched for by manufacturers and dealers who are known and respected. By reading the advertising in this paper you will acquaint yourself with the safest and most economical sources of supply, the products which will serve you best and longest. George Remus Whose Life Has Been Characterized By Violence Tells Story

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—George Remus is one of the strangest, most amazing characters that the monopolized measures of the American newspapers.

Today at the age of fifty, he is an ex-lawyer, an ex-bootlegger, an ex-convict and an ex-killer.

He was spectacular as a lawyer sweeping, wailing Remus" they told him; he was even more so as a bootlegger, finally achieving a notorious distinction of being the "kin" of them all; he was spectacular as a convict as every official who encountered him served time in a dozen years will attest, and as a killer he ran true to form, shooting his wife Imogene, to death in New York Park, Cincinnati, on an In- summer morning last October. He dozens of automobiles were used to and fro.

Took On $150,000,000

"Mr. Remus," this writer asked, "is it true that your bootlegging business grossed more than $100,000,000?"

"Easily that," he replied. "Probably $50,000,000 more than that in a single day my deposits in the Lincoln National Bank of Cincinnati totaled a million dollars."

Incidentally Remus did business under the name of "John P. Alexander" as well as "George Remus."

He could not estimate how much profit he had made as a bootlegger but a person in position to know estimated it about $100,000.

I asked Remus what his views on prohibition are today—now that he has plenty of time to reflect upon the woe that illicit whiskey selling brought upon him and this is what he replied:

"Remus (this squat, powerfully built man with the bald head, rugged, strong-jawed face always talks in the third person) is going to spend the rest of his life to stifle the insult known as prohibition law.

The prohibition act is an abortion on legal jurisprudence. It uses and creates more deceit, bribery and circumvention on part of the public than any law of the federal, state, county and city laws combined. It is doing eighty per cent of the American citizens "partisan crime" to the violation of the law directly or indirectly.

Everybody Guilty

Under the law if a single person in the party takes a drink it is the duty, under the technicality of the act, of every other person present to report that person or become a party to the crime.

As we all know the prohibition was passed under extraordinary circumstances—while 2,500,000 of our boys were overseas fighting for the freedom of our country. The said legislation was based on our salute books due these extraordinary circumstances by a lot of hypocrites who saved large sums of money for reformation.

"Young girls are drinking more than ever. Women and men their very natures want to drink and acquire that which requires obstacles to surmount. If they are told they cannot have a drink they will leave no stones unturned to get it."

Remus was asked if it was not fact that the government is wily but surely enforcing the Prohibition Act.

"The enforcement of prohibition," he replied, "is beyond the power of man. The law is too faulty at variance with public sentiment. It is a legal impossibility. Ultimately the prohibition will become a dormant and alive law."

Tomorrow: Remus, the audacious bootlegger—how he led the biggest booze caravan that ever moved out of the whiskey bar of America.

Notorious Men In Bootleg Drama Have Quit Business Because Of Prosecutions

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Should the true story of bootlegging in the United States ever be dramatized, the cast would have to be drawn from as picturesque a group of real characters as were ever conceived by the writers of fiction.

Namely:

George Remus, of Cincinnati, former millionaire "king of the bootleggers," who commanded the rum running fleet that operated along the Atlantic seaboard.

George Connors, of Cincinnati, former wealthy "prince of the bootleggers" and manager of the "Death Valley Farm," the biggest booze distributing depot in the country.

Emmanuel (Manny) Kessler of New York, former "generalissimo" of the New York City district.

Others In Cast

The cast would include lesser lights, such as contact men, gunmen, bribe givers, spies, detectives, chauffeurs of booze trucks, rum ship commanders, dry sleuths who sold out to the bootleggers, prison officials who granted special favors for money, hi-jackers and rum pirates.

All principles mentioned have served terms in prison for violation of the federal prohibition law. They say they have learned their lesson, and that the penalty isn't worth the gamble. They took long chances, made big money, paid their various debts to Society, and are "through." Remus at one time was the exalted ruler of an illegal liquor business that grossed between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000 and is said on good authority to have made a profit for himself of about $7,000,000. Today he has very little, if any money, most of his holdings having been tied up by the government for alleged failure to fully pay his heavy income taxes.

Children Gambling Upon Greyhound Races Stirs People Of British Isles

LONDON, Dec. 31.—(INS)—London's newest scandal, young children betting on the greyhound races, is attracting national attention.

Greyhound racing supposedly introduced into England from America twelve months ago is being damned as a sport "demoralizing and corrupting to the nation's thrift." The betting is the cause.

"When a child of ten offers a bet at the greyhound racing track the bookkeeper commits no offense by taking it," says the London Times. "What a preposterous situation is revealed."

Dangerous Trade

Bookkeepers, when they are legal, continues the Times, must be considered representatives of a dangerous trade—like liquor selling, tobacco selling, gunpowder selling, etc. "If it is illegal to sell gunpowder, tobacco, or alcohol to young children, it must also be illegal to place bets with them."

In the dog run, though, greyhound racing produces thrift, says one of the sports' staunch backers. The backer is a greyhound racing organizer and at the same time head of the English National Savings Committee—General J. E. B. Seely.

If people didn't spend their money in greyhound betting they would be betting on something else, thinks the General. If they didn't pay the small admission to see the races they would be spending more money seeing more expensive amusements.

Many Sign Petition

Forty-three thousand people signed a petition to have the races prohibited in London's great Crystal Palace stadium. The petitioners objected to the betting.

General Seely says: "If you condemn all sports which involve betting you will condemn almost every sport. Dog racing draws lower bets than many other sports."

English betting laws are soon to become a great issue, says the Times. "The first step of change likely to be taken is to prohibit the insidious practice of allowing children to bet at the greyhound races."

Federal Judge Of New Orleans Hits Prohibition Agents

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31.—(INS)—A warning that the courts must not sustain prohibition agents in "mistaken zeal for the enforcement of purely domestic police regulations," was made by Federal Judge Burns in releasing the rum schooner Przemysl, seized at the mouth of the Mississippi River three months ago with a cargo of alcohol valued at $1,000,000.

In the government's suit to declare the vessel forfeited, Captain Henry Thode, master of the ship, admitted he had diverted the vessel from its nominal destination, Vancouver, and turned it over to prohibition agents to collect a reward of 25 per cent of the value paid in such cases.

The charterers of the ship, Southern Freighters Inc., of Vancouver, contended that Thode had plotted with dry agents before leaving Germany to divert the ship, and this contention was upheld by Judge Burns.

Angry Posse Seeks Revenge On Negro Who Murdered Boy

MEMPHIS, Dec. 31.—(INS)—The brutal murder of 11-year-old Julius McColum promises to be avenged within a few hours. With two negroes in jail at Marion and Hughes, Ark. more than 300 angry farmers at daybreak today were surrounding a tract of bottom land where Elbert Thomas, 21, negro, is reported trapped.

An eye-witness story of the brutal crime was told by Grady Swain 19, negro, who was held at Hughes this morning. Swain was taken into custody by the mob and narrowly escaped lynching shortly after midnight.

"Thomas drew a pistol and forced the boy to take his boots off. After he had finished robbing him he picked up the boy and threw him into the water. The boy could not swim. He drowned," Swain excitedly told the mob when he was captured.

A report that Thomas had been burned by a mob early today. A funeral pyre was built by enraged citizens at that place, however, and was ready to be set aflame as soon as Thomas was captured.

Had Swain not made his confession to the mob he would have been lynched, officers admitted. Swain was rushed to jail and officers at Hughes declared that should Thomas be captured today they would be powerless to stop the mob from lynching both negroes.
